The Clergy can be supplied with copies, in quantities of not less than 25s. on liberal terms.

Now ready, prices 2s. 6d. and 1s.

THE PAROCHIAL PSALTER. Pointed for Chanting upon a new and simple system, with Directions for Expression, Breath-marks, &c. By ALEX. S. COOPER.

Prices:

8vo, for Clergy and Organists	2s. 6d.
32mo, for Choirs and Congregations	1s. 0d.
Canticles only	3d. and 1d.

London: WEEKES and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

SUNG BY MR. SANTLEY.

NONE CAN FLY MY LAW SUPREME. Cavatina, from "Zampa." English Version by ALFRED THOMPSON. 4s. Post free for 24 stamps.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and CO.

JUNE 1877.

ALL THE YEAR ROUND

CONDUCTED BY

CHARLES DICKENS.

The new Monthly Part contains the following papers:—

DOUBLEDAY'S CHILDREN: A Serial Story.

By Dutton Cook.

WHAT HE COST HER: A Serial Story. By James Payn.

A South-Russian Poet.

The Ordnance Survey.

Both Her Boys: A Story.

An Intelligent Foreigner.

Mr. Wegg and his Class.

Some Theatrical Audiences.

That Dead Letter: A Story.

Round the Roodee, Chester.

Portraits worked in Tapestry.—A Saint of the Revolution.

Welsh.

Early Workers at Paper-bags.

Warfare Afloat.

Poems, &c. &c.

To be obtained of all Booksellers and Railway Bookstalls.

SELECT COMPOSITIONS

FROM THE

GREAT MASTERS,

ARRANGED FOR THE ORGAN

With Pedal Obligato by

A. H. BROWN.

- No. 1. "Wedding March," by Mendelssohn.
 2. March from "Tannhäuser," by Wagner.
 3. March from "Scipio," also from Occasional Oratorio, both by Handel.
 4. "Coronation March," from Meyerbeer's "Prophète."
 5. "The Dead March" in "Saul" and "See the conquering hero comes," both by Handel.
 6. Andantino, from the 11th Grand Symphony by Haydn, and "Waft her, angels," from Handel's "Jephtha."
 7. "As pants the hart," from Spohr's "Crucifixion," and "Where'er you walk," from Handel's "Semele."
 8. "My heart ever faithful" (Mein gläubiges Herz frohlocket), by Bach.
 9. Andantino from the 5th and Andante from the 4th Sonatas, by Pleyel.
 10. "The Hero's March," by Mendelssohn.
 11. "Quis est homo?" from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."
 12. Air et Chœur, from "La Dame Blanche," by Boïeldieu.
 13. Grande Marche Héroïque in C, by Fr. Schubert.
 14. Grande Marche Héroïque in D, by Fr. Schubert.
 15. Overture, "Berenice," by Handel.
 16. Overture, "Sosarmes," by Handel.
 17. Handel's Overture, "Alcina."
 18. Gavotte, from Handel's Overture, "Otho."
 19. "La Carita," by Rossini.
 20. "Angels ever bright and fair," and "Pious orgies," both by Handel.
 21. "Ave Maria," by Franz Schubert.
 22. Aria, by Antonio Lotti. Circa 1700.
 23. "My soul thirsteth for God," Aria from Mendelssohn's 42nd Psalm.
 24. "Gloria in Excelsis," from Weber's Mass in G.
 25. "Fac ut portem," from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."
 26. "Pieta, Signore," from the Oratorio "San Giovanni Battista," by Stradella.
 27. Handel's Overture to "Julius Cæsar."
 28. Serenade, by Franz Schubert.

[Continuing.]

Price Two Shillings each.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

Re D'ALMAINE, DECEASED

(LATE NEW BOND STREET AND SOHO SQUARE).

REALISING THE ESTATE

WITHOUT RESERVE.

At time of decease of late Proprietor there were in hand

780 PIANOFORTES

OF THESE

588 ARE STILL ON HAND

UNDER CAREFUL FINISH, AND ARE NOW OFFERED AT

UNDER THE USUAL COST PRICE

(See other column).

SHEET MUSIC ALMOST AT THE PRICE OF WASTE PAPER

And equal to new, all full size and of Highest Class.

VARIOUS OTHER MUSICAL PROPERTY.

A number of Harmoniums, Organs, Violins, &c.

ON VIEW AND FOR SALE AT

5, FINSBURY PAVEMENT,

BY MOORGATE STREET STATION.

THE

ORGANIST'S QUARTERLY JOURNAL

OF

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS.

(PUBLISHED ON THE 1ST OF JANUARY, APRIL, JULY, AND OCTOBER.)

EDITED BY

WILLIAM SPARK, MUS. DOC.

The commencement of the Fifth Volume of this useful and valuable periodical presents a favourable opportunity for New Subscribers to send their names to the Editor or the Publishers. Twenty pages of beautifully engraved New Organ Compositions are supplied to subscribers, every quarter, for 2s. 6d.

Volumes I., II., III., and IV., each consisting of ONE HUNDRED and SIXTY PAGES of ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for the ORGAN by the best living Organists and Composers (Foreign and English). Price, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, 21s. each. Subscribers for not less than one year can commence at any period, and receive back numbers at the Subscription price. Annual Subscription, 10s. 6d., including postage; Non-Subscribers, 5s. net. each Part. Lists of Contents forwarded on application.

"The Organist's Quarterly has entered upon its ninth year, and still keeps its place as leader in the ranks of contemporary periodicals."—The Graphic.

"No organist can fail to find within its pages what is as worthy of his instrument and his art as it is attractive to his listeners, whether in church, in the concert-room, or at home; and in this term organist we here include all who play—from the young aspirant up to the accomplished expert."—Dundee Advertiser.

"The publication has been produced in the most liberal spirit and in the most efficient manner."—The Queen.

"The issue of this Quarterly, containing music specially written for the organ, is quite unique in this country and, we believe, in any other. The four volumes already published embrace movements for the 'king of instruments' of every variety of form suitable to it."—York Herald.

Editor's address, Springfield Villa, Leeds.
 London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

ALEX. GUILMANT'S NEW COMPOSITIONS

for the ORGAN:—

Pièces de différents styles, pour Orgue. Books 10, 11, 12 ... each 9s
 L'Organiste Pratique, Collection de Pièces pour Orgue ou
 Harmonium. Books 3, 4, 5 ... each 9s
 Première Sonate pour Orgue ... 15s

Catalogues post-free on application.

Schott & Co., 159, Regent Street, London, W.

Now ready. Small 4to. Price 1s. Vocal parts, 12mo, price 6d. each. 1st and 2nd Series bound together, cloth, 2s. 9d. Vocal parts 1st and 2nd series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE CANTICLES and HYMNS of the CHURCH, pointed for Chanting, and set to appropriate Anglican Chants, Single and Double; together with Responses to the Commandments, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., etc., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK. This work contains a selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

This pointing of the Canticles is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS. Set to Music by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c.

For general or Festival use; for male voices and four-part Chorus, with Organ accompaniment, ad lib. Price 3d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK. Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 1s.; cloth, 2s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co. Oxford: Parker.

Seventh Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK, edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 4s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

OUSELEY and MONK'S PSALTER and CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 24mo, without chants, 9d.; with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to, with chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to, 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo, 14d. Novello, Ewer and Co., and Parker and Co.

Preparing for the Press.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF WORDS OF ANTHEMS, new Edition, revised, corrected, and brought down to the present date.

Twelfth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Price 5s. 6d., paper covers; 7s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Score, 1s. 6d. The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-notes.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting by B. St. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter having been collated with the Scaled Books is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small Edition is in preparation.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Fourth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. Quarto, in cloth elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Fifth Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. St. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

A MORNING SERVICE, Te Deum, Jubilate, and Kyrie, by the Rev. EDWARD YOUNG. Tenth edition, abbreviated for Parochial use. Organ and Choir copies, 4d. each.

"Melodious, vocal, and nicely harmonised—that is, without pretence or straining at effect; and they declaim the words devoutly and emphatically."—Musical Times.

"Good points, and tuncful passages."—Musical Standard.
"The intelligent, devoted, and devotional spirit in which every note seems to have been composed, furnishes one of the best guarantees for excellence."—English Churchman.

"All competent criticism will be found in accordance with the verdict of a high professional authority as to 'abundant proof of imagination, poetical conception, and musical feeling.'"—Christian Observer.

"The strain is devotional, and harmonies full, solemn, and massive."
"He fairly claims to have dug a channel for the devout utterance of the words."—Bristol Times.

Also,
CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISERATUR, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES COMPLETE (20), with Music in full for Organist and Choir. By HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster.

One or more of these beautiful and effective sentences may be sung after the Priest has said the Offertory, or after the hymns at Matins or Evensong, whilst the alms are being collected.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ELEVEN OFFERTORY SENTENCES, in Groups, for convenient use, by C. SWAIN, 4d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CANTATE and DEUS, by R. TAYLOR. An easy Union Service in F. Price 6d. To be had of Novello and Co., or of the Author, Brighton College.

Second Edition.

COMMUNION SERVICE

FOR

MEN'S VOICES ONLY,

By WALTER H. SANGSTER, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Price Two Shillings.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS.

Set to Music in Chant Form to original Chants, by

S. C. COOKE,

Organist and Choirmaster, St. Peter's, Caversham, Reading.

Price 3d. Post-free from Composer.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

4TH BOOK NOW READY. Collection of KYRIES, &c. Original Compositions by Dr. F. Hiller, Guilman, G. A. and W. Macfarren, Sir G. J. Elvey, Tours, Salaman, Francesco Berger, E. G. Monk, J. Baptiste Calkin, Scotson Clark, Hamilton Clarke, &c. Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 1s. each. Separate Nos. (1 to 71), 1d. SPOHR'S 24th PSALM, 8vo (2nd thousand), 9d.; folio, 4s. net. London: Novello and Co. Sheffield: W. T. Freemantle, High Street.

A MORNING, COMMUNION, and EVENING SERVICE. Set in an easy form. By C. LAWRENCE. 1s. 6d. net. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

MISSA SERAPHICA, the Office of Holy Communion (complete). Set to original music by Arthur H. Brown, Brentwood, Essex. Price 1s. London: Novello, Ewer, and Co.

SERVICE in E FLAT, by SIR HERBERT OAKELEY, consisting of TE DEUM and JUBILATE; SANCTUS, KYRIE, and CREDO; MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. New and revised editions:—

1. Te Deum and Jubilate; Vocal Score and Organ Accompaniment, 8s. Vocal Parts (octavo), 8d. net.
2. Sanctus, Kyrie, and Credo; Vocal Score and Organ Accompaniment, 4s. Vocal Parts (octavo), 8d. net.
3. Magnificat and Nunc Dinitis; Vocal Score and Organ Accompaniment, 4s. Vocal Parts (octavo), 4d. net.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE "VENITE EXULTEMUS DOMINO."—Two Settings, in Chant form, with Organ Accompaniment. No. 1 in G. No. 2 in A. Price Twopence each. By E. BUNNETT, Mus. D. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in key of G, for Four Voices, with Organ Accompaniment by the same Composer. Will be ready in a few days. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

"LET NOT YOUR HEART BE TROUBLED." Anthem for Whitsuntide, by REES, rearranged by C. SWAIN, 4d.

"THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD." Anthem, by C. SWAIN. 4d.
"Out of usual run—very nicely written."—Choir.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PSALM XXIII., for SOPRANO, TENOR, and CHORUS, by the Rev. ARTHUR SEWELL. Price 2s. WITH ACCOMPANIMENT FOR THE PIANOFORTE and HARMONIUM (pp. 71).

"Taken as a whole, a Choral Society may go further and not find a better composition for execution than this work."—Graphic.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

"GOD, WHO AS AT THIS TIME." Short full Whitsuntide Anthem. By G. H. GREGORY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Price 3d. Also, by the same Composer, SIX KYRIES, price 2d. MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS on a Rouennais Theme. Price 4d.

These compositions are suitable for choirs of moderate ability. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ANTHEM for ST. JOHN BAPTIST'S DAY, "THE GRASS WITHERETH, THE FLOWER FADETH." By EMILY M. LAWRENCE. 6d. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HANDEL FESTIVAL.—Dr. FOWLE'S "HANDEL" MARCH, No. 11 of Popular Festival Marches. 1s. 6d.; post-free, 9d. London: F. PITMAN, 20, Paternoster Row, E.C.

Third edition enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s. 6d. paper covers; 3s. 9d. cloth lettered!

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS

SINGLE AND DOUBLE

EDITED BY THE

REV. SIR F. A. GORE OUSELEY, BART., ETC.,

AND

EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This Work contains nearly 400 Chants, which are appropriated to "Venite exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page and affording several Series, suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter, from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER & CO., 1, BERNERS STREET (W.), AND 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET (E.C.)

HARVEST CAROL

"HOLY IS THE SEED-TIME."

Composed expressly for Harvest Festivals by ALBERT LOWE.

Octavo, Twopence.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published, price 1s. 6d., cloth lettered,

THE WYCLIFFE CANTICLES

Containing 51 Canticles pointed for chanting and set to appropriate Chants,

A SERVICE FOR BAPTISM,

THE SANCTUS, AND INTRODUCTORY SENTENCES.

. Specimen Copies may be had post-free by sending the value in Stamps to the EDITOR, 75, Wellington Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

NEW ORATORIO, "BENJAMIN."

Composed by J. C. GRIEVE, F.E.I.S.

New Notation, One Shilling; Old do., Two Shillings.

Edinburgh: ERNEST KOHLER and SON.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now ready, Vocal Score, price 3s.

JONAH. A Sacred Cantata. By J. V. ROBERTS, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Choirmaster of the Parish Church, Halifax.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

P.S.—Full Orchestral Parts to be had of the Composer.

Handel Festival.—To the Million of his Admirers.

DR. FOWLE'S "LIFE OF HANDEL," for the Million. One Shilling. Sir M. Costa (to whom the work is dedicated) says, "I have read every word, and it is very good." The Queen (May 20) writes, "The memoir is interesting and useful." Public Opinion says, "It is a well-connected account of the career of the supreme musician." Portraits are given of Handel and Costa.

LONDON: F. PITMAN, 20, PATERNOSTER ROW, E.C.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.—On June 16 will be published No. 1 (price 3d.) of "THE MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC MONTHLY REGISTER," a Programme of Public Performances and Professional Events. Guaranteed to be sent regularly, post-free, to every theatrical manager and concert-giver in the United Kingdom, to all musical societies which engage artists, and to the principal members of both professions, &c. Prepaid advertisements (at a low charge) received not later than June 8. R. D'Oyly Carte, 9A, CRAIG'S COURT, LONDON, S.W. Prospectuses on application.

FIVE INTRODUCTORY VOLUNTARIES for the ORGAN. Composed by T. MEE PATTISON.

These Voluntaries, of medium difficulty, with Pedal Obligato, will be found eminently useful for the introduction of Divine Service, both as regards character and length. Price 3s. LONDON: Novello, Ewer and Co.

"THE COLLEGE MARCH," for Organ and Pianoforte. Second Edition. Specimen copy (post-free, 1s. 6d.), direct from the composer, E. W. Taylor, Mus. Bac., &c., Organist, Stafford.

FESTIVE MARCH for the ORGAN. Composed by E. H. THORNE. Price 2s. Arranged as a Pianoforte Duet, price 4s.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now being published by Subscription.

A VOLUME OF ANTHEMS, composed and dedicated (by special permission) to Her Royal and Imperial Highness the Crown-Princess of the German Empire (Princess Royal of Great Britain and Ireland),

By J. MAUDE CRAMENT.

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|---------------|
| 1. "PREPARE YE THE WAY" ... | ADVENT. |
| 2. "BEHOLD! I BRING" ... | CHRISTMAS. |
| 3. "CHRIST IS RISEN" ... | EASTER. |
| 4. "IN MY FATHER'S HOUSE" ... | WHIT-SUNDAY. |
| 5. "PRAISE THE LORD" ... | THANKSGIVING. |
| 6. "HO! EVERY ONE THAT THIRSTETH" ... | MISSIONS. |

The above will be printed uniform with NOVELLO'S OCTAVO ANTHEMS, in stiffened paper covers, and comprise about sixty pages.

Price to Subscribers, Five Shillings.

These Anthems were written for the choir of the English Church, Berlin. They are full of melody—not too difficult for the average parish choir—the music thoroughly adapted to the sentiment of the words; the different movements may also be found suitable as voluntaries.

Professor Kiel (Berlin), under whom the composer studied, says:—"In these and other works is evinced the serious and elevated tendency of Mr. Crament's musical aims; and by a continuance of the same zealous endeavours the highest and most satisfactory results are most certainly assured."

Subscribers' names and subscriptions received by Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER and Co., London.

N.B.—Will be ready early in June.

COMPOSITIONS BY WILHELM SCHULTHES.

- | | |
|--|-------|
| GUIRLANDES DE MAI. Cantiques in French and English, with Organ Accompaniment. 3 volumes ... | s. d. |
| THE MONTH OF MAY. Nocturno for two voices, with Piano or Organ Accompaniment. The words taken from the Hymn Book of the London Oratory... | 3 0 |
| SALVE REGINA. S. or T. and Chorus for equal voices, with Organ and Harp Accompaniment (ad lib.) ... | 2 0 |
| The Chorus arranged for S.A.T.B. ... | 0 6 |
| VENI DOMINE. Motett for four equal voices (Soli and Chorus), with Organ and Harp Accompaniment (ad lib.) ... | 4 0 |
| Vocal arrangement for mixed voices ... | 1 0 |
| COR JESU, SALUS IN TE SPERANTUM. Motett for three equal voices, with Organ and Harp Accompaniment (ad lib.) ... | 5 0 |
| The same, arranged for S.A.T.B., with Organ Accompaniment ... | 4 0 |
| An Abridged Arrangement for Congregational use, with Organ Accompaniment ... | 0 3 |
| REGINA CELI. Motett for four equal voices, with Organ and Harp Accompaniment (ad lib.) ... | 6 0 |
| A Vocal Arrangement of the same for a choir of mixed voices, S.A.T.B. ... | 2 0 |
| TWELVE LATIN HYMNS for Vespers, Complin, &c., with Organ Accompaniment ... | 2 0 |
| AVE MARIA, for Mezzo-Soprano or Baritone, with Piano or Organ Accompaniment ... | 2 0 |
| O SALUTARIS, for Solo and Chorus, with Pianoforte Accompaniment ... | 2 6 |
| The same, arranged for four voices, with Organ or Pianoforte Accompaniment ... | 3 6 |
| BENEDICTION SERVICE, and a COLLECTION OF THIRTY-SIX LITANIES, with Organ Accompaniment ... | 12 0 |
| ORATORY HYMNS. Words by the Very Rev. F. W. FABER. Dedicated (by permission) to His Eminence Cardinal Wiseman. Two Books, each containing 12 Hymns ... | 8 0 |

Sold at half-price.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A MANUAL OF SINGING,

FOR THE USE OF CHOIR TRAINERS & SCHOOLMASTERS,
By RICHARD MANN.
Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

This work offers to the clergy and other amateur choir trainers a systematic and simple course of instruction, by which they may teach their pupils to read music at sight, in a comparatively short time.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE COLLEGIATE AND SCHOOL SIGHT-SINGING MANUAL.

FOR CHOIRS.—The easiest system that can be obtained for training, improving, and learning to read music at sight.
FOR SCHOOLS.—Every requisite for learning Music, and reading at sight in a few lessons.
FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.—The exercises will be found invaluable, tending to produce musical effects seldom heard.

APPENDIX.

Containing Exercises, Solfege, Canons, Anthems, &c.
Price One Shilling.
London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.; Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Third Edition, 2s. 6d. net.
(COMPANION WORK TO THE ABOVE.)

COLLEGIATE VOCAL TUTOR.

Containing Treatise on Voice and Vocal Art, with Anatomical Illustrations of the Vocal Instrument.
London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.; Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

CATHEDRAL CHANT-BOOK.

Containing nearly 200 Single and Double Chants; also the Gregorian Tones.
London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.; Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

DR. BENNETT GILBERT'S POPULAR WORK SCHOOL HARMONY.

"From intervals to counterpoint."
The Work is divided into 3 Parts, to suit the School Term, and concludes with a copious Examination Paper.
EVERY SUBJECT HAS ITS SPECIAL EXERCISES.
Price 1s. 6d. net.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; and all Musicsellers.

THEORY OF MUSIC

(A FIRST BOOK ON THE)
By LOUISA GIBSON.

Dedicated, by permission, to
H.R.H. THE PRINCESS LOUISE, MARCHIONESS OF LORNE.
(Adopted in the South London Musical Training College, and in various High Schools in London and the Provinces.)
Price: Boards, 3s.; stiff paper, 2s.; postage, 2d.
London: Weekes and Co.; Novello and Co.; Whittaker and Co.; and of the Author, Seaton Terrace, Plymouth.

MUSIC FOR THE NEW CODE.—"THE SINGING-CLASS MANUAL,"

by the late WILLIAM JACKSON, MASHAM, is admirably suited for use in the Public Elementary Schools. Price (with Appendix, containing eight pieces of music in different keys) 2s.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; and all Musicsellers and Booksellers.

ON TUNING THE ORGAN. Illustrated

APPENDIX, containing faults in action with remedies, price 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. Hemstock, Diss.

BAKER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR.

Easy and very plain instructions. Adapted for Schools and General Teaching Purposes. London: B. Williams, 79, Paternoster Row; or, post-free, 3s., of G. Baker, Stamp Office Place, Wakefield.

POPULAR FOUR-PART SONGS BY GABRIEL DAVIS.

THE KNIGHT'S RETURN	...	2d.
GOD SAVE THE PRINCE. (12th Edition)	...	2d.
THE DISTANT SEA	...	2d.
TO THE WOODS	...	2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CAROL OF THE REAPERS. (S.A.T.B.) 3d.

SIX EASY ANTHEMS FOR VILLAGE CHOIRS. 2d. each.
NOVELLO and Co.; or of the Composer, W. H. GILL, Sidcup, Kent.

ILLUSTRATED BOOKS FOR HOLIDAY PERUSAL.

Price 2s. 6d. each.

Published by WARD, LOCK, and TYLER.

"BLUEBEARD'S WIDOW AND HER SISTER ANNE."

Their History, evolved from Mendacious Chronicles, and illustrated by SABILLA NOVELLO.

"... The story is pleasantly told, and will be an agreeable addition to this class of very light literature. The author has shown herself as clever with her pencil as she is with her pen, for the whole story is illustrated by pretty drawings in outline. . . ."—Western Daily Mercury.

"... This dainty little volume is a sequel to the 'History of Bluebeard's Wives,' and it gives in half a hundred amusing pages some very astonishing and attractive, baseless and imaginative 'facts.' . . . The illustrations are remarkably original and drolly grotesque, and are drawn in excellent artistic style. The little volume will well amuse an idle hour, and is worthy of a place on any drawing-room table, where its clever sketches would attract attention and its story be gladly read."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"HOHO AND HAHA." Their Adventures, narrated and illustrated by

SABILLA NOVELLO.

"... This gracefully written fairy tale, with its artistic illustrations, will sustain the reputation of its accomplished author. The moral of the pretty story is not urged unduly; but naturally flows out of the adventures of the brother and sister, which are told with a bright heart and facile pen. . . ."—Trevelman's Exeter Flying Post.

"... Miss Sabilla Novello seems to glory in the fields of romance and enchantment. Having recently related to us the veracious story of 'Bluebeard's Widow and her Sister Anne,' and the 'History of Bluebeard's Wives,' she now follows up her pretty romances by giving us an account of the amusing adventures of Hoho and Haha. . . . All these things are well described, and are illustrated by their fair author in pretty outline sketches, which add much to the beauty of the book and the charm of the adventures."—Western Daily Mercury.

NEW AND CHEAP EDITION.

SWEDISH MELODIES

AS SUNG BY

THE SWEDISH MINSTRELS.

THE WORDS by THOMAS OLIPHANT, ESQ.

Come away, come away Schäfer	1½d.
Onward roaming, never weary Müller	1½d.
Hark! the merry Drum (the Drum March) Krugh	3d.
Vermeland. Old Swedish National Melody	1½d.
Dear land of my fathers	do.	1½d.
Still amid old Sweden's youth. Dalecarlian Song	1½d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CHORAL SONGS,

as sung by Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir, the Birmingham Festival Choral Society, &c.

No. 1. "THE SILENT LAND." Price 3d.
"Replete with melody. Some phrases are of remarkable beauty."—Musical Times.

No. 2. "THE BETTER LAND." Price 4d.
"Distinguished by beauty of melody and richness of harmony."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"Full of charming effects."—Birmingham Daily Post.
No. 3. "THE DAY IS DONE." Price 4d.
Composed expressly for Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SOUTHWELL SCHOOL SONGS. First series,

1s. 6d. By the Rev. R. F. SMITH, Minor Canon of Southwell.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.
The Queen.—"Fourteen" (sixteen) "capital little songs in a cheap handy form. Quite new and withal pretty and neatly written."
The Schoolmaster.—"Easy, pleasing tunes, suitable to school use. The composer shows himself a true musician; each 'lay' has a separate tune, which is catching, appropriate, and quite in old ballad-song style."
The Musical Times.—"The sympathetic and musicianlike manner in which he has wedded them to melodies which cannot fail to please the young vocalists for whom they are expressly designed."

By the same Composer,
TE DEUM in F, 3d. ANTHEM (S.A.T.B.), "The Lord is nigh," 6d.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Second Edition.—Reduced Prices.

CHORAL SONGS FOR SCHOOL & HOME

FORTY-TWO ORIGINAL SONGS

FOR

ONE, TWO, OR FOUR VOICES

COMPOSED BY ROBERT JACKSON.

Cloth, complete, 3s.; Parts I. and II., paper cover, 1s. each; Single Numbers, 1d.

From Concordia.

"This little book is designed for singing-classes in schools, and the simplicity, tunefulness, and attractiveness of the small compositions it contains eminently adapt it for such a purpose."

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

HUMOROUS GLEES.—Just published, "There was a little man." Composed by WARE. "Johnny Schmoker." Composed by RIX. Post-free, six stamps each. These are very amusing, and suitable for Schools and Penny Readings.

Published by J. F. Jones and Co., 44, Corporation Street, Manchester. London: C. Jeffreys, 67, Berners Street, W.

Dedicated to the Members of the Dublin Glee and Madrigal Union.

THE CRUISKEEN LAWN. (Song of the Battle Eve.) Irish Air. Words by Thomas Moore. Arranged for S.A.T.B.B. by Sir R. P. STEWART, Mus. D. Price Threepence.

THE WINE-CUP IS CIRCLING IN ALMHIN'S HALL. Irish Air. Words by Thomas Moore. Arranged for S.A.T.B.B. by Sir R. P. STEWART, Mus. D. Price Threepence.

THE BELLS OF ST. MICHAEL'S TOWER. The subject from Knyvett's Glee for three Voices, rewritten for S.A.T.B.B., with an Introduction, by Sir R. P. STEWART, Mus. D. Price Fourpence.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

EPPING FOREST; or, Love Triumphant. Song. Price 1s. 6d. net. This day.

MR. WILLIAM RAY SMEE'S SONGS. Set to Music by OTTO BOOTH.

1. The Sea Gull: against the senseless destruction of Sea Birds.
2. Health-drinking Spring: in favour of Temperance and Moderation in Drink.
3. The Merchant Captain: against the Abuse of Power.
4. Epping Forest; or, Love Triumphant.

Price 1s. 6d. net.

WEEKES and Co., Hanover Street.

SMALLWOOD'S CLASSICAL & SECULAR EXTRACTS
FOR THE PIANOFORTE.

No. 52 Nos. ready, 3s. each.

1. Classical.—Hymn of Praise (Mendelssohn).
19. " Kyrie Eleison (Mozart's Twelfth Service).
35. " I know that my Redeemer (Messiah).

4. Secular.—May-bells (Mendelssohn).
20. " Selection from Die Zauberflöte (Mozart).
40. " Selection from Masaniello (Auber).

Post-free, 18 stamps each number.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

THE NEWTOWN NURSERY MARCH,

COMPOSED BY J. H. LEWIS,

Price 3s.; post-free, 1s. 6d.

"Is a well-written spirited composition, full of life and really strikingly new."—Bazaar.

"It is bold and striking."—Scotsman.

May be had from the Author, High Street, Hawick, N.B.

NEW WALTZES.—The EAST LOTHIAN HUNT WALTZES, composed by Mrs. CHARLES BERNERS. 4s. (Sold at half-price.) To be had from the Composer, The Rookery, Yoxford, Suffolk, or, HAMILTON and MÜLLER, 116, George Street, Edinburgh.

JUST PUBLISHED, 3s.—RADIANT SUN-BEAMS, Polka Brillante de Salon, composed by W. ASPINALL. "A very graceful, pleasing, and effective composition." Post-free, 1s. 6d. Wm. ASPINALL, Platt Bridge, near Wigan.

HANDEL'S ATHALIAH. An Oratorio, composed in the year 1733. Edited and the Pianoforte Accompaniment revised from that of the German Handel Society, by EBENEZER PROUT. 4vo, paper covers, 3s.; paper boards, 3s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 5s.

HANDEL'S HERCULES. An Oratorio, Edited and the Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged from the German Handel Society's Full Score, by EBENEZER PROUT. Octavo, paper cover, 3s.; scarlet cloth, 5s.

FULL ORCHESTRAL SCORES,

ONE GUINEA EACH.

HANDEL'S MESSIAH

(With Mozart's Accompaniments),

HANDEL'S ISRAEL IN EGYPT,
HAYDN'S CREATION.

Large Paper; bound in cloth.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.MOORE'S*IRISH MELODIES.

EDITED BY

M. W. BALFE.

Paper covers, 2s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 4s.

A Selection from the above, arranged for Two Voices, paper cover, 1s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NOVELLO'S
TONIC SOL-FA SERIES,

TRANSLATED AND EDITED BY

W. G. McNAUGHT.

ANTHEMS, CHORUSES, PART-SONGS, &c.

Nos. 1 to 78 now ready.

ELIJAH (Translated by J. W. Powell)	MENDELSSOHN	s. d. 1 6
HEAR MY PRAYER	MENDELSSOHN	0 3
HYMN OF PRAISE (Lobgesang)	MENDELSSOHN	1 0
ATHALIE	MENDELSSOHN	1 0
LORELEY	MENDELSSOHN	0 6
LAUDA SION (Praise Jehovah)	MENDELSSOHN	0 9
CHRISTUS	MENDELSSOHN	0 6
THE CRUSADERS	NIELS W. GADE	1 0
THE MAY QUEEN	SIR W. S. BENNETT	1 0

Complete Lists sent free on application.

LONDON:

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION

OF WORKS BY

NIELS W. GADE.

COMALA	s. d. 2 0
THE CRUSADERS	2 0
ZION	1 6
THE ERL-KING'S DAUGHTER	1 6
SPRING'S MESSAGE	0 8

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SONGS COMPOSED BY WILLEM COENEN.

LOVELY SPRING (Frühlingslied) ... 3s.
(No. 1 for S. or T., No. 2 for C. or B.)

THE KINDLY STARS (Die Gutensterne) ... 3s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION

OF

TRIOS, QUARTETTS, &C.,

FOR

FEMALE VOICES.

- No. 1. The corall'd caves of } 3 voices, Henry Smart 4d.
ocean do. do. 4d.
2. Heaven do. do. 4d.
3. Hope and memory .. do. do. 4d.
4. Night sinks on the } do. do. 3d.
wave do. do. 3d.
5. Oh! skylark, for thy } do. do. 4d.
wing do. do. 4d.
6. The bird at sea .. do. do. 4d.
7. The wood-nymphs .. do. do. 3d.
8. The fay's song .. do. do. 4d.
9. Evening do. do. 3d.
10. The water-nymphs .. do. do. 4d.
11. Where are the angels? do. J. L. Hatton 3d.
12. Youth, joy, and hope do. do. 4d.
13. Coronach do. Schubert 3d.
14. The Lord is my Shep- } 4 voices do. 4d.
herd do. do. 4d.
15. God in nature .. do. do. 4d.
16. Serenade, 4 voices, with solo do. do. 4d.
17. Glory to the Lord } 3 voices do. 3d.
Almighty do. do. 3d.
18. O clap your hands. Psalm 47 E. H. Thorne 6d.
19. O sing to God (Noël) { 3 voices, with Ch. Gounod 6d.
soli S. & A. }

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just published.

FIVE CHORUSES

FOR FEMALE VOICES

COMPOSED BY

FRANZ SCHUBERT.

Price One Shilling.

OR, SINGLY,

- Coronach 3 voices 3d.
The Lord is my Shepherd 4 voices 4d.
God in nature 4 voices 4d.
Serenade 4 voices, with solo 4d.
Glory to the Lord Almighty 3 voices 3d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

JUST PUBLISHED.

EIGHTEEN TWO-PART SONGS

With Pianoforte Accompaniment,

COMPOSED BY

ANTON RUBINSTEIN.

Op. 48 and 67.

THE ENGLISH VERSION BY NATALIA MACFARREN.

Price Four Shillings.

CONTENTS.

1. The Angel.
2. Birdie.
3. The homestead.
4. The merry maidens.
5. Wanderer's night song.
6. The hour of parting.
7. Night.
8. The cloud.
9. The happy birds.
10. The turtle dove and the wanderer.
11. Twilight.
12. Autumn sadness.
13. Song of the summer birds.
14. In the wood.
15. Faith in spring.
16. Pass by.
17. Rest after storm.
18. The lotos flower.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S ONLY COMPLETE AND UNIFORM EDITION OF

MENDELSSOHN'S

THIRTEEN TWO-PART SONGS.

With the German and W. BARTHOLOMEW'S Original English Words.

Complete in One Volume, folio, 5s. net. Octavo, paper, 2s. net; cloth gilt, 4s. net; or singly, 2s. each. The separate Numbers are sold at half-price.

- No. 1. I would that my love.
2. The passage bird.
3. Greeting.
4. Autumn song.
5. O wert thou in the cauld blast.
6. The Maybells and the flowers.
No. 7. My bark is bounding.
8. Can I light-hearted be?
9. Evening song.
10. Zuleika and Hassan.
11. The Sabbath morn.
12. The harvest field.
13. Song from Ruy Blas.

N.B.—The Quartett score to No. 13, 1s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TEN TRIOS for FEMALE VOICES, composed by CARL REINECKE. (Op. 100.) Octavo, 1s. 6d.; or singly—

- No. 1. The dreaming lake, 2d.
2. Praise of Spring, 3d.
3. Of oak thy mournful bier's prepared, 3d.
4. Sunbeams in Winter, 2d.
5. The awaking of morn, 3d.
6. The Winter hath not a blossom, 3d.
7. Thou that thyself with death hath striven, 2d.
8. The evening wind, 3d.
9. As in a field goodly fruit will grow, 3d.
10. The elves, 3d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SIX TRIOS for FEMALE VOICES, composed by FRANZ ABT. The Words translated by H. W. DULCKEN, Ph.D. Price 1s. octavo; or singly 2d. each.

- No. 1. Ave Maria.
2. The wanderer's greeting.
3. Where deepest shadows hover.
4. Parting beam of daylight.
5. Once again the day hath flown.
6. Thou Heaven, blue and bright.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FOURTEEN SONGS

SET TO

POEMS OF ROBERT BURNS,

By ROBERT FRANZ.

EDITED AND ADAPTED BY NATALIA MACFARREN.

Paper covers, 2s. 6d.

CONTENTS.

- Two sweet e'en.
My bonny Mary.
Oh! wert thou in the frozen blast.
My heart is sair.
The Highland lassie.
The lovely lass of Inverness.
Phillis the fair.
Ye banks and braes.
Altho' my bed were in yon moor.
Thou hast left me ever, Jamie.
How can my heart be glad.
So far away.
My love is like a red, red rose.
My heart's in the Highlands.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

SIX SONGS, composed by FERDINAND HILLER. Op. 149. The English translation by the Rev. J. TROUTBECK, M.A.

- No. 1. Eyes of Spring.
2. Departure from the loved one.
3. Inconstancy.
No. 4. The Pilgrimage of the Virgin.
5. Two Voices.
6. A parting prayer.

2s. 6d. each. Sold at half-price.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

TEN VOCAL DUETS, composed by FRANZ ABT. Op. 457. The English translation by the Rev. J. TROUTBECK, M.A.

- No. 1. O come ye flow'rets.
2. All seek for rest.
3. Lovely violet.
4. In the distance.
5. In the forest.
No. 6. Sabbath on the sea.
7. A Spring greeting.
8. The bird's question.
9. Longing for home.
10. On the blue sea.

3s. each. Sold at half-price.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FOUR-PART SONGS

BY

R. L. DE PEARSALL.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK, VOLS. X. & XI.,

Scarlet cloth, gilt, price 5s. each.

CONTENTS OF VOL. X.

284	The Hardy Norseman	(S.A.T.B.)	... 4d.
284*	do. do.	(A.T.T.B.)	... 4d.
285	Nymphs are sporting	(S.A.T.B.)	... 3d.
286	O who will o'er the downs	"	... 4d.
286*	do. do.	(A.T.T.B.)	... 4d.
287	Who shall win my lady fair	(S.A.T.B.)	... 4d.
288	Why with toil	"	... 3d.
289	When Allan-a-Dale went a-hunting.	Glee	...	4d.
290	I saw lovely Phillis.	Madrigal	...	4d.
291	The River Spirit's song	(A.T.T.B.)	... 3d.
292	It was upon a Spring-tide day.	Madrigal	(S.A.T.T.B.)	... 4d.
293	Take heed, ye shepherd swains.	Madrigal	(S.S.A.T.T.B.)	... 4d.
294	Spring returns.	Madrigal	...	2d.
295	Great God of love. 8 voices.	Madrigal	...	3d.
296	In dulci jubilo.	Christmas Carol	...	3d.
297	The song of the Frank companies	(S.A.T.B.)	... 3d.
298	How bright in the May-time	"	... 3d.
299	The Winter song	"	... 2d.
300	The Bishop of Mentz	"	... 3d.
301	When last I strayed	"	... 2d.
302	See how smoothly	"	... 2d.
303	Let us all go Maying	"	... 2d.
304	List! Lady be not coy.	Madrigal	(S.S.A.T.T.B.)	... 3d.
305	O ye roses.	Madrigal	...	3d.
306	Sing we and chaunt it.	Madrigal for Double Choir	...	2d.
307	"	" for 4 voices	...	2d.
308	The red wine flows	(T.T.B.B.)	... 2d.
309	Shoot false love, I care not.	Ballet Madrigal	(S.A.T.B.)	... 3d.

CONTENTS OF VOL. XI.

310	Laugh not, youth, at age.	Madrigal	...	(S.A.T.B.)	... 4d.
311	Down in my garden fair.	"	...	"	... 3d.
312	Adieu! my native shore	" 2d.
313	Purple glow the forest mountains	" 2d.
314	Caput apri defero	" 3d.
315	A Chieftain to the Highlands bound	" 2d.
316	A King there was in Thule	" 3d.
317	Come, let us be merry.	Twelfth Night song	...	"	... 1½d.
318	Mihi est propositum	(A.T.B.B.) 2d.
319	Light of my soul.	Madrigal	...	(S.S.A.T.B.B.)	... 3d.
320	Lay a garland.	Madrigal for 8 voices	...	"	... 3d.
321	Summer is y' coming in.	Madrigal	...	(S.S.A.T.B.B.)	... 2d.
322	Why should the Cuckoo's tuneful note.	Do.	...	(S.S.A.T.B.)	... 3d.
323	Why weep, alas! my lady love.	Madrigal	...	"	... 3d.
324	There is a paradise on earth	(A.T.B.B.) 3d.
325	O! all ye ladies fair and true	" 2d.
326	War Song of the Norman Baron Taillefer	(S.A.T.B.) 2d.
327	Why do the roses.	Madrigal for 4 voices	...	"	... 2d.
328	Sweet as a flower in May.	Ditto	...	"	... 2d.
329	The praise of good wine	(T.T.B.B.) 2d.
330	{ The Watchman's Song	(T.T.B.B.)
	{ Ditto ditto	(S.A.T.B.) 2d.
331	The Waters of Elle	(S.S.A.T.B.) 2d.
332	No! No! Nigella.	For double choir	...	"	... 2d.
333	Sir Patrick Spens.	In 10 parts	...	"	... 4d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

PIANOFORTE COMPOSITIONS

RECENTLY PUBLISHED BY

NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

MRS. MOUNSEY BARTHOLOMEW.
La Napolitaine 3s.
2nd Tarentelle 3s.
J. BAPTISTE CALKIN.
Harvest Thanksgiving March 3s.
R. F. DALE.
Four Album-Leaves 3s.
E. HECHT.
Polonaise 4s.
OLIVER A. KING.
Impromptu Caprice 3s.
Legende 3s.
A. C. MACKENZIE.
Five Pieces (Op. 13) 4s.
LEFEBURE-WELY.
Hop. Caprice Brilliant 5s.
Six Romances sans Paroles—
No. 1. La Sesia (Italie) Réverie 7s.
2. La Martha (Allemagne) Mélodie 3s.
3. La Neva (Russie) Caprice 3s.
4. La Guadiana (Espagne) Sérénade 3s.
5. La Lys (France) Réverie 5s.
6. La Dyle (Belgique) Berceuse 3s.
Titania, Fantaisie de Concert 4s.
EDOUARD ROECKEL.
Gloriette. Impromptu 3s.
Air de Danse de la Régence 3s.
E. SAUERBREY.
Gavotte 3s.
Chanson du Moulin. Caprice 3s.
JAMES SHAW.
Gavotte 3s.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW PIANOFORTE PIECE BY LISZT.

ROSE, SOFTLY BLOOMING

ROMANCE

By L. SPOHR.

TRANSCRIBED FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY

FRANZ LISZT.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW WORK FOR THE ORGAN.

THE ORGAN

A THEORETICAL AND PRACTICAL TREATISE;

INTENDED TO ASSIST THE STUDENT IN ACQUIRING

A SOUND KNOWLEDGE OF THE INSTRUMENT AND ITS PROPER MANIPULATION;

WITH A SERIES OF

ORIGINAL EXERCISES AND ILLUSTRATIVE COMPOSITIONS

Written specially for this Work.

BY

FREDERIC ARCHER,

Organist of the Alexandra Palace, Muswell Hill.

Price 10s. 6d.

LONDON:

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, BERNERS STREET (W.)
AND 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET, CHEAPSIDE (E.C.)

BY

BY

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Original Compositions for the Organ,

BY

GEO. R. GRIFFITHS.

PRICE 1s. 6d. EACH NET.

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. ANDANTE PASTORALE IN E ^b AND CHORALE. | 7. INTRODUCTION AND MARCH A LA HANDEL IN G. |
| 2. INTRODUCTION AND PEDAL FUGUE IN D MINOR. | 8. THREE ANDANTES. |
| 3. GRAND PROCESSIONAL MARCH IN F. | 9. INTRODUCTION AND PEDAL FUGUE IN E ^b . |
| 4. ANDANTE A LA HAYDN AND DIAPASON VOLUNTARY IN E ^b . | 10. ADAGIO. |
| 5. GRAND OFFERTOIRE IN C. | 11. SOLO QUARTETT AND CHORUS FROM A MS. |
| 6. INTRODUCTION AND PEDAL FUGUE IN C MINOR. | 12. PEDAL FUGUE IN A MINOR. |

A NEW WORK FOR AMATEUR ORGANISTS.

FAVOURITE SONGS from the ORATORIOS, arranged for the ORGANE (with Pedal Obligato), chiefly for the use of Amateurs, by GEORGE R. GRIFFITHS.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS EACH; POST-FREE, 1s. 6d.

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. HE SHALL FEED HIS FLOCK. Handel. | 9. WHAT THOUGH I TRACE; and PIOUS ORGIES. } Handel. |
| 2. HE WAS DESPISED. do. | 10. THY REBUKE HATH BROKEN HIS HEART; and BEHOLD AND SEE. } do. |
| 3. ANGELS EVER BRIGHT AND FAIR. do. | 11. HE WAS CUT OFF; and BUT THOU DIDST NOT LEAVE HIS SOUL IN HELL. } do. |
| 4. HOW BEAUTIFUL ARE THE FEET. do. | 12. I KNOW THAT MY REDEEMER LIVETH. do. |
| 5. IF GOD BE FOR US. do. | |
| 6. TYRANNIC LOVE. do. | |
| 7. LORD, REMEMBER DAVID; and HOLY, HOLY. Handel. | |
| 8. WISE MEN FLATTERING. Handel. | |

To be continued.

The words being printed upon the top line will be found of great service to the performer in giving proper expression to the songs.

NEW WORK FOR SINGING CLASSES.

CHAPPELL'S PENNY OPERATIC PART-SONGS.

For Soprano, Alto, Tenor, and Bass.

The present collection of Part-Songs is entirely new, being selected and adapted from the most striking and popular Choruses in the Favourite Foreign Operas. The Arrangement is purely Vocal, such Choruses only being chosen as can be sung without the aid of an Instrumental Accompaniment. The Words have been expressly written for the work, and the harmonies arranged in four parts, as likely to be most useful in small classes.

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. Hymn of the Fisherman's Children | Adapted to a Melody from Herold's "ZAMPA." |
| 2. Fays and Elves (In mia fe) | From Flotow's "MARTA." |
| 3. Spring's Bright Glances (In Elvezia non v'ha) | From Bellini's "LA SONNAMBULA." |
| 4. From Yonder Vale and Hill (D'immenso giubilo) | From Donizetti's "LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR." |
| 5. Here we Rest (Qui la selva) | From Bellini's "LA SONNAMBULA." |
| 6. Onward to Battle (Squilli echeggi) | From Verdi's "TROVATORE." |
| 7. Rataplan (Rataplan) | From Donizetti's "LA FIGLIA DEL REGGIMENTO." |
| 8. The Gipsy's Star (Vedi! le fosche) | From Verdi's "IL TROVATORE." |
| 9. War Song of the Druids (Dell' aura tua profetica) | From Bellini's "NORMA." |
| 10. In Mercy, hear us! (Cielo clemente) | From Donizetti's "LA FIGLIA DEL REGGIMENTO." |
| 11. Come to the Fair! (Accorete, giovinette) | From Flotow's "MARTA." |
| 12. Friendship (Per te d'immenso giubilo) | From Donizetti's "LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR." |
| 13. Away, the Morning freshly breaking (The Chorus of Fishermen) | From Auber's "MASANIELLO." |
| 14. Pretty Village Maiden (Peasants' Sevenade Chorus) | From Gounod's "FAUST." |
| 15. The soft Winds around us (The Gipsy Chorus) | From Weber's "PRECIOSA." |
| 16. See how lightly on the blue sea (Senti la danza invitaci) | From Donizetti's "LUCREZIA BORGIA." |
| 17. See the Moonlight Beam (Non fav Motto) | " ... From Auber's "FRA DIAVOLO." |
| 18. On yonder rocks reclining | From Balfe's "BOHEMIAN GIRL." |
| 19. Happy and light | From Donizetti's "LA FAVORITA." |
| 20. Come, come away (Ah! que de moins) | From Meyerbeer's "LES HUGUENOTS." |
| 21. Hymn's torch (Il destin) | From Gounod's "FAUST." |
| 22. Come on, Comrade (The Celebrated Chorus of Old Men) | " ... From Donizetti's "DON PASQUALE." |
| 23. 'Gainst the Powers of Evil (The Chorale of the Cross) | From Rossini's "GUGLIELMO TELL." |
| 24. O Balmy night (Com e gentili) | From Meyerbeer's "ROBERT LE DIABLE." |
| 25. Haste o'er the hills (Introductory Chorus) | From Bellini's "NORMA." |
| 26. Come, sing the Song (Opening Chorus) | From Rossini's "GUGLIELMO TELL." |
| 27. With fair Ceres (The March Chorus) | From Weber's "DER FREISCHUETZ." |
| 28. The Tuneful Song of Robin's Horn (Tyrolese Chorus) | From Flotow's "MARTA." |
| 29. The Chorus of Huntsmen | From Meyerbeer's "GLI UGONOTTI." |
| 30. Hark! the distant hills (Hunting Chorus) | From Wagner's "LOHENGRIIN." |
| 31. Hence! away with care | From Rossini's "SEMIRAMIDE." |
| 32. Hail to the Bride | From Weber's "DER FREISCHUETZ." |
| 33. Hark! music stealing! (subject from Overture) | From Auber's "MASANIELLO." |
| 34. A bridal wreath we twined (Chorus of Bridesmaids) | From Auber's "FRA DIAVOLO." |
| 35. Behold, how brightly breaks the morning! (The Barcarole) | |
| 36. From hill to hill resounding (subject from Overture) | |

Postage free, 1st d. each; or 3 for 3rd d.
(To be continued.)

ANTOINE COURTOIS' CORNETS,

Adopted by LEVY, REYNOLDS, and all the principal Cornet-players in Great Britain, United States, France, and Russia.
SOLE AGENT: S. ARTHUR CHAPPELL, 52, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON.

CHAPPELL & CO., 50, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON.

IN PREPARATION.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO.'S
MUSIC PRIMERS,

EDITED BY

DR. STAINER.

- | | | | |
|-----|----------------------------------|---------|----------------------------|
| 1. | The Pianoforte | - - - - | E. Pauer. |
| 2. | The Rudiments of Music | - | W. H. Cummings. |
| 3. | The Organ | - - - - | Dr. Stainer. |
| 4. | Harmonium | - - - - | King Hall. |
| 5. | Singing | - - - - | A. Randegger. |
| 6. | Pronunciation in Singing | - | A. J. Ellis, F.R.S. |
| 7. | Forms in Music | - - - - | E. Pauer. |
| 8. | Harmony | - - - - | Dr. Stainer. |
| 9. | Counterpoint | - - - - | Dr. Bridge. |
| 10. | Scientific Basis of Music | - - - - | Dr. Stone. |
| 11. | History of Music | - - - - | E. Pauer. |
| 12. | Church Choir Training | - | Rev. J. Troutbeck. |
| 13. | Plain Song | - - - - | Rev. T. Helmore. |

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO,

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

“By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast-tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly-nourished frame.”—The Civil Service Gazette.

“MANUFACTURE OF COCOA.—We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps and Co., manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London.”—See Article in Cassell's Household Guide.

MADE SIMPLY WITH BOILING WATER OR MILK.

SOLD IN PACKETS (TINS FOR ABROAD), LABELLED

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists,
48, THREADNEEDLE STREET, AND 170, PICCADILLY.

WORKS: EUSTON ROAD AND CAMDEN TOWN, LONDON.

Makers of EPPS'S GLYCERINE JUJUBES, for Throat Irritation.

THE MUSICAL
TIMES

THE STEINWAY PIANOFORTES

(STEINWAY HALL, NEW YORK).

It is pretty well known that the SUPREME POSITION among the Pianofortes of the world belongs to the STEINWAY PIANOFORTE, whatever test of excellence or measure of comparative values may be applied. But it should also be understood that it is simply impossible for any one to form an adequate conception of the artistic, scientific, and structural perfection to which the modern Pianoforte has attained without hearing and seeing the Steinway Instruments.

It should, moreover, be noticed that the Steinway Instruments are not merely the GREATEST PIANOFORTES IN THE WORLD, but are also the sources of every scientific improvement introduced into European Pianofortes within the past quarter of a century. Every maker without exception, whether in Europe or America, whose Pianofortes display any indications of progress within the period indicated has derived them from the Steinway Instruments; and, conversely, every maker who has not empirically copied the Steinway Pianofortes has made no important improvement in his instruments, but remains the mere reproducer of the imperfect types of pianoforte construction belonging to a past generation.

It may also be mentioned that the STEINWAY PIANOFORTES have been supplied to almost every Royal Family in Europe, from the Imperial and Grand Ducal Palaces at St. Petersburg to the Vatican; have received the eulogium of almost every contemporary Pianist, Composer, and other Musician of world-wide fame; the academic honours of the principal Art and Science corporations of Europe—Paris, Berlin, Stockholm, &c.; the eulogies of the greater authorities in the science of acoustics, such as Helmholtz and Lissajous; the highest awards of the four representative International Exhibitions—London (1862), Paris (1867), Vienna (1873), and Philadelphia (1876); and enjoy both the widest distribution and the largest annual sale of any pianofortes throughout the world.

TYPICAL EXTRACTS.

"Your unrivalled grand pianos are certainly the most perfect instruments I have met with, especially your latest achievement, the Centennial Grand Piano. Their volume of tone is simply marvellous, and at the same time of truly musical and poetic quality, which never changes its noble character under either the most delicate or the most powerful touch; with an action of the most unerring precision, power, elasticity, and unequalled durability under the severest trials."—Madame Arabella Goddard.

"Their tone is marvellously grand, of exquisite poetic and sympathetic quality, which was to me a perfect revelation when trying the Steinway Piano for the first time; and it is just this thoroughly musical quality of tone, invariably characterising your pianos, which grows both upon hearer and player, that a cultivated musical ear will prefer the tone of your pianos to all others. The touch is simply perfect—elastic, pliable, and promptly responding to all and every demand made by the pianist."—Miss Marie Krebs.

CENTRAL DEPÔT FOR GREAT BRITAIN:

28, BAKER STREET, PORTMAN SQUARE, LONDON, W.

ARTHUR ALLISON & CO.,

PIANOFORTE & HARMONIUM MANUFACTURERS,

110, WARDOUR STREET, W.

Arthur Allison & Co.'s Pianettes - - - From 27 Gs. upwards.

" " " Pianos - - - " 35 " "

Arthur Allison & Co.'s Broad Reed Organs - From 8 Gs. upwards.

" " " Harmoniums - - - " £10 upwards.

" " " Anglo-American Organs " 10 Gs. upwards.

" " " Pedal Harmoniums, with One, Two, and Three Manuals.

ARTHUR ALLISON & CO., SOLE LONDON AGENTS FOR DAWES & RAMSDEN'S
PATENT MELODY & PEDAL-SUBSTITUTE ORGANS, FROM 25 GUINEAS.

JOHN PARK'S SONGS, with Introductory Notice by PRINCIPAL SHAIRP, LL.D.
64 Songs, in One Volume, One Guinea.

Illustrated Price List on application to 110, Wardour Street.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

The Music Pages only are stereotyped; those persons who would possess the Musical Articles, Notices, Advertisements, &c., can only ensure doing so by taking the work as it appears.

No. 413.—Vol. 18.
Registered for transmission abroad.

JULY 1, 1877.

Price 3d.; Post-free, 4d.
Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 4s.

MESSRS.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Have the honour to announce that, in consequence of the retirement from business of their late American Agent, Mr. J. L. PETERS, the Sole Agency for the sale of their Publications in the UNITED STATES has been transferred to

MESSRS. DITSON & CO.

All of Messrs. NOVELLO's Publications will in future be kept in stock by—

Messrs. OLIVER DITSON and Co. ... Boston.
" C. H. DITSON and Co. ... New York.
" J. E. DITSON and Co. ... Philadelphia.
" LYON and HEALY ... Chicago.
" DOBMEYER and NEWHALL ... Cincinnati.
" MCCURRIE, WEBER and Co. ... San Francisco.

ALL ORDERS SHOULD STATE

NOVELLO'S EDITIONS.

SOPRANO (Lady) WANTED for S. John's Church, Horselydown, S.E.—Full Choral Service morning and evening on Sunday, and Rehearsal on Wednesday evening. Stipend, £10. Competent volunteers, S., C., T., and B. also desired. Apply, after service or at rehearsal, to Mr. M. Budge, Choirmaster.

WANTED, a SOPRANO SINGER for All Hallows', Lombard Street. Must read well. Salary, £12 per year. Apply to the Organist after service on Sundays (morning or evening), or to Mr. T. Bensted, 6, Castle Terrace, Richmond.

SOPRANO (Lady) WANTED for the Choir of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Westbourne Grove Terrace, Westbourne Grove. Must have good strong voice and be accustomed to lead. Salary, £15. Two services on Sunday, and occasional practice if required. Address, by letter, Mr. Godfree, 29, Godolphin Road, Shepherd's Bush, W.

A GOOD LEADING BOY WANTED at S. John's, Torquay. Must have a good voice and be able to read music well. Board, lodging, education, pocket-money. Address, Organist, S. John's, Torquay.

WANTED, TWO TREBLES (Boys), with good Voices, from nine to twelve years of age. Must have a fair knowledge of music and reside within an easy distance of the City. Salary, £15 per annum. Apply personally or by letter to Mr. Burgess, 124, Long Acre, W.C.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE, TENBURY.—There will be a TRIAL of VOICES to fill TWO VACANCIES among the Choral Probationers, at 33, Great Pulteney Street, London, W., on Tuesday, July 24, at two o'clock. No boy over twelve years of age need apply. For particulars apply to Rev. John Hampton, St. Michael's, Tenbury.

S. PETER'S, STREATHAM, S.W.—A BOY, able to sing solos, is WANTED. Address, stating terms required, E. Agutter, Esq., M.B., Streatham Place, S.W.

BOY (SOPRANO) and SOLO BASS will shortly require an engagement in a Choir. Address, J. H., 11, South Lambeth Road, Vauxhall.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., General Printers.
Books, Newspapers, Illustrated Catalogues, Circulars, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Typographical Music
Printers. Hymnals, Books for Church Festivals, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Lithographic Music
Printers. Illustrated Titles, Engraving, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Colour Printers.
Show Cards, Labels, Almanacs, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Lithographic Printers.
Maps, Plans, Circulars, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO. are prepared to forward estimates for the above or any other variety of printing. Works—69 & 70, Dean Street, Soho, W.

GLOUCESTER CATHEDRAL.—A MINOR CANON will shortly be APPOINTED in this Cathedral. The annual stipend is £200. The Minor Canon must be in Priest's Orders, a Graduate of one of the Universities, and not more than thirty-five years of age. It is part of his duty to preach when required in the Cathedral. Candidates are requested to send testimonials, with particulars of age, degree, and present position, to G. Whitcombe, Esq., College Green, Gloucester, not later than July 31.

NEW COLLEGE CHOIR, OXFORD.—CHORISTERS WANTED. FOUR or FIVE VACANCIES will be filled up on TUESDAY, July 10. Candidates must be at the College at 10 a.m. None need apply who have not really good voices. Boys from 8 to 11 years of age preferred. Arrangements are made for receiving eight of the Choristers whose parents do not reside in Oxford as Boarders in the Schoolmaster's house. Further particulars can be obtained by applying, by letter, to the Precentor, C. E. Bickmore, Esq., New College, Oxford.

CHORAL SCHOLARSHIPS.—There are VACANCIES for BOYS with good voices in the choir of All Saints', Clifton. In return for their services they will receive £20 per annum towards their expenses in the Choir School, where an excellent education is given fitting them for professional or commercial pursuits. Apply, stating age, &c., to C. Bucknall, Esq., Organist, 5, Greenway Road, Redland, Bristol.

ALTOS and BASSES.—VOLUNTEERS are REQUIRED for a prominent West End Church, where there is a full Cathedral Service. Must be good readers and possessed of good voices. Address, O., care of Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street.

ALTO WANTED for the Surplined Choir of a West End Church. Stipend, £10. Address, E. R. T., Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ALTO and TENOR VOICES WANTED, for Surplined Choir in Kensington. Two Sunday services and week-day practice. Salary, £10 10s. Good voices and good readers indispensable. Address, Organist, 163, Piccadilly, W.

ALTO.—Good voice and reader; will take Sunday afternoon service for practice only, as deputy or otherwise. G., 31, Golden Square, W.

WELLS CATHEDRAL.—WANTED, for the Choir, TWO PERSONS, aged from 25 to 30, with good TENOR VOICES, experienced in Cathedral Music, and of good moral character. The candidates engaged will be required to attend and take their proper part in all the services of the Cathedral unless special leave of absence be given by the Dean and Chapter, and will be remunerated at the rate of £80 per annum each. If elected members of the College of Vicars they will have to attend and take their proper part in the services as above stated, and will participate in the divisible revenues of the College, with the prospect of having Vicars' houses assigned to them as vacancies arise. The Dean and Chapter will make up the income of each Vicar who fulfils his duties according to their regulations to £80 per annum by payments from the Chapter fund, if his share of the annual divisible revenues of the college shall not amount to that sum.

Applications, with testimonials as to ability and character, which latter will be an essential qualification, to be addressed, on or before the 15th day of July next, to Mr. Lavington, Cathedral Organist. Wells, June 20, 1877.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MADAME WORRELL-DUVAL (Soprano)

Begs to announce that all communications respecting Engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. should be addressed to 67, Knowle Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS AMY EMPSALL (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 17, Cliffe Terrace, Bradford.

MISS FLORENCE CLYDE (Soprano).

For Opera, Oratorio, and Concerts, 24, Watterton Road, W.

MRS. WARREN (Soprano).

Of Mr. C. Hallé's Concerts. For Oratorio or other Concerts, address, 150, Radnor Street, Hulme, Manchester.
Lessons in Singing. References—C. Hallé, Esq., and E. Hecht, Esq.

MRS. ALFRED J. SUTTON (Soprano)

Is open to engagements for Concerts and Oratorios.
54, Duchess Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MISS M. B. CRICHTON (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford.

MISS HOARE (Soprano)

(Pupil of Madame Sainton's Academy)

Requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. be addressed to 186, Finborough Road, South Kensington, W.

MISS RUTH HARLOW (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Mr. E. Hermann, Athenæum, Manchester.

MISS LOUISA BOWMONT (Contralto)

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 51, Mercer Street, Embden Street, Hulme.

MISS EMILY EMPSALL (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 16, High Street, Halifax.

C. A. WHITE (Tenor)

(Of the Royal Academy of Music).

For Concerts, Banquets, &c., 39, St. Thomas's Road, South Hackney.

MR. HERBERT SCUSE (Tenor Vocalist).

Permanent address, 13, Lucas Street, Rotherhithe.

MR. GREENHILL (Tenor).

7, Park Place, Regent's Park.

MR. WELBYE WALLACE (Tenor)

(Of the Crystal Palace, and Gentlemen's Concerts, Manchester, &c. &c.), having returned from abroad, is free to accept engagements for Concerts, Opera, or Oratorio. All communications to be addressed (care of) Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

MR. VERNEY BINNS (Tenor)

(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Sig. Ciro Pinsuti).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 65, King Cross Street, Halifax.

MR. DUNCAN FINLAY (Tenor).

Opera, Oratorio, and Concert Party, 24, Watterton Road, W.

MR. GEORGE CLEVELAND (Baritone).

For Concerts, Pupils, &c., 21, Artesian Road, Bayswater, W.

MR. CHARLES SEYMOUR (Bass)

(Pupil of T. A. Wallworth, Esq.)

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Snells Park, Edmonton.

MR. A. MCCALL (Bass).

For Oratorios and Concerts, address, Minster, York.

MR. RICKARD (Bass)

(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Signor Ciro Pinsuti).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address, King Cross, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MR. THORNTON WOOD (Bass)

(Of the Royal Albert Hall Concerts). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford, Yorkshire.

ALBERT E. BISHOP

(Organ, Harmony, and Counterpoint).
Address, 26, Wilson Street, E.C.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE, TENBURY.—

There is a VACANCY in the Choir for an ALTO (adult male).
For particulars apply to Rev. John Hampton, St. Michael's, Tenbury.

LEADING TENOR and SOLOIST WANTED for St. John's Episcopal Church, Edinburgh. Salary about £25, according to qualifications. Apply to Mr. Webb, 6, Castle Street, Edinburgh.

WANTED, for St. James's, Clapton, a CHOIR-MASTER (TENOR), who can lead the choir on Sundays. Remuneration, 20 guineas. Also an ALTO VOICE required. Address, the Vicar, St. James's Vicarage, Clapton.

PETERBOROUGH CATHEDRAL.—A TENOR

LAY CLERK WANTED. Statutable salary, with allowances, £70 per annum. Applications to be sent in immediately, under cover to H. P. Gates, Esq., Chapter Clerk, Peterborough.

TENORS WANTED for the Church of St. John

Baptist, Cleveland Road, N. Full Choral Service. Stipend according to merit. Apply to the Organist, at the Church, on Wednesday evenings, at 8.30.

CITY CHURCH CHOIR.—There is a VACANCY

for a TENOR VOICE in the Choir of St. Alphege, London Wall. The duties comprise two services on Sunday and a rehearsal on Thursday evening. Service, full choral. Salary, £10 per annum. Candidates must be well up in Church music and be able to read fairly at sight. Address, with testimonials or references, Organist, care of Messrs. Knight and Co., 3, Abchurch Lane, E.C.

TENOR and BOYS' VOICES WANTED. Must be able to read. Surplised paid choir. Apply at St. Mary-at-Hill Church, Eastcheap, City, on Sundays; or by letter to A. B. Burlington House, Whitton, Middlesex.

TENOR and BASS WANTED for a Church Choir.

Must be competent to take solos. Stipend, £15. Write, stating qualifications, to Veritas, care of Messrs. Novello and Co., Queen Street, City.

TENOR WANTED.—Good reader; communicant; good Churchman. Gregorian psalter; state salary. Precentor, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., Queen Street, E.C.

BASS.—An appointment WANTED by advertiser as PRINCIPAL BASS in a Church Choir, within easy access of the City. Gregorians objected to. Advertiser would also be glad to join a Concert or Operetta Party. Address, M. D., 63, Chatterton Road, Blackstock Road, near Finsbury Park.

BASSES (TWO) desire RE-ENGAGEMENTS.

Excellent testimonials. Address, W. C. H., 18, Brunswick Street, Barnsbury, N.

ORGANIST.—A Gentleman, who will be shortly disengaged, DESIRES a RE-ENGAGEMENT. Salary, £40. Good testimonials and references. R. G., 26, Marlborough Road, S.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Professional

Gentleman requires a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above, or to deputize. Address, H. J. Dean, 2, Blomfield Street, Finsbury, E.C.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—Mr. ALEX-

ANDER COOPER begs to announce that he is open to an ENGAGEMENT in or near London. A good organ and choral service desired. The highest testimonials and references. Address, care of Messrs. Novello.

TO ORGANISTS, CLERGYMEN, &c.—A Gentleman is OPEN to ENGAGEMENTS as DEPUTY. Town or Country. Organist, care of Wensley and Wensley, 181, Fleet Street.

ORGANIST.—A Gentleman, well qualified, seeks the HONORARY APPOINTMENT of ASSISTANT ORGANIST. Address, X. Y. Z., La Andalusia Club, Bishopsgate Street, E.C.

TO ORGANISTS.—SUNDAY or WEEK-DAY

DUTY WANTED, from August 1 to September 13. Near London. Address, W. H. Williamson, Chardstock College, Chard.

ORGANIST DESIRES RE-ENGAGEMENT in LONDON. N. or N.W. preferred. Good reference. Address, W. F., 57, Clarendon Square, Euston Road, N.W.

AS MUSIC-MASTER and ORGANIST in a

School or College, WANTED an ENGAGEMENT. M. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AN Experienced ORGANIST and CHOIR-

MASTER (with high testimonials as to Character and Ability), having resigned his present engagement, is desirous of a similar APPOINTMENT. In or near London preferred. Address, J. T., care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AN ORGANIST is open for EVENING SERVICE.

Address, Quis, Messrs. Novello and Co., 80 & 81, Queen Street, E.C.

AN ORGANIST of a London church seeks an APPOINTMENT in the country. Fifteen years' experience, and possesses high testimonials. Address, E. W., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST.—WANTED an ORGANISTSHIP, by a Gentleman (pupil of C. S. Jekyll) in or near London; three years' experience as deputy. Salary not so much an object as good organ. A. B. C., Messrs. Novello and Co., 80 & 81, Queen Street, Cheapside.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for Village Church; communicant desired. Stipend, £40. Two manuals. Hon. and Rev. F. Dutton, Bibury Vicarage, Fairford.

ORGANISTS visiting Ilfracombe from the middle of July to the end of August will oblige by communicating with the Choirmaster, SS. Philip and James, Ilfracombe.

AN ORGANIST (Mus. B., Cantab.) DESIRES RE-ENGAGEMENT in London, where the duty does not exceed one weekly practice in addition to services on Sundays, Christmas Day, Ascension Day, &c. Liberal salary required. Highest references, including Sir George Elvey, &c. Address, L. J., care of Messrs. Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

AN ORGANIST IS REQUIRED during the months of JULY, AUGUST, and SEPTEMBER for a small parish church in Dorsetshire, two miles and a half from a railway station and market-town. Three plain services on Sunday. The organ has pedal notes and only one manual. The salary at the rate of £40 per annum. Apply to the Hon. and Rev. P. Willoughby, Dorsetton, Blandford.

ORGANIST.—WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIR CONDUCTOR. Duties to commence about September next. Applications, stating salary required, to be addressed to the Secretary, Presbyterian Church of England, Grosvenor Road, Highbury New Park, N.

WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for St. John's Church, Kidderminster. Daily Choral Evensong. Salary, £60. Applications to Vicar by July 10. If no reply by July 17, please to consider an appointment made.

ORGANIST WANTED for Greville Place Congregational Church, St. John's Wood. Two services and choir practice. Salary, £20. Apply, G. P. C., 7, Maida Hill West, W.

ASSISTANT ORGANIST (Voluntary) WANTED. Large organ. Congregationalist preferred. Address, Messrs. Novello and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

TO ORGANISTS.—REQUIRED, an ORGANIST for the Congregational Church, Eastbourne. Must be competent to train choir. Apply by letter: (immediately), stating salary, references, &c., to Psalmody Committee, care of M. B. Clift, Piano-forte Saloon, Eastbourne.

CATHOLIC ORGANIST REQUIRES DEPUTY for simple High Mass on about twelve occasions in the year, not being Sundays. Address, stating terms, C. Z., care of Davies and Co., Advertising Agents, Finch Lane, Cornhill.

WANTED, an ORGANIST for the Parish Church of Tottenhall, Staffordshire. Salary, £50. Good neighbourhood for tuition. Letters and testimonials to be addressed to the Rev. Albert van Straubenzee, the Vicarage.

WANTED, for an important Girls' School, a MUSIC GOVERNESS, age from 30 to 40. She must be thoroughly competent to prepare pupils for the Oxford Local Examination, and must produce testimonials from some musical professor. All particulars can be ascertained by addressing M. G. B., care of Messrs. Kelly and Co., 23, King Street, Parliament Street, S.W.

TO LADY PROFESSORS OF MUSIC.—A Lady well known in the musical world is about to retire from the profession, and WISHES to INTRODUCE a well-educated Gentlewoman to her pupils. Successor must be certificated, and thoroughly competent to teach Advanced Piano-forte pupils and Theory classes. (Singing advisable.) Small premium required. Harmonia, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

THE ORGANIST OF S. JOHN'S, Torquay, can receive into his house a young gentleman who is desirous to fit himself for entering the musical profession. Daily Choral Services. Large four-manual organ. A premium required, except in the case of a gentleman with a good tenor voice.

TO MUSICAL AGENTS and CONCERT-TOURING PARTIES.—A Gentleman, an eminent pianist (pronounced by the Press), will arrive in London in the beginning of August, and will be happy to give his services in order to fill up time for seven weeks. Répertoire, 30 pieces from memory. Is also a good accompanist. Hotel and travelling expenses must be paid. Address, A. B. C., care of Ashdown and Parry, 18, Hanover Square, Regent Street, London.

A GRADUATE (Mus. Bac., Oxon., and L. Mus., T.C.L.), PROFESSOR in a well-known London COLLEGE, and a former EXAMINER, is willing to undertake the TUITION of a limited number of PUPILS, by post or otherwise, in preparation for the various MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS. Special preparation also for the previous arts or literary tests now in force at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and Trinity College, London. Address, Graduate, care of Mr. W. Reeves, 185, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

PIANO, HARMONY, and CLASS-SINGING LESSONS, by C. STIEBLER COOK, Associate of the Royal Academy of Music, five years Music and Choir Master at Uppingham School. Terms moderate. Schools attended. 17, Keppel Street, Russell Square.

LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, &c. given by post. Musical compositions revised and corrected, and candidates prepared for examinations by E. W. Healey, Mus. Bac., Oxon., 78, Coltman Street, Hull.

MR. E. W. TAYLOR, Mus. Bac., Oxon., &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for Musical Examinations; also gives lessons in Harmony, Counterpoint, &c. by post. Talbot Road, Stafford.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

Incorporated by Special Charter.

The EXAMINATIONS for the DIPLOMAS and CERTIFICATES respectively of Licentiate, Associate, and Student in Music of Trinity College will commence at 10 a.m. on FRIDAY, July 6, at the College, and also at the Manchester Branch, 18, St. Ann's Street, Manchester. Candidates are requested to apply immediately to the undersigned, stating the centre at which they desire to attend. The printed regulations are included in the Calendar, price 1s. 6d., published by Mr. W. Reeves, 185, Fleet Street, London, or may be had separately on application to the Registrar.

HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. B., Hon. Registrar.
Trinity College, 61, Weymouth Street, London, W.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.—HONORARY MEMBERS.—A further ELECTION will shortly take place at the College, 61, Weymouth Street. Copies of the Regulations as to the Election, Privileges, &c. of Hon. Members may be had of the undersigned.

J. W. HINTON, M.A., Mus. D., Hon. Sec.
61, Weymouth Street, London, W.

MUSICAL DEGREES and EXAMINATIONS.—J. W. HINTON, Mus. Doc., M.A., Trinity College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W., prepares candidates for Mus. B. or Mus. D., of Oxford, Cambridge, or Dublin, in all branches they may require. Dr. H. continues to revise or orchestrate for composers. Harmony and Counterpoint by post if required.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK receives PUPILS for HARMONY and COMPOSITION at 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W. For information as to days of attendance, terms, &c., address as above, or 5, Park Avenue Villas, Lower Norwood, S.E.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK begs to announce that he has REMOVED to 5, PARK AVENUE VILLAS, LOWER NORWOOD, S.E., where all communications should in future be addressed. Town pupils received at Trinity College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK has a VACANCY for a RESIDENT ARTICLED PUPIL. 5, Park Avenue Villas, Lower Norwood, S.E.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. B., Oxon., F.C.O., L. Mus., and Hon. Registrar of Trinity College, London, undertakes to prepare candidates for Musical Examinations, and to give Lessons in Harmony and Composition by post. 5, Park Avenue Villas, Lower Norwood, S.E.; or 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W.

DR. SLOMAN gives LESSONS to CANDIDATES preparing for Musical Degrees. Grassendale, West Dulwich, S.E.

A GENTLEMAN is desirous of giving LESSONS by post in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. References from present pupils if desired. Terms very moderate. Address Magister, Musical Times Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.

THE ORGANIST OF RIPON CATHEDRAL teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Correspondence. For terms, address, Edwin J. Crow, Mus. Bac., Cantab.

MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS.—CANDIDATES TRAINED for Examinations, either personally or by correspondence. Dr. Holloway, F.C.O., 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

TO COMPOSERS.—Dr. HOLLOWAY continues to Revise and Arrange every description of Music for Publication. Students prepared for the profession or for examinations. If residing at a distance, lessons can be had by post. Faults pointed out, and every information given to the young aspirant. Dr. Holloway, 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST begs to inform his pupils and friends that he has REMOVED to 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N. Red trams direct from Moorgate Street. Nearest station, Rectory Road.

MR. BERTHOLD TOURS begs to announce that he has REMOVED to 2, Inverness Terrace, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

MR. GEORGE CLEVELAND begs to inform his pupils and friends that he has REMOVED to 27, Artesian Road, Bayswater, W.—Pupils for Piano and Singing.

MR. HENRY J. SOUTH, Organist of St. Matthias, Richmond, has REMOVED to No. 8, Dynevor Place, Richmond Hill. All letters to be addressed as above.

MR. and MADAME BODDA (late Miss Louisa Pyne) beg to inform the Musical Profession and the Public that Mr. HARRY WALL is NO LONGER their AGENT, and all future communications respecting Fees for Operas, &c. are to be made to Messrs. Walter Jarvis and Triscott, Solicitors, 22, Chancery Lane, London.

MADAME MUDIE - BOLINGBROKE (Miss Bolingbroke) requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. be addressed, 12, Gower Street, W.C.

MRS. OSGOOD requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts may be addressed to Mr. N. Vert, 52, New Bond Street, W.

LADIES' SCHOOL, KETTERING.—Principal, MISS BLUNT; Piano, Harmonium, and Singing, Mr. Brook Sampson, Mus. Bac., Oxon. The Pupils will RE-ASSEMBLE (p.v.) on FRIDAY, July 27. A vacancy for an Articled Pupil.

A CITY GENTLEMAN, Student of the Organ and of Music generally, is OFFERED RESIDENCE, with partial board and use of large three-manual (34-stop) Organ blown by machinery, various musical instruments, including pianos, and extensive musical library. Rare occasion for study and concerted practice. Address, F. B., care of Davies and Co., Advertising Agents, Finch Lane, Cornhill.

EXCHANGE of RESIDENCES WANTED for Four or Five Weeks, from August 1. Close to Crystal Palace. Seaside preferred. Large house; plate, linen, and one servant left. Address, A. B., W. G. Halifax and Co., 315, Oxford Street, W.

TO CLERGYMEN of RURAL PARISHES.—The Advertiser will be glad to hear of any rural neighbourhood in which there is a fair opportunity of commencing a MIDDLE-CLASS ELEMENTARY SCHOOL for BOYS and an Opening for Music Teaching, either instrumental or vocal. Has had considerable experience. He will be willing to assist in the musical services of the church as Organist or Choirmaster. Address, Inquirer, care of Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO AMATEUR COMPOSERS.—MSS. REVISED for PUBLICATION, and Lessons in Composition, by post, by W. H. GILL, Sidcup, Kent.

ORGAN PRACTICE (with or without Lessons) on an excellent instrument of three manuals and pedals by Messrs. Jardine and Co., at Mr. E. Hilton's Studio, Royal Exchange, Manchester. (Top of staircase, corner of Cross Street and Bank Street.) Organ, Pianoforte, and Singing Lessons.

ORGAN LESSONS and PRACTICE on a fine new Instrument, with 2 manuals, 15 stops, 2½ octaves of pedals, with bourdons throughout. Terms moderate. Allen's Musical Instrument Warehouse, 17, Percy Street, Bedford Square, W. Lessons and Practice on other Instruments also.

ORGAN PRACTICE or INSTRUCTION.—Three Manuals, each of 56 notes, pedal organ, 30 notes, 17 effective stops, and blown by Lea's Automatic Hydraulic Engine. Terms, which are strictly inclusive, on application at Blennerhasset's Organ School and Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, Pentonville, W.C.

ORGAN STUDIO, 140 (late 166), STRAND (opposite the Gaity).—LESSONS or PRACTICE (and at St. Michael's, Stockwell, S.W.) on fine two-manual C ORGANS (HILL and SON).—Full pedal compass.—W. VENNING SOUTH-GATE (Organist, St. Michael's, Stockwell), "The Strand Organ Studio," W.C. Established, 1867.

MR. STEDMAN'S CONCERT PARTIES for Oratorio and Miscellaneous Concerts, Institutions, Evening Parties, Soirées, &c. &c.

MADE UP FROM THE MOST EMINENT ARTISTS, AND INCLUDING: Miss Annie Sinclair, Miss Anna Williams, Miss Mary Davies, Miss Matilda Scott, Mdme. Worrell-Duval, Miss Jessie Royd, Mdme. Hugo, Mdme. Poole, Miss Helen D'Alton, Miss Annie Butterworth, Miss Helen Arnim, Miss Dones, Miss Gill, Mdme. Osborne Williams, Mr. Stedman, Mr. Kenningham, Mr. Charles Beckett, Mr. J. L. Wadmore, Mr. George Fox, Mr. Thurlay Beale, Mr. King Hall, Mr. Russell Lochner, Mr. Henry Parker, &c. &c.

THE STANDARD QUARTETT.—Messrs. Hodges, Stedman, Charles Beckett, and Thurlay Beale. For terms and particulars address, Mr. STEDMAN, 1, Berners Street, W.

ESTABLISHED, APRIL 1866.
THE ENGLISH GLEE UNION.
Mr. H. ASHTON, Mr. F. H. COZENS,
Mr. FOUNTAIN MEEN, Mr. ALBERT HUBBARD,

ASSISTED BY
Madame ASHTON.
For terms, &c., address, H. Ashton, Secretary, Ivy House, Stamford Hill, London, N.

WANTED, a SITUATION as TUNER, by a Respectable Young Man. Been in one of the principal London factories, and tunes well. Could also assist in a shop. Apply to H. G., care of Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO PIANOFORTE and MUSIC SELLERS.—WANTED, SITUATION as ASSISTANT and TUNER, with view to partnership or eventually taking the business. Advertiser has had considerable experience in first-class London house, is good pianist, or could officiate as organist. Capital. T. W., Stokes's Library, 65, Newington Green Road, N.

PIANOFORTE TUNER SEEKS an ENGAGEMENT. Permanency desired. Has a knowledge of Harmoniums. Address, F., Post-Office, Edinburgh.

PIANOFORTE TUNER.—A first-class TUNER (from Messrs. Cramer and Co.) would be glad of an ENGAGEMENT. London preferred. Address, T. D., 2, Denmark Street, Islington, N.

A FIRST-CLASS REPAIRER of PIANOFORTES, AMERICAN ORGANS, HARMONIUMS, &c., wishes an ENGAGEMENT. Can also Tune. Address, G. R., W. Sprague Music Warehouse, 7, Finsbury Pavement, E.C.

A Young Lady wishes for a RE-ENGAGEMENT in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE or FANCY REPOSITORY. Good pianist and reader at sight. Address, M. L. N., 134, Great Dover Street, Borough.

WANTED, a SITUATION as ASSISTANT in a MUSIC BUSINESS. Age 23. Good knowledge of organ and pianoforte. Can teach and tune. Small salary. Indoors preferred. Address, H. C., Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

COUNTRY TUNER WANTED.—Must have a knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums. Wages, 50s. per week and a commission. Age not less than 25. Permanent situation for a good man. Five other tuners kept. Address, M. P., care of Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED, at Michaelmas, for the Country, with a knowledge of Repairing and Harmonium Tuning. Good references indispensable. Apply, stating particulars of age, experience, and salary required, to G. M., care of Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER WANTED, with a knowledge of Repairing and Harmonium work. Good references indispensable. Thompson and Shackell, 14, High Street, Swansea.

WANTED, a TUNER and REPAIRER of PIANOS and HARMONIUMS. Apply, stating salary and references, to E. Henry and Co., Musicians, Manchester.

WANTED, a Steady Young Man as an ASSISTANT to a MUSICSELLER in the Midland Counties. A good pianist and one who can tune will be preferred. Address, "Musical Assistant for the Country," care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer, and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

WANTED, a BOY for a PIANOFORTE and MUSIC WAREHOUSE. A good opportunity for learning the Music Trade, Pianoforte, Organ, Tuning, &c. Address G. B. Goddard, Pianoforte and Music Warehouse, 1, Devonshire Colonnade, Buxton.

WANTED, HOPKINS and RIMBAULT'S WORK on "THE ORGAN." New or in good condition. Organist, St. Peter's, East Bridgford, Notts.

TO ORGAN-BUILDERS.—WANTED first-class WORKMEN (inside hands). Apply to Mr. J. Porritt, Organ-Builders, Leicester.

EAST LONDON ORGAN WORKS, 9, Burdett Road, Mile End, E.—E. CARMER is prepared to send Specifications for building Organs of very superior materials and workmanship. Alterations, rebuilding, and repairs. First-class workmen sent to all parts on very moderate terms. Tuning, &c. Second-hand ORGANS for SALE.

ORGANS for Church or Chamber, full rich tone, from 35 guineas. ORGAN HARMONIUMS, with 1 or 2 manuals, full compass of pedals, from 25 to 54 guineas, invaluable for Teaching or Organ Practice. SPRAGUE'S Celebrated ORGAN-TONE HARMONIUMS, 6 guineas; best in the trade.—William Sprague, 7, Finsbury Pavement, London.

A. MONK'S 100-Guinea ORGANS, 2 CC Manuals, Bourdon pedal pipes, 10 stops. 200-guinea Organs, 2 manuals, 16 stops. 300-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 21 stops. 400-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 27 stops. Organs built to any design. Old Organs rebuilt. Additions, Repairs, Tunings, &c. Specifications and Estimates free. Sussex Terrace, King's Road, Camden Town, London.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Secondhand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minories, London.

STUTTGART HARMONIUM COMPANY.—LEOPOLD KAHN, Stuttgart, Germany. Price Lists on application to ALPHONSE CARY, Sole Representative, 26, Fortress Terrace, Kentish Town, N.W.; close to Kentish Town Station. Inspection solicited.

T. R. WILLIS (established, 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c. 29, Minories, London. List for stamp.

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.'S

CELEBRATED

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS

UNEQUALLED BY ANY OTHER MAKERS.

These ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS stand FIRST among any such instruments for

QUALITY OF TONE, DURABILITY, RAPIDITY OF TOUCH,
PREDOMINANCE OF THE TREBLE OVER THE BASS,
PERFECT ACTION,
BRILLIANCY OF THE SOLO STOPS, NEWLY INVENTED
DOUBLE ACTION, SOLID IMPROVED SOUND-BOARD,
AND DOUBLE EFFECTIVE SWELLS.

List of Prices and Books of Designs, and upwards of 300 Testimonials from all parts of the globe, to be had post-free.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.,

10, 12, & 14, Bow Street, Sheffield.

N.B.—These Harmoniums are 20 per cent cheaper than any other house, and a far superior tone.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium gives the greatest satisfaction, and is really the best instrument I have fallen in with.—Yours truly,
W. P. M. SLATER.

39, Franklin Street, South Shields, May 6, 1876.

GENTLEMEN,—By a mistake in the address the Harmonium was left at a wayside station, so that I did not get it here till last night; however, it is uninjured and gives me every satisfaction. Its tone and workmanship are admirable, and in rapidity of touch it is quite equal to a large Alexandre Percussion instrument, on which I sometimes play. I shall always be glad to recommend your Harmoniums.—Believe me, faithfully yours,

W. F. ASHBRIDGE, M.A., Curate of Bessingby.

Bessingby Road, Bridlington, Dec. 15, 1876.

Mr. J. M. Boulard, Manager of the Alleghanians, Vocalists and Bell Players.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium you made for me in travelling case answers our purpose exceedingly well, and my company are all delighted with it.—Yours truly,
J. M. BOULARD.

Sept. 16, 1876.

GENTLEMEN,—Kindly find cheque for the Harmonium to hand. I may add that our people are very much pleased with the instrument. It is a little gem.—Yours faithfully,
J. W. H. WOOD.
Shirland and Higham School Board, Shirland, near Alfreton,
Feb. 2, 1877.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium arrived here yesterday. I am much pleased with it, and it is a very pretty, nice-looking instrument.—Yours truly,
DAVID BRUCE.
Merrington Vicarage, Terry Hill, Dec. 10, 1875.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium arrived here in capital condition last week. I am very pleased with it. The tone is exceedingly sweet and pleasing. All who have seen it here like it very much.—Yours faithfully,
H. R. HOLME.
Montserrat, West Indies, Aug. 11, 1876.

VERTICAL IRON FRAME PIANOFORTES.—

STRUNG UPON A SINGLE CASTING.

CHECK ACTION. Trichord to Covered Strings.

Compensating for thermometric changes. Irreproachable stability of construction. Highly important to the Trade, especially in the Colonies.

Full particulars from the makers, PARKER & SMITH, Plymouth.
Good Workmen Wanted. Constant employment. Expense of living 20 per cent. less than in London.

SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS.—New Model

by Kaps, of Dresden.—This instrument is an improvement on the original Short Grand now so well known. The volume and brilliancy of tone is much increased; it has an unfailling repetition action, and will compare favourably with much larger and more costly instruments. May be purchased wholesale and retail or hired at the original Depot, 26, North Audley Street, W. Proprietor, C. E. FLAVELL.

DEAN'S CHEAP MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.—

School Band Flutes, from 3s. 6d.; 8-Key Concert Flutes, 25s.; Cornets, in case, 30s.; Drums, Tambourines, Banjos, and every article in the trade. A good Violin, with Bow and Book, in case, 20s. English, Roman, and Acribelle Violin Strings—5 English firsts, warranted to stand at concert pitch, sent free for 13 stamps. Joseph Dean, Music Warehouse, 77, City Road, E.C. Established, 1843. Price lists sent free.

CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.

NOTICE.

A PRIZE MEDAL of the FIRST RANK was awarded at Philadelphia, 1876, to

PELOUBET, PELTON & Co.,

NEW YORK,

FOR THE GENERAL EXCELLENCE OF THEIR

“STANDARD”

AMERICAN ORGANS.

PRICES, 12 TO 125 GUINEAS.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE to be had on application to

BARNETT SAMUEL & SON,

31, HOUNDSDITCH, E.C., & 32, WORSHIP STREET,
FINSBURY SQUARE,

Sole Agents for the United Kingdom and British Colonies.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT ALLOWED TO THE TRADE.

LONDON AGENTS,

MESSRS. MOUTRIE AND SON,

PIANOFORTE SALOON,

55, BAKER STREET, LONDON, W.

MR. J. HAMILTON begs to inform Organists, Organ Students, and others that the Pedals and Action for attachment to Pianofortes manufactured by him can be inspected and ordered at the above address.

A set of Straight Pedals 30 notes (C to F), with action and printed instructions, “How to Attach,” price £4 4s. Or Radiating and Concave Pedal Board, with action, price £5 5s.

TESTIMONIAL.

“148, Finborough Road, South Kensington, London, March 12, 1877.”

“Dear Sir,—After more than six months’ test of the Pedals and Action I purchased of you, you will be glad to hear that they act admirably; their noiseless action and simple attachment being not their least recommendation.

“I am, dear sir, yours faithfully,

“ALFRED J. WHITEHOUSE,

“Organist of Belgrave Church, Belgravia.”

“To Mr. J. Hamilton, Bristol.”

Orders accompanied with Cheque or P.O. Order will receive immediate attention. Send for prices to the Profession and Trade.
Address, J. HAMILTON, 11, Brunswick Street, City Road, Bristol.

HIGHEST CLASS OF EXCELLENCE.

MILLEREAU'S BAND INSTRUMENTS

FOR ARTISTS.

BOEHM AND ENGLISH CLARINETS, CONSERVATOIRE AND BOEHM OBOES, CORNET-A-PISTONS, CYLINDRICAL BOEHM FLUTES, &c.

Priced Catalogue and Designs free to any part of the world.

PARIS, 29, RUE DES TROIS BORNES. FRANCE.

BRASS, REED, STRING, and DRUM and PIPE BANDS, PIANOFORTES and HARMONIUMS, supplied at wholesale prices, at J. MOORE'S, Buxton Road, Huddersfield. Prices, with drawings of every instrument, post-free. Music for any kind of band. Patronised by the army, navy, and rifle corps.

RUSSELL'S MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

CONCERTINAS, Harmoniums, Organ Accordions, Flutinas, Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Violins, Cornets, Saxhorns, Clarionets, Flageolets, Guitars, Banjos, Musical Boxes, Strings, &c. Self-instruction Books. Instruments repaired or exchanged. Price Lists free. J. Russell, 158, Goswell Road, Clerkenwell, London.

12S. WORTH OF MUSIC for One Shilling, post-free for fifteen stamps, soiled and surplus stock.
James Smith and Son, 76, 74, and 72, Lord Street, Liverpool.

DEBAIN'S HARMONIUMS, ORGANO-PHONES, PIANOS, &c. &c. New lists are now ready, and will be forwarded, post-free, on receipt of card. Debain & Co., 357, Oxford Street, London, W.

HARMONIUMS of every description, with one or two Manuals and Pedals, made to order to any design. Pedal Attachment to ordinary instruments. Alterations and additions. Parts and fittings to any pattern. A. Roberts, Saxon Street, Long Lane, Bermondsey.

ACCURATE METRONOMES, IS., post-free. Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing Class Tutor, 12th ed., 6d. each. D. Scholefield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

QUARTERLY SALE OF MUSICAL PROPERTY.
125 PIANOFORTES, consisting of Grands, Semi-Grands, Cottages, and Obliques, in handsome walnut, rosewood, and mahogany cases, by Broadwood, Collard, Kirlman, Erard, Allison, Cramer, Wornum, &c. &c.; Alexandre Organs, in resonant cases; Harmoniums, by Alexandre, Christophe, Hermann, &c.; a capital Barrel Organ by Bryceson, playing nearly 50 airs; Violins, &c.; Watches, Rings, modern Sheet Music, sundries, &c., which will be SOLD BY AUCTION, by Messrs. KELLY and CO., at their Great Musical Repository, 11, Charles Street, Berners Street, Oxford Street, on WEDNESDAY, July 4, 1877, commencing at 12 o'clock precisely. The goods may be viewed the day previous and morning of sale, and catalogues post-free on application.

N.B.—The above will offer most unusual advantages to merchants, shippers, the trade, auctioneers, schools, public institutions, and the general public in search of musical instruments, as a great quantity must be sold without reserve.

SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES.—150 by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, Allison, &c., from 4 guineas upwards. HARMONIUMS (New), from £5, in Walnut or Mahogany cases. Largest stock of Pianos and Harmoniums in London at Kelly and Co.'s, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital. Trade supplied.

TO SELL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS of every description, also Libraries of Music, Music Plates and Copyrights, Stock-in-Trade, &c., SALE (devoted exclusively to this class of property) held every month. Single instruments inserted. Consignments received at any time. Puttick and Simpson, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C. [Established, 1794.]

ORCHESTRA FITTINGS.—A SET of 12 cast-iron ORCHESTRA STANDS and 45 STOOLS, cane bottomed, with other fittings for an orchestra, to be SOLD. Apply to Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

VIOLINS, TENORS, VIOLONCELLOS, and DOUBLE BASSES, by "Craske," equal to Stradivarius and Guarnerius.

Upwards of 500 of these splendid Instruments now on Sale at Edward Crompton's, 54, Barton Arcade, Deansgate, Manchester (3rd floor), many of which have been made 50 years. Also a large collection of Italian Instruments.

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, VIOLONCELLOS, &c.—JOHNSON HICKS, Dealer in, and careful Repairer of, "CREMONA" and other Violins, &c.—Brunswick House, Torquay, Devon.

W. G. HALLIFAX & CO., 315, Oxford Street, W. ENGRAVE and PRINT AUTHORS' WORKS, at the lowest possible cost, and introduce them. Estimates by return of post.

MUSIC ENGRAVED, PRINTED, AND PUBLISHED in the best style, and on moderate terms, a statement of which sent on application by B. Williams, 60, Paternoster Row.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest varied stock of Music in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day, or if in stock posted immediately if required. Terms highly advantageous.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

THROAT IRRITATION.—The throat and wind-pipe are especially liable to inflammation, causing soreness and dryness, tickling and irritation, inducing cough and affecting the voice. For these symptoms use glycerine in the form of jubes. Glycerine, in these agreeable confections, being in proximity to the glands at the moment they are excited by the act of sucking, becomes actively healing. Sold only in 6d. and 1s. boxes (by post for 14 stamps), labelled JAMES EPPS & Co., Homeopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle Street, and 170, Piccadilly.

ORGAN for SALE, suitable for a chamber or small church, built by Bryceson, with two manuals, two octaves of foot pedals, two composition pedals, a 16-ft. bourdon; several stops on both manuals. Full particulars on application to Mrs. Rawnsley, Raithby Hall, Spilsby, Lincolnshire.

ORGAN for SALE.—Two manuals, both CC to F; pedal bourdon; 14 stops; height, 10 ft. 6 in. Price, £90. For particulars apply, Mr. Chappell, West Court, Church End, Finchley, N.

ORGAN for SALE. A Bargain. Two manuals, CC to F, 12 stops; swell tenor, C to F, 6 stops; 2 octave pedals; 16 feet open pipes, gilt speaking front. All in good condition, and suitable for large church or chapel. Price, if sold at once, £125. H. B. Fluck, Northgate, Gloucester.

ORGAN (CC) for SALE; 3 rows of keys, and pedals; 31 stops, &c. For particulars and price apply to Mr. T. S. Jones, Organ Builder, 25, Pentonville Road, N.

ORGAN for SALE, in good condition; 5 stops, 2 octaves, pedals; oak case. Price £30. Also, Student's Practising Organ; 2 stops and pedals. Price £15. Apply, Mr. Barker, Organ Builder, Croxley Green, Rickmansworth.

ORGAN FOR SALE.—CC, 6 stops, German pedals. In good condition. To be sold cheap. D. E., 56, Queen's Row, Walworth Road, S.E.

FOR SALE.—An ORGAN with three complete manuals, compass CC to G, and independent pedal Organ, full compass, 28 stops, of modern design with all latest improvements, nearly new. Suitable for large place of worship; space required, a bargain. Apply to W. E. Richardson, 63, Chorlton Road, Manchester.

ORGAN for SALE.—Four stops, 2 octaves of pedals. S. Fowler, Organ Pipe Manufacturer (Voicing and Tuning), 127, Pentonville Road, N.

ORGAN.—Church ORGAN, consisting of two complete manuals, 14 stops, and separate pedal pipes, inclosed in a substantial deal case, with speaking front pipes diapered. Price £150. J. Grover, 82, Norfolk Terrace, Westbourne Grove, London, W.

ORGAN HYDRAULIC ENGINE, by Forrester: brass-lined cylinders, metre, &c., with necessary extra blowing gear by Forster and Andrews, two years in use; for SALE owing to alterations in church. Price £25. Cost £45. Apply to Rev. Dr. Bailey, Rochester.

FOR SALE, ORGAN HARMONIUM.—Eight rows of reeds; two manuals, CC to C; Pedals, CCC to F; great, 9 stops; swell, 8 stops; 2 couplers; bourdon pedal; pipes quite new. Must be sold. Apply, stating time, to G. K., 73, Knapp Road, Campbell Road, Bow, E.

ALEXANDRE HARMONIUM. Percussion action, pianoforte model, in handsome rosewood case, glass front, 2 rows of reeds, fine tone. Price 20 guineas. H. H., 19, Buxton Road, Stratford, Essex.

HARMONIUM for SALE. Organ tone, 5 stops. By Snell. Price £5; a bargain. H. Fay, 50, Church Street, Stoke Newington.

£100 or REASONABLE OFFER.—To be SOLD, a sweet-toned HARMONIUM, by Alexandre. Handsome polished walnut case; 9 rows of reeds; two manuals 31 stops; 24 octaves of pedals, and foot and hand blower. Suitable for church, chapel, or mansion. Original price, 200 guineas. May be seen at Benjamin Scott and Son's Pianoforte Warehouse, 18 and 20, Devonshire Street, Carlisle.

OBLIQUE PIANO, by John Brinsmead and Sons. Seven octaves, trichord, in a magnificent walnut case, with the Patent Check Repeater Action. Very nearly new. To be SOLD, a GREAT BARGAIN. For design and further particulars, apply to Mr. B., 39, Oseney Crescent, Camden Road, London, N.W.

PIANOFORTE.—Great Bargain.—A beautifully toned 7-octave Trichord Cottage; 3 pedals; fullest compass; superb piano for any professional. At 46, Camden Road (Railway Station).

PIANOFORTES.—Great Sacrifice, for less than half—viz. £10, £13, and £15, superb FULL COTTAGES, Trichord throughout. All for immediate cash. On view at Messrs. Robinson's, 15, Dalston Lane, N.

FOR SALE, a DOUBLE-BASS VIOLONCELLO. Full score of the Messiah, Orchestral Parts of Handel's Concertos, Overtures, and other music. For price, address Mr. O. N. Wyatt, South Street, Chichester.

ON SALE, a BANKS'S VIOLONCELLO and an ITALIAN VIOLIN. For price apply, with inclosed stamped envelope, to William Williamson, Hatter, &c., Wellingborough.

DOUBLE BASS on SALE, cheap. Late the Property of a Professional. Price £7. R. Croger, 184, White-chapel Road, London.

BEETHOVEN'S SONATAS

(NEW AND COMPLETE EDITION)

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

AGNES ZIMMERMANN.

In One Volume, Folio, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price One Guinea.

Octavo Edition: Paper cover, 5s.; cloth gilt, 7s. 6d.

Each Sonata is published separately.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Re D'ALMAINE, DECEASED

(LATE NEW BOND STREET AND SOHO SQUARE).

REALISING THE ESTATE

WITHOUT RESERVE.

At time of decease of late Proprietor there were in hand

780 PIANOFORTES

OF THESE

588 ARE STILL ON HAND

UNDER CAREFUL FINISH, AND ARE NOW OFFERED AT

UNDER THE USUAL COST PRICE

For 17 guineas can be had the 35 guinea Royal

25 " " 46 " "

34 " " 60 " "

9 to 15 guineas, various second-hand instruments,

Mostly with the famed Steel Wrist Plank Plates.

A NUMBER OF

HARMONIUMS, ORGANS, VIOLINS, &c.

ON VIEW AND FOR SALE AT

5, FINSBURY PAVEMENT,

BY MOORGATE STREET STATION.

THE ONLY COMPLETE EDITION.MENDELSSOHN'S*LIEDER OHNE WORTE.

Octavo, paper covers 4s.

Do. cloth gilt 6s.

Folio, elegantly bound in cloth gilt.. .. 12s.

THE ONLY EDITION CONTAINING THE 7TH AND 8TH BOOKS.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MOZART'S SONATAS

(NEW AND COMPLETE EDITION)

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

AGNES ZIMMERMANN.In One Volume, Folio, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price Eighteen Shillings.OCTAVO EDITION IN PREPARATION.Each Sonata is published separately.*

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

HARMONIUM MUSIC

PUBLISHED BY

NOVELLO, EWER & CO.ELLIOTT, J. W. Six Original Pieces, 2s.— Harmonium Treasury. A Series of Select Pieces, Sacred and Secular. Two vols. handsomely bound in cloth, 10s. 6d. each; or 51 Nos., 1s. each.ENGEL, LOUIS. Twelve Sacred Airs. 5s.; or each number singly, 6d.

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|------------|
| 1. Air, Seventeenth Century | Stradella. |
| 2. On mighty pens (Creation) | Haydn. |
| 3. Agnus Dei (1st Mass) | Mozart. |
| 4. Cujus animam (Stabat Mater) | Rossini. |
| 5. Dead March (Saul) | Handel. |
| 6. Lord, remember David | " |
| 7. Holy, holy | " |
| 8. Angels ever bright and fair | " |
| 9. Qui tollis (12th Mass) | Mozart. |
| 10. Eia Mater (Stabat Mater) | Rossini. |
| 11. He shall feed His flock (Messiah) | Handel. |
| 12. Pastoral Symphony | " |

— Six Melodies, by Schubert. 2s. 6d.; each number singly, 6d.

- | | |
|--------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 1. Ave Maria. | 4. L'Adieu. |
| 2. Hark, hark, the lark. | 5. Serenade. |
| 3. The Hunter. | 6. Hark, the bell is tolling. |

HALL, KING. A School for the Harmonium. Containing a Description of the Instrument, a Diagram of the Stops, full directions for Blowing, Fingering, &c., Twenty Original Progressive Studies carefully fingered, and a Collection of Sacred and Secular Pieces by the best composers, arranged for instruments of various sizes. 5s.LEMMENS, J. Six Original Voluntaries. 3s.MENDELSSOHN. St. Paul. Choral, Airs, and Chorus, arranged by R. Bibl. 2s. 6d.

— Elijah, Airs and Choruses, ditto. 2s. 6d.

REINAGLE, A. R. Ten Airs. 1s. 6d.

— Processional March. 1s.

SAINT-SAËNS, CAMILLE.

Barcarolle ... 1s. | Méditation ... 1s. | Prière ... 1s.

PIANOFORTE AND HARMONIUM.CALKIN, J. B. Hommage à Mendelssohn. Three-Part Song, without words. 1s. 6d.ELLIOTT, J. W. Six Movements from Mendelssohn's Oratorio Elijah. 5s. 3d., or singly—

- | | |
|------------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| No. s. d. | No. s. d. |
| 1. If with all your hearts ... 1 3 | 4. For the mountains ... 1 3 |
| 2. It is enough ... 1 6 | 5. Then shall the righteous ... 1 3 |
| 3. He watching over Israel ... 1 6 | 6. O come every one ... 1 3 |

ENGEL, LOUIS. Six Duets.

- | | | |
|---------------------------|-------------|---------|
| No. 1. Marion | Engel | 1s. 6d. |
| 2. La Sonnambula | Bellini | 2s. 6d. |
| 3. Adalaida | Beethoven | 2s. 6d. |
| 4. Mosè in Egitto | Rossini | 1s. 6d. |
| 5. Serenade and Ave Maria | Schubert | 1s. 6d. |
| 6. Lied ohne Worte | Mendelssohn | 1s. 6d. |

MENDELSSOHN. Original Melodies (Lieder ohne Worte), arranged by C. G. Lickl.

- | | |
|----------------------------|----------------------------|
| Op. 19. First Book ... 3 0 | Op. 62. Fifth Book ... 3 0 |
| 30. Second ditto ... 3 0 | 67. Sixth ditto ... 3 0 |
| 38. Third ditto ... 3 0 | 85. Seventh ditto ... 3 0 |
| 53. Fourth ditto ... 3 0 | 102. Eighth ditto ... 3 0 |

— Two Andante Movements from Trios. Op. 49 and 66, arranged by Joseph Soyka. 3s.— Overture, Hebrides, for Harmonium, Pianoforte, two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello, arranged by J. Soyka. 4s. 6d.— Overture, Ruy Blas, Op. 95, arranged by C. T. Krebs.
4s. 6d.— Ditto for Harmonium, Pianoforte, and Violin, arranged by J. Soyka. 3s.SAINT-SAËNS, CAMILLE. Romance, Trio for Pianoforte, Violin, and Harmonium. 2s. 6d.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

ROYAL ALBERT HALL CHORAL SOCIETY.

President, H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.
Conductor, Mr. BARNBY.

LADIES and GENTLEMEN desirous of joining this Society should apply at once to Mr. J. Hedley, Royal Albert Hall, Kensington, S.W.

GLOUCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL,

SEPTEMBER 4, 5, 6, AND 7, 1877.

PRINCIPAL SINGERS AT PRESENT ENGAGED:—

Mlle. TIETJENS,	Mr. E. LLOYD,
Miss ADELA VERNON,	Mr. CUMMINGS,
Miss LOEWE,	Mr. MAYBRICK,
Miss BERTHA GRIFFITHS,	AND
Madame PATEY,	Mr. SANTLEY.

Full particulars at Mr. E. Nest's, Westgate Street, Gloucester.

MUSICAL ASSOCIATION, 27, Harley Street, W.
The EIGHTH and LAST MONTHLY MEETING.—Third Session.—On MONDAY, July 2, at 5 o'clock precisely, R. H. M. BOSANQUET, Esq., M.A., F.R.A.S., F.C.S., of St. John's, Coll., Oxon., will read a paper "On some points in the Harmony of Perfect Consonances, illustrated by the Enharmonic Harmonium."

H. BASSETT, Esq., F.C.S., will exhibit his Comma Trumpet.
CHARLES K. SALAMAN, Hon. Sec.
24, Sutherland Gardens, Westbourne Park, W., July 1, 1877.

MR. AUGUSTUS L. TAMPLIN (late Organist of St. James's, Marylebone), will give an HARMONIUM RECITAL, by kind permission of J. H. Craigie, Esq., at 13, Portland Place, W., on Saturday, July 21, at 3 p.m. Tickets, One Guinea each, to be had of Metzler and Co., Cramer and Co., and all the principal libraries.

PRIZE COMPETITION IN MUSICAL COMPOSITION.—A PRIZE OF FIVE GUINEAS is OFFERED by the Proprietor of The Musical Examiner for the best Original TRIO for equal voices. For particulars see The Musical Examiner for July. Price 3d. of all booksellers; free by post, 3½d. Office, 12A, Paternoster Square, London, E.C.

New and Important Work for the Competitive Musical Examinations, &c.

Just published, in crown 8vo, cloth, price 6s.

THE STUDENT'S TEXT-BOOK OF THE SCIENCE OF MUSIC

For Use in Schools and Colleges, and for purposes of self-instruction.
By JOHN TAYLOR, Author of "Manual of Vocal Music," &c. &c.
London: George Philip and Son, 32, Fleet Street; and 49 and 51, South Castle Street, Liverpool.

LETTERS FROM BAYREUTH

DESCRIPTIVE AND CRITICAL
OF

WAGNER'S

"DER RING DES NIBELUNGEN."

WITH AN APPENDIX.

BY

JOSEPH BENNETT,

Special Correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph."

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WAGNER'S OPERAS.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.

LOHENGRIIN ... Paper cover, 3s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 5s.

TANNHAEUSER... .. 3s. 6d. " 5s.

FLYING DUTCHMAN (In the Press).

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

(PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH)

Price Threepence.

Annual subscription, including postage, 4s.

Subscriptions will also be received by all Book and Music Sellers (not including postage), 3s.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	2	3
For every additional Line	0	0	9
Half a Column	1	15	0
A Column	3	5	0
A Page	6	6	0

A discount of 10 per cent. is allowed for twelve consecutive insertions.

It is respectfully requested that a remittance be sent with all Advertisements.

Advertisements for the August number should reach the Office not later than July 25. Those received after this date cannot be guaranteed insertion in their proper places, but will appear among the late Advertisements.

READY IN A FEW DAYS,

THE

CATHEDRAL PSALTER CHANTS

OBLONG QUARTO, PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just published.

SONGS

BY

FLORENCE A. MARSHALL.

I ARISE FROM DREAMS OF THEE.

SWEET AND LOW.

A NEW YEAR'S BURDEN.

Four Shillings each; post-free for 24 stamps.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO'S

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES,

TRANSLATED AND EDITED BY

W. G. McNAUGHT.

ANTHEMS, CHORUSES, PART-SONGS, &c.

Nos. 1 to 78 now ready.

ELIJAH (Translated by J. W. Powell) ...	MENDELSSOHN	1	6
HEAR MY PRAYER	MENDELSSOHN	0	3
HYMN OF PRAISE (Lobgesang)	MENDELSSOHN	1	0
ATHALIE	MENDELSSOHN	1	0
LORELEY	MENDELSSOHN	0	6
LAUDA SION (Praise Jehovah)	MENDELSSOHN	0	9
CHRISTUS	MENDELSSOHN	0	6
THE CRUSADERS	NIELS W. GADE	1	0
THE MAY QUEEN	SIR W. S. BENNETT	1	0

Complete Lists sent free on application.

LONDON:

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

JULY 1, 1877.

THE INFLUENCE OF HANDEL ON MUSIC IN ENGLAND.

By JOSEPH BENNETT.

As I write, the triennial celebration of Handel's genius is taking place at the Crystal Palace, and an orchestra numbered by thousands is performing, to an audience counted almost by tens of thousands, his finest and most familiar works. We are used even to this now, and no more think of making a wonder of it than we do of sunrise, which per se is an occurrence somewhat worthy of note and marvel. Still less do we trouble ourselves to reflect upon the phenomenon signified by the Handel Festival—a phenomenon long pre-existent to it, and destined most likely to survive it, viz. the dominating power of Handel, within the range of his art, over the entire English race. There is no parallel to this anywhere, so far as I know. Other nations have raised or imported great masters, and lifted them to the highest pinnacle of honour—for a time. They have made idols to serve for the worship of the hour, which idols, done with, have been and continue to be stored away in lumber closets, where the curious, beholding them, ask, "Did we ever bow down to such rude blocks and shapeless stones?" Or it may be other nations have so many masters that any one of them can do no more than command the homage of a sect. But Handel in England has been an institution for nearly 150 years; and not only an institution but an all-embracing, well-nigh absolute influence. Other composers have arisen and met with favour. We once thought a good deal of the Chevalier Neukomm; while, with rather more of justice, we took Mendelssohn to our heart and keep him there. But between the position even of the composer of "Elijah" and that occupied by him who wrote the "Messiah" there is a great gulf fixed, because, far more than Mendelssohn, Handel is the musician of the people. And this is the wonder of it. The Anglo-Saxon nature responds but slowly to æsthetic influences, and the growth in it of art-sympathy corresponds too closely with that of our "native oak." But the Handel cultus long ago became an affair of the nation, not merely of an educated class. It was once remarked by some "intelligent foreigner" that the guards of English mail-coaches played Handelian airs on their bugles. Most probably the observer heard "See the conquering hero" so performed on the occasion of the advent of a rival "Speedy" or "Lightning;" but his statement may be taken as at least figuratively true. Handel's airs and Handel's music are the property of the people, familiar, understood, and loved as, to a like extent, is the work of no other great master the wide world over. Here then is something worth looking at, not alone with the historical eye, but with the desire to take due cognisance of the working and tendencies of an active and powerful influence.

It is worth while to inquire, at the outset, into the reasons why Handel so speedily gained the national ear for his sacred music. Those reasons appear to me various, and, taking them as a whole, no one can refuse admiration to the shrewdness as well as to the genius they indicate. We cannot apply to Handel the remark that "the world knows nothing of its greatest men," but it is a fact that the artistic glory which surrounds the master diverts attention from some notable features in his personal character. Yet these ought to be taken into account, because they have much to do with the matter I am now discussing. First of all, I look upon it as a truth that Handel resolved to win fame and fortune in his adopted country. "Make money; honestly if you can, but—make money" is a precept with which commercial nations are not wholly unacquainted, and the Saxon musician came over to us as a thorough man of business. He wanted to "get on," and he had the requisite suppleness and shrewdness. Most men feel the want, but only a few possess the qualities essential to its supply, and the occasions are very rare in which the great artistic man does so. The great artistic man seldom esteems getting on as the highest possible good, or worth the sacrifice of principle to secure. But Handel was an exception. He had things to sell, and he studied the market. He wanted customers in his shop, and he displayed such wares as were likely to attract them. If one class of articles did not suit he exhibited another, and thought it no wasted trouble to "dress his window" anew morning after morning. During the first years of his residence amongst us he followed the custom of the time by courting "persons of quality." He became chapel-master to a Duke, a suitor for royal condescension, and a purveyor of fashionable entertainment. But this was not the way in which he "got on," and the reason why he so long neglected to strike out a fresh path can only be that, as great men often do, he misunderstood himself. Through years of adversity Handel clung to Italian Opera, and the greatest stress of ill-fortune was needed to make him quit his hold. Once separated from the object of his affection, the business qualities of the man assumed the upper hand. He had done for ever with "persons of quality;" could he not appeal unto the many-headed Cæsar? That he did so, and won the cause, all the world knows; but everybody does not reflect upon the extraordinary adaptedness of his means to their end. We may recognise no proof of such adaptedness in the fact that he laid before the masses a new form of entertainment, but the form though new, jumped with their humour. The time of Handel's residence amongst us was not remarkable for the purity of its morals nor the depth of its piety, judging from what we are told of the classes which then were alone privileged to make history. But the English have always been a Bible-reading, and in the main a God-fearing nation, with strong religious instincts and a reverence for sacred things. The seed of Bible-oratorio fell therefore upon ground prepared to bring forth fruit a hundredfold. While the upper classes were trying to feel an interest in the doings of the heroes and heroines of a cold and distant mythology, Handel came forward with characters familiar to every man and, in a powerful sense, still living an heroic life. He thus repeated in the England of the eighteenth century the work of the dramatists of Greece 2,000 years before. They sang of gods and godlike men whose names and deeds were in the hearts as well as the minds of the people, and the record of whose achievements was a priceless possession, an ever-abiding force. So Handel, when he set forth the story of a Samson and a Deborah, of a Joshua and a Moses, of a Saul and a Solomon, of an Esther and a Judas Maccabæus. Here were no Orlandos and Rinaldos, no Ottones and Scipios, about whom few had heard and nobody cared; but, by comparison, real, living, flesh-and-blood people, the intimate acquaintances of every man who read the Bible for himself, or had it done for him in church. The new form of entertainment was therefore very old in its most essential quality. It simply invited the people to witness a familiar thing amid unfamiliar surroundings. Handel thus started upon his career as a sacred composer (I am now leaving out of account his early Anthems and other music for the Church) with an enormous advantage. By virtue of the themes to which he allied his art the attention and sympathy of the public were in a measure assured beforehand.

But the consideration just advanced is far from explaining a popularity of which, in point of fact, it only made ready the ground and laid the foundation. The great cause must be sought in the character of Handel's music—a character closely following the lines of the national taste, or otherwise the master's repute is beyond comprehension. Here a most interesting field of inquiry opens up, viz., how and in what measure, if at all, was Handel influenced by the works of his English predecessors? Is it a fact that he was in any degree so influenced? More than one line of thought suggests an affirmative reply. Paley's famous argument that the watch reveals the existence of an intelligent and designing watchmaker may not be conclusive as regards the application he makes of it, but in itself is correct enough. Similarly we may infer that when a style of art meets with unanimous national adoption, and becomes, so to speak, assimilated with the national life, there is reason to look upon the result as arising from intention rather than from chance. Moreover, it is not likely that Handel neglected any obvious precaution when, ruined by a mistaken zeal for Opera, he set about retrieving his fortunes as a writer of Oratorio. We know that in this particular sense he was not proud. If a good thing belonging to anybody else caught his eye he stole it without scruple, and it is not probable therefore that any notion of artistic dignity and independence would keep him from adapting his work to prevailing tastes. But the real test of the matter can only be applied by a comparison of Handel's sacred music with that of Henry Purcell, "who," to quote Mr. Hullah, "has been regarded by all historians as the representative of English music and the type of English composers." That comparison, it is obvious, cannot be made within the limits of an article like the present, and I may only indicate it as likely to afford good results. For these reasons: first, the undoubted points of similarity between the sacred music of Purcell and Handel, and, secondly, the reasonableness of the assumption that the German master arriving here when Purcell was at the height of his posthumous fame, and being attracted, as was inevitably the case, by his genius, submitted in some degree, if only as a matter of policy, to his influence. On the other hand it may be urged, not without force, that the genius of both masters developed itself under conditions of a similar nature. To his early training in the strong and sturdy school of English church-music, Purcell added a loving study of the more graceful and expressive Italian art. Handel, filled in youth with the masculine and somewhat hard spirit of the early German school, also passed beneath the influence of the Italians, so that both grafted upon a massive trunk the same tender and beautiful plant. Looking at these facts, and remembering what the vogue of Purcell was at the date of Handel's arrival, we cannot shut our eyes to the fact that, even if the earlier master did not directly influence the later, he at least prepared the way before him by enabling the English public to recognise in his music qualities with which they were more or less familiar and in some measure had learned to love. But let us look a little further into this matter.

Music, as the natural language of emotion, and by virtue of the subtlety with which it reflects every shade of thought and feeling, is no mean index of the national character from which it springs. Thus the music of France, when compared with that of Germany, clearly and truthfully indicates the difference of thought and temperament between the two peoples. We are entitled to assume therefore that when a nation accepts a composer as England has accepted Handel there exists some degree of affinity between his music and the national mind. That such an affinity obtains in the particular case under notice most Englishmen are anxious to believe, and not without good grounds for confidence. For what are the qualities chiefly distinctive of Handel's music? In the first place, manly strength and vigour; next, direct, straightforward utterance; next, purely natural sentiment; next, a passion for imperial grandeur; and next a loyalty to rule which never degenerates into slavishness. The existence of these traits in the works of the great master can no more be denied than the ideality of Beethoven, the humour of Haydn, the tenderness of Schubert, or the grace and sweetness of Mozart. In point of manly strength and vigour Handel knows no equal. He launches thunderbolts, as said his mightiest successor, and they go straight to the mark. As for his utterances, they are never equivocal. Knowing what he has to say, he says it in language "understood of the people," and if there be times when he steps aside to humour the popular ear or gratify a singer with that which is unmeaning or fantastic, he only supplies a foil the better to set off the directness and truth of his common speech. When sentimental, Handel is never puling. You don't see him in hysterics. He scorns to "pile up the agony" in attacks on the nerves of his hearers for the sake of sensational results. He can weep. There are tears in every bar of "He was despised," and the pathos of "He shall feed His flock" is infinite. Yet when Handel weeps, he weeps like a man, and a woman has said "the tears of a man are terrible." We, as an imperial race, should appreciate the master's imperial effects. Handel is the Napoleon of his order, without a Moscow. The French Cæsar used to win victories by launching masses at his enemy's centre. Handel too fights in masses and overwhelms by straightforward blows. You cannot give him too large a force. Expand the Sydenham transept till twice four thousand executants find room on its orchestra, and his power is doubled without encumbrance. Such a musician deserves to be the musician of an empire. Rome would have decreed him divine honours, and sent her legions to battle with his music at their head. Then how, with all his consciousness of strength, Handel submits to rule and order! We may wish that he had oftener burst the bonds which limited the exercise of his giant powers, but the sight of such a man yielding obedience closely touches a nation distinguished by its reverence for law. We flatter ourselves that in all the foregoing respects Handel is English. As a people we claim to be manly and vigorous; to speak our minds in straightforward fashion; to hate affected or exaggerated sentiment; to have the qualities of imperialism, and to be eminently law-abiding. If this be so, the affinity between Handel's music and our national character is strong enough to explain the phenomenon of the master's position. When he came to England he came to his own, and his own received him.

We know that the influence of Handel on English music and English taste from his day to ours has been immense. Of this no further proof is required than his own greatness and popularity, because everything in the world of mind, no less than the world of matter, exercises a force in proportion to its strength. Some one has said that each word spoken makes a mark, by its agitation of the atmosphere, upon the "everlasting hills." The statement may not be easily capable of scientific proof, but at any rate it is only an exaggeration of a grand fact; and, without the smallest cavil, the enormous influence of Handel will be taken as past dispute. How can we trace the result of his influence? Not to a great extent in the form of direct imitation. That supreme flattery has been denied to Handel for a very sufficient reason. He is too easily imitated, and the copy too easy of detection. His power more appears in the fact that he has furnished a standard by which the work of others may be judged. Since the great master lived many a composer has bidden for favour in the department of Oratorio. Haydn made a mark with the "Creation," but after him none succeeded till Mendelssohn arose. True there was a time when Neukomm assumed heroic proportions, and when English connoisseurs raved about Spohr, between whom and Handel not the slightest sympathy existed. But Neukomm, having gone up like a rocket, came down like its stick, and Mendelssohn elbowed Spohr out of favour. Undoubtedly the success of Mendelssohn is a fact to be taken into serious account; but it should not be regarded as proving anything against Handel. The reverse perhaps is really the case, because the Berlin composer worked upon the "ancient lines," and merely added to them the grace of expression and beauty of colour made possible by later artistic progress. "St. Paul" and "Elijah" came to us purely as developments of the Handelian Oratorio, differing from it according to the diversity of the composers' gifts, the extent of the resources with which they had respectively to deal, and the prevailing taste, but resembling it in very many essential features. The art of Mendelssohn is the art of Handel, making allowance for the hundred years that separate them; and precisely because we recognised in the later composer the great qualities, however modified, of the earlier, his music met with prompt acceptance and abiding favour. But upon this part of my theme I need not further enlarge. More important is it to inquire whether the dominant influence of Handel among the masses of the people is likely to endure, or whether it is destined to give way before the advance of new ideas and forms of expression.

In entering upon this part of my subject it is necessary to distinguish between things that differ—between the form and spirit of Handel's music. The form in very many respects is dead and could not possibly be revived, even if that were desirable. Handel himself often broke the rule which prescribed for every air an episode in the relative minor, with a Da Capo; and the liberty thus exercised descends from generation to generation, otherwise form would become stereotyped, and progress in an important respect be made impossible. But form, after all, is to art scarcely more than dress is to the man—or, as I had better say, the woman. Fashions of dress change without more effect than is visible to the eye, and form in music may alter without serious influence upon the underlying art. As a matter of fact it does alter; the mode accepted by one generation being cast aside by the next in favour of another better suited to prevailing tastes. But all this may go on independently of the bases and essentials of music, and in this fact we who desire the continued influence of Handel's masculine genius take comfort. About the master's forms we care little or nothing. Really they often bore us, and excite a feeling of pity that so great a man was obliged to move within their narrow limits. But the spirit which animates his music, determining its style and character, apart from form, is another matter. To this we cling, and the question whether it will long serve us is one of the highest moment. Just now the superficial observer and he who looks only at professed musical society foretell the downfall of the Handel cultus. Handel is out of fashion among the mass of connoisseurs, who speak of him with the cold respect due to that which, having served its generation, can be of no further use. But the phenomenon is not new. Handel went out of fashion with the so-called leaders of musical opinion generations ago, and was none the worse for it with the nation at large. As then, so now. Repudiated by admirers of modern art—men and women of cosmopolitan tastes—he keeps fast hold upon the people, to whose approval he knows the shortest way and of whose affections he has the tightest grip. But it may be said that the estrangement from him of musical society is ominous of a more complete catastrophe. I venture to question this, and on very good grounds. The upper classes of a nation, especially those who lead in literature and art, are seldom national; showing indeed, anti-patriotic tendencies more often than the reverse. They are cosmopolitan almost as a matter of principle, and their sentiments offer no clue to those of the people at large. But even if this were not the case we have plain proof that England remains faithful to her adopted musician. The great master's Oratorios are heard as often as ever they were, and with no abatement of interest; the "Messiah" day at festivals all the country over is still the day, and in the homes of the people Handel's music is to art what the Bible is to literature. Nobody can deny this, but plenty may be found to say that it cannot last. I think it will; not, perhaps, without change in matters of detail, but free from change in matters of principle. The reason for this belief lies in the fact upon which so much stress has already been laid with a view to its present application, viz. the close sympathy between Handel's music, in its essentials, and our national character. Before the one is rejected the other must change; and the outlines of a people's mental and moral physiognomy are altered by the progress of time as slowly as a continent is upheaved or submerged by the action of natural forces. We may be assured of this, at all events, that no nation receives an artist so completely into itself as England has taken Handel without reasons lying far deeper than the influence of fashion can reach, nor unless there exists a rapprochement between the two only affected by a transforming of one or the other. Handel has passed beyond the reach of modification, and, as regards England, none of us need give way to alarm. Its taste and temperament, as the late First Gentleman in Europe is reported to have said of its crown, will last our time. I want particularly to impress these considerations upon whoever is just now concerned for the musical future of our country, and inclined to despair because of the phenomena due to the inroads of modern ideas. It is only on the surface that these phenomena exist. They are like the ocean waves, which seem, as they advance and shatter themselves on the rocks, to come from the depths beyond. But it is only the shallow water that foams and rages. Farther out the "blue profound" merely rises in obedience to force and then sinks again to rest upon the spot from which it rose. So with the effect of fashion on a nation's music. There may be disturbing results, but they are transient; and as Handel, with his grand artistic qualities, has remained the musician of the people through the changes of near upon 150 years, so he is likely to remain. Well for England that she has such a sheet-anchor to steady her "when the stormy winds do blow" and cross-currents vex the waters!

A SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF MUSIC-PRINTING, FROM THE FIFTEENTH TO THE NINETEENTH CENTURY

By FRIEDRICH CHRYSANDER.

(Continued from page 268.)

SECOND PERIOD: TYPOGRAPHY.

THE concluding words of the previous article direct us to the manner in which we must now trace this second period. Our present course is entirely different from that to which we have kept hitherto.

What has now to be described is to us only the employment of an already known process on new ground; whereas, according to the view which has prevailed hitherto, it was a new invention without any preparatory stages. There is a learned book on this subject by Anton Schmid, late Custos of the Imperial Library at Vienna, which bears the title "Ottaviano dei Petrucci di Fossombrone, the first inventor of music-printing with movable metallic types, and his successors in the sixteenth century." * It is a large book, and I should not desire more space for a work which I hope sometime to publish on all the five periods together. It appears clear from the very title of Schmid's book that he allows of the existence of nothing but block-printing before Petrucci's time. And he says shortly after (p. 3), "Not till the last few years of the fifteenth century, after long pondering, did any one hit upon the invention of movable types of metal for florid, song, and subsequently for plain-song also, and lute and organ tabulatures, available for the printing-press." According to this, the printing of plain-song was an imitation, not a forerunner, of that of florid-song, the very opposite of what I explained in the previous number, and shall still further demonstrate in the sequel. In Schmid's view, which has hitherto been taken by all writers on the subject, who betray great ignorance of the preceding fifty years, Petrucci's invention fell down, as it were, from heaven. He asks pathetically (p. 3), "Who was the happy man who invented the art of printing and multiplying works of music by means of movable metal types? To whom belongs the glory of an invention which was so perfect at its very outset, so sound in its progress, and so enjoyable in its effects to all who were fond of the art?" The learned Custos of Vienna assures us naively in his preface, "As I was anxious to state in my book only what is true, i.e. facts guaranteed by historical documents, I considered myself bound to treat my subject in the simplest style, and to forego all rhetorical ornament and superfluous diffuseness, which in many books wastes so much of our time; but on the other hand I sought to be especially conscientious in my search for historical truth and bibliographical exactitude."

Judging him by this standard of his own, we must unfortunately cancel a considerable part of his book. Poor Schmid! Too much learning often dulls the spirit, if there is not on the other side a little historical common sense to hold the tongue of the balance upright. However, I am not to speak here of Schmid, but of Petrucci.

Ottaviano dei Petrucci is in fact the first noteworthy personality, and to this day the most prominent name, that we encounter in the history of music-printing. He is the only one connected with music whom we could in any sense put by the side of Gutenberg, the great inventor of book-printing; and their histories were similar. Petrucci was born at Fossombrone, a town in the duchy of Urbino, June 18, 1466, of noble but not wealthy parents. As printer he naturally turned to Venice, which was in his day the central point for that art. In the years of his best powers, towards the end of the fifteenth century, he succeeded in discovering a process "which many inventive men had often attempted, without being able to overcome the difficulties," by which he brought to perfection "a thing as welcome as it was difficult, and of public utility." Thus he speaks himself in the preface to the first work printed by him, a collection of ninety-six songs for several voices, entitled "Harmonice musices Odhecaton," that appeared in Venice in 1501. The Privilege of the municipality of Venice, dated May 25, 1498, confirms this in the words, "Petrucci has with great expenses and labour executed what many before him, both in Italy and elsewhere, had long attempted in vain." Now what had these many attempted so long in vain? The Privilege of the Signoria tells us quite distinctly that it was an easier method of printing florid-song (canto figurato). In consequence of this, the Privilege goes on to say, the Gregorian plain-song (canto fermo) also would be able to be printed with much greater ease. From this expression it has been inferred that they also were thenceforth actually printed by Petrucci's method, which was not the case. In the above words the Signoria were only repeating the hope which Petrucci had expressed in his request for the privilege, but which was not fulfilled, as I showed in the previous article. Petrucci requested and received the privilege for twenty years, solely for the printing of music in many parts for singing, organ, and lute. * This makes the matter perfectly clear.

The earliest works published by Petrucci were three books of strictly secular compositions. The first book appeared on the 18th of June, 1501. In the very next year he began to publish church music, of which in course of time a great quantity was printed. He began with a collection of Motetts, also in three books. In 1504 he commenced a large collection of Italian secular songs in nine books, entitled "Frottole." This forms a pendant to his first publication, which contains almost exclusively pieces by composers of the Low Countries. To give an idea of the great activity which he showed at the very beginning, I give a list of his publications in the first four years, together with the dates of printing, and a notice of the libraries in which copies are preserved. The Museo Filarmonico at Bologna possesses the greatest number; but Vienna, Munich, and Berlin also have precious and generally very well-preserved specimens of the printing in this earliest age:—

* "Ottaviano dei Petrucci da Fossombrone, der erster Erfinder des Musiknotendruckes mit beweglichen Metalltypen, und seine Nachfolger im 16ten Jahrhundert." Vienna, 1845. Pp. 342, 8vo, with an Appendix of Music, Printers' Devices, &c.

* "... Ottaviano dei Petrucci . . . cum molte sue spexe ed vigilantissima cura ha trovato quello che molti non solo in Italia ma etiando de fuora de Italia za longamente indarno hanno investigato che e stampare commodissimamente Canto figurado. Et per consequens molto piu facilmente Canto fermo: cosa precipue a la Religion Christiana de grande ornamento et maxime necessaria: pertanto el sopratana de grande ornamento et maxime necessaria: pertanto el sopratana scripto supplicante recorre a li piedi de vostra Illustrissima Signoria, supplicando quella . . . se degni concederli de gratia special chome a primo inventore Canto figurado ne Intaboladure d' Organo et de liuto per anni vinti."—Privilege of the Signoria, May 25, 1498, in Schmid, p. 10.

Date of Printing.		Libraries possessing Copies.
	1501.
June 18 ...	1. Harmonice musices Odhecaton, A	Bologna.
Feb. 5* ...	2. Canti B, numero cinquanta	Bologna.
	1502.
May 9 ...	3. Motette A, numero trentatre	Bologna.
Sept. 27 ...	4. Misse Josquin	Berlin.
Dec. 27 ...	5. Missarum Josquin, lib. i ...	Vienna.
	1503.
	6. Missarum Josquin, lib. ii. and iii. (Second edition of No. 5, much enlarged) ...	Vienna.
May 10 ...	7. Motetti de passione, signati B	Bologna (wanting title).
June 17 ...	8. Misse Brumel	Vienna, Berlin.
July 15 ...	9. Misse Ghiselin	Vienna, Berlin.
Oct. 31 ...	10. Misse Petri de la Rue ...	British Museum, Bologna, Rome, Vienna, Berlin.
Feb. 20 ...	11. Canti C, cento cinquanta ...	Vienna.
March 24 ...	12. Misse Obrecht	Vienna, Munich, Berlin.
	1504.
(?)	13. Motetti A	(?)
(?)	14. Motetti B	(?)
Sept. 15 ...	15. Motetti C	Vienna, Munich.
Nov. 28 ...	16. Frottole, lib. i.	Vienna, Munich.
Jan. 8 ...	17. Frottole, lib. ii.	Vienna, Munich.
Feb. 6 ...	18. Frottole, lib. iii.	Munich.
	— new edition, Jan. 29, 1507	Vienna.
No date ...	19. Frottole, lib. iv.	Munich.
March 23 ...	20. Misse Alexandri Agricole...	Bologna, Vienna, Berlin, Rome.

In 1505 he was threatened with competition in printing music for lute and organ, notwithstanding his privilege; wherefore he began to work at this branch also, producing, however, only works for the lute with and without the voice. But nothing has been heard of his ever thinking of trying his ingenuity at printing plain-song (canto fermo), and thus making good his assertion that this, as well as florid-song (canto figurato), could be multiplied "with much greater ease" by the new method. He seems to have said this only in the enthusiasm natural to an inventor, exaggerating somewhat the importance of his invention.

Petrucchi was richer in ideas than in cash; he was a "pover homo," as he openly declares in his application, in 1514, for a prolongation of his privilege. With his rash and impetuous temperament, which could not brook any delay in the execution of his plans, as is shown by the rapid succession of his first publications, he would soon have discovered that his resources were dried up, if he had not, like Gutenberg, found companions who possessed experience and understood accounts—Amadeo Scotti, a bookseller, and Nicolò da Raphael. He soon (1511) left the entire management to them, and tried his fortune as printer of musical and literary books, first in his native town of Fossombrone, and afterwards at Rome. Pope Leo X. granted him a privilege for fifteen years with most flattering expressions, but only for florid-song and for tabulatures for the lute and organ. Rome would have been just the place to prove that his method was far the best also for Gregorian plain-song; yet he did not once attempt to test this, but preferred, when necessary, to print non-musical books for the sake of profit or patronage. Thus there was no printing of missals or other church hymn-books. I mention this only in order to demonstrate anew that these sacred song-books had already come to be printed before Petrucci's time in a way which even his brilliant invention was unable to improve. That invention had been made with exclusive regard to florid-song, i.e. highly elaborate vocal music for many voices, and was of the greatest importance for this. As regards its notation and dissemination, this kind of music was then in a helpless position; indeed, as far as its progress was concerned, the art of printing was of no service, for what xylography could do for it was not worth considering; amanuenses only could multiply copies of these compositions. In 1450, when Gutenberg began, this difficulty did not exist; but fifty years later the state of things was quite changed. In this short time the bright daylight of art was suddenly let in upon the attempts at writing for many voices; masters arose, whose reputes spread over all Europe, and who, regarding all Europe as a home for their talents, travelled from court to court. Most and the greatest of them belonged to the Low Countries, but all other countries vied with them in contributing a contingent to the musical army. All, whether Netherlander or Frenchman, German or Italian, Englishman or Spaniard, had only one home, Europe, in that glorious age of humanism, when all educated people had only one language, Latin. Musicians had long been pondering over the mysteries of artificial counterpoint, the forms of which always powerfully fascinated susceptible temperaments; but now they began to develop a capacity for exhibiting more beauty of tone and expressive song, while retaining perfect mastery over all the devices of counterpoint. The number of their hearers increased to thousands; and, with the admiration of this music, the desire to know it well became general. It was therefore a general wish to possess works of Canto figurato. Copyists could no longer supply the want; and consequently "many both in and outside of Italy" laboured to devise a suitable mode of printing, and in this Ottaviano Petrucci was successful.

But he would probably never have succeeded, and the object would have proved quite unattainable by means of typography, if the musicians had required that their compositions should be printed as they were written, and as they are now printed, in full score. But they let them appear only in single voice-parts, and in that form they were copied, and consequently printed also. Even in pieces for three or four voices, where all the parts are combined in one book, they are not arranged one below the other, but each by itself, one following the other. The masters kept their draughts of compositions, or full scores, so strictly to themselves as secrets of the workshop, that not a single bar of them is preserved for us from this early age. In elaborating their compositions in full score they probably inserted the different voices in different colours; and this alone would make a reproduction by typography impossible. Thus the hundreds of thousands of pieces of music belonging to two centuries have been transmitted to us almost exclusively in the form of single parts—a form which opposes almost insuperable difficulties to the study of the history of music during that long and important period. Only this defective mode of circulating music in single parts, to the neglect of the full score, rendered it possible to assist florid music by the use of typography. Every step of further development, taken by the art of music, proved the insufficiency of these methods and the necessity of new modes of printing.

Some say that Petrucci made his types of lead, others say of tin; so they were very probably composed of a mixture of the two—pewter. His process was a double impression, which is easily discernible in the large and often ornamental initials with the five lines crossing them. He first printed these lines, and then the notes. The process was therefore essentially similar to that of the printers of Gregorian hymn-books, only that instead of printing these lines in several separate pieces he took a frame which covered the whole breadth of the paper, in this respect resembling the block-printing. The lines, which he printed very fine and sharp, give his impressions their clear, elegant, and firm appearance. The notes also are very well executed, though the perpendiculars are remarkably thick towards the outer end. Altogether Petrucci's impressions bear a very distinguished appearance, and the ink and paper are also excellent. They remind us indeed, more than anything else, of Gutenberg's splendid works. They possess, moreover, the peculiarity of being difficult to imitate, so that the process was not permanently maintained in practical use.

* This list is given with the dates quoted from the books. The year commenced on March 25; so that "Feb. 5, 1501" is what we should call Feb. 5, 1502.

For, first, the double impression was very expensive. Was it absolutely necessary, or could not a process be invented which would make the printed less dependent on the written music? Some thought so; and a German, Erhard Oeglin (Oeglin, Ocellus), of Augsburg, accomplished it a few years later. On the 22nd of August, 1507, he finished the printing of a work entitled "Melopoiaie sive Harmoniae tetracenticae," and on the 29th of March, 1508, another, called "Stella Musicae juvenibus artisque ejusdem novellis," in which the music is executed at a single impression. This method spread rapidly, at all events in Germany; for an influential printer, Peter Schöffer, managed his musical works printed at Mainz in and after 1511 in the same manner. How far these Germans were indebted one to the other and both to Petrucci it would be very difficult to prove; their process was entirely independent of that of the Venetian. A glance at the printed Missals, &c. probably first showed them that the double impression was not really necessary, if red lines were not insisted on. The use of types which would allow the notes to be easily joined together, became now positively essential. The works which these German music-printers published remained almost unknown; but their method presented so many advantages that it was soon generally known, and in a few dozen years generally imitated, and nowhere more ably and diligently than at Venice. Schöffer himself had a printing-press there about 1540. After this Petrucci's manner of type-printing belonged to the things of a period already passed, quite as much as the xylography which his invention had set aside.

All the printers gave even to the notes of florid-song a quadrangular shape like the notes of plain-song, not a round one; yet they were written round, or nearly so. An old choir-master of the Pope, named Eleazar Genet (called Carpentras from his birth-place), hit upon the idea of printing them in this shape. On his retirement he went back to his own country, to Avignon, arranged his works at leisure, and pondered over the best means of getting them printed. At length he found what he sought in the principle, "Print as you write." He was of course dissatisfied with the printing-types hitherto in use, whether Italian or German, florid or plain. And he found at Avignon a very clever man, Stephen Briard of Bar-le-Duc, who cut new types which marvellously imitated the essential figures of the usual mode of writing music. Jean de Channay, of the same city, printed the works. There were four of these, as far as is known, the first (in the year 1532) being "Liber primus Missarum Carpentras." No other place and no other printer ever made use of this original innovation; which fact is the most eloquent judgment that can be passed upon it. At the present day it interests us mainly because it seems to have leapt over 150 years and anticipated the modern round notes; in this respect it possesses historical importance. But practically it was worthless, not because it deviated from the usage of the time, but because it started from an incorrect principle. Typography can never be tied down to be an exact copy of handwriting, but must follow laws of its own. Handwriting has an individual character, and gives pleasure mainly through the skill with which it handles its freer strokes. It is not bound to a measured regularity, and consequently the square and the circle are not figures which are exactly imitated in handwriting, but rather forms between which the hand is always shifting to and fro. If this is managed with a graceful freedom, we call the handwriting beautiful, and see in it the expression of individual character. Every mechanical process, on the other hand, must keep to regular figures of measured proportions. What the writer avoids, the square and circle and regular distances, form the sole rule for the printer. With musical signs all this is even more necessary. We observe consequently that they always abide by fixed forms, and that each has its special law. From the fifteenth to the seventeenth century the form of the notes was quadrangular, and since that time it has been circular; but it never has been and never will be regulated by the forms used in handwriting.

I seize the occasion of the first attempt to assimilate music-printing to music-writing to make these observations, because other trials in the same direction have cropped up from time to time, and especially because at the present time new experiments with the aid of photography would be very easy. But even if it were possible to print a facsimile of the manuscript as easily and cheaply as engraved or type-music, still the latter would remain the only satisfactory method for the trade and the world. The fundamental forms of music types are as firmly fixed as musical notation itself.

In the next number I shall briefly touch on the further fortunes of musical typography during its gradual extension to all countries, and then describe the period of Tabulature-printing.

(To be continued.)

AMATEURS.

WHEN, many years ago, a pianoforte was considered a luxury in the houses of the middle classes I can well remember that an evening where music was made a prominent feature was one of humiliation to the many whose schooling had not included this pleasing "accomplishment." A young lady who could play "pretily" was tolerably certain of an invitation to a party; but it was scarcely to be expected that guests of her own age who could draw, cipher, and speak French well enough to carry off prizes at their academical examinations, should sit quietly by whilst the room was ringing with applause at the showy pianoforte performance of a girl who had received perhaps "bad marks" enough to brand her as a dunce amongst her schoolfellows in everything but "music." And so it gradually became the fashion to play; not that a love of the art had anything to do with it, but parents, seeing that their daughters' hands were made pretty much like those of other people, and that their fingers were not deformed, reasonably imagined that, if they bought an instrument and paid a master's terms for "pianoforte" at a school, they would be enabled to have a little music at home after the business of the day. The light and frivolous pieces which reigned supreme at this time—relieved only by such pretentious compositions as “The Battle of Prague,” and some other descriptive effusions of this character—could scarcely be said to do much towards laying the foundation of a solid taste for works of art; but as the drawing-room was in these days chiefly devoted to the ladies, even in the evening, the “latest fashion” in music was pretty certain to please as much as the “latest fashion” in dress, and of course remained in favour about the same length of time. Vocal music, however, began shortly to be extensively cultivated, and the sound of the human voice soon effected what the notes of the pianoforte could never achieve. Not only male visitors at a house, but stony-hearted brothers quietly flocked into the room to hear a song, although they would have closed a door to keep out the sound of a pianoforte. Words, aided by the magic eloquence of music, sank deeply into the hearts of the most phlegmatic drawing-room loungers, and many young men who had always imagined that music was “only fit for schoolgirls” asked their sisters to “sing that song again,” and even condescended to beat time during its performance. And then they began to buy songs for themselves, and take counsel with the lady-members of the family as to those which would best suit their voices, making “night hideous” often enough with their noise, but preparing the way for results which have, in due course, unquestionably proved highly beneficial to the art. Music is all-absorbing, and, within my own experience, I can scarcely recollect one instance where it has been abandoned, if once taken up in earnest. When therefore families became united by this artistic bond, it was natural that the tone of the instrumental and vocal works practised should gradually become more elevated. The publication of the standard compositions in a cheap form of course contributed materially to effect this reform, and Oratorios, Masses, Cantatas, and Part-songs being regularly purchased by private individuals, evening rehearsals became a recognised institution of the country. Thus there arose a race of vocalists both willing and competent to assist in the rendering of works without any reward save the consciousness of having helped to spread a knowledge of the finest specimens of art bequeathed to us by the great masters.

Now it is obvious that the difference between a professor and an amateur is that the former lives by the exercise of his talent and the latter does not. We can hardly then, perhaps, be astonished that a sore feeling should have been created at first when it was seen that “amateurs” were forming themselves into Choral Societies, and singing important works before public audiences. It was said that they were stepping from their legitimate sphere, and “taking the bread out of the mouths” of those who had systematically trained themselves to music as a profession. Now this very same thing was affirmed in days now happily passed away, when foreign artists, whether executive or creative, visited this country. It was stated that they were “taking the bread out of the mouths” of Englishmen; but the thought never struck the patriotic individuals who raised this cry that if we persevered in fencing round our island against the invasion of the world’s music and the world’s musicians, we should soon have very little bread to put into our mouths. Turn to the records of the time, and see what desperate efforts were made in various quarters to supply the musical wants of the people, either with home manufactures, or with foreign wares adapted to the presumed taste of the people. How nicely, for instance, some of the lyrical works popular on the Continent were cooked up for the English market. It would be painful, indeed, to describe one-half of the operatic hashes thus manufactured, for I should be compelled to mention the names of many who were capable of, and even known for, better things; and who, despite the artistic crimes of which they were guilty, have scarcely perhaps a right to be judged too harshly, considering the temptations by which they were surrounded. But the good sense of the people at length prevailed; and it was shortly seen that the sooner we held out the hand of welcome to artists of all countries the more musical would England become.

May we not, then, take a lesson from this fact, and regard this amateur element which has recently sprung up as a hopeful and healthy sign of the musical future? By what means, for example, have the grand works of Bach become known, and even popular, in this country? Surely through the efforts of amateurs, who by earnestly devoting many months to compositions so abstruse as to be unapproachable by professional choristers, to whom of course every hour is valuable, have succeeded in awakening a taste for high-class music which, but for their exertions, might have remained dormant for years. Choral singing is so delicate, refined, and subtle an art that only those who have leisure, and can therefore band themselves together to study patiently and zealously under an experienced Conductor, are enabled to give effect, not only to the notes but to the meaning of works so elaborate as we have recently heard. All honour, then, to artists who can reveal to us beauties so long hidden. Amateurs have a mission before them which they are worthily fulfilling, and every encouragement should be given to them in their self-imposed task, more especially by persons commercially interested in promoting a more extensive love for those musical creations which demand a long time and much labour for their due rendering. It is absurd in the extreme to suppose that Amateur Choral Societies are not productive of the utmost good to the progress of music in this country, and equally unreasonable is it to believe that anything which tends to the permanent benefit of art can by any possibility be detrimental to the interest of its professors.

HENRY C. LUNN.

THE FAMILY OF BEETHOVEN.

WHEN a great man has made his name illustrious the history of his family becomes a question of public interest, and the antiquary explores the records of Church and State to bring to light names and dates which would otherwise have been buried in oblivion. In the absence of such authentic details, baseless and fanciful statements are too often lightly promulgated and blindly copied, until at last they pass into literature as unquestioned portions of history. In 1837 a Dutch writer, M. Van Marsdyck,* endeavoured to assign a Dutch origin to the family of Beethoven, and to claim the composer himself as a compatriot by birth. Van Marsdyck asserts that Beethoven’s grandfather settled in Bonn from Holland, that his parents were itinerant musicians who during the summer attended the fairs in Holland, and that his mother, Helena Keverich, gave him birth in August 1772 during a fair at Zutphen, a town of Gueldres, in a poor inn bearing the name of “De fransche Tuin,” or "The French Garden." All this, however, is utterly destitute of any foundation in fact,* and it is now established that Beethoven's ancestors were natives of Belgium. The connection between the Beethovens of the parent country and the branch of the family settled in Germany seems to have been obscured by the lapse of time, and some years ago M. Jacobs, a grandson of a brother of Beethoven's grandfather, visited Vienna to ascertain the nature of his relationship to the family of the composer. After many inquiries he met Beethoven's sister-in-law, the widow of his brother Karl, who still had in her possession the portrait of the composer's grandfather, painted by Radoux, painter to the Court, in 1739, when Louis Van Beethoven the elder was twenty-seven years of age. From her M. Jacobs obtained a lock of the hair of his illustrious cousin, and an autograph letter written to Bach† at Vienna respecting the plan of founding an academy. From information furnished by M. Jacobs, as well as from the results of his own researches, M. Grégoir, a Belgian antiquary, published a small pamphlet entitled "Notice sur l'origine du célèbre compositeur Louis Van Beethoven" (Anvers, 1863), and from this pamphlet the following details, with some additions and corrections from other sources, are extracted.

* In a pamphlet entitled “Lettre à M. le Bourgmestre de Bonn, contenant les preuves de l’origine hollandaise du célèbre compositeur Louis Van Beethoven.” Amsterdam: J. D. Sybrandi.

The family of Van Beethoven dates from the beginning of the seventeenth century, and lived at Leeftael, in the neighbourhood of Louvain. One of its members fixed his residence at Antwerp about 1650, and was father of Guillaume Van Beethoven, who married, on the 11th September 1680, Catherine Grandjean, by whom he had eight children. Their son, Henri-Adelard, was baptised on the 8th September 1683, in the parish of Notre-Dame, at Antwerp. His sponsors were Henri Van Beethoven,‡ as proxy for Adelard de Redineg, Baron de Roegeney, and Jacqueline Grandjean. Henri-Adelard married Marie-Catherine de Herdt, by whom he had twelve children; and it appears from the parish books of the town of Antwerp that their third child, Louis, grandfather of the great composer, was born at Antwerp, where he was baptised in the church of St. Jacques on the 23rd December 1712. Beethoven was, therefore, of Flemish descent. The twelfth child of Henri Van Beethoven, Louis-Joseph, resided at Oosterwyck, near Bois-le-Duc, with his son-in-law, Van der Brugge. He was baptised in the church of St. Jacques, at Antwerp, on the 9th December 1728, and died at Oosterwyck on the 11th November 1808. He married on the 3rd November 1773 Anna Scheurweghs, a native of Pulle (not Wulle, as Fétis says), a village five leagues from Antwerp, where she was born on the 8th October 1752. She died at Antwerp on the 26th

July 1794. By her Louis-Joseph had a son, François-Jacques Van Beethoven, who settled at Maestricht about 1809 and married Maria Lux, and two daughters, Anne-Therese, born at Antwerp on the 29th January 1774 (soon after the marriage of her parents), and Marie-Therese, born at Antwerp on the 11th January 1775. The latter was married at Notre-Dame on the 6th September 1808 to Joseph-Michel Jacobs (born in 1777 and died at Antwerp in 1857), and was the mother of Jacob Jacobs, an eminent painter. She died on the 23rd January 1824, and was the last surviving member of her family at Antwerp. The widow of François-Jacques Van Beethoven was living in 1863, and her son, Hubert who died not long before that time, was one of the last survivors of that generation. Other members of the Beethoven family settled at Maestricht, at Tongres, and at Tirlemont. One of these was Corneille Van Beethoven, a notary at Tongres, who was a son of François-Jacques Van Beethoven, and was born at Maestricht. His descendants still exist at Tongres.

Louis Van Beethoven, the composer's grandfather, was a musician at Antwerp, and seems to have left his native country early in life on account of some quarrel with his family. He settled at Bonn in 1732, first as one of the musicians to the Court, and afterwards as a tenor singer in the chapel of the Archbishop-Elector of Cologne, who resided at Bonn. He was appointed Chapelmaster in or about 1761, and died at Bonn on the 24th December 1774. By his wife Maria-Josepha Poll he had several children, one of whom, Johann, born in 1740, became, as well as his father, a tenor singer in the Elector's chapel.

In the Court Almanack for the year 1760 the following notice of the Beethovens appears:—

CHAPEL OF THE COURT.

Singers.
Ludwig Van Beethoven, singer.
Johann Van Beethoven, additional.

In that for the year 1761 is:—

Chapelmaster.
Vacant.
Singers.
Ludwig Van Beethoven.
Johann Van Beethoven, additional.

In the Almanack for the year 1763 the former is named as Chapelmaster, the latter as Singer. In 1767 Johann Van Beethoven married Maria-Magdalena, widow of Johann Laym, valet-de-chambre to the Elector of Trèves, and daughter of Heinrich Keverich, chief cook to that prince. She was born at Ehrenbreitstein, near Coblenz, as is shown by the following extract from the parish register:—

"Anno 1746, 20^{ma} Decembris, renata est Maria Magdalena Kewerich, Domini Henrici Kewerich, coqui primarii Em^{mi} et Mariæ Westorfs, conjugum legitima filia."

In the marriage register of the same parish appears the record of her first marriage:—

"Anno 1763, 30^{ma} Januarii prævia dispensatione super omnibus denunciationibus de expressa licentia Em^{mi} sub vesperam in sacello apud R.R.P.P. Capucinos coram requisitis testibus.—matrimonialiter copulati sunt prænobilis Dominus Johannes Laym, Em^{mi} Cubicularius et prænobilis virgo Maria Magdalena Kewerich, Vallensis."*

Laym died at the age of thirty, on the 28th November 1765, two years and ten months after his marriage. In the marriage register of the parish of St. Remigius at Bonn, under the date 12th of November 1767,

* Fétis ("Biog. des Musiciens") seems to credit Marsdyck's assertion that a Louis Van Beethoven, son of Helena Keverich, was really born at Zutphen in 1772. He conjectures that Beethoven's mother had a sister, named Helena, married to another son of Louis Van Beethoven, and that they were the parents of the child born in Holland. He supposes also that the error in the register of baptisms, in which Maria Magdalena Keverich is named Helena, proves the existence of another daughter of Heinrich Keverich, and was due to the forgetfulness of the priest, who, acquainted with both sisters, inserted the name of the one for that of the other. There seems, however, to be no evidence whatever in support of this theory, and it is more likely that Marsdyck's account is altogether based on mere local gossip. The error in the register probably arose, as Wegeler suggests, from the abbreviated form "Lenchen" or "Lene" being equally used for the names Magdalena and Helena. Hence the latter was erroneously inserted in the register instead of the former. It may also be added that all the children of Louis Van Beethoven, except Johann, appear to have died young.

† Grégoir strangely says "probably a son of J. S. Bach," but this must be incorrect. In the absence of more precise information respecting this letter, it seems probable that the person to whom it was addressed was Dr. Bach, of Vienna, Beethoven's law adviser. He was not related to the Cantor of the Thomasschule.

‡ Probably his grandfather.

* Ehrenbreitstein is also known by the name of "Thal," or "The Valley."

appears the record of the marriage of Johann Van Beethoven:—

“Copulavi Johannem Van Beethoven, filium legitimum Ludovici Van Beethoven et Mariæ Josephæ Poll, et Mariam Magdalenam Keferich, viduam Laym, ex Ehrenbreitstein, filiam Henrici Keferich et Annæ Mariæ Westorffs.”

The first child of this marriage was a son named Ludwig Maria, who was born on the 2nd April 1769, and died on the 8th of the same month. His godfather was his grandfather Louis Van Beethoven, and his godmother was Anna-Maria Lohe, Madame Courtin. The great composer was born in the following year, and his baptism is thus recorded in the register of the parish of St. Remigius:—

“Anno millesimo septuagesimo septuagesimo die decima septima Decembris baptizatus est Ludovicus, Domini Johannis Van Beethoven et Helenæ Keverichs, conjugum filius legitimus: Patrini: Dominus Ludovicus Van Beethoven, et Gertrudis Müller, dicta Baums.”

It will be observed that Beethoven's mother is here erroneously named Helena. The house in which he was born was in the street named Bonngasse, numbered 515.*

Beethoven's mother died on the 17th July 1787 and his father on the 18th December 1792, leaving two younger sons, Gaspar-Anton-Karl, born on the 8th April 1774, and Nicolas-Johann, born on the 2nd October 1776. Karl, a teacher of the piano, died at Vienna in 1815, leaving a son, Karl, whose subsequent misconduct was a source of much grief and trouble to Beethoven, who had undertaken the charge of his education. Johann, who became an apothecary, and settled at Vienna, survived his illustrious brother for several years.

Beethoven died at Vienna on the 26th March 1827. Mozart's Requiem and a hymn by Seyfried were performed at his funeral, at which more than 35,000 persons were present. The coffin was carried by the following artists belonging to the opera: Eichberger, Schuster, Cramolini, Ad. Müller, Hoffmann, Rupprecht, Borschitzky, and Ant. Wranitzky. During the procession the singers of the opera chanted the Miserere. The pall-bearers on the right were the Chapelmasters Joseph Eybler, J. Hummel, Ignaz Seyfried, and Kreuzer. On the left were Joseph Weigl, Adalbert Gyronetz, J. B. Gansbacher, and W. Würfel. Thirty-six torches were carried by poets, composers, actors, and personal friends, among whom may be mentioned Czerny, Haslinger, Lablache, Baron de Lannoy, Mayseder, Schubert, Steiner, and Breuning, the friend of Beethoven's childhood. His brother was chief mourner. Four addresses were delivered at the grave by S. Anchütz, Grillparzer, J. Castelli, and Baron von Schlechta.

The body of the immortal composer lies in the cemetery of Währing, near Vienna.

In 1845 his statue, by Thorwaldsen, was erected in his native town.

It has always appeared to us that music is degraded from its true position when, instead of asserting its own unaided power, it is used as a means of enlivening a long evening after a dull public dinner. We can perfectly understand why at the Anniversary Festival of the Royal Society of Musicians a concert should form a portion of the entertainment, because it is a meeting of artists in support of the art; and the brothers and sisters of those who are benefited by its funds gracefully show their sympathy with the cause by an exhibition of their talents; but we must confess to a slight feeling of humiliation when we read, as we have lately done, that at a very commonplace dinner connected with a subject entirely unassociated with art, songs and instrumental pieces were inserted between the speeches, and that the “musical arrangements” were under the able direction of an eminent professor. Surely the flow of conversation, relieved at intervals by those displays of eloquence usually called forth at public banquets, should form sufficient variety during an evening, without bringing forward artists whose appeal, to be effectual, must be modified to the exigencies of the occasion. It is very true that music is thus often admitted into the presence of men of the utmost importance and influence in the world, but not in the manner its best friends desire. There is a nobility in art which should make it ever a welcome guest with the aristocracy either of birth or intellect; but when we see it thus hired out we are too forcibly reminded of the gentleman in plush who, with an air of conscious superiority, boasted that he would “wait at table with the highest in the land.”

THERE can be little doubt that, although we may not be candid enough to confess it, we do not like our early beliefs to be interfered with by the stern reality of truth. We are disappointed, for instance, at being told by some officious searchers into historical facts that no such person as William Tell ever existed, or that Joan of Arc was not burned to death at the stake. Let us at once say, therefore, that we much doubt whether our remarks will be received in a friendly spirit when we state, in reply to many questions from correspondents, that most of the well-known sentimental musical effusions put forth with the names of great composers attached to them are spurious productions; and that very few indeed of the compositions bearing descriptive titles were so named by those who wrote them. Beethoven's “Adieu to the Pianoforte,” was written years after the composer was dead; and the “Dream of St. Jerome,” so pathetically alluded to by Thackeray, had no more to do with Beethoven than the piece already mentioned. Weber's “Last Waltz” is by Reissiger, and was published, in a collection of waltzes by that composer, by an English music-seller nearly forty years ago. The air known as the “Harmonious Blacksmith,” is not by Handel, and no blacksmith was in the slightest degree mixed up with it. Beethoven's “Moonlight Sonata,” “Sonata Pastorale,” and “Sonata Appassionata” had no such sensational prefixes in the composer's manuscript; and the mere mention of the ridiculous titles which have been given to Mendelssohn's Lieder ohne Worte—the “Bee's Wedding” being one of the most truly absurd examples—would have driven their sensitive author distracted. With these facts before us, we should be cautious how we receive any composition which on the face of it creates suspicion. Such matters may appear trifles to those who look only upon the commercial side of the question; but there are others whose respect for the great works in art teaches them also to respect the memory of those who produced them; and it is their duty, therefore, to speak on all occasions what they know to be the truth, even at the risk of disturbing the serenity of many who have so long accepted a falsehood as to care not for the result of further investigation.

* Johann Van Beethoven afterwards lived at a house in the Rheingasse, numbered 934, which has been sometimes erroneously regarded as the composer's birthplace.

It is unquestionably a difficult matter to clothe an unpleasant truth in pleasant words; but we nevertheless think it the duty of a critic to make the attempt. An American journal, however, earnestly devoted to the cause of music—which, as the editor informs us, was given three months from its starting to “burst up”—seems to increase in plain-speaking as its circulation improves; for in the last number we have some specimens which are certainly more characteristic of a noble independence of diction than any we have yet seen in its pages. Speaking of a concert, for example—which it describes as a “monstrous, morbid mass of muscular musical melancholy”—Bach’s Cantata, “God’s own time is the best time,” is said to remind its hearers of “a lot of grown-up babies playing at marbles made of the bones of their grandparents.” In a notice of a performance of Wagner’s operas we are told that during many parts “the discord and the out-of-tune (to coin a word) was sublime in the colossal dimensions of its depth, height, thickness, intensity, vigor, relentless masculinity, breadth, intellectuality, and continuity.” And the following is a portion of a review of a pianoforte piece: “To describe it anatomically would be to say that it has neither head, tail, nor torso. It seems to have no raison d’être, certainly no raison musicale. It has no feature, no countenance, no body, soul, nor boots. But there are bristles, whether of a porcupine or of a hog we know not, but they would become the latter animal.” The journal is termed by its proprietors “radical;” but on this side of the Atlantic, at least, we question whether such “radicalism” would not tend to promote a reactionary spirit of “conservatism.”

THE Lancet informs us that “a Society is being formed which will seek for the regulation of street music—not its abolition, which would be impracticable—and that members of the various professions are enrolling themselves with the object of pressing for legislation upon the subject.” Now what this can mean we are at a loss to understand. The suppression of street music is a matter which may reasonably be taken up by any Society desirous of insuring peace and quiet in the streets of our metropolis, but its “regulation” would, we think, defy all the efforts even of our Home Secretary. Is it intended, for instance, that the compositions performed shall be especially arranged for the purpose by a musical committee, that a Conductor shall be appointed for each district, and that a paid official shall decide whether the instruments are perfectly in tune before a performance begins? Are we to imitate the meetings of the School Boards, and quarrel over the best method of educating the masses—the music of the past, present, and future being the bones of contention—so that “Vote for Jones, the tried advocate of the old school,” or “Support Robinson, the unflinching champion of Wagner,” shall be inscribed on the banners of candidates for the office of local commissioners? Surely the subject had better be left to work its own cure. Street musicians have wonderfully improved lately, and will continue to improve without legislation on the matter. Even the trombone-player who for years formed one of a peripatetic band, and blew a hideous note or two whenever he could find an eligible opportunity, has disappeared; and we only read in history that amongst the celebrated street performers was a man who made a very good living by blowing a flageolet with his nose.

FANTI MUSIC.

For the following specimen of Fanti music we are indebted to Lieutenant A. B. Ellis, whose acquaintance with the native customs is the result of a careful study of this curious people. The Esseminah is a choral dance in use at festivals and on all kinds of holidays. A crowd assembles at the sound of drums and arranges itself into a large circle of about six deep, the inner circle being composed chiefly of young women. The Symphony is commenced with a reed instrument and drums, three of which are tuned in minor thirds. As the people sing, clapping their hands and swaying their bodies in time with the music, one of the women steps into the centre of the circle and dances, executing various movements suggestive of the words sung. As soon as she is tired another woman takes her place, and the same thing is repeated. This choral dance is continued for hours at a time and is far from being monotonous. The music is not without melodic interest, and is almost rhythmical enough to suggest European influence. The words are supposed to be sung from the lover to the beloved, but as their ideas of love are scarcely as platonic as those of civilised nations, we refrain from rendering them into English; nevertheless there is much sympathetic poetry in the lines, and we are assured that the Esseminah is exceedingly effective. The reed instrument is a wooden pipe about four feet in length, with three or four holes, and produces a sound somewhat similar to that of the Tyrolese pipe, but more subdued and deeper in tone.

THE ESSEMINAH.

SOLO AND CHORUS, in Unison.

Oh my yun-coh pa-pa im-pu - a - sin doh-doh

DRUMS.

REED INSTRUMENTS.

piyi nar - rah mi quatsie ah mi - num

Brah min - du oh moh - pe - ia u - fio ah hie. . . &c.

THE CAXTON CELEBRATION IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

No more fitting opening of the commemoration of the 400th Anniversary of the Introduction of Printing into England by William Caxton could have been devised than the Festival Service which was given in Westminster Abbey on the afternoon of Saturday, the 2nd ult. We believe we are correct in saying that the suggestion of the service, at least in the form in which it took place, emanated in the first instance from Dr. Bridge, the organist of the Abbey. Remembering that Mendelssohn's "Lobgesang" was composed for the 400th anniversary of the invention of printing in Germany, the happy idea occurred to Dr. Bridge that a performance of this great and popular work on an adequate scale would be a suitable inauguration of our English festival. The proposal was favourably received by the committee, and no pains were spared to bring the matter to a successful issue.

Wisely recognising the fact that the festival was to be chiefly a musical one, the authorities of the Abbey prepared for the occasion a service judiciously abridged from the form of Evening Prayer. Several of the prayers were omitted; instead of the regular psalms for the day one special psalm (xxvii.) was selected and sung to Mr. Turle's fine chant in A major; there was only one lesson, followed by the Magnificat; then came the Apostles' Creed, and the three Collects; after which the "Lobgesang" took the place of the anthem. And here we must pause for our only grumble. Instead of Mendelssohn's work being given, as it ought to have been, continuously, a sermon by Dean Stanley was actually interposed between the chorus "The night is departing," and the immediately succeeding choral "Let all men praise the Lord." The connection of these two pieces is so close that when separated the musical effect is absolutely destroyed; and in this case, to make matters worse, the sermon was followed by an extempore voluntary on the organ, in order to allow the orchestra to tune. The choral ought to follow the chorus without a break, just as in "St. Paul" the choral "To God on high be thanks and praise" follows "Lord, Thou alone art God," and "O Thou the true and only Light" follows "Is this he?" The authorities of the Abbey could not possibly have found a more unsuitable place for dividing the work, if division were necessary, which we are unable to see; and we are only astonished that Dr. Bridge did not enter an emphatic protest against the proceeding. The proper place for the sermon most certainly was at the close of the work.

But now, leaving fault-finding, we come to the much pleasanter work of praising; and in truth there was much to praise. A very excellent chorus of 130 voices was supported by an orchestra of forty-six performers; while the organ was in the hands of Dr. Stainer, and Dr. Bridge conducted with an efficiency the more surprising as his duties at the Abbey probably give him but little practice with the bâton. Of a work so universally known as the "Hymn of Praise" it will be needless to say more than that the solo parts were excellently sung by two of the choir-boys and Mr. G. J. Carter, and that both band and chorus were remarkably steady, all the points being taken up with great accuracy.

A few words must be said about Dr. Bridge's new Magnificat in G, with orchestral accompaniments, specially composed for the occasion. In its form it does not depart widely from the recognised models of cathedral service; but the mostly independent accompaniment for the orchestra gives a brightness and freshness to the work which add much to its attractiveness. After a short prelude for the orchestra, with an effective dominant pedal point, the chorus enters in harmony with a theme previously announced in unison. An effective point is made at the words "For behold from henceforth" by an unexpected modulation into F sharp minor, leading to a tranquil close in D major for "shall call me blessed." From this point the interest of the music is admirably sustained, among other noteworthy features being the settings of the verses "And his mercy is on them" and "He hath put down the mighty." An extremely well-managed enharmonic modulation from the dominant seventh of A flat to D, at the words "As He promised to our forefathers," leads back to the first subject for the Gloria, treated throughout in broad harmony and with no fugal writing. The orchestration of the whole is clear and well balanced; and we could not but regret that, owing to the exigencies of the service, the Nunc dimittis, which forms the companion piece, was not also performed. Dr. Bridge may be honestly congratulated on a well-merited success.

[Since writing the above we have learned that Dr. Bridge was in no degree responsible for the division of the "Lobgesang" into two parts, and that such division was quite contrary to his wishes. It is therefore a simple act of justice to acquit him of all blame; but we must say that in our opinion the authorities of the Abbey did very wrong in not leaving the arrangement in his hands, or at least being guided entirely by his advice.]

THE HANDEL FESTIVAL.

IN anticipation of the great Festival which is proceeding as we write, pessimists seem to have had an enjoyable time. Rolling misfortune, like a sweet morsel, under their tongue, and drawing the longest of long faces, they declared that not only had the Triennial Feast of St. Handel become stale, but that Handel-worship had abated—that public taste was moving on and threatening to leave its whilom idol high and dry in a position where it might comfortably become a fossil. For this gloomy view of things there was, it must be owned, some reason. We have undergone lately so acute an infliction of Wagners, Raffis, et hoc genus omne, that even Handel could hardly keep himself in remembrance. Witness, for example, the scanty audience who were all that cared to hear the master's "Hercules" a few weeks ago, other amateurs in their thousands having rushed to sit at the feet of Anton Rubinstein. But one swallow does not make a summer, neither does what is called musical society constitute the musical opinion of the nation. The success of the Handel Festival so far and the enthusiasm its performances have excited show that the "great heart of England" is sound as ever on the point of devotion to the composer who, more than any other, or all others together, has formed and sustained amongst us a healthy, manly artistic taste. The fact does one good to think of; and our pessimist friends may depend upon it that the catastrophe of Handel's downfall will not take place in their time, even if the youngest of them should falsify the theory of Mr. Thoms, and live to be a doddering centenarian.

The management of the sixth Handel Festival being that which conducted all its forerunners to success, we naturally find the same resources brought into play. Band and chorus remain as large as ever, the only difference in the constitution of the vast orchestra being, as we fancy is the case, that an unusual proportion of its members are Londoners. Something may be said for this change, no doubt. There is an advantage in the possibility of calling the great majority of the performers together from time to time without trouble or expense; while, from an economical point of view, the course now adopted is one of obvious wisdom. On the other hand, much was gained by a liberal introduction of the fresh and powerful country voices; and the imagination was appealed to by the thought that the entire nation sent its representatives to the Handel orchestra, and that the Festival had an imperial significance. To some extent this is so still. In the orchestra there are forty-eight players from the provinces, while in the chorus are a goodly number of singers from Birmingham, Liverpool, Glasgow, Manchester, Bristol, Gloucester, Leeds, and many other towns. We trust that the managers may always be able to conserve the provincial element, and resist the temptation to draw all their strength from the exhaustless resources of the metropolis. The Festival can only thus retain its character as a national rather than a local event. As regards the principal vocalists, it is pleasant to observe how far, in the opinion of those most concerned, English artists retain their pre-eminence as oratorio singers. Of the twelve ladies and gentlemen engaged nine are natives of this country; while of the remaining three, two—Madame Patti and Mdlle. Albani—are half English in the sense of having been brought up in the midst of an English-speaking people. Only Herr Henschel remains as the pure representative of foreign art, which, let us at once say, has good reason to be proud of the choice that placed him in so distinguished a position. And have we no reason to be proud of those who represent our national talent and culture? Undoubtedly we have. Edith Wynne, Lemmens-Sherrington, Patey, Rigby, Cummings, Lloyd, Santley, and Foli, make up a group the members of which are, no doubt, variously gifted, but the force of whose united power is great enough to warrant a fair amount of complacency on our part. We miss Mr. Sims Reeves from the list in which he has heretofore been conspicuous, and we regret his absence, but on the whole there is no reason to complain. Sir Michael Costa of course remains the musical head of the enterprise; fortunately for it, since he could not well be replaced. We are no thick-and-thin admirers of the Neapolitan musician. In our view he does not share with English Majesty the constitutional inability to do wrong. On the contrary his power of making mistakes is sometimes rather too conspicuous. But as the leader of such a host as that gathered on the Handel orchestra he has great qualities, and these should be recognised as they deserve. In that position he is "the right man in the right place." Taking the personnel of the Festival all round, he must be of an exigent nature who is not satisfied. With a good orchestra, a splendid chorus, capable soloists, and experienced managers, the sixth great celebration of Handel's genius comes as near to commanding success as is possible to human schemes.

The General Rehearsal on Friday the 22nd ult. passed off well. Not that it was a rehearsal in the strict sense of the term so much as a concert proper, with programmes, soloists, applause, and no "trying back." It would be better, perhaps, to keep to the original idea, and turn the "rehearsal" to advantage as such. The audience would have no right of complaint, because they are admitted at cheap prices on that very account. Nor would they be disposed to grumble, unless we mistake them—the business of preparation supplying rather an element of interest than a cause of dissatisfaction. But it must be said in common fairness that there was little need, on the occasion of which we speak, to do other than work regularly through the programme. A few well-known choruses from the "Messiah" enabled the army of executants to get well into swing, and the rest was done with surprising ease. Criticism would of course be out of place, and we shall only mention that the soloists who appeared were Mdlle. Albani, Madame Sherrington, Madame Patey, Mr. Lloyd, Mr. Rigby, Signor Foli, and Mr. Santley; the programme being made up of, besides choruses from the "Messiah" and "Israel," a large part of the Selection, including numbers from "Samson," "The King shall rejoice," "Athaliah," "Joshua," "Acis and Galatea," "Hercules," &c., together with the Second Organ Concerto, ably played by Mr. Best. The audience was large, and the true spirit of enthusiasm for Handel made itself conspicuous throughout.

Amateurs whose pleasure or duty it may be to attend provincial musical festivals have observed of late an abatement in the supremacy of the "Messiah." At one time the "Sacred Oratorio" marked the great day of the feast. To its performance came the largest crowd, and for that occasion, where charity was concerned, did the benevolent reserve their noblest gifts. In a great measure this is the case no longer. But from the fact let no hasty and erroneous inference be drawn. It is not so much that the "Messiah" attracts less as that other works have become better known and esteemed. We are entitled to assert so much with boldness, after experience of the "Messiah" day at the Crystal Palace, when upwards of 18,000 persons were present. It should be considered that these 18,000 came, not from the shires, over which new ideas may be expected to advance slowly, but in great part from the metropolis, which new ideas cover like a flood. We own to having had some curiosity—perhaps we should say anxiety—as to the result. But there was no cause for fear. Taking into consideration the fact that Handel Festivals are now familiar, the attendance on the "Messiah" day demonstrated the popularity of the work to be as great as it was twenty years ago. With the man who thinks this is not reason for rejoicing we feel no sympathy, because he can have no notion how far the influence of such a masterpiece operates for good among the multitudes to whom it has become a text-book of art. Detailed criticism of the "Messiah" performance will scarcely be expected of us, and it is not at all necessary to tell how such vocalists as Mdlle. Albani, Madame Edith Wynne, Madame Patey, Mr. Cummings, Mr. Rigby, Herr Henschel, and Mr. Santley rendered the solo numbers. The real matter for observation was found in the choral effects, which alone could claim a distinctive rank. On this text it would be possible and easy to found a long discourse, so well did the army of singers and players discharge their task. Although not more than two or three of the choruses had been rehearsed, scarcely a hitch occurred from beginning to end. That every man and woman engaged had a perfect knowledge of the theme goes without saying; but the wonder was that so vast a host could work together with precision and as animated by one spirit. Yet this was done, without any special effort on the part of the conductor. Sir Michael Costa has often taken greater pains with the "700 performers" of Exeter Hall than with the 3,500 of the Crystal Palace, and not secured equally good results; a fact which speaks volumes not alone for the judgment that selected the Handel Festival band and choir, but for the general musical culture represented on the occasion. The times when most impressive effects were produced followed each other in quick succession, beginning with "And the glory," continuing through "For unto us," the choruses of the Passion, "Lift up your heads," and the "Hallelujah," and culminating in "Worthy is the Lamb" with its pendant "Amen." But we need not attempt a description of the grandeur of such music so performed. Enough that upon every ear the "Messiah" choruses must have fallen with masterful power, and upon every spirit exerted an entralling influence.

The Selection day has heretofore been the weakest of the three in point of favour with the public, but the attendance on Wednesday, the 27th, was greater by 2,000 than on the previous Monday. We shall be told, perhaps, that this result arose from the engagement of Madame Adelina Patti, whose name is a tower of strength even out of the art-sphere in which she usually works. To dispute the attraction of Madame Patti would be absurd, and a good deal must be allowed for it. But not all. We wish to believe, and there are good reasons for doing so, that the multitude who thronged the central transept on the Selection day had a desire to extend their knowledge of the master's works by taking advantage of an opportunity not often recurring. Our only regret is that so little novelty was put before them, and that the bulk of the programme was made up of pieces which have become familiar apart from the connection in which they occur. Surely the Selection might be made to do more for Handel without damage to the commercial speculation of which it forms part. The "Messiah" and "Israel" are readily conceded to popular taste because they are undoubted masterpieces, but among the miscellaneous excerpts we might reasonably expect to find the overture to "Samson" or "Esther" rather than the hackneyed one to the "Occasional Oratorio;" just as we might look for unknown airs and choruses rather than those which long ago caught, and now retain, general favour. In so far as this reasonable expectation is not met, the Festival assumes the character of a money-making rather than an artistic enterprise—a character in which we do not care to regard it. But the Wednesday programme, if hardly what it might have been, was by no means barren of interest. In proof of this we need only give a bare catalogue of its contents. Opening with the overture already named, the first part was continued by the Coronation Anthem "The King shall rejoice," "Call forth Thy powers" ("Judah"), "Sing

O ye heavens" ("Belshazzar"), a group of pieces from "Samson," including "Return, O God of Hosts," "Honour and arms," "Let the bright seraphim," and "Let their celestial concerts," the Overture and "Tyrants would in impious throngs" from "Athaliah;" "In the battle" ("Deborah"), and the March and Chorus, "Glory to God," from "Joshua." The second part began with the Organ Concerto in B flat (No. 2); two Airs and a Chorus from "Acis and Galatea;" "Nasce al bosco" ("Ezio"); "Tyrants now no more" ("Hercules"); "From mighty kings" ("Judas"); a selection from the "Ode on St. Cecilia's Day," including the grand Chorus "The dead shall live," "Sorge infausta" ("Orlando"), and "See the conquering hero." Something, at all events, of novelty as well as much of interest was here; and perhaps we ought not to grumble at a programme which contained the Coronation Anthem, to say nothing of other things quite as unfamiliar. But we must grumble, nevertheless, and hope that, on another occasion, the directors will make more of a magnificent opportunity.

Concerning the performance, taken as a whole, it is our duty to use terms in the highest measure laudatory. Of course there were weak points, but fewer and farther between than the most exigent could have insisted upon as the nearest likely approach to perfection. The overtures and marches brought out the brilliant and well-balanced tone of the orchestra admirably, the "Occasional," above all, producing so great an effect as to reconcile us in some measure to its repetition on these occasions. Not less remarkable was the execution of the choruses, in which all the merit of Monday appeared, plus credit arising from the consideration that the themes were less familiar. Most of the concerted selections are so well known that we are relieved from any obligation to enlarge upon their character. Amateurs, at all events, will imagine without difficulty to what results they led in the hands of such a competent body of executants, and will readily believe that those results equalled, if they did not surpass, anything in the experience of the multitude who listened and applauded. The solos, fourteen in number, were intrusted, in groups of two, to Madame Patti, Madame Sherrington, Madame Patey, Mr. Lloyd, Mr. Rigby, Mr. Santley, and Signor Foli, those falling to the diva of Italian opera being "Let the bright seraphim" and "From mighty kings," the latter of which had to be repeated. Details regarding this part of the concert are less called for than with respect to any other. Enough that each artist did his or her best, that all passed off well, and that the huge audience separated in a state of supreme content.

"Israel" was performed on Friday, the 29th ult., too late for notice in our present issue. Some remarks upon its execution, as well as upon the general results and character of the Festival, will appear next month.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

WE cannot but believe that the success of the new soprano, Mdlle. Etelka Gerster, who made her début on the 23rd ult. as Amina in "La Sonnambula," would have been even greater than it was had her appearance not been heralded by the extracts from foreign papers so industriously circulated some time before her arrival; one, containing a sly little cut at Madame Patti, who happens to be at the rival establishment, declaring that the young vocalist "has conquered criticism and critics on their own field." The fact is that English audiences do not care to be told what they are to think of a new aspirant for their favours; they prefer to judge for themselves, and, as the lessee must have been perfectly assured what a treasure he had secured, the débutante might, on this occasion at least, have been permitted to create her position with her hearers, rather than to prove her right to it. The purity of her voice and the artistic manner in which she executes the most elaborate passages, ascending even to E flat in alt, would alone entitle her to the highest rank as a mere vocalist; but she also possesses remarkable claims to our sympathies as an actress, her by-play with the Count, as well as her passionate earnestness in the bedroom scene, displaying qualities which we hope to see more largely developed in parts offering greater scope for her genius. The audience, at first somewhat frigid, probably from the cause we have mentioned, gradually warmed into enthusiasm; and at the fall of the curtain the applause was loud and continuous. Mention too must be made of the appearance of Mdlle. Chiomi, who as the heroine in "Lucia di Lammermoor" created an effect which has been increased by her subsequent performances; and Signor Talbo, as the Duke in "Rigoletto," evidenced the possession of a really good tenor voice and a very fair stage presence, the "high C" being, as usual, a passport to the favour of a large portion of the audience. The singing of Signor Tamberlik, although still instinct with the artistic feeling of old, is scarcely what it was; and as we never did like Herr Wachtel, it is not likely that he will now recommend himself to our attention, for bad habits deepen as well as good ones, and powerful declamation is not all we want in a vocalist. Madame Christine Nilsson is singing her very best in her favourite parts; and Mdlle. Salla, as we predicted, is rapidly winning her way to a high position.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.

THE production of Wagner's Opera "Der Fliegende Holländer," under the Italian title "Il Vascello Fantasma," has been the only event of the slightest importance at this establishment during the past month. The success of this work during Mr. Carl Rosa's season of English Opera has, we presume, rendered it safe to present it to the subscribers of the Royal Italian Opera; but to those who take interest in the gradual development of the Wagnerian theory, and care not for managerial diplomacy, it seems a somewhat odd proceeding to take an audience to the composer's early works through his late ones. It was refreshing, however, to be released for a time from the vapid Italian school; and we have little doubt that the charming impersonation of Senta by Mdlle. Albani, and the fine dramatic conception of the part of the Dutchman by M. Maurel—the voices of both these artists being admirably suited for the music—will make this Opera one of the most attractive in the répertoire of the establishment, even to those who have but small appreciation of the subtle art with which Wagner has coloured the romantic legend upon which it is founded. Signor Bagagiolo sang well, too, as the Norwegian Captain; and Signor Carpi was at least a painstaking Erick. The scenery, especially the representation of the sea in the first act, with the approach of the Dutch vessel, is just such as would have gladdened the heart of the composer. Little need be said of the revivals, save that Verdi's "Aida" does not improve upon acquaintance; but the decided success of Signor Ordinas as Mephistopheles in "Faust" must be chronicled in proof of the fact that a really competent artist is certain of due recognition, even unheralded by preliminary announcements of former triumphs. Signor Nicolini has returned to the company, and appeared in many of his favourite characters, and Signor Pandolfini has fully confirmed the good opinion we at first formed of him. Praise, too, must be awarded to the débutante, Mdlle. Synnerberg, who in contralto parts not demanding much power may be found useful.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

SPOHR's fine Symphony, which the Directors of this conservative Society still insist upon calling "The Power of Sound," was a most attractive item in the programme of the concert on May 28; and although we cannot say that its many beauties were thoroughly revealed by the band, the performance was on the whole entitled to more applause than was accorded to it. A decided effect was created by Professor Macfarren's Violin Concerto in G minor, the admirable rendering of which by Herr Ludwig Straus, for whom it was especially written, was a graceful recognition of his appreciation of its artistic worth. The slow movement especially was a model of refined and expressive playing, and elicited the warmest marks of approval. The vocalists were Signor and Madame Campobello. At the afternoon concert on the 11th ult. Mdle. Mehlig's performance of Weber's "Concertstück" and Madame Norman-Neruda's execution of a violin Concerto by Viotti were interesting features in the selection. Dr. Sullivan's Overture "In Memoriam," which stood first on the programme, was changed for Beethoven's "Coriolanus" Overture, owing, as it was stated, "to the unavoidable absence" of some of the members of the orchestra, a reason which appeared strangely to puzzle some of the audience. The other orchestral works were Mozart's Symphony in E flat, and Weber's Overture to "Euryanthe." Vocal pieces were contributed with much success by Madame Trebelli and Mr. E. Lloyd. Both the concerts under notice were, as usual, ably conducted by Mr. W. G. Cusins.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

An orchestral concert of the students of this Institution was given at St. James's Hall on the 20th ult., before a large audience. The opening piece, Balfe's Overture to the "Talisman," produced but slight effect; for, apart from its inapplicability to the subject it is intended to describe, there is but little in it even of the tunefulness usually to be met with in its composer's instrumental pieces. Of the works of the students—a Magnificat by Oliveria Prescott, and Nunc dimittis, by Eaton Fanning—we can speak most highly. Miss Prescott's composition—the solo part excellently sung by Miss Marian Williams—has many points of remarkable interest, although it is scarcely as religious in character as that of Mr. Fanning, which is written for chorus and orchestra, and scored with a freedom and absence of exaggeration worthy of much commendation. The admirable training of the pianists was well displayed by Miss Kate Steel in the first movement of Beethoven's Concerto in E flat, by Miss Emily Lawrence in the Andante and Presto of Sterndale Bennett's Concerto in D minor, and by Mr. Morton in the first movement of Beethoven's Concerto in G. Mention must also be made of the fine tone and feeling shown by Miss Frances Thomas in the Larghetto of Weber's Clarinet Concerto in F; and amongst the vocalists who distinguished themselves were Miss Orridge in a solo, with chorus, from Gluck's "Orfeo," and Miss Jessie Jones in the Finale to Mendelssohn's "Loreley." Mr. Walter Macfarren was, as usual, an able Conductor.

HANDEL'S "HERCULES."

To think that in England—the adopted country of its composer—upwards of one hundred and thirty years have been permitted to elapse before so fine a work as "Hercules" is again brought to a hearing would certainly involve us in grave doubts as to the truth of the assertion that a love for the best compositions is steadily gaining ground, were we not convinced of the popular feeling that Handel so shaped his thoughts according to a conventional pattern that few of his Cantatas and Oratorios which have so long lain neglected can now be produced with any chance of their merits being fairly recognised. To Mr. Henry Leslie as Conductor, and the members of the Guild of Amateur Musicians as executants, then, we owe a deep sense of gratitude; for, after a private performance by the above Association, "Hercules" was publicly presented at St. James's Hall on the 8th ult., and achieved a success which, if it did not convince us of its claims to rank amongst the composer's greatest productions, at least created a widely spread feeling of wonder that such noble music should have been for so many years allowed to slumber in obscurity. Certainly the theme is not particularly striking; and the libretto, by the Rev. Thomas Broughton—founded upon the story of Hercules and Dejanira, as related by Ovid in the Ninth Book of his "Metamorphoses"—and upon the same subject in Sophocles' tragedy called the "Trachinians"—would scarcely seem to lend itself to musical treatment; but Handel has overcome all difficulties, and not only in the airs demanding pathos and tenderness, but in the highly dramatic solos in which he has had to express words which would have appalled a more timid composer, the genius of the master is unmistakably displayed. The choruses are not so numerous as we find in most of the similar works of Handel, but "Crown with festal pomp," which concludes the first act, is one of the very best specimens of joyous and exultant choral pieces we know. For bold and vigorous writing "Let none despair," and for sympathetic colouring of the words, "Jealousy," may also be cited as equal to any of the less important of Handel's choruses; and had it not been for the excessive length of the work, we have no doubt that "Crown with festal pomp" would not have been the sole choral number encoined at the performance under notice. The general rendering of the work was extremely good, but an especial feature was the exceptionally fine singing of Madame Patey, who both in the recitatives and airs allotted to her displayed not only that cultivated and artistic style which has already won for her so high a position, but a deep insight into the composer's meaning which elicited the most enthusiastic demonstrations of approval. Mrs. Osgood too, as Dejanira, sang throughout with her accustomed intelligence; but we cannot understand why her finest solo, in which she expresses her remorse at the crime she has unconsciously committed, should have been left out; assuredly the words, although somewhat melodramatic, are not worse than those given to Hercules, descriptive of the racking tortures he has to endure from the effects of the poison, which, declaimed as they were by Mr. Santley, created one of the greatest effects of the evening. Miss Robertson gave the florid music of Iôle with praiseworthy accuracy, but we scarcely think the part suited for her. The solos for Hyllus are amongst the most effective in the work, and, being assigned to Mr. E. Lloyd, it is almost unnecessary to say that they were all delivered with that purity of style and perfection of intonation to which this accomplished vocalist has now accustomed his hearers, and especially in his first air, "Where congealed the northern streams," his singing was worthy of the highest praise. A good word, too, must be said for Mr. Patey, who gave the solo of the Priest of Jupiter without that exaggeration of emphasis which both the text and the music might seem to favour. The chorus, composed of members of Mr. Henry Leslie's choir, as well as of the Guild of Amateur Musicians, was extremely good; but the band was scarcely perhaps in every department equal to the occasion. Mr. Henry Leslie conducted the work as if it were a labour of love, and fully earned the warm applause with which he was greeted. We can scarcely imagine that "Hercules," having been thus disinterred, will again be consigned to oblivion; for if its resuscitation do not lead to its frequent public performance, at least we may expect that it will take its place in the many libraries of Handel's compositions now in the course of formation throughout the kingdom.

WE understand that the following communication has been forwarded by Professor Macfarren to gentlemen making inquiries as to the requirements for Musical Degrees at Cambridge under the new regulations:—

"(Address) 7, Hamilton Terrace, London, N.W.

"My dear Sir,—According to the new regulations, candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Music must first produce evidence of having satisfactorily passed one of the following examinations in literature and science:—

- (1) The 'Previous Examination' of the University, Parts I. and II.;
- (2) The examination of the 'Oxford and Cambridge Schools Examination Board';
- (3) The University 'Higher Local Examinations';
- (4) The University 'Senior Local Examinations.'

"This last examination (No. 4) affords the readiest means of satisfying the University requirements. Candidates for a Musical Degree, announcing themselves as such, are allowed to enter this examination even though they may be over 18 years of age. The next examination will

(A CRADLE SONG.)

Words by W. C. BENNETT.

Music by J. BARNBY.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.) and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)

Andante con moto.

TREBLE. p

ALTO. p

TENOR (8va. lower). p

BASS. p

Lul - la-by! O, lul - la - by! Ba - by, hush that lit - tle cry! Light is

Lul - la-by! O, lul - la - by! Ba - by, hush that lit - tle cry! Light is

Lul - la-by! O, lul - la - by! Ba - by, hush that lit - tle cry! Light is Lul - la-by! O, lul - la - by! Ba - by, hush that lit - tle cry! Light is Andante con moto.

PIANO. p

$\text{♩} = 108.$

dy - ing, Bats are fly - - ing, Bees to-day with work have done. Lo, dy - ing, Bats are fly - ing, Bees to-day with work have done.

dy - ing, Bats are fly-ing, Bees to-day with work have done. Lo, dy - ing, Bats are fly - ing, Bees to-day with work have done.

rall. e dim.

rall. e dim.

rall. e dim.

rall. e dim.

rall. e dim.

Lo, till comes the morrow's sun, Let sleep kiss those bright eyes dry! Lul - la, lul - la,

Lul - la - by! Lul - la, lul - la-by! Lul - la,

Lo, till comes the mor-row's sun, Let sleep kiss those bright eyes dry! Lul - la, Lul - la - by! Lul - la - by! Lul - la, lul - la, lul - la - by! lul - la - by! O lul - la - by! Lul - la - by!

$\text{♩} = 56.$

lul - la - by! lul - la - by! Lul - la - by! O lul - la - by!

lul - la - by! O lul - la - by! lul - la - by! Lul - la - by!

lul - la - by! lul - la - by! Lul - la - by!

cres cen do.

mf dim. p pp

Lul - la - by!.. O, ... lul - la - by! O, lul - la - by! Hush'd are all things

mf dim. p pp

- by! Lul - la - by!.. O, ... lul - la - by! O, lul - la - by! Hush'd are all things

mf dim. p pp

Lul - la - by!.. O, ... lul - la - by! O, lul - la - by! Hush'd are all things

mf dim. p pp

Lul - la - by!.. O, ... lul - la - by! O, lul - la - by! Hush'd are all things

mf dim. p pp

Lul - la - by!.. O, ... lul - la - by! O, lul - la - by! Hush'd are all things far and nigh; Flow'rs are clos - ing, Birds re - pos - - ing, far and nigh; Flow'rs are clos - ing, Birds re - pos - ing,

far and nigh; Flow'rs are clos - ing, Birds re - pos - ing, far and nigh; Flow'rs are clos - ing, Birds re - pos - ing,

rall. e dim. pp
 All sweet things with life . . have done. Sweet, sweet, till dawns the morn - ing sun,
rall. e dim. pp
 All sweet things with life . . have done. . . Lul - la - by!
rall. e dim. pp
 All sweet things with life . . have done. Sweet, sweet, till dawns the morn - ing sun,
p
 All sweet things with life have done. . . Lul - la - by!
p rall. e dim. pp
 Sleep, then kiss those blue eyes dry, Lul - la, lul - la, lul - la, lul - la - by!
 lul - la, lul - la - by! Lul - la, lul - la - by!
 Sleep, then kiss those blue eyes dry, Lul - la, lul - la - by! O, lul - la - lul - la - by! Lul - - - la - - - by!
ppp
 Lul - la - by! lul - - - la - by! . . .
ppp
 Lul - la - by! lul - - - la - by! . . .
pp ppp
 - by! Lul - la - by! O, lul - la - by! lul - - - la - by! . . .
ppp
 Lul - la - by! lul - - - la - by! . . .
pp ppp

Farewell.

(GERMAN VOLKSLIED.)

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street, (W.) and 80 & 81 Queen Street (E.C.)

Andante.

TREBLE. p Love, I must not tar-ry here, I must go to - mor-row; When I part from

ALTO. p Love, I must not tar-ry here, I must go to - mor-row; When I part from

TENOR (Sve. lower). p Love, I must not tar-ry here, I must go to - mor-row; When I part from

BASS. p Love, I must not tar-ry here, I must go to - mor-row; When I part from Andante.

PIANO. p $\text{♩} = 92.$

one so dear, Bit-ter is.. my sor - row. Doat-ing on thee with a heart one so dear, Bit-ter is my sor - row. Doat-ing on thee with a heart one so dear, Bit-ter is.. my sor - row. Doat-ing on thee with a heart one so dear, Bit ter is my sor - row. Doat-ing on thee with a heart cres. That could ne'er de - ceive thee, Now must I leave .. thee, now must I leave thee.

cres. That could ne'er de - ceive thee, Now must I leave thee, now must I leave thee.

cres. That could ne'er de - ceive thee, Now must I leave .. thee, now must I leave thee.

cres. That could ne'er de - ceive thee, Now must I leave thee, now must I leave thee.

p Hearts that once are knit by love, To each o - ther plight-ed, Though the sun and

p Hearts that once are knit by love, To each o - ther plight-ed, Though the sun and

p Hearts that once are knit by love, To each o - ther plight-ed, Though the sun and

p Hearts that once are knit by love, To each o - ther plight-ed, Though the sun and

f stars may move, Still re - main u - ni - ted. p One will suf - fer dead - ly pain,

f stars may move, Still re - main u - ni - ted. p One will suf - fer dead - ly pain,

f stars may move, Still re - main u - ni - ted. p One will suf - fer dead - ly pain,

f stars may move, Still re - main u - ni - ted. p One will suf - fer dead - ly pain, cres. f ff Feel as though 'twere rent in twain When it quits the o - - ther, when it quits the o - ther.

cres. f ff Feel as though 'twere rent in twain When it quits the o - - ther, when it quits the o - ther.

cres. f ff Feel as though 'twere rent in twain When it quits the o - - ther, when it quits the o - ther.

cres. f ff Feel as though 'twere rent in twain When it quits the o - - ther, when it quits the o - ther.

p
If the breeze that pass - es by, Near thy cheek should ho - ver, Think it is a
If the breeze that pass - es by, Near thy cheek should ho - ver, Think it is a
If the breeze that pass - es by, Near thy cheek should ho - ver, Think it is a
If the breeze that pass - es by, Near thy cheek should ho - ver, Think it is a

p
ten - der sigh, Sent thee by thy lo - ver. For the sighs will count-less be, ten - der sigh, Sent thee by thy lo - ver. For the sighs will count-less be, ten - der sigh, Sent thee by thy lo - ver. For the sighs will count-less be, ten - der sigh, Sent thee by thy lo - ver. For the sighs will count-less be,

f p
I shall dai-ly send to thee, Dreaming of thee e - ver, dream-ing of thee e - ver.
I shall dai-ly send to thee, Dreaming of thee e - ver, dream-ing of thee e - ver.
I shall dai-ly send to thee, Dreaming of thee e - ver, dream-ing of thee e - ver.
I shall dai-ly send to thee, Dreaming of thee e - ver, dream-ing of thee e - ver.

cres. f ff
I shall dai-ly send to thee, Dreaming of thee e - ver, dream-ing of thee e - ver.
I shall dai-ly send to thee, Dreaming of thee e - ver, dream-ing of thee e - ver.
I shall dai-ly send to thee, Dreaming of thee e - ver, dream-ing of thee e - ver.
I shall dai-ly send to thee, Dreaming of thee e - ver, dream-ing of thee e - ver.

be held in December 1877. A musical candidate is required to satisfy the examiners—

- (1) in English grammar and arithmetic;
- (2) in two at least of the subjects in section B (English history, geography, a work of some standard English writer, and political economy) and in the English essay;
- (3) in one of the subjects of sections C and D (viz. Latin, Greek, French, or German); and
- (4) in section E (Euclid and algebra).

"Information as regards the details of this examination may be obtained on application to the Rev. G. F. Browne, M.A., Secretary of the Cambridge Local Examinations Syndicate, St. Catharine's College, Cambridge.

"The examination for the degree of Mus. Bac. will consist of three parts:—

- (1) A preliminary examination in
 - * (a) Acoustics,
 - (b) Harmony,
 - (c) Counterpoint;
- (2) The exercise, namely, a musical composition fulfilling prescribed requirements;
- (3) A more advanced examination in musical science.

"And no person will be accepted as a candidate for the second or third part of the examination until he has qualified in the previous part or parts.

"I am unable at present to furnish you with the exact details of this examination. These have to be settled by the Board of Musical Studies, and will not be announced until November; but it seems probable that the first 'Preliminary Examination' will be held early in June 1878, and the 'Advanced Examination' in the following December.

"The certificate of having passed an examination in literature and science will not be demanded from those candidates who may present themselves for the Musical Examination before the end of the Easter Term, 1879, and who at the time of the examination are over thirty years of age.—I am, dear sir, yours faithfully, G. A. MACFARREN.

"Trinity College, June 1877."

On the evening of Tuesday, the 29th of May, a Conversation of professors, students, members and friends of Trinity College, London, was held, to celebrate the opening of the new temporary building in Weymouth Street, near Portland Place. Among those present were Sir John Goss, Sir Julius Benedict, Dr. Bridge, Dr. Steggall, Mr. Barnby, Mr. H. G. Bonavia Hunt, M.A., Mus. B. (Warden); Dr. Hinton, M.A. (Hon. Sec.); Mr. E. Silas, Dr. Llewellyn Thomas, F.R.C.P.; Mr. Charles Mackeson, Mr. Humphrey Stark, Mus. B. (Hon. Registrar); Professor Passauer, LL.D.; Mr. Lott, Mr. Gordon Saunders, Mus. B.; &c. Letters expressing regret at their inability to attend were received from the Rev. Sir F. A. Gore Ouseley, Bart., Professor Macfarren, and Dr. Stainer. During the course of a very interesting address, the Warden heartily welcomed the visitors, and having set forth the objects and prospects of the College, said: "I won't weary you with a recital of either the history or the advantages of Trinity College. But I should like to take this opportunity of stating, in reply to questions asked from time to time in the public journals, that the governing body of this College has marked out for it a special and distinct ground of its own, and as there is no desire so there is no need to trespass in any way on the especial field of others. Speaking for ourselves, we find our borders spreading rapidly and our numbers increasing steadily without any falling off in the numbers of students or members of other bodies. This year, at the suggestion of one of our musical journals, we have ventured on a much larger—I may truly say a national—scheme: the Local Examinations in Elementary Musical Knowledge. And here our warmest thanks are due to our kind friends Sir Julius Benedict and Sir John Goss (Cheers) for the respective duties they have so kindly undertaken as adjudicators of the prizes. The time for receiving names of candidates has not yet expired, but I have the pleasure to announce that up to this date, thanks to the efforts of our local secretaries, between 900 and 1,000 candidates have sent in their names (Cheers), and I believe I am right in saying that this number is without a precedent in the annals of purely musical examinations (Loud Cheers). I feel that after this statement I have nothing more to add in support of our claims to the practical goodwill of the country at large, and to the co-operation of all musical men in particular. In order to carry out this and other important schemes, we want the sinews—funds; and it is within the power of all present to help us, by becoming honorary members of the College, or in any other way contributing to our support, and also by furthering our cause amongst their friends" (Cheers). The proceedings of the evening were agreeably varied by songs contributed by Mr. Stedman and Mr. Thurley Beale, a pianoforte solo by Mr. E. Silas, an harmonium solo by Mr. Higgs, jun., a piano and flute duet by Mr. Lott and Mr. B. Wells, and two recitations spiritedly given by Mr. Charles Fry.

WE have much pleasure in laying before our readers the "Outline Programmes" of the Leeds Triennial Musical Festival, which commences on Wednesday, September 19. Wednesday morning, "Elijah" (Mendelssohn). Wednesday evening, Part I.: "The Fire-King," a Cantata by Walter Austin (first time of performance); Part II.: the Overtures to "Tannhäuser" (Wagner) and "The Merry Wives of Windsor" (Nicolai), and a miscellaneous selection. Thursday morning, Part I.: Beethoven's Eighth Symphony, miscellaneous selection, and Overture to "Der Freischütz" (Weber); Part II.: "Walpurgis Nacht" (Mendelssohn), miscellaneous selection, and Overture to "Fra Diavolo" (Auber). Thursday evening, Handel's "Solomon." Friday morning, "Joseph," an Oratorio, written for this Festival by Professor G. A. Macfarren. Friday evening, Part I.: Raft's Symphony in G minor, miscellaneous selection, Overture to "Semiramide" (Rossini); Part II.: Overture to "The Wood-Nymphs" (Bennett), miscellaneous selection, Ballet-Music by Gounod, Overture to "Jessonda" (Spohr). Saturday morning, Part I.: Magnificat in D (J. S. Bach) and the Requiem Mass (Mozart); Part II.: "Mount of Olives" (Beethoven). The vocalists engaged are Mdle. Titiens (whose valuable services are still hoped for), Mrs. Osgood, Madame Edith Wynne, Madame Patey, Mdle. Redeker, Miss Bolingbroke, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. Santley, and Signor Foli. The Conductor will be Sir Michael Costa, and Dr. Spark will preside at the organ.

THE Grosvenor Choral Society on the occasion of its sixty-fourth monthly Concert gave a performance of F. H. Cowen's Cantata "The Rose-Maiden." The choruses were sung with much expression and precision of attack by the choir of about eighty voices, the "Wedding Chorus" being redemanded. Miss Gertrude Hemming was successful in her rendering of the music allotted to Roseblossom; and Mr. A. Lawrence Fryer sang the principal tenor music with great effect, gaining an encore for the duet with Miss Hemming, "I know a rosebud shining." Miss Kate Reed (contralto), Mr. G. Thorp, R.A.M. (tenor), and Mr. T. Nettlehip (baritone) were the other soloists. Mr. J. H. Maunder accompanied. The second part was miscellaneous, and included "The cuckoo sings in the poplar tree" (G. A. Macfarren), and the "Chorus of Fishermen" from Auber's "Masaniello." Miss M. Turner, L.A.M., and Mr. Arthur Baxter sang respectively, "Oh! that we two were maying" (Gounod), and "Far on the deep blue sea" (Thomas), both of which were enthusiastically encored. Mr. T. F. Williams contributed a concertina solo, and Mr. J. G. Callcott conducted.

A CONCERT in aid of the London Diocesan Deaconess's Institute was given at Seymour Hall, Seymour Street, on the 21st ult., by the choir of St. Michael's and All Angels' Church, Star Street, Paddington, assisted by Madame Ernst, Miss Hayton, and Mr. Stedman, under the direction of Mr. W. H. Sangster. The principal number of the first part was the Cantata "Praise Jehovah" ("Lauda Sion," Mendelssohn); the soli parts were taken by the choir-boys, Mr. Stedman, and Mr. Rattee. Mr. Charles Gardner presided at the pianoforte, and Mr. Gordon Saunders at the harmonium. In the second part two effective compositions of the Conductor, Mr. W. H. Sangster, were introduced—a part-song, "While the dawn on the mountain," and a duet "Stars of the summer night;" both were well sung, the first by the choir, and the second by Madame Ernst and Miss Hayton, and received with considerable favour. Other successful pieces were "Oh come in thy beauty," Serenade, sung by Mr. Stedman; "Rock me to sleep" (Benedict), sung by Madame Ernst; and the Chorus of Housis from Schumann's "Paradise and the Peri."

* "A Course of Lectures on Elementary Acoustics will be delivered at Cambridge in the Cavendish Laboratory during the ensuing October term. For particulars apply (on or after October 1) to Sedley Taylor, Esq., M.A., Trinity College, Cambridge."

At the last General Chapter Meeting, held in Norwich Cathedral on the 5th ult., Dr. Buck sent in his resignation as organist and choirmaster, a post he has held since the year 1819. He was first a chorister in the Cathedral under Dr. Beckwith, the then organist. Dr. Beckwith died in 1809, his son, Mr. John Beckwith, succeeding his father. Zachariah Buck was articled to him, afterwards became a partner, and on the death of Mr. John Beckwith, was appointed organist and choirmaster. Dr. Buck has been eminently successful in his training of the chorists, the Norwich boys having had a great reputation all over the kingdom for their purity of tone, and the numerous pupils he has sent out as organists have held a high position in the profession. Dr. Buck's degree of Doctor of Music was conferred on him by the Archbishop of Canterbury. The Dean and Chapter having accepted his resignation, he has been offered a retiring pension of £125 per annum.

A VERY successful and well-attended Concert was given in Hawkstone Hall, adjoining Christ Church, Westminster Road, on Tuesday the 5th ult., under the conductorship of Mr. F. G. Edwards, organist and director of the choir of the church. The artists were Miss Mary Davies, Miss Helen D'Alton, Mr. Henry Guy, and Mr. George Whillier, vocalists; Mdle. Gabrielle Vaillant, violin; and Mr. F. G. Edwards, solo pianoforte. The Christ Church Choir, numbering fifty voices, sang for the first time at this concert, and created a very favourable impression, the rendering of Gounod's "Ave Verum" and "As the hart pants" (Mendelssohn) being deserving of the highest praise. A special feature was the introduction of a new (MS.) song "I hear thee speak of a better land," composed by Mr. Edwards and sung by Miss Jessie Williams, an amateur, who received a well-merited encore. Mr. F. J. Sawyer and Mr. F. Beckley were efficient accompanists.

MR. C. H. COULDERY'S sacred Cantata, "Christ's Entry into Jerusalem," which was produced at his concert at the Royal Academy of Music on the 1st ult., would have had a fairer chance had he been able to supply a full band; for the performance of the wind-parts on the organ by Mr. Mountain materially weakened the effect of the accompaniments in a work of such pretension. Enough was shown, however, to prove that the composer has studied in a good school. The choruses are the weakest portion of the Cantata, although in many portions of these the vocal writing shows very decided power. Some of the solos are extremely melodious; and an unaccompanied Trio was encored. The principal vocalists were Miss Jessie Jones, Miss Marion Severn, Mr. W. H. Cummings, and Mr. Wadmore. At the conclusion of the Cantata Mr. Couldery was called forward and warmly applauded.

On the 7th ult. Miss Florence Sanders gave her Annual Concert at the Langham Hall, when she was assisted by Miss Mary Davies, Miss Annie Butterworth, Miss M. J. Williams, Mr. Stedman, Mr. Frank Holmes, Mr. Wadmore, and Mr. Alfred Gilbert. Miss Sanders, who is a pupil of Mr. W. H. Holmes, was highly successful in her rendering of several pianoforte solos, Beethoven's Sonata in C major (dedicated to Count Waldstein) being especially effective. One of the principal items of interest was Purcell's Scena, "Mad Tom," sung by Mr. Wadmore. Miss Mary Davies was heard to advantage in "When the heart is young" (Dudley Buck), as was Miss Annie Butterworth in the "Willow Song" of Sullivan; Mr. Stedman introduced a new and effective ballad, "The dear long ago," by Julia Woolf. Mr. Alfred Gilbert accompanied with his usual ability.

A CONCERT was given by the City division of the London Vocal Union on Monday the 11th ult. at Albion Hall, London Wall, in aid of the funds of the Carter Lane Mission. The programme opened with the anthem, "In Jewry is God known," which was exceedingly well sung. All the choruses, including "O Father, whose Almighty power" (Handel), "The heavens are telling" (Haydn), and the "Hallelujah" were also satisfactorily given. The principal vocalists were Miss J. Harris, Miss Rendle, Miss M. A. Burke, Miss Carter, Messrs. Hardy, Robinson and Winder. One of the features of the evening was a brilliant pianoforte solo, admirably played by Miss Fanny Henman, who also accompanied. Messrs. George Wells and Thomas Chappell were the Conductors.

MR. ALEXANDER J. ELLIS'S paper "On the Measurement and Settlement of Musical Pitch," read before the Society of Arts, is too lengthy and elaborate for discussion in our columns. We can scarcely believe that the existing evil will be remedied effectually by adopting Mr. Ellis's suggestion that different pitches should be used adapted to the music of various periods; but it is evident that the proposition is not put forth without due consideration. Professor Macfarren's remarks, in the discussion which followed the reading of the paper, as to the effect of climate and of crowded assemblies upon the pitch of instruments seem indeed to prove that, even if we were to decide upon a standard measurement, it would be almost impossible to preserve it throughout a concert.

A VERY attractive Harp Concert was given by Mr. John Thomas at St. James's Hall on the 21st ult., the selection comprising several works executed by a band of harps, which included most of our eminent professors of the instrument. The vocalists were Mrs. Osgood, Mdle. Enriquez, Madame Edith Wynne, Miss Robertson, Miss Henrietta Beebe, Madame Antoinette Sterling, Mr. William Shakespeare, Mr. Lewis Thomas and Signor Federici. The performance of Mr. Thomas was of course a principal feature in the concert; and some of his most effective compositions, both vocal and instrumental, were included in the programme. The attendance was numerous.

A MOST successful Concert was given on May 31, in the Girls' School Room, in aid of the funds of the Schools of St. James the Less, Westminster, by the members of St. James the Less Choral Union, assisted by Mr. W. Sexton and Mr. E. J. Bell (of Westminster Abbey) and Mr. T. W. Hanson (of St. Paul's Cathedral). The programme contained a selection of quartets, glees, choruses, and solos, all of which were excellently rendered. Mr. W. Tuddenham played Rode's Concerto, for Violin, No. 7, in a masterly manner; and Mr. H. Tuddenham, organist and choirmaster of St. James the Less Church, was a most efficient Conductor.

MR. J. GREENHILL gave his Annual Concert in the new Concert Room of the Royal Academy of Music on the 13th ult., assisted by the Misses Mary Davies, Annie Butterworth, Ellen Horne, Jessie Royd, Messrs. Wadmore, Carlos Florentine, and Henry Pyatt as vocalists. The instrumentalists were: piano, Miss Josephine Lawrence; harmonium, Madame Sievers; and violoncello, Herr Theodor Liebe. Signori Randegger and Pinsuti, and Messrs. J. C. Ward and Alfred Gilbert officiated as Conductors. A feature in the programme was the admirable singing of a choir of boys, trained by Mr. Greenhill. The bénéficiaire is to be congratulated on the success of his concert.

CONCERTS have taken place at the Alexandra Palace on the 9th and 23rd ult., the first part of the programme on each occasion having been devoted to classical music, while selections of a popular character have formed the second part. The concerts have been supported by Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Miss Mary Cummings, Mr. E. Lloyd, and other vocalists, the conductor being as usual Mr. H. Weist Hill. Several performances of well-known English operas have also been given during the past month, at which Madame Edith Wynne, Madame Rose Hersee, Miss Palmer, Mr. G. Perren, Mr. G. Fox, and other artists have appeared.

At the opening of the first school erected by the Board in the city of Westminster, on the 11th ult., a short Sacred Concert was given under the direction of Mr. E. Cympton, consisting of a selection from Mendelssohn's "Elijah" and various anthems by well-known composers. Miss Cattermole was encored for her rendering of "The marvellous work" and Mrs. Milburn was very successful in her singing of "Lux mihi laus" (the motto of the Board), the composition of the Conductor. Mr. F. A. Bridge and Mr. W. H. Monk also contributed to the success of the concert. The choir numbered about thirty voices, mostly selected from the Board teachers.

MISS EMMA BARNETT's first Recital, which was given at St. George's Hall on the 13th ult., displayed this rising young pianist's powers with admirable effect, the programme having been judiciously selected to show her command over music of the most varied character. The Prelude and Fugue in C sharp major of Bach, and Rondo in E flat of Weber, were excellently rendered, and two of her brother's compositions were encored. In Beethoven's Sonata in D major (No. 3, Op. 10) and pieces by Schubert, Handel, Chopin, &c., she was also highly successful, and received, as she deserved, the warmest applause.

WE regret that space will not allow of our presenting even an abstract of Mr. C. K. Salaman's paper on "The English Language as a Language for Music," which was read at the meeting of the Musical Association on the 4th ult. We may say, however, that the subject was most ably treated, and that many happy instances of the beauties and defects of our language for musical purposes were adduced. We hope to be able to make some quotations from the article when the whole proceedings of the Musical Association for the present season are published.

MR. ALFRED COX's Evening Concert took place on the 16th ult. at Myddelton Hall, Islington, when he was assisted by Miss Annie Sinclair, Miss Evans, Miss Rhoda Temple, Miss F. Taylor, Mr. Frank Belmont, Mr. Sandham, Mr. Stanley, Mr. Cubitt, Mr. Harradine, and Mr. Farquharson, vocalists; pianoforte, Miss Cooper, R.A.M., and Mr. Alfred Cox; harmonium, Mr. E. Snell. The programme was an attractive one, and well rendered, a feature of the evening being two duets for piano and harmonium, cleverly executed by the concert-giver and Mr. Snell.

WE have much gratification in announcing that Mdle. Titiens is rapidly recovering from the serious illness from which she has been suffering, and many of the most sanguine of her admirers persist in believing that she will be heard at the Autumn Festivals. No doubt "the wish is father to the thought" with those who indulge this anticipation; and, much as we should all desire her reappearance before the public, we sincerely hope that she will not be permitted to endanger her perfect restoration to health by any premature exertion.

A MEETING was held during the past month at the Concert Room of the Royal Academy of Music in aid of the funds for building a Tonic Sol-fa College. Several speakers—including Dr. Stainer, Mr. Sedley Taylor, Mr. Brinley Richards, Mr. Ellis, and Mr. Curwen—made eloquent appeals in behalf of the object for which the meeting was called; and it was announced that about £1,200 had already been given or promised, but that the sum required for the building would be £9,000.

ON May 28 Miss Coyte Turner gave her second Annual Concert at Myddelton Hall, Islington, assisted by Miss Banks, Miss Marian Lynton, Mr. Stedman, Mr. Redfern Hollins, Mr. James Sydney, Mr. Conrad King, and Signor Brocolini as vocalists; pianoforte, Miss Florence Sanders, and violin, Herr Polonaski. The artists were very successful in their various solos. Miss Turner gave evidence of possessing a contralto voice of good compass and power. Mr. Arnold Birch conducted.

M. ORELYANNI gave his sixth and last concert at Langham Hall on the 23rd ult., when he was assisted by Miss Kathleen Grant, Mdle. H. Arnim, M. Felix Bury, and Signor Adelmann (vocalists), M. Victor Buziau (violin), Herr Rudersdorff (violoncello), and Mr. E. Lane (pianoforte). The playing of M. Buziau and Herr Rudersdorff and the singing of Mdle. H. Arnim elicited much applause. Mr. E. Lane was the conductor.

A FESTIVAL SERVICE in connection with the Caxton Celebration was held in St. Paul's Cathedral on the 19th ult., when Mendelssohn's "Festgesang," composed for the ceremony of unveiling the statue of Gutenberg at Strasburg, was the anthem. Beethoven's "Hallelujah" was also sung, and an eloquent sermon was preached by the Rev. Canon Barry. The musical portion of the service was performed by the full choir of the Cathedral.

MR. CHARLES GARDNER's twelfth annual concert was given at Willis's Rooms on the 22nd ult., the chief feature in the programme being the pianoforte performance of the beneficiaire, whose refined touch and artistic feeling elicited much applause from a thoroughly appreciative audience. Mr. Gardner was assisted by many eminent artists, both in the vocal and instrumental department.

THE marriage of Miss Bolingbroke with Mr. Alfred Mudie (nephew of the late C. E. Mudie) took place on the 13th ult., at the New Church, Camden Road. Miss Mary Davies, a fellow-student of the bride at the Royal Academy of Music, was one of the bridesmaids, and Signor Randegger played the "Wedding March" on the occasion.

WE hear that Mr. Crowest, author of "The Great Tone-Poets," has ready another work (to be published by the Messrs. Bentley), which will contain characteristic anecdotes of past musical celebrities, with notes and criticisms from a modern view.

REVIEWS.

The Resurrection. An Oratorio. The text selected by E. G. Monk. The music composed by G. A. Macfarren. The pianoforte arrangement by F. W. Davenport. [London: Stanley Lucas, Weber and Co.]

THE somewhat tardy publication of Professor Macfarren's second Oratorio, written for and produced at the Birmingham Festival last summer, will be heartily welcomed by musicians—perhaps most of all by the members of our choral societies. On the occasion of the first performance of the work it was spoken of in some detail, though necessarily with a certain amount of reserve, in these columns. An examination of the score more than confirms the favourable opinion at that time expressed. We decidedly think that as a whole the "Resurrection" is an advance upon "St. John the Baptist." In style the two works have but little in common. The earlier Oratorio is in many parts highly dramatic, while the "Resurrection" is essentially didactic. The latter work, too, is about one half longer than its predecessor, and contains a larger proportion of amply developed movements; and while, from the nature of its subject, it contains nothing so striking as the choruses for male voices in the second part of "St. John the Baptist," the interest of the music is on the whole more equally sustained.

It may be said at once that the chief strength of the Oratorio lies in its choral music. This arises naturally from the fact that the composer's forte lies in his thorough mastery of the resources of harmony and counterpoint rather than in the natural flow of his melodic ideas. In saying this let us not be supposed to deny to Professor Macfarren the gift of melody. Nothing is further from our intention; but in our opinion the interest of his music is to be found, as a general rule, less in the melodies themselves than in the skill with which they are presented and in the mastery with which they are developed. For this reason the choruses of the work, being those portions in which most scope for thematic treatment and contrapuntal device is afforded, are the numbers which are likely to produce the deepest impression. "St. John the Baptist" contained only three important choruses for the whole choir; the present work has seven, besides three "Choral Hymns," on which we shall say a word presently. All these choruses are in various styles masterly; we are, indeed, at a loss to which to assign the preference. Of the quieter numbers the pathetic chorus "Woe unto us! for the Lord hath added grief unto our sorrow" and the very original "He pardoned and absolveth" (the opening movement of which is written in the Dorian mode) are particularly beautiful; while "This is the victory that overcometh the world," "He is the Resurrection," and the finale "Joy all men in our God the Lord," are not only full of spirit, but masterly examples of scientific writing. The concluding chorus, founded upon the "Old Hundredth," is evidently modelled upon the style of Bach, who so often in his choruses takes a well-known choral as his theme. Professor Macfarren had already done the same thing with the chorus "My soul praise the Lord" in "St. John the Baptist," and there can be but little doubt that the well-deserved success of that piece induced him to try a similar experiment here. His second essay has been no less fortunate than his first.

The three "Hymns" for chorus to which reference has already been made are obviously modelled on the plan of the German choral, as we find it in the works of Bach and, more recently, in the oratorios of Mendelssohn. There is, however, this difference, that whereas Bach and Mendelssohn mostly took well-known church melodies and arranged them, Professor Macfarren has written his own chorals, which consequently will not produce the same impression on the hearers as would have been the case with familiar tunes. Of the three hymns introduced, the first and second (Nos. 3 and 13 of the score) are in our opinion charming; the third (No. 22) seems to us somewhat more conventional. The composer gives the first verse of the choral to the choir, with unaccompanied four-part harmony; the second is sung by the chorus in unison, with a free counterpoint for the orchestra.

Of the solo music that allotted to the baritone will be found the least grateful to the singer. To this voice is given the whole of the narrative, entitled in the score "Recitation," and comprising seventeen numbers out of the thirty-six which the Oratorio contains. The whole of these pieces are set either as recitative or more frequently as arioso, a form which may be described as intermediate between recitative and air. Much of this music is both interesting and highly characteristic; but the baritone singer who undertakes the part may feel somewhat aggrieved at not having throughout the Oratorio a single song. Professor Macfarren has of course followed the precedent of Bach in his treatment of the part of the Evangelist in his "Passion Music;" but Bach gave also some songs to the same voice. That the recitations can be made effective was proved conclusively enough at Birmingham by Mr. Santley; but it requires such singing as his to do them justice.

Among the solo music allotted to the other voices our own favourites are the soprano song "For this our heart is faint," the two contralto airs "Let us have grace" and "His right hand shall hold us up," and the tenor song "The wages of sin is death." Best of all, however, we like the charming trio for soprano, alto, and tenor, "The peace of God which passeth all understanding."

The only instrumental movement in the Oratorio is the overture, a masterly composition, which we think will take rank even above the orchestral prelude to "St. John the Baptist." There can be no doubt that by his second Oratorio Professor Macfarren has not only sustained but enhanced his previous high reputation as a representative English composer.

Music and Musicians. Essays and Criticisms by Robert Schumann. Translated, edited, and annotated by Fanny Raymond Ritter. [William Reeves].

If there be any real lovers of music who, knowing and appreciating Schumann the composer, have but a slender acquaintance with Schumann the critic, we counsel them at once to procure the volume before us; for in its pages will be found the matured impressions of one of the most profound thinkers upon the art the world has yet seen. As the clever translator of the book reminds us, the "Davidite Society," so often mentioned in Schumann's criticisms, was an invention of his own, the signatures "Eusebius," "Florestan," &c. being used whenever he cared not to proclaim himself as the writer of certain notices; but those articles in which he felt wholly interested he signed "R. S." His labours in the cause of art can scarcely be estimated at their full value by those who know not the history of his connection with the Neue Zeitschrift, of which he was so long the editor, for the few aphorisms and short critiques occasionally quoted from his writings convey but a faint notion of his crusade against the musical Philistines of his day, which he manfully pursued in spite of a powerful opposition. Schumann was a man of high culture, and his judgment upon musical compositions was based upon his knowledge and intellectual appreciation of the works of genius in other arts and sciences than that to which he was especially devoted. His mission was to discover and foster merit wherever he found it; and as a proof that an artist can be best judged by his brother artists, we may call to mind his warm praise of Berlioz, Henselt, Sterndale Bennett, Chopin, Gade, &c., and also his recognition of the talent of Johannes Brahms, who was then but gradually making his way in the land of his birth, and was indeed almost unknown beyond it. We need but to scan the pages of this book of gossiping criticism to see not only how he venerated the great composers of the world, but with what undisguised contempt he looked upon those who, having but small knowledge of their works, undertook to pronounce upon their merits. Speaking to one who had praised Beethoven, he says, "He would have risen up before you like a lion, and asked, 'Who are you who dare to do so?' I do not reproach you, Eusebius, you are a good fellow; but must a great man always find a thousand dwarfs at his heels? When they smile and applaud, do they fancy they understand the man who fought and struggled to uncounted battles? Those who are unable to explain to me the simplest musical laws presume to judge the master in them all." And then how withering is the scorn with which he relates the story of the Silesian country gentleman, who, having procured a cabinet for music with handsome alabaster pillars, glasses with silk curtains, &c., writes to a music-dealer thus: "But its most precious ornament is still wanting, so pray send me the complete works of Beethoven, as I like that composer much."

It would be impossible in our limited space to convey any notion of this collection of essays and criticisms by quotation, for the critiques are so complete in themselves that a few fragments would but destroy the pleasure of reading them in their entire state. As, however, it has been often said that in England we are somewhat apt to overrate the position which Sterndale Bennett should occupy in the world of art, let us hear what Schumann, the German, says of his compositions: "There is an amiability in these pieces," he writes, "that must put rough workmen to shame, a wealth of grace in every lightest movement, and innocence and poetry in all. . . . Foreign lands give us so little just at present. Italy only sweeps over to us her butterfly dust; and the knotted outgrowths of the wondrous Berlioz frighten us all. But this Englishman, among them all, comes nearest to German sympathies; he is a born artist, such a one as Germany herself possesses few to boast of." And this, be it remembered, is only a small portion of the praise bestowed upon our countryman by one who could be attracted to him only by the kindred ties of genius.

The many aphorisms scattered throughout the volume will be found highly valuable to musical students. Some, as we have already said, have been quoted in English journals; but we will conclude with one but little known: "Warn the youth who composes. Fruit that ripens too early falls before its time. The young must often unlearn theory, before it can be put in practice." Warmly do we commend this truth to the consideration of aspiring young composers.

Tunes for the Family and the Congregation. Selected by S. D. Major. [Bristol: William Mack.]

YET another tune-book added to the countless number already in existence! In his preface the editor says that the work has been compiled to provide suitable tunes for the many new varieties of metre to be found in recently published hymn-books. Certainly credit must be given to the present volume on the score of comprehensiveness, for it contains no fewer than 772 tunes, and provides for 210 different metres. But having said this, and having added that the arrangement of the tunes is mostly simple and good, our praise must end. The book is the most heterogeneous collection of all kinds of pieces, good, bad, and indifferent, that we ever met with; quantity without the slightest regard to quality seems to have been the aim of the editor. Side by side with the finest Lutheran chorals and really beautiful tunes by Samuel Wesley, Dr. Gauntlett, and others, we find such atrocious specimens of psalmody as "Job," "Cranbrook," and "Lydia," horrible musical abortions, which we had hoped were long since banished from the society of decent psalm-tunes. Moreover the editor's musicianship appears to be not always above reproach; for instance, the tune "Eignbrook" (No. 176), which is taken from the "Hallelujah," has had its rhythm so altered as to throw most of the musical accents on the unaccented syllables of the words; while in the tune "St. Asaph" (No. 451), which is given in F sharp minor, an editorial note informs us that the original key is A flat! As a work of reference—a sort of cyclopædia of psalmody—the volume may be found useful; but we do not think it from any other point of view a favourable sample of modern tune-books.

A Morning and Evening Service in E. By Charles Edward Miller. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

MR. MILLER's somewhat elaborate Service, which contains in all thirty-three pages, may be looked at from two different points of view, the purely musical and the practically useful; and the judgment which may be passed upon it will probably depend to a considerable degree on the aspect from which it is regarded. Considered simply as music, we find much in it to commend. While written quite in orthodox cathedral style, there is a freshness about the ideas and an absence of the commonplace which are by no means invariable characteristics of compositions of this class. Of the four pieces contained in the Service, while all are interesting, we think that the Benedictus on the whole pleases us most; the passage for the basses alone, "And Thou, Child, shalt be called the Prophet of the Highest," is very effective, while the modulations in the following verses (p. 18) are not only of unusual boldness for cathedral music, but are conducted with the skill of a practised musician. The other portions of the Service also contain much excellent writing; and from a musical point of view we can give high praise to the whole work.

When we turn, however, to the question of its general practical utility our approbation must be more qualified. While many parts are perfectly straightforward and easy to sing, we find others (and some of these musically among the best) which would sorely puzzle an average parochial choir, and which, in our opinion, the large majority would probably not be able to sing at all without a much larger amount of practice than they would be likely to give. To quote a few instances, in the Te Deum (p. 3), at the words "The glorious company of the Apostles," we find the signature of B, with five sharps. Of course, so long as there are but few accidentals it is just as easy to sing in B as in C, and the first part of the passage presents no difficulty; but at the words "The Father of an infinite majesty" Mr. Miller introduces an excellent modulation into D sharp major, and the passage bristles with sharps and double-sharps in a manner likely seriously to disconcert amateur choristers. Another crabbed (though perhaps rather less difficult) bit of modulation will be found near the end of the Te Deum (p. 11, lines 1 and 2). Another hard nut for parish choirs to crack occurs in the Benedictus (p. 18), where an enharmonic change of notation from B flat to A sharp takes place at the words "And to guide our feet into the way of peace;" while a third is met with in the Magnificat (p. 27, last line). It is worth noting that in all these cases the difficulty consists not in the modulation but in the notation. Had Mr. Miller written his Service in E flat instead of in E major, the passages would have been easy enough; but our own experience with amateur choirs is that nothing more confuses them than enharmonic changes, and therefore we regret that the composer should have chosen a key for his Service which rendered their introduction necessary.

We have dealt with Mr. Miller's work at some length because its merits are above the average. Those who are not afraid of music with plenty of accidentals will find this Service repay them for the trouble of practice.

Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, in F. By Francis Edward Gladstone, Mus. Bac. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THOUGH somewhat too elaborate in construction to be within reach of average amateur choirs, this composition will be likely to find favour where a more ambitious musical service is attempted. Both pieces are effectively written, and throughout give evidence of the skill of the composer.

O give thanks. Anthem by Joseph Mullen. [Dublin: Foster and Co.] Shows good feeling for music, though no very striking originality; and appears to us to suffer from its rather too fragmentary character, there being more than a dozen changes of time in an anthem of eight pages.

An Air composed for Holsworthy Church Bells, and varied for the Organ. By Samuel Sebastian Wesley. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THIS is, we believe, one of the posthumous works of one of the greatest English composers of the present century; and, although a small and unpretending composition, the workmanship and putting together show throughout the hand of the master. While we cannot cease to regret that Samuel Sebastian Wesley did not do more for his art than he has done, we are led to hope that there may be in the hands of his friends other unknown works of his, ere long to be made public.

The melody, as composed, we presume, for the bells of Holsworthy Church, is in three phrases of eight bars each, simple and lying within the compass of an octave, but exceedingly melodious and graceful. It is repeated without variation and with a flowing accompaniment charmingly written; and at the termination of the original melody some new matter is introduced, the air being assigned to the left hand and the florid accompaniment continued in the treble. After a return to the original melody the work is brought to a conclusion by a short coda.

There is nothing in the composition to remind us of the wonderfully majestic harmonies, as well as chromatic progressions, with which the name of Dr. Wesley is and must ever be associated; but yet it shows the knowledge, so invaluable and so often wanting in modern composers, of when and how to be simple.

The International Organist: a Quarterly Journal of Original Organ-music by Eminent Contemporary Writers of all Nations. Edited by J. W. Hinton, M.A., Mus. Doc. Part I. [Weekes and Co.]

It would seem as if, from the nature of things, it were impossible to furnish a constant supply of new organ-music the whole of which should possess real value. Dr. Spark, with his Organist's Quarterly Journal, has tried the experiment for some years with, on the whole, as much success as could reasonably be expected, though in going through a file of the journal we shall find, side by side with a great deal that is very excellent, a considerable portion of what might almost be termed "padding;" and now we have before us the first number of a similar publication, edited by Dr. Hinton, of Trinity College, London. Here, too, we find the same inequality to which we have just referred. The present number contains four pieces: a very original little Offertoire, by César Franck, Professor of the Organ at the Paris Conservatoire; a well-written and pleasing Festival March, by Mr. Gordon Saunders,

Mus. Bac.; a Pastorale, by Mr. Dudley Bertram; and a very curious Postlude, by the editor. The two first-named pieces are, we think, decidedly the best. The proof-sheets appear to have been very carelessly corrected; in Mr. Saunders's March alone we have found ten mistakes, many of them very bad ones.

The Organist's Quarterly Journal. Edited by Dr. W. Spark. Parts XXXIII., XXXIV. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE two numbers of this journal now before us are of at least the usual average of excellence. Part xxxiii. contains as its first piece a broad and effective March by G. B. Allen, about which, however, we wish to know for what sort of organ Mr. Allen writes, as in the last line of the third page we find on the pedal stave the B and A below double C written. The other most striking features of this part are an excellent Minuet and Trio in G minor by Berthold Tours, and a Prelude and Fugue by Augusto Moricani, organist of the Vatican, Rome, which presents the peculiarity that the pedal part is nowhere obbligato, but only doubles, either in the unison or octave, the lower notes of the left hand. Are Italian organists, we wonder, not accustomed to a free pedal part? Dr. Spark ought, we think, in kindness to his subscribers, to have given a translation of the Italian note as to registering which Signor Moricani has prefixed to his piece. In Part xxxiv. we find a very pleasing Melody by E. Silas; an Offertoire by Hamilton Clarke, pretty, but rather reminiscent of Léfébure-Wély; a Prelude by Walter H. Sangster, containing much clever imitative writing; and three slow movements in various styles by D. Hemingway, G. B. Lissant, and E. Townshend Driffield, the last of which pleases us the best.

Stabat Mater, a Trè Voci. Con accompagnamento di due violini, viola, e violoncello. Composto da Luigi Boccherini. Op. 61. Partitura con Ritratto dell'autore, e illustrazione del M. Domenico Bertini.

[Firenze: presso G. G. Guidi.]

ALTHOUGH the composer of this "Stabat Mater" was a prolific writer, only the very smallest works from his pen are known in this country. The publication of this composition will, however, we trust draw attention to his name, which has certainly a right to hold a worthy place in the estimation of those who admire pure and healthy, if not great music. The "Stabat Mater" is written for two sopranos and a tenor; and, although never startling by any remarkable effects, is not only melodious and expressive throughout, but easy of execution, both for vocalists and instrumentalists. The edition is clearly printed, and in every respect equal to the classical works which have already been issued by the same enterprising firm.

G. Verdi, "Messa da Requiem." Ridotta per Organo da C. H. Tovey. [Milan: Ricordi.]

THE great and deserved popularity which Verdi's "Requiem" obtained on its production in this country at the Royal Albert Hall rather more than two years ago will not have been forgotten by our readers. A good arrangement of the work for the organ would therefore be extremely likely to find favour with organists. The present transcription, however, is in many respects less satisfactory than we could have desired. In the first place, it is not complete. Several movements are omitted altogether; these are the Tuba mirum, Mors stupebit, Confutatis, and the repetition of the Dies iræ (p. 90 of the vocal score) from the Dies iræ, the entire Offertorium, Sanctus, and Lux æterna, and the whole of the Libera me except the final fugue. Of course if these movements are unsuitable for the organ—and we admit at once that some are not very easy to arrange well—there is no possible reason why they should be arranged; but surely in that case the volume ought to have been entitled a "Selection from Verdi's Requiem," and not published as if it contained the whole work. But a more serious fault which we find with the arrangement is its want of fidelity to the original. In this we are not referring to the system of simplification adopted—though of many important details not a trace is to be found—and Mr. Tovey seems to have aimed at making his transcription so easy that a wayfaring man though a fool shall not err therein; but we do maintain that no man has any right to alter the form of a passage after the manner of the following, taken from the first movement of the Dies iræ:—

ORIGINAL (Score, p. 24).

MR. TOVEY'S ARRANGEMENT (p. 9).

Mr. Tovey has also in several places separated movements which ought to follow each other continuously, and added bars of his own to make a full close. For instance, the Rex tremende in the original leads at once into the Recordare. In the arrangement these two numbers are actually separated by the tenor solo Qui Mariam absolvisti, the transcription of which, by-the-way, is one of the least satisfactory numbers of the work. But by far the worst thing Mr. Tovey has done is to be found in the first chorus of the Dies iræ. He takes the opening of the movement, as far as page 32 of the vocal score, and then patches on to it, by way of conclusion, a fragment of the Libera me Domine, pages 198 to 205 of the score! Nothing can possibly justify such a procedure as this.

We regret to have to speak in these terms of what we had hoped, when we opened it, to find a valuable addition to the organist's répertoire; but we should not be doing our duty were we not to enter a strong protest against such tampering with the work of a great composer as we find in this volume.

Cradle-Song. (Chanson de Berceau.)

Feuillets d'Album. (Op. 83.)

The Soldier's Farewell. (L'Adieu du Soldat.)

Composed for the Pianoforte by Stephen Heller.

[Ashdown and Parry.]

THERE is a refined charm about the smaller pianoforte pieces of Stephen Heller which cannot fail to make itself felt both by musical and unmusical listeners; and this contribution to his already voluminous store of such trifles will no doubt be warmly welcomed. Simple as the theme and its treatment are throughout the "Cradle-Song," a trained and sympathetic touch will be necessary for its due interpretation, and it may be cordially commended both for practice and performance. The six sketches in the "Feuillets d'Album" are exceedingly beautiful. No. 1 is tinted with the delicacy of a true artist, the theme being quaint and fanciful in the extreme; and Nos. 2 and 3 will no doubt become favourites, in spite of the stretches of tenths and ninths for the left hand in the latter number. We like No. 4 less than any in the set; but No. 5, an attractive melody in the form of a Serenade, and No. 6, a "song without words," of somewhat more pretension than its companions, deserve a place apart from the "Album" in which they are enshrined. "The Soldier's Farewell" assumes the appropriate form of a march, and, although perhaps scarcely so attractive as this composer's numerous pieces of a similar character which have preceded it, is a solid and musicianlike piece of writing for which both teachers and executants should be grateful.

Gloriette, Souvenir de Schönbrunn. Impromptu, pour le Piano.

Air de Danse, de la Régence. Pour le Piano.

Par Edouard Roeckel. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE first of these pieces is a pleasing and musicianlike trifle, but without sufficient character to distinguish it from the hundreds of "pleasing trifles" daily published. The "Air de Danse," however, is deserving of something more than mere conventional words of praise. The theme faithfully reflects the time it is supposed to illustrate, and the treatment of it throughout is in excellent keeping with the design of the piece. The second subject, in the tonic minor, contrasts well with the opening motive, a quaint effect being gained by its commencement on the half bar. We cordially commend this well-considered sketch to the notice of pianists who desire to elevate the character of their "drawing-room music."

Sonatina for the Pianoforte. Composed by Hamilton Clarke. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THIS Sonatina is gracefully written; but the melodious commencement of both movements scarcely accords with the somewhat laboured efforts which follow. In the last bar but one of the first page we cannot reconcile ourselves to the B which occurs on the chord of the 6th upon F \sharp , and the harmony in the last three bars of page 4 is to us particularly unpleasant. Again, in the second movement, can the 16th bar of page 8 be followed by the 17th as it stands? If so, the resolution of the diminished 7th, at the end of bar 16—especially in two-part writing—is scarcely a good example for youthful students. Apart from these, and other awkward progressions which we could name, there is some effective writing in the piece, the best portions being those where the least is attempted.

Variations on an Original Theme in G minor. Composed by F. Davenport. [Stanley Lucas, Weber and Co.]

IT is not often that we have so thoroughly refreshing a specimen of classical music presented to us as this piece by Mr. Davenport, whose name, although new to us, must, we trust, sooner or later become well known. Both the theme and the variations show that the composer has studied in a good school; and though we cannot say that the composition will not tax the powers of even a good pianist, there is nothing in it that evinces either pedantry or affectation, and the passages, therefore, will well repay the trouble expended upon their practice. All the variations are full of character—Nos. 3 and 5 being especially effective—a Dominant pedal, unexpectedly succeeded by the Tonic major, in which key the piece ends, being a point well worthy of notice. We assure Mr. Davenport that we look forward with pleasure to our next meeting.

I am the Angel. Song. Translated from the German by M. M. M. Music by Rosetta O'Leary Vinning. [Stanley Lucas, Weber and Co.]

THE composer of this song remains firm in the determination of appealing rather to a select artistic circle than to the musically uneducated millions. We have already noticed with much pleasure several of her highly poetical vocal works, and can conscientiously affirm that the piece now before us is in every respect equal, if not superior, to those which have preceded it. Supposing that the growing tendency towards "word-painting" do not lead to an abandonment of form, we are inclined to believe that the desire to escape from the mawkish English ballad school is one by all means to be encouraged; and Mrs. O'Leary may fairly congratulate herself, therefore, upon being a worthy pioneer in a good cause. The words of "I am the Angel" are most sympathetically set throughout, the change to the tonic major at the phrase, "I bring you day," being extremely happy. The accompaniment—if a part may be so termed which forms an integral portion of the composition—is most artistically interwoven with the vocal theme, the alternations of figure in every case seeming to grow out of the varied shades of feeling in the poetry. A good contralto singer will, we are sure, be grateful to us for pointing out the merits of a song rising so far above the level of our everyday vocal music.

Yes. Song. Words by Mary Walrond Clarke. Composed by Willem Coenen. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THIS song, thoroughly German in feeling, although composed to English words, is remarkable not only for truth of expression but for a delicacy in the treatment of the harmonic progressions which cannot be overpraised. The commencement, with the chromatic descent from dominant to tonic harmony, introduces with much effect the pleading phrase "One word alone;" and the unexpected key of A major, on the coveted word "Yes," comes upon the ear with a freshness which cannot fail to be felt by every auditor. A good point, too, is the introduction of the triplet arpeggios, the return to the original key and theme gaining much by the contrast. We earnestly hope that lovers of pure vocal music will make themselves acquainted with so eloquent a composition.

The Balaclava Charge. Written by Alfred Tennyson. Music by C. A. Macirone. [Hutchings and Romer.]

TENNYSON'S stirring lines have already tempted more than one composer to heighten their effect by the aid of music; but Miss Macirone has brought both scientific acquirement and poetical feeling to bear upon her task with so much success that she need fear no rival. In spite of an undoubted similarity with Schubert's "Erl-King," this song cannot fail to make its way with a mixed audience, and contralto singers will, we are certain, thank us for drawing their attention to a composition so effective for public performance. The change to the tonic major on the words "Flashed all their sabres bare" is a noticeable point; and the introduction of the National Anthem for the last verse, with a separate figure in the voice part, is a happy thought, although we should have preferred a diatonic descent of quavers for the bass in bar 2 of the vocal phrase, page 10, if only to avoid the fifths between voice and bass, in passing from the triad of A to that of F. Miss Palmer, to whom the song is dedicated, has already successfully tested its merits before a public audience, creating much enthusiasm at a recent concert where it was accompanied by the composer.

Scottish Melodies, arranged for the Harmonium or American Organ, by E. F. Rimbault (Book II.) [Edinburgh: Paterson and Sons], is a little collection, including some of the most beautiful of the Scotch melodies, arranged in the simplest manner, and which will suit players of a very limited capacity.

FOREIGN NOTES.

WITH the present month the "dead season" commences at Paris. One by one the various operatic establishments and concert-rooms are closing their doors, to be reopened for the commencement of a fresh campaign in the coming autumn. In the meantime numerous prospective announcements are made by the journals of operatic representations which are to take place next season, including a new work by Victorin Joncières, entitled "Mademoiselle de Marseille," at the Opéra-Comique; the revival of Auber's much neglected "Cheval de Bronze," at the Théâtre-Lyrique; and Meyerbeer's "L'Africaine," at the Grand-Opéra. Mdlle. Krauss, who will sing the part of Selika in the last-mentioned work, has gone to Vienna to become once more the pupil of Madame Marchesi, for the purpose of studying her new rôle. A promising young artist, Mdlle. Andrea Barbot, has lately made her début at the Opéra in the character of Fides in Meyerbeer's opera "Le Prophète," and a brilliant career is predicted, on the part of the critics, to the débutante, who is a niece of one of the professors at the Paris Conservatoire. Among new engagements for next season, that of Madame Alice Urban is announced by the managers of the Théâtre-Italien. The lady is preceded by a great reputation won in America, Italy, and Spain, where her exceptional vocal and histrionic qualities have created much enthusiasm. There has been a private hearing lately, at the residence of the composer, of a new opera by M. Lefèvre-Niedermeyer. The work is called "La Vendetta," and is, says the Revue et Gazette Musicale, correctly and gracefully written, although deficient in individuality, and suggestive of the styles of Meyerbeer, Weber, and Gounod, a combination which we should have thought it rather difficult to accomplish.

It is proposed that at the forthcoming Universal Exhibition at Paris a portion of the building shall be reserved for the purpose of musical performances which are to include the works of contemporary composers of all nationalities.

Herr Anton Rubinstein, during his recent stay at the French capital, has been decorated by the President of the Republic with the Cross of the Legion of Honour.

Le Ménestrel writes: "Our young and energetic chef d'orchestre, M. Colonne, has been the object of a most delicate attention on the part of the testamentary executor of Hector Berlioz, M. Alexandre, who has presented him with one of the conductor's bâtons used by the composer of 'La Damnation de Faust.' The precious gift was accompanied by a letter written by the donor, from which we extract the following: 'The manner in which you interpret the works of Berlioz, the sublime grandeur which you infuse into the spirit of your admirable orchestra, have rendered you worthy of holding this souvenir of our dear and regretted master.'" In reading these lines one cannot help looking back but a few years, when he who wielded the bâton now so highly prized was still amongst the living, and when no form of mortification was spared him on the part of the same public who have latterly gone into raptures over his music.

It is not, perhaps, generally known that "Robert le Diable" was in the first instance written in the form of a comic opera, and was afterwards remodelled by its author, M. Scribe, with a view to its representation at the Grand-Opéra. The original libretto had, however, been lost for many years, and it was not until the other day that a copy of this interesting relic was discovered at a public sale of autographs held in Paris. The MS. is authenticated by marginal notes in the handwriting of both Scribe and Meyerbeer, and is now in the possession of the publishers of the above-named opera.

M. Massenet, the young French composer, has met with a most flattering reception at Bruxelles and other Belgian towns where he conducted the performance of his Oratorios "Eve" and "Maria Magdalena." According to Le Ménestrel, M. Massenet is about to add a third to his two religious works just mentioned, upon the composition of which he has been for some time engaged. The new Oratorio is founded upon a poem by Louis Gallet, and is entitled "La Vierge," thus completing the feminine trilogy of the young maestro.

A Music Festival, to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Liège Conservatoire, was held at that town on the 3rd and 4th ult., under the leadership of M. Radoux, the director of that institution. Some 950 instrumentalists and singers took part in the performances, which included among other works Beethoven's Symphony in C minor, Mendelssohn's "Elijah," the greater part of a Cantata by M. Benoit (composed to Flemish words), and a selection from Grétry's fine opera "Richard Cœur de Lion."

As is usual at this time of the year, German musical life during the last few weeks has found its concentrated expression in a number of festivals, some of them of annual recurrence, others of a more spontaneous character, arranged either for the purpose of aiding financially some special project or to obtain a hearing under exceptional advantages for some particular work; or, indeed, merely with the view of promoting that personal interchange of ideas which is one of the chief benefits accruing from such gatherings. Besides the Annual Festival of the Lower Rhine, held this year at Cologne, and the second Silesian Festival, held at Breslau, of which mention has already been made in these columns, there have been similar festive meetings at Graz, Carlsruhe, Cassel, Creuznach, and other towns. The performance of works of considerable interest given in connection with the meeting of the Allgemeine Deutsch Musik-Verein at Hanover, to which we have likewise already referred, may be again mentioned as coming under the same category. Among the new works performed on the latter occasion both the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik and the Neue Berliner Musik Zeitung speak in most favourable terms of Mdle. Ingeborg von Bronsart's graceful music to Goethe's dramatic trifle "Jery und Bätely," additional interest being derived from the fact—as yet unconventional in a work of similar pretensions—of its emanating from the pen of a lady. The effect of Liszt's "St. Elizabeth," which formed part of the same series of performances, was unfortunately destroyed by the painfully apparent incapacity of the conductor—the composer being present on the occasion; while the splendid representation of Byron's "Manfred," with Schumann's profoundly suggestive and illustrative music, created a deep impression. One of the chief features at the Cologne Festival was unquestionably the performance under the composer's personal direction of Verdi's "Requiem." Both choir and orchestra were most demonstrative in their admiration of the Italian maestro, who at the conclusion of the performance was presented with a silver laurel wreath bearing on each leaf the inscription of the respective names of the donors (ladies of the choir), as well as with a bâton de mesure worked in ivory and handsomely ornamented with gold. In a letter addressed to Ferdinand Hiller the maestro expresses his deep sense of gratitude for the reception accorded him on the part of the German people, and his unbounded admiration for the talent and devotion displayed in the execution of his work.

At the Cassel Festival, the receipts of which are to swell the funds now being raised for the purpose of defraying the expense of the erection of a monument in memory of Spohr, the names both of Brahms and Joachim figure among the contributing artists, the nucleus of performances being of course formed by works of the great composer of the romantic school, his "Last Judgment" being among the elected number. The Festival in question was to have taken place on the 22nd ult.

The special performances in honour of Mozart (alluded to in our last number), to be inaugurated this year and annually continued by the International Mozart-Stiftung at Salzburg, are now definitely fixed for the 17th, 18th, and 19th of this month. Herren Ignaz Brüll, from Vienna (pianist), Lauterbach, from Dresden, and Grün, from Vienna (violinists), will be among the executants. A correspondent of our contemporary the Daily News writes under date of 4th ult.: "During the Festival several interesting relics of the great musician will be exhibited. One of the most important is a little garden-house which will be brought from Vienna, and in which Mozart wrote the "Zauberflöte." There is also to be exhibited an album containing a collection of portraits and autographs of celebrated poets, musicians, and critics living contemporaneously with Mozart. Although a large and valuable collection has already been made, it is hoped that before the opening of the Festival, and by the co-operation of the possessors of any such photographs or autograph writings, the number of these interesting documents will be greatly increased."

German papers announce the foundation at Frankfurt-on-the-Main of a Conservatorium of Music, at which institution Herr Joachim Raff has accepted the post of Principal.

The new Court Theatre at Dresden, which has been erected on the site of the building which was destroyed by fire some two years ago, is to be opened on Nov. 2, when M. Massenet's "Le Roi de Lahore," under the title of "Sita," will be among the first novelties to be produced at the new house. Herr Julius Rietz, hitherto the general Musikdirector at the establishment in question, has just retired from that post in consequence of failing health, and is to be replaced by Herr Wüllner, of Munich.

August Reissmann, the well-known musical savant, has proved himself also a composer of considerable merit by the composition of a "dramatic Oratorio," entitled "Wittekind," which was recently performed at Berlin by the "Sternsche Gesangverein." Herr Henschel, the German baritone, has, it is said, composed an opera, which is to be performed at Munich during next season.

We have pleasure in stating that at the annual competition of pupils of the Royal Conservatorium at Leipzig for the composition of the "Salvum fac Regem"—performed on the occasion of the King of Saxony's birthday—the first prize was awarded this year to Mr. C. J. Vincent, jun., of Sunderland.

Dr. Ludwig Ritter von Köchel, whose name will ever be inseparably connected with that of Mozart, died at Vienna on the 3rd of last month at the age of seventy-seven. He was the author of numerous critical and biographical writings bearing upon music, but the principal work of his life has been the compilation of his "Thematic and Chronological Catalogue of the Works of W. A. Mozart"—a work unique in the comprehensiveness and lucidity of its design, which will always remain a model of this important class of literature. Von Köchel was one of the chief promoters of the splendid edition of Mozart's works now being issued by the firm of Breitkopf and Härtel, of Leipzig.

At Munich died in his seventy-ninth year Theodor Lachner, for many years Court organist at the Bavarian capital; he was the senior member of the celebrated family of musicians, of whom the Munich Musikdirector, Franz Lachner, has become the most widely known.

A musician well known by his numerous pièces de salon and other compositions and arrangements for the piano-forte, Henri Cramer, died a few weeks ago at Frankfort-on-the-Main.

The death is announced also of Mr. Albert Steinway, the youngest of the three brothers who have hitherto formed the well-known firm of pianoforte manufacturers at New York.

According to the Gazetta Musicale of Milan about 280 Italian operas have been composed during the period of 1870-76, being an average of forty per year. Among these the following are cited as having met with success:—"Il Guarany," by Gomes; "Papà Martin," by Cagnoni; "Aida," by Verdi; "Il Conte Verde," by Libani; "La Contessa di Mons," by Lauro Rossi; "I Lituani," by Ponchielli; "Salvator Rosa," by Gomes; "Il Duca di Tapigliano," by Cagnoni; "Dolores," by Anteri-Manzocchi; "La Gioconda," by Ponchielli; "Il Babbeo e l'Intrigante," by Sarria. Some among the rest, although coldly received, appear worthy of a better fate, and should not be confounded with the mass of worthless productions by which the theatres of Italy are annually inundated, for instance such works as "Un Capriccio di Donna," by Cagnoni; "Ali Baba," by Bottesini; "Fosca," by Gomes; "Il Mercante di Venezia," by Pinsuti; "Reginella," by Braga; "Napoli in Carnevale," by De Giosa.

CORRESPONDENCE.

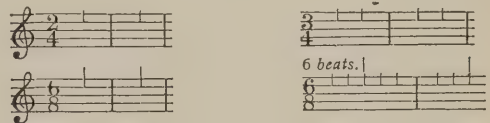

THE MOVABLE DO ON THE STAFF—SUGGESTIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—I read with much interest the article on "Music-printing" in the June number of THE MUSICAL TIMES and was set thinking by, among other things, the writer's confident assertion that "all the attempts to substitute a new notation for the old, which have been especially frequent in recent times, are idle experiments, and will never have any higher importance than that of private amusement; musical notation is fixed," &c. Now, sir, I do not wish to take up your space with a lot of arguments on the much discussed question of "staff or no staff" in musical notation, but I crave a small corner in your columns to say that, though I am a firm adherent to the staff notation myself, I, like many others, cannot shut my eyes to the rapid progress which the "tonic sol-fa" system has made and is making, nor can I forget that thousands of schoolboys and girls are growing up with more or less knowledge of Mr. Curwen's new notation, and in utter ignorance of the staff or anything connected therewith. That the demands of the tonic sol-faists can no longer be ignored is shown by the fact that music-publishers are beginning to meet those demands by publishing music in the new notation, and I notice that Messrs. Novello and Co. are issuing a list of such publications. Looking at these "signs of the times," I, as a staff notation sol-faist, am surprised that some enterprising musician or publisher does not find a means of making the staff notation meet the requirements of the "movable do" theorists, which would at once put Mr. Curwen's notation out of court, or at any rate remove the only reasonable ground on which it is said to be necessary, viz. that the staff notation does not show key-relationship clearly enough. I have seen music-printing in which the letters d, r, m, &c. appear on the faces of the notes, but such a method is clearly impracticable except where large type can be used. I would, however, suggest that instead of this the place of the note in the scale should be determined by its distinctive shape, on the same principle that tonic sol-faists, in teaching the staff, at first use a square note for "doh." Let the square note be kept for the major key-note, and let its third and fifth be shown by triangular and diamond-shaped notes respectively, the present round notes being retained for the other sounds of the scale. The three "strong" sounds being thus clearly marked every time they occur, no ordinarily intelligent sol-faist would have any difficulty with the others, alternating with them. Of course "doh sharp" (♯) would be called "de," and so on. The staff notation, thus slightly altered, would be equally available for those who favour the "movable do" and those who do not. A more frequent alteration of key-signatures would be necessary, but I believe that is no more than many musicians advocate to save crowding the music with accidentals. The time-signs need not be altered at all, a minim being still a minim, whether square or round; but I think an advantage would be gained by marking the beats or pulses as well as the bars, thus:—

Feeling that I have written as much as, if not more than, you will have space or inclination to insert, I will not trouble you with any examples of the notation I advocate, hoping the above remarks make it sufficiently clear. I will only add that in my opinion an additional advantage would be gained by the adoption of a six-lined staff, one line being added above the treble and another below the bass, making them both read alike, according to a suggestion made by a writer in your columns some three or four months since.—I am, sir, yours, &c., S. HARVEY.

Redhill, Surrey, June 15, 1877.

THE CUCKOO'S CALL.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—I think I can contribute something towards the settlement of this vexed question. If I do not mistake, the facts are as follows. There is a considerable variety in cuckoos. Some districts are haunted chiefly by birds which sing in a major third, and others by birds which sing in a minor third. Here, in the valley of the Thames, a few miles below Gravesend, the major third is the rule. Yesterday evening, June 14, I heard one sing in an unquestionable major third. I do not think I have heard one sing in a minor third this season; but one or two may have used an interval something less than a major third, perhaps in the ratio 11:9. I have heard one this season sing in a minor (perfect) fourth, an interval which I have also seen attributed to the cuckoo in a piece of music. What is still more remarkable, I heard some years ago a cuckoo sing in a major (perfect) fifth, beginning with a glide; thus:—

The bird (for in all probability it was the same individual) returned for three or four successive seasons, the last being about ten years ago.

As to the theory of the cuckoo changing its way of singing towards the end of the season, my opinion is that it is a mistake, that the birds which sing in a minor third are not those which have sung in a major. The irregular call, "Cuckukoo," which often occurs at the end of a song, in consequence, I suppose, of the bird being disturbed, is quite another matter.—Yours faithfully, Corringham Rectory, Essex. S. S. GREATHED.

[As the letter of our correspondent adds something to our stock of knowledge on the subject, we willingly reopen the question of the "Cuckoo's Call."—Ed. MUSICAL TIMES.]

A SUGGESTION TO ENGLISH CHURCH COMPOSERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Will you allow me to make through your columns a suggestion to the Church composers of repute and cathedral organists? In the American Prayer-book the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis are not used. In their places are the "Bonum est," or the first four verses of Psalm xcii. with Gloria Patri, and the "Benedic, anima mea," this being verses 1—4 and 20—22 of Psalm ciii., with Gloria Patri, and I find no English music to these words. My suggestion is that if the best composers and organists would compose services to those words, both verse and full, they will reap honour and profit, for I am convinced they will sell well, especially on this side of the water, as they could be used also as anthems in English churches. I may say also that the Benedictus in the American Prayer-book contains only the first four verses and Gloria Patri. In endeavouring to make out a list of English music suitable for a very fine New York choir, I was astonished at the small number of Cantates and Deus advertised in Novello's catalogue (about twenty-seven of each, and of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis no less than 230); and there are really so few good settings of the words by American composers that I trust my suggestions may bear good fruit,—I am, sir, yours sincerely,

New York, June 6, 1877. CHORMASTER.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* * Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will greatly oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all Subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music pages are always stereotyped, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

SUBSCRIBER.—We do not agree with the pedal marks mentioned, but they are observed by most players.

GEORGE GRAZIOLI.—Your questions should be addressed to a professor of singing, and not to a musical journal.

YOUNG ORGANIST.—It is usually played after the service.

A COUNTRY ORGANIST.—Your letter received, but it cannot be inserted, as you give no name or address.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this Summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

BEDFORD.—The Amateur Musical Society gave the second Concert of the eleventh season on Tuesday evening, May 29, under the direction of Mr. P. H. Diemer, R.A.M. The programme included the Overtures to Clemenza di Tito and Fra Diavolo; Sullivan's Cantata, On shore and sea; selections from Wagner's Tannhäuser, Lohengrin, and Flying Dutchman; Benedict's part-song, "Old May-day;" and Festa's Madrigal, "Down in a flowery vale." The solo vocalists were Miss Mary Davies and Mr. Wadmore. The former was encored in the Welsh air, "Gydd'r Wawr," given with harp accompaniment. Mr. Wadmore received encores for both his songs, "Nancy Lee" and "Come, lasses and lads." The two artists also gave the duet, "Like a faint vision," from the Flying Dutchman, which was very warmly received. One of the most striking features in the programme was the euphonium solo, "O ruddier than the cherry," which was given by Mr. Phasey and enthusiastically encored.

BIRMINGHAM.—An interesting Concert was given in the Town Hall on Monday, May 28. The choir consisted of 700 children attending the Board Schools, and their proficiency in the Tonic Sol-fa method was publicly demonstrated under the direction of Mr. W. Dobson. Some part-songs were well-rendered by teachers, and Mr. Stimpson performed some organ solos.—A new organ, erected in St. James's Church, Edgbaston, was opened on the 9th ult. with a special Recital by Mr. F. H. Bradley, organist of the church, assisted by Dr. Belcher. A varied programme displayed the qualities of the instrument. Some vocal solos were given by Mr. W. E. Fisher. The organ, built by Mr. Henry Jones, of London, has three manuals, compass CC to F, fifty-six notes, and pedal claviers of thirty notes, CC to F. There are ten stops on the great, ten on the swell, five on the choir, and three on the pedal organ; five couplers and six combination pedals. The instrument has been placed in the church as a memorial of the Rev. P. Browne, who has just celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his incumbency.—A performance of the Cantata Daniel, by the American composers, Messrs. Root and Bradbury, was given at the Exchange Assembly Rooms on Monday the 18th ult. The proceeds were in aid of Mr. Middlemore's Emigration Homes for Children. The vocalists were Mrs. Myers, Miss Mary Smith, Mr. Myers, Mr. Harvey, and Mr. Nicholas; the chorus consisting of the latter gentleman's Tonic Sol-fa singing classes. Mr. Thompson and Mr. W. Silman accompanied.—On the same evening the Amateur Vocal Union gave a Concert of Sacred Music in the Bristol Street Board School. The programme comprised Wesley's Gregorian Mass in G, Haite's Cantata, Abraham's Sacrifice, and a miscellaneous selection. Solos were given by Mrs. Stephens, Miss Richards, Mr. Proctor, and Mr. Bradley. Mr. Williamson was the accompanist, and Mr. W. Stephens conducted.—A Promenade Concert was given in the Botanical Gardens on Wednesday the 20th ult. The vocalists were Miss St. Clair Taylor, Mr. Bywater, and Mr. Lander; selections were given by an orchestra of nearly forty performers, under the direction of Mr. W. A. Gilmer.

BRIDPORT, DORSET.—An excellent performance of the Creation was given on Tuesday the 12th ult., by the Bridport Choral Association, under the conductorship of Mr. W. Stone. The professional artists engaged were Mdm. Cross Lavers, Mr. Cross (Salisbury Cathedral), and Mr. Hanson (St. Paul's). The accompaniments were well played by Miss Sewell (piano), and Mr. Champ (harmonium).

BROOKLYN, U.S.—At the third and last Concert of the St. Cecilia Vocal Society for the season of 1876-77, given at the Academy of Music, the building was crowded by a cultivated audience. The vocalist was Miss Lasar, who was heard to advantage throughout the room. Mr. Hoffman was the solo pianist. A feature in the programme was Mr. Dudley Buck's Hymn to Music composed for the Society, which met with an enthusiastic reception, and had to be repeated. The part-songs and glees were excellently sung by the choir. Mr. Fitzguch conducted.

DUBLIN.—On Friday, the 1st ult., a musical and literary entertainment was given in the Ancient Concert Rooms. Mr. J. A. Jennings, T.C.D., was the elocutionist. The music, under the conductorship of Mr. Charles F. Phillips, organist of Trinity Church, assisted by a number of amateur ladies and gentlemen, was most successful. The soloists were Mrs. Wiseheart, Mrs. Herbert Ohren, Mr. Charles Harden, Mr. McKeirnan, Mr. Ryan, Mr. Jones, and Mr. Cantrell. Mrs. Wiseheart, Miss Lover, and Mr. C. Harden's rendering of Curschmann's Trio, "Ti prego," was the gem of the evening. Miss Ohren played Mendelssohn's Rondo in B minor, and Miss Banks a Fantasia on Irish airs. The attendance was large, and the proceeds of the entertainment were devoted to the Young Women's Christian Association.

DUNEDIN, NEW ZEALAND.—An Organ Recital was given by Mr. A. J. Towsey in St. Paul's Church on the 3rd April, when there was a numerous attendance. The Recital comprised selections from the works of Handel, Haydn, Mozart, Bach, Mendelssohn, and other great composers. The organ at St. Paul's is considered one of the finest in New Zealand, and now that the church has been materially enlarged, its fine tone is considerably enhanced. Mr. Towsey has earned a high reputation as a performer, which on the present occasion was fully sustained. The vocal music was excellently rendered.

GRAVESEND.—On Monday, May 28th, Miss A. L. Turner, R.A.M., gave an Evening Concert at the Assembly Rooms, assisted by Miss Martha Harries, R.A.M., contralto; Mr. C. A. White, R.A.M., tenor; Mr. Prenton, bass; Mr. Beddome, clarinet; Mr. T. Murby, viola; and Mr. Malcolm Ross, flute. The bénéficiaire showed talent and power of expression in her renderings of the pianoforte part in Mozart's Andante (Op. 14) for piano, clarinet, and viola, and in Weber's Polacca. She also sang with great taste two songs, both of which were encored. Among the other items in the programme especially deserving mention were "The lost chord," by Miss M. Harries; "Love and war," Messrs. White and Prenton; "The anchor weighed," Mr. White; "Will o' the Wisp," Mr. Prenton; a violin solo by Mr. Murby, and a flute solo by Mr. Malcolm Ross. Mr. Fountain Meen conducted in his usual efficient manner, and played the accompaniments to the songs.

GRIMSBY.—The new organ built by Messrs. Forster and Andrews, of Hull, for St. Andrew's Church, was opened on Thursday, May 31, when special services were held morning and evening, Dr. Spark, of the Leeds Town Hall, presiding at the organ. The total cost of the organ, when completed, will be about £500. The services were full choral. The choir was under the direction of Mr. Mells. Jackson's Service was used. After the Psalms for the day Dr. Spark played a special extemporaneous voluntary on the favourite hymn-tune "Sun of my soul," in the course of which he brought out with splendid effect the full powers of the organ. At the conclusion of evening prayer, Dr. Spark played a selection of pieces, including a Festival March in E flat of his own composition.

GUERNSEY.—A sum of £58 8s. 4d. has been recently given to Mr. J. Tyrrell, on his resigning the appointment of organist of Trinity Church, by Captain Borland, R.N., churchwarden, as a testimonial from the congregation, in recognition of his faithful services as organist of that church for nineteen years.

HIGHAM FERRERS.—The fine Organ, built by Messrs. Brindley and Forster, was opened in the church on Monday, the 11th ult., by Mr. Haydn Keeton, of Peterborough Cathedral, and Mr. W. J. Lamb, of Higham Ferrers. There was a choral service in the afternoon. The sermon was preached by the Venerable the Archdeacon of Northampton. The Anthem "The Lord hath done great things" (Smart) was sung by the choir, which was augmented to 250 voices. After the service Mr. Keeton gave a recital from the works of Mendelssohn, Lemmens, Bach, Smart, Batiste, Hiles, and Silas. At the conclusion of the evening service Mr. Lamb gave another organ recital. Both organists displayed the instrument in a masterly manner. The anthem in the evening was "Pray for the peace of Jerusalem" (V. Novello). The organ contains three manuals and a powerful pedal organ. Amongst the solo stops is a very fine vox humana. There are two fronts, one facing the choir stalls and the other towards the nave. The case is of oak and beautifully carved.

HURSTPIERPOINT.—On May 28 (being the thirty-second anniversary of the opening of the parish church), special services were held in commemoration. The feature of the festival, however, was the choral service held in the afternoon, which was attended by a large congregation. The service commenced by the singing in procession of the hymn, "O Word of God above." The responses were those in use at Magdalen College, Oxford; and the Psalms (lxxxii., cxlii., and cxxii.) were sung to chants by Aldrich, Cooke, and Wesley. The Anthem, composed for the opening of Lichfield Cathedral, by the Rev. Sir Fred. Ouseley, received a very careful rendering. Mr. Worsley Staniforth, of Brighton, presided at the organ during the service; and the choir was ably led by Mr. Dayson, of St. John's College, the local organist and choirmaster. The sermon was preached by the Very Rev. the Dean of Chichester.

MANCHESTER.—On Monday evening, the 4th ult., Mr. Best gave an Organ Recital in St. Peter's Church, when a well-selected programme from the works of the great masters was excellently performed.

MELBOURNE.—The new Concert Hall attached to the music warehouse of Messrs. W. H. Glen and Co., Collins Street East, was opened on the 4th April last, when a large audience assembled, by invitation of the proprietors, to judge of the musical capabilities of the room. It is estimated that the auditorium will comfortably seat 500 persons, and at the opening concert the architectural beauty of the hall as well as its acoustical properties were the theme of universal admiration. Much talent was exhibited on the occasion, the pianoforte-playing of Miss Lundborg, Mr. F. L. King, and Mr. Edeson, and the violin performance of Mr. Weston being greatly admired. The vocalists were Miss Christian—who by her excellent singing has legitimately earned that position which was predicted by her teachers at the Royal Academy of Music in London—Mrs. Smythe, Mrs. Howitz, and Miss Roberts, the latter a clever young pupil of Signor Giammona.

NORWICH.—The twelfth Concert of the Norfolk and Norwich Musical Union Society took place on Thursday evening, the 14th ult., in St. Andrew's Hall, under the direction of Dr. Bunnett. The programme was of a very interesting character, and well adapted to the capabilities of the Society. The most important pieces were Gade's Spring's Message and Beethoven's Choral Fantasia, the pianoforte part exceedingly well played by Mr. A. Bunnett. Mayesder's Adagio and Rondo from Sonata in E minor introduced Mr. W. Tuddenham (pupil of Dr. Bunnett) as a violinist, his playing being most successful. Miss F. M. Morse played Schumann's grand Valse Brillante with much taste and brilliancy, the conductor having added instrumental parts. Some part-songs of Mendelssohn's, and two of Handel's Choruses, were sung by the choir with great spirit and attention to light and shade, showing a marked improvement on previous efforts. It being Miss Catherine Penna's first appearance in Norwich much interest was felt. She was very successful in all her songs, in which she displayed taste and brilliancy of execution, especially in the "Jewel Song" from Faust. Mr. Minns was also highly efficient.

OXFORD.—A very attractive Organ Recital was given on the 2nd ult. in Queen's College Chapel, by Mr. T. W. Dodds, Mus. Bac., organist to the College, who played a selection from the works of Mendelssohn, Batiste, J. S. Bach, Guilmant, and Handel in a masterly manner. There was a large attendance.

PERTH.—The members of the Euterpean Society gave their second Concert on May 29, when Elijah was the work selected for performance. The part of the Prophet was sung by Mr. C. Hempel with much care and intelligence, and the remaining solos were rendered by members of the Society. Mrs. Hempel conducted, Miss Steele accompanied on the pianoforte, and Mr. Richmond, of Dundee, on the harmonium.

PHILADELPHIA.—The Handel and Haydn Society of Boston has just brought to a successful close its fourth Triennial Festival, beginning on Wednesday evening, May 16, and closing on the 20th. Six performances were given, three of which were devoted to Oratorios, Elijah, with which the festival opened, Samson, and Israel in Egypt. The chorus numbered six hundred and the instrumental performers sixty. The great music-hall organ was skilfully played by Mr. B. J. Lang, the organist of the Society, who also performed a Fantasia for pianoforte and orchestra by Schubert, Op. 15, instrumented by Liszt, at one of the afternoon concerts. The solo artists were Miss Clara Louise Kellogg and Miss Emma C. Thursty, soprani; Miss Annie Louise Cary and Miss Matilda Philipps, contralti; Mr. Chas. R. Adams and Mr. Wm. J. Winch, tenors; Mr. Myrom W. Whitney and Mr. J. F. Winch, bassi. The leadership was in the hands of Mr. Carl Zerrahn, who has held that position for nearly a quarter of a century, and who has carried the Society successfully through all its festivals, six in number. The programme comprised Noli, by Saint-Saëns, and many other works never before heard in this country. The "Redemption Hymn," composed expressly for this occasion by J. C. D. Parker of Boston, a former organist of the Society, was admirably rendered by Miss Cary. The first and second parts of Bach's Christmas Oratorio proved to be very interesting, and Hiller's Song of Victory, for soprano solo and chorus, was given with great brilliancy by Miss Thursty. Miss Matilda Philipps and Miss Kellogg were very successful in their interpretation of the florid Rossini school. The Messrs. Winch acquitted themselves to the general satisfaction of all, their singing in the Oratorios having been conscientiously and effectively accomplished. Mr. Adams was exceptionally successful, his selection from Wagner's Lohengrin, "The Legend of the Grail," being greatly admired. The choral numbers in all the works during the week of festival were excellently rendered.

RICHMOND.—A very successful Concert, for the benefit of the Mechanics' Institution of this town, was given in the Assembly Room on Thursday, May 31, by the members of the Amateur Choral Union recently formed by Mr. James H. Rooks, organist of St. Mary's Church. The first portion of the entertainment consisted of a performance of Sir Sterndale Bennett's Cantata The May Queen. The leading parts were taken by Miss H. B. Simpson, Miss Close, Mr. H. C. Priestman, and Mr. W. H. Emsley, all of whom were highly efficient. The choruses were sustained by the members of the Union in a manner reflecting the utmost credit upon their able Conductor, Mr. Rooks. The second part was miscellaneous.

RIPON.—The last Concert of the season was given by the Musical Society on Monday evening, the 4th ult., in the Town Hall, which was well filled. The songs were given by members of the Society, and highly appreciated. The part-songs were all well rendered. Mr. Crow's playing of Beethoven's "Sonata Pastorale" was excellent, and he was enthusiastically applauded. The concert was brought to a conclusion with Smart's part-song "Good night, thou glorious sun."

SHEFFIELD.—The Amateur Musical Society included Bach's Magnificat in the programme of the Concert on Thursday, the 27th of May. Like all Bach's Church music, this work is a perfect exposition of the Scripture text, the liveliness of some of the numbers appearing in strange contrast with the settings of the Magnificat to which many of the audience had been accustomed to listen in English churches. It is impossible to give an adequate idea of the composition here, and it would be ungracious to criticise in detail the performance of it by an amateur Association. It should, however, be stated that the Air "Et exultavit, spiritus meus," and the Chorus "Sicut locutus est," were most carefully sung, and that the Gloria Patri, taxing as it did to the uttermost Conductor, band, and chorus, was rendered with a precision seldom attained by amateur Societies. The other compositions contained in the programme were Spohr's Twenty-fourth Psalm, and Barnett's Paradise and the Peri. The rendering of these three works was satisfactory throughout, and reflected great credit on the Conductor, Herr Schoolhammer, whose diligent training has conducted so largely to the efficiency of the Society.

SOUTHPORT.—On Monday evening, the 4th ult., Mr. T. S. Hayward, organist at the parish church, Blackburn, gave a Pianoforte Recital at the Cambridge Hall. The programme was well selected, and included Bennett's "Maid of Orleans," Liszt's Rhapsodie, and Ritter's Caprice, brilliantly played by Mr. Hayward, who also took part in Mendelssohn's Trio in D minor and in a Duo of Chopin. Mr. H. Hayward elicited much applause for his fine violin-playing. Mr. Owen is a promising violoncellist, and contributed materially to the success of the concert. Mr. Bywater was the vocalist.

STAFFORD.—Mr. Inglis Bervon's Annual Concert took place in the Shire Hall on Wednesday evening, May 30. The vocalists were Miss Catherine Pickering, Mrs. Inglis Bervon, Mrs. Grylls, Mr. A. Noot, Mr. Senior, and Mr. Inglis Bervon. There was a very good audience. Miss Pickering was highly successful, especially in "Let the bright seraphim" (Handel), "Let me dream again" (Sullivan), and "My love has gone a-sailing" (Molloy). Mrs. Bervon sang, "The beating of my own heart," and with Mr. Bervon, "The singing lesson." Mrs. Grylls, an amateur vocalist, charmed her audience by her rendering of "The lost chord," with harp accompaniment, which received a unanimous encore. Mr. Noot, a tenor with an agreeable quality of voice, was also encored in "The death of Nelson." Mr. Bervon and Mr. G. Gaffe presided at the pianoforte. Mr. E. W. Taylor, Mus. Bac., gave a Concert on the 20th ult., in the Assembly Room at the New Borough Hall, for the benefit of the Stafford Infirmary. The acoustical properties of the room were found to be perfect. The programme was of a miscellaneous character, and the performers included Mme. Lemmens-Sherrington, Mme. Osborne Williams, Mr. Vernon Rigby, Mr. Lewis Thomas, Mdle. Bertha Brouil (solo violinist), Mr. H. Nicholson (solo flute), and Mr. E. W. Taylor (solo pianoforte).

ST. ALBANS.—On Tuesday the 12th ult. Dr. Claughton was enthroned in the Cathedral as the first Bishop of St. Albans. At eleven o'clock a procession was formed at the Town Hall, consisting of the Mayor and Corporation, the Mayors and representatives of the Corporations of Hertford, Colchester, and Harwich, the Earls of Dudley, Essex, and others, about 300 clergymen in their surplices, the Archdeacons, Rural Deans, and Canons of the new diocese, the Bishop of St. Albans, and the Archbishop of Canterbury (who preached the sermon). As the procession passed up the long nave from the west door to the east end of the Cathedral Mr. Booth played the "Hallelujah Chorus" on the great organ in the nave. Smart's Te Deum in F and the anthem "Now therefore, our God, we thank Thee" were sung during the ceremony of enthronement, after which a choral celebration was held, the music selected being Dr. Garrett's in F. The choir was augmented by contingents from St. Paul's Cathedral, London, and Wheatthampstead Church. The musical arrangements were under the conductorship of Mr. Booth (the organist of the Cathedral), who also gave an Organ Recital on the large organ in the afternoon from the works of Beethoven, Handel, Haydn, Paisiello, Rossini, &c. A new choir-organ, placed to the east of St. Cuthbert's screen, was opened on the occasion.

SUNDERLAND.—The report of the seventeenth season of the Philharmonic Society shows that the Association, both musically and financially, is in a highly satisfactory position. The works performed during the season were Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise, Rossini's Stabat Mater, and Handel's Messiah and Josiah, the solo parts having been sustained by the most eminent vocalists. The compositions chosen for the opening concert of next season are Gade's Cantata, The Crusaders, and Handel's Acis and Galatea.

WIGSTON MAGNA.—On the 15th ult. a Concert was given by Miss Hodgkins and a Quintett Party, selected from the Leicester New Harmonic Society, assisted by the local band, &c. The programme comprised overtures by the band; Bertha's song, from Il Barbiere di Siviglia, charmingly sung by Mrs. Hodgkins; a pianoforte solo by Miss Hodgkins, and a pianoforte duet by the Misses Hodgkins, both well played. Master Clarke received an enthusiastic encore for his violin solo. The concert was most successfully sustained throughout.

WOOLWICH.—Miss Mascall gave a very successful Concert on the 15th ult. in the Town Hall, when she was assisted by many of her pupils. The programme consisted of vocal and instrumental selections from the works of Weber, Haydn, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, and Mozart. A new chorus, "Greeting to Summer," words and music by Miss Mascall, was well rendered and favourably received. Miss Mascall, in addition to the pieces she played, accompanied the vocalists. Mr. Roberts officiated as Conductor.

WORCESTER.—The twelfth Dedication Festival of Holy Trinity Church was celebrated on Trinity Sunday, when a new anthem, "And now, Israel, what doth the Lord thy God require of thee?"—specially composed for the occasion by Dr. Spark, of Leeds (brother of Mr. E. J. Spark, the organist and choirmaster of Holy Trinity)—was most efficiently performed. The Anthem, which is a very successful composition, concludes with a broad fugal subject. The musical selections were admirably sung by the choir of the church, assisted by several friends. Dr. Spark presided at the organ. At the evening service the new anthem was again sung in an admirable manner by the choir.

ORGAN APPOINTMENT.—Mr. Talbot Beecroft Notcutt, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Anne's, Hoxton, N.

CHOIR APPOINTMENT.—Mr. H. W. Myers, Principal Tenor to St. Mary's, Westminster, S.W.

OBITUARY.

On May 14, at New York, Mr. ALBERT STEINWAY, junior partner in the firm of Steinway & Co., piano manufacturers.

On the 11th ult., at 13, Dorchester Place, N.W., JOHANN BAPTIST ZIMMERMANN, aged 57.

On the 20th ult., Mr. JAMES TURPIN, senior, of Nottingham, aged 60.

CONTENTS.

The Influence of Handel on Music in England ...	321
A Sketch of the History of Music-printing, from the Fifteenth to the Nineteenth Century ...	324
Amateurs ...	326
The Family of Beethoven ...	327
Occasional Notes ...	329
Fanti Music ...	330
The Caxton Celebration in Westminster Abbey ...	331
The Handel Festival ...	331
Her Majesty's Theatre—Royal Italian Opera—Philharmonic Society ...	333
Royal Academy of Music ...	334
Handel's "Hercules" ...	334
Paragraphs ...	334
"Lullaby." A Cradle-Song, by J. Barnby ...	335
"Farewell." German Volkslied ...	338
Reviews ...	343
Foreign Notes ...	347
Correspondence ...	349
Brief Summary of Country News ...	350
Organ Appointment, &c. &c. ...	352

FOR SALE, MUSIC and PIANOFORTE BUSINESS in the Western Counties, situated in a thriving commercial and market town. Good Tuning Connection and opening for a professor. Stock, goodwill, &c., about £1,000. Address, H., Messrs. Novello and Co.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

MAJOR, S. D.—Tunes for the Family and Congregation. Imperial 16mo; cloth, 4s. 6d.

BUNNETT, E., Mus. Doc., Cantab.—Te Deum laudamus in G, for Four Voices, with Organ Accompaniment. 8vo, 3d.

MILLER, C. E.—A Morning and Evening Service in E. 8vo, 2s.

ROYLANDS-SMITH, T.—The Te Deum, Ambrosian Melody. With Vocal and Instrumental Harmonies, post 8vo, 2d.

STAINER, J.—The Canticles of the Church. Arranged to Gregorian Tones. Fourth Series. 8vo, 6d.

TURLE, JAMES.—The Morning and Evening Service, together with the Office for the Holy Communion, set to Music in the key of D. 8vo, 1s. 6d., or singly: 1. Te Deum, 4d. 2. Benedictus, 4d. 3. Jubilate, 3d. 4. Kyrie; 5. Sanctus; 6. Nicene Creed, 4d. 7. Magnificat; 8. Nunc dimittis, 4d.

MONK, E. G., Mus. Doc., Oxon.—"God so loved the world." Anthem for Tenor Solo, Chorus and Organ. 2s. 6d.

CORNWALL, CHANNON.—Songs of the Church. Favourite Hymns set to Music, chiefly by modern composers. Nos. 3 and 4. 4d. each.

JOY, ALFRED.—Two Hymns. "Onward, Christian Soldiers," and "Abide with me." 8vo, 2d.

SWINNEY, D. J. C.—"Primrose-time." Part-song. 8vo, 3d.

BARTHOLOMEW, MRS. M.—"Together." Song. Words by Miss AMELIA B. EDWARDS. 2s.

COENEN, WILLEM.—"The Rose" (Röschen). Song. The English words translated from the German of KLETTE by the Rev. J. TROUTBECK. 2s. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MR. THOM LAW (Basso)

(Of Madame Lemmens-Sherrington's Concert Party).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 44, Horton Lane, Bradford, Yorks.

ORGANIST (experienced) desires temporary duty as ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Disengaged for three months. Organist, 4, Cambridge Road, Teddington, S.W.

WANTED, an ORGANIST, one who thoroughly understands Church Music, and is fully competent to train a surplined choir. Nice church and cheerful services. Must be a sound Churchman and able to give good references. State salary required. Address, Vicar, Fulwood, Preston.

DEPUTY-ORGANIST WANTED, in exchange for practice at a church near King's Cross. Address, Organist, 3, Lincoln Terrace, Junction Road, N.

WANTED, an ORGANIST for Wigton Church. Apply to Mr. R. Brown, Churchwarden, Wigton, Cumberland.

WANTED, a good VIOLINIST, one that can play piano and organ preferred; also would be required to assist in a music-shop. A good organist's appointment could also be obtained. Apply to N., care of Novello, Ewer and Co.

WANTED, FIRST TEACHER of MUSIC for Ladies' Boarding School, after holidays. Requirements, first-class piano, singing, and harmony. Testimonials and references must accompany applications. Address to C. B., Messrs. Novello and Co.

TO ORGAN BUILDERS.—WANTED, First-class WORKMEN (inside hands). Apply to T. Atterton, Organ Builder, Leighton Buzzard, Beds.

TO BE SOLD, an excellent PIANOFORTE and GENERAL MUSIC DEPOT, with good Tuning and Hiring Connection, in one of the best woollen manufacturing districts in Yorkshire. Established eleven years. The premises may either be rented or purchased. Also another similar business, recently opened. Address, in first instance, J. S., Piano Depot, No. 4, Parliament Street, Harrogate.

ORGAN for SALE, by Henry Willis; suitable for church or chamber. Three rows of keys, about 30 stops (9 stops in swell), couplers, composition pedals, 2½ octaves pedals (bourdons). Address, Mr. W. Viner, West Malling Church, Kent.

A 7-Octave KIRKMAN COTTAGE PIANO to be SOLD for £35; warranted to be new and without defect. Apply to Rev. Walter Earle, Yarlet Hall, near Stafford.

DOUBLE-ACTION ERARD HARP for SALE, in splendid condition, and will be sold very cheap to an immediate purchaser. Address, Mr. A. Bezan, 45, Regent Street, Leamington.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

Just Published.

NEW PART-SONGS, MADRIGALS, &c.,

BY

R. L. PEARSALL.

COLLEGIATE SERIES.

No.
68.	Part-Song	... A lad and lassie. S.A.T.B.	2d.
70.	Part-Song	... True love, to-day I must away	2d.
64.	Madrigal	... When old King Cole	3d.
54.	Madrigal	... My bonnie lass, she smileth	3d.
65.	Glee	... Glorious Apollo...	2d.
73.	Part-Song	... Was there not a look of fondness	2d.
55.	Part-Song	... Robin Hood...	3d.
65.	Glee	... King Charles	3d.
72.	Part-Song	... My mother loves me not	2d.
69.	Part-Song	... Spring brings flow'rets fair	2d.
71.	Part-Song	... 'Twas a trumpet's pealing sound...	3d.
52.	Ballad Dialogue	... Who kill'd Cock Robin?	... 8th Edition	3d.
		(Folio, illustrated, 3s.)
50.	Part-Song	... Brave Lord Willoughby...	... 5th	3d.
25.	Madrigal	... Here on the waters	... 4th	4d.
53.	Part-Song	... Her eyes the glow-worm	... 3rd	3d.
4.	Student's Song	... The three friends. S.A.T.B.	... 4th	3d.
5.	Student's Song	... " " " T.T.B.B.	... 4th	3d.
60.	Madrigal	... Down by a river straying	... 2nd	4d.
61.	Madrigal	... Hie away! o'er bank and brae	... 2nd	4d.
58.	Glee	... Flow, limpid stream. A.T.E.B.	4d.
51.	Student's Song	... Gaudeamus igitur	... 6th Edition	3d.
74.	Part-Song	... Springs she not as light as air	3d.
63.	Part-Song	... My enemies they do increase	3d.
62.	Part-Song	... 'Tis raining!	3d.
59.	Part-Song	... The Poacher's Song	3d.
56.	Market Chorus	... The Villagers (with Pianoforte, Flute, or Violin Accompaniment), Chorus of Peasants, Market Women, Swiss Jodel, &c.	4d.

DR. S. S. WESLEY.

3.	Part-Song	... The Mermaid. S.A.T.B.	... 3rd Edition	4d.
6.	Part-Song	... Arising from the deep. S.A.T.B.	... 2nd	4d.
2.	Chorus	... The praise of music (Double Choir).	... 2nd	4d.
18.	Anthem	... O how amiable!	... 3rd	4d.
19.	Anthem	... Wherewithal shall a young man	... 2nd	4d.
40.	Anthem	... The Lord is my Shepherd	... 2nd	4d.
14.	Anthem	... Let us now praise famous men.	... 4th	4d.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

8.	Part-Song	... Swift the shades of eve	... 6th	3d.
12.	Part-Song	... The Vikings and the north wind	... 3rd	3d.
10.	Part-Song	... The eagle	... 2nd	3d.
42.	Anthem	... O praise the Lord	3d.
43.	Anthem	... I waited patiently	3d.

DULCIANA.

13.	National Anth.	... God save the Queen	... 20th Edition	2d.
		(With Organ Accompaniment.)
7.	Part-Song	... Auld lang syne	... 26th	3d.

SCHUMANN.

26.	Solo and Chorus	... Sleep on, in visions	... 4th	3d.
11.	Solo and Chorus	... Vesture pure and scatheless	... 3rd	3d.
29.	Trio (s.s.a.)	... Magna peccatrix	3d.
30.	Trio (s.s.a.)	... The midnight hags	3d.

J. P. KNIGHT.

1.	Madrigal	... Canst thou say me nay?	... 3rd Edition	3d.
----	----------	----------------------------	-----------------	-----	--

NEW BALLADS.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

THE CATHEDRAL CHOIR	(with Chorus)	4s.
---------------------	---------------	--------	-----	--	--

R. L. PEARSALL.

DRUMMING AND PIPING	3s.
BRAVE LORD WILLOUGHBY	3s.
WHO KILL'D COCK ROBIN?	3s.

*Just Published.*CONSECUTIVE FIFTHS AND OCTAVES
IN COUNTERPOINT

AN ESSAY, BY R. L. PEARSALL.

*Price 2s.; post-free, 2s. 2d.*London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

SELECT

PIANOFORTE PIECES

OF

STEPHEN HELLER.

AN AUTUMN LEAF	s. d.
	(Romance, Op. 105, No. 3.)	3	0
AN EVEN SONG	3	0
	(Prelude, Op. 119, No. 16.)
AUBADE	3	0
	(Prelude, Op. 81, No. 7.)
BARCAROLLE	3	0
	(Prelude, Op. 81, No. 23.)
BERCEUSE	1	0
	(Study, Op. 47, No. 19.)
CHANSON DE MAI	1	0
	(Prelude, Op. 81, No. 17.)
CHANT DU BERCEAU	2	6
	(Prelude, Op. 81, No. 15.)
CHANT DU SOIR	1	0
	(Study, Op. 45, No. 9.)
CRADLE SONG	3	0
	(Chanson de berceau, Op. 73, No. 3.)
FEUILLET D'ALBUM	2	0
	(Study, Op. 16, No. 15.)
HALTE DU CHASSEUR	3	0
	(Dans les bois, Op. 86, No. 3.)
HUNTSMAN'S SONG	3	0
	(Chant du chasseur, Op. 73, No. 1.)
JAGDLIED	2	6
	(Study, Op. 90, No. 7.)
L'AVALANCHE	1	0
	(Study, Op. 45, No. 2.)
LA TRUITE	4	0
	(Caprice brilliant on the Song of Schubert, Op. 33.)
LIEDCHEN	1	0
	(Study, Op. 46, No. 8.)
ON SONG'S BRIGHT PINIONS	4	0
	(Improvisata on Song of Mendelssohn, Op. 67.)
ONDINE	1	0
	(Study, Op. 45, No. 16.)
PARTING SONG	3	0
	(Mendelssohn's Song transcribed.)
RÊVERIE AU BOIS	1	0
	(Study, Op. 45, No. 13.)
THE WATERMILL	2	0
	(Study, Op. 45, No. 20.)
UN RAYON DU SOLEIL	1	0
	(Study, Op. 45, No. 1.)
UNE PETITE FEUILLE	3	0
	(Op. 110.)
UNE PETITE HISTOIRE	1	0
	(Study, Op. 125, No. 6.)
WANDERSTUNDEN	3	0
	(Rêveries d'Artiste, Op. 80, No. 2.)

The above pieces are among the most popular Works of this esteemed Composer. A complete catalogue of his entire Works, Op. 1 to Op. 141, is now ready, and will be forwarded post-free (on application) to any part of the world.

LONDON:

ASHDOWN AND PARRY,
HANOVER SQUARE.

THE HYMNARY

A BOOK OF CHURCH SONG.

THE FOLLOWING EDITIONS ARE NOW READY:—

No.				s.	d.
1.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Bourgeois Antique.	Cloth, red edges	1 0
2.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns.	0 6
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns.	0 4
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns.	0 3
3.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth		4 0
4.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		5 0
5.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth		3 0
6.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		4 0
7.	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo		1 6
"	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo, cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		2 0
8.	Hymns with Tunes.	Small post 8vo, to bind with the Pearl 8vo Prayer Book.	Cloth		2 6
9.	Hymns with Tunes.	Ditto.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		3 0
10.	Hymns with Tunes.	Large type, Imperial 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		10 6
	Selections of Hymns with Tunes for Advent, Christmas, Easter and Harvest, price One Penny each.

A Discount of 20 per Cent. will be allowed to the Clergy, for Cash, when not less than six copies of one edition are taken. Applications for permission to print the Hymns and Tunes for Choral Festivals, should be addressed to the Publishers.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE NEW HYMNAL.

THE SONG OF PRAISE, By Lady VICTORIA EVANS-FREKE. Being a New and Enlarged Edition of the Rev. EDWARD HARLAND'S CHURCH PSALTER and HYMNAL, including a large number of Original Tunes written by the most eminent Church musicians of the day expressly for this work. Prices as follow:—

	s.	d.
Large Organ Edition	...	8 6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, with blank music paper at the end, gilt lettered	...	10 6
Small Music Edition	...	3 6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, gilt lettered	...	4 6
Words only	...	1 2
Ditto, red edges, gilt	...	1 6

Liberal Terms to the Clergy.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, THE BROADWAY, LUDGATE.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK, containing 258

Tunes and 85 Chants.
No 1.	Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 6d.
" 2.	Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 3.	Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 0d.
" 4.	Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	2s. 6d.

About 250,000 copies have already been sold.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK (Second Series)

containing 298 Tunes and 74 Chants.
No. 5.	Limp cloth	2s. 6d.
" 6.	Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 7.	Limp cloth	2s. 0d.
" 8.	Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	2s. 6d.

First and Second Series Bound together.

No. 9.	Limp cloth	4s. 6d.
" 10.	Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	6s. 0d.
" 12.	Tonic Sol-fa, cloth	3s. 0d.

Now Ready.

SMALL EDITION of the COMPLETE WORK.

715 Tunes and Chants, providing for nearly 200 Varieties of Metre.
No. 11.	Cloth	3s. 0d.

Each Edition may be had in Superior Binding.

Communications and inquiries as to Copyrights, and also as to supplies of this work at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; Bristol: W. and F. Morgan; and all Booksellers and Musiciansellers.

THE LONDON TUNE-BOOK. A Companion

for all Hymnals. Cloth, 3s.; red edges, 3s. 6d.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Enlarged Edition.

TUNES, NEW AND OLD; comprising all the Metres in the Wesleyan Hymn-Book. Also, Chants, Responses, and Doxologies. Compiled by JOHN DOBSON; and for the most part revised or rearranged by HENRY JOHN GAUNTLETT, Mus. Doc.; JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; and SAMUEL REAY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, and 80 and 81, Queen Street. Sold also at 66, Paternoster Row. Prices: plain cloth, 3s. 6d.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 5s. TONIC SOL-FA EDITION: plain cloth, 2s.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 3s.

Now ready.—Upwards of 600 pages, including copious indices.

NEW TUNE-BOOK FOR THE FAMILY AND CONGREGATION, containing 770 distinct tunes, embracing arrangements suitable to the varied requisites of all the more recently published Hymn-Books. The selection not only includes all the standard tunes from English, German, and other sources; but also some of the more deservedly favourite English tunes of the eighteenth century, the best compositions from the large collections published of late years in America, the more striking of the Welsh Congregational Tunes, most of the popular English tunes of the present day, and some tunes of very considerable merit not before published.

There are several hundred notices of composers, &c., with an index to them—over three hundred.

Price 4s. 6d. Special terms for quantities. Detailed prospectuses of W. Mack, 38, Park Street, Bristol. London: HODDER and STOUTON, Paternoster Row; NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W., and 80 & 81, Queen Street, E.C.

Now ready, 2nd Edition (4th Thousand).

THE BURNLEY TUNE-BOOK: A New Psalmody of nearly 700 (mostly original) Tunes, Chants, Kyries, &c. Already in use in many Churches and Chapels. Plain binding, 4s.; extra, 5s. London: F. PYMANT, Burnley: T. SIMPSON.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN; containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

PARR'S CHURCH PSALMODY, containing 392 Tunes, in 100 Metres, 301 Chants, various Responses, &c., with Memoirs of the Composers and Histories of the Pieces, giving an amount of information nowhere else to be found. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S "SUPPLEMENTAL HYMN AND TUNE-BOOK" (4th Edition) may be had of the publishers, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. Quarto post, large type and beautifully bound in cloth, price 6s. 6d.; on toned paper, extra thick, 7os. 6d.

"MY SPIRIT LONGS FOR THEE." Hymn, set to Music by JOHN NAYLOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon., together with five other original Hymn Tunes, including "Rock of ages," for men's voices only. Price 4d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

HYMN TUNES, composed by ROBERT BROWN-BORTHWICK, Vicar of All Saints', Scarborough. Elegantly bound in scarlet cloth, price 2s. 6d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S SERIES OF MODERN HYMN TUNES, KYRIES, &c. This Series embraces original Tunes and Kyries by some of the best living composers of Church Music, and may be had in separate numbers from 3d. and 6d. each. Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE MISSIONARY MANUAL TUNE-BOOK. Compiled and Edited by Sir JAMES ERASMUS PHILLIPS, Bart., M.A., Prebendary of Sarum, Vicar of Warminster, and Proctor in Convocation, and WILLIAM VINCENT, M.A., Rector of Postwick, Norfolk. Paper covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, 2s. THE MISSIONARY MANUAL OF HYMNS AND PRAYERS. Price 2d. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MUSIC FOR THE NEW CODE.—"THE SINGING-CLASS MANUAL," by the late WILLIAM JACKSON, MASHAM, is admirably suited for use in the Public Elementary Schools. Price (with Appendix, containing eight pieces of music in different keys) 2s. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; and all Musiciansellers and Booksellers.

Now Ready. (Dedicated to College of Organists.) ON TUNING THE ORGAN. Illustrated APPENDIX, containing faults in action with remedies, price 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. Hemstock, Diss.

BAKER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR. Easy and very plain instructions. Adapted for Schools and General Teaching Purposes. London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row; or, post-free, 3s., of G. Baker, Stamp Office Place, Wakefield.

H. WHITE and SON'S CATALOGUE OF H. SECOND-HAND MUSIC, Ancient and Modern, comprising Elementary, Sacred, Operas, Violin, Flute, and Violoncello Music Trios, Quartetts, Scores, &c. Post-free. 337, Oxford Street, W.

REDUCED PRICES OF OUSELEY AND MONK'S POINTED PSALTER.

				s.	d.
4to Edition, with Chants in Short Score	4	0
12mo Edition. Vocal parts	Each	1 6
32mo Edition. Words only	0 9
Ditto ditto with Proper Psalms	1 0

This pointing of the Psalter is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York.

London: NOVELLO, EWER & Co., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)

THE CATHEDRAL PSALTER, POINTED FOR CHANTING.

PUBLISHED WITH THE SANCTION OF

THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF ST. PAUL'S

AND

THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF WESTMINSTER.

Imperial 32mo, cloth	0	9
Ditto, with Proper Psalms, cloth	1	0
Demy octavo, large type, with Proper Psalms, cloth	2	6
Proper Psalms separately. Paper covers. 32mo	0	3
Canticles. 32mo	0	1
Do. 8vo	0	3

All Editions contain the Canticles, and Special Hymns for use on certain days instead of the Venite.

The Clergy can be supplied with copies, in quantities of not less than 25s. on liberal terms.

New Edition, complete in One Volume, 142 pages; paper cover, 5s. net; handsomely bound in scarlet cloth, gilt edges, (as a gift or prize book), 7s. 6d. net.

"THE VILLAGE ORGANIST."—Seventy-eight Easy Voluntaries, expressly contributed by Sir Julius Benedict; Sir William Sterndale Bennett, M.A., Mus. Doc., Cantab.; Sir George J. Elvey, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; Sir F. A. G. Ouseley, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon.; Dr. G. B. Arnold, Dr. E. T. Chipp, Dr. J. B. Dykes, Dr. H. J. Gauntlett, Dr. A. S. Holloway, Dr. G. A. Macfarren, Dr. E. G. Monk, Dr. E. F. Rimbault, Dr. William Spark, Dr. J. Stainer, Dr. C. G. Verrinder, Dr. S. S. Wesley; C. Goodban, Mus. Bac., Oxon.; S. Reay, Mus. Bac., Oxon.; J. Barnby, J. F. Barnett, R. Forsey Brion, J. Baptiste Calkin, William Hutchins Calcott, W. G. Cousins, E. M. Delaborde, Henry Farmer, F. E. Gladstone, John Hullah, H. S. Irons, C. W. Lavington, Mrs. Mounsey-Bartholomew, Franz Nava, Alberto Randegger, Brinley Richards, J. E. Richardson, Charles Salaman, E. Silas, Henry Smart, Boyton Smith, E. H. Thorne, J. Tilleard, and E. H. Turpin.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street (W.).

* * * "THE VILLAGE ORGANIST" is very popular with town Organists as a lesson-book for their organ and harmonium pupils.

FIVE INTRODUCTORY VOLUNTARIES for the ORGAN. Composed by T. MEE PATTISON.

These Voluntaries, of medium difficulty, with Pedal Obligato, will be found eminently useful for the introduction of Divine Service, both as regards character and length. Price 3s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ORGAN MOVEMENTS.—Six Selected MOVEMENTS from the Organ Sonatas by Mendelssohn. Edited and fingered by JAMES LOWE. Reduced price complete, 3s. 6d. Single numbers—1, 3, 4, and 6, 9d. each, and 2 and 5, 1s. each net.

Manchester: HIME and ADDISON, 30, Victoria Street.

London: C. JEFFERYS, 67, Berners Street.

SONGS COMPOSED BY WILLEM COENEN.

LOVELY SPRING (Frühlingslied)	3s.
(No. 1 for S. or T., No. 2 for C. or B.)
THE KINDLY STARS (Die Gutensterne)	3s.
THE ROSE (Röschen)	4s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SELECT COMPOSITIONS

FROM THE

GREAT MASTERS,

ARRANGED FOR THE ORGAN

With Pedal Obligato by

A. H. BROWN.

- No. 1. "Wedding March," by Mendelssohn.
2. March from "Tannhäuser," by Wagner.
3. March from "Scipio," also from Occasional Oratorio, both by Handel.
4. "Coronation March," from Meyerbeer's "Prophète."
5. "The Dead March" in "Saul" and "See the conquering hero comes," both by Handel.
6. Andantino, from the 11th Grand Symphony by Haydn, and "Waft her, angels," from Handel's "Jephtha."
7. "As pants the hart," from Spohr's "Crucifixion," and "Where'er you walk," from Handel's "Semele."
8. "My heart ever faithful" (Mein gläubiges Herz frohlocket), by Bach.
9. Andantino from the 5th and Andante from the 4th Sonatas, by Pleyel.
10. "The Hero's March," by Mendelssohn.
11. "Quis est homo?" from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."
12. Air et Chœur, from "La Dame Blanche," by Boieldieu.
13. Grande Marche Héroïque in C, by Fr. Schubert.
14. Grande Marche Héroïque in D, by Fr. Schubert.
15. Overture, "Berenice," by Handel.
16. Overture, "Sarmes," by Handel.
17. Handel's Overture, "Alcina."
18. Gavotte, from Handel's Overture, "Otho."
19. "La Carita," by Rossini.
20. "Angels ever bright and fair," and "Pious orgies," both by Handel.
21. "Ave Maria," by Franz Schubert.
22. Aria, by Antonio Lotti. Circa 1700.
23. "My soul thirsteth for God," Aria from Mendelssohn's 42nd Psalm.
24. "Gloria in Excelsis," from Weber's Mass in G.
25. "Fac ut portem," from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."
26. "Pietà, Signore," from the Oratorio "San Giovanni Battista," Stradella.
27. Handel's Overture to "Julius Cæsar."
28. Serenade, by Franz Schubert.

[Continuing.]

Price Two Shillings each.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

Now ready. Small 4to. Price 1s. Vocal parts, 12mo, price 6d. each. 1st and 2nd Series bound together, cloth, 2s. 9d. Vocal parts 1st and 2nd series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE CANTICLES and HYMNS of the CHURCH, pointed for Chanting, and set to appropriate Anglican Chants, Single and Double; together with Responses to the Commandments, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., etc., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK. This work contains a selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

This pointing of the Canticles is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Third Edition, enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s. 6d. paper covers, 3s. 9d. cloth lettered.

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS, Single and Double, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., etc., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This work contains nearly 400 Chants; which are appropriated to "Venite exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page and affording several Series suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter, from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting note.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS. Set to Music by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c.

For general or Festival use; for male voices and four-part Chorus, with Organ accompaniment, ad lib. Price 3d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK. Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 1s.; cloth, 2s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Oxford: PARKER.

Seventh Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK, edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 4s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

OUSELEY and MONK'S PSALTER and CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 24mo, without chants, 9d.; with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to, with chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to, 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo, 1½d. Novello, Ewer and Co., and Parker and Co.

Preparing for the Press.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF WORDS OF ANTHEMS, new Edition, revised, corrected, and brought down to the present date.

Twelfth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Price 5s. 6d., paper covers; 7s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-notes.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. St. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter having been collated with the Sealed Books is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small Edition is in preparation.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Fourth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. Quarto, in cloth elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Fifth Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. St. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

A MORNING SERVICE, Te Deum, Jubilate, and Kyrie, by the Rev. EDWARD YOUNG. Tenth edition, abbreviated for Parochial use. Organ and Choir copies, 4d. each.

"Melodious, vocal, and nicely harmonised—that is, without pretence or straining at effect; and they declaim the words devoutly and emphatically."—Musical Times.

"Good points, and tuneful passages."—Musical Standard. "The intelligent, devoted, and devotional spirit in which every note seems to have been composed, furnishes one of the best guarantees for excellence."—English Churchman.

"All competent criticism will be found in accordance with the verdict of a high professional authority as to 'abundant proof of imagination, poetical conception, and musical feeling.'"—Christian Observer.

"The strain is devotional, and harmonies full, solemn, and massive. . . . He fairly claims to have dug a channel for the devout utterance of the words."—Bristol Times.

Also,

VENITE, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

8vo, price 6d.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES COMPLETE (20), with Music in full for Organist and Choir. By HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster.

One or more of these beautiful and effective sentences may be sung after the Priest has said the Offertory, or after the hymns at Matins or Evensong, whilst the alms are being collected.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.—The OFFERTORY SENTENCES taken from the Gospels. Set to music for S.A.T.B. and Organ, by the Rev. V. W. Popham. Price 6d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

CANTATE and DEUS, by R. TAYLOR. An easy Unison Service in F. Price 6d. To be had of Novello and Co., or of the Author, Brighton College.

G. A. MACFARREN'S CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR. For Voices in Unison and Organ. 8vo, 6d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS

Set to Music in Chant Form to original Chants, by

S. C. COOKE,

Organist and Choirmaster, S. Peter's, Caversham, Reading.

Price 3d. Post-free from Composer.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

"TE DEUM LAUDAMUS," in E flat. Composed by ALFRED J. DYE. Small 8vo, 3d.; organ copy, 6d.

"A simple setting, quite within the reach of ordinary church choirs."—Musical Record.

"In the various broad and effective unison sentences the organ is handled with judgment and skill."—The Choir.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in key of G, for Four Voices, with Organ Accompaniment. By E. BUNNETT, Mus. D., Cantab. Price Threepence.

Also, by same Composer, two Settings of the VENITE, EXULTE-MUS DOMINO, in Chant form. Price Twopence each.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A MORNING and EVENING SERVICE, set to music principally in chant form for Four Voices, in harmony and unison with organ accompaniment. "Easy, effective, and congregational, and useful to parish choirs." Price 9d.; not less than one dozen copies, post-free, 7s. 9d., from the composer only. H. T. Harwood, Yeovil.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMMUNION SERVICE (complete) S.A.T.B. by W. F. TAYLOR, (1s. net) of the Composer, 3, St. John's Terrace, New Wandsworth (S.W.), and Simpson and Co., 33, Argyll Street (W.), London.

MISSA SERAPHICA. The Office of Holy Communion (complete). Set to original music by Arthur H. Brown, Brentwood, Essex. Price 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BENEDICITE, with Appropriate Chants. Three different Settings. By ALEX. S. COOPER. Second edition. Price 3d. "Very suitable for Harvest Festivals." London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

4TH BOOK NOW READY. Collection of KYRIES, &c. Original Compositions by Dr. F. Hiller, Guilmant, G. A. and W. Macfarren, Sir G. J. Elvey, Tours, Salaman, Francesco Berger, E. G. Monk, J. Baptiste Calkin, Scotson Clark, Hamilton Clarke, &c. Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 1s. each. Separate Nos. (1 to 71), 1d. SPOHR'S 24th PSALM, 8vo (2nd thousand), 9d.; folio, 4s. net. London: Novello and Co. Sheffield: W. T. Freemantle, High Street.

EASY ANTHEM for HARVEST FESTIVALS.—"O SING UNTO THE LORD WITH THANKSGIVING." Composed by T. PALMER.

"Pleasingly written, and up to the average of easy anthems."—Choir.

Price 4d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TENTH EDITION. Price 3d.

HARVEST ANTHEM.—"THOU CROWNST THE YEAR." By THOMAS SMITH. "Easy and effective." London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street. Post-free from the Composer, 25, Angel Hill, Bury St. Edmunds.

THIRD EDITION. Price 3d.

"O WORSHIP THE LORD IN THE BEAUTY OF HOLINESS." To be had as above.

HANDEL'S HERCULES. An Oratorio, Edited and the Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged from the German Handel's Society's Full Score, by EBENEZER PROUT. Octavo, paper cover, 3s.; scarlet cloth, 5s.

HARVEST ANTHEMS.

- SMART, HENRY.—THE LORD HATH DONE GREAT THINGS. 8vo, 4d.
- GARRETT, G. M., Mus. D.—THE LORD IS LOVING UNTO EVERY MAN. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, folio, 1s.; ditto, 8vo, 3d.; vocal parts, 1s.
- BARNBY, J.—I WILL GIVE THANKS UNTO THEE. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 2s.; ditto, 8vo, 4d.; vocal parts, 1s. 6d.
- O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD ARE THY WORKS. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, folio, 9d.; ditto, 8vo, 1½d.; vocal parts, 6d.
- THE HARVEST-TIDE THANKSGIVING. Hymn for 4 voices. Words by the Rev. S. CHILDS CLARKE. 8vo, 1½d.; Words only, 1s. 6d. per 100.
- GROSS, Sir JOHN.—FEAR NOT, O LAND, BE GLAD AND REJOICE. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 2s. 6d.; ditto, 8vo, 6d.; vocal parts, 1s. 6d.
- I WILL MAGNIFY THEE, O GOD. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; ditto, 8vo, 3d.; vocal parts, 6d.
- OUSELEY, The Rev. Sir FREDERICK.—THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 9d.; vocal parts, 6d.
- CALLCOTT, W. H.—THOU VISITEST THE EARTH AND BLESSEST IT. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; vocal parts, 6d.
- Ditto, Treble solo, 6d.
- MACFARREN, G. A.—GOD SAID, BEHOLD, I HAVE GIVEN YOU EVERY HERB. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 2s.; vocal parts, 1s. 6d.
- O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD ARE THY WORKS. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; vocal parts, 6d.
- HAYES, Dr. W.—PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s. 6d.; ditto, 8vo, 4d.; vocal parts, 1s.
- HERVEY, Rev. F. A. J.—MAKE MELODY WITHIN YOUR HEARTS. Carol. 8vo, 3d.
- GREENE, Dr.—THOU VISITEST THE EARTH. Tenor solo and chorus. Vocal score, folio, 6d.; ditto, 8vo, 1½d.; vocal parts, 6d.
- CLARKE, Dr. JOHN WHITFIELD.—BLESSED ARE ALL THEY THAT FEAR THE LORD. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; vocal parts, 7½d.
- THORNE, E. H.—ALL THY WORKS PRAISE THEE. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; ditto, 8vo, 3d.; vocal parts, 1s.
- STEGGALL, CHARLES, Mus. D., Cantab.—PRAISED BE THE LORD. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; vocal parts, 6d.
- HOPKINS, E. J.—I WILL GIVE THANKS UNTO THEE, O LORD. Full, 4 voices. 8vo, 6d.
- HOPKINS, JOHN L., Mus. D.—THE FOSTERING EARTH. THE GENIAL SHOWERS. Words by GEORGE E. SHIRLEY, Esq. 8vo, 3d.
- PATTISON, T. M.—O HOW PLENTIFUL IS THY GOODNESS. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 9d.; 8vo, 3d.; vocal parts, 6d.
- TAYLOR, W.—THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE. Solo, Trio, Quartett, and Chorus. 8vo, 6d.
- BRIDGE, J. FREDERICK.—GIVE UNTO THE LORD THE GLORY. Full, 4 voices. 8vo, 4d.
- MATTHEWS, J. J.—THE LORD SAID IN HIS HEART. Full, 4 voices. 8vo, 4d.
- ARNOLD, GEORGE B., Mus. D., Oxon.—THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE. S.S.A.T.B. 8vo, 3d.
- KEETON, HAYDN.—THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE. Full, 4 voices. 8vo, 4d.
- SMITH, THOMAS.—THOU CROWNEST THE YEAR. Full, 4 voices. 8vo, 3d.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just published.

New Works composed expressly for the use of Parish Choirs by CHARLES JOSEPH PROST.

THOU VISITEST THE EARTH: Easy Full Anthem for Harvest Festivals, price 3d. GOD IS GONE UP, ALMIGHTY AND EVERLASTING GOD, and ALMIGHTY GOD, GIVE US GRACE. Three Short and Easy Full Anthems, price 2d. each. THE OFFERTORY SENTENCES (complete), price 4d.

In the Press. Will be ready in a few weeks.

A COMPLETE MORNING, COMMUNION, and EVENING SERVICE in C major. Prices, Fourpence, Sixpence, and Twopence; or, in complete form, One Shilling.—This service contains to settings of the Kyrie, Gloria, and Gratias, two of the Sanctus, and one each of Agnus Dei, Benedictus, Pater noster, and all the other portions of the service.

The above six works have been written expressly to meet the necessities of Parish Choirs, and to that intent the compass of the parts has been limited, tenors and trebles particularly being not allowed to rise above E; and to avoid the difficulty which the adverse movements of the parts create in inexperienced choirs, the parts have been made to move together as far as consistency permits.

Now ready.

HARVEST ANTHEMS by the same Composer.

WHEN THE LORD TURNED AGAIN (Psalm 126) Price Sixpence.

GOD IS THE LORD do. do.

THOU SHALT SHOW US (Prize Anthem. Weekes and Co.) do. do.

LONDON: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.; or direct from the Composer, 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N.

Ready in a few days.

ALBERT LOWE'S

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM,

"THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S,"

Composed expressly for Parish Choirs (short, easy, and full). Octavo, price Threepence.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALBERT LOWE'S

HARVEST CAROL

"HOLY IS THE SEED-TIME."

Composed expressly for Harvest Festivals. Octavo, Twopence.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWELVE HYMNS WITH TUNES

FOR

HARVEST

SELECTED FROM

THE HYMNARY.

PRICE ONE PENNY.

- SING TO THE LORD A JOYFUL SONG J. BARNBY.
- O LORD THE HEAVEN THY POWER } SIR F. OUSELEY.
- DISPLAYS - - - - - }
- FATHER, BLESSING EVERY SEED- } DR. DYKES.
- TIME - - - - - }
- LORD, IN THY NAME THY SERVANTS } W. METCALFE.
- PLEAD - - - - - }
- THE WINTRY TIME HATH ENDED - DR. GAUNTLETT.
- COME, YE THANKFUL PEOPLE, COME SIR GEO. ELVEY.
- GOD THE FATHER, WHOSE CREATION H. SMART.
- LORD OF THE HARVEST, THEE WE } ANONYMOUS.
- HAIL - - - - - }
- LO, SUMMER COMES AGAIN - - - REV. E. B. WHYLEY.
- PRAISE, O PRAISE OUR HEAVENLY } GERMAN.
- KING - - - - - }
- SUMMER ENDED, HARVEST O'ER - J. ADCOCK.
- O LORD OF HEAVEN, AND EARTH, } DR. WESLEY.
- AND SEA - - - - - }

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

EASY and Effective ANTHEM for Village Festivals, "SING UNTO THE LORD." By A. ORLANDO STEED. Price 2d. LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

"GOD, WHO AS AT THIS TIME." Short full Whitsuntide Anthem. By G. H. GREGORY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Price 3d. Also, by the same Composer, SIX KYRIES, price 2d. MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS on a Rouennais Theme. Price 4d.

These compositions are suitable for choirs of moderate ability. LONDON: Novello, Ewer and Co.

PSALM XXIII., for SOPRANO, TENOR, and CHORUS, by the Rev. ARTHUR SEWELL. Price 2s. WITH ACCOMPANIMENT FOR THE PIANOFORTE AND HARMONIUM (pp. 71).

"Taken as a whole, a Choral Society may go further and not find a better composition for execution than this work."—Graphic. LONDON: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now ready, Vocal Score, price 3s.

JONAH. A Sacred Cantata. By J. V. ROBERTS, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Choirmaster of the Parish Church, Halifax.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

P.S.—Full Orchestral Parts to be had of the Composer.

TWO HYMNS.—"ONWARD, CHRISTIAN SOLDIERS" and "ABIDE WITH ME." Set to music by ALFRED JOY (Aylesford). Price 2d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

ABIDE WITH ME.—The favourite Evening Hymn, with music varied to each verse. Adapted for Congregational use. Composed by T. WARD. Price 2d. LONDON: Novello Ewer and Co. Bradford: G. F. Sewell, 9, Darley-street.

CAROL OF THE REAPERS. (S.A.T.B.) 3d. SIX EASY ANTHEMS FOR VILLAGE CHOIRS. 2d. each. NOVELLO and Co.; or of the Composer, W. H. GILL, Sidcup, Kent.

A MANUAL OF SINGING, FOR THE USE OF CHOIR TRAINERS & SCHOOLMASTERS,

By RICHARD MANN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

This work offers to the clergy and other amateur choir trainers a systematic and simple course of instruction, by which they may teach their pupils to read music at sight in a comparatively short time.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FORTY-NINTH EDITION.

Price 1s. A specimen copy post free for 12 stamps.

THE COLLEGIATE AND SCHOOL SIGHT-SINGING MANUAL.

FOR CHOIRS.—The easiest system that can be obtained for training, improving, and learning to read music at sight.

FOR SCHOOLS.—Every requisite for learning Music, and reading at sight in a few lessons.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.—The exercises will be found invaluable, tending to produce musical effects seldom heard.

APPENDIX.

Containing Exercises, Solfege, Canons, Anthems, &c.

Price One Shilling.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.;
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Third Edition, 2s. 6d. net.

(COMPANION WORK TO THE ABOVE.)

COLLEGIATE VOCAL TUTOR.

Containing Treatise on Voice and Vocal Art, with Anatomical Illustrations of the Vocal Instrument.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.;
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Eighth edition. Paper cover, 1s.; bound in cloth, 1s. 6d.

CATHEDRAL CHANT-BOOK.

Containing nearly 200 Single and Double Chants; also the Gregorian Tones.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.;
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Third Edition.

THEORY OF MUSIC

(A FIRST BOOK ON THE)

By LOUISA GIBSON.

Dedicated, by permission, to

H.R.H. THE PRINCESS LOUISE, MARCHIONESS OF LORNE.

(Adopted in the South London Musical Training College, and in various High Schools in London and the Provinces.)

Price: Boards, 3s.; stiff paper, 2s.; postage, 2d.

London: Weekes and Co.; Novello and Co.; Whittaker and Co.; and of the Author, Seaton Terrace, Plymouth.

NEW EDITION OF

DR. BENNETT GILBERT'S

SCHOOL HARMONY.

Price 1s. 6d. net.

"From intervals to composition."

This popular work being now printed from stereotype plates, the publishers are prepared to supply any number of copies on the shortest notice.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SERIES for the DIFFUSION OF TRUTHFUL and NATURAL SCIENCE in MUSIC.—Ecclesiastical, A; Educational, B; Hymnal, C; Secular, D. Now ready: (by post)
A1, 2s. 1d.; C1, 6d.; D1, 2s. 1d.; D2, 1s. 0d. Shortly: A2, 1s. 0d.;
B1, 1s. 0d. LUTHER versus RITUALISM. See C1.

WENTWORTH PHILLIPSON'S "GUIDE TO YOUNG PIANOFORTE TEACHERS AND STUDENTS."
2s.; by post, 2s. 6d. Czerny, 349, Oxford Street, W.

Third Edition.

FIRST STEPS for CHOIR BOYS. By JAMES
H. SIMPSON. Price 2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SECOND SERIES.

CZERNY'S 101 STUDIES, being a SEQUEL to CZERNY'S CELEBRATED 101 EXERCISES. Composed, selected, and fingered by WILHELM CZERNY. Complete, 10s.; or in two books, 6s. each.

These Studies are copyright, but to the profession and trade they will be charged at the same rate as non-copyright music, with the difference that no free copies will be allowed.

Published by WILLIAM CZERNY, 349, Oxford Street, W.

ILLUSTRATED BOOKS FOR HOLIDAY PERUSAL.

Price 2s. 6d. each.

Published by WARD, LOCK, and TYLER.

BLUEBEARD'S WIDOW

AND HER

SISTER ANNE.

Their History, evolved from Mendacious Chronicles, and illustrated by

SABILLA NOVELLO.

" The story is pleasantly told, and will be an agreeable addition to this class of very light literature. The author has shown herself as clever with her pencil as she is with her pen, for the whole story is illustrated by pretty drawings in outline. . . . "—Western Daily Mercury.

" This dainty little volume is a sequel to the 'History of Bluebeard's Wives,' and it gives in half a hundred amusing pages some very astonishing and attractive, baseless and imaginative 'facts.' The illustrations are remarkably original and drolly grotesque, and are drawn in excellent artistic style. The little volume will well amuse an idle hour, and is worthy of a place on any drawing-room table, where its clever sketches would attract attention and its story be gladly read."—Birmingham Daily Post.

HOO AND HAA.

Their Adventures, narrated and illustrated by

SABILLA NOVELLO.

" This gracefully written fairy tale, with its artistic illustrations, will sustain the reputation of its accomplished author. The moral of the pretty story is not urged unduly; but naturally flows out of the adventures of the brother and sister, which are told with a bright heart and facile pen. . . . "—Treeman's Exeter Flying Post.

" Miss Sabilla Novello seems to glory in the fields of romance and enchantment. Having recently related to us the veracious story of 'Bluebeard's Widow and her Sister Anne,' and the 'History of Bluebeard's Wives,' she now follows up her pretty romances by giving us an account of the amusing adventures of Hoho and Haha. . . . All these things are well described, and are illustrated by their fair author in pretty outline sketches, which add much to the beauty of the book and the charm of the adventures!"—Western Daily Mercury.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CHORAL SONGS,
as sung by Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir, the Birmingham Festival Choral Society, &c.

No. 1. "THE SILENT LAND." Price 3d.

"Replete with melody. Some phrases are of remarkable beauty."—Musical Times.

No. 2. "THE BETTER LAND." Price 4d.

"Distinguished by beauty of melody and richness of harmony."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"Full of charming effects."—Birmingham Daily Post.

No. 3. "THE DAY IS DONE." Price 4d.

Composed expressly for Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SOUTHWELL SCHOOL SONGS. First series,
1s. 6d. By the Rev. R. F. SMITH, Minor Canon of Southwell.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The Queen.—"Fourteen" (sixteen) "capital little songs in a cheap handy form. Quite new and withal pretty and neatly written."

The Schoolmaster.—"Easy, pleasing tunes, suitable to school use. The composer shows himself a true musician; each 'lay' has a separate tune, which is catching, appropriate, and quite in old ballad-song style."

The Musical Times.—"The sympathetic and musicianlike manner in which he has wedded them to melodies which cannot fail to please the young vocalists for whom they are expressly designed."

By the same Composer,

TE DEUM in F, 3d. ANTHEM (S.A.T.B.), "The Lord is nigh,"
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition.—Reduced Prices.

CHORAL SONGS FOR SCHOOL & HOME

FORTY-TWO ORIGINAL SONGS

FOR

ONE, TWO, OR FOUR VOICES

COMPOSED BY ROBERT JACKSON.

Cloth, complete, 3s.; Parts I. and II., paper cover, 1s. each; Single Numbers, 1d.

From Concordia.

"This little book is designed for singing-classes in schools, and the simplicity, tunefulness, and attractiveness of the small compositions it contains eminently adapt it for such a purpose."

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S ONLY COMPLETE AND UNIFORM EDITION OF

MENDELSSOHN'S

THIRTEEN TWO-PART SONGS.

With the German and W. BARTHOLOMEW'S Original English Words.

Complete in One Volume, folio, 5s. net. Octavo, paper, 2s. net; cloth gilt, 4s. net; or singly, 2s. each. The separate Numbers are sold at half-price.

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| No. 1. I would that my love. | No. 7. My bark is bounding. |
| 2. The passage bird. | 8. Can I light-hearted be? |
| 3. Greeting. | 9. Evening song. |
| 4. Autumn song. | 10. Zuleika and Hassan. |
| 5. O wert thou in the cauld blast. | 11. The Sabbath morn. |
| 6. The Maybells and the flowers. | 12. The harvest field. |
| | 13. Song from Rus Blas. |

N.B.—The Quartett score to No. 13, 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR FOUR-PART SONGS BY GABRIEL DAVIS.

- | | |
|---|-----|
| THE KNIGHT'S RETURN | 2d. |
| GOD SAVE THE PRINCE. (12th Edition) ... | 2d. |
| THE DISTANT SEA | 2d. |
| TO THE WOODS | 2d. |

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MESSRS. METZLER & CO. announce that they have acquired the COPYRIGHT FOR ENGLAND of the celebrated WALTZES by OLIVIER METRA, which have attained such great success in Paris. The following are now ready:—

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|-------|
| LA SERENADE (Valse Espagnole) | s. d. |
| LA VAGUE | 4 0 |
| L'ESPERANCE | 4 0 |
| GAMBRIEUSES | 4 0 |
| LA NUIT | 4 0 |
| MELANCOLIE | 4 0 |
| L'ETOILE DU SOIR | 4 0 |
| L'ITALIE | 4 0 |
| L'ORIENT | 4 0 |
| LA REVEUSE | 4 0 |
| LE SOIR | 4 0 |

Messrs. M. & Co. have also arranged for all future publications of this popular composer.

London: METZLER and Co. 37, Great Marlborough Street, W.

SMALLWOOD'S CLASSICAL & SECULAR EXTRACTS FOR THE PIANOFORTE.

- No. 52 Nos. ready, 3s. each.
- | |
|---|
| 1. Classical.—Hymn of Praise (Mendelssohn). |
| 19. " Kyrie Eleison (Mozart's Twelfth Service). |
| 35. " I know that my Redeemer (Messiah). |
| 4. Secular.—May-bells (Mendelssohn). |
| 20. " Selection from Die Zauberflöte (Mozart). |
| 40. " Selection from Masaniello (Auber). |
- Post-free, 18 stamps each number.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

THE OFFERTORY SENTENCES.

WITH AN APPENDIX FOR FESTAL USE,

SET TO MUSIC BY

JOSEPH BARNBY.

Price 1s. 6d.; or in Numbers at 2d. each.

- | | |
|--|--|
| No. 1. Let your light so shine. | 13. Charge them who are rich. |
| 2. Lay not up for yourselves. | 14. God is not unrighteous. |
| 3. { Whatsoever ye would that men. | 15. To do good. |
| 4. { Not every one that saith unto me. | 16. { Whoso hath this world's goods. |
| 5. { Zacchæus stood forth. | 17. Give alms of thy goods. |
| 6. { Who goeth a warfare. | 18. { Be merciful after thy power. |
| 7. { If we have sown. | 19. He that hath pity upon the poor. |
| 8. { Do ye not know. | 20. Blessed be the man. |
| 9. { He that soweth little. | 21. Let your light so shine.
Festalt Setting. |
| 10. Let him that is taught in the word. | |
| 11. { While we have time. | |
| 12. { Godliness is great riches. | |

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Ready on July 21, 1877, 16 pp. 8vo, price 6d.

DR. SPARK'S

NEW FESTIVAL ANTHEM, "AND NOW, ISRAEL."

Composed for and sung at the Twelfth Dedication Festival of Holy Trinity Church, Worcester.

[From the Worcester Journal.]

"For this occasion an anthem—'And now, Israel, what doth the Lord thy God require of thee?'—had been specially composed by Dr. Spark, of Leeds. It is a most successful composition in the key of C major. The words are very appropriate for any general church festival, and the music commences with a broadly defined organ introduction of eight bars, in common time, in a figure of successive crotchets, which leads into a unison passage for tenor and basses—
'And now, Israel.' This, after some further development, is interrupted by a charming cadence for sopranos, altos, and tenors to the words 'And with all thy heart and all thy soul.' This movement, which is interesting for its variety and novelty of treatment, is very effective, and terminates with a recurrence of the first few opening bars. Following this is a choral recitative in full to the words
'Behold the heavens and the heaven of heavens,' leading to a quartett or semi-chorus, 'Only the Lord' (which may be sung unaccompanied).
This is a fully developed subject, with contrast of key. The anthem concludes with a broad fugal subject on the words 'For the Lord thy God is God of gods and Lord of lords,' which is successively taken up by each vocal part, and after an interesting change to the key of E flat major, where the tenor part takes up the subject, the composition is modulated back to the original key, and terminates in a majestic manner by all the voices in unison singing the original fugal subject augmented. The anthem is one which, we are sure, will be found most useful to any ordinary choir, as well as for festival occasions."

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.,
and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)

Just published, by Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Large 8vo. Price Sixpence.

THE ATHANASIAN CREED,

Newly pointed and set to music by J. BOLINGBROKE COOPER,
Choirmaster, All Saints' Church, Old Swan, near Liverpool.

N.B.—This setting has been in use about a year at All Saints' and St. John's Church, Tue Brook, near Liverpool, and having been received with favour there, is now published in response to numerous inquiries for it.

NEW MUSIC.—"THE COLLEGE MARCH."

Second Edition. For Organ or Pianoforte. Song, "NEATH
THE HAWTHORN BOUGHS." Sung by Mr. Vernon Rigby.
Specimen copies 1s. 6d. each (post-free) direct from the composer, E. W. Taylor, Mus. Bac., &c., Organist, Stafford.

SUNG BY MR. SIMS REEVES.

STARS OF THE SUMMER NIGHT (Serenade).

Composed by BERTHOLD TOURS, 4s.

Post-free for 24 stamps.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS BY WILHELM SCHULTHES.

- | |
|--|
| GUIRLANDES DE MAI. Cantiques in French and English, s. d. |
| with Organ Accompaniment. 3 volumes each |
| THE MONTH OF MAY. Nocturno for two voices, with |
| Piano or Organ Accompaniment. The words taken from |
| the Hymn Book of the London Oratory 2 0 |
| SALVE REGINA. S. or T. and Chorus for equal voices, with |
| Organ and Harp Accompaniment (ad lib.) 2 6 |
| The Chorus arranged for S.A.T.B. 0 6 |
| VENI DOMINE. Motett for four equal voices (Soli and |
| Chorus), with Organ and Harp Accompaniment (ad lib.) ... 4 0 |
| Vocal arrangement for mixed voices 1 0 |
| COR JESU, SALUS IN TE SPERANTUM. Motett for |
| three equal voices, with Organ and Harp Accompaniment (ad lib.) 5 0 |
| The same, arranged for S.A.T.B., with Organ Accompaniment ... 4 0 |
| An Abridged Arrangement for Congregational use, with |
| Organ Accompaniment net |
| REGINA CÆLI. Motett for four equal voices, with Organ |
| and Harp Accompaniment (ad lib.) 6 0 |
| A Vocal Arrangement of the same for a choir of mixed |
| voices, S.A.T.B. 2 0 |
| TWELVE LATIN HYMNS for Vespers, Complin, &c., with |
| Organ Accompaniment net |
| AVE MARIA, for Mezzo-Soprano or Baritone, with Piano or |
| Organ Accompaniment 2 0 |
| O SALUTARIS, for Solo and Chorus, with Pianoforte Accompaniment 2 6 |
| The same, arranged for four voices, with Organ or Piano- |
| forte Accompaniment 3 6 |
| BENEDICTION SERVICE, and a COLLECTION OF |
| THIRTY-SIX LITANIES, with Organ Accompaniment ... 12 0 |
| ORATORY HYMNS. Words by the Very Rev. F. W. FABER. |
| Dedicated (by permission) to His Eminence Cardinal Wise- |
| man. Two Books, each containing 12 Hymns each 8 0 |

Sold at half-price.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

REDUCED PRICES.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.

Mendelssohn's Elijah 3 0				Benedict's St. Peter 3 0
Bennett's May Queen 3 0	Bach's Passion (S. Matthew) 2 0
Barnby's Rebekah 2 0

The undermentioned works may now be had at a uniform rate of

ONE SHILLING EACH.

Handel's Acis and Galatea.	Weber's Mass in E Flat.	Mozart's Requiem Mass.
Do. Dettingen Te Deum.	Do. Mass in G.	Cherubini's Requiem Mass.
Beethoven's Engedi (Mount of Olives).	Haydn's First Mass.	Gounod's Messe Solennelle.
Do. Mass in C.	Do. Third Mass (Imperial).	Spohr's Last Judgment.
Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise).	Mozart's First Mass.	Rossini's Stabat Mater.
Do. Walpurgis-Night.	Do. Twelfth Mass.

and Handel's Messiah (Novello's Pocket Edition).

NOVELLO'S FOLIO EDITION.

The following works have also been reduced in price, and will, for the future, be only supplied under.

Bach's Passion (S. Matthew) 12 6	Handel's Saul 12 6
Benedict's S. Peter 12 6	Do. Alexander's Feast 12 6
Crotch's Palestine 12 6	Do. Acis and Galatea 12 6
Handel's Judas Maccabæus 12 6	Hiller's Nala and Damayanti 12 6
Do. Israel in Egypt 12 6	Mendelssohn's S. Paul 12 6
Do. Samson 12 6	Do. Elijah 12 6
Do. Solomon 12 6	Do. Hymn of Praise 10 6
Do. Jephtha 12 6	Spohr's Fall of Babylon 12 6
Do. Joshua 12 6	Do. Calvary 12 6
Do. Deborah 12 6	Do. Last Judgment 12 6

The undermentioned works may also be had in the Folio Edition at similar prices:—

Barnby's Rebekah 10 6	Mendelssohn's First Walpurgis-Night 7 6
Haydn's Creation 10 0	Do. Antigone 7 6
Handel's Messiah 10 6	Do. Athalie 12 0
Rossini's Stabat Mater 10 0

ORCHESTRAL PARTS.

Since the reduction in the price of music in 1849, by Mr. J. A. NOVELLO, Choral Societies have so rapidly grown up and developed that works requiring full orchestral accompaniments are now, rather as a rule than an exception, included in their public performances. Hitherto, however, the price of band parts has been so high that, instead of purchasing, it has been the custom to hire them whenever a composition demanding such aid has been given. In order to obviate the necessity of this, Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER & Co. have decided that in future all Orchestral Parts shall be marked at the uniform rate of

SIXPENCE PER SHEET,

thus enabling Institutions to form a permanent library for the orchestra, as well as for the choir, at a small additional outlay.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION OF THE ORATORIOS, MASSES, CANTATAS, &c. IN PAPER BOARDS.

With the view of increasing the durability and usefulness of the above works to Choral Societies, an Edition in Paper Boards will in future be published. The price, in each case, will be sixpence above that of the Edition in Paper Covers.

IN PREPARATION.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO.'S
MUSIC PRIMERS,

EDITED BY

DR. STAINER.

- | | | | | | | |
|-----|----------------------------------|---|---|---|---|----------------------------|
| 1. | The Pianoforte | - | - | - | - | E. Pauer. |
| 2. | The Rudiments of Music | - | | | | W. H. Cummings. |
| 3. | The Organ | - | - | - | - | Dr. Stainer. |
| 4. | Harmonium | - | - | - | - | King Hall. |
| 5. | Singing | - | - | - | - | A. Randegger. |
| 6. | Pronunciation in Singing | - | | | | A. J. Ellis, F.R.S. |
| 7. | Forms in Music | - | - | - | - | E. Pauer. |
| 8. | Harmony | - | - | - | - | Dr. Stainer. |
| 9. | Counterpoint | - | - | - | - | Dr. Bridge. |
| 10. | Scientific Basis of Music | - | - | - | - | Dr. Stone. |
| 11. | History of Music | - | - | - | - | E. Pauer. |
| 12. | Church Choir Training | - | | | | Rev. J. Troutbeck. |
| 13. | Plain Song | - | - | - | - | Rev. T. Helmore. |
| 14. | Instrumentation | - | - | - | - | E. Prout. |

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

JOHN BRINSMEAD AND SONS'

Patented 1862, 1868, 1871,
and 1875, in Great Britain,
France, Prussia, Austria,
Italy, Belgium, and America.

GOLD MEDAL PIANOS.

18, WIGMORE STREET, LONDON, W.

ON THE THREE YEARS' SYSTEM.

The Grand Prize Medal and Diploma of Merit, Philadelphia, 1876.
The Grand Diploma of Honour, Paris, 1874.
The Gold Medal, Paris, 1870.
Le Diplôme de la Mention Extraordinaire,
Amsterdam, 1869.
La Médaille d'Honneur, Paris, 1867.
Prize Medal, London, 1862, etc., etc

Gilbert L. Bauer's Prize Medal Drawing Room Organs, from 8 Guineas to 300 Guineas.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

SIR JULIUS BENEDICT. { "This most ingenious and valuable invention cannot fail to meet with success."
SYDNEY SMITH. { "The touch is absolute perfection."
BRINLEY RICHARDS. { "A very clever and useful invention, and likely to be extensively adopted."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS. Six feet six inches in length, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action. Price, 90 to 100 Guineas.

"The tone of the Grand now referred to possessed all the qualities that a good piano ought to have, and in touch and action was perfect.
The sweet and silvery quality of the upper octaves was worthy of special admiration."—The Era.

"Sir Julius Benedict played his well-known composition, 'Where the Bee Sucks,' on one of Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons' Grand Pianos, with the recently patented improvements, which enabled him to produce the sustained tones with great variety of effect in the light and shade of tones, especially so when extreme delicacy of touch is required."—Court Journal.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS. Six feet six inches in length, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action. Price, 90 to 115 Guineas.

"Admirable repetition, perfect sostenuto, and luscious tone of the instrument fully justified the performer's choice."—Sunday Times.
"Magnificent, grand, the air telling out with almost vocal clearness and sweetness to the bell-like treble arpeggio accompaniment, which contrasted excellently with the extraordinary power produced in the forte passages."—Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic News.

"An immense improvement in arpeggios. The rapid passages in the upper register, the beautiful flute-like tone, and quick and perfect repetition, were very effective."—Figaro.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' CONCERT IRON GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Re- peater Action.

"Sir Julius Benedict, now seldom heard as a soloist, delighted the public once more by his arrangement of 'Where the Bee Sucks.' He played upon a new Patent Grand by Brinsmead, possessing a remarkably loud and clear tone."—Echo.

"The upright Iron Grand Piano, with sostenente sounding-board, the mechanism produces the obvious result of a fuller and richer tone."
—Morning Advertiser.

"Every means are adopted to ensure the production of perfect instruments."—The Orchestra.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON

GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"Where all the pianos go to seems somewhat of a mystery, for a really good instrument will last a lifetime: and yet every year thousands are made by each of the great London manufacturers, while the numbers made by the 200 or more smaller firms must represent an enormous number in the course of each year. The improvements made in English pianos have caused this trade rapidly to increase, until one pianoforte manufactory after another has been built to supply the growing demand. One of the largest of these, lately erected by Messrs.
John Brinsmead and Sons, of Wigmore Street, covers nearly an acre of ground in the Grafton Road, Kentish Town, and is intended to accommodate 300 workmen. These works alone can supply 3,000 pianos annually, and there are at least three manufactories in London capable of making an equal number."—Illustrated London News.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL

PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"A metal bridge of a peculiar form is used to produce the treble, and a much finer tone is produced than if a wooden bridge were used."—Morning Post.
"A perfect check, great power, and quick repetition."—Times of India.
"Produces a better quality of tone, greater durability, the new patent perfect repetition, with a check (never before attained), with the certainty of the instrument never blocking."—Land and Water.
"Beautiful, light, and elastic touch, and an instant repetition."—Globe.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL

PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"The softest touch is sufficient to secure a reply, the touch and facility of repetition are really perfect."—Belgravia.
"The advantages fully justify the term 'Perfect' Check Repeater Action."—John Bull.
"The touch is very sure, light, and elastic."—Musical Times.
"This invention is simplicity itself."—The Queen.
"The latest and greatest improvements in the pianoforte."—City Press.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL

PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
On the Three Years' System.
"Receive the greatest approbation everywhere of musicians and manufacturers."—Standard.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL

PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action, from 31 to 500 Guineas. May be obtained of all the principal Musicsellers.

GUARANTEED FOR FIVE YEARS.

•• ILLUSTRATED PRICE LISTS AND DESCRIPTIONS, WITH OPINIONS OF THE LONDON PRESS AND MUSICAL PROFESSION, FORWARDED POST FREE UPON APPLICATION.

JOHN BRINSMEAD & SONS,

18, WIGMORE ST., LONDON, W.,

AND THE "BRINSMEAD PIANOFORTE WORKS," GRAFTON ROAD, KENTISH TOWN, N.W.

THE MUSICAL
TIMES

Now ready, price Two Shillings.

THE CATHEDRAL PSALTER CHANTS

EDITED BY

S. FLOOD JONES, M.A.,

PRECENTOR OF WESTMINSTER;

JAMES TURLE,

ORGANIST OF WESTMINSTER;

J. TROUTBECK, M.A.,

MINOR CANON OF WESTMINSTER;

J. STAINER, M.A., Mus. D.,

ORGANIST OF ST. PAUL'S;

AND

JOSEPH BARNBY,

PRECENTOR OF ETON.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE CATHEDRAL PSALTER
POINTED FOR CHANTING

PUBLISHED WITH THE SANCTION OF

THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF ST. PAUL'S

AND

THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF WESTMINSTER.

Imperial 32mo, cloth	-	-	-	-	0	9
Ditto, with Proper Psalms, cloth	-	-	-	-	1	0
Demy 8vo, large type, with Proper Psalms, cloth	-	-	-	-	2	6
Proper Psalms separately. Paper covers. 32mo	-	-	-	-	0	3
Canticles, 32mo	-	-	-	-	0	1
Ditto, 8vo	-	-	-	-	0	3

All Editions contain the Canticles, and Special Hymns for use on certain days instead of the Venite.

The Clergy can be supplied with copies, in quantities of not less than 25, on liberal terms.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.,
1, BERNERS STREET (W.), AND 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET (E.C.)

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

The Music Pages only are stereotyped; those persons who would possess the Musical Articles, Notices, Advertisements, &c., can only insure doing so by taking the work as it appears.

No. 414.—Vol. 18.
Registered for transmission abroad.

AUGUST 1, 1877.

Price 3d.; Post-free, 4d.
Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 4s.

MESSRS.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Have the honour to announce that, in consequence of the retirement from business of their late American Agent, Mr. J. L. PETERS, the Sole Agency for the sale of their Publications in the UNITED STATES has been transferred to

MESSRS. DITSON & CO.

All of Messrs. NOVELLO's Publications will in future be kept in stock by—

Messrs. OLIVER DITSON and Co. ... Boston.
 „ C. H. DITSON and Co. ... New York.
 „ J. E. DITSON and Co. ... Philadelphia.
 „ LYON and HEALY ... Chicago.
 „ DOBMEYER and NEWHALL Cincinnati.
 „ MCCURRIE, WEBER and Co. San Francisco.

ALL ORDERS SHOULD STATE

NOVELLO'S EDITIONS.

KING'S COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.—CHORISTERS.—There will be an ELECTION of Two or Three CHORISTERS to fill vacancies in this Choir early in October next. Choristers are educated, lodged, and boarded free of expense. Applications to be addressed to the Bursar's Clerk, King's College, Cambridge.

WANTED, for a Church Choir, a BOY (age about 13) having a good TREBLE VOICE and some knowledge of music. Great advantages can be offered to one who wishes to study the Organ, Pianoforte, or Harmony. Address, Mus. Bac., 29, Limes Grove, Lewisham, London, S.E.

WANTED, for St. Peter's Choir, Bournemouth, TWO BOYS qualified to take a leading part (Treble). Board, lodging, and education are offered as a remuneration. Apply to Rev. A. M. Bennett, St. Peter's Vicarage, Bournemouth.

CHOIR BOYS WANTED for a London Church. Candidates must possess really good voices and be able to read music. Remuneration, £6 to £10 per annum or a public-school education. Also, a LEADING TREBLE BOY, at £16 per annum. Apply immediately, by letter, to Ernest Winchester, 18, Wycliffe Grove, Lavender Hill, S.W.

GLOUCESTER CATHEDRAL.—There is a VACANCY in this Choir for an ALTO VOICE as LAY CLERK.—The emoluments are a payment of 2s. 6d. for each attendance at the two daily services and 5s. for attendance at each additional service. The candidates likely to suit will be required to appear before the Dean and Chapter on some day in September next, which will be signified to them. Applications for the situation, stating the age and place of residence of the applicant, with testimonials as to moral and religious character, powers of voice, and musical capacity, are to be forwarded to the Rev. J. P. Clark, the Precentor, 20, College Green, Gloucester, on or before the 31st day of August, 1877. By order of the Dean and Chapter.

Gloucester, July 16, 1877.

GEORGE WHITCOMBE,
Chapter Clerk.

HEREFORD CATHEDRAL.—WANTED, an ASSISTANT VICAR with good Alto Voice. Clerical or Lay. Stipend, £100 per annum. Two-thirds weekly duty. Apply to Mr. J. H. Knight, Chapter Clerk, 30, Castle Street, Hereford.

ALTO WANTED, for surplined Choir in Kensington. Good voice and reader indispensable. Two Sunday services and week-day practice. Salary, £10 10s. Address, Organist, 163, Piccadilly, W.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., General Printers.
Books, Newspapers, Illustrated Catalogues, Circulars, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Typographical Music
Printers. Hymnals, Books for Church Festivals, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Lithographic Music
Printers. Illustrated Titles, Engraving, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Colour Printers.
Show Cards, Labels, Almanacs, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO., Lithographic Printers.
Maps, Plans, Circulars, &c.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO. are prepared to forward estimates for the above or any other variety of printing. Works—69 & 70, Dean Street, Soho, W.

ALTO, formerly a Chorister at St. Paul's Cathedral, under Mr. Buckland and Mr. Fred. Walker, is anxious to obtain an APPOINTMENT in a Church where there is full choral service. Testimonials of the highest character. Apply, R. H., 40, Albion Road, Dalston, E.

BRISTOL CATHEDRAL.—A TENOR VOICE is REQUIRED. Salary, £60 with extras. Duty, five days in the week. Candidates must be communicants of unexceptional character and have had experience in Cathedral Music. Age not above 30. Testimonials to be sent to the Chapter Clerk, 10, College Green, Bristol.

DURHAM CATHEDRAL.—The APPOINTMENT of a TENOR SINGER to the vacant place in Durham Cathedral will be made on WEDNESDAY, the 26th day of September next.

All applications, testimonials, and inquiries as to the office must be sent in addressed to the Chapter Clerk to the Dean and Chapter of Durham, at his office, in the College, Durham, on or before Monday, the 10th day of September next.

Preference will be given to candidates under 30 years of age. The travelling expenses of the candidates who shall be summoned to the trial will be paid by the Dean and Chapter.

The College, Durham, July 20, 1877.

TENOR SINGER WANTED, Holy Trinity
Church, Bishop's Road, Paddington. Duties: Sundays, 11 and 7, and twice monthly in afternoon, 3.30 (short service); Christmas Day and Good Friday; practice, Thursday evening at 8. Salary, £15 per annum. Choir surplined. Choral service. Apply, on Thursdays, 7 to 9, at Vestry.

THERE is a VACANCY for a TENOR VOICE in the surplined Choir of St. Andrew's Church, Holborn. Salary, £14 per annum. Address, Mr. James Higgs, 9, Torrington Square, W.C.

TENOR and BOYS' VOICES WANTED. Apply at St. Mary-at-Hill Church, Eastcheap, City, after service on Sunday or Friday evenings, or by letter to A. B., Burlington Lodge, Whitton, Middlesex. Surplined Choir paid.

TENOR DESIRES CHURCH ENGAGEMENT.
Good reader. State stipend. G., 13, Oxford Gardens, Notting Hill.

WANTED, for the Choir of St. Saviour's, Paddington, ALTO, TENOR, and BASS VOICES. Salary, £10. Duties comprise two services on Sunday, one weekly rehearsal. Apply by letter addressed Frederick Newton, 9, Warrington Crescent, Maida Hill, W.

CHOIR of ST. MARY'S CHURCH, Haggerston.
WANTED, additional ALTO, TENOR, and BASS VOICES. Surplined choir. Cathedral service. Apply by letter to Mr. Charles Joseph Frost, 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N., or personally, after the services.

WANTED, a LEADER of PSALMODY for
John Knox Presbyterian Church, Oxford Street, Stepney. Salary not less than £25. Applicants to forward certificates of character and qualification to Mr. R. Powrie, 3, Lansdowne Villas, Lansdowne Road, Tottenham.

ORGANIST WANTED, who will undertake to train the Choir. Salary, £40. Address, Rev. H. R. Smith, Grange-over-Sands, Carnforth.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MADAME WENSLEY (Soprano)

Is open to Engagements for Concerts, Oratorios, &c. Address, 9, Alma Square, St. John's Wood, N.W.

MISS ANNETTE IVANOVA (Soprano).

For Concerts, &c., "Brooklyn," Howard Road, South Norwood.

MRS. BROOK MYERS (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 53, Blenheim Place, Idle, near Leeds, Yorkshire.

MRS. WARREN (Soprano).

Of Mr. C. Hallé's Concerts. For Oratorio or other Concerts, address, 150, Radnor Street, Hulme, Manchester.
Lessons in Singing. References—C. Hallé, Esq., and E. Hecht, Esq.

MRS. ALFRED J. SUTTON (Soprano)

Is open to engagements for Concerts and Oratorios.
54, Duchess Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MISS M. B. CRICHTON (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford.

MISS BRITTON (Mezzo-Soprano).

15, Montpelier Road, Peckham, London, S.E.

MISS RUTH HARLOW (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Mr. E. Hermann, Athenæum, Manchester.

MISS LOUISA BOWMONT (Contralto)

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 51, Mercer Street, Embden Street, Hulme.

MR. GREENHILL (Tenor).

7, Park Place, Regent's Park.

MR. WELBY WALLACE (Tenor)

(Of the Crystal Palace, and Gentlemen's Concerts, Manchester, &c. &c.), having returned from abroad, is free to accept engagements for Concerts, Opera, or Oratorio. All communications to be addressed (care of) Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

MR. VERNEY BINNS (Tenor)

(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Sig. Ciro Pinsuti).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 65, King Cross Street, Halifax.

MR. ADOLPHUS PHILLIPS (Basso).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Cathedral Choir, Lincoln.

MR. A. MCCALL (Bass).

For Oratorios and Concerts, address, Minster, York.

MR. RICKARD (Bass)

(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Signor Ciro Pinsuti).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address, King Cross, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MR. THORNTON WOOD (Bass)

(Of the Royal Albert Hall Concerts). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford, Yorkshire.

ALBERT E. BISHOP

(Organ, Harmony, and Counterpoint).
Address, 26, Wilson Street, E.C.

SHEPTON MALLET CHURCH.—WANTED, immediately, a competent ORGANIST who can also Train a Choir. Salary, £40 per annum. Apply to Rector and Churchwardens.

WANTED, for St. Margaret's Church, Durham, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Must be a good accompanist and able to train the Choir. Salary, £50. Apply, with testimonials and references, to the senior churchwarden, J. H. Harrison, Messrs. Harrison and Harrison, Organ Builders, Durham.

ORGANIST WANTED for St. John's Church, Portmadoc. Good district for tuition; no music-master within 20 miles. Apply, stating salary, &c., to Mr. J. Parry, Bank Place, Portmadoc.

WANTED, an ORGANIST for St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Aberdeen. Apply to Mr. Muill, Advocate, City Buildings, Aberdeen.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED for St. Mark's Church, Shelton, Stoke-on-Trent. Daily evensong; full choral service on Sundays. Large church. New organ; three manuals. Stipend, £50 per annum. A good opening for a professor of music. Apply to Taylor Ashworth, Rector's Warden, Shelton, Stoke-on-Trent.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED,
20 miles from London. Gregorian and Anglican; not much teaching. Salary, £80. Present organist got preferment. Address, Vicar, Cobham, Surrey.

WANTED, TEMPORARY ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST. August and September. Plain service. Mr. Whiteley, Organist, Ashby-de-la-Zouch.

TO ORGANISTS.—A Lady, an experienced Organ-Player, OFFERS her SERVICES to an Organist (Church of England) desirous of a holiday in exchange for lodgings, bedroom, and sitting-room. No objection to London. Address, H. Holzer, office of the Musical Times.

ORGANIST.—WANTED, by a Lady, a SITUATION as ORGANIST; plain or choral service. Excellent references. Music pupils desired. Address, T., 18, Coningham Road, Shepherd's Bush, W.

ADVERTISER DESIRES an ENGAGEMENT either as ORGANIST or DEPUTY. Address X., 1, Leighton Grove, Kentish Town, N.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER SEEKS a RE-ENGAGEMENT. Country preferred. Good testimonials. Salary £25. Address, Mechanic, Stanway School, Winchcombe, Gloucestershire.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Professional Gentleman REQUIRES a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above. High-class testimonials and references. Address, Organist, Advertiser Office, Hawick, N.B.

TO ORGANISTS.—Mr. H. F. FROST (Organist, Chapel Royal, Savoy) will be happy to act as DEPUTY during the temporary closing of the chapel. 14, Tavistock Row, Covent Garden, W.C.

MR. JACOB BRADFORD, Mus. B., Oxon., will be disengaged until October 1st, and can UNDERTAKE ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER'S DUTIES at once. Address, South London College, S. James's, Hatcham, S.E.

TO ORGANISTS, CLERGYMEN, &c.—An Organist seeks SUNDAY or WEEK-DAY DUTY in London, or neighbourhood. At liberty from August to Christmas. X. Y. Z., 3, Rockhall Terrace, Cricklewood, N.W.

TO ORGANISTS, CLERGYMEN, &c.—A Gentleman is OPEN to ENGAGEMENTS as DEPUTY. Town or Country. Organist, care of Wensley and Wensley, 181, Fleet Street.

ORGANIST.—A Brilliant Player (30), experienced in Choir-training, with excellent testimonials as to character and ability, desires a RE-ENGAGEMENT in London or the country. He would purchase an introduction to a good practice. Graduate, 24, Hagley Road, Birmingham.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Professional Gentleman requires a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above, or to deputise. Address, H. J. Dean, 2, Blomfield Street, Finsbury, E.C.

AS MUSIC-MASTER and ORGANIST in a School or College, WANTED an ENGAGEMENT. M. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AN ORGANIST of a London church seeks an APPOINTMENT in the country. Fifteen years' experience, and possesses high testimonials. Address, E. W., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AN ORGANIST (Mus. B., Cantab.) DESIRES RE-ENGAGEMENT in London, where the duty does not exceed one weekly practice in addition to services on Sundays, Christmas Day, Ascension Day, &c. Liberal salary required. Highest references, including Sir George Elvey, &c. Address, L. J., care of Messrs. Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

AN ORGANIST is willing to deputise in London or the southern suburbs during the next three months. State style of service and terms offered to T. Urquhart, 22, Belmont Villas, Lullington Road, Penge, S.E.

DEPUTY.—Sunday morning or evening. W. or N.W. Excellent references. 5s. for service. W. L. B., 49, High Street, Hampstead.

THE VICAR of a Country Parish in Hampshire wishes to meet with a Young Person who will live in the village and Play the Harmonium in Church. Choral services. Salary, £30. Address, F. A. L., care of Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST is open to ENGAGEMENT. Used to full Anglican Service. If church is in East London could introduce some voluntary chorists. Z. Z., Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

AN ORGANIST desires to take Mid-day or Evening SERVICES on any week-day in return for occasional practice at a City church. Address, A. B., care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

APPRENTICE to ORGANISTS.—A gentleman wishes to place a LAD of 16 with a Cathedral or other ORGANIST of standing (with a Degree preferred), where his services would be to a great extent the equivalent for his maintenance and instruction. He has sufficient experience to be at once useful in week-day services and in teaching boys. The great object will be to have him well taught, especially in theory. Apply to A. E. Dryden, Esq., 3, New Square, Lincoln's Inn, London.

MR. CHAS. MALCOLM, Pianist, from the Promenade Concerts, Theatre Royal Covent Garden, Manchester, Liverpool, &c., will return to town on the 1st of August, and will be happy to make arrangements with Schools for a few spare hours a day or to accompany Quartett Parties or Opera Singers. Address, C. Malcolm, 47, Cumberland Street, South Belgravia, S.W.

ASSISTANT MUSIC - MASTER REQUIRED for a Large School in the country. Ample time for private pupils or organ appointment. Salary, £60 per annum. Non-resident. R. S., Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

A PROFESSOR OF MUSIC in the West of England will RECEIVE a YOUTH who may be anxious to improve. Very comfortable home; 3-manual organ, and great musical advantages. Premium. Address, A. Boothe, Esq., 7, Durnford Road, Holloway, London, N.

THE PROFESSOR OF Music to the High School, Ormes' Ladies' School, and Organist and Choirmaster of St. George's Church, Newcastle-under-Lyne, is in want of an ARTICLED PUPIL. Apply, Fred. Holt, Mount Pleasant, Newcastle-under-Lyne.

PIANO, HARMONY, and CLASS-SINGING LESSONS, by C. STIEBLER COOK, Associate of the Royal Academy of Music, five years Music and Choir Master at Uppingham School. Schools attended. 17, Keppel Street, Russell Square.

MR. E. W. TAYLOR, Mus. Bac., Oxon, &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for Musical Examinations; also gives lessons in Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., by post. Talbot Road, Stafford.

MUSICAL DEGREES and EXAMINATIONS.—J. W. HINTON, Mus. Doc., M.A., Trinity College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W., prepares candidates for Mus. B. or Mus. D., of Oxford, Cambridge, or Dublin, in all branches they may require. Dr. H. continues to revise or orchestrate for composers. Harmony and Counterpoint by post if required.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK receives PUPILS for HARMONY and COMPOSITION at 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W. For information as to days of attendance, terms, &c., address as above, or 5, Park Avenue Villas, Lower Norwood, S.E.

MR. JOHN HILES, 51, Elsham Road, Kensington, W. (Author of the "Catechism of Harmony, Thoroughbass, and Modulation," "Hiles' Short Voluntaries," "Catechism for the Pianoforte Student," and several other important musical works), gives Lessons in Harmony, &c., by post.

DR. SLOMAN gives LESSONS to CANDIDATES preparing for Musical Degrees. Grassendale, West Dulwich, S.E.

HARMONY and COMPOSITION by CORRESPONDENCE.—Address, the Principal, South London Musical Training College, S. James's, Hatcham, S.E.

A GENTLEMAN is desirous of giving LESSONS by post in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. References from present pupils if desired. Terms very moderate. Address Magister, Musical Times Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.

THE ORGANIST OF RIPON CATHEDRAL teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Correspondence. For terms, address, Edwin J. Crow, Mus. Bac., Cantab.

MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS.—CANDIDATES TRAINED for Examinations, either personally or by correspondence. Dr. Holloway, F.C.O., 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

TO COMPOSERS.—Dr. HOLLOWAY continues to Revise and Arrange every description of Music for Publication. Students prepared for the profession or for examinations. If residing at a distance, lessons can be had by post. Faults pointed out, and every information given to the young aspirant. Dr. Holloway, 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

MR. E. BROMELL visits PUPILS for HARMONY. Terms moderate. Address, 68, Eglinton Road, Bow.

MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST begs to inform his pupils and friends that he has REMOVED to 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N. Red trams direct from Moorgate Street. Nearest station, Rectory Road.

MR. BERTHOLD TOURS begs to announce that he has REMOVED to 210, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

MR. HENRY J. SOUTH, Organist of St. Matthias, Richmond, has REMOVED to No. 8, Dynevor Place, Richmond Hill. All letters to be addressed as above.

MR. and MADAME BODDA (late Miss Louisa Pyne) beg to inform the Musical Profession and the Public that MR. HARRY WALL is NO LONGER their AGENT, and all future communications respecting Fees for Operas, &c., are to be made to Messrs. Walter Jarvis and Triscott, Solicitors, 22, Chancery Lane, London.

MRS. OSGOOD requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts may be addressed to Mr. N. Vert, 52, New Bond Street, W.

ORGAN LESSONS and PRACTICE on a fine new Instrument, with 2 manuals, 15 stops, 24 octaves of pedals, with bourdons throughout. Terms moderate. Allen's Musical Instrument Warehouse, 17, Percy Street, Bedford Square, W. Lessons and Practice on other Instruments also.

ORGAN PRACTICE or INSTRUCTION.—Three Manuals, each of 56 notes, pedal organ, 30 notes, 17 effective stops, and blown by Lea's Automatic Hydraulic Engine. Terms, which are strictly inclusive, on application at Blennerhasset's Organ School and Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, Pentonville, W.C.

ORGAN STUDIO, 140 (late 166), STRAND (opposite the Gaiety).—LESSONS or PRACTICE (and at St. Michael's, Stockwell, S.W.) on fine two-manual C ORGANS (Hill and Son).—Full pedal compass.—W. VENNING SOUTH-GATE (Organist, St. Michael's, Stockwell), "The Strand Organ Studio," W.C. Established, 1867.

MR. STEDMAN'S CONCERT PARTIES for Oratorio and Miscellaneous Concerts, Institutions, Evening Parties, Soirées, &c. &c.

MADE UP FROM THE MOST EMINENT ARTISTS, AND INCLUDING: Miss Annie Sinclair, Miss Anna Williams, Miss Mary Davies, Miss Matilda Scott, M^{me}. Worrell-Duval, Miss Jessie Royd, M^{me}. Hugo, M^{me}. Poole, Miss Helen D'Alton, Miss Annie Butterworth, Miss Helen Armin, Miss Dones, Miss Gill, M^{me}. Osborne Williams, Mr. Stedman, Mr. Kenningham, Mr. Charles Beckett, Mr. J. L. Wadmore, Mr. George Fox, Mr. Thurlay Beale, Mr. King Hall, Mr. Russell Lochner, Mr. Henry Parker, &c. &c.

THE STANDARD QUARTETT.—Messrs. Hodges, Stedman, Charles Beckett, and Thurlay Beale. For terms and particulars address, Mr. STEDMAN, 1, Berners Street, W.

ESTABLISHED, APRIL 1866.

THE ENGLISH GLEE UNION.

Mr. H. ASHTON, Mr. F. H. COZENS,

Mr. FOUNTAIN MEEN, Mr. ALBERT HUBBARD,

ASSISTED BY

MADAME ASHTON.

For terms, &c., address, H. Ashton, Secretary, Ivy House, Stamford Hill, London, N.

THE RIPON QUARTETT and CONCERT PARTY.—Mr. H. J. Dutton (Alto), Mr. Herbert Pararrt (First Tenor), Mr. J. W. Calverley (Second Tenor), Mr. John Thursfield (Bass). A Soprano provided if necessary. For Concerts, Banquets, &c., address, Mr. John Thursfield, the Cathedral.

MR. T. HARPER'S TOUR in the PROVINCES will COMMENCE in SEPTEMBER next. Vocalists: Miss Agnes Larkcom, Miss Marion Severn, Mr. Kenningham, Mr. Thurlay Beale. Solo Trumpet, Mr. Harper. The above artists can be engaged for Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts, &c., during the autumn and winter. Address, Mr. Harper, 25, Brecknock Crescent, N.W.

TO AMATEUR COMPOSERS.—MSS. REVISED for PUBLICATION, and Lessons in Composition, by post, by W. H. GILL, Sidcup, Kent.

TO COMPOSERS WISHING TO PUBLISH.—MUSIC engraved, printed, and published in the best style at exceptionally low prices. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Simpson and Co., 33, Argyll Street, London, W.

COMPOSERS wishing to bring their compositions prominently before the public should send their COMPOSITIONS for INSPECTION to E. DONAJOWSKI, Music Publisher, 8, Winsley Street, London, W. Samples of style of publication on receipt of six stamps. Great sale guaranteed for works selected.

J. AND W. FRANCIS AND DAY

(From Chappell and Co.'s and Hopwood and Crew's),

MUSIC PUBLISHERS,

BLENHEIM HOUSE, 351, OXFORD STREET, LONDON.

Catalogues of Publications gratis and post-free. Accounts opened on receipt of satisfactory London references. Musical compositions engraved, printed, and published in the very best style at moderate charges.

W. G. HALLIFAX & CO., 315, Oxford Street, W. W., ENGRAVE and PRINT AUTHORS' WORKS at the lowest possible cost, and introduce them. Estimates by return of post.

MUSIC ENGRAVED, PRINTED, and PUBLISHED in the best style, and on moderate terms, a statement of which sent on application, by B. Williams, 60, Paternoster Row.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest varied stock of Music in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day, or if in stock posted immediately, if required. Terms highly advantageous. London; B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

WANTED immediately, a PIANOFORTE TUNER, one able to repair preferred. Address, Davis's Music Warehouse, 26, Bishop Street, Londonderry.

WANTED, by an Experienced Tuner (from Broadwood's), who thoroughly understands the Music and Pianoforte Business, a SITUATION as MANAGER and PRINCIPAL TUNER to a first-class firm. A view to partnership preferred. Address, in the first place, to H. E., 14, Hugh Street, Pimlico.

TUNER, REGULATOR, and REPAIRER (Piano), understands Harmoniums, wishes to meet with WORK in country to fill up time, present employer not having quite sufficient. Apply, Mr. Mitchell, Pianoforte Warehouse, Holbeach.

TUNER and REPAIRER of PIANOFORTES, AMERICAN ORGANS, and HARMONIUMS wishes an ENGAGEMENT. Address, G. H., care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER OPEN to an ENGAGEMENT. Knowledge of harmoniums. Good references, &c. Address, Tuner, 28, Percy Street, Bedford Square, London.

WANTED a SITUATION as ASSISTANT TUNER, Regulator and Repairer. Age 26. Factory experience. Good reference. Address, stating particulars and salary given, to A. B., the Sussex Pianoforte Manufactory, Lindfield, Haywards Heath, Sussex.

A YOUNG LADY wishes for a RE-ENGAGEMENT in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE or FANCY REPOSITORY. Good Pianist and reader at sight. Address, M. L. N., 134, Great Dover Street, Borough.

WANTED, by a Young Lady (English), the daughter of an Organist, a SITUATION in a PIANOFORTE and MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Is a good Pianist and reader at sight. Salary not so much an object as a comfortable home, not having been out before. Address, L. R. P., Adelaide Terrace, Lurgan, Ireland.

WANTED, by a Young Lady, a RE-ENGAGEMENT in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Brilliant Pianist. Able to read at sight. Used to the business. Address, F. I., 18, Argyle Square, W.C.

AN Experienced Young Man desires a RE-ENGAGEMENT in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Good Pianist at sight. Excellent references. E. J. B., 16, Newmarket Road, Norwich.

TO ORGAN-BUILDERS.—WANTED first-class WORKMEN (inside hands). Apply to Mr. J. Porritt, Organ-BUILDER, Leicester.

SPLENDID MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE through ill health. Capital opening. To be sold a bargain. Address, Thos. Dawson, General Post-Office, Edinburgh.

AN Old-established MUSIC BUSINESS, with good Hiring and Tuning connection, to be disposed of. Teaching could be added. Address, "Bene," Messrs. Novello, 1, Berners Street, London.

TUNING BUSINESS for SALE. Well established and profitable. Price £200. X. J., Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, Cheapside.

EAST LONDON ORGAN WORKS, 9, Burdett Road, Mile End, E.—E. CARDER is prepared to send Specifications for building Organs of very superior materials and workmanship. Alterations, rebuilding, and repairs. First-class workmen sent to all parts on very moderate terms. Tuning, &c. Second-hand ORGANS for SALE.

ORGANS for Church or Chamber, full rich tone, from 35 guineas. ORGAN HARMONIUMS, with 1 or 2 manuals, full compass of pedals, from 25 to 54 guineas, invaluable for Teaching or Organ Practice. SPRAGUE'S Celebrated ORGAN-TONE HARMONIUMS, 6 guineas; best in the trade.—William Sprague, 7, Finsbury Pavement, London.

A. MONK'S 100-Guinea ORGANS, 2 CC Manuals, 16 stops. Bourdon pedal pipes, 10 stops. 200-guinea Organs, 2 manuals, 16 stops. 300-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 21 stops. 400-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 27 stops. Organs built to any design. Old Organs rebuilt. Additions, Repairs, Tunings, &c. Specifications and Estimates free. Sussex Terrace, King's Road, Camden Town, London.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Secondhand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minorities, London.

STUTTGART HARMONIUM COMPANY.—LEOPOLD KAHN, Stuttgart, Germany.

Price Lists on application to ALPHONSE CARY, Sole Representative, 26, Fortress Terrace, Kentish Town, N.W.; close to Kentish Town Station. Inspection solicited.

T. R. WILLIS (established, 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c. 29, Minorities, London. List for stamp.

DEBAIN'S HARMONIUMS, ORGANO-PHONES, PIANOS, &c. &c. New lists are now ready, and will be forwarded, post-free, on receipt of card. Debain & Co., 357, Oxford Street, London, W.

"A supreme and perfect harmony of notes."
E. and W. SNELL'S Improved HARMONIUMS. Works, Little King Street North, London, N.W. Trade supplied.

SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS.—New Model by Kaps, of Dresden.—This instrument is an improvement on the original Short Grand now so well known. The volume and brilliancy of tone is much increased; it has an unfailing repetition action, and will compare favourably with much larger and more costly instruments. May be purchased wholesale and retail or hired at the original Depot, 26, North Audley Street, W. Proprietor, C. E. FLAVELL.

DEAN'S CHEAP MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.—School Band Flutes, from 3s. 6d.; 8-Key Concert Flutes, 25s.; Cornets, in case, 30s.; Drums, Tambourines, Banjos, and every article in the trade. A good Violin, with Bow and Book, in case, 20s. English, Roman, and Acrobelle Violin Strings—5 English firsts, warranted to stand at concert pitch, sent free for 13 stamps. Joseph Dean, Music Warehouse, 77, City Road, E.C. Established, 1843. Price lists sent free.

BRASS, REED, STRING, and DRUM and FIFE BANDS, PIANOFORTES and HARMONIUMS, supplied at wholesale prices, at J. MOORE'S, Buxton Road, Huddersfield. Prices, with drawings of every instrument, post-free. Music for any kind of band. Patronised by the army, navy, and rifle corps.

RUSSELL'S MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS. CONCERTINAS, Harmoniums, Organ Accordions, Flutinas, Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Violins, Cornets, Saxhorns, Clarionets, Flageolets, Guitars, Banjos, Musical Boxes, Strings, &c. Self-instruction Books. Instruments repaired or exchanged. Price Lists free. J. Russell, 158, Goswell Road, Clerkenwell, London.

12S. WORTH OF MUSIC for One Shilling, post-free for fifteen stamps, soiled and surplus stock. James Smith and Son, 76, 74, and 72, Lord Street, Liverpool.

ACCURATE METRONOMES, 1s., post-free. Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing Class Tutor, 12th ed., 6d. each. D. Scholefield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES.—150 by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, Allison, &c., from 4 guineas upwards. HARMONIUMS (New), from £5, in Walnut or Mahogany cases. Largest stock of Pianos and Harmoniums in London at Kelly and Co.'s, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital. Trade supplied.

TO SELL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS of every description, also Libraries of Music, Music Plates and Copyrights, Stock-in-Trade, &c., SALE (devoted exclusively to this class of property) held every month. Single instruments inserted. Consignments received at any time. Puttick and Simpson, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C. [Established, 1794.]

ORCHESTRA FITTINGS.—A SET of 12 cast-iron ORCHESTRA STANDS and 45 STOOLS, cane bottomed, with other fittings for an orchestra, to be SOLD. Apply to Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

VIOLINS, TENORS, VIOLONCELLOS, and DOUBLE BASSES, by "Craske," equal to Stradivarius and Guarnerius.

Upwards of 500 of these splendid Instruments now on Sale at Edward Crompton's, 54, Barton Arcade, Deansgate, Manchester (3rd floor), many of which have been made 50 years. Also a large collection of Italian Instruments.

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, VIOLONCELLOS, &c.—JOHNSON HICKS, Dealer in, and careful Repairer of, "CREMONA" and other Violins, &c.—Brunswick House, Torquay, Devon.

VIOLINS, &c.—A Professional Gentleman wishes to DISPOSE of a very valuable STAINER-AMATI, a splendid Albani, a rich sonorous Amati, and fine examples of Bocquay, Gavignes, Perry, and others, three rare bows by Dodd, a beautiful Panormo Guitar, a handsome double violin case of curious wood, worth 20 guineas, and a grand Violoncello after Stradivarius made 30 years ago by one of the best performers and makers in the world. Apply at once to A. F. R., 71, London Street, Reading.

THROAT IRRITATION.—The throat and wind-pipe are especially liable to inflammation, causing soreness and dryness, tickling and irritation, inducing cough and affecting the voice. For these symptoms use glycerine in the form of jujubes. Glycerine, in these agreeable confections, being in proximity to the glands at the moment they are excited by the act of sucking, becomes actively healing. Sold only in 6d. and 1s. boxes (by post for 14 stamps), labelled JAMES EPPS & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle Street, and 170, Piccadilly.

A Fine Drawing-room ORGAN, exquisitely voiced, rich full tone, in polished mahogany; imposing gilt front; with two manuals, 17 stops, 700 pipes, bourdon pedals, two blowing actions, for SALE; 200 guineas. Address, Mr. Fry, Music Repository, Grange Road, Ramsgate.

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.'S
CELEBRATED
ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS
UNEQUALLED BY ANY OTHER MAKERS.

These ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS stand first among any such instruments for

QUALITY OF TONE, DURABILITY, RAPIDITY OF TOUCH,
PREDOMINANCE OF THE TREBLE OVER THE BASS,
PERFECT ACTION,
BRILLIANCY OF THE SOLO STOPS, NEWLY INVENTED
DOUBLE ACTION, SOLID IMPROVED SOUND-BOARD,
AND DOUBLE EFFECTIVE SWELLS.

List of Prices and Books of Designs, and upwards of 300 Testimonials from all parts of the globe, to be had post-free.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.,
10, 12, & 14, Bow Street, Sheffield.

N.B.—These Harmoniums are 20 per cent cheaper than any other house, and a far superior tone.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium gives the greatest satisfaction, and is really the best instrument I have fallen in with.—Yours truly,
W. P. M. SLATER,
39, Franklin Street, South Shields, May 6, 1876.

GENTLEMEN,—By a mistake in the address the Harmonium was left at a wayside station, so that I did not get it here till last night; however, it is uninjured and gives me every satisfaction. Its tone and workmanship are admirable, and in rapidity of touch it is quite equal to a large Alexandre Percussion instrument, on which I sometimes play. I shall always be glad to recommend your Harmoniums.—Believe me, faithfully yours,

W. F. ASHBRIDGE, M.A., Curate of Bessingby.
Bessingby Road, Bridlington, Dec. 15, 1876.

Mr. J. M. Boulard, Manager of the Alleghanians, Vocalists and Bell Players.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium you made for me in travelling case answers our purpose exceedingly well, and my company are all delighted with it.—Yours truly,
J. M. BOULARD.
Sept. 16, 1876.

GENTLEMEN,—Kindly find cheque for the Harmonium to hand. I may add that our people are very much pleased with the instrument. It is a little gem.—Yours faithfully,
J. W. H. WOOD.
Shirland and Higham School Board, Shirland, near Alfreton,
Feb. 2, 1877.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium arrived here yesterday. I am much pleased with it, and it is a very pretty, nice-looking instrument.—Yours truly,
DAVID BRUCE.
Merrington Vicarage, Terry Hill, Dec. 10, 1875.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium arrived here in capital condition last week. I am very pleased with it. The tone is exceedingly sweet and pleasing. All who have seen it here like it very much.—Yours faithfully,
H. R. HOLME.
Montserrat, West Indies, Aug. 11, 1876.

HIGHEST CLASS OF EXCELLENCE.

MILLEREAU'S BAND INSTRUMENTS
FOR ARTISTS.

BOEHM AND ENGLISH CLARINETS, CONSERVATOIRE and BOEHM
OBOES, CORNET-A-PISTONS, CYLINDRICAL BOEHM FLUTES, &c.

Priced Catalogue and Designs free to any part of the world.

PARIS. 29, RUE DES TROIS BORNES. FRANCE.

MUSIC STRINGS—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

J. P. GUIVIER AND CO.,

MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF

ALL KINDS OF MUSIC STRINGS FOR ALL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

Sole Dépôt for Signor ANDREA RUFFINI's (of Naples) Celebrated Strings for Soloists.

25, SHERWOOD STREET, REGENT CIRCUS, PICCADILLY
Price List free on application.

All kinds of strings covered in a superior manner on powerful machines made on the best principle with all modern improvements.

CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.

NOTICE.

A PRIZE MEDAL of the FIRST RANK was awarded at Philadelphia, 1876, to

PELOUBET, PELTON, & Co.,

NEW YORK,

FOR THE GENERAL EXCELLENCE OF THEIR

"STANDARD"

AMERICAN ORGANS.

PRICES, 12 TO 125 GUINEAS.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE to be had on application to

BARNETT SAMUEL & SON,

31, HOUNDSDITCH, E.C., & 32, WORSHIP STREET,
FINSBURY SQUARE,

Sole Agents for the United Kingdom and British Colonies.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT ALLOWED TO THE TRADE.

LONDON AGENTS,

MESSRS. MOUTRIE AND SON,

PIANOFORTE SALOON,

55, BAKER STREET, LONDON, W.

MR. J. HAMILTON begs to inform Organists, Organ Students, and others that the Pedals and Action for attachment to Pianofortes manufactured by him can be inspected and ordered at the above address.

A set of Straight Pedals 30 notes (C to F), with action and printed instructions, "How to Attach," price £4 4s. Or Radiating and Concave Pedal Board, with action, price £5 5s.

TESTIMONIAL.

"Barrow Street, Quorndon, near Loughborough,
July 16, 1877.

"SIR,—It is now over two years since I purchased a set of your pedals and action for pianofortes. After having thoroughly tested them and used them regularly for so long a period I have no hesitation in saying that they are a most decided success, and at the same time advise every organ student who wishes to become proficient in the art of pedalling to procure a set of them at once.

"I remain, Sir, yours truly,
"J. J. CALLIS.

Orders accompanied with Cheque or P.O. Order will receive immediate attention. Send for prices to the Profession and Trade.

Address, J. HAMILTON, 11, Brunswick Street, City Road, Bristol.

ORGAN for SALE.—The Organ in Diss Church,
Norfolk, consisting of two manuals and 18 stops, with couplers.
Compass of Great, GG to F, with the following stops: open diapason, stopped diapason, principal, twelfth, fifteenth, tierce, sesquialtera, cornet, cremona. Swell organ (tenor C), with the following stops:
stopped diapason, clarabella, dulciana, principal, horn, hautboy, bourdon throughout on pedals. Total, 776 pipes. A larger instrument is being built. Offers requested. The instrument removed at purchaser's expense. Further particulars on application to A. Hemstock, Organist.

A Small ORGAN for SALE, containing 4 stops throughout, 2½ octaves pedals; full tone and good condition
Can be seen at 73, Stibington Street, Oakley Square, N.W.

ORGAN.—Advertiser OFFERS ORGAN (8 stops, pedals) for £30 or Piano and £10. 170, Pentonville Road, N.

TO be SOLD very Cheap a small Church ORGAN with 2 manuals and 12 stops. Being replaced by a larger one.
Price £50. Apply to Mr. G. E. Stevenson, 1, Oxford Villas, Lincoln Road East, Peterborough.

CHAMBER ORGAN (two manuals, bourdon pedals, in handsome oak case) for SALE. Can be paid for by instalments. Simpson & Co., 33, Argyll Street, Regent Street, W.

ORGAN FOR SALE.—CC, 6 stops, German pedals. In good condition. To be sold cheap. D. E., 56, Queen's Row, Walworth Road, S.E.

HARVEST ANTHEMS.

- STAINER, JOHN.—YE SHALL DWELL IN THE LAND
4 voices, 8vo, 1½d.
- SMART, HENRY.—THE LORD HATH DONE GREAT THINGS. 8vo, 4d.
- GARRETT, G. M., Mus. D.—THE LORD IS LOVING UNTO
EVERY MAN. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, folio, 1s.; ditto, 8vo, 3d.; vocal parts, 1s.
- BARNBY, J.—I WILL GIVE THANKS UNTO THEE. Full,
4 voices. Vocal score, 2s.; ditto, 8vo, 4d.; vocal parts, 1s. 6d.
- O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD ARE THY WORKS. Full, 4
voices. Vocal score, folio, 9d.; ditto, 8vo, 1½d.; vocal parts, 6d.
- THE HARVEST-TIDE THANKSGIVING. Hymn for 4 voices. Words by the Rev. S. CHILDS CLARKE. 8vo, 1½d.; Words only, 1s. 6d. per 100.
- GROSS, Sir JOHN.—FEAR NOT, O LAND, BE GLAD AND REJOICE. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 2s. 6d.; ditto, 8vo, 6d.; vocal parts, 1s. 6d.
- I WILL MAGNIFY THEE, O GOD. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; ditto, 8vo, 3d.; vocal parts, 6d.
- OUSELEY, The Rev. Sir FREDERICK.—THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 9d.; vocal parts, 6d.
- CALLCOTT, W. H.—THOU VISITEST THE EARTH AND BLESSEST IT. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; vocal parts, 6d.
Ditto, Treble solo, 6d.
- MACFARREN, G. A.—GOD SAID, BEHOLD, I HAVE GIVEN
YOU EVERY HERB. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 2s.; vocal parts, 1s. 6d.
- O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD ARE THY WORKS. Full, 4
voices. Vocal score, 1s.; vocal parts, 6d.
- HAYES, Dr. W.—PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. Full,
4 voices. Vocal score, 1s. 6d.; Ditto, 8vo, 4d.; vocal parts, 1s.
- HERVEY, Rev. F. A. J.—MAKE MELODY WITHIN YOUR HEARTS. Carol. 8vo, 3d.
- GREENE, Dr.—THOU VISITEST THE EARTH. Tenor solo and chorus. Vocal score, folio, 6d.; ditto, 8vo, 1½d.; vocal parts, 6d.
- CLARKE, Dr. JOHN WHITFIELD.—BLESSED ARE ALL THEY THAT FEAR THE LORD. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; vocal parts, 7½d.
- THORNE, E. H.—ALL THY WORKS PRAISE THEE. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; ditto, 8vo, 3d.; vocal parts, 1s.
- STEGGALL, CHARLES, Mus. D., Cantab.—PRAISED BE THE LORD. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; vocal parts, 6d.
- HOPKINS, E. J.—I WILL GIVE THANKS UNTO THEE,
O LORD. Full, 4 voices. 8vo, 6d.
- HOPKINS, JOHN L., Mus. D.—THE POST'RING EARTH,
THE GENIAL SHOWERS. Words by GEORGE E. SHIRLEY, Esq. 8vo, 3d.
- PATTISON, T. M.—O HOW PLENTIFUL IS THY GOOD-NESS. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 9d.; 8vo, 3d.; vocal parts, 6d.
- TAYLOR, W.—THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE.
Solo, Trio, Quartett, and Chorus. 8vo, 6d.
- BRIDGE, J. FREDERICK.—GIVE UNTO THE LORD THE GLORY. Full, 4 voices. 8vo, 4d.
- MATTHEWS, J. J.—THE LORD SAID IN HIS HEART. Full,
4 voices. 8vo, 4d.
- ARNOLD, GEORGE B., Mus. D., Oxon.—THE EYES OF ALL
WAIT UPON THEE. S.S.A.T.B. 8vo, 3d.
- KERTON, HAYDN.—THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON
THEE. Full, 4 voices. 8vo, 4d.
- SMITH, THOMAS.—THOU CROWNEST THE YEAR. Full,
4 voices. 8vo, 3d.
- LOWE, ALBERT.—THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S. Full,
4 voices. 8vo, 3d.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

HARVEST.—NOTICE TO CHOIRMASTERS.—
You are requested to send to Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.,
1, Berners Street (W.), for a copy of CHARLES JOSEPH FROST'S new FULL HARVEST ANTHEM, "Thou visitest the earth" (price 3d.), which you will find pleasing, effective, and easy, and written designedly to meet the capabilities of your choir.

EASY ANTHEM for HARVEST FESTIVALS.—
"O SING UNTO THE LORD WITH THANKSGIVING."
Composed by T. PALMER.
"Pleasingly written, and up to the average of easy anthems."—
Choir.

Price 4d.
London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TENTH EDITION. Price 3d.
HARVEST ANTHEM.—"THOU CROWNEST
THE YEAR." By THOMAS SMITH. "Easy and effective."
London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street. Post-free from the Composer, 25, Angel Hill, Bury St. Edmunds.

THIRD EDITION. Price 3d.
"O WORSHIP THE LORD IN THE BEAUTY
OF HOLINESS." To be had as above.

HAIL TO OUR HARVEST-HOME.—
Part-Song, by BENJAMIN CONGREVE. Price 1½d.
"This is a spirited composition."—The Orb.
London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TWELVE HYMNS WITH TUNES

FOR

HARVEST

SELECTED FROM

THE HYMNARY.

PRICE ONE PENNY.

- SING TO THE LORD A JOYFUL SONG J. BARNBY.
O LORD, THE HEAVEN THY POWER }
DISPLAYS - - - - - } SIR F. OUSELEY.
FATHER, BLESSING EVERY SEED- }
TIME - - - - - } DR. DYKES.
LORD, IN THY NAME THY SERVANTS }
PLEAD - - - - - } W. METCALFE.
THE WINTRY TIME HATH ENDED - - - - - DR. GAUNTLETT.
COME, YE THANKFUL PEOPLE, COME - - - - - SIR GEO. ELVEY.
GOD THE FATHER, WHOSE CREATION - - - - - H. SMART.
LORD OF THE HARVEST, THEE WE }
HAIL - - - - - } ANONYMOUS.
LO, SUMMER COMES AGAIN - - - - - REV. E. B. WHYLEY.
PRAISE, O PRAISE OUR HEAVENLY }
KING - - - - - } GERMAN.
SUMMER ENDED, HARVEST O'ER - - - - - J. ADCOCK.
O LORD OF HEAVEN, AND EARTH, }
AND SEA - - - - - } DR. WESLEY.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

8vo, price Sixpence.

HARVEST.

WHEN THE LORD TURNED AGAIN THE CAPTIVITY OF ZION.—PSALM CXXVI.

NEW HARVEST FESTIVAL ANTHEM

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

- No. 1. Chorus. When the Lord turned again.
No. 2. Tenor Solo. Turn our captivity.
No. 3. Soprano Solo. They that sow in tears.
No. 4. Chorus. He that now goeth.

From The Musical Standard, Jan. 27, 1877.

"This is one of the best modern anthems we have seen for some time past. Mr. Frost seems to feel that an English anthem has and ought to have a style of its own, and is not to be constructed upon the same lines as a Latin Motett or a chorus from one of Mendelssohn's Oratorios, or even upon the model of one of his Psalms. Our young composers, just fresh from the Royal Academy, are too prone to neglect the study of the sterling works of the old cathedral writers, and to speak slightly of them as more or less antiquated rubbish; and the result is that most of the so-called anthems produced by these modernists have no root in themselves, instead of being founded (without servile imitation, be it understood) upon such solid rocks as Purcell, Croft, Green, Boyce, and their compeers."

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

8vo, price Sixpence.

HARVEST.

GOD IS THE LORD.

FULL ANTHEM FOR HARVEST

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

"This anthem is remarkably effective, and well within the capacity of the humblest choirs."—Musical Times.
"A very good, fresh, spirited, and useful anthem."—Musical Standard.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

CAROL OF THE REAPERS. (S.A.T.B.) 3d.
SIX EASY ANTHEMS FOR VILLAGE CHOIRS. 2d. each.
NOVELLO AND CO.; or of the Composer, W. H. GILL, Sidcup, Kent.

HANDEL'S HERCULES. An Oratorio, Edited and the Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged from the German Handel's Society's Full Score, by EBENEZER PROUT. Octavo, paper cover, 3s.; scarlet cloth, 5s.

Now Ready. Small 4to, price 1s. Vocal Parts, 12mo, price 6d. each. 1st and 2nd Series, bound together, cloth, 2s. 9d. Vocal Parts, 1st and 2nd Series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE

CANTICLES AND HYMNS
OF THE CHURCH,

POINTED FOR CHANTING, AND SET TO APPROPRIATE ANGLICAN CHANTS, SINGLE AND DOUBLE

TOGETHER WITH

Responses to the Commandments,

EDITED BY THE

REV. SIR F. A. GORE OUSELEY, BART., ETC.,

AND

EDWIN GEORGE MONK

This Work contains a Selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

This pointing of the Canticles is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, and 80 & 81, Queen Street, Cheapside.

Now Ready

ALBERT LOWE'S

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM,

"THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S,"

Composed expressly for Parish Choirs (short, easy, and full). Octavo, price Threepence.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALBERT LOWE'S

HARVEST CAROL

"HOLY IS THE SEED-TIME."

Composed expressly for Harvest Festivals. Octavo, Twopence.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

New Edition, complete in One Volume, 142 pages; paper cover, 5s. net; handsomely bound in scarlet cloth, gilt edges (as a gift or prize book), 7s. 6d. net.

"THE VILLAGE ORGANIST."—Seventy-eight Easy Voluntaries, expressly contributed by Sir Julius Benedict; Sir William Sterndale Bennett, M.A., Mus. Doc., Cantab.; Sir George J. Elvey, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; Sir F. A. G. Ouseley, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon.; Dr. G. B. Arnold, Dr. E. T. Chipp, Dr. J. B. Dykes, Dr. H. J. Gauntlett, Dr. A. S. Holloway, Dr. G. A. Macfarren, Dr. E. G. Monk, Dr. E. F. Rimbault, Dr. William Spark, Dr. J. Stainer, Dr. C. G. Verrinder, Dr. S. S. Wesley; C. Goodban, Mus. Bac., Oxon.; S. Reay, Mus. Bac., Oxon.; J. Barnby, J. F. Barnett, R. Forsey Brion, J. Baptiste Calkin, William Hutchins Callcott, W. G. Cusins, E. M. Delaborde, Henry Farmer, F. E. Gladstone, John Hullah, H. S. Irons, C. W. Lavington, Mrs. Mounsey-Bartholomew, Franz Nava, Alberto Randegger, Brinley Richards, J. E. Richardson, Charles Salaman, E. Silas, Henry Smart, Boyton Smith, E. H. Thorne, J. Tilleard, and E. H. Turpin.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street (W).

 "THE VILLAGE ORGANIST" is very popular with town Organists as a lesson-book for their organ and harmonium pupils.

FIVE INTRODUCTORY VOLUNTARIES for the ORGAN. Composed by T. MEE PARTISON.

These Voluntaries, of medium difficulty, with Pedal Obligato, will be found eminently useful for the introduction of Divine Service, both as regards character and length. Price 3s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ORGAN MOVEMENTS.—Six Selected MOVEMENTS from the Organ Sonatas by Mendelssohn. Edited and fingered by JAMES LOWE. Reduced price complete, 3s. 6d. Single numbers—1, 3, 4, and 6, 9d. each, and 2 and 5, 1s. each net.

Manchester: HIME and ADDISON, 30, Victoria Street.
London: C. JEFFERYS, 67, Berners Street.

MUSIC FOR THE NEW CODE.—"THE SINGING-CLASS MANUAL," by the late WILLIAM JACKSON, MASHAM, is admirably suited for use in the Public Elementary Schools. Price (with Appendix, containing eight pieces of music in different keys) 2s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; and all Musicsellers and Booksellers.

Now Ready. (Dedicated to College of Organists.)

ON TUNING THE ORGAN. Illustrated APPENDIX, containing faults in action with remedies, price 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. Hemstock, Diss.

SELECT COMPOSITIONS

FROM THE

GREAT MASTERS,

ARRANGED FOR THE ORGAN

With Pedal Obligato by

A. H. BROWN.

- No. 1. "Wedding March," by Mendelssohn.
2. March from "Tannhäuser," by Wagner.
3. March from "Scipio," also from Occasional Oratorio, both by Handel.
4. "Coronation March," from Meyerbeer's "Prophète."
5. "The Dead March" in "Saul" and "See the conquering hero comes," both by Handel.
6. Andantino, from the 11th Grand Symphony by Haydn, and "Waft her, angels," from Handel's "Jephtha."
7. "As pants the hart," from Spohr's "Crucifixion," and "Where'er you walk," from Handel's "Semele."
8. "My heart ever faithful" (Mein gläubiges Herz frohlocket), by Bach.
9. Andantino from the 5th and Andante from the 4th Sonatas, by Pleyel.
10. "The Hero's March," by Mendelssohn.
11. "Quis est homo?" from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."
12. Air et Chœur, from "La Dame Blanche," by Boieldieu.
13. Grande Marche Héroïque in C, by Fr. Schubert.
14. Grande Marche Héroïque in D, by Fr. Schubert.
15. Overture, "Berenice," by Handel.
16. Overture, "Sosarmes," by Handel.
17. Handel's Overture, "Alcina."
18. Gavotte, from Handel's Overture, "Otho."
19. "La Carita," by Rossini.
20. "Angels ever bright and fair," and "Pious orgies," both by Handel.
21. "Ave Maria," by Franz Schubert.
22. Aria, by Antonio Lotti. Circa 1700.
23. "My soul thirsteth for God," Aria from Mendelssohn's 42nd Psalm.
24. "Gloria in Excelsis," from Weber's Mass in G.
25. "Fac ut portem," from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."
26. "Pieta, Signore," from the Oratorio "San Giovanni Battista," Stradella.
27. Handel's Overture to "Julius Cæsar."
28. Serenade, by Franz Schubert.

[Continuing.]

Price Two Shillings each.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

FULL ORCHESTRAL SCORES,

ONE GUINEA EACH.

HANDEL'S MESSIAH

(With Mozart's Accompaniments),

HANDEL'S ISRAEL IN EGYPT,
HAYDN'S CREATION.

Large Paper; bound in cloth.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ROYAL ALBERT HALL CHORAL SOCIETY.

President, H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.
Conductor, Mr. BARNBY.

LADIES and GENTLEMEN desirous of joining this Society should apply at once to Mr. J. Hedley, Royal Albert Hall, Kensington, S.W.

GLOUCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL, SEPTEMBER 4, 5, 6, AND 7, 1877.

PRINCIPAL SINGERS AT PRESENT ENGAGED:—

Mdlle. TIETJENS,	Mr. E. LLOYD,
Miss ADELA VERNON,	Mr. CUMMINGS,
Miss LOEWE,	Mr. MAYBRICK,
Miss BERTHA GRIFFITHS,	AND
Madame PATEY,	Mr. SANTLEY.

Full particulars at Mr. E. Nest's, Westgate Street, Gloucester.

New and Important Work for the Competitive Musical Examinations, &c.

Just published, in crown 8vo, cloth, price 6s.

THE STUDENT'S TEXT-BOOK

OF THE

SCIENCE OF MUSIC

For Use in Schools and Colleges, and for purposes of self-instruction.

By JOHN TAYLOR, Author of "Manual of Vocal Music," &c. &c.

London: George Philip and Son, 32, Fleet Street; and 49 and 51, South Castle Street, Liverpool.

THE ONLY COMPLETE EDITION.

MENDELSSOHN'S LIEDER OHNE WORTE.

Octavo, paper covers 4s.

Do. cloth gilt 6s.

Folio, elegantly bound in cloth gilt.. .. 12s.

THE ONLY EDITION CONTAINING THE
7TH AND 8TH BOOKS.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS, Edited by DR. STAINER.

NOW READY,
THE

ART OF PIANOFORTE PLAYING

BY

ERNST PAUER,

Principal Professor of the Pianoforte at the National Training School for Music, South Kensington.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

MUSICAL FORMS

BY

ERNST PAUER,

Principal Professor of the Pianoforte at the National Training School for Music, South Kensington.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

(PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH)

Price Threepence.

Annual subscription, including postage, 4s.

Subscriptions will also be received by all Book and Music Sellers (not including postage), 3s.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	2	3
For every additional Line	0	0	9
Half a Column	1	15	0
A Column	3	5	0
A Page	6	6	0

A discount of 10 per cent. is allowed for twelve consecutive insertions.

It is respectfully requested that a remittance be sent with all Advertisements.

Advertisements for the September number should reach the Office not later than August 25. Those received after this date cannot be guaranteed insertion in their proper places, but will appear among the late Advertisements.

Just published.

SONGS

BY

FLORENCE A. MARSHALL.

I ARISE FROM DREAMS OF THEE.

SWEET AND LOW.

A NEW YEAR'S BURDEN.

Four Shillings each; post-free for 24 stamps.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S TONIC SOL-FA SERIES,

TRANSLATED AND EDITED BY

W. G. McNAUGHT.

ANTHEMS, CHORUSES, PART-SONGS, &c.

Nos. 1 to 78 now ready.

ELIJAH (Translated by J. W. Powell) ...	MENDELSSOHN	s. d.
HEAR MY PRAYER	MENDELSSOHN	1 6
HYMN OF PRAISE (Lobgesang)	MENDELSSOHN	0 3
ATHALIE	MENDELSSOHN	1 0
LORELEY	MENDELSSOHN	0 6
LAUDA SION (Praise Jehovah)	MENDELSSOHN	0 9
CHRISTUS	MENDELSSOHN	0 6
THE CRUSADERS	NIELS W. GADE	1 0
THE MAY QUEEN	SIR W. S. BENNETT	1 0

Complete Lists sent free on application.

LONDON:

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

JUST PUBLISHED, PIANOFORTE COMPOSITIONS

BY

LEFEBURE-WELY.

TITANIA. Fantaisie de Concert, pour Piano. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 4s.
HOP. Caprice Brillant pour Piano. Op. 186. Solo, 5s.; Duet, 5s.
SIX ROMANCES SANS PAROLES, pour Piano. Op. 160. 3s. each.

- No. 1. La Sesia (Italie). Réverie.
2. La Wartha (Allemagne). Mélodie.
3. La Neva (Russie). Caprice.
4. La Guadiana (Espagne). Sérénade.
5. La Lys (France). Réverie.
6. La Dyle (Belgique). Berceuse.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

AUGUST 1, 1877.

THE LONDON MUSICAL SEASON.

BY HENRY C. LUNN.

It has been so long the custom to associate the season of Fashion in the metropolis with the season of Music that it may perhaps appear somewhat strange if, regardless of such a time-honoured habit, we venture to insinuate the truth that, as the best works gradually assert their power with the general public, it is precisely at the height of what is termed the "London Season" that frivolity in the art reigns almost supreme. It is true that the foreign artists who pay us flying visits are then, and then only, to be heard; but, with all due respect for their talents, we cannot blind ourselves to the fact that many of the performances especially organised for the exhibition of their powers are by no means so satisfactory as those in which the programmes are selected solely with the desire of presenting a first-rate concert. Let us, however, remember that the state of the atmosphere has something to do with music "in the season." The "Floral Hall" sounds cool; and, although it may be somewhat fatiguing to preserve the requisite etiquette at a "State Concert" in a palace during the hot weather, the aristocratic gatherings at both these places are certain to be large, for it is known that what may be termed musical "light refreshments" will be the only fare provided. Then, do not the two Opera-houses open their doors to receive those loungers who, fatigued with garden-parties and promenades, are glad to sink into a comfortable chair to chat with their friends and listen at intervals to their favourite singers in compositions that have passed current in the fashionable world for so many years as to render any criticism upon their merits unnecessary? Summer music may indeed be admirably suited to the time of year; and the Floral Hall, Buckingham Palace, and the Italian Opera-houses may be most appropriately fitted for the kind of audiences usually assembled to hear it; but the home of true art is far removed from these localities, and, with the exception of an occasional work of importance at one of our lyrical establishments, such entertainments present nothing to the real lover of music, and may well be left to the Court newsman, whose chief office it is to record such important facts as that a distinguished lady wore a dress "festooned with wreaths of moss and yellow roses; corsage to correspond."

We could scarcely point to a fact more confirming our impression that "Italian Opera" is almost "played out," as the Americans say, in this country than that of the small effect created by Wagner's "Der Fliegende Holländer" at the Royal Italian Opera during the past season. That vocalists of various nations should be assembled at a lyrical establishment in England to sing a German opera translated into Italian evidently begins to appear a monstrous absurdity to those who are not swayed by their old-world prejudices; and the consequence is that, although Mr. Carl Rosa reckoned the "Flying Dutchman," at the Lyceum, in the English tongue one of his greatest successes, Mr. Gye found "Il Vascello Fantasma," at the Covent Garden Opera, in the Italian tongue a comparative failure. But on the whole the season has been neither better nor worse than its many predecessors under the same management. The lessee has redeemed his promise that "three at least" of the Operas named in the prospectus would be produced; for, in addition to Wagner's "Il Vascello Fantasma," we have had Nicolai's "Le Vispe Comari di Windsor," and the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha's "Santa Chiara," the presentation of the last-named work being evidently due to an influence quite apart from that which should rule the actions of an operatic impresario. It was of course natural that, having encountered so many obstacles in securing the services of Signor Gayarre, he should be placed at once in the highest position, for it was necessary to prove that he was a tenor worth fighting for; but to sit in judgment nightly for the purpose of ascertaining accurately whether his merits sufficiently balanced his defects was found by the audience not a very agreeable duty; and the reception of Signor Nicolini, who, although not a Mario, is a very excellent and reliable tenor, amply showed that the sensational and unequal vocalism of the new comer was becoming a little tiresome. The decisive success of Mdle. Zaré Thalberg as Mrs. Ford, in Nicolai's Opera, "Le Vispe Comari di Windsor," is a remarkable proof how by zealous and conscientious study a vocalist with natural gifts can qualify herself for a position for which at first she may be believed incompetent. That, through the interest of mistaken friends, or from want of judgment on her own part, Mdle. Thalberg made her début on the operatic stage at too early a period of her vocal training can scarcely admit of a doubt; and we are glad therefore that the public has extended to her an indulgence which has often been denied to other talented but immature artists who have from time to time appeared before us. Signor Pandolfini, who made his first appearance as the Jester in "Rigoletto," and Signor Ordinas, whose début as Mephistopheles in "Faust" was highly successful, will doubtless be members of the company next season; but, although other aspirants for public favour were well received, we question whether any will be heard of again. Mdle. Marimon has, strangely enough, appeared too rarely for her many admirers; but Mdle. Albani has in several parts materially advanced her already high reputation, her performance of Senta, in Wagner's "Il Vascello Fantasma," being especially worthy of praise, both vocally and histrionically. Madame Patti has been, as usual, a powerful attraction; and Signori Marini and Carpi have given much strength to the tenor department. M. Maurel, Signori Capponi, Graziani, Cotogni, and Bagagiolo are well known as thoroughly dependable vocalists, and their services have been of the utmost value during the season, the singing of the first-named artist as the Dutchman in "Il Vascello Fantasma" being extremely good. The two Conductors, Signori Vianesi and Bevignani, have worked zealously during the season, and both band and chorus are entitled to warm commendation.

Not only should every indulgence be granted to Mr. Mapleson for any shortcomings during the season at Her Majesty's Theatre, but the utmost sympathy must be felt for him in consideration of the position in which he was placed by the illness of Mdle. Titiens. We have reason to believe that Cherubini's "Medea" and Gluck's "Armida" were in preparation; but as the heroine of both these works was incapacitated from singing, they were reluctantly laid aside, and the lessee was compelled to present his subscribers with the well-known operas which he knew could be safely cast and cordially welcomed, although we can scarcely forgive him for the non-production of Wagner's "Der Fliegende Holländer," seeing that the services of M. Faure and Madame Christine Nilsson were perfectly available. The absence of so great an artist as Mdlle. Titiens it might be expected would throw a cloud over the season, the influence of which would be universally felt; and Mr. Mapleson, in engaging Mdlle. Gerster, certainly did all that could be done under the circumstances, for he knew that Madame Christine Nilsson would be sure to attract whenever she appeared, and he has thus been enabled to carry through the whole of his subscription season, and some extra nights also, with very decided success. The marked impression produced by Mdlle. Gerster is not, we think, of that kind which will easily pass away. Her singing is remarkably pure and unexaggerated; and, although we could occasionally desire a little more of that warmth of expression which lends additional eloquence to even the most perfectly executed phrases, we are certain that her exceptional powers have been duly recognised, and that her reappearance next season will be anxiously expected. Mdlle. Chiomi and Mdlle. Salla have won their way to a fair position, the return of Mdlle. Mila Rodani has been warmly welcomed, but Signor Talbo must be mentioned as a vocalist who has gradually worn out the welcome accorded him on his début. Mdlle. Alwina Valleria deserves something more than "honourable mention," for her services during the season have been of the utmost value. Not only has she thoroughly proved her efficiency in all the parts for which she was cast, but on one occasion, when Madame Christine Nilsson was indisposed, she sang the music of Lucia so well as fairly to earn the warm applause of an audience scarcely predisposed to be satisfied with any substitute for the favourite artist announced. Signor Tamberlik brings to us a voice too much worn to bear the strain of singing through an entire opera, but his artistic feeling makes itself felt with those who can still admire a true style. Signor Wachtel has undoubtedly a fine vocal organ, but there is a want of refinement in his delivery of every phrase which prevents his ever touching our sympathies. Both artists, however, have been well received; and with Signor Fancelli—who has been singing better than ever during the season—the tenor department has been very fairly represented. The engagement of M. Faure has proved of the utmost importance in the case of several operas, his Don Giovanni being unquestionably unequalled by any artist on the lyric stage; and the co-operation of the well-known favourites of this company (Madame Trebelli more especially) has been most valuable to the lessee under the unusually trying circumstances of the past season. The band, under the able direction of Sir Michael Costa, has been thoroughly satisfactory; and the chorus, although at times somewhat coarse, on the whole fairly efficient.

The Crystal Palace Concerts have been remarkable for the number of important works included in the series. It is true that we could well have spared many of the compositions, the chief merit of which was that they had not been heard before in this country; but we owe a deep sense of gratitude to Mr. Manns for the attention bestowed upon Brahms's new Symphony, the reception of which fully justifies its repetition next season. We must also mention Mr. Gadsby's clever music to "Alcestis," which, although consisting of ten numbers exclusively choral, is so well contrasted and so sympathetically illustrative of the text as to ensure its ready acceptance. The band is in every respect thoroughly satisfactory, but more attention must be paid to the choir; and we cannot but believe that the standard of these fine concerts is materially lowered by the occasional exhibition of incompetent solo vocalists.

The Sacred Harmonic Society need occupy but a small share of our attention, for the season has been more barren than usual of results. Some little interest was excited by the revival of Handel's "Solomon" and Haydn's "Seasons;" but, with such resources as this Society has at command, surely some work hitherto unheard in London might be attempted. It may save trouble, and even display the powers of the choir to the utmost advantage, to present the standard compositions season after season, with the occasional introduction of the oratorios of only one modern composer; but unless some new life is shown before long by the managers of this Association small Sacred Harmonic Societies will certainly spring up around the parent one, with less limited ideas of musical progress and a more vigorous constitution to carry them out.

It was unfortunate for the Directors of the Philharmonic Society that Brahms's new Symphony, upon which no doubt they relied as an important novelty, was first performed at the Crystal Palace, not only because on its presentation by the Society many of the subscribers had already heard it, but because it was most unquestionably better rendered at Sydenham. Mr. Silas's Symphony, the only really new composition given during the season, was, judging from its reception, a genuine success; but audible demonstrations have but small effect upon the future of a work; and we doubt whether the silent verdict of the few dissenters will not eventually prove the true one. How it happened that Grieg's Piano-forte Concerto in A minor came to be played, or why only the third part of Schumann's "Faust" was given, and that by no means effectively, are matters beyond our comprehension; but we sincerely hope that next season more vigorous measures will be put in force, not only with regard to the selection of the programmes, but to the organisation of the band, for we should be sorry to see a Society decline which has done so much for music in this country, and might yet, we are certain, do much more. Meantime let us do justice to the care and judgment displayed by the Conductor, Mr. W. G. Cusins, who invariably does his utmost with the means at command.

The concerts of Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir have been more than usually attractive, and the execution of the music provided has fully justified the warm applause elicited at each performance. The great success of these annual concerts is mainly attributable to the fact that the special feature at first aimed at has been rigidly preserved; and, although much credit must be given to each member of the choral body, there can be no doubt that the originator and Conductor of the choir has earned for himself a fame of which he has a right to be proud. During the past season, in addition to the usual part-music, two performances of Bach's Motett for double choir, "Sing ye to the Lord," have been given, the general rendering of which was in the highest degree creditable to all concerned. To Mr. Leslie we owe also the successful production of Handel's "Hercules," the choral vocalists for which were selected from the Guild of Amateur Musicians and Mr. Leslie's Choir.

The formation of the Bach Choir is a proof not only of the growing interest in the works of the composer, but of the zeal with which music-lovers will voluntarily enter upon what must be considered a laborious study. It is always a sign of artistic progress when amateurs, instead of singing for self-glorification, join a choral Society for the purpose of aiding in the interpretation of the finest compositions, for the very conditions of their membership must be the thorough merging of the individual in the general body. We think it a pity that the Association under notice, so ably conducted by Mr. Otto Goldschmidt, should have assumed a title which seems to narrow its operations; for certainly during the past season, although Bach's Mass in B minor has been repeated, works by Palestrina, Handel, Gade, and others have also been so finely rendered as to prove that the choir need not limit itself to one composer or to one style of music.

It is scarcely fair to "point a moral" based upon the effect produced by Wagner's latest operatic music, under the composer's direction, at the Albert Hall, because the manner in which it was presented to the public was precisely opposed to that in which Wagner tells us we should judge of it. There can be no question that both "Lohengrin" and "Tannhäuser" are making their way in general estimation; in proof of which we may say that through the open windows of drawing-rooms as we pass issue excerpts from both these works, and we have even heard a Wagnerian selection on our street organs. But the "Trilogy," in its integrity, is still unknown to English audiences; and we fear that, if we must build a theatre and bring over a German company before we can hear it, the time is far distant when the composer will be fairly represented in this country.

The sensational effect of Herr Rubinstein's performances has hardly yet had time to calm down; but it is good that all who have the legitimate progress of music at heart should as soon as possible reflect upon the influence such executants have upon the art. Opinions may differ upon the readings of compositions; and we certainly cannot be accused of desiring to dictate any conventional pattern which must be rigidly adhered to, but disregarding the marks of the composer, clipping rests, and playing countless wrong notes can scarcely, we should imagine, be considered improvements, even by those who are so "highly developed" as to look with contempt upon the "purists" who reverently set the author of a work above themselves. We should like therefore to ask those who went into raptures at Herr Rubinstein's playing whether we are to consider that his impulsive executive powers rendered them utterly insensible to the artistic defects we have mentioned, or that they regarded such deviations from the laws usually observed as the revelation of a new faith only to be duly appreciated by the elect? These matters are clearly worth pondering, for there can be little doubt that executive art is now on its trial, and it behoves those who form the jury to see that their verdict is given strictly according to the evidence. But Herr Rubinstein also claims our attention as a composer, and, although we cannot admit that such works as he has given us will immortalise his fame, there can be no question that, as in his pianoforte-playing, we have occasional evidences of a power which wants but self-control to enlist our sympathies. His "Dramatic Symphony" we certainly wish never to hear again, but the "Ocean Symphony" contains many thoughts of extreme beauty.

At the Monday Popular Concerts the programmes have been, as usual, of the highest interest; and throughout the season the well-earned prestige of these classical performances has been firmly maintained by the engagement of the best available executants.

Excellent renderings of the standard sacred works have been given by the Albert Hall Choral Society, under the direction of Mr. Barnby, who has succeeded in raising this choir to a high state of efficiency; and amongst the interesting concerts of the season we may mention the carefully organised performances of the Borough of Hackney Choral Association, which, since the engagement of Mr. Ebenezer Prout as Conductor, have assumed a very high tone, the production of Schubert's Mass in F for the first time in London being a proof of what may be expected from the Society in the future.

The Directors of the newly built Alexandra Palace appear to be gradually inclining to the belief that what have been so long termed "popular" compositions are not really so popular as those of a higher class; and there may now be some hope therefore that the Summer Evening Promenade Concerts may attract those who love good music as well as fresh air.

A record of even the principal benefit concerts would be an impossibility; but it should be said that the signs of healthy musical progress—in spite of the "fashionable" element to which we have alluded at the commencement of our season's summary—are unmistakably apparent, even in these appeals to what are usually termed "mixed audiences;" and those of Mr. Charles Hallé, Herr Hermann Franke, and Mr. Walter Bache should be especially cited as having definite artistic features.

The Musical Association still devotes itself to subjects too abstract to engage the attention of those who profess the art as well as the science; but the recent decision of the Syndicate at Cambridge University respecting the necessity of all who present themselves for the degree of Mus. Bac. being thoroughly conversant with acoustics may perhaps justify the Association in the selection of such papers as have been read during the past session. Cambridge University has a right of course to make its own laws, and perhaps no harm will be done if some few of those who merely seek a degree in order to increase the commercial value of their services should be prevented from obtaining it; but we are convinced that many who have enriched the art to such an extent as to make their names universally revered would feel themselves quite incompetent to pass such a searching examination; and it then becomes a question whether the title they have earned by their genius is not really more valuable than that which might be conferred upon them for their accomplishments.

THE TONAL FUGUE.

Not long ago, at one of the meetings of the Musical Association, Mr. Higgs read a paper on Bach's "Art of Fugue." The discussion which followed turned naturally on the principles of the "tonal fugue," as the majority of the fugues in Bach's didactic work are tonal. The official report of that particular meeting of the Association should appear shortly. If the report be tolerably full, we shall see by the questions asked and the replies given by some of our leading musicians and musical graduates of our Universities that even our illuminati are in as great a state of mystification as many of ourselves in regard to the principles and even the definition of a tonal fugue. Dr. Bridge stated during the discussion referred to that, from his personal knowledge, a tonal answer given by a student under examination had been condemned by an examiner, and subsequently pronounced to be correct by another and equally learned professor. There is nothing remarkable in that fact. Firstly, it might have happened that the examiner had given as a subject an excerpt from a fugue by some great master, and expected the student to give the same reply; whereas great masters on the question of tonal fugue not only differ like the professors with one another, but differ with themselves in the various examples they write. Secondly, if we turn over all the works on fugue, from Fux and Marpurg to the excellent article on the subject in Stainer and Barrett's "Dictionary of Musical Terms," we find a mass of unintelligible and contradictory rules and examples; and, as the judicious writer of the article in the Dictionary quoted observes, a regular code of laws is rendered useless by the exceptions which persistently come forward; and he tells us also that the relation of answer to subject in the tonal fugue is influenced by the use of the Church modes.

By the mechanical method I am about to explain I find that all exceptions of importance arise from the fugues being written either in a Church mode or imitation thereof, and not unfrequently in a very bad imitation, or in a hybrid scale pertaining partly to the old and partly to the new tonality.

The less important exceptions arise from the harmonic requirements of the stretto, the desire or fancy of the composer in abandoning a systematic reply for the sake of a more melodious turn, and occasionally from the negligence or caprice of the composer.

It will be admitted that when the student is taught that if the subject of a tonal fugue, or the leading phrase thereof, be contained in a fifth, the reply must be in a fourth, so that subject and reply be contained in the octave, he has exhausted the spirit and substance of all the information on the subject. Yet every one feels that what we are told is not sufficient; and, absurdly simple as the rule may appear, the chances are ten to one that the student goes wrong in his very first attempt.

That there should be any difficulty in the matter is all the more surprising when we know that as soon as we have answered the fifth by the fourth, or vice versa, the rest of the answer is "real;" and not only "real" in the free modern form, but generally canonic. The tonal answer is adapted to that form. Some of the old writers tell us that the fugue receives its name of "tonal" because the answer is obliged to come in before the subject modulates to the fifth of the reigning key. But apart from there being no obligation in the case, and apart from the apparent contradiction as to the subject of a "fugue within the key modulating," the meaning is probably this: that as the leading phrase of the subject is usually made of the tonic triad, the tonal answer not only can commence before the subject concludes, but the subject can return before the answer concludes with more ease than in the real fugue, because the tonal answer melodically modulates to the tonic, whereas in the real fugue the answer modulates to the dominant. Putting the stretto of a tonal fugue in its most elementary and condensed form, thus—we see that if the answer, as in a real fugue, ascended to D the return of the subject would be less practicable.

Bearing in mind the few points in which difficulties are likely to occur, I think the following directions will reduce the answer of a tonal fugue to system; and at all events they will reduce the difficulties to the smallest compass, and, what is of equal importance, show the student where to look for the difficulties and their causes.

Setting aside preconceived notions of "fugue within the key or scale," sol-fa or number subject and answer, each in its own key, changing 5 (or sol) in the subject into 4 (or fa) in the answer, and vice versa. Treat the question as one of fifths and fourths, conjunct or disjunct; and consider the lower note of each of those intervals ascending or descending as the tonic 1 (or doh).

If the reader will apply this method to the examples in Cherubini's "Counterpoint and Fugue" (page 66, Novello's edition), or to those in the article on Fugue in the Dictionary already quoted, he will find, as I found, that in the very first example in either series the method fails. One of those examples we will suppose is by Cherubini, and the other is by Bach. They are both in the form of stretto; and as tonal answers they are both wrong. Why they are wrong Bach explains in his own inimitable way by every example in his "Kunst der Fuge," which are all in accordance with the system I have given. As for Cherubini, he speaks for himself in giving (page 67) the "immutable law" of tonal fugue, and the "complication" deduced therefrom. The "law" and the "complication" amount to this: if the subject in one key is 5—1 (soh doh), the answer in the new key must be 4—1 (fa doh); and if the subject is more complicated in the melody, as 5.4.1, the reply must be 4.4.1. The 4 in the subject remains in the key of the answer, but the 5 changes.

Thus, independently of the requirements of the harmony, the stretto, or any temporary and to a certain extent foreign or even fanciful purpose, the answer in Stainer and Barrett's Dictionary (Ex. 36), instead of—

Ex. 1. (Bach.)
Answer in G \sharp .

Subject in C \sharp .

should be—

Ex. 2.
Answer in G \sharp .

Subject in C \sharp .

Let it be remembered I am selecting typical examples, and purposely those in which the method appears to fail. In all the other examples in the Dictionary I quote from, or in Cherubini, in Bach's "Organ Fugues," and numberless others by various masters, I find the method infallible.

Bach in Ex. 1 illustrates a fact already alluded to, and also a notion dangerous to the student, that when we have answered 5 by 4, or 4 by 5, we are supposed to have done with the tonal character of the fugue, so long as in the rest of the answer we remain in the scale and preserve the figuration or rhythm of the subject. The notion in a general way is right enough, yet how easy it would be to go astray can be partly shown by examining the following perfect model of subject and tonal answer by Cherubini:—

Ex. 3. (Cherubini, page 80.)

Subject in C \sharp .

1 3 2 1 5 4 3 1 4 3 2 1

1 3 2 1 4 4 3 1 4* 3 2 1

The change of key in that example illustrates the whole method; and any experienced teacher I think will admit that without some assistance of the kind the majority of learners would go wrong in the latter part of the answer. The reader will observe that the divisions in fifths and fourths give different keys. Employing the same numbering in subject and answer enables us to detect at once the differences in the melody of the answer.

In the next example we approach the vexed question of the ancient modes.

Ex. 4. (Cherubini, page 82.)

Relative major of Greek Dorian mode.
Diapason F \sharp .

Subject in A minor.

5 7 1 3 2 1 2 1

4 7 1 3 2 1 2 1

Greek Dorian Neo-chromatic according to Gevaert ("Histoire de la Musique de l'antiquité").

Answer in E minor.

Relative major.
Diapason E \sharp .

In the following example from Bach the method in respect only to one number or note seems to fail: the second note 7 in the subject is replied to by 6, considering the whole subject as in the mode of C and the reply in G.

Ex. 5. (Bach, "Dictionary of Musical Terms," Ex. 41.)

Answer in G \sharp .

5 3 4 5 1

1 6 7 1 4 6 7 1 2 3 4 3 2 1

5 4 3 2 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12

Harmonical and arithmetical division of the Mode of G \sharp .

Subject in C \sharp .

Dividing the subject which embraces a fifth down, D—G, and a fourth up, C—F, into two modes (as in Ex. 3), the method is still at fault in the 5, which should be replied to by 4; but if it does nothing else the method shows where to look for the solution of a difficulty. If the reader will kindly examine the divisions of the octave or mode of G which I have added to the example, and take note that the thirds are supplied in each fifth to complete the triads, he will find the commencement of Bach's subject and answer ready made. The truth is the fugue is neither quite tonal nor quite real; it has most of the characteristics of the latter. It seems to represent a fugue in which the subject is in the authentic Church mode C \sharp , and the reply in its plagal form G \sharp . "The ancient composers," says Cherubini, "could not have known the fugue, since their tonal system did not assort with what we call the tonal fugue."

The "tonal fugue," we must understand, is more modern than the "real fugue." The strict real fugue resembles the canon, which is more ancient; but the free real fugue of our day would certainly bother the ancients more than the tonal fugue. "Fuga reale" or "fuga real" in the Latin languages means "royal fugue" as well as "real fugue." It is just possible that the nomenclature has lost its original signification; but I think the term "royal fugue" is perhaps a solecism of Spanish writers.

The next example illustrates what may be called a "modulating subject." The numbering speaks for itself.

Ex. 6. (Bach, "Organ Fugue," Book ii, Fugue 7.)

Subject in G.

4 3 4 5 6 4 2 7 1

5 3 4 5 6 4 2 7 1

Answer in C.

The following example is of the same species, exhibiting a subject in the dominant and answer in the tonic.

Ex. 7. (Mozart, "String Quartet," Ex. 41.)

Answer in G \sharp .

5 6 2 7 1

4 6 2 7 1

Subject in D \sharp .

It is ungracious to abuse the plaintiff's attorney or an example because it does not conform to one's theory; but I submit the next example of a modulating subject to the judgment of learned musicians, and ask them if, compared with the preceding, it is not a mongrel of the first order? It exhibits very well the system of modulation, but it ought to have been treated as a real fugue.

Ex. 8. (Kirnberger, "Dictionary of Musical Terms," Ex. 46.)

Answer in G \sharp .

4 1 1 2 3 7 1 2 1 7 1 4 3 2 1

4 1 1 2 3 7 1 2 1 7 1 4 3 2 1

* Tetrachord of C \sharp . See Division ii. in table, p. 374.

Subject in C \sharp . G \flat . C \sharp .

5 1 2 3 4 7 1 2 1 7 1 4 3 2 1

4 1 1 2 3

$D\sharp$ real subject.

The writer of the article in Stainer and Barrett's Dictionary, following some of our unintelligible authorities, gives the next example as a tonal.

Ex. 9. (Mendelssohn. "Dictionary of Musical Terms," Ex. 39.)

Answer in G \flat .

1 2 1 4 3 2 1 6 5

Subject in C \sharp .

1 2 1 4 3 2 1 6 5

Where the subject does not pass the fifth or fourth above or below the centre we can employ the numbers of the whole scale.

Other authorities, with which I agree, would say that as a tonal fugue the answer is "false." The example is undoubtedly a real fugue. The writer referred to tells us himself that a "real fugue" means a fugue in which the answer is "strict" or canonic; or canonic so far as regards the leading phrase even in a free fugue. The answer in the example is canonic throughout. The subject is better elucidated by the table at the end of this article (see Division iv.).

I conclude the series of examples with a subject from Bach, which consists in its leading phrase of a diminished seventh.

Ex. 10. (Bach, "Organ Fugue," Book ii. Fugue No. 5.)

Subject in C \sharp minor. Answer in G \flat minor.

4 5 6 7 1 7 6 5 4 5

Subject.

At the meeting of the Musical Association already mentioned it was asked, "why in a tonal fugue the diminished seventh never changed?" One might as well ask why is the answer in a real fugue in the same interval as the subject; or why in a tonal fugue is the answer in a fourth if the subject is in a fifth? There is no particular reason why, except that any other answer changes the nature of the fugue. The diminished seventh belongs to the tonality indicated by the fourth or fifth, and cannot change.*

* This difficulty of tonality commenced with Bach, who belongs chronologically to the transition period; but his genius carried him beyond it, and within a very little into the "music of the future." The difficulty is enhanced in our day by the almost superstitious glorification of the ordinary "diatonic scale," which, however well it may suit harmony purposes, is only "a mode" amongst many others belonging to the diapason C \sharp .

The fugue from which the example is taken is nominally in F minor. As a question of fact it is in C minor, and the answer is in the dominant G minor. Bach seems to have set out in the Greek Dorian mode of C \sharp (signature, four flats). But so soon does he forget it that he sometimes does not take the trouble to correct the D \sharp , whilst he studiously corrects the D \flat , which moreover makes its first appearance in the twentieth bar, and we see no more of it till the thirtieth, in both instances as an accidental, and in a coda. The fugue finishes clearly by forced modulations in F minor, and the episodes are in the relative major. In one of the episodes there is a kind of false echo of the diminished seventh in the subject by the interval of a minor seventh! Naturally in that part of the development of the fugue there is no question of tonal form. To bring Bach's fugue into the nominal key, the subject remaining the same, we must make the answer in F, E \flat , C, D \flat , E \flat . In both cases the fugue would be "real." I do not see any way in which the diminished seventh can be affected by either a tonal or real treatment. The interval represents the chromatic form of a Church mode or Greek mode. Any alteration would change the nature of the subject as well as the key or mode.

TABLE OF FIFTHS AND FOURTHS.

REAL FUGUE.

CONJUNCT.	DISJUNCT.
I. 5th and 5th C G D 1-5 1-5	III. C G A E 1-5 1-4
II. 4th and 4th C F B \flat 1-4 1-4	IV. C F G C 1-4 1-4

TONAL FUGUE.*

CONJUNCT.	DISJUNCT.
V. 5th and 4th C G C 1-4 1-5	VII. C G A D 1-5 1-4
VI. 4th and 5th C F C 1-4 1-5	VIII. C F G D 1-4 1-5

The divisions of the octave given in works on the tonal fugue are properly limited to Nos. v. and vi. in the table. But it is customary also in those works to divide separate scales—those of the tonic C—G—C and dominant G—C—G. The practical meaning of such a division is intelligible, but theoretically it is misleading and erroneous, because G—C—G is not a division of the octave of C; it is a transposition. Division No. iv. Disjunct unites Nos. v. and vi. and represents the harmonical and arithmetical divisions of the same scale as in Ex. 5.

Nos. iii. vii. and viii. belong neither to dominant nor tonic, and can only represent fugues of imitation. These combinations will, however, be found useful in melodic modulations; because fifths and fourths determine key or ancient mode in melody just as much as in harmony or octave divisions. For example, No. vii. with the fourth A—D inverted, represents a super-tonic cadence most characteristic of Bach and the older masters. A good example is in the melodious subject of his organ fugue, No. 3, Book ii.

JOSEPH GREEN.

* Each interval represents subject or answer according as we commence with fourths or fifths above or below. But frequently a subject embraces a whole octave, as in Ex. 3. In that case a real division may be employed in tonal answer.

A SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF MUSIC-PRINTING, FROM THE FIFTEENTH TO THE NINETEENTH CENTURY

By FRIEDRICH CHRYSANDER.

(Continued from page 326.)

SECOND PERIOD (continued).

ITALY, Germany, and France had contributed their shares to the development of music type-printing, and these three countries also remained for a long time the first in the use they made of the new art.

Italy had the precedence. Though at the beginning of the sixteenth century not yet the leading nation in the number and rank of her musical composers, Italy occupied the first place as a centre for music, towards which all musical forces involuntarily gravitated. This privileged position emanated from the Church, but was permanently secured to that country by the great composers, who possessed the power of giving an artistic tone to the whole of life by means of a perfect musical language and an equally perfect feeling for music, inherited from the Romans. Hence Italy held the place of authority not only in highly elaborated church-music, but in secular song, as also at a later date in music for the stage and for instruments. She had brought all the various departments of music under her sway, and thus became the school whose teaching was eagerly sought, the ruling power whose laws were willingly obeyed, the musical focus which shed warmth abroad to all, without distinction of nation or creed. The highest position was thus secured for the music-trade of Italy, Venice, the cradle of musical typography, being the centre of the business. As the greatest commercial city not only of the country but of the age, it was the best fitted for this; and we can therefore understand how even the great composers who resided in Rome published their works at Venice, much as is the case at Leipzig in our day. The greatest printing and publishing firm was Gardano, which began about 1536 with Antonio, was continued by his sons Angelo and Alessandro as a music-printing establishment (stampa del Gardano), and existed till late in the seventeenth century. The time when this house attained to its greatest lustre was that of the brothers, who were contemporaries of Palestrina and publishers of his works. Probably in order to transact the business more advantageously, Alessandro established himself independently in Rome. With the name of his brother Angelo Gardano at Venice is connected all that is most important in the matter of the printing and sale of music in the sixteenth century. The oblong octavo form, which was used by Petrucci and other publishers until about 1550, was now abandoned, and the large folio size was only employed in exceptional cases. Gardano printed almost all his books in a quarto form, which has only within the last twenty-five years come again into general use under the name of royal octavo. All works appeared in separate parts, and impressions in which, as in earlier times, three or four voices are found united in the same books, and standing opposite one another, were now only exceptionally taken in the case of small occasional pieces. Gardano's types are very clear, and the workmanship is neat and careful and gives a certain appearance of superiority, yet without possessing that intentional elegance which was characteristic of the earliest prints, but is rather avoided than aimed at by real men of business. Specimens of magnificent printing by Gardano are therefore scarcely to be found anywhere. Another reason for this is that the music was only printed in separate parts, and in this form gave no opportunity for show. While the printing was so far from perfection, the music-trade of Italy could certainly never hope to attain an importance and extension corresponding to her eminence in musical art. Another hindrance was the isolated position of Venice. Undoubtedly the great high road of nations at that time passed through Venice; but the importance of that wonderful city as a place of commerce depended entirely on its connection with the East, and not a sheet of music was ever sold to those parts. The foreign customers of the Italian publishers were only those who "lived beyond the mountain"—Ultramontanes. The roads that led to them from Venice were laboriously constructed passes for use in time of need; they were used when the field-produce and wearing apparel with which the northern countries were unable to furnish themselves could not be obtained by any better route. But whatever could be acquired by their own activity these northern nations did not permanently order in any quantity from Venice by that inconvenient route. This observation is especially true of music. The Gardanos, Scotos, Amadinos, Vincenti, Magni, and other Italian publishers could safely send a number of copies of every new work by the trade-caravans; the ware was known to be a prima, and was bought at once. But whatever among these new works proved particularly popular was not ordered again wholesale from Venice, but reprinted at various places. There were everywhere sharp men who found out at once what would go; such printers were to be found especially at the great emporiums, Nuremberg, Frankfurt, and Antwerp. The produce of their own country alone gave them plenty of material, especially in Germany, where new choirs were being set up everywhere and old ones strengthened, and every petty choirmaster began to let his light shine in printed compositions. The seeds which were imported almost weekly from Italy shot up rapidly in such a soil; and plants and weeds grew up together without distinction. These circumstances explain very naturally the great number of collections or anthologies of considerable extent which were produced at that time. And the same circumstances were more favourable to the growth of musical culture in the various countries than to the interests of the Italian publishers. The latter could only have a permanent foreign sale for his wares by always having new articles to dispose of; and in this the Italian musical press accomplished more than almost any other has ever done. If their printed publications do not count many thousands, the separate collections are of such an extent that if put together in full score they would fill several hundred thousand pages.

Germany had from the very outset acquired a firm position by the independent way in which she laboured at the improvement of music-printing. Her music-printers were therefore early in the field, and exceedingly eager both to publish the produce of the land and to reprint Italian and even French pieces. Among the numerous printers in various towns the most conspicuous in the middle of the sixteenth century were the learned Georg Rhaw, Luther's friend, at Wittemberg, and the ingenious engraver and type-founder Hieronymus Andreae, or Resch, at Nuremberg, whose beautiful types were used by other printers also. The latter was so proud of this part of his art that he gave up his family-name, and always called himself only Hieronymus Formschneider (Jerome Type-cutter); and he ultimately changed his name again, and could be satisfied with nothing short of the Greek version of "type-cutting," Graphæus. The greatest German music-printer of this century was Adam Berg of Munich, a contemporary and powerful rival of Angelo Gardano. The causes of their success were similar. Gardano owned his prosperity to Palestrina, Berg to the great Orlando Lasso. But their modes of printing and of carrying on business were very different. Whilst Gardano aimed only at bringing into the market cheap handy singing-books, Berg appears to have adopted the design of renewing the great manuscript choir-books by means of typography. He published almost exclusively standard editions, and employed for his most important publications the largest folio sheets and every imaginable luxury, even printing on vellum. Was he led to this from an impulse of his own as a merchant, whose only consideration is one of profit and loss? Certainly not. He and the great composer whose works he sent into the world by the printing-press in so pompous a style were backed by a liberal Mæcenas, the musical Duke of Bavaria; and it was done by his will and at his expense. Gardano was a free music-merchant, but Berg was rather a Court music-printer. To what extent and in what manner the duke paid the costs is not known; at all events he furnished the paper and whatever other materials were required. The title of the chief work published by Berg, which was commenced in 1573—"Patrocinium Musices"—is distinct enough on this point. How strong a predilection there was at Munich for folio editions of Lasso's works may be gathered from the collection of his Motetts, which was printed there about 1600 by Nicolaus Henricus, after Berg's death, as "Magnum Opus Musicum." It is the greatest collective edition of the kind published in the sixteenth century; and Munich has the credit of having produced the largest musical publications in the earlier period printed with movable types. The other German printers, for obvious reasons, followed the example of Munich but rarely, and (unlike the Italians) remained for a long time faithful to the oblong quarto size. Very similar to the lot of Berg at Munich was that of Gimel Bergen at Dresden fifty years later. He was the most extensive German music-printer of the seventeenth century, and the exclusive publisher of the works of the greatest German composer of the time, Heinrich Schütz, which were likewise brought out with the assistance of his liberal prince. Scarcely a trace was to be seen, however, of the splendour of the Munich typography, although Bergen's print is evidently the best that could be accomplished in his day. The times were sadly changed for the worse.

In France also, as in Germany, a great number of productions of national composers were waiting to be printed, and were circulated in many editions. The species of music in all countries were at that time essentially the same, and were divided between the two domains, sacred and secular. The differences between various countries were more prominent in the secular than in the sacred. The Germans had their numerous hearty Liedlein, and the French an equal wealth of chansons, and both printed them indefatigably again and again. As regards the French music-printing, we have to do with Paris almost exclusively, where the engraver and printer Pierre Hutin made the first music-punches as early as 1525. These differed from those of Petrucci in that the note and the line were united in the same punch, which made a single impression possible. The same was the case with the German punches; and the French and German prints have much general similarity, as also in the predilection for the oblong quarto form. Hutin himself produced very neat impressions; but his chief merit lies in his having provided the most noted printers in Paris and Lyons, and even the Antwerp publisher Tytman Susato, with types. From 1527 onwards Pierre Attaignant, the chief music-printer at Paris, printed with these types.

More perfect types than Hutin's, and of two kinds, a large one for choir-books and a smaller for ordinary music printed in a different style, were produced about 1550 by the engraver Guillaume le Bec, and employed in the music-printing office established by Robert Ballard in conjunction with his son-in-law Adrian le Roy. The name Ballard introduces us to the greatest family of music-printers not only in France but in the world. The business was established in Paris soon after 1540, and carried on till the second half of the eighteenth century—more than 200 years. The foundation of this house was laid by the Royal Privilege of February 16, 1552, by which Ballard was installed and curiously described as "seul imprimeur de la musique de la chambre, chapelle et menus plaisirs du Roi." The privilege was renewed to his son Pierre, who purchased Le Bec's punches and matrices for 50,000 livres, an enormous sum from which both the wealth of the printing-office and the extent of the means then available at Paris for music-printing may be estimated. Louis XIII. prolonged the patent in 1633. Then in 1639 it was confirmed to Pierre's son, Robert Ballard, an eminent and accomplished man, who successively filled the offices of Judge, Consul, Administrateur des Hôpitaux, and Syndic de la Chambre des Libraires. Through him the family was raised to a higher social rank. To gain for the publishing firm equal repute in foreign parts one great difficulty had to be overcome. They had hitherto had no great musician whose works were attractive enough to create a rapid demand in all countries. Robert's son, Christophe Ballard, was fortunate in witnessing the rise of such a one, and in thereby obtaining for his firm a world-wide reputation. The master through whom this result was attained was the great Lully, with his numerous French operas. The family privilege was renewed by Louis XIV. to Christophe Ballard, May 11, 1673, and October 5, 1695, and also repeatedly later to his successors.* Christophe Ballard is also especially noteworthy in the history of music from the fact that he began to publish almost regularly the complete full scores of the new French operas—a thing which was at that time never done, either in Italy or anywhere else. In one of his latest publications, the second edition of Lully's opera "Bellerophon" in 1714, he advertised that of Lully's operas there were to be had en partition générale, five printed with types, nine engraved on copper, and five in manuscript. However, not only these five works but almost all the operas were printed by him with movable types, with the exception of those which remained in manuscript. The above surprising advertisement is to be explained from the fact that Christophe Ballard at first printed everything exclusively with types, and later took a fancy to the copperplate engraving which had become fashionable. Then, as new editions of the works became necessary, he did not set them up in type again but engraved them on copper. His son, however, seems not to have shared the father's propensity, for in the second edition of "Phaeton," in 1721, the same nineteen operas are enumerated as being printed, ten with types and nine from copperplates. Thus the two methods contended, as it were, for the precedence in Ballard's office. We shall recur to the subject farther on, in speaking of copperplate engraving. For two generations after Jean-Baptiste Christophe the business was carried on, and the privilege remained in the family until the great French Revolution abolished all privileges. There was, however, little left here to be destroyed, for the business had been declining for many years. The Ballards, like the few type-printers who still existed in Italy, obstinately stuck to the square notes, at a time when the round ones had long been adopted by printers and engravers. So their privilege was violently attacked by competitors in and after 1730, and was represented as a great obstacle in the way of progress. But in reality the long and secured existence of Ballard's house was a great blessing for French music, which thereby gained the peculiar advantage of having all compositions of any merit, and especially the long series of French opera-scores, brought to the press.

* Fétis, "Biographie universelle des Musiciens," tom. i. p. 231, erroneously states that the patent of 1695 was granted to Christophe's son, Jean-Baptiste Christophe. The name of the father as publisher appears till 1714, and he must have died at the end of 1714 or beginning of 1715; the privilege was renewed to his son in the year 1715. The accounts of this family by Fétis are very meagre, yet they are the only ones hitherto available. It is curious that no one has interested himself in a subject which is certainly not devoid of importance.

England's share in the art of music-printing was in the earliest age very insignificant. If the bass part of a collection of twenty English songs published in 1530 (with the title "In this booke ar cōteynyd XX sōges. IX of IIII ptes and XI of thre ptes") were not extant in the British Museum; it might be doubted whether types for florid music had reached England at all in that age. We see from this book that Petrucci's types for a double impression had been procured from Venice, and consequently that the German and French types for the single impression were not yet known. But in the quieter times in the second half of the sixteenth century the art advanced very rapidly. John Day, about 1560, employed the improved modes of printing which were then in general use. The glorious reign of Queen Elizabeth shed its lustre on music-printing, and England, which fifty years earlier had been nowhere, now became suddenly the first in this field, and, about 1600, produced impressions, by Thomas Este and a few others, of an elegance and solidity which were not surpassed and scarcely equalled in all Europe. It seemed as if Angelo Gardano had risen again on the banks of the Thames. England showed a general predilection for Italy in composition, types, letters, paper, form and everything. After this another dreary time came over England, during which an isolated impression occasionally saw the light to bear witness to the general decline. When at length music was again printed diligently in Charles the Second's reign by John Playford and others, all the methods which had come into use in the meantime were tried. Here, as in Germany, the square notes were being gradually supplanted by the round ones about 1700; yet, all experiments notwithstanding, they were not successful in giving to the latter any elegant appearance or pleasing regularity; on the contrary, this type-printing with round notes, at the beginning of the eighteenth century, produced the ugliest music to be found anywhere.

We have arrived at the end of the first quarter of the eighteenth century—the period of the deepest degradation of printing with movable types. During the 225 years that this method of printing music was almost exclusively used we must say that there was no advance, but rather a constant going back, for Petrucci's types are fundamentally the most perfect of all; they were only modified by later printers to make them easier to work. The print itself, the ink, paper, &c., got worse and worse in the seventeenth century, even to the point of illegibility. In 1720 the state of things had become so inconvenient that a remedy was universally desired. In such an entourage Ballard's impressions appeared éditions de luxe, creating a double sensation by their symmetry in an age destitute of all style. Out of France the square notes were still retained, for in Italy Padre Martini's "Saggio fondamentale pratico di Contrapunto" was printed with them (Bologna, 1744-45). And it seemed as if the city where Petrucci invented the types was destined to celebrate the end of them by one great achievement visible to all the world, for the renowned "Fifty Psalms" of Benedetto Marcello were printed by Domenico Lovisa at Venice in the years 1724-27 in eight folio volumes with all the typographical luxury attainable at the time.

In Germany music-printing became at length the worst, and at Leipzig the very worst; but from this latter place the innovation went forth which established the modern style of musical type-printing. The well-known music-seller Johann Gottlob Immanuel Breitkopf about 1750 brought type-printing with round notes to a degree of perfection which incited all other countries to attempt improvements. After various smaller experiments, he tried his method on an extensive work, the Italian Opera, "Talestri, Regina delle Amazoni," composed by the Crown-Princess of Saxony, which he published in the year 1756, calling himself "Inventore di questa nuova maniera di stampar la musica con caratteri separabili e mutabili." These words must be referred only to his "new manner," not to the invention of printing with movable types in general, which has been often done; as to the latter, there was nothing more to invent about the year 1750. Breitkopf himself obtained more honour than advantage from his invention. How little calculated it was to accomplish exactly what the times demanded, and what he also strove after in his great experiment, is best shown by his own conduct as music-seller, for he kept in his employ a great number of copyists, and sold for many years more written than printed full scores.

This new type-printing was most used, and also most practically developed, in England. We have the best examples of it in vocal scores of Handel's oratorios—Clarke's edition in folio, about 1800, and Novello's in royal octavo, about 1840. In the latter series the "Messiah" is remarkable as having had the largest sale of any book printed with movable types, hundreds of thousands of copies having been distributed throughout the world.

Of late years type-printing has been given up again, even for publications which have a large sale. It is now already almost entirely confined to a domain from which it will probably never be expelled by any better method—that of theoretical, historical, and instruction books on music, which contain musical examples mixed with letter-press. In these the printing of letters and musical notes is done on the same typographical system, and the perfect harmony between them will never be dissolved. Is not this very like a return to the original practice? For the necessity of having music between the lines of text in the church-books was the first incentive to the employment of music-types; and the same on an enlarged scale is now again becoming the end of them. The progress during four centuries has consisted essentially only in the avoidance of the original double impression and the possibility of uniting several notes in the same five lines to form chords. This result is certainly a great advance, but yet not exactly what the "inventors" anticipated.

(To be continued.)

THE DECADENCE OF MUSICAL JOURNALISM.

NOT musical journalism only, but journalism as a whole seems to be passing through a very unsatisfactory phase just now. It is the one of our institutions which stands most in danger of becoming "Americanised," and to this position it has come by a rapid process. A few years ago, when a young lady from the States threw down the Times in our presence with a gesture of contempt and exclaimed, "Guess your Old Country papers are not worth reading; they tell us nothing personal," we were able to point out that the freedom of English journalism from needless personalities was one of its proudest boasts. Since then unhappily such a change has taken place that many of our newspapers might challenge comparison with the most "spicy" among those issued by New York. We owe this chiefly to what are called the "Journals of Society," whose success, having been made by gossip, is dependent upon gossip for continued existence, and whose fate it is to be driven further and further in the direction of scandal, that the growing appetite they have created may be appeased. But while the unpleasant phenomenon thus presented is perhaps the natural result of a state of society, social and political, which has no high principle to assert, no campaign to carry on against wrong, and no noble end to absorb its energies and engross its thoughts, the extension of the mischief into the region of music affords cause for surprise. Nevertheless that extension is a fact of which lately we have had ample evidence. In some cases columns which should be devoted to real criticism, to the advance of true art-principles, the encouragement of those who conscientiously labour, and the putting down of those who would mislead or are unworthy—such columns, we say, are given up to the most petty and paltry details affecting individuals. Gossip like this, however eagerly it may be read, is not worth the paper upon which it is written in point of artistic value; while, in so far as it goes out of the legitimate range of journalism into that of personal, domestic, or social life, it is an offence and a cause of mischief. But while the collection and dissemination of gossip affecting artists and others is, to say the least, an unworthy business, much worse is that form of present-day musical journalism which violates its own rules, and strikes, for the mere love of scandal, at the principles by which the "fourth estate" has attained its rank and honours. One "journal of society" is now gaining an unenviable notoriety in this respect, à propos to a singer recently brought before the London public. It appears that the critic of a morning paper was not greatly struck by the merits of the new comer, and intimated as much in his observations upon the performance. It appears also that the "Society" writer entertained a different opinion. He was greatly struck, and, being so, had a fair right to challenge the opinion of his fellow-critic, to prove its unsoundness, if he could, and demonstrate the correctness of his own. Conflict like this, when carried on in harmony with the rules not only of professional but social life, can do no wrong at all;

rather must it work for good, and we trust the day will never come when critics will shrink from crossing blades in fair and honourable fight against a worthy cause. But the journalist of whose conduct we complain "went behind," to use a now familiar Americanism, the article that drew forth his wrath. Ignoring the elementary rule of the craft which regards a journalistic expression of opinion as made by the paper wherein it appears and not by the actual writer, he assumed the offending article to be the work of a certain man, and then, naming him, treated that man as an enemy. It would have been bad enough had he done this while limiting his retort to observations fairly arising from the merits of the case, because we cannot too strongly insist upon the need for treating the anonymity of the Press as a fact, even in quarters where it must necessarily be a fiction. Above all should journalists themselves recognise and act upon this necessity, if only as an acknowledgment of the rules that, for good or evil, regulate their profession. It appears, however, that neither the laws governing the journalist nor the gentleman have any authority over the writer to whom we refer. For what did he do? Acquiring a knowledge of the morning critic's private relationships, or at all events making use of information previously gained, he charged him with subordinating public duty to the interests of a friend, and backed up the charge with particulars that followed the victim home to his very hearthstone. If any of our readers hope to be told here the names of the people concerned and the nature of the details affecting them they will be disappointed. We cannot ourselves commit the offence we charge upon others, and it must suffice if we have made the nature of the transaction clear enough to secure its condemnation. An act more criminal in its way cannot be imagined, its criminality, let us add, lying wholly outside the truth or falsehood of the allegations made. We ourselves do not believe a word of those allegations; but, admitting their perfect correctness, the position of the offender is not changed one bit from the point of view at which we are concerned to regard him.

Had the affair ended here it might have been regarded as an escapade by a single man, having no significance beyond the actual doer. Unhappily its sequel showed that others as well as he are not only ready to condescend to personalities but to do so with a seemingly perfect unconsciousness of wrong, which appears to us the worst feature in the case. A second critic, acting in a gratuitous manner, and without stopping to inquire whether the first would not prefer to treat with contempt the charges brought against him, rushed forward to defend his colleague. If he had protested, as we now protest, no harm would have been done; but, with almost amusing want of tact, he abandoned his vantage-ground and committed the very offence he sought to punish. For example, attempting to show that the assailed critic was not alone in his disputed opinion, he asserted that the critic of a journal which had expressed an opposite view was present only by deputy, his representative being a gentleman recognised as an authority on sporting matters! Naturally the "Society" writer, finding the legitimacy of his weapons recognised, smote this new foe hip and thigh. He told the world the nature of his everyday business as an "agent" for something or other; revealed such of his family relationships as had a compromising aspect; flatly called him a "liar," and challenged an action for libel. And to this pass has one important branch of English journalism arrived.

What can be done to remove so grave a scandal, to restore an observance of professional etiquette, and a sense of the obligations which should be binding upon gentlemen? From the public, we fear, no help may be anticipated. While human nature remains what it is the spectacle of men engaged in exposing each other's weaknesses will always attract a crowd, eager rather to fan the flame of hostility than to make peace. Our only hope is therefore in the good sense of the persons most concerned. Many a serious offence is made venial by having arisen from passing annoyance or thoughtlessness. Let us therefore put it to all who are interested in the journalism of our art whether the game now being played is really worth the candle, and whether the players are not acting the part of the ill birds who foul their own nests. Let us put it to them, moreover, whether a feeling of self-respect, and of the dignity and worth of their calling should not keep them from acts which, while exhibiting the doers in an offensive light, compromise more or less an entire profession, for in this case also it is true that "if one member suffer all the others suffer with it."

THE very good and highly intellectual children who are always inquiring the cause for every effect they see around them in our instructive juvenile books are no doubt very useful individuals to the authors of such works, but it must be confessed that when we meet with their types in real life they are rather a bore. The truth is that hours of recreation for young people, if not devoted to pursuits healthy and invigorating for the body, should at least be given up to pastimes amusing and pleasantly exciting for the mind, and a "game with an object," like a "book with a purpose," has no right to be forced upon a child when school is over. If, therefore, we have not noticed many very ingenious devices lately forwarded to us for luring children into studying the principles of music in their play-hours, it is partly because we cannot be constantly saying the same thing, and partly because we do not desire to treat with disrespect inventions so well planned as to convince us that many months must have been spent in bringing them to so perfect a result. Now that we have broached the subject, however, we must say that, much as we feel the necessity of making pupils understand the various species of time, we can hardly believe that playing at "Musical Dominoes"—even supposing that children would ever patiently learn the rules of the game—can be of the slightest practical use, although we willingly give every credit to the lady who has sent us a box of these toys, and who has every right to expect that she will be rewarded for her labour. "The Royal Game of Music" is a more important affair, is said to be patronised by the Princess of Wales, and comes to us with the trade-mark of that bête noire of contrapuntists, a "tritone," which unfortunately musically represents the initials of the inventor. This is to teach "Scales," "Intervals," and "Harmonics," according to the book, although we imagine that "harmony," rather than "harmonics," is meant. Whether the players in this "Royal" game will feel much excitement in placing counters upon the brass nails of a key-board to see which shall first complete a scale, which can best name the intervals, and which can most accurately proclaim whether a sound form a concord or a discord with the key-note, we cannot of course positively say; but our experience of children leads us to believe that, if it were stated in the invitations that this would be the chief amusement of the evening, the attendance at such a "musical party" would be extremely limited.

IF, on the one hand, it is good that a competent writer upon a subject should prove his knowledge, it is equally good, on the other hand, that an incompetent one should conceal his ignorance. Those in the habit of reading country newspapers, however, must be aware that, although the musical notices are but rarely entrusted to persons who know anything of the art, technical words are constantly used which have no real bearing upon the subject, the most daring opinions are hazarded, and standard works are often criticised as if they had but just been brought before the public. It is true that when we read, as we have recently done in a London paper, that the actors in a farce at an amateur performance were "repeatedly encored," it may be said that writing of the kind we have mentioned is not confined to reports on musical matters; but there can be no doubt that it is in remarks upon concerts where the critic most effectually displays his inefficiency. We recollect, for example, a notice upon Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," which, after a panegyric upon its merits, concludes with the bold assertion that it "deserves to be better known." And now we light upon the critique on a musical performance in a paper published so near to the metropolis as scarcely to be called "in the country," which contains, amongst other items—such, for instance, as that two young ladies "executed to perfection Mozart's 'Il Flauto Magico'"—an encouraging notice upon a composition of which some of us have already heard. It is called (we read) "Beethoven's movements from 'Pastoral Symphony,' a duet for two pianofortes. "It is a very pretty piece," we are told, "in the course of which the 'Village Dance' is interrupted by a thunderstorm, which suddenly bursts with rain-drops and heavy peals, with the gradual dying away of the storm, and closes with the shepherds' song of thanksgiving. The storm is natural, the gradual change exceedingly good, and altogether the piece is very effective." So that if this work do not become "better known" it will be seen that it is not from any fault of the critic, who evidently appreciates good music when he hears it, and is determined to do his duty as a watchful guardian of the public taste.

WHATEVER may be said of the acoustical properties of the Royal Albert Hall, there can be little doubt that no other concert-room is to be found in or out of the metropolis where demonstrations of such magnitude as those organised for the reception of our distinguished foreign visitors can be so successfully given. We have often as a duty recorded the magnificent effect of this building when brilliantly lighted and filled in every part by a fashionable and excited audience to welcome some person high in position and influence; and have now, as a pleasure, to notice a gathering, as remarkable both for numbers and enthusiasm, to welcome one equally high in the world of art. Mr. Sims Reeves, whose concert on the 4th ult. attracted nearly ten thousand persons, is a vocalist whose intuitive musical perception has guided him so truthfully through a long career that he has not only eloquently expounded but added a charm of his own to the tenor music of the many works in which he has been engaged. One of the most popular vocalists, he has never sought popularity at the expense of the composition he was interpreting; and, although so sympathetic a singer of the people's ballads as to win the suffrages of the multitude to an extent almost unprecedented, on no occasion has he endeavoured to gain the faintest mark of applause which was not thoroughly deserved. That the public can appreciate such qualities and will testify to this appreciation has been amply shown by the attendance at the concert under notice, at which, in addition to Mr. Reeves's rendering of Handel's "Deeper and deeper still" and "Waft her, angels," and Dibdin's ballad, "Tom Bowling," several vocal pieces were given by Madame Christine Nilsson, Mesdames Trebelli and Antoinette Sterling, Misses Helen D'Alton and Anna Williams, Messrs. Lloyd and Santley, and Signor Foli. The exceptionally fine singing of the bénéficiaire, and the readiness with which he gave the well-known song, "My pretty Jane," in response to an encore for "Tom Bowling," afforded a convincing proof to his auditors that they may confidently rely upon securing his best services whenever and wherever he can do full justice to himself and the art.

SINCE the article upon "Patronage" in the June number of our journal, we have received many letters, not, we regret to say, from those who are desirous of helping, but from those who are desirous of being helped. These communications amply show how much talent exists around us, and yet how hopeless is the chance of its being properly cultivated. We do not by any means affirm that all those persons who believe themselves gifted by nature either with exceptional creative or executive musical faculties would be so considered were they to be placed in circumstances where their powers would be fairly tested; but let it be once known that certain wealthy amateurs are ready and willing to supply the funds for educating those who would probably, by such aid, some day shed a lustre upon the art, and means would soon be at hand for gauging the merits of the candidates who would offer themselves. There is scarcely a teacher of any standing who is not constantly asked to make sacrifices for the sake of bringing forward a clever student whose resources are so limited as to make any adequate remuneration for lessons an impossibility. If then, instead of refusing such application, or endeavouring to reimburse himself by allowing a pupil to make a premature appearance before the public, a professor could with confidence refer him to one who, in the truest sense of the word, would become his Patron during the time necessary to be devoted to a thorough musical training, we feel convinced that a very large amount of talent would be brought to light which might otherwise languish in obscurity. We know how many scholarships have recently been founded through the benevolence of private individuals in our Royal Academy of Music; but some there may be who would wish their names not to become identified with their works; and if the proofs we have adduced of the many clever young musicians needing aid, and the hints we have thrown out as to how such aid could be afforded, produce the slightest good result, our efforts in the cause will have been amply rewarded.

A MUSICAL Performance was given by the pupils of the London Society for Teaching the Blind to Read, at the Institution, Upper Avenue Road, on the 13th ult. The programme—the first part of which was sacred, and the second secular—was well selected; and the concert, under the able direction of the Society's Conductor, Mr. Edwin Barnes, was in every respect highly successful.

THE CAXTON CELEBRATION.

ON the 30th June was inaugurated an exhibition intended to recall the memory of the enormous benefits bestowed on the English nation, 400 years ago, by William Caxton. Thanks to his far-seeing wisdom and perseverance we can at this moment point to millions of printed treasures, all monuments to his memory, scattered through the length and breadth of the land; and although it is true that Caxton's skill was apparently baffled in his endeavours to print books containing musical characters, yet, encouraged by what he had done, his followers soon found the means of surmounting the difficulty and of printing on the same page musical notation and words. The ceremonial observed at the opening of the Caxton Celebration in the South Kensington Galleries has been fully reported in the daily journals; it will therefore suffice to mention that the proceedings commenced with a prayer recited by the Archbishop of York, the reading of a proof-sheet (now prefixed to the general catalogue) stating the objects sought to be attained by the exhibition, and the final declaration by Mr. Gladstone that the exhibition was duly and formally opened. Then followed a somewhat difficult and crowded promenade through the galleries, giving opportunity for taking a few hasty glances at the treasures revealed or half concealed in the various glass cases; after which the company moved towards the tables prepared for the banquet in the Large Conservatory of the Horticultural Society. The executive committee had made arrangements for receiving a large number of guests, but as their calculations fell far short of the actual requirements of the day, a considerable amount of confusion and disappointment naturally resulted.

The chief features of the after-dinner proceedings were the speeches of Mr. Gladstone, including his eloquent and well-merited tribute to the intellectual pursuits and habits of the Emperor of Brazil, who had "made time" to pay a visit to the galleries that morning. The presentation of a Bible to Mr. Gladstone, and his announcement that the volume had scarcely existed in any shape a few hours before, created some amount of surprise; it may therefore be interesting to note that Bibles are not, as is usually supposed, printed from stereotype, but from ordinary type; the latter when once set up is, however, carefully preserved. The particular type from which Mr. Gladstone's Bible was printed was one which had long been out of use, and for this reason it was specially chosen.

Of the many wonders exhibited at South Kensington we do not propose to speak; paper-making, printing machines, from a Caxton press to the latest giant, are all to be seen in operation, and are full of instructive interest. Our business is with the specimens of printed music, and the only thing to regret in the arrangement of this department is that the limited space allotted to the musical section prevented the committee exhibiting, as they had intended and hoped to do, complete chronological series of various countries; but, although the plan they had proposed is necessarily cruelly mutilated and curtailed, the "show" is still a most superb one. Commencing with the earliest specimens of block-printing, which have been so recently and so ably discussed by Dr. Chrysander in our journal, we notice in the first case (No. 1,934 in the catalogue) the original page of "Burtius" which was reproduced in facsimile in THE MUSICAL TIMES, June 1. There are also displayed several specimens of books with music-lines only, the notes to be inserted by hand afterwards. The catalogue shows a long list of red and black music-printing, and very fine works of this class are exhibited open, some from the celebrated Junta press.

The rise and decline of type-printing can be readily apprehended in looking over the numerous and varied collection, including Higden's "Polychronicon" (No. 1,966), described by Hawkins as block, and now for the first time exhibited in its true character as type. Some of the most beautiful books are those of Orlando di Lasso, our own Barnard's Church Service Book, and the productions of the Italian Marcello. This section has a variety of moderns, which can here be viewed and compared with the ancients. From type we pass to engraved music, and here again is a discovery, in Words from Ezek. xxxvi. 28, 30, 34, 35; Ps. cxxxvi. 1;

and a Hymn by CHATTERTON DIX.

J. STAINER.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)

Allegretto.

TREBLE.

ALTO.

TENOR
(8ve. lower).

BASS.

Solo. mf

Ye shall dwell in the ORGAN.

♩ = 100.

Allegretto.p Sw.senza Ped.

CHORUS.

His mer-cy en - dureth for e - - ver,

CHORUS.

His mer-cy en - dureth for e - - ver,

CHORUS.

His mer-cy en - dureth for e - - ver,

land that I gave to your fathers;

and ye shall

cres.f Gt.p Sw. or Ch.Ped.

be my peo-ple, and ye shall be my peo-ple, and I will be your cres.f rall.

a tempo.
mf His mer-cy en-du-reth for e-ver,
mf His mer-cy en-du-reth for e-ver,
mf His mer-cy en-du-reth for e-ver,
 God, a tempo. I will mul-ti-ply the mf Gt. p Sw. or Ch.

His mer-cy en-
 His mer-cy en-
 His mer-cy en-
 CHORUS.
 fruit of the tree, and the in-crease of . . the field. His mer-cy en-f Gt.
 Ped. Sva.

- du-reth, en-du-reth for e-ver. Give thanks un-to the Lord, give
 - du-reth, en-du-reth for e-ver. Give thanks un-to the Lord, give
 - du-reth, en-du-reth for e-ver. Give thanks un-to the Lord, give
 - du-reth, en-du-reth for e-ver. Give thanks un-to the Lord, give thanks un-to the Lord, His mer-cy en-du-reth for e - - ver.

thanks un-to the Lord, His mer-cy en-du-reth for e - - ver.

thanks un-to the Lord, His mer-cy en-du-reth for e - - ver. SOLO.

thanks un-to the Lord, His mer-cy en-du-reth for e - - ver. And the p (Sw. or Ch.)

A little slower.

de - so - late land shall be filled, where - as it lay de - so - late, where -

A little slower. ♩ = 80.

cres.

cres.

pp rall.

- as it lay de - so - late, in the sight of all that passed by. And ad lib.

pp rall.

(with the voice.)

a tempo.

Solo. p This land that was de-so-late, this

Solo. p This land that was de-so-late, this

Solo. p This land that was de-so-late, this cres. p This land that was de-so-late, this they shall say, and they shall say, This land that was de-so-late, this a tempo. ♩ = 80.

cres. p

cres. pp

cres.

land that was de-so-late is be-come like the gar-den of E -

cres.

land that was de-so-late is be-come like the gar-den of E -

cres.

land that was de-so-late is be-come like the gar-den of E -

cres.

land that was de-so-late is be-come like the gar-den of E -

Sw. cres.

CHORUS. f

- den, this land that was de-so-late is be-come like the gar-den of ..

CHORUS. f

- den, this land that was de-so-late is be-come like the gar-den of

CHORUS. f

- ded, this land that was de-so-late is be-come like the gar-den of

CHORUS. f

- den, this land that was de-so-late is be-come like the gar-den of f Cl. f

Ped. Sva.

(4)

tempo primo.

E - - den. Give thanks un - to the Lord, give thanks un - to the

E - - den. Give thanks un - to the Lord, give thanks un - to the

E - - den. Give thanks un - to the Lord, give thanks un - to the

E - - den. Give thanks un - to the Lord, give thanks un - to the tempo primo. ♩ = 100.

Lord, His mer - cy en - du - reth for e - ver, for e - ver, His mer - cy en -

Lord, His mer - cy en - du - reth for e - ver, for e - ver, His mer - cy en -

Lord, His mer - cy en - du - reth for e - ver, for e - ver, His mer - cy en -

Lord, His mer - cy en - du - reth for e - ver, for e - ver, His mer - cy en -

du - reth for e - - ver, for e - ver, for e - ver. . . .

du - reth for e - - ver, for e - ver, for e - ver. . . .

du - reth for e - - ver, for e - ver, for e - ver. . . .

du - reth for e - - ver, for e - ver, for e - ver. . . .

Ped.

Slow. ♩ = 80.

Sw.

TREBLE SOLO.*
With fervour. cres.

mf cres. f

Oh, bless - ed is that land of God, Where Saints a-bide for e - ver, Where

mf cres. f

dim. > CHORUS. p SOLO. p

gol - den fields spread far and broad, Where flows the crys - tal ri - ver, Oh bless - ed, thrice bless - ed, The

CHORUS. p

Oh bless - ed, thrice bless - ed,

CHORUS. p

Oh bless - ed, thrice bless - ed,

p CHORUS. p

Oh bless - ed, thrice bless - ed,

dim. p pp

cres. f

strains of all its ho - ly throng With ours to-day are blend - ing; Thrice bless - ed is that

f

* Or, Tenor Solo.

harvest song Which ne-ver hath an end - ing. Oh bless-ed, thrice bless-ed, Oh blessed is that

CHORUS. mf
Oh bless-ed, thrice bless-ed, Oh blessed is that

CHORUS. mf
Oh bless-ed, thrice bless-ed, Oh blessed is that

CHORUS. mf
Oh bless-ed, thrice bless-ed, Oh blessed is that p rall. pp mf Gt.

land of God, Where Saints a-bide for e - ver, Where gol - den fields spread far and broad, Where land of God, Where Saints a-bide for e - ver, Where gol - den fields spread far and broad, Where land of God, Where Saints a-bide for e - ver, Where gol - den fields spread far and broad, Where land of God, Where Saints a-bide for e - ver, Where gol - den fields spread far and broad, Where

pp mf
flows the crys - tal ri - ver, Oh bless - ed, thrice bless - ed, The strains of all its

pp mf
flows the crys - tal ri - ver, Oh bless - ed, thrice bless - ed The strains of all its

pp mf
flows the crys - tal ri - ver, Oh bless - ed, thrice bless - ed The strains of all its

pp mf
flows the crys - tal ri - ver, Oh bless - ed, thrice bless - ed, The strains of all its pp mf Gt.

ho - ly throng With ours to-day are blend - ing; Thrice bless - ed is that har - vest - song Which ho - ly throng With ours to-day are blend - ing; Thrice bless - ed is that har - vest - song Which ho - ly throng With ours to-day are blend - ing; Thrice bless - ed is that har - vest - song Which ho - ly throng With ours to-day are blend - ing; Thrice bless - ed is that har - vest - song Which ne - ver hath an end - ing, Thrice blessed is that har - vest - song Which ne - ver hath an ne - ver hath an end - ing, Thrice blessed is that har - vest - song Which ne - ver hath an ne - ver hath an end - ing, Thrice blessed is that har - vest - song Which ne - ver hath an ne - ver hath an end - ing, Thrice blessed is that har - vest - song Which ne - ver hath an end - ing, which ne - ver hath an end - ing, which ne - ver hath an end - ing. A - men.

end - ing, which ne - ver hath an end - ing, which ne - ver hath an end - ing. A - men.

end - ing, which ne - ver hath an end - ing, which ne - ver hath an end - ing. A - men.

end - ing, which ne - ver hath an end - ing, which ne - ver hath an end - ing. A - men.

Ped. (8)

a Roman book (No. 2,243) printed in 1604 from plates, some few years anterior to the "Parthenia," which had hitherto enjoyed the presumed honour of being the first music-book printed from engraved plates. Of this latter work two very fine copies are shewn, exhibiting both the music and the very interesting title. An inspection of these beautiful books is recommended (Nos. 2,257, 2,258). Engraving and stamping are processes so nearly akin that probably only experts can point out the marked distinctions. Of late years it is quite evident that in the matter of stamped plate music we English have been fairly beaten by the beautiful and exact productions of the Germans; a splendid specimen of their work is shown in Wagner's latest and most prodigious bantling, the "Götterdämmerung" (No. 2,409), which, having seen, we recommend the visitor to turn immediately, and in an adjacent case inspect a couple of pages of Purcell's "Yorkshire Feast" (No. 2,397), just completed for the Purcell Society by Messrs. Novello; these pages have been produced with new material, punches, &c., and by skilled art-workmen, the result being something of which we may justly feel proud. Notice should be taken of the first book ever printed with the accompaniment (for the harpsichord or piano) printed in full; this book first saw the light in Edinburgh, and is a fine specimen of Johnson's work (No. 2,337).

Musical tablature is exhibited in too small a case to show its many interesting features. Other modifications of the ordinary notation find their places in the same section. But to notice every remarkable music-book in the exhibition would necessitate a quotation of the major part of the catalogue, containing more than 800 works. We must not, however, forget the pretty little pages engraved by J. S. Bach with his own hand (No. 2,360), and having a few manuscript emendations apparently in the old master's autograph. Nor must we omit to call attention to the exhibits of Russia, India, and other distant lands; also one meritorious piece of giant type printing from Boston, United States (No. 2,090). About a week since additional music-treasures were received direct from the Italian Government through the Foreign Office. These works, selected from libraries in Rome and generously lent for exhibition, are shown in cases by themselves, and separately catalogued in an appendix to the general music-printing class.

It is much to be regretted that the walls are not adorned with the portraits of music authors and printers; the many treasures existing in this un-exhibited class of engraving would surprise all but the initiated. The autographs of music authors too have as real and strong a claim for exhibition as those of any other branch of literature, and it was shortsighted policy of the executive not to secure ample space for the admission of these and many other kindred works. The want of elbow-room is distinctly suggested on entering the gallery, for on either hand on the floor are two glazed cupboards filled with music-books, which ought to have been shown open, had there been space. We cannot better close these brief remarks than by recommending all our readers to visit the Caxton Exhibition, catalogue in hand, and profit by such a golden opportunity as may never occur again.

THE HANDEL FESTIVAL.

As the exigencies of publication made it impossible for us to give a complete record of the Handel Festival in our last, we return to the subject now, notwithstanding that lapse of time has somewhat abated its interest. We have only to speak of the concluding performance—on Friday, June 29—whereat, in harmony with a precedent nobody is ever likely to dispute, "Israel in Egypt" was given. The attendance on this occasion could not in any sense be termed small, inasmuch as 19,455 persons passed the turnstiles; but it was remarkable as being relatively the scantiest gathering ever attracted by "Israel" at a Crystal Palace Festival. On all former occasions the great choral Oratorio has held the first place in public favour, doing so by majorities ranging from 9,000 in 1859 to 500 in 1865. This year, on the other hand, it was heard by an audience numbering 900 fewer than that drawn together by the Selection. But from this we must not form rash conclusions. The public are now accustomed to the effect of the Oratorio as given in the central transept; and moreover we may assume the existence of a growing curiosity with regard to the less-known of Handel's works, to say nothing of the important fact that the last Selection day brought together a remarkable group of soloists, whose attractive force was hard to resist. At any rate we are not justified in assuming that because "Israel" has fallen back from its leading place at Sydenham it is less in general favour than heretofore. To do so would be to suppose an eccentricity of public taste wholly unaccountable, and for a suspicion of which there is not the smallest ground.

The choral portions of the "Messiah" and the Selection were, it will be remembered, splendidly given, but no degree of excellence in any other work can be a guarantee of excellence in "Israel," where difficulties are piled upon difficulties, like Pelion upon Ossa, till the task of surmounting them, especially under such conditions as obtained at a Handel Festival, seems hopeless. No one will be surprised to learn therefore that the great choruses were not all rendered to perfection. In "He sent a thick darkness" all the voices dropped in pitch, and the true effect of one of the most remarkable examples of Handel's genius was lost. There were obvious imperfections also in "And with the blast of thy nostrils" and a few other equally difficult numbers; but the wonder was not so much that these faults should be as that they were so few. Generally speaking the execution of the choruses was an achievement of which English musicians had a right to boast in no ordinary terms, because the degree of skill requisite to produce such results without, in most cases, a single rehearsal was itself of no ordinary character. The audience expressed their satisfaction in a manner almost enthusiastic, encoring the "Hailstone" as a matter of course, and receiving all its great companions with loud and long applause. For the solos we have nothing but praise. Madame Sherrington sang the music of Miriam with power and brilliancy; Madame Wynne made her mark in "Thou didst blow with Thy wind;" Madame Patey delivered "Thou shalt bring them in" and "Their land sent forth frogs" with as much truth of expression as beauty of voice; and Mr. Lloyd made a great sensation by a vigorous and wholly admirable execution of "The enemy said," which he was compelled to repeat. On the other hand, "The Lord is a man of war," as sung by Herr Henschel and Mr. Santley, failed to win its usual encore, for a reason hardly to be found in the doings of the artists concerned. At the close of the Oratorio, "God save the Queen" was sung with wonderful effect, after which the multitude broke up with cheers for Sir Michael Costa and for the success of the Festival.

Our concluding remarks need not be extended. The result of the enterprise has again shown how deeply the love of Handel's music has struck its roots in the English people. It has again shown, moreover, to what perfection English chorals have attained; and it has encouraged us to anticipate the continuance of these triennial gatherings for an indefinite period. At a time when much in our musical life causes anxiety all this is specially reassuring, for the nation cannot go far wrong in the matter of the "divine art" which stays itself on the works of the "Saxon giant."

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

THE success of Mdle. Etelka Gerster as Amina in "La Sonnambula" has been materially strengthened during the past month by her performance of three other characters—Lucia, in "Lucia di Lammermoor," Elvira, in "I Puritani," and Gilda, in "Rigoletto." Her singing, as we have already said, is so charmingly natural, and yet so perfect in a technical point of view, that we have little fear of her failure even in her most daring flights, the E flat in alt being taken with an ease which makes us almost forget the exceptionally high power of her register. But her acting also gains upon us—more perhaps as Lucia than as Elvira, where in many portions she scarcely impresses us with the requisite dignity of the part, although her rendering of the music, especially of the well-known polacca, "Son vergin vezzosa," and the scena, "Qui la voce," is extremely good. Not all the excellent vocalisation of any new comer however will, we believe, bring this commonplace opera again into public favour. The day has certainly gone by when such conventional music can elicit thunders of applause from even a fashionable audience; for although the well-executed embellishments to both the pieces we have mentioned will always command a gracious recognition, the reception of the vulgar duet "Suoni la tromba," on the occasion under notice, sufficiently shows how thoroughly the public taste has changed since the production of Bellini's work in this country. Of Mdle. Gerster's singing of Gilda, in Verdi's opera, we must also speak in terms of the highest praise, her dramatic conception of the part however proving that she has yet much to learn before she can fully realise a character demanding much emotional power. Signor Talbo, as Il Duca, sang occasionally painfully out of tune; but generally the opera was well cast, Madame Trebelli, as usual, giving much prominence to the part of Maddalena. The subscription season terminated on the 24th ult.; but extra nights have been given until the 28th, when the establishment finally closed.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.

We should be inclined to say that the only event of importance at this establishment during the past month has been the production of Nicolai's Opera, "Le Vispe Comari di Windsor;" but, as faithful chroniclers, we are bound to record that three acts of dreary music by the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, under the title of "Santa Chiara" (appropriately indeed termed an "opera-seria"), has been placed upon the stage, but for what purpose we cannot divine. The repulsiveness of the story upon which this Opera is founded might perhaps have been rendered less objectionable had some interest been created by the work of the composer; but the sombreness of the musical colouring, relieved only by the introduction of strains light but not melodious, proved too much for the audience, and at the conclusion of the second act—during the whole of which the heroine, presumed to be dead, is lying in her coffin—many very decisive hisses were heard above the applause with which new works, whatever may be their merit, are invariably greeted. The principal singers who assisted in the mournful exhibition were Mdle. D'Angeri, Mdle. Smeroschi, M. Capoul, and Signori Cotogni and Capponi, all of whom exerted themselves with a zeal worthy of a better cause. That the Opera was played twice will scarcely perhaps cause more surprise than the fact of its being played once.

The performance of Nicolai's Opera, already mentioned, was extremely welcome, not only on account of the excessive beauty of much of the music, but because it gave Mdle. Zaré Thalberg an opportunity of proving, in the character of Mrs. Ford, how much more her talents can be truly estimated when she appears in parts which do not force us into comparison with maturer artists. Both in her singing and acting, powers were displayed for the possession of which few persons had credited her; and we have now little doubt that she has a brilliant future before her. The engagement of Signor Nicolini has given much strength to the tenor department, and on each appearance in his favourite characters he has been warmly received. The season terminated on the 21st ult.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

THE ninth concert, on the 25th June, included a very fine performance of Beethoven's Violin Concerto by M. Leopold Auer, and an intelligent and effective rendering of Mendelssohn's Pianoforte Concerto in G minor by Mr. Alfred Jaell, the orchestral pieces being Beethoven's "Pastoral Symphony," Dr. A. Sullivan's Overture, "In Memoriam," and Weber's Overture, "The Ruler of the Spirits." At the concluding concert of the series, on the 9th ult., the subscribers had an opportunity of hearing Herr Joachim's "Elegiac Overture," upon the merits of which we commented when it was given at Cambridge on the occasion of the composer taking his degree of Doctor of Music at the University. Mdle. Marguerite Pommereul (who replaced Herr Wilhelmj, absent from indisposition) was highly successful in a violin solo, and Beethoven's Pianoforte Concerto in C minor was well played by M. J. Wieniawski. At the first of the concerts under notice Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, and at the second Miss Catherine Penna and Mr. Santley, were the vocalists. Mr. W. G. Cusins received a cordial mark of recognition at the termination of the performance.

MR. HENRY LESLIE'S CHOIR.

THE last of these concerts, on the 28th June, was an extra one for the benefit of the Director. The programme, although in the highest degree interesting, contained no novelty, the solo vocalists—Miss Robertson, Madame Patey, Messrs. E. Lloyd and Santley, and Herr Henschel—absorbing perhaps rather an undue share of a concert of which the principal feature should be the performance of part-music by the Choir. Mendelssohn's beautiful Hymn, "Hear my prayer," was indeed a welcome item; but the singing of Miss Robertson in the solo part afforded undeniable proof that vocal qualifications alone are not all that are required for the due interpretation of this truly religious music. The Choir was, as usual, excellent throughout the evening; and Mr. Leslie at the conclusion of the concert was recalled and warmly applauded.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

THE Annual Distribution of Prizes to the students of this Institution took place in the new Concert Room of the Academy on the 21st ult., Madame Sainton-Dolby kindly undertaking the task of handing the awards to the successful pupils. After the performance of a short selection of music, Professor Macfarren, the principal, thanked Madame Dolby, who had herself, he said, been a student of the Academy, for her presence that morning, and referred to the fact of there being at present 345 pupils in the Institution, and also to the donations which had been recently received, viz., 108 guineas from the Goldsmiths' Company, 50 guineas from the Merchant Taylors' Company, and 200 guineas from the well-known firm of Messrs. Broadwood. We have only space for the names of those who gained the principal prizes, but many received bronze medals, and others high commendation from the examiners.

MEMORIAL PRIZES.

Lucas Silver Medal.—For the composition of the first movement of a string quartet: Richard Harvey Löhr.

Parepa-Rosa Gold Medal.—For the singing of pieces selected by the committee: James Sauvage.

Sternedale Bennett Prize.—Purse of 10 Guineas. For the playing of a composition by Professor Sir William Sternedale Bennett, selected by the committee: Nancy Evans.

FEMALE DEPARTMENT.

The Llewellyn Thomas Gold Medal.—For declamatory English singing: Ellen Orridge.

The Christine Nilsson Prizes.—Purses of 20 and of 10 Guineas. For the first and second best singing respectively of pieces selected by the committee: Mary Davies, Marian Williams.

Certificates of Advanced Merit (the highest honour attainable at this examination, awarded only to students who have previously received the certificate next named).—Singing: Mary Davies. Pianoforte: Margaret Bucknall.

Certificates of Merit (awarded only to students who have previously received silver medals).—Singing: Marian Williams. Pianoforte: Nancy Evans, Ethel Gould, Kate Steel. Violin: Ada Brand. Clarinet: Frances Thomas.

Silver Medals (to those who have already received bronze medals).—Singing: Amy Aylward, Kate Brand, Annie Butterworth, Ellen Orridge, Hannah Turner. Pianoforte: Fanny Boxell, Jane Burrough, Fanny Ellis, Minnie Elwell, Alice Heathcote, Kate Lyons, Jessie Percival, and Isabel Thurgood. Violin: Julia de Nolte.

HARMONY.

Certificate of Merit.—Eaton Fanning.

High Commendation.—H. Walmsley Little (Silver Medalist, 1876).

Silver Medals.—Oliveria Prescott, George Hooper.

MALE DEPARTMENT.

Certificates of Merit.—Pianoforte: Edward Morton and Tobias Matthay. Organ: Henry R. Rose.

Silver Medals.—Singing: Gordon Gooch and James Sauvage. Pianoforte: Charlton T. Speer, Alfred Luton, and Arnold Kennedy.

SCHOLARSHIPS.

Potter Exhibitioner.—Kate Steel.

Westmorland Scholar.—Marian Williams.

Sterndale Bennett Scholar.—Tom Silver.

Parepa-Rosa Scholar.—Clara Samuel.

Sir John Goss Scholar.—Ernest Ford.

Lady Goldsmid Scholar.—Ethel Goold.

Sir Francis Goldsmid Scholar.—Clara Cooper.

Professors' Scholars.—Violin: Julia de Nolte. Double Bass: Alfred Harper.

Balfé Scholar.—William Sewell.

The few words addressed to the pupils by Madame Dolby before retiring from the platform—in which she feelingly alluded to the "happy time" she spent as a student in the Institution—we need scarcely say were received with the warmest applause. Mr. Walter Macfarren conducted the musical portion of the morning's proceedings, which were brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem. The room was crowded in every part.

SPECIAL SERVICE OF THE CHOIR BENEVOLENT FUND.

THIS praiseworthy and admirably managed Society held a Festival in St. Paul's Cathedral on the 28th June. The time chosen was, from a musical point of view, most propitious, as a large number of Cathedral choirmen who were engaged at the Handel Festival gladly gave their services on the occasion. About eighty boys and a hundred and twenty men, selected from twenty-three Cathedral Choirs, formed one of the finest bodies of voices which we ever heard under the dome. The verses and chanting of the Psalms, often the least satisfactory part of such services, were here rendered with great precision and accuracy. The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis (Gibbons in F) were sung without accompaniment under the direction of Dr. Stainer, who conducted from the back of the lectern. The sublimity and purity of the author's harmonies were never more apparent. Goss's "Praise the Lord" was the anthem proper. "O sing unto the Lord" (Purcell) was given at the close of the prayers; and after a short but excellent sermon by Bishop Claughton, Dr. Stainer's "I saw the Lord" and Handel's "Zadok the Priest" were splendidly sung, Dr. Bridge conducting and Dr. Stainer playing the organ. Interesting voluntaries were contributed by Mr. G. C. Martin, sub-organist of the Cathedral, and Dr. Bridge, both before and after the service. Considering the remarkable excellence of the whole service, and the evident care bestowed upon all the arrangements, we were much disappointed to hear that the Charity would barely cover its expenses (which were quite small) by the amount of the offertory. Surely, as such a musical treat was provided with so much labour and with such laudable self-sacrifice of the executants, it might reasonably have been hoped that the congregation would not withhold its hand from giving liberally to so useful an object.

WE read in the Daily News that on the 12th ult. about one hundred gentlemen assembled at the Queen's Theatre, Long Acre, on the invitation of Mr. Cromwell F. Varley, to witness a private preliminary trial of his telephone, or musical telegraph, by means of which sounds of variable pitch can be conveyed from one place to another by electricity. The principle and the general nature of the invention are thus described by the inventor himself: "Sound of any kind is produced by agitation of the atmosphere, the pitch or tone of the sound being determined by the amount, or rate per second, of this agitation or vibration. When the pulsations follow one another slowly, however violent they may be, the resulting note is of low pitch; as they increase in rapidity the pitch ascends, each note of the scale having its own peculiar rate of vibration, the slightest divergence from which causes it to sound sharp or flat. To transmit sound by the telephone these atmospheric vibrations have to be collected and transformed into electricity, which must then be sent along a wire in waves or impulses corresponding in their number per second to the atmospheric vibrations which are proper to the particular note to be reproduced. At the distant end these electrical impulses have to be reconverted into sound, and in this process lies the most novel part of the invention, Mr. Cromwell F. Varley having found means to produce what is nothing more nor less than musical thunder." Two sets of apparatus were presented to view, one in a cellar below the floor of the theatre, where the waves of sound were collected, another on the floor or rather the orchestra above, where, through the agency of a drum connected with an electric wire, were heard the sounds resulting from the working of the machinery. In the cellar there was a keyboard, roughly resembling that of a piano, connected by a number of wires with twelve tuning-forks forming in regular gradation an octave and a half. The character of the sounds depending on the number of vibrations collected by the apparatus, the keyboard was manipulated so as to produce various tunes, which, as they were successively played, were transmitted through the medium of an electric wire. It had been intended that the tunes should start, as it were, from the Canterbury Music Hall—a distance of at least a mile—with which there was electric communication, and where there was a keyboard similar to that at the Queen's Theatre; but in consequence of atmospheric derangement—a disadvantage to which the telephone seems to be very liable—it was found necessary to play the keyboard in Long Acre, the result being, however, that the tune traversed twice the distance that it would otherwise have done, being repeated after its double journey. After a brief history of the invention from the lips of Mr. J. C. Bennett, the practical illustrations commenced by the production, in perfectly audible tones, of the familiar air of "Where, and oh where, is my Highland laddie gone." The sounds reproduced were certainly not of the sweetest kind, but the interesting and important fact was that they were there. They were a little grouty and nasal, but they were real, and the result was hailed with loud cheers. Next came "The last rose of summer," the sounds, which somewhat resembled those of an oboe, being an improvement on the preceding ones, and some of them being positively agreeable. "Home, sweet home" proved still more successful, and the air of "Cluquet" also came out well. Mr. Cromwell F. Varley being absent in consequence of indisposition, his brother, Mr. Frederick H. Varley, then came forward, and after apologising for the defects of the performance, owing, as he intimated, chiefly to the cause before mentioned, and saying that the inventor hoped to be able to reproduce speech, remarked that the fact that sounds might be transmitted had been clearly proved. Most of the visitors afterwards inspected the apparatus in the cellar below, and examined it with great interest, paying special attention to the mode in which the vibrations were collected before being transmitted through the electric wire.

THE fourth Annual Meeting of the London Church Choir Association was held on Tuesday evening, the 10th ult., at the Cannon Street Hotel. In the unavoidable absence of the Rev. W. C. F. Webber, President of the Association, the Rev. T. C. Shepherd, Clerical Secretary, was voted to the chair. Mr. Murray, the Choirmaster of the Association, read the balance-sheet, which showed there was £12 in hand. During the meeting votes of thanks were tendered to Mr. J. Blockley, Dr. Bridge, Mr. W. S. Hoyte, and Mr. E. H. Birch for their contributions to the music of the service of the festival held at St. Paul's Cathedral in October, to Dr. Bridge for presiding at the organ at the festival held at Westminster Abbey in June last, to the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's and the Dean of Westminster for the use of the Cathedral and Abbey, and to Mr. J. Weston and the stewards generally. Three guineas were voted to the Police Orphanage. Thanks were also accorded to Mr. Murray, the Rev. T. C. Shepherd, and to Mr. Bent, Acting Secretary. Mr. Murray, in reply, said that from four choirs the Association had grown into the present large dimensions in the course of five years, and that it had been the means of the production of four of the finest anthems of modern times.

An interesting Concert was given by the members of the Choir of St. James's, Hampstead Road, in aid of their fund, on the 20th ult., at the Athenæum, Camden Road. Among the artists who kindly gave their services were Mrs. Weldon, Miss Janet Clayton, Mr. Thurley Beale, Mr. Sidney Barnby (of St. Paul's Cathedral), Mr. D'Arcy Ferris, and Mr. Vitton. Professor Nicholson, of Leipzig, was the solo pianist. The Messrs. A. C. and W. Rawlings added much to the pleasure of the evening by their very clever hand-bell chiming. An unusual item in the programme was the recitation of a poem of forty-four lines by an infant three years old, which elicited much kindly applause. Mr. Frank Adlaw, who acted as accompanist and contributed a piano solo, exhibited considerable skill. Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons kindly lent one of their patent grand concert pianos for the occasion. The concert was under the direction of Mr. A. H. Crowest, the choirmaster of St. James's.

The success of Mr. R. Blagrove's ten Concertina Concerts at the Royal Academy of Music, the last of which was given on the 19th ult., amply justifies the spirited promoter of these entertainments in introducing this instrument still further as an exponent of the chamber-music of the great masters. Whilst these concerts were merely experimental, Mr. Blagrove could scarcely be expected to do more than attempt movements from the standard compositions; but we may anticipate that the programmes in future will contain entire works; for there is no reason why amateurs should be led to imagine that only those portions are selected especially suited for the Concertina. We may also take the opportunity of alluding to the excellent pianoforte performance of Mrs. R. Blagrove, whose refined and intelligent rendering of classical music has been a marked feature in the concerts.

THE South Norwood Musical Society brought its twelfth season to a close on the 9th ult. with a Concert in which a selection from Ellerton's "Paradise Lost" formed the chief item. The solo music was sung by Miss Jessie Royd, Miss Bawtree, Mr. C. Chilly, and Mr. H. C. Thomas in a thoroughly satisfactory manner, especial praise being due for the rendering of "Ye that in waters glide" (Miss Bawtree), "Must I then leave thee, Paradise?" (Miss Royd), and the two quartetts. During the season just terminated the Society has also performed Gade's "Crusaders," Mendelssohn's Forty-second Psalm and "Hear my prayer," Benedict's "Legend of St. Cecilia," Weber's Mass in G, Mendelssohn's "First Walpurgis Night," and miscellaneous selections. The concerts have been conducted by Mr. W. J. Westbrook, Mus. B., Cantab., and Miss Wheeler has officiated as accompanist.

THE Grosvenor Choral Society's sixty-fifth Monthly Concert, given at the Grosvenor Hall on the 20th ult., consisted of a miscellaneous selection, including the part-songs, "Softly fall the shades of evening" and "The Sailor's Song" (Hatton), "Since first" (Ford), "Ave Maria" (Smart), "You stole my love" (W. Macfarren), "The dawn of day" (Reay), "There is a garden" (J. G.

Callcott), and "The Mice in council" (Filby), the latter receiving an encore. The Andante and Allegro from Mendelssohn's Sonata in B flat, for violoncello and piano-forte, were excellently played by Messrs. Finzi and J. G. Callcott. The solo vocalists were Miss M. Turner, L.A.M., Miss Kate Reed, Mrs. Leonard Hughes, Mr. Gabriel Thorpe, R.A.M., Mr. A. Baxter, and Mr. Henry Baker. Mr. J. G. Callcott conducted.

A SUCCESSFUL Service and Organ Recital was given at St. Mary's Church, Haggerstone, on the 24th ult., under the direction of Mr. C. J. Frost, Mus. B., Cantab., the organist of the church. The choir was assisted by members of the West Hackney Parish Church Choir, and numbered between forty and fifty voices. The Service was Prout in F; the Anthems were Gounod's "Send out Thy light" and Beethoven's "Hallelujah to the Father." The Recital included Mendelssohn's Third Sonata in A, Bach's A minor Prelude and Fugue, Smart's Fantasia in G major (with Choral), Lemmens's Storm Fantasia, and a Fantasia in C minor, and Postlude in G minor, by the Organist. An Aria, "I will lay me down in peace" (also from Mr. Frost's pen), was tastefully sung by one of the choir-boys. Mr. Frost's playing was much appreciated by a numerous audience.

THE new building in connection with the Royal Normal College for the Blind was opened by the Princess Louise on the 12th ult., when an excellent Concert was given, under the direction of Mr. F. J. Campbell, the Principal of the College. The meeting was addressed by the Duke of Westminster, Sir R. Alcock, the treasurer, and Mr. F. J. Campbell, who earnestly advocated the claims of the Charity. The institution is, unfortunately, still heavily in debt—nearly £7,000 being required to meet the liabilities—but it is hoped that, when the objects of the undertaking become more generally known, the efforts of those who have interested themselves so warmly in promoting this noble work will be supported as they deserve.

At the Half-yearly Examination held on the 4th and 5th ult. at the College of Organists, the first-class certificate of Fellowship was obtained by the following five gentlemen: Mr. H. J. Brookes (Norwich), Mr. C. Chambers (Newcastle-on-Tyne), Mr. Gritton (Dorking), Mr. J. Loaring (Bradford), and Mr. N. S. Trego (London); and the second-class certificate of Associateship by four others. The Board of Examiners on the occasion were Dr. J. F. Bridge, Mr. Charles J. Frost, Mus. B., Mr. C. Warwick Jordan, Mus. B., Mr. E. M. Lott, Mr. C. E. Stephens, and Mr. E. H. Turpin.

We are informed that Mr. W. Pyatt has engaged the following artists for his autumn tour: Mrs. Osgood, Miss Orridge, Mr. Sims Reeves, Mr. Santley, Mr. H. Nicholson, and Mr. Sidney Naylor; and that the places visited will comprise Northampton, Sheffield, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Stockton-on-Tees, Manchester, Burnley, Liverpool, Birmingham, Leicester, Bradford, Leeds, Nottingham, Blackburn, Derby, Bristol, Plymouth, and Exeter, commencing at the first-named town on September 25, and concluding at the last on November 12.

We are informed that 1,118 candidates presented themselves at the recent Local Examination in Music in connection with Trinity College, London. This is by far the largest number known to have entered for any single musical examination in the United Kingdom—perhaps in the whole of Europe. The adjudicators of the prizes are Sir Julius Benedict and Sir John Goss; and the general certificates will be awarded by the Academical Board, meeting at the College, in Weymouth Street, W., under the presidency of the Warden.

We have every reason to believe that Mdle. Titiens, although still an invalid, is progressing favourably. Reports have been circulated that she would appear at Her Majesty's Theatre once more during the season; but not only have these proved unfounded, but the engagement of Mdle. Albani at the approaching Gloucester Festival makes us fear that it will be some time before she reappears in public.

REVIEWS.

The Organ: its History and Construction, by Edward J. Hopkins and Edward F. Rimbault, LL.D. Third edition. [Robert Cocks and Co.]

It would be altogether superfluous either to commend or to recommend a work so long and so favourably known to all lovers of the organ as the present. From the time of its first publication more than twenty years since it has been recognised as the standard authority for everything pertaining to the mechanism and construction of the organ. All that is needful now is to call attention to the publication of the third edition. Not having the earlier editions before us for comparison while we write, we are unable to say precisely what alterations have been made; but we learn from Mr. Hopkins's preface that the entire work has been thoroughly revised, and that many important additions have been made to the specifications of organs given in the appendix. To many amateurs this will be the most interesting part of the volume. The complete list of stops of 342 different organs is given, and these specifications are brought down to so recent a date that we find details, for example, of the new organ in the Westminster Aquarium, and even of the one now being built for the new Public Hall, Glasgow, by Mr. Lewis. It is of course inevitable that there should be a few omissions and errors in such a large number of specifications; and we call attention to two which we have noticed, not for the sake of finding fault, but that they may be set right in the fourth edition. The description of the organ in St. John's College, Cambridge (Specification 284), is certainly not correct now, whatever it may have been when the first edition was published. The writer of this notice played on the organ a few months ago, and can therefore say positively that it has not, as stated, manuals to FFF, and one stop of open pedal pipes. It is a complete three-manual CC organ, with a large independent pedal of several stops. We are surprised also not to find among London organs that in Union Chapel, Islington—a far more complete instrument than many of which specifications are given. The wonder is, nevertheless, not that some mistakes should occur, but that, with such a subject, they should not be far more numerous than they are.

The Growth and Cultivation of the Voice in Singing, by Madame St. Germaine. [J. B. Cramer and Co.]

THE author of this book is Professor of Singing at the Crystal Palace School of Art; and if we may judge from the lucid manner in which she states her theories upon voice-cultivation, and her very excellent remarks upon the mission of a true artist, as distinct from a mere warbler, she is in every respect fitted for the position she holds. We have seldom indeed within so small a compass met with so many truths, and only regret that our space will not allow us to transfer some of her very clever observations upon the art of teaching to our columns. One, however, we cannot refrain from quoting. Speaking of the distribution of light and shade in painting, or as the Italians term it, chiaroscuro, she continues thus: "Just so it is in the sister art of singing. Performers must not be satisfied with singing correctly; they must sing feelingly and avoid monotony; in order to do this they must strive thoroughly to understand and rightly interpret what they sing." No doubt all this has been said before; but, considering that the amateurs who are guided by this maxim are the exception rather than the rule, it is evident that it cannot be said too often.

The Music Pupils' Register. Designed principally for the use of Schools and Elementary Pupils, by Jacob Bradford, Mus. B., Oxon. [Simpson and Co.]

If Mr. Bradford could persuade every musical professor to be as systematic in his teaching as he appears to be himself, we have no doubt that his "Pupils' Register" would prove of much service; but we doubt whether the daily routine which he sketches out—"1. Scales; 2. Exercises; 3. Catechism; 4. Pianoforte"—is ever strictly adhered to, even in schools and colleges, certainly not with elementary pupils in private families. In the preface to his little book the author says, "Seeing that minutes are of importance whilst teaching, this little book has been issued, in the hope that the efforts of the music-master may be assisted, and the musical studies of the pupil encouraged." Both these objects are most laudable, and we bear willing testimony to the manner in which the design has been carried out in the Register. One side of the book is devoted to "Work to be done," which is to be filled up by the master at each lesson; the other side is a record of the time given to practice by the pupil during the week, which is to appear in the handwriting of the "Pupil, Parent, or Monitor." As we have said, wherever such method prevails we cordially recommend Mr. Bradford's book, and freely accord him thanks for drawing attention to the subject.

The Sequential System of Musical Notation, by William A. B. Lunn. New Edition. [E. W. Allen.]

THIS new edition of the "Sequential Notation" shows, for the first time, the application of the system to instruments, the author having hitherto contented himself with the improvement of vocal tuition. The peculiarity of the Sequential Notation is that, in its vocal as well as instrumental method, it uses a staff, in the vocal method of two, and in the instrumental method of three lines; which staff contains exactly an octave, other staves or ledger-lines being drawn above or below. The vocal staff is for seven notes, the instrumental staff for twelve, seven only appearing according to the key. The vocal staff is for relative sounds, the instrumental for sounds absolute and fixed. To vocalists and instrumentalists alike, all keys are equally "natural;" and sharps or flats are only known to performers of either kind as notes out of the key. In the present edition the system is minutely explained in both its aspects; and two well-engraved specimen-plates convey an excellent idea of how the notation will appear when sung or played from.

The Canticles of the Church, arranged to Gregorian Tones by J. Stainer. Fourth Series. (Novello, Ewer and Co.), will neither require detailed criticism nor recommendation from us. Dr. Stainer's name is in itself a sufficient guarantee for the excellence of the arrangements, while of the tones themselves it is difficult, if not impossible, to say anything new. By choirs where it is the custom to sing the Canticles to Gregorian music these settings will be heartily welcomed.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat, by Hamilton Clarke. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

MR. CLARKE'S service is clever, and in parts effective; it is also commendably free from conventional phrases. But the composer in his efforts to be original and to avoid commonplace, sometimes uses progressions which we cannot approve of, and which we think sound very harsh; as examples whereof we may quote the following:—

Page 6.

hol - pen His ser - vant

Page 9.

de - part in peace, ac -

We do not think that either of these passages (and others might be given) will commend themselves to general favour.

A Morning Service, composed by I. De Bock Kennard. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THIS little Service is a fair specimen of a very numerous class. Mr. Kennard has a zeal, but not according to knowledge. We see here evidences of real musical feeling, but also, alas! no less clear evidences of very imperfect musical culture. Not only are many of the progressions awkward, but we find such things as doubled leading notes (p. 3), a seventh which is neither prepared nor resolved (p. 5), and consecutive octaves and fifths (pp. 2 and 9). To attempt to compose without a proper study of harmony is just as useless as to attempt to write French or German without studying the grammar of the language. That we have not put Mr. Kennard's Service aside (as we do the majority of incorrect compositions) without a word will, we hope, be taken by him as a favourable sign. If he will study composition he may be able to write something of real value.

Missa Seraphica; the Office of the Holy Communion, set to original music by Arthur Henry Brown. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

BEFORE proceeding to speak of the musical merits of Mr. Brown's Communion Service, we would remark upon the significant fact that the composer has entitled his work a "Mass." We presume that it is intended for use in highly developed Ritualistic churches, not only from its name, but from the fact that it contains settings of passages which are not to be found in the "Book of Common Prayer," and which are, we think, not likely to be sung in most churches. Such are the hymn "O Salutaris" and the "Domine non sum dignus," both of which are from the Romish Missal. Again, it strikes us as rather novel to find a double setting of words for the Agnus Dei, not only those being given with which we are familiar, but a supplementary version for "Mortuary Celebrations" (which is, we presume, the Ritualistic name for a funeral service), "Grant them rest; grant them eternal rest"—a translation, of course, from the Roman Catholic "Missa pro Defunctis."

We mention these matters, not in a fault-finding spirit, because we have nothing whatever to do in these columns with any doctrinal questions, but merely that our readers may know exactly what to expect in Mr. Brown's Service, which contains in all thirteen numbers. These are an Introit, "Like as the hart," a Kyrie, Gloria tibi, Gratias, Alleluia, Credo, Sursum Corda, Sanctus, Benedictus, O Salutaris, Agnus Dei, Domine non sum dignus, and Gloria in excelsis. A few of these are so short as really to give no scope to a composer; but in the more developed numbers Mr. Brown has been very successful. The Credo, the Agnus, and the Gloria in excelsis are all good; and, while thoroughly effective, present no difficulties to the singers. For the other movements we care less, excepting the Kyrie, which is ingeniously treated, the melody being given for the different responses in all the voice-parts in turn, with varied harmony and counterpoint at each change. We ought to add that a considerable part of the service has a free organ accompaniment. We should like in conclusion to ask the meaning of a sign which we have never met with before. In the Credo before the words "And the life of the world to come" (p. 7.) we find this mark ✠ both in the voice-parts and in the accompaniment. Will Mr. Brown, or some other of our readers, kindly inform us what it is, for we have not the slightest idea.

The Wycliffe Canticles, by John B. Gausby. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THIS little book consists of a selection of passages of Scripture arranged for chanting, and set to appropriate chants. The system of pointing is one which appears to us on the whole the best and simplest—that of placing bars between the words or syllables corresponding exactly to the bars of the music. There are fifty-one passages given; the pointing is in general good, and the chants are mostly well-known and standard compositions. The book also contains eight settings of the Sanctus, and a few short Introits.

The North Coates Supplemental Tune-Book. Hymn-tunes composed by the Rev. T. R. Matthews, B.A.

Benedictus in E, for four voices, or for voices in unison. Composed by the Rev. T. R. Matthews, B.A. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE psalm-tunes of Mr. Matthews, without showing any very striking originality, are sufficiently above the average of such compositions to merit a word of sincere commendation. This we give with the more pleasure, because the large majority of new psalm-tunes sent us for review are so absolutely colourless—neither good nor bad, but mere collections of chords—that we find it quite impossible to say anything at all about them, and therefore put them aside without notice. Mr. Matthews possesses a pleasing and natural vein of melody; his tunes are harmonised in an easy and singable manner, and have for the most part the invaluable quality of "go" about them; and if here and there we meet with a slight reminiscence, we are not inclined, in a psalm-tune, to be too hard upon the writer on that score, but are rather reminded of the saying of a popular composer, when a reminiscence was pointed out to him in one of his works, "Well, what's a man to do? There are only eight notes in the scale!" The fact that we have seen several of Mr. Matthews's tunes reprinted in other collections is a sufficient proof that they are appreciated, and we can fairly say that the recognition is deserved.

In the Benedictus we think the composer has been less successful; the music flows on in a quiet melodious manner, and will be found very easy to sing, whether in four parts or in unison, but it possesses no very striking feature.

A Collection of Original Musical Settings to the Sanctus and Responses to the Commandments, edited by Nicholas Heins (Weekes and Co.), contains some very good settings, and some very indifferent ones. Among the contributors are Sir F. A. Gore Ouseley, Dr. Steggall, Dr. E. G. Monk, Mrs. Mounsey Bartholomew, Mr. Henry Leslie, Mr. Townshend Smith, Rev. W. D. V. Duncombe, &c. As the music is intended for "congregational use," we should venture to doubt whether Mr. Duncombe's clever Sanctus (p. 8) is suited for its purpose. However adapted for a trained choir, we doubt whether a piece beginning in F, going almost immediately into D flat and G flat, and then in one bar back to C major, can be described as "congregational."

The Earth is the Lord's. A short, easy, full Anthem for Harvest Festivals, by Albert Lowe. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

IF to Mr. Lowe's description of his anthem as "short and easy" we add the words "melodious and pleasing," we shall, we think, have said all that need be said about it; it is a very fair specimen of a style of composition which is becoming increasingly popular in our churches. There is one progression in it, which occurs in the opening phrase, to which we should take exception, where the chord of the sixth on B (in the key of C major) is followed by the chord of F major; the effect produced is, to our ears at least, not pleasant.

Lord, how are they increased. Anthem, composed by Hamilton Clarke. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE present anthem, which, as compared with the majority of such compositions, is of somewhat unusual extent, is evidently designed both for a large and a good choir, the last two movements being written for an eight-part chorus. The opening in E minor seems to us rather weak, the same phrase being given in succession to each of the four voices without any counterpoint in the other parts. From the entrance of the full choir, however, on the third page, the music improves, and the last part of the movement shows considerable musical feeling. It is succeeded by a bold fugue, "Many one there be," which leads to an eight-part chorus, "But thou, O Lord, art my defender," containing some good part-writing. The concluding chorale, "I did call upon the Lord," is also in eight parts; but we think Mr. Clarke runs some little risk in leaving it without accompaniment. Unless in the hands of a very good choir, the pitch would be likely to fall, in which case the entry of the organ pedal at the end would have an effect the reverse of agreeable. We can recommend the anthem for those choirs that can manage it; but it is not particularly easy to sing well.

Six Short and Easy Anthems, by Frederick Iliffe, Mus. Bac., Oxon., Book II. (Novello and Co.) This set of anthems is a continuation of the series of six which we reviewed some time since in the MUSICAL TIMES. We can only repeat what we said on that occasion—that Mr. Iliffe knows how to make his music easy without making it either poor or dry. We consider the second series quite equal to the first. Our own favourite is No. 9, "Fret not thyself because of the ungodly," which displays much feeling, but all are so good that opinions will no doubt differ as to which is the best. We can warmly recommend them. By the way, Mr. Iliffe, is not the A in the alto in the last bar but one of the first page of No. 7 a misprint for G? We certainly think so.

Short Pieces for the Organ; edited by W. Spark, Mus. Doc. Books 5 and 6. [Ashdown and Parry.]

It may be said of these arrangements, as of many others, that their design is better than their execution. It is certainly well to provide organists with easy pieces, as opening or middle voluntaries, not occupying more than two or three minutes each in performance; but in making his selections Dr. Spark ought to bear in mind the original intentions of the various composers, and these he sometimes appears to overlook altogether. In the two books now before us we find some very astonishing things. For example, at page 4 of Book 5 is given an "Andante grazioso" by Dussek, said to be "from the pianoforte works," and so it certainly is—a long way from them. It is a fragment; that is to say, the beginning and end of the Rondo from his Sonata for Piano in G (Op. 35, No. 2), which in the original is not an "Andante grazioso" at all, but a "Molto allegro." It is, to say the least of it, taking a great liberty thus to alter entirely the character of a composition. Again, in Book 6 we find a "Larghetto" by Weber, which is the sixth of his variations on "Vien qua, Dorina bella" detached from its context, and thus rendered meaningless, and with four bars (we presume from the pen of the editor) tacked on at the end! The last piece in this book, entitled an "Andante sostenuto," by Mendelssohn, is a preposterous concoction from the "Dix-sept variations Sérieuses," including the theme, the tenth and fourteenth variations, and the last few bars of the coda, which, being in their original form utterly unsuited for the organ, have been stretched upon the Procrustean bed of the editor till they are distorted almost beyond recognition. Many of the other pieces are not so badly treated as those we have named; but we are much surprised that a musician of Dr. Spark's standing in the profession should allow his name to be associated with proceedings so inartistic as those which we have pointed out.

Six Original Pieces for Harmonium or Organ, by Michael Watson. [C. Jefferys.]

By "organ" we presume Mr. Watson means "American organ," because these pieces, it may be said at once, are quite unsuited for the "King of Instruments." Moreover, Mr. Watson has so clear an idea of the capabilities of the harmonium that it would be an insult to his common sense to suppose him not to know that, while an organ piece may often be rendered effective on the harmonium, the converse will very seldom be the case if the specialties of the latter instrument have been properly taken into account by the composer.

Of musical literature for the harmonium the supply is very small. In most cases players have to content themselves either with pianoforte pieces or with those nondescript arrangements "for organ or harmonium" which, in attempting to serve both, become useless for either. We therefore cordially welcome Mr. Watson's Six Original

Pieces. They are written in the ordinary forms of modern drawing-room pieces, and make no pretensions to the classical. Without displaying any very decided originality, they are melodious and pleasing, while they are effective without undue difficulty. The treatment of the stops, also, which is carefully marked throughout, is judicious, and shows that Mr. Watson thoroughly understands the peculiarities of the instrument. We must also commend his wisdom in writing for only a moderate-sized harmonium (with four rows of vibrators), instead of relying for his effects on stops but rarely to be met with. In only one case do we differ from him. In the March (No. 5) he has directed the "Expression" stop to be put in when the "Grand Jeu" is drawn. This we think a mistake. We hold that the "Expression" should invariably be used, except when the harmonium is intended to imitate the passionless tone of the organ, which is not the case here. We recommend these pieces to harmonium players as a useful addition to their limited répertoire.

A Collection of Organ Pieces; composed by Charles Joseph Frost. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The present volume, containing 120 pages of large oblong folio, is precisely one of those publications which presents the most difficulty to a conscientious reviewer. On the one hand, there is so much sterling work in it, and so much care has evidently been expended upon it, that it would be not only cruel but really unjust to the author to condemn it; but on the other hand there is so little real individuality about it, and some of the twenty-four numbers of which it consists are so very dry, that one cannot unreservedly commend it. We are inclined to think that the fairest judgment we can pass upon the work is to express an opinion that Mr. Frost has very little to say, and says it very nicely. It is in the shorter numbers of the work that we consider him most successful, such, for instance, as the Prelude, p. 20, the Allegro maestoso, p. 31, or the Preludes, pp. 34 and 94; the longer and more elaborate pieces are too frequently very diffuse, the subject matter not being interesting enough to reconcile us to their length. This is especially the case with the Sonata in A minor, which occupies twenty-seven pages, several of the themes of which are decidedly pleasing, but which, as a whole, suffers terribly from prolixity. The volume, nevertheless, contains many numbers which organists will find useful as voluntaries.

Andante in A flat major for the Organ; composed by W. S. Hoyte. [Weekes and Co.]

This pleasing movement, though not of any striking originality, is likely to find favour with organists. It is smooth and flowing in character, and demands neither an unusual amount of execution in the player, nor an exceptionally large instrument for its proper performance. In its style it approximates more nearly to the better class of French organ compositions than to any other school. There is only one point in it which we do not like, the "false relation" at the end of the first line of page 3, the effect of which is to our mind decidedly unpleasant.

Joyous Thoughts. Scherzo for Piano, by Alice Hart. [Duff and Stewart.]

If this little sketch were at all difficult, the key, B flat minor, would frighten the majority of amateurs; but, although marked "Vivo," the passages will trip off easily enough, even when set in motion by only moderately trained fingers. The theme is attractive, and treated with musicianlike skill throughout; the subject in the tonic major, with the melody in the left hand, is excellent as a contrast; and praise is due for the absence of any unduly complicated harmonies. We think it a pity that the conventional arpeggios should have been so freely introduced in a piece which would have sufficiently suggested "joyous thoughts" without them; but we presume that they have their mercantile value. In kindness to the composer we may mention that nine out of ten amateurs will play A natural in the bass of the seventeenth bar, page 4.

Home, sweet Home. Transcription for the Pianoforte, by Aloys Hennes. [Enoch and Sons.]

WE should be very glad if composers would more accurately describe their works upon the title-pages. Thalberg does not term his Fantasia upon "Home, sweet home" a "Transcription;" and why then should Aloys Hennes so name a "Rêverie" or "Meditation" upon the same theme, more especially when the subject is not once given in its simple unadorned beauty? As an air with variations the piece should find a ready acceptance; for, although possessing no claim to originality of treatment, the passages are graceful and refined, lie easily under the hands, and are sufficiently sympathetic with the character of the melody to fall pleasantly on the ear. The fingering too will be found an assistance to amateurs, who, although not much advanced, may rest assured that they will encounter no formidable difficulties.

Gavotte in E minor, for the Pianoforte, by E. Silas. [Ashdown and Parry.]

JUDGING from this specimen, Mr. Silas seems to possess a very decided talent for the composition of the old dance-music; and although in the present day we are inundated with similar pieces, a Gavotte such as the one before us must be always welcome. It is something to say that the opening theme strikes us as being extremely original, and that the subject, in the tonic major, is not only refreshing by contrast, but very melodious and characteristic. The majority of the modern Gavottes, Bourrées, Sarabandes, &c., are so thoroughly conventional that Mr. Silas has a right to congratulate himself upon producing a composition which does not rely wholly upon its antique form as a recommendation.

Caprice à la Gavotte, pour le Pianoforte, par C. J. Duchemin. [B. Williams.]

THE admirers of the old dance-tunes, upon which some of our best composers have exercised their talents, are not likely to complain that the supply falls short of the demand. Reviewers, however, who are constantly called upon for their judgment upon these works, kindly as they may feel disposed, have a hard task before them; for where the family likeness is so strong it becomes somewhat perplexing to seize on any special characteristics upon which to comment. The composition before us is no exception to this rule. The form and spirit of the Gavotte have been well caught by the composer, the second subject, in the subdominant, being more tuneful even than the principal theme; but it would puzzle us to say that any point deserves more than the ordinary praise due to satisfactory workmanship. Being essentially a Gavotte—and a very simple and unpretending one too—we see no reason why it should be termed a "Caprice à la Gavotte."

Polonaise, for the Pianoforte, composed by Edward Hecht. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE composer of this Polonaise has already shown not only that he is an accomplished musician, but that he has thoroughly mastered the scholastic drudgery necessary to be passed through before aspiring to the position of a composer. But when the end has been attained, we care not for any display of the means by which it has been arrived at; and yet that the "Polonaise" form has been used in the composition before us as a peg upon which to exhibit specimens of the author's theoretical knowledge no unprejudiced person can doubt. We say this with less hesitation because we have awarded well-deserved praise to many of this composer's works, every one of which indicates a very decided creative talent, and we should be sorry indeed if he were to desert the path he has so successfully chosen. Advanced pianists will find some excellent practice in the "Polonaise," which has a well-marked principal theme; but a want of what musicians term "repose" will be felt both by player and listener which can scarcely be compensated for by the artistic workmanship displayed throughout the piece.

Four Album Leaves, for the Pianoforte, composed by R. F. Dale. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THESE four pianoforte sketches, although unequal in merit, show a commendable desire to escape from mere commonplace; but in attempting to be original the composer occasionally becomes merely eccentric. No. 1 we care less about than its companions; but No. 2, in spite of the wide skips, which would tax the powers of an amateur to play correctly, has much merit. No. 3, an Andante, in F minor, is cleverly written and melodious; but surely the manner in which the two hands occasionally jostle each other can scarcely be said to add to the beauty of the passages. In No. 4 we have a good specimen of Mr. Dale's power of writing freely for both hands, the passages being less laboured than many in the preceding numbers. These "Album Leaves" seem to prove that something more than graceful trifles may be expected from their author.

Sweet and Low. Song. Words by Alfred Tennyson, D.C.L.

I arise from dreams of thee. Song. Words by Percy B. Shelley.

A New Year's Burden. Song. Words by Dante Gabriel Rossetti.

Music composed by Florence A. Marshall.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

NONE but those whose business it is to make themselves acquainted with the various so-called "new" songs which are continually issuing from the press can have the least idea of the quantity of commonplace inanity and twaddle which in these effusions is mostly offered to the public. The general recipe for the manufacture of a new song is somewhat as follows: take a commonplace phrase of eight bars—if after the style of Balfé, so much the better; follow it by a second phrase, also of eight bars, modulating into the dominant; return to the original key, with an allusion to the sub-dominant, and conclude with another eight-bar phrase; accompany with well-worn arpeggios, and season to taste with Italian phrases, "con espressione," &c. It is no exaggeration to say that a large proportion of new songs are constructed on this model; our readers will therefore not be surprised that many which are sent to this journal for review are never noticed at all.

It is with the more pleasure that from time to time the reviewer is rewarded by the discovery of a few gems in the middle of the heaps of rubbish which it is his duty to peruse. Now and then he finds songs which do contain something fresh in their ideas, and which are written with true musical feeling. Such are the three songs now under notice, which we may say at once strike us as being very far above the average. We do not know whether the composer is an amateur; but if she be, she displays an amount of skill which very few amateurs possess. Excepting one passage of accompaniment in "I arise from dreams of thee," of which we shall speak presently, we find only highly finished workmanship, while the melodies throughout are graceful, pleasing, and for the most part free from reminiscences.

"Sweet and Low" contains the only exception to this remark. The rise from the third to the sixth of the scale (in the third and fourth bars of the melody) is identical with that in Mr. Barnby's setting of the same words; the harmony is also similar; but the resemblance is only for two notes, and is in all probability accidental. The whole song is very charming; the rocking figure of accompaniment in the left hand is well sustained, and the modulations are well managed. We especially like the changes of harmony on the word "sleep" (page 4, line 2) and the effect of the augmented common chord in the last bar of page 3, line 3.

"I arise from dreams of thee" pleases us as a whole even more than the song just noticed. We think it a pity that the composer has (in Italian fashion) given only one note to the first two syllables of the words; this, however, singers can easily alter. The middle portion (agitato) of this song is particularly good. There is one passage in the accompaniment (as mentioned above) that is clumsy and needs reconsideration:—

We would also ask whether in the last line of the last page, at the first bar, the lower G of the second minim in the bass is not a misprint for A? We mention these matters not captiously, but because the song is so very good as to deserve making as perfect as possible.

"A New Year's Burden," while perhaps the most original of the three songs, is, to our thinking, hardly so attractive as the other two. This, however, is simply a question of individual taste; and it is by no means impossible that some singers may prefer it to its two companions. In any case, it is excellent music. If these three songs are to be taken as fair specimens of what Mrs. Marshall can do, we shall be happy to meet with some more music from the same pen.

[E. J. Whateley writes to say that her tune in the "Christian Hymnal," with which we found fault in our number of last February, was an unauthorised and inaccurate arrangement, for which the editor was alone responsible. We gladly transfer our blame to the right quarter.—Ed. MUSICAL TIMES.]

FOREIGN NOTES.

THERE is but little of general interest to be recorded in these columns during this stagnant season of the year, when operatic establishments abroad are closed for the usual long vacation, and concert undertakings generally are more or less influenced by the elevated state of the thermometer in the choice of, and the artistic interest attaching to, their respective performances. There is no vacation, however, for the exigencies of modern journalism, and, notwithstanding the present scanty supply of special topics for the purpose of comment and criticism, the musical press tenaciously holds to the famous device of Galileo: "E pur si muove." Nor is this fact without its decided advantages. The period of comparative inactivity in matters musical offers a fit opportunity for instructive retrospective views upon the work accomplished in the course of the past campaign, while at the same time space is allotted to valuable contributions bearing upon the art for which during the height of the season no room could be found. Thus in the number of foreign journals received during the past month we find an unusual proportion of well-digested essays of the class referred to, which almost makes us wish to see the present "barren season" more protracted still, and which quite compensates for the mass of ephemeral criticism which a more active period necessarily carries in its sway. We shall not fail, when opportunity occurs, to communicate a translation of these articles to our readers.

Referring once more to the performances in connection with the recent meeting of the Allgemeine Deutsche Musik-Verein at Hanover, mention should be made of the representation, extending over four successive evenings, of Goethe's "Faust," with the incidental music by Lassen, a work which in its complete form had only once before been performed some time ago at Weimar. In view of the costly and ostentatious representations at Bayreuth last year of "Der Ring des Nibelungen," which likewise occupied four days, the tardy justice thus rendered to one of the greatest masterpieces of all ages becomes the more conspicuous. The German press is unanimous in its praise of the very artistic and liberal manner in which the drama was placed on the stage, presenting as it does, especially in its second part, a series of difficulties which would seem to be almost insurmountable. In estimating the importance of this event the fact should also be taken into consideration that from a financial point of view a representation of this kind must always remain a failure.

Franz Liszt, who has long since retired from the sphere of active virtuosi, has greatly added to the long list of his enthusiastic admirers by his exceptional appearance at the pianoforte, both on the occasion of the above meeting at Hanover and latterly also at Jena. The fascination which this unique artist exercised of old upon his audience seems to have increased rather than diminished, if we are to judge by the reports published in some of the German papers.

According to the Signale the members of the personnel of the opera at Graz are setting a good example. It appears that the receipts of this institution have of late shown a considerable falling off, in consequence of which the vocal artists engaged have unanimously decided to forego the payment of 30 per cent of their respective salaries in order to assist the proprietors in tiding over their present difficulties. The members of the orchestra are said to be as yet somewhat reluctant in adopting a similar course.

Mdlle. Biba, a charming young Hungarian singer, made her début towards the close of the season at the Royal Opera at Berlin, when, in the character of Aennchen, in "Der Freischütz," she created so favourable an impression that her services were at once secured for the coming season. The young artist is likely to become a great favourite with the Berlin public.

A German Operatic Company, under the direction of Herr Ferenczy, is just now engaged upon a tournee through Sweden and Norway. The company numbers forty-seven executive members, among which may be named Madame Sadler-Grün, known to London audiences through her co-operation at the recent Wagner concerts. To judge by the enthusiastic reception which the performance of "Der Freischütz" and other operas met with at Bergen, the venture is likely to prove a success both from an artistic and pecuniary point of view.

Preparations on a large scale are being made at the Munich Court Theatre for the performance in 1878 of the entire "Ring des Nibelungen." The first and second part of the Tetralogy have already been several times given at the Bavarian capital, and the contemplated representation of the complete work during next year will be preceded by the separate productions of "Siegfried" and "Götterdämmerung." Herr Wagner, after his recent stay at Ems for the purpose of recruiting his health, intends spending some weeks in Switzerland, where, says the Neue Berliner Musik-Zeitung, he will find the isolation necessary for the continuance of the work upon which he has been for some time engaged.

We read in the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik that Herr Chandon, the German bass singer, has been engaged for next season at Her Majesty's Theatre, with a view to his co-operation in the intended representation of several of Herr Wagner's opera-dramas.

A new opera from the pen of Flotow is expected shortly to make its appearance on the German stage. It is entitled "Die Musikanten," the authors of the libretto being MM. Genée and Zell.

During the past season fifty-two different operatic works were represented at the Court Theatre of Vienna. Among these Richard Wagner takes the lead with six operas and thirty-seven performances; very close upon the latter follows Meyerbeer, with likewise six operas and thirty-four representations; next ranks Verdi, with five operas and twenty-nine representations. Mozart obtained a hearing on only eleven occasions, Weber only on four.

The Vienna Fremdenblatt has recently published an interesting list of the many excellent vocal artists who have emanated from the school of the Viennese professor Madame Marchesi. Among these we notice the names of Gabrielle Krauss (the Paris prima donna), Madame Ilma di Murska, Mdles. d'Angeri and Smeroschi, Mdle. Etelka Gerster, and many others less familiar to the English public. Besides these executive artists, Madame Marchesi has educated a number of ladies who perpetuate her system by teaching, both in Vienna and elsewhere.

It will interest the admirers of Herr Wagner to know that a biography of the poet-composer, from the pen of Herr Glasenapp, has just been published by the firm of C. Maurer, of Leipzig. The work is comprised in two volumes, and contains, according to the Allgemeine Deutsche Musik-Zeitung, an abundance of interesting material, presented in an attractive and sympathetic form.

In the course of the recent periodical examinations of the pupils of the Royal Conservatorium of Leipzig, held as usual at the Gewandhaus, Mr. Oliver A. King—whose name has already been favourably introduced in these columns—gave a successful rendering of the first movement of one of his own compositions, a Concerto for pianoforte with orchestral accompaniment. The Neue Zeitschrift für Musik, while giving a most flattering notice of the performance, points out especially the lucidity of design and the artistic consciousness which throughout characterises the development of the movement in question—qualities which are not usually looked for in the first productions of a young composer.

In consequence of the serious illness of Madame Joachim, her husband was unfortunately obliged to decline definitely his assistance at the Cassel Festival, inaugurated some weeks ago in memory of Spohr.

Madame Trebelli has, we hear, been engaged for the coming season of Italian Opera at Vienna.

Madame Annette Essipoff, the celebrated pianiste, has just returned to St. Petersburg, after a visit, extending over several months, to the United States.

Among the artists who have accepted engagements for next season at the Russian capital are mentioned Mesdames Albani and Nilson, MM. Capoul and Masini.

Victor Massé's opera, "Paul et Virginie," which so quickly attained popularity with the Parisians since its first performance in November last, has been equally well received at its recent representation at the National Theatre of Pesth. Much praise is bestowed by the local press upon the impersonation of the rôle of Virginie on the part of Mlle. Bianca Donadio. M. Massé is at present at Bruxelles for the purpose of superintending the preliminary arrangements for the performance of his above-mentioned work, which is to take place next autumn at the Théâtre de la Monnaie of that town.

Among the operatic works already in active preparation for the coming campaign in Paris, the Revue et Gazette Musicale mentions the following: "La Clef d'Or" by M. Eug. Gautier, and "Gilles de Bretagne" by M. Kowalski, at the Théâtre-Lyrique; "Les Diamants de la Couronne" (in which Madame Lacombe-Duprez will make her début), and Nicolo Isouard's "Joconde," at the Opéra-Comique; and Rubinstein's "Néron," at the Théâtre-Italien. Glinka's "La Vie pour le Czar" will likewise be presented for the first time to a French audience during the season. Verdi has, it is stated, definitely refused to the Paris Grand-Opéra the right of performing his "Aida."

Le Ménestrel writes: "The prospects for the operatic season 1877-78 are anything but promising on the other side of the Alps. La Scala, at Milan, experiences the greatest difficulties in constituting a company worthy of its reputation, while the Theatres Fenice, at Venice, and Bellini, at Palermo, are confronted by the eventuality of not being able to open their doors at all. A similar fate, it is rumoured, awaits La Pergola, at Florence, and the Carlo-Felice, at Genoa. Surely this is nothing less than an invasion of the lyric Phylloxera all over Italy!"

Referring to the recent public examinations of the Milan Conservatoire, Il Trovatore draws attention to the fact that among the names of competitors in composition two only are Italian, viz. Bellini and Smareglia. The latter, a talented young pupil at the Conservatoire, exhibits such decided leanings to the modern German school as to give rise to the prophecy, on the part of Il Trovatore, that he will become the "Wagner of Italy."

A concert performance of Spontini's opera "Cortez" was held a few weeks ago by the Società Musicale at Rome, and was accompanied by good success. This was the first hearing obtained in Italy of the work of the Italian maestro, whose chief laurels were gained outside his native country. The libretto (originally in French) has been translated into Italian by Zanardini.

Dr. Philip Wackernagel—well known by his valuable contributions to literary history, and more especially by his "History of German Religious Song"—died at Dresden in June last at the age of seventy-seven.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* * * Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will greatly oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all Subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. - The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music pages are always stereotyped, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

AN AMATEUR.—An edition of the piece mentioned by our correspondent was published with the following title-page: "The Harmonious Blacksmith, a favourite air by Wagenseil, with variations by G. F. Handel, newly arranged for the piano, organ, or harp, by Richard Clark." In spite of this the origin of the air is still doubtful. There is no question however that Handel himself never called it "The Harmonious Blacksmith," and we have the authority of Clark for saying that Dr. Crotch saw in a book at Cambridge the melody, note for note, with the name of Wagenseil as composer.

PRECEPTOR.—If our correspondent be, as he signs himself, a "Preceptor," he should know that bars such as he quotes are often to be met with in the compositions of the best writers. The upper part is clearly in 2-4 time, and the lower part moves in the same time, by license, in two triplets. To play the melody and accompaniment together the hands must be perfectly independent. It is by no means the custom in modern music to write 3 over every triplet.

ALF. A. BANCROFT.—Jean-Baptiste Senaillé was born in Paris in 1687, and died in the same city in 1719. Five books of Sonatas for violin, with a figured bass, were published in Paris. He studied in Italy. Our correspondent's book of Sonatas is probably a reprint of the French edition.

J. A. H.—Marburg's work on Fugue is published in German by Peters, of Leipzig. We do not know whether it has been translated into English.

J. STOTT.—We should find our correspondent's notation somewhat difficult to print, and must reserve giving publicity to his invention, therefore, until it comes before us for review.

MUSIC STUDENT.—Write, for information on the subject, to the College.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this Summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

BUXTON.—Mr. Julian Adams gave his first special Concert on Thursday evening, the 5th ult., in the Concert Hall. The performance of Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto by Miss Bertha Broussil, a duet with Mr. Julian Adams, and a quintet, "Serenade," Mx. Lax (flute), M. Maginel (oboe), Mr. Dowling (clarinet), M. Tanguy (French horn), and M. Lalande (bassoon), were features in the programme. Miss Catherine Penna and Mr. J. W. Turner were the vocalists, both of whom were highly successful.

CHATHAM.—The completion of a new organ for St. John's Church was celebrated on Saturday and Sunday, the 7th and 8th ult., with special services, which attracted large congregations. The builders of the instrument are Messrs. Bevington and Sons, and certainly the parishioners of St. John's may congratulate themselves upon the possession of an excellent specimen of a church organ, the tone, when under the influence of the milder stops, and also when its full power is brought forth, being extremely fine. Dr. J. F. Bridge (organist of Westminster Abbey) presided at the instrument on Saturday, and Mr. S. M. Heckford and the Rev. W. H. Nutter on Sunday morning and evening respectively. The collections at the opening services amounted to £40 is. 5d., which, with some donations since, will make up about £500.

CHERTSEY, SURREY.—By the kindness of Lady Holland the members of the Colbrook Choral Class, numbering forty voices, paid their annual visit to St. Ann's Hill on Thursday, the 19th ult. A selection of sacred and secular music was performed in the open air, under the direction of Mr. R. Ratcliff.

COVENTRY.—On Tuesday, the 17th ult., the magnificent Church of St. John Baptist was reopened, after nearly two years' thorough restoration by Sir Gilbert Scott at a cost of £5,000. Sermons were preached, at Matins by the Lord Bishop of Worcester, and at Evensong by Dr. Temple, of Leeds. The prayers were intoned by the Rev.—Simms, of Haymills, Birmingham. The musical portions of the services were under the direction of, and accompanied by, Mr. J. Finch Thorne, the Organist and Director of the Choir. The following were the principal items: Te Deum (Dr. Dykes in F); Anthems, "Oh how amiable" (Barnby) and "Glorious is Thy name" (Twelfth Mass, Mozart); Offertory Sentences (W. H. Monk), Nicene Creed, Sanctus, Gloria in excelsis, &c. (Marbeck), all of which, together with the Processional and Recessional Hymns, special Psalms, &c., were most satisfactorily rendered by Mr. Thorne's newly formed but excellent choir. At the full choral celebration there was a large number of communicants, including all the senior members of the choir. The offertories amounted to £254; and the choir cassocks and surplices were the gifts of two ladies of the congregation.

HANLEY.—A Brass Band Contest took place at the Finney Gardens, on the 16th ult. The first prize (£20) was awarded to the Kingston Mills Band; the second (£15) to the Linthwaite Band; and the third (£10) to the Kidsgrove Band. The cornet prizes were awarded to Mr. Monks, of the Kingston Mills Band, first prize; and Mr. Hammond, of Wednesbury, second. Mr. T. Taylor (Kingston Mills) took the first prize in the euphonium competition; and Mr. D. Caton (Kidsgrove) the second. The decision of the judges was received with great applause.

HIGHAM FERRERS.—The new organ, built by Messrs. Foster and Andrews, of Hull, was opened in the Wesleyan Chapel, on Tuesday, the 17th ult., by Mr. W. J. Lamb. Sermons were preached by the Revs. H. Ayston and — Gould, of London. The anthems, "Behold how good and joyful" and "Oh taste and see" (Goss), were well sung by the choir. The chapel was crowded in the evening. The organ contains two manuals and pedal organ; total number of stops, sixteen. At the conclusion of each service Mr. Lamb gave an Organ Recital, which was much admired. The collections were highly satisfactory.

KELLS.—The seventh Festival of the Meath Diocesan Church Choral Association was held on the 3rd ult. in the Parish Church, when twelve choirs, numbering 120 voices, were assembled. Mr. W. H. Gater, Mus. Bac., Lic. Mus., choirmaster to the Association, presided at the organ. The music included Garrett's Anthem "The Lord is loving," Hopkins's Te Deum in G, chants by Macfarren, Fussell, and Crosthwaite, and three hymns from the (Irish) Church Hymnal. The singing of the united choirs was very creditable. The sermon was preached by the Right Hon. and Most Rev. Lord Plunkett, Bishop of Meath.

LEEDS.—On Sunday, the 1st ult., a large congregation assembled in Salem Chapel, Hunslet Lane, to hear a Service of Sacred Song by the Salem Choir. The selection included "Hear my prayer," "Judge me, O God," "As the hart pants" (Mendelssohn), "Oh, loving peace," "Sing unto God" (Handel), "Benedictus" (Weber's Mass in G), "Oh, be joyful in God" (Smart), "Leave us not" (Stainer), "Oh, Lord, how manifold" (Barnby), "God be merciful unto us" (Costa), and the "Hallelujah" from Beethoven's Mount of Olives. The choir was highly augmented by several friends from the Madrigal and Philharmonic Societies, and numbered about sixty voices. The choruses went well, being given with excellent precision and taste. The solos were entrusted to Miss Jenny Winkworth, Madame Galli, Mr. T. Thompson, and Mr. J. Burniston, all of whom were highly effective. Mr. W. Toothill was an efficient Conductor, and Mr. J. Wilkinson presided at the organ.

MANCHESTER.—Mr. Horton C. Allison was presented, on the 23rd ult., with a testimonial consisting of a Cambridge University hood appropriate to his degree, accompanied by a handsomely illuminated address as follows, viz., "Presented to Horton C. Allison, Mus. B., Cantab., with a Bachelor's Hood, on behalf of his Pupils, in commemoration of his taking his Degree as Bachelor of Music at the University of Cambridge, and as a recognition of the pleasant and efficient manner in which he has imparted instruction during the long period of his engagement at Oakleigh, Manchester, in teaching Harmony, Vocal and Pianoforte Music. (Signed) A. Delhové, Ch. Delhové (Principals), Higher Broughton, Manchester, July 23, 1877."

MELBOURNE.—A new Society has been formed for the performance of works of a strictly classical nature, instrumental and vocal. The prospectus for this year includes Elijah, Euterpe, Israel in Egypt, Beethoven's Choral Symphony, and Macfarren's St. John the Baptist. Mr. J. Summers (late Conductor of the Philharmonic Society) has been appointed Conductor. At the Concert at the Town Hall, and also at that of the Metropolitan Liedertafel, at the Athenæum, the singing of Miss Christian is spoken of in the highest terms, the dramatic feeling she threw into the solo "O mio Fernando," from La Favorita, suggesting the inquiry why she does not make her appearance at once upon the operatic stage. With her excellent voice, perfect culture, and power of passionate expression, there could be little doubt of her success.

NORTH BERWICK, N.B.—On Saturday, the 14th ult., Mr. Frank Bates gave an Organ Recital in S. Baldrea's Church, which was attended by a large number of residents and visitors of this fashionable watering-place.

RUGBY.—A successful Concert was given on June 28, in aid of the Parish Church Rebuilding Fund, by Miss Emily M. Lawrence, assisted by Miss Ada Patterson, Miss Orridge (Gold Medalist, R.A.M.) and Mr. H. Seligmann. The encores were numerous, the audience becoming especially enthusiastic on hearing "Gli angeli d'Inferno" from Mozart's Il Flauto Magico, in which Miss Patterson's sympathetic voice and exceptional compass were displayed to great advantage.

ST. PETER'S, THANET.—The first Festival of the Parochial Choirs of this neighbourhood was held on Tuesday evening, the 17th ult., and was in all respects most successful. The Choirs of St. John's (Margate), St. Peter's, and Broadstairs entered the church in procession, singing the hymn "Onward, Christian soldiers." Prayers were intoned by the Rev. Henry J. Wardell, and the sermon, a short and able defence of choral service, was preached by the Rev. W. Benham, vicar of Margate. The anthems were Handel's "And the glory of the Lord" and the "Hallelujah chorus." The hymns and chants were admirably sung, accompanied by Mr. Pearce, the organist; Mr. Lott, Mus. Bac., conducted.

SHREWSBURY.—On the 6th ult. a very successful Concert was given by the Choir of the Royal Grammar Schools. The concert was opened by Bach's Fugue on S. Ann's Tune on the organ. The principal sacred pieces were "Music spread thy voice around" (Solomon), "Awake the ardour of thy breast" (Deborah), and "To arms, to arms" (Belshazzar). The overture to the second part was Auber's L'Enfant Prodigue, which was effectively performed by a large orchestra. The choruses were accurately sung by a well-trained choir, under the direction of Mr. W. Hay.

SLOUGH.—A Concert, under the patronage of H.R.H. the Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, was given in the Boys' Schoolroom of the British Orphan Asylum on Thursday, the 5th ult., in aid of the fund now being raised to enlarge the parish church. An excellent programme was, for the most part, carried out by some distinguished amateur performers, assisted in the vocal department by Miss Adela Vernon and Miss Julia Wigan, and in the instrumental by Mr. Aylward (violinello). The part-singing was exceedingly good, the "Happiest land," "Queen of the night" (Smart), and the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin being much admired and loudly applauded. Miss Adela Vernon, though suffering from a severe cold, was very successful in "Care compagne" and the air "Come per me sereno." Miss Julia Wigan sang with great care and taste Verdi's "Ernani involami" which won a hearty encore. The instrumental pieces were executed by the Rev. C. J. G. Smith (piano), Mr. Donkin (violin), and Mr. Aylward (violinello). Mrs. Ellen Day ably accompanied on the piano.

SUNDERLAND.—At a meeting of the Committee of the Philharmonic Society, on June 30, an ivory baton beautifully mounted with gold, and a purse containing 50 guineas, were presented to Mr. Angelo Forrest, the Conductor of the Society, on the occasion of his marriage. In the absence of the Mayor of Sunderland, in consequence of a severe domestic bereavement, the presentation was made by Mr. M. Wiener, J.P., who said that 100 persons had voluntarily subscribed towards the testimonial. Mr. Forrest, in acknowledging the gift, assured the members that he would continue to use his best efforts to promote the success and prosperity of the Philharmonic Society.

TENBURY.—The Musical Society gave its first Concert of the season on June 28, which was in every respect a great success. The first part of the programme consisted of selections from Weber's Oberon. Mr. Charles Wade sang the tenor music in his well-known artistic style. The other solos were taken by members of the Society. Haydn's Symphony in D (No. 4) and a selection from Wagner's Tannhäuser were the principal features in the second part. The precision of attack in the choruses was beyond all praise, and must have been highly gratifying to the Society's Conductor, the Rev. J. Hampton.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. R. Lewis Frost to St. Saviour's, Dalston. — Mr. T. Capel Hullett, Organist and Choirmaster to All Saints' Church, Belvedere, Kent. — Mr. Charles Trew, Choirmaster to All Souls', Langham Place, W. — Mr. J. Edmond P. Aldous to Central Presbyterian Church, Hamilton, Canada. — Mr. Horton Corbett to Christ Church, Deptford. — Mr. Geo. Harwood to the Green Lanes Wesleyan Chapel, Stoke Newington.

CHOIR APPOINTMENT.—Mr. R. J. Clark (alto) to the Chapel Royal, Windsor.

OBITUARY.

On the 1st ult., at 5, North Road, Clapham Park, EMILY C. HENSHAW, aged 79, wife of W. Henshaw, Esq., Mus. Doc., fifty years organist of Durham Cathedral.

CONTENTS.

The London Musical Season	369
The Tonal Fugue	371
A Sketch of the History of Music-printing, from the Fifteenth to the Nineteenth Century	375
The Decadence of Musical Journalism	378
Occasional Notes	379
The Caxton Celebration	380
Ye shall dwell in the Land. Anthem. By Dr. Stainer	381
The Handel Festival—Her Majesty's Theatre	389
Royal Italian Opera—Philharmonic Society—Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir—Royal Academy of Music	390
Special Service of the Choir Benevolent Fund	391
Paragraphs	391
Reviews	393
Foreign Notes	397
Brief Summary of Country News	398
Organ Appointments, &c. &c.	399

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

PAUER, ERNST.—The Art of Pianoforte Playing (Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers). 2s.

—MUSICAL FORMS (Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers). 1s.

BEETHOVEN.—"Mount of Olives." An Oratorio. Edited and the Pianoforte Accompaniment revised by EBENEZER PROUT. The English version newly translated and adapted by Rev. J. TROUTBECK. 8vo. Paper covers, 1s.; paper boards, 1s. 6d.; scarlet cloth, 2s. 6d.

BROWN, A. H.—Missa Quinti Toni. A Plain Chant Service for the Holy Communion. Post 8vo, 3d. Folio, with Organ Accompaniment, 2s.

MARTIN, G. C., Mus. Bac.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis (in A), composed for the Festival of Sion College Choral Union, Nov. 6, 1877. 8vo, 6d.

PEACE, A. L.—Morning and Evening Service, together with the Office for the Holy Communion (in D). 8vo, 1s. 6d. Communion Service separately, 6d.

PEARSON, HENRY.—Nine Responses, Three Sanctuses, and Twenty-one Chants. 8vo, 6d.

POPHAM, REV. V. W.—The Offerory Sentences, taken from the Gospels. 8vo, 6d.

CRAMENT, J. MAUDE.—Six Anthems for the Great Church Festivals and other special occasions. 8vo, 5s.

HANCOCK, CHARLES, Mus. Bac., Oxon.—"In the beginning was the Word." Anthem. 8vo, 6d.

LOMAS, GEO., Mus. Bac., Oxon.—"Whoso dwelleth under the defence of the most High." Anthem, composed for the Commemoration Festival, 1877, at St. Michael's Church, Hulme, Manchester. 8vo, 6d.

LOWE, ALBERT.—"The Earth is the Lord's." A short, easy, full Anthem for Harvest Festivals. 8vo, 3d.

PROUT, EBENEZER.—"Happy is the man that findeth wisdom." Anthem, composed for the Annual Festival of the London Church Choir Association. 8vo, 8d.

ANDERSON, ROBERT.—Songs of Zion. No. 45. "Songs of praise the Angels sang." 8vo, 1d.

CORNWALL, CHANNON.—Songs of the Church. Favourite Hymns set to Music, chiefly by modern Composers. Part V. 8vo, 4d.

HUSBAND, REV. EDWARD.—Supplemental Tunes to "Hymns Ancient and Modern," with an Appendix. Part I. 8vo, 1s. 6d.

GAUL, ALFRED R.—"Song and Melody, awake!" Choral Song for Unaccompanied Singing. No. 5, Op. 21. 8vo, 4d.

GAUL, ALFRED R.—"Ruth." Sacred Song. No. 2, Op. 25. 1s. 6d.

JERVIS, ST. VINCENT.—Songs. Two volumes. 8vo. Paper covers, 5s. each.

LANGLEY, GEORGE.—"Helen." Song. 2s.

MACLEAN, C. G.—"Le Rendezvous." Song. The words written by Alice Dumont. 2s.

MACKENZIE, A. C.—"In our boat." Song, with Violin or Violoncello and Pianoforte Accompaniment. Op. 12. The poetry by Miss Muloch. 2s.

BOUCHER, J. B.—"Flora." Grand March for Piano. 2s.

ASPA, R.—Fifty Short Pedal Exercises and Studies on some Fugues by Bach, for the Organ. 2s. 6d.

WESTBROOK, W. J.—The Young Organist. A Collection of pieces of moderate difficulty transcribed for the Organ. No. 18. 1s. 6d. "The Pilgrim's Song" (Mendelssohn). Romance from a Sonata (B. Tours). "Ave Maria," Motett (S. Neukomm). "O thou afflicted," "St. Peter" (Sir J. Benedict). Moderato (J. G. Werner).

—No. 19. 1s. 6d. "O love the Lord" (A. Sullivan). "Send your hearts" (J. B. Calkin). March of Pilgrims, "The Crusaders" (N. W. Gade). Slow Movement from Twelve Sonatas (J. Bononcini).

—No. 20. 1s. 6d. "Holy, holy" (Handel). "Wanderer's Night-song" (Rubinstein). Larghetto, Sonata 11, Op. 9 (Cramer). "O Saviour of the World" (Sir J. Goss). Slow Movement (J. B. Cramer).

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MADAME PAULINE GRAYSTON (Soprano). Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Concerts, &c. For terms address, 56, Lofthouse Place, Leeds.

Just published, price 2s. 6d.,

MUSIC IN THE HOUSE,

BY JOHN HULLAH,

Being Vol. III. of the "ART AT HOME SERIES." With illustrations. Crown 8vo.

MACMILLAN and Co., London.

8vo, Price Sixpence. Just published,

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS

IN THE KEY OF G MAJOR,

Composed expressly for the Choir of St. Paul's Cathedral,

BY CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

Benedictus, to complete Morning Service in G major, price 4d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE YORKSHIRE CONCERT PARTY.—

Madame Pauline Grayston, Soprano; Miss Emily Empsall, Contralto; Mr. J. Wright, Tenor; Mr. H. Rickard, Bass; Mr. William Clark, Accompanist.

Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Concerts, &c. For terms, full party or otherwise, address Mr. C. G. Taylor, 56, Lofthouse Place, Leeds.

First-class Agents wanted for London, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales.

LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT,

FUGUE, &c., given by post. Musical compositions revised and corrected, and candidates prepared for examinations by E. W. Healey, Mus. Bac., Oxon., 78, Coltman Street, Hull.

A LADY (Prof. Mus.), powerful voice, first-class reader, desires an ENGAGEMENT as LEADER of Choir or Deputy-Organist in a Church. She also requires teaching in schools and families. Acquirements: pianoforte, harp, and singing. First-class references. M. P., 3, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Square, W.C.

A WELL-KNOWN PIANISTE, Pupil of Sir J. Benedict, is at liberty during August and September to join a select Concert Party (répertoire, 30 memory pieces). Good accompanist. Performed at Crystal Palace, &c. L., 75, Loughborough Park, Brixton, S.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, just disengaged, desires a RE-ENGAGEMENT in or near London. £40. Excellent references. R. G., 26, Marlborough Road, S.W.

WANTED, a respectable Young Man, as PIANOFORTE TUNER, &c. He must be able to give thoroughly satisfactory references. Apply, stating salary required, to R., care of Messrs. Novello and Co.

FOR SALE, MUSIC and PIANOFORTE BUSINESS in the Western Counties, situated in a thriving commercial and market town. Good Tuning Connection and opening for a professor. Stock, goodwill, &c., about £1,000. Address, H., Messrs. Novello and Co.

MUSIC BUSINESS to be SOLD in the Midland Counties. Brings £970 per annum. Will be parted with for half its value. First-class position and good premises. A. B., Dorset House, Milton Street, Dorset Square, London.

ORGAN, good tone and condition, equal to new, handsome case, two manuals, pedals, and 15 stops, by JOSEPH WALKER. This is really a fine instrument and cheap; £100. At Stockwell Green Congregational Chapel. Keys and particulars on the premises.

PEDAL HARMONIUM for SALE, by BAUER, nearly new. Two stops, 29 pedal notes. In walnut case. Will be sold a bargain. B., 45, Regent Street, Leamington.

A 70-GUINEA Alexandre HARMONIUM in rosewood, 2 manuals, 14 stops, percussion, Venetian swell. Quite new. Price 48 guineas. G., 23, Victoria Road, Kilburn, N.W.

HARMONIUM for SALE; two manuals, 18 stops, percussion action, and knee swell, suitable for a Chapel or Concert Room. Cost 72 guineas. Address, V. E. H., Messrs. Novello and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

Now ready. Third Thousand.

THE celebrated HARVEST HYMN, "NOW THAT THE HARVEST" Words by E. H. HASKINS, M.A. Music by H. G. TREMBATH, Mus. Bac., Oxon. 2d. each; 1s. 6d. per doz. Words only, 8d. per 100.

WEEKES and Co., 16, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

HANDELS ORATORIO
THE MESSIAH

Arranged for Pianoforte Solo

By BERTHOLD TOURS.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

SHORT PIECES FOR THE ORGAN

EDITED AND ARRANGED BY

WILLIAM SPARK, Mus. Doc.,

Organist of the Town Hall, Leeds.

CONTENTS OF BOOK I.

PRAYER	ARCADELT.
ANDANTINO, D major	BATISTE.
LARGHETTO	SPOHR.
ALLA MARCIA, D major	CHOPIN.
ANDANTINO, F major	W. SPARK.
ANDANTE, C major	W. H. NICHOLS.

CONTENTS OF BOOK II.

VOLUNTARY	J. S. BACH.
ADAGIO	LOUIS SPOHR.
ANDANTINO	D. HEMINGWAY.
MARCH IN "SCIPIO"	HANDEL.
PRELUDE	E. W. PREVOST.

CONTENTS OF BOOK III.

ADAGIO RELIGIOSO, "HYMN OF PRAISE"	MENDELSSOHN.
ADAGIO, F major	PLEYEL.
SARABANDE, D minor	J. S. BACH.
GAVOTTE, D major	J. S. BACH.
PRELUDE	G. W. HEALEY.

CONTENTS OF BOOK IV.

ANDANTE, "JULIUS CÆSAR"	HANDEL.
PRAYER, LARGHETTO MAESTOSO	BELLINI.
MARCIA RELIGIOSA	GLUCK.
ANDANTE CANTABILE, TRIO, C minor	BEETHOVEN.
PRELUDE	AUGUST WILHELM BACH.

CONTENTS OF BOOK V.

MODERATO and ALLEGRO, from the 7th Concerto	CORELLI.
ANDANTE GRAZIOSO	DUSSEK.
ANDANTE, from the Concerto in G minor	MENDELSSOHN.
ANDANTE, from Op. 83	STEPHEN HELLER.
"BUT THOU DIDST NOT LEAVE"	HANDEL.

CONTENTS OF BOOK VI.

MARCH, from the Second Set of Sonatas	HANDEL.
PRELUDE	GEHBARDI.
ANDANTE MOLTO CANTABILE, from Sonata, Op. 109	BEETHOVEN.
LARGHETTO	WEBER.
ANDANTE SOSTENUTO	MENDELSSOHN.

Price of each Book, Four Shillings.

LONDON :

ASHDOWN & PARRY,
HANOVER SQUARE.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

Just Published.

NEW PART-SONGS, MADRIGALS, &c.,

BY

R. L. PEARSALL.

COLLEGIATE SERIES.

No.
68.	Part-Song	... A lad and lassie. S.A.T.B.	2d.
70.	Part-Song	... True love, to-day I must away	2d.
64.	Madrigal	... When old King Cole	3d.
54.	Madrigal	... My bonnie lass, she smileth	3d.
67.	Glee	... Glorious Apollo	2d.
73.	Part-Song	... Was there not a look of fondness	2d.
55.	Part-Song	... Robin Hood	3d.
65.	Glee	... King Charles	3d.
72.	Part-Song	... My mother loves me not	2d.
69.	Part-Song	... Spring brings flow'rets fair	2d.
71.	Part-Song	... 'Twas a trumpet's pealing sound	3d.
52.	Ballad Dialogue	... Who kill'd Cock Robin? 8th Edition	3d.
		(Folio, illustrated, 3s.)
50.	Part-Song	... Brave Lord Willoughby	5th 3d.
25.	Madrigal	... Here on the waters	4th " 4d.
70.	Part-Song	... Her eyes the glow-worm	3rd " 3d.
43.	Student's Song	... The three friends. S.A.T.B.	4th " 3d.
5.	Student's Song	... " T.T.B.B.	4th " 3d.
60.	Madrigal	... Down by a river straying	2nd " 4d.
61.	Madrigal	... Hie away! o'er bank and brae	2nd " 4d.
58.	Glee	... Flow, limpid stream. A.T.B.B.	3d.
51.	Student's Song	... Gaudeamus igitur	6th Edition 3d.
74.	Part-Song	... Springs she not as light as air	2d.
63.	Part-Song	... My enemies they do increase	3d.
62.	Part-Song	... 'Tis raining!	3d.
59.	Part-Song	... The Poacher's Song	3d.
56.	Market Chorus	... The Villagers (with Pianoforte, Flute, or Violin Accompaniment), Chorus of Peasants, Market Women, Swiss Jodel, &c.	4d.

DR. S. S. WESLEY.

3.	Part-Song	... The Mermaid. S.A.T.B.	3rd Edition 4d.
6.	Part-Song	... Arising from the deep. S.A.T.B.	2nd " 4d.
2.	Chorus	... The praise of music (Double Choir).	2nd " 4d.
18.	Anthem	... O how amiable!	3rd " 4d.
19.	Anthem	... Wherewithal shall a young man	2nd " 4d.
40.	Anthem	... The Lord is my Shepherd	2nd " 4d.
14.	Anthem	... Let us now praise famous men.	4th " 4d.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

8.	Part-Song	... Swift the shades of eve	6th " 3d.
12.	Part-Song	... The Vikings and the north wind	3rd " 3d.
10.	Part-Song	... The eagle	2nd " 3d.
42.	Anthem	... O praise the Lord	3d.
43.	Anthem	... I waited patiently	3d.

DULCIANA.

13.	National Anth.	... God save the Queen	20th Edition 2d.
		(With Organ Accompaniment.)
7.	Part-Song	... Auld lang syne	25th " 3d.

SCHUMANN.

26.	Solo and Chorus	... Sleep on, in visions	4th " 3d.
11.	Solo and Chorus	... Vesture pure and scatheless	3rd " 3d.
29.	Trio (s.s.a.)	... Magna peccatrix	3d.
30.	Trio (s.s.a.)	... The midnight hags	3d.

J. P. KNIGHT.

1.	Madrigal	... Canst thou say me nay?	3rd Edition 3d.
----	----------	----------------------------	-----------------

NEW BALLADS.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

THE CATHEDRAL CHOIR (with Chorus)	4s.
-----------------------------------	-----

R. L. PEARSALL.

DRUMMING AND FIFING	3s.
BRAVE LORD WILLOUGHBY	3s.
WHO KILL'D COCK ROBIN?	3s.

Just Published.

CONSECUTIVE FIFTHS AND OCTAVES
IN COUNTERPOINT

AN ESSAY, BY R. L. PEARSALL.

Price 2s.; post-free, 2s. 2d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.
Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

THE HYMNARY

A BOOK OF CHURCH SONG.

THE FOLLOWING EDITIONS ARE NOW READY:—

No.				s. d.
1.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Bourgeois Antique. Cloth, red edges	1 0
2.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique. Double Columns. Cloth, red edges	0 6
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique. Double Columns. Limp cloth	0 4
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique. Double Columns. Paper covers	0 3
3.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth	4 0
4.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	5 0
5.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth	3 0
6.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	4 0
7.	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo	1 6
"	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo, cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	2 0
8.	Hymns with Tunes.	Small post 8vo.	to bind with the Pearl 8vo Prayer Book. Cloth	2 6
9.	Hymns with Tunes.	Ditto.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	3 0
10.	Hymns with Tunes.	Large type, Imperial 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	10 6

Selections of Hymns with Tunes for Advent, Christmas, Easter and Harvest, price One Penny each.

A Discount of 20 per Cent will be allowed to the Clergy, for Cash, when not less than six copies of one edition are taken.

Applications for permission to print the Hymns and Tunes for Choral Festivals should be addressed to the Publishers.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE NEW HYMNAL.

THE SONG OF PRAISE, By Lady VICTORIA EVANS-FREKE. Being a New and Enlarged Edition of the Rev. EDWARD HARLAND'S CHURCH PSALTER AND HYMNAL, including a large number of Original Tunes written by the most eminent Church musicians of the day expressly for this work. Prices as follow:—

Large Organ Edition	8 6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, with blank music paper at the end, gilt lettered...	10 6
Small Music Edition	3 6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, gilt lettered	4 6
Words only	1 2
Ditto, red edges, gilt	1 6

Liberal Terms to the Clergy.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, THE BROADWAY, LUDGATE.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK, containing 258

Tunes and 85 Chants.
No 1. Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 6d.
" 2. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 3. Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 6d.
" 4. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	2s. 6d.

About 250,000 copies have already been sold.

Now Ready.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK (Second Series),

containing 298 Tunes and 74 Chants.
No. 5. Limp cloth	2s. 6d.
" 6. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 7. Limp cloth	2s. 6d.
" 8. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	2s. 6d.

First and Second Series Bound together.

No. 9. Limp cloth	4s. 6d.
" 10. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	6s. 6d.
" 12. Tonic Sol-fa, cloth	3s. 6d.

Now Ready.

SMALL EDITION OF THE COMPLETE WORK.

715 Tunes and Chants, providing for nearly 200 Varieties of Metre.

No. 11. Cloth	3s. 6d.
---------------	---------

Each Edition may be had in Superior Binding.

Communications and inquiries as to Copyrights, and also as to supplies of this work at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; Bristol: W. and F. Morgan; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

THE LONDON TUNE-BOOK. A Companion

for all Hymnals. Cloth, 3s.; red edges, 3s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Enlarged Edition.

TUNES, NEW AND OLD; comprising all the Metres in the Wesleyan Hymn-Book. Also, Chants, Responses, and Doxologies. Compiled by JOHN DOBSON; and for the most part revised or rearranged by HENRY JOHN GAUNTLETT, Mus. Doc.; JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; and SAMUEL REAY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, and 80 and 81, Queen Street. Sold also at 66, Paternoster Row. Prices: plain cloth, 3s. 6d.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 5s. TONIC SOL-FA EDITION: plain cloth, 2s.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 3s.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN; containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE BURNLEY TUNE-BOOK.—NOTICE.—

An ADDENDA of about 200 Peculiar Metre and other Tunes will shortly be added, and some of the choicest original compositions will be provided for nearly every known metre. MSS. received, but only those will be answered that are accepted.

THE MISSIONARY MANUAL TUNE-BOOK.

Compiled and Edited by Sir JAMES ERASMUS PHILLIPS, Bart., M.A., Prebendary of Sarum, Vicar of Warminster, and Proctor in Convocation, and WILLIAM VINCENT, M.A., Rector of Postwick, Norfolk. Paper covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, 2s.

THE MISSIONARY MANUAL OF HYMNS AND PRAYERS.

Price 2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Sixth Edition, obl. 4to, cloth, 7s.

PARR'S CHURCH PSALMODY, containing 392 Tunes, in 100 Metres, 301 Chants, various Responses, &c., with Memoirs of the Composers and Histories of the Pieces, giving an amount of information nowhere else to be found.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWELVE NEW TUNES to FAVOURITE

HYMNS, from "Ancient and Modern." Dedicated to Rev. G. Hyde-Smith, Rector of Wickhambreux. Post-free, 1s. E. West, Wickhambreux, Wingham, E. Kent.

DEDICATED TO SIR MICHAEL COSTA.

Just published. Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

SUPPLEMENTAL TUNES to "HYMNS

ANCIENT AND MODERN." Part I., edited by the Rev. E. HUSBAND, containing 29 tunes by the Rev. C. J. Ridsdale, Dr. Gauntlett, W. S. Hoyte, W. Ardley, Rev. E. Husband, &c.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Prices: (A), 1s. 4d., limp cloth; (B), 1s. 6d., cloth boards.

ALL SAINTS' PSALTER, Pointed by the Rev.

C. A. STEVENS, M.A., Vicar of All Saints', Blackheath. Sold at the NATIONAL SOCIETY'S Depository, The Sanctuary, Westminster. Reduced prices to members and the clergy.

THE REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S

"SUPPLEMENTAL HYMN AND TUNE BOOK" (4th Edition) may be had of the publishers, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. Quarto post, large type and beautifully bound in cloth, price 6s. 6d.; on toned paper, extra thick, 10s. 6d.

"MY SPIRIT LONGS FOR THEE." Hymn,

set to Music by JOHN NAYLOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon., together with five other original Hymn-Tunes, including "Rock of ages," for men's voices only. Price 4d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

HYMN-TUNES, composed by ROBERT BROWN-

BORTHWICK, Vicar of All Saints', Scarborough. Elegantly bound in scarlet cloth, price 2s. 6d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S SERIES OF

MODERN HYMN-TUNES, KYRIES, &c. This Series embraces original Tunes and Kyries by some of the best living composers of Church Music, and may be had in separate numbers from 3d. and 6d. each. Novello, Ewer and Co.

"A capitally arranged and really useful little work."—Musical Standard.

"A valuable book; will be found of essential service to music-teachers."—Musical World.

"Is alike useful and practical; a copy should be in the hands of every pupil."—Public Opinion.

MUSIC PUPIL'S REGISTER. By JACOB

BRADFORD, Mus. B., Oxon.; L. Mus., Trin. Coll., Lond. Specimen copy, twelve stamps. Address, Secretary, South London Musical Training College, S. James's, Hatcham, S.E.

WENTWORTH PHILLIPSON'S "GUIDE TO

YOUNG PIANOFORTE TEACHERS AND STUDENTS," 2s.; by post, 26 stamps. Czerny, 349, Oxford Street, W.

BAKER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR.

Easy and very plain instructions. Adapted for Schools and General Teaching Purposes. London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row or, post-free, 3s., of G. Baker, Stamp Office Place, Wakefield.

Third Edition, enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s. 6d. paper covers, 3s. 9d. cloth lettered.

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS, Single and Double, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This work contains nearly 400 Chants; which are appropriated to "Venite exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page and affording several Series suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter, from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS. Set to Music by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c.

For general or Festival use; for male voices and four-part Chorus, with Organ accompaniment, ad lib. Price 3d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK.

Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 1s.; cloth, 2s. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Oxford: PARKER.

Seventh Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK, edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d.

Large edition, cloth, 4s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

OUSELEY AND MONK'S PSALTER AND CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authenticated by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 24mo, without chants, 9d.; with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to, with chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to, 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo, 1½d. Novello, Ewer and Co., and Parker and Co.

Preparing for the Press.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF WORDS OF ANTHEMS, new Edition, revised, corrected, and brought down to the present date.

Twelfth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Price 5s. 6d., paper covers; 7s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Score, 1s. 6d. The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-notes.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. St. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter having been collated with the Sealed Books is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small Edition is in preparation.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Fourth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. Quarto, in cloth elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Fifth Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION.

Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. St. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

A MORNING SERVICE, Te Deum, Jubilate, and Kyrie, by the Rev. EDWARD YOUNG. Tenth edition, abbreviated for Parochial use. Organ and Choir copies, 4s. each.

"Melodious, vocal, and nicely harmonised—that is, without pretence or straining at effect; and they declaim the words devoutly and emphatically."—Musical Times.

"Good points, and tuneful passages."—Musical Standard.
"The intelligent, devoted, and devotional spirit in which every note seems to have been composed furnishes one of the best guarantees for excellence."—English Churchman.

"All competent criticism will be found in accordance with the verdict of a high professional authority as to 'abundant proof of imagination, poetical conception, and musical feeling.'"—Christian Observer.

"The strain is devotional, and harmonies full, solemn, and massive. . . . He fairly claims to have dug a channel for the devout utterance of the words."—Bristol Times.

Also,

VENITE, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.
CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A MORNING AND EVENING SERVICE, set to music principally in chant form for Four Voices, in harmony and unison with organ accompaniment. "Easy, effective, and congregational, and useful to parish choirs." Price 9d.; not less than one dozen copies, post-free, 7s. 9d., from the composer only. H. T. Harwood, Yeovil.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MISSA QUINTI TONI.—An easy and tuneful Unison Service for Holy Communion (complete), by ARTHUR H. BROWN, Brentwood. Price 3d. Separate organ accompaniment with words, price 2s. net.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

8vo, price One Shilling, just published,

A COMPLETE

MORNING, COMMUNION, & EVENING SERVICE

SET TO MUSIC IN THE KEY OF C MAJOR BY

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

The Services printed separately thus:—

MORNING SERVICE 4d.
No. 1. Te Deum Laudamus.	No. 2. Benedictus.
3. Jubilate Deo.
COMMUNION SERVICE 6d.
4. Introit.	9. Sursum Corda.
5. Kyrie Eleison (10 settings).	10. Sanctus (2 settings).
6. Gloria Tibi } (10 settings).	11. Benedictus.
7. Credo.	12. Agnus Dei.
8. Offertory Sentences.	13. Pater Noster.
	14. Gloria in Excelsis.

EVENING SERVICE 2d.
15. Magnificat.	16. Nunc Dimittis.

The above service has been written expressly to meet the necessities of parish choirs, and to that intent the parts have been limited in their compass, and have been made to move together as far as consistency permits, so as to avoid the difficulty which their adverse movement presents to inexperienced choirs. The treble part is written so that it can be sung in unison by the whole choir, if preferred.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in E flat. Composed by ALFRED J. DYE. Small 8vo, 3d.; organ copy, 6d.

"A simple setting, quite within the reach of ordinary church choirs."—Musical Record.

"In the various broad and effective unison sentences the organ is handled with judgment and skill."—The Choir.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in key of G, for Four Voices, with Organ Accompaniment. By E. BUNNETT, Mus. D., Cantab. Price Threepence.

Also, by same Composer, two Settings of the VENITE EXULTE-MUS DOMINO, in Chant form. Price Twopence each.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CANTATE and DEUS, by R. TAYLOR. An easy Unison Service in F. Price 6d. To be had of Novello and Co., or of the Author, Brighton College.

G. A. MACFARREN'S CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR. For Voices in Unison and Organ. 8vo, 6d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE OFFICE OF THE HOLY COMMUNION (as sung at S. Columba's College, Dublin). Set to music in the key of C, for voices in unison, by FREDERICK CAMBRIDGE. 8vo, 6d.

Also by the same composer,

ANTHEM, "NOT UNTO US, O LORD." Vocal Score, 3s.; Vocal Parts, 1s. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

8vo, price 4d.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES

(COMPLETE)

SET TO MUSIC BY

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

The above will be found an agreeable change with the settings already in use, and will be found to be within the capacity of every choir. The treble part is written so that it can be sung in unison by the whole choir, if preferred.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

8vo, price 6d.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES COMPLETE (20), with Music in full for Organist and Choir. By HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster.

One or more of these beautiful and effective sentences may be sung after the Priest has said the Offertory, or after the hymns at Matins or Evensong, whilst the alms are being collected.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

BENEDICITE, with Appropriate Chants. Three different Settings. By ALEX. S. COOPER. Second edition. Price 3d. "Very suitable for Harvest Festivals."

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

4TH BOOK NOW READY. Collection of KYRIES, &c. Original Compositions by Dr. F. Hiller, Guilman, G. A. and W. Macfarren, Sir G. J. Elvey, Tours, Salaman, Francesco Berger, E. G. Monk, J. Baptiste Calkin, Scotsman Clark, Hamilton Clarke, &c. Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 1s. each. Separate Nos. (1 to 71), 1d.

SPOHR'S 24th PSALM, 8vo (2nd thousand), 9d.; folio, 4s. net. London: Novello and Co. Sheffield: W. T. Freemantle, High Street.

TWELVE SHORT AND EASY FULL ANTHEMS

FOR PARISH CHOIRS.

THE WORDS TAKEN FROM THE PSALMS, THE MUSIC COMPOSED, AND DEDICATED TO THE

REV. SIR F. A. G. OUSELEY, M.A., MUS. DOC., OXON.,

BY
FREDERICK ILIFFE, MUS. BAC., OXON.

No.		Price.
1.	LORD, I CALL UPON THEE	2d.
*2.	I LOOK FOR THE LORD	3d.
3.	† PRAISE THE LORD, FOR HE IS GOOD	3d.
*4.	† O WORSHIP THE LORD IN THE BEAUTY OF HOLINESS	3d.
*5.	† THOU THAT SITTEST BETWEEN THE CHERUBIMS	3d.
*6.	† I WILL MAGNIFY THEE, O GOD, MY KING	4d.
7.	MY SONG SHALL BE OF MERCY AND JUDGMENT	2d.
8.	† THE LORD IS KING, HE SITTETH BETWEEN THE CHERUBIMS	3d.
9.	FRET NOT THYSELF BECAUSE OF THE UNGODLY	3d.
10.	† AWAKE UP, MY GLORY; AWAKE, LUTE AND HARP	3d.
11.	† BLOW UP THE TRUMPET IN THE NEW MOON	3d.
*12.	† BEHOLD, NOW PRAISE THE LORD, ALL YE SERVANTS OF THE LORD	4d.

Those numbers marked * consist of two movements; each of these movements may be used separately as short Anthems.

Those numbers marked † may appropriately be used on Festivals.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready, 16 pp. 8vo, price 6d.

DR. SPARK'S

NEW FESTIVAL ANTHEM, "AND NOW, ISRAEL."

Composed for and sung at the Twelfth Dedication Festival of Holy Trinity Church, Worcester.

Publishers, London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)

Now ready, 8vo, price Threepence.

THE APOSTLES' CREED, Set to Music (chiefly in Recitative) for Voices in Unison, with an Accompaniment for the Organ, by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Director of the Choir, York Minster.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

EASY and Effective ANTHEM for Village Festivals, "SING UNTO THE LORD." By A. ORLANDO STEED. Price 2d.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

"GOD, WHO AS AT THIS TIME." Short full Whitsuntide Anthem. By G. H. GREGORY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Price 3d. Also, by the same Composer, SIX KYRIES, price 2d. MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS on a Rouennais Theme. Price 4d.

These compositions are suitable for choirs of moderate ability.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PSALM XXIII., for SOPRANO, TENOR, and CHORUS, by the Rev. ARTHUR SEVELL. Price 2s. WITH ACCOMPANIMENT FOR THE PIANOFORTE AND HARMONIUM (pp. 71).

"Taken as a whole, a Choral Society may go farther and not find a better composition for execution than this work."—Graphic.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now ready, price Sixpence.
"WHOSO DWELLETH UNDER THE DEFENCE OF THE MOST HIGH." Festival Anthem, by GEORGE LOMAS, Mus. Bac., Oxon.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BEETHOVEN'S SONATAS (NEW AND COMPLETE EDITION)

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

AGNES ZIMMERMANN.

In One Volume, Folio, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price One Guinea.

Octavo Edition: Paper covers, 5s.; cloth gilt, 7s. 6d.

Each Sonata is published separately.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

A MANUAL OF SINGING FOR THE USE OF CHOIR TRAINERS & SCHOOLMASTERS, By RICHARD MANN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

This work offers to the clergy and other amateur choir trainers a systematic and simple course of instruction, by which they may teach their pupils to read music at sight in a comparatively short time.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FORTY-NINTH EDITION.

Price 1s. A specimen copy post-free for 12 stamps.

THE COLLEGIATE AND SCHOOL SIGHT-SINGING MANUAL.

FOR CHOIRS.—The easiest system that can be obtained for training, improving, and learning to read music at sight.

FOR SCHOOLS.—Every requisite for learning Music, and reading at sight in a few lessons.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.—The exercises will be found invaluable, tending to produce musical effects seldom heard.

APPENDIX.

Containing Exercises, Solfeggi, Canons, Anthems, &c.

Price One Shilling.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.; Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Third Edition, 2s. 6d. net.

(COMPANION WORK TO THE ABOVE.)

COLLEGIATE VOCAL TUTOR.

Containing Treatise on Voice and Vocal Art, with Anatomical Illustrations of the Vocal Instrument.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.; Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

Eighth edition. Paper covers, 1s.; bound in cloth, 1s. 6d.

CATHEDRAL CHANT-BOOK.

Containing nearly 200 Single and Double Chants; also the Gregorian Tones.

London: Published for the Editor by Novello, Ewer and Co.; Weekes and Co., 16, Hanover Street.

NEW EDITION OF

DR. BENNETT GILBERT'S

SCHOOL HARMONY.

Price 1s. 6d. net.

"From intervals to composition."

This popular work being now printed from stereotype plates, the publishers are prepared to supply any number of copies on the shortest notice.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TRUTH AND EASE IN MUSIC. NO MORE SHARP OR FLAT KEYS FOR INSTRUMENTALIST OR VOCALIST.

Just published, price Sixpence, with illustrations, a new edition of THE SEQUENTIAL SYSTEM OF MUSICAL NOTATION.

By WILLIAM A. B. LUNN.

"Its completeness and simplicity, when once understood, should recommend it to universal adoption."—Blackburn Standard.
London: E. W. ALLEN, 11, Ave Maria Lane.

Now ready, Vocal Score, price 3s.

JONAH. A Sacred Cantata. By J. V. ROBERTS, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Choirmaster of the Parish Church, Halifax.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

P.S.—Full Orchestral Parts to be had of the Composer.

NEW MUSIC.—"THE COLLEGE MARCH." Second Edition. For Organ or Pianoforte. Song, "NEATH THE HAWTHORN BOUGHS." Sung by Mr. Vernon Rigby. Specimen copies 1s. 6d. each (post-free) direct from the composer, E. W. Taylor, Mus. Bac., &c., Organist, Stafford.

MOZART'S SONATAS (NEW AND COMPLETE EDITION)

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

AGNES ZIMMERMANN.

In One Volume, Folio, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price Eighteen Shillings.

OCTAVO EDITION IN PREPARATION.

Each Sonata is published separately.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

FOUR-PART SONGS

BY

R. L. DE PEARSALL.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK, VOLS. X. & XI.,

Scarlet cloth, gilt, price 5s. each.

CONTENTS OF VOL. X.

284	The Hardy Norseman	...	(S.A.T.B.)	4d.
284*	do. do.	...	(A.T.T.B.)	4d.
285	Nymphs are sporting	...	(S.A.T.B.)	3d.
286	O who will o'er the downs	4d.
286*	do. do.	...	(A.T.T.B.)	4d.
287	Who shall win my lady fair	...	(S.A.T.B.)	4d.
288	Why with toil	3d.
289	When Allan-a-Daie went a-hunting.	Glee	...	4d.
290	I saw lovely Phillis.	Madrigal	...	4d.
291	The River Spirit's song	...	(A.T.T.B.)	3d.
292	It was upon a Spring-tide day.	Madrigal	(S.A.T.T.B.)	4d.
293	Take heed, ye shepherd swains.	Madrigal	(S.S.A.T.T.B.)	4d.
294	Spring returns.	Madrigal	...	2d.
295	Great God of love.	8 voices. Madrigal	...	3d.
296	In dulci júbilo.	Christmas Carol	...	3d.
297	The song of the Frank companies	...	(S.A.T.B.)	3d.
298	How bright in the May-time	3d.
299	The Winter song	2d.
300	The Bishop of Mentz	3d.
301	When last I strayed	2d.
302	See how smoothly	2d.
303	Let us all go Maying	2d.
304	List! Lady be not coy.	Madrigal	(S.S.A.T.T.B.)	3d.
305	O ye roses.	Madrigal	...	3d.
306	Sing we and chaunt it.	Madrigal for Double Choir	...	2d.
307	"	" for 4 voices	...	2d.
308	The red wine flows	...	(T.T.B.B.)	2d.
309	Shoot, false love, I care not.	Ballet Madrigal	(S.A.T.B.)	3d.

CONTENTS OF VOL. XI.

310	Laugh not, youth, at age.	Madrigal	...	(S.A.T.B.)	4d.
311	Down in my garden fair.	"	...	"	3d.
312	Adieu! my native shore	"	2d.
313	Purple glow the forest mountains	"	2d.
314	Caput apri defero	"	3d.
315	A Chieftain to the Highlands bound	"	2d.
316	A King there was in Thule	"	2d.
317	Come, let us be merry.	Twelfth-Night song	...	"	1½d.
318	Mihi est propositum	(A.T.B.B.)	2d.
319	Light of my soul.	Madrigal	...	(S.S.A.T.B.B.)	3d.
320	Lay a garland.	Madrigal for 8 voices	3d.
321	Summer is y' coming in.	Madrigal	...	(S.S.A.T.B.B.)	2d.
322	Why should the Cuckoo's tuneless note.	Do.	...	(S.S.A.T.B.)	3d.
323	Why weep, alas! my lady love.	Madrigal	...	"	3d.
324	There is a paradise on earth	(A.T.B.B.)	3d.
325	O! all ye ladies fair and true	"	2d.
326	War Song of the Norman Baron Taillefer	(S.A.T.B.)	2d.
327	Why do the roses.	Madrigal for 4 voices	...	"	2d.
328	Sweet as a flower in May.	Ditto	2d.
329	The praise of good wine	(T.T.B.B.)	2d.
330	{ The Watchman's Song	(T.T.B.B.)	}
330	{ Ditto ditto	(S.A.T.B.)
331	The Waters of Elle	(S.S.A.T.B.)	2d.
332	No! No! Nigella.	For double choir	2d.
333	Sir Patrick Spens.	In 10 parts	4d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S ONLY COMPLETE AND UNIFORM EDITION OF

MENDELSSOHN'S

THIRTEEN TWO-PART SONGS.

With the German and W. BARTHOLOMEW'S Original English Words.

Complete in One Volume, folio, 5s. net. Octavo, paper, 2s. net; cloth gilt, 4s. net; or singly, 2s. each. The separate Numbers are sold at half-price.

- | | |
|------------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| No. 1. I would that my love. | No. 7. My bark is bounding. |
| 2. The passage bird. | 8. Can I light-hearted be? |
| 3. Greeting. | 9. Evening song. |
| 4. Autumn song. | 10. Zuleika and Hassan. |
| 5. O wert thou in the cauld blast. | 11. The Sabbath morn. |
| 6. The Maybells and the flowers. | 12. The harvest field. |
| | 13. Song from Ruy Blas. |

N.B.—The Quartett score to No. 13, 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CHORAL SONGS, as sung by Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir, the Birmingham Festival Choral Society, &c.

No. 1. "THE SILENT LAND." Price 3d.

"Replete with melody. Some phrases are of remarkable beauty."—Musical Times.

No. 2. "THE BETTER LAND." Price 4d.

"Distinguished by beauty of melody and richness of harmony."—Birmingham Daily Gazette."Full of charming effects."—Birmingham Daily Post.

No. 3. "THE DAY IS DONE." Price 4d.

Composed expressly for Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

SOUTHWELL SCHOOL SONGS. First series, 1s. 6d. By the Rev. R. F. SMITH, Minor Canon of Southwell.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The Queen.—"Fourteen" (sixteen) "capital little songs in a cheap handy form. Quite new and withal pretty and neatly written."The Schoolmaster.—"Easy, pleasing tunes, suitable to school use. The composer shows himself a true musician; each 'lay' has a separate tune, which is catching, appropriate, and quite in old ballad-song style."The Musical Times.—"The sympathetic and musicianlike manner in which he has wedded them to melodies which cannot fail to please the young vocalists for whom they are expressly designed."

By the same Composer,

TE DEUM in F, 3d. ANTHEM (S.A.T.B.), "The Lord is nigh."

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Second Edition.—Reduced Prices.

CHORAL SONGS FOR SCHOOL & HOME.

FORTY-TWO ORIGINAL SONGS

FOR

ONE, TWO, OR FOUR VOICES.

COMPOSED BY ROBERT JACKSON.

Cloth, complete, 3s.; Parts I. and II., paper cover, 1s. each; Single Numbers, 1d.

From Concordia.

"This little book is designed for singing-classes in schools, and the simplicity, tunefulness, and attractiveness of the small compositions it contains eminently adapt it for such a purpose."

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

POPULAR FOUR-PART SONGS BY GABRIEL DAVIS.

- | | | |
|-------------------------------------|-----|-----|
| THE KNIGHT'S RETURN | ... | 2d. |
| GOD SAVE THE PRINCE. (12th Edition) | ... | 2d. |
| THE DISTANT SEA | ... | 2d. |
| TO THE WOODS | ... | 2d. |

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW PART-SONGS, by WILLIAM J. YOUNG,

Composer of Popular Part-Songs.

England's glory, 8vo, S.A.T.B. ... 3d.

A merry Christmas to you all, S.A.T.B. ... 3d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

PART-SONGS, by ALEXANDER COOPER.—"Happy bygone days," "The wayside well," "Cheerily," and "Sweet echo," for mixed voices; "O tranquil eve" and "Every season," for male voices. Second edition, price 2d. each. London: Novello, Ewer and Co., and Weekes and Co.

POPULAR AND CELEBRATED CHORUSES FOR LADIES' VOICES.

No.			Net.
*1.	SCHUMANN ...	Chorus of hours ...	4d.
*2.	WAGNER, R. spinning maidens ...	4d.
*3.	" ...	Wedding song ("Lohengrin") ...	4d.
*4.	" ...	Pilgrims' chorus ("Tannhäuser") ...	4d.
5.	WESTBROOK ...	Pilgrims of the night ...	4d.
6.	METRA, O. ...	Summer fancies (Valse) ...	4d.
7.	ERGMANN ...	Night (Valse) ...	4d.
8.	FILBY ...	To an infant sleeping ...	4d.
9.	MENDELSSOHN ...	When comes sweet May ...	4d.
10.	BURNAP ...	In May ...	4d.
11.	CHERUBINI ...	Cradle song ...	4d.
12.	RAMEAU ...	To our peaceful valley ...	4d.
13.	TAYLOR ...	Church bells ...	4d.
14.	SCHUMANN ...	O welcome, lovely Spring ...	4d.
15.	CONCONE ...	Hail! welcome day ...	4d.
16.	FABIANI ...	Young hearts ...	4d.
17.	WEKERLIN ...	Stars, the night adorning ...	4d.
18.	FAURE ...	O come to Him (Crucifix) ...	4d.
19.	BONOLDI ...	Joys bloom like roses ...	4d.
20.	WEKERLIN ...	Vilanelle ...	4d.
21.	CONCONE ...	Fond hearts ...	4d.
22.	" ...	The festive day ...	4d.
23.	OBERTHUR ...	Tyrolese mountaineers ...	4d.
24.	WAGNER, R. ...	Prayer ("Tannhäuser") ...	4d.
25.	ABT, FRANZ ...	In young May ...	4d.
26.	WEKERLIN ...	In early Spring ...	4d.
*27.	SCHUMANN ...	The merry huntsman ...	4d.
*28.	" ...	The water-sprite ...	4d.

*Those marked with an asterisk are for four voices, the rest for three.
Published by WILLIAM CZERNY, 349, Oxford Street, W.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION

OF TRIOS, QUARTETTS, &c.,
FOR FEMALE VOICES.

No. 1.	The corall'd caves of } 3 voices, Henry Smart	4d.
	ocean
2.	Heaven	4d.
3.	Hope and memory ..	4d.
4.	Night sinks on the } do. do.	3d.
	wave
5.	Oh! skylark, for thy } do. do.	4d.
	wing
6.	The bird at sea ..	4d.
7.	The wood-nymphs ..	3d.
8.	The fay's song ..	4d.
9.	Evening	3d.
10.	The water-nymphs ..	4d.
11.	Where are the angels? do. J. L. Hatton	3d.
12.	Youth, joy, and hope do. do.	3d.
13.	Coronach	3d.
14.	The Lord is my Shep- } 4 voices do.	4d.
	herd
15.	God in nature	4d.
16.	Serenade, 4 voices, with solo do.	4d.
17.	Glory to the Lord } 3 voices do.	3d.
	Almighty
18.	O clap your hands. Psalm 47 E. H. Thorne	6d.
19.	O sing to God (Noël) { 3 voices, with } Ch. Gounod	6d.
	soli S. & A. }

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just published.

FIVE CHORUSES

FOR FEMALE VOICES

COMPOSED BY

FRANZ SCHUBERT.

Price One Shilling.

OR, SINGLY,

Coronach ...	3 voices	3d.
The Lord is my Shepherd ...	4 voices	4d.
God in nature ...	4 voices	4d.
Serenade ...	4 voices, with solo	4d.
Glory to the Lord Almighty ...	3 voices	3d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

AIDA.—Vocal Score, 8s. Pianoforte Score, special English edition, with full description of the plot and words to the leading subjects, 4s. net. Songs, pianoforte arrangements, &c.

OTELLO.—RICORDI'S splendid Edition for voice and pianoforte, complete, 3s. 6d. net.

LAMPERTI'S TREATISE ON THE ART OF SINGING. The English translation by his pupil, J. C. Griffith. 5s. net.

PINSUTI'S NEWEST SONGS.—"Kismet" (Arabic for "It is fate"), English and Italian words, 4s. "Eyes so blue," words by J. H. Davies, B.A., 4s. "Welcome, pretty primrose" sung with great success by Mdle. Zaré Thalberg, 4s. "Auf Wiederseh'n" (Farewell, dear love), 3s. 6d. "Donna gentil" (Italian and English words), sung by Mr. Santley, always encored, 4s. All post-free for half-price.

SONGS with Italian and English words, by Beethoven, Campana, Fiori, Guercia, Lebeau, Mazzoni, Rotoli, Torti, Vaschetti, Zuccordi, &c.

LIST OF VOCAL and INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC of every description from RICORDI'S GRAN CATALOGO, containing above 45,000 publications, gratis and post-free.

RICORDI'S DEPOT, 23, CHARLES STREET, MIDDLESEX HOSPITAL, LONDON, W.

NEW SONG for SOPRANO or TENOR, by LOUISA F. ESSINGTON, "When thy beauty appears." Also by the same composer, "Salva Patriam," a Latin chorus from Tennyson's "Harold," printed also in octavo, at 4d.; Herrick's "Ode to the Graces," for Tenor; "Queen Mary's Song," from Tennyson's Drama, &c. Messrs. Lonsdale, 26, Old Bond Street.

LITTLE FLOWERS.—A Series of favourite and popular MELODIES, easily and effectively arranged (without octaves) for the pianoforte, and fingered throughout by ALFRED J. DYE, in 12 numbers, price 2s. each. Post-free, 12 stamps.

No. 1.	"Come, birdie, come" ...	Christy's Minstrels.
2.	"The wagoner" ...	W. T. Wrighton.
3.	"Only an ivy leaf" ...	D. Wood.
4.	"Bridal chorus" (Lohengrin) ...	R. Wagner.
5.	March, from "Silvery Waves" ...	P. Wyman.
6.	"Di pescatore," from "Lucrezia Borgia" ...	Donizetti.

SIMPSON and Co., 33, Argyll Street, London, W.

SMALLWOOD'S
CLASSICAL & SECULAR EXTRACTS
FOR THE PIANOFORTE.

No. 52 Nos. ready, 3s. each.

1.	Classical.—Hymn of Praise (Mendelssohn).
19.	" Kyrie Eleison (Mozart's Twelfth Service).
35.	" I know that my Redeemer (Messiah).

4.	Secular.—May-bells (Mendelssohn).
20.	" Selection from Die Zauberflöte (Mozart).
40.	" Selection from Masaniello (Auber).

Post-free, 18 stamps each number.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

NEW PIANOFORTE PIECE BY LISZT.

ROSE, SOFTLY BLOOMING
ROMANCE
By L. SPOHR.

TRANSCRIBED FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY

FRANZ LISZT.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

SONGS COMPOSED BY WILLEM COENEN.

THE ROSE (Röschen) ...	4s.
YES ...	4s.
THE VIOLET (Das Veilchen) ...	3s.
LOVELY SPRING (Frühlingslied) ...	3s.
(No. 1 for S. or T., No. 2 for C. or B.)
THE KINDLY STARS (Die Gutensterne) ...	3s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.

TWELVE SONGS

WITH

ENGLISH AND GERMAN WORDS

COMPOSED BY

SIR W. STERNDALÉ BENNETT.

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| OP. 23. | OP. 35. |
| No. 1. Musing on the roaring ocean. | No. 7. Indian love. |
| 2. May Dew. | 8. Winter's gone. |
| 3. Forget me not. | 9. Dawn, gentle flower. |
| 4. To Chloe (in sickness). | 10. Castle Gordon. |
| 5. The Past. | 11. As lonesome through the woods. |
| 6. Gentle Zephyr. | 12. Sing, maiden, sing. |

Price, in paper covers, 4s.; cloth boards, 6s.

Also separately, folio size, price 1s. 6d. each net.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

OPERETTAS

SUITABLE FOR

AMATEUR PERFORMANCE.

MENDELSSOHN'S "SON AND STRANGER."

(In One Act.)

For Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, two Basses, and Chorus.

The English adaptation by H. F. CHORLEY.

Pianoforte Score, Octavo, paper, 4s.; Libretto, 1s.

MACFARREN'S "SOLDIER'S LEGACY."

(In Two Acts.)

For Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, and Bass.

The Libretto written by J. OXFORD.

Pianoforte Score (with Libretto), Octavo, paper, 6s.; Libretto (singly), 1s.

MACFARREN'S "JESSY LEA."

(In Two Acts.)

For Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, and Bass.

The Libretto written by J. OXFORD.

Pianoforte Score, Folio, price, 10s. 6d.

The single movements of the above Operettas may be had singly.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.

MOORE'S

IRISH MELODIES.

EDITED BY

M. W. BALFE.

Paper covers, 2s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 4s.

A Selection from the above, arranged for Two Voices, paper cover, 1s.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Dedicated to the Members of the Dublin Glee and Madrigal Union.

THE CRUISKEEN LAWN. (Song of the Battle Eve.) Irish Air. Words by Thomas Moore. Arranged for S.A.T.B.B. by Sir R. P. STEWART, Mus. D. Price Threepence.

THE WINE-CUP IS CIRCLING IN ALMHIN'S HALL. Irish Air. Words by Thomas Moore. Arranged for S.A.T.B.B. by Sir R. P. STEWART, Mus. D. Price Threepence.

THE BELLS OF ST. MICHAEL'S TOWER. The subject from Knyvett's Glee for three Voices, rewritten for S.A.T.B.B., with an Introduction, by Sir R. P. STEWART, Mus. D. Price Fourpence.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ORIGINAL OCTAVO EDITION OF

OPERAS,

Edited, Corrected according to the Original Scores, and Translated into English, by NATALIA MACFARREN and BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price 2s. 6d. each; or in scarlet cloth, 4s.

NOW READY.

BEETHOVEN'S FIDELIO

(With German and English words).

AUBER'S FRA DIAVOLO

(With French and English words).

MOZART'S DON GIOVANNI

(With Italian and English words).

BELLINI'S NORMA

(With Italian and English words).

VERDI'S IL TROVATORE

(With Italian and English words).

DONIZETTI'S LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR

(With Italian and English words).

WEBER'S OBERON

With the English words by J. R. PLANCHE, and Italian words as sung at Her Majesty's Opera.

ROSSINI'S IL BARBIERE

(With Italian and English words).

DONIZETTI'S LUCREZIA BORGIA

(With Italian and English words).

MOZART'S NOZZE DI FIGARO

(With Italian and English words).

VERDI'S RIGOLETTO

(With Italian and English words).

BELLINI'S LA SONNAMBULA

(With Italian and English words).

WEBER'S DER FREISCHÜTZ

(With German and English words).

WAGNER'S TANNHÄUSER

(With German and English words). Price 3s. 6d.; bound, 5s.

AUBER'S MASANIELLO

(With French and English words). Price 3s. 6d.; bound, 5s.

BELLINI'S I PURITANI

(With Italian and English words).

WAGNER'S LOHENGRIN

(With German and English words). Price 3s. 6d.; bound, 5s.

DONIZETTI'S LA FIGLIA DEL REGGIMENTO

(With Italian and English words).

ROSSINI'S GUILLAUME TELL

(With French and English words). Price 5s.; bound, 7s. 6d.

MOZART'S DIE ZAUBERFLÖTE

(With German and English words).

VERDI'S LA TRAVIATA

(With Italian and English words).

FLOTOW'S MARTHA

(With German and English words).

VERDI'S ERNANI

(With Italian and English words).

MOZART'S IL SERAGLIO

(With German and English words).

GLUCK'S IPHIGENIA IN TAURIS

(With French and English words).

GLUCK'S IPHIGENIA IN AULIS

(With French and English words). Price 3s.; bound, 5s.

IN THE PRESS.

WAGNER'S FLYING DUTCHMAN

(German and English words).

MEYERBEER'S L'ETOILE DU NORD

(French and English words).

CHERUBINI'S WATER-CARRIER

(French and English words).

(To be continued.)

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

WALTER MAYNARD'S MUSIC COPY-BOOKS.

NEW EDITION.

Since the publication in 1871 of WALTER MAYNARD'S Copy-Book System of teaching Music, experience has proved its value, and fully justified the great favour with which it was received by the Press and Musical Profession.

It is now adopted in the National Schools of Ireland and the principal Educational Institutions of the United Kingdom.

The Music Copy-Books contain a progressive and complete course of instruction, leading up to some of the most advanced forms of Harmony.

The sound knowledge of the Rudiments and Theory of Music, Thorough Bass, and Harmony, together with the ease of singing and reading music at sight, to be rapidly gained by writing exercises according to the method set forth in the books, is found to be of immense assistance both to master and pupil in subsequent studies of the practical branches of the art.

In issuing a New Edition of the work Messrs. CHAPPELL and CO. have much pleasure in stating that they have arranged for the written exercises in each Copy-Book to be revised and corrected by the Author for a nominal fee. They believe this plan will be the means of facilitating the diffusion by the Copy-Book System of such knowledge as should most assuredly be possessed by every amateur and student of music, but which is generally neglected in the time and effort devoted to acquiring that which is often merely a showy and ephemeral accomplishment.

The instruction contained in the Books is as follows:—

BOOKS I. AND II.—THE RUDIMENTS OF MUSIC.—The Stave, Clefs, Notation, Signs, Time, Scales, &c., &c.

BOOK III.—INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE.—Diagrams of the Pianoforte Key-board, Rules, Exercises, &c., &c.

BOOKS IV. AND V.—RUDIMENTS OF HARMONY.—Intervals, Chords, Inversion of Chords, Thorough Bass, Chords of the Seventh, Ninth, Eleventh, Suspension and Retardation, Modulation, &c., &c.

BOOK VI.—Vocalisation, Part-Singing, Singing at Sight.

SEQUEL AND KEY—Containing Exercises showing the application of the Rules of Harmony.

The Fee for revising and correcting the Exercises in each Book once will be Ten Shillings, or Two Guineas the set of Six. The Fee will include cost of Book and postage twice.

Books intended for correction to be addressed WALTER MAYNARD, care of CHAPPELL & CO.

Stamps or Post-office Orders to be sent to CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond Street, London.

NEW WORK FOR SINGING CLASSES.

CHAPPELL'S PENNY OPERATIC PART-SONGS.

For Soprano, Alto, Tenor, and Bass.

The present collection of Part-Songs is entirely new, being selected and adapted from the most striking and popular Choruses in the Favourite Foreign Operas. The Arrangement is purely Vocal, such Choruses only being chosen as can be sung without the aid of an Instrumental Accompaniment. The Words have been expressly written for the work, and the harmonies arranged in four parts, as likely to be most useful in small classes.

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. Hymn of the Fisherman's Children | Adapted to a Melody from Herold's "ZAMPA." |
| 2. Fays and Elves (In mia fe) | From Flotow's "MARTA." |
| 3. Spring's Bright Glances (In Elvezia non v'ha) | From Bellini's "LA SONNAMBULA." |
| 4. From Yonder Vale and Hill (D' immenso giubilo) | From Donizetti's "LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR." |
| 5. Here we Rest (Qui la selva) | From Bellini's "LA SONNAMBULA." |
| 6. Onward to Battle (Squilli echeggi) | From Verdi's "TROVATORE." |
| 7. Rataplan (Rataplan) | From Donizetti's "LA FIGLIA DEL REGGIMENTO." |
| 8. The Gipsy's Star (Vedi! le fosche) | From Verdi's "IL TROVATORE." |
| 9. War Song of the Druids (Dell' aura tua profetica) | From Bellini's "NORMA." |
| 10. In Mercy, hear us! (Cielo clemente) | From Donizetti's "LA FIGLIA DEL REGGIMENTO." |
| 11. Come to the Fair! (Accorete, giovinette) | From Flotow's "MARTA." |
| 12. Friendship (Per te d' immenso giubilo) | From Donizetti's "LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR." |
| 13. Away, the Morning freshly breaking (The Chorus of Fishermen) | From Auber's "MASANIELLO." |
| 14. Pretty Village Maiden (Peasants' Serenade Chorus) | From Gounod's "FAUST." |
| 15. The soft Winds around us (The Gipsy Chorus) | From Weber's "PRECIOSA." |
| 16. See how lightly on the Blue Sea (Senti la danza invitaci) | From Donizetti's "LUCREZIA BORGIA." |
| 17. See the Moonlight Beam (Non fav Motto) | |
| 18. On yonder Rocks reclining | From Auber's "FRA DIAVOLO." |
| 19. Happy and light | From Balfe's "BOHEMIAN GIRL." |
| 20. Come, come away (Ah! que de moins) | From Donizetti's "LA FAVORITA." |
| 21. Hymen's torch (Il destin) | From Meyerbeer's "LES HUGUENOTS." |
| 22. Come on, Comrade (The Celebrated Chorus of Old Men) | From Gounod's "FAUST." |
| 23. 'Gainst the Powers of Evil (The Chorale of the Cross) | |
| 24. O Balmy Night (Com' è gentil) | From Donizetti's "DON PASQUALE." |
| 25. Haste o'er the hills (Introductory Chorus) | From Rossini's "GUGLIELMO TELL." |
| 26. Come, sing the Song (Opening Chorus) | From Meyerbeer's "ROBERT LE DIABLE." |
| 27. With fair Ceres (The March Chorus) | From Bellini's "NORMA." |
| 28. The Tunesful Song of Robin's Horn (Tyrolese Chorus) | From Rossini's "GUGLIELMO TELL." |
| 29. The Chorus of Huntsmen | From Weber's "DER FREISCHÜTZ." |
| 30. Hark! the distant hills (Hunting Chorus) | From Flotow's "MARTA." |
| 31. Hence! away with care | From Meyerbeer's "GLI UGONOTTI." |
| 32. Hail to the Bride | From Wagner's "LOHENGRIN." |
| 33. Hark! music stealing! (subject from Overture) | From Rossini's "SEMIRAMIDE." |
| 34. A bridal wreath we twined (Chorus of Bridesmaids) | From Weber's "DER FREISCHÜTZ." |
| 35. Behold, how brightly breaks the Morning! (The Barcarole) | From Auber's "MASANIELLO." |
| 36. From hill to hill resounding (subject from Overture) | From Auber's "FRA DIAVOLO." |

Postage free, 1d. each; or 3 for 3d.
(To be continued.)

ANTOINE COURTOIS' CORNETS,

Adopted by LEVY, REYNOLDS, and all the principal Cornet-players in Great Britain, United States, France, and Russia.
SOLE AGENT: S. ARTHUR CHAPPELL, 52, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON.

CHAPPELL & CO., 50, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON.

IN PREPARATION.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO.'S
MUSIC PRIMERS,

EDITED BY
DR. STAINER.

1. The Pianoforte (Now ready, price 2s.) - E. Pauer.
2. The Rudiments of Music - W. H. Cummings.
3. The Organ - - - - - Dr. Stainer.
4. Harmonium - - - - - King Hall.
5. Singing - - - - - A. Randegger.
6. Pronunciation in Singing - A. J. Ellis, F.R.S.
7. Musical Forms (Now ready, price 1s.) - E. Pauer.
8. Harmony - - - - - Dr. Stainer.
9. Counterpoint - - - - - Dr. Bridge.
10. Scientific Basis of Music - - - Dr. Stone.
11. History of Music - - - - - E. Pauer.
12. Church Choir Training - Rev. J. Troutbeck.
13. Plain Song - - - - - Rev. T. Helmore.
14. Instrumentation - - - - - E. Prout.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast-tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly-nourished frame."—The Civil Service Gazette.

"MANUFACTURE OF COCOA.—We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps and Co., manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London."—See Article in Cassell's Household Guide.

MADE SIMPLY WITH BOILING WATER OR MILK.

SOLD IN PACKETS (TINS FOR ABROAD), LABELLED

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists,
48, THREADNEEDLE STREET, AND 170, PICCADILLY.

WORKS: EUSTON ROAD AND CAMDEN TOWN, LONDON.

Makers of EPPS'S GLYCERINE JUJUBES, for Throat Irritation.

91

THE MUSICAL
TIMES

THE STEINWAY PIANOFORTES

(STEINWAY HALL, NEW YORK).

It is pretty well known that the SUPREME POSITION among the Pianofortes of the world belongs to the STEINWAY PIANOFORTE, whatever test of excellence or measure of comparative values may be applied. But it should also be understood that it is simply impossible for any one to form an adequate conception of the artistic, scientific, and structural perfection to which the modern Pianoforte has attained without hearing and seeing the Steinway Instruments.

It should, moreover, be noticed that the Steinway Instruments are not merely the GREATEST PIANOFORTES IN THE WORLD, but are also the sources of every scientific improvement introduced into European Pianofortes within the past quarter of a century. Every maker without exception, whether in Europe or America, whose Pianofortes display any indications of progress within the period indicated has derived them from the Steinway Instruments; and, conversely, every maker who has not empirically copied the Steinway Pianofortes has made no important improvement in his instruments, but remains the mere reproducer of the imperfect types of pianoforte construction belonging to a past generation.

It may also be mentioned that the STEINWAY PIANOFORTES have been supplied to almost every Royal Family in Europe, from the Imperial and Grand Ducal Palaces at St. Petersburg to the Vatican; have received the eulogium of almost every contemporary Pianist, Composer, and other Musician of world-wide fame; the academic honours of the principal Art and Science corporations of Europe—Paris, Berlin, Stockholm, &c.; the eulogies of the greater authorities in the science of acoustics, such as Helmholtz and Lissajous; the highest awards of the four representative International Exhibitions—London (1862), Paris (1867), Vienna (1873), and Philadelphia (1876); and enjoy both the widest distribution and the largest annual sale of any pianofortes throughout the world.

TYPICAL EXTRACTS.

"Your unrivalled grand pianos are certainly the most perfect instruments I have met with, especially your latest achievement, the Centennial Grand Piano. Their volume of tone is simply marvellous, and at the same time of truly musical and poetic quality, which never changes its noble character under either the most delicate or the most powerful touch; with an action of the most unerring precision, power, elasticity, and unequalled durability under the severest trials."—Madame Arabella Goddard.

"Their tone is marvellously grand, of exquisite poetic and sympathetic quality, which was to me a perfect revelation when trying the Steinway Piano for the first time; and it is just this thoroughly musical quality of tone, invariably characterising your pianos, which grows both upon hearer and player, that a cultivated musical ear will prefer the tone of your pianos to all others. The touch is simply perfect—elastic, pliable, and promptly responding to all and every demand made by the pianist."—Miss Marie Krebs.

CENTRAL DEPOT FOR GREAT BRITAIN:

28, BAKER STREET, PORTMAN SQUARE, LONDON, W.

PLEYEL, WOLFF & CO.'S PIANOS.

COTTAGE—BLACKWOOD; STYLE LOUIS XVI.;

VERY ELEGANT 65 GUINEAS.

OBLIQUE, DITTO, DITTO 80 GUINEAS.

COTTAGE, IN ROSEWOOD OR BLACKWOOD,
FROM 52 GUINEAS.

BOUDOIR GRANDS, FROM 85 GUINEAS.

Sole Agency—170, NEW BOND STREET.

NOTICE.

BEARE AND SON,

Manufacturers & Importers of every description of Musical Instrument, Fittings, &c.

Specialties	{	OLD VIOLINS	} By the Great Masters.
		" BOWS
		" VIOLONCELLOS
		" DOUBLE BASSES

A LARGE SELECTION ALWAYS ON HAND.

A large and well-assorted Stock of Accordions, Concertinas, Cornets, Saxhorns, Clarionets, Flutes, Flageolets, Guitars, Drums, Harmoniums, Music-Stools, Harmonium Chairs, &c. All kinds of Strings.

Special Terms to SHIPPERS and the TRADE. Price Lists Post-free on application.

BEARE & SON, 32, Brewer Street, Regent Street, LONDON, W.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

The Music Pages only are stereotyped; those persons who would possess the Musical Articles, Notices, Advertisements, &c., can only insure doing so by taking the work as it appears.

No. 415.—Vol. 18.
Registered for transmission abroad.

SEPTEMBER 1, 1877.

Price 3d.; Post-free, 4d.
Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 4s.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S "PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL."

SECTION 1.—"Elementary."
SECTION 2.—"Easy."

SECTION 3.—"Moderately difficult."
SECTION 4.—"Difficult."

SECTION 5.—"Very difficult."

Catalogues and all particulars may be had post-free from FORSYTH BROTHERS.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S EDITION OF NEW AND POPULAR WORKS.

CAREFULLY FINGERED AND REVISED.

BLUMENTHAL, JACQUES.					s.	d.	MAYER, CHARLES.					s.	d.
d	La Source	4	0	c	First Galop Militaire, in E flat	3	6
CHOPIN, FREDERIC.							d	La Fontaine, Etude de Concert, Op. 61, No. 3	3	6 d	Valse in E flat, Op. 18	3	6	d	Le Tremolo, Etude de Concert, Op. 61, No. 2	3	6 d	" A flat, Op. 34, No. 1	4	0	c	Triolino, Etude, Op. 190	4	0
c	" A minor, Op. 34, No. 2	3	6	MENDELSSOHN-BARTHOLDY, F.
d	" A flat, Op. 42	3	6	c	Wedding March	2	6
c	" D flat, Op. 64, No. 1	3	6	RAFF, JOACHIM.
d	" C sharp minor, Op. 64, No. 2	3	0	d	Minuet in E major	3	0
c	" A flat, Op. 64, No. 3	2	6	c	Romanza in G, Op. 72	3	0
c	Deux Valses Melancoliques, in A flat and B minor	2	6	REISSIGER, F. A.
c	Two Nocturnes, in B major and A flat major, Op. 32, complete	3	0	c	Fairy's Dance. Waltz	2	0
d	Do. do. separate, each	2	6	c	Feenreigen Walzer	2	0
CZERNY, CHARLES.							REINECKE, CARL.
b	101 Preparatory Exercises, Op. 261, complete	7	6	d	Gavotte in E flat, Op. 129, No. 3	3	0 or in two books, each	4	0	d	Southern Pictures—Under the Cypress Trees. Bolero.	4	0
c	Etude de la Velocité, Op. 299, complete	10	6	d	Gondoliera. Neapolitan Mandolin Player, 2 books	each	4	0 or in 3 books, each	4	0	d	Twenty-four Characteristic Pieces, Op. 137, 4 books	each	4	0
DIABELLI, A.							d	Twenty-four Studies, Op. 121, 3 books	each	6	0
b	Sonatina in C	2	0	These Studies are used in the Conservatoires of Berlin, Brussels, Cologne, and Stuttgart, and at the Royal Academy of Music, London.
b	Sonatina in F	2	0	RUBINSTEIN, ANTON.
b	Rondo in F	2	0	d	Barcarolle in F minor	3	0
HAYDN, JOSEPH.							c	Impromptu in G	3	0
b	Ox Minuet	1	6	c	Melody in F	2	6
HELLER, STEPHEN.							c	Romance in E flat	2	0
d	Four Barcarolles, Op. 141, 2 books	4	0	c	Romanza in F, Op. 26, No. 1	2	6
c	Rondoletto sur la Cracovienne du Ballet, "The Gipsy," Op. 12	3	6	d	Turkish March, from Beethoven's "Ruins of Athens"	2	6
b	Rondo in D major, on an Air from Donizetti's "La Favorita," Op. 22, No. 3	3	0	SCHULHOFF, JULES.
c	Feuille d'Album	1	6	d	Airs Bohémiens	5	0
c	Prelude de Chopin (Op. 28, No. 7)	2	6	c	Berceuse. Impromptu, Op. 14	2	0
d	Three New Studies, Op. 139	4	0	c	Confidence. Impromptu	2	0
d	Voyage autour de ma Chambre (cinq morceaux caractéristiques), Op. 140, 2 books	4	0	c	Minuet and Trio, from Mozart's Symphony in E flat	3	0
d	Variations sur un Thème de Robert Schumann (Op. 12, No. 3), Op. 142	4	0	c	Trois Mazurkas, Op. 5. Complete	6	0
HENSELT, A.								No. 1. In F	2	6
d	Repos d'Amour	1	6		No. 2. In E	2	6
d	The Fountain	2	6		No. 3. In D flat	2	6
c	Song of love	2	0	c	Grande Valse Brillante, Op. 6	4	0
HILLER, FERDINAND.							c	Souvenir de Varsovie Mazurka	3	0
c	Zur Guitarre, Impromptu, Op. 97	3	0	SCHUMANN, ROBERT.
KALKBRENNER, FREDERIC.							c	Jagdlied (Hunting Song)	2	6
c	Les Soupirs de la Harpe Eolienne, Romance	3	0	c	Slumber Song	3	0
LEFEBURE-WELY, A.							THALBERG, SIGISMUND.
c	Les Cloches du Monastère, Nocturne, Op. 54	3	0	d	Home, sweet Home	4	0
LISZT, FRANZ.							d	Last Rose of Summer	4	0
e	Spinning Song, from "Flying Dutchman"	4	0	WAGNER, RICHARD.
							d	March from "Tannhäuser"	3	0

N.B.—The letters before the names denote the degree of difficulty, corresponding with the five Sections of the "Practical Pianoforte School," viz. a, Elementary; b, Easy; c, Moderately difficult; d, Difficult; e, Very difficult.

All the above Sold at Half-price, and may be had from all Musicsellers.

FORSYTH BROTHERS, 272A, REGENT CIRCUS, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, AND CROSS STREET, SOUTH KING STREET, MANCHESTER.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS ANNETTE IVANOVA (Soprano).

For Concerts, &c., "Brooklyn," Howard Road, South Norwood.

MRS. BROOK MYERS (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 53, Blenheim Place, Idle, near Leeds, Yorkshire.

MISS JOHNSON (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 26, Charlotte Street, Oldham.

MISS ADA MOORE (Soprano).

(Pupil of Signor Randegger) for Oratorios and other Concerts. 95, Bristol Street, Moss Side, Manchester. Lessons in singing.

MRS. WARREN (Soprano).

Of Mr. C. Hallé's Concerts. For Oratorio or other Concerts, address, 150, Radnor Street, Hulme, Manchester. Lessons in Singing. References—C. Hallé, Esq., and E. Hecht, Esq.

MRS. ALFRED J. SUTTON (Soprano).

Is open to engagements for Concerts and Oratorios. 54, Duchess Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MADAME PAULINE GRAYSTON (Soprano).

Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Concerts, &c. For terms address, 56, Lofthouse Place, Leeds.

MISS M. B. CRICHTON (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford.

MISS SAIDIE SINGLETON (Soprano).

For Oratorio or miscellaneous Concerts, address, Mr. N. Vert, 52, New Bond Street, W.

MISS RUTH HARLOW (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Mr. E. Hermann, Athenæum, Manchester.

MISS HELEN PICKLES (Contralto).

Address, Holywell Green, near Halifax, Yorks.

MISS LOUISA BOWMONT (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 57, Mercer Street, Embden Street, Hulme, Manchester.

MR. GREENHILL (Tenor).

7, Park Place, Regent's Park.

MR. WELBY WALLACE (Tenor)

(Of the Crystal Palace, and Gentlemen's Concerts, Manchester, &c. &c.), having returned from abroad, is free to accept engagements for Concerts, Opera, or Oratorio. All communications to be addressed (care of) Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

MR. VERNEY BINNS (Tenor).

(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Sig. Ciro Pinsuti.) For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 65, King Cross Street, Halifax.

W. MANN DYSON (Tenor).

For Concerts or Oratorios, address, Cathedral, Worcester.

MR. GEORGE CLEVELAND (Baritone).

For Concerts, Pupils, &c., Duncombe House, 48, Gertrude Street, Chelsea, S.W.

MR. RICKARD (Bass).

(Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Signor Ciro Pinsuti.) For Oratorios and Concerts, address, King Cross, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MR. THORNTON WOOD (Bass).

(Of the Royal Albert Hall Concerts.) For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford, Yorkshire.

ALBERT E. BISHOP.

(Organ, Harmony, and Counterpoint.) Address, 26, Wilson Street, E.C.

MR. J. SHARPE (Obocist).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 235, Lidgett Hill, Pudsey, near Leeds.

N.B.—Bandmasters and others supplied with Triebert's and Morton's celebrated Oboes. Best Oboe Reeds, 2s. each; Staples recaned, 1s. each.

A LADY (Prof. Mus.), powerful voice, first-class reader, desires an ENGAGEMENT as LEADER of Choir or Deputy-Organist in a Church. She also requires teaching in schools and families. Acquirements: pianoforte, harp, and singing. First-class references. M.P., 3, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Square, W.C.BOY (SOPRANO) and a BASS are at liberty to accept an ENGAGEMENT in a Choir. Address, Beta, Post Office, Vauxhall Cross, S.E.SOPRANO.—A Young Lady seeks an ENGAGEMENT in a Church Choir. Address, M.D., 7, East Street, W.C.TENOR and BOYS' VOICES WANTED. Apply at St. Mary-at-Hill Church, Eastcheap, City, after service on Sunday or Friday evenings, or by letter to A. B., Burlington Lodge, Whitton, Middlesex. Surpliced Choir, paid.WORCESTER CATHEDRAL.—PRECENTOR-SHIP VACANT, to be held with Minor Canony and Sacristship. Stipend, £230 per annum, with a good house, rent free, close to the Cathedral. Also, a second MINOR CANONRY. Stipend, £150 per annum. For particulars apply to Messrs. Hooper and Hooper, Chapter Clerks, Worcester. All applications to be made, and testimonials sent in, on or before September 8.PETERBOROUGH CATHEDRAL.—There will be a VACANCY for a CHORISTER BOY (age 8½ to 11) in November. The choristers receive a classical education at the Cathedral Grammar School. Headmaster, the Rev. W. D. Sweeting, M.A. For further particulars apply to Mr. H. Keeton, Minster Precent, Peterborough.KING'S COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.—CHORISTERS.—There will be an ELECTION of Two or Three CHORISTERS to fill vacancies in this Choir early in October next. Choristers are educated, lodged, and boarded free of expense. Applications to be addressed to the Bursar's Clerk, King's College, Cambridge.ST. BOTOLPH, Aldersgate.—WANTED, a SOLO BOY for this church. He will receive a free education and an allowance for travelling expenses, or a salary according to ability. Address, Mr. J. R. Murray, 18, Aldersgate Street.ALL SAINTS', Margaret Street.—CHORISTERS EDUCATED and BOARDED free of expense. There is now a VACANCY. Names of candidates, stating age and giving references, should be sent to Rev. E. Hoskins. Applications, if unanswered, must be considered ineligible.SOPRANO REQUIRED in Choir of Parish Church, Greenwich, accustomed to Church service, £10. A good leading boy not objected to if thoroughly qualified. Apply to Mr. H. Killick Morley, 71, South Street, Greenwich, S.E.SOPRANO WANTED for Church in the City. £8. Apply to Organo, 21, Harvist Road, Holloway, N.SOLO BOY WANTED. Must read fairly well. Board, lodging, and first-class education. Unusual advantages. Apply to John H. Gower, Mus. B., Sheet Street, Windsor.ALTO and LEADING TREBLE WANTED for the surpliced choir of All Saints', Blackheath, S.E. Duties, two Sunday services and one weekly rehearsal. Salary, £15 per annum each. Apply by letter to the Precentor, Richard Lemaire, 8, Pier Road, Erith.ALTO (Communicant) WANTED for St. Margaret's (Parish) Church, Lee, S.E. Salary, £20. Choral service. There is also a vacancy for a voluntary TENOR. Address, the Organist, Mr. Geo. F. Geaussen, 6, Park Place, Blackheath.MAGDALEN COLLEGE, OXFORD.—There are VACANCIES in the Magdalen College Choir for two Lay Clerks. ALTO and BASS VOICES are required. Stipend, £110 per annum. There are also vacancies for two Academical Clerks. The voices required are ALTO and TENOR. Stipend, £95 per annum. For further particulars, application may be made to the Rev. T. H. T. Hopkins, Magdalen College, Oxford.ALTO WANTED, for surpliced Choir in Kensington. Good voice and reader indispensable. Two Sunday services and weekday practice. Salary, £10 10s. Address, Organist, 163, Piccadilly, W.DURHAM CATHEDRAL.—The APPOINTMENT of a TENOR SINGER to the vacant place in Durham Cathedral will be made on WEDNESDAY, the 26th day of September next.

All applications, testimonials, and inquiries as to the office must be sent in addressed to the Chapter Clerk to the Dean and Chapter of Durham, at his office, in the College, Durham, on or before Monday, the 10th day of September next.

Preference will be given to candidates under 30 years of age. The travelling expenses of the candidates who shall be summoned to the trial will be paid by the Dean and Chapter. The College, Durham, July 20, 1877.

WANTED, FIRST TENOR at a Catholic Church, N.W. Must be accustomed to the Latin. Salary, £20 per annum. Apply by letter, W. H. W., 46, College Place, Camden Town, N.W.TENORS WANTED for the Choir of S. John Baptist, Cleveland Road, W. Service full choral. Stipend according to merit. Apply to the Organist on Wednesday evenings at 8.30 practice, or after Sunday services.PARISH CHURCH, Fulham.—There are vacancies in the Choir (surpliced) for TENORS and BASSES. Full Cathedral Service on festivals. Address, F. Grizelle, 12, Stanbridge Road, Putney, S.W.PRINCIPAL TENOR WANTED for Clapham Parish Church. Duties to partly train the Choir-boys. Thursday rehearsals. Sundays: Morning and evening service. Salary, £25 per annum. Address, Mr. Carder, Organist and Director of the Choir, St. Anne's House, Clapham.

TWO BASS VOICES WANTED, at MICHAEL-MAS, for a church in S.W. district. Salary, £15. Candidates must be communicants and give references as to character. For further particulars apply by letter to P. G. B., 6, Graham Street, Pimlico, S.W.

BASS, clear and powerful to DD, good reader, desires RE-ENGAGEMENT either Sunday or week evenings. First-class references. Would prefer, if possible, to obtain an appointment in a Cathedral. F. G. T., 4, Royal Exchange.

BASS (thirty-five), sight reader, used to Cathedral Service, desires RE-ENGAGEMENT in a Church or Private Chapel; employment, gardening; good testimonials. Address, Cantori, Post Office, Braithwaite, Keswick, Cumberland.

BASS wishes an APPOINTMENT in a Catholic Church. Address, F. H. T., 73, Caversham Road, Camden Road.

BASS (not Baritone) and COUNTER-TENOR WANTED for S. Peter's, Bayswater. Duties: Twice on Sundays; once on Christmas Day, Easter Day, and Festival of Dedication. Candidates must be communicants, good readers, and well versed in Cathedral music. Salary, £25 per annum. All applications must be made in writing, to the Choir Committee, under cover to Edwin M. Lott, Organist and Director of the Choir, 270, Cornwall Road, Bayswater, W., who will fix the date for the trial of voices, and will communicate with the candidates.

ORGANIST.—A Young Man who has for the past six years been a pupil and teacher in the School for the Indigent Blind desires an ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST. Reference is kindly permitted to Professor W. H. Monk, King's College; Rev. W. E. Batty, St. John's, Fulham; or to Mr. Larke, 5, Rockham Terrace, Walham Green, S.W., to whom applications should be made.

ORGANIST, disengaged on Sunday afternoons and week evenings, wishes to deputise. Small stipend required. Organist, 223, Globe Road, Green Street, Victoria Park.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—The Assistant-Organist of S. Andrew's, Wells Street, desires an ENGAGEMENT. Address, H. W., 41, Upper Berkeley Street, W.

A N experienced ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER desires a RE-ENGAGEMENT in a town where there is a bonafide opening for tuition or music business. Excellent references. Address, W. R. Hazle, Press, Salop.

ORGANIST.—A Gentleman is open to APPOINTMENT as above. Salary, moderate. C. G., 14, Fernlea Road, Balham.

MONS. BOULVIN (Pianist to her Grace the Duchess of Norfolk) desires an ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST or MUSIC MASTER in School or College. Address, W. E. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A professional gentleman requires a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above. High-class testimonials and references. Address Organist, Advertiser Office, Hawick, N.B.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER is now open to an ENGAGEMENT. Good testimonials. Eighteen years' experience. Address, Organist, Westmill, Buntingford.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Gentleman of experience desires a RE-ENGAGEMENT. Good Churchman. Stipend not so much an object as good organ. Address, J. S., 67, Lincoln's Inn Fields.

A N ORGANIST of some experience would be glad to meet with an ENGAGEMENT. Used to good services. Aged 25. Address, J. H. I., Limpsfield, Surrey.

A LADY ORGANIST, accustomed to church duty, Anglican or otherwise, would be glad to give her services in return for practice. Address, S. M., Fabian's Library, Circus Road, St. John's Wood.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Professional Gentleman requires RE-ENGAGEMENT as above. Good testimonials. Address, Organist, Yarmouth, Isle of Wight.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, just disengaged, desires a RE-ENGAGEMENT in or near London. £40. Excellent references. R. C., 26, Marlborough Road, S.W.

MUS. BAC., F.C.O., great experience, seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Organ, Mr. Moorhouse, Lofthouse, Wakefield.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Professional Gentleman requires a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above, or to deputise. Address, H. J. Dean, 2, Blomfield Street, Finsbury, E.C.

A SSISTANT ORGANIST.—WANTED, by a Young Gentleman, a SITUATION as above. Good practice. West End preferred. H. T. A., 37, Cumberland Street, Warwick Square, S.W.

TO ORGANISTS, CLERGYMEN, &c.—A Gentleman is OPEN to ENGAGEMENTS as DEPUTY. Town or Country. Organist, care of Wensley and Wensley, 181, Fleet Street.

WANTED, for the Church of St. Paul, East Moulsey, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, who must be a communicant. Duties: Matins and Evensong, Choral, every Sunday and chief Festival, and choir practice every Friday evening from 8 to 9.30 p.m. Small stipend, but very good opening for teaching. Address, Rev. Lawrence W. Till, Hurst Lodge, East Moulsey.

ORGANIST WANTED.—Services choral; organ repaired and improved recently. Small salary. Apply by letter to Vicar, 428, Commercial Road, E. Two services on Sunday and one weekday.

ORGANIST WANTED, Voluntary, for good Organ in church in East of London, near the City. Two choral services on Sunday and one in week. Services by best composers and anthems occasionally. By letter, to Organist, 76, Cannon Street Road, E.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED for the Episcopal Church of a town in the South of Scotland. New, good organ; two manuals, &c. Apply to S. Meacock & Son, Doncaster.

WANTED, a Young Lady to TEACH MUSIC and to assist in Pianoforte Warerooms. One able to sing and play at sight preferred. Address, C. B. A., care of Mr. H. Richardson, Outfitter, Torquay.

A GENTLEMAN is desirous of giving LESSONS by post in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. References from present pupils if desired. Terms very moderate. Address Magister, Musical Times Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.

PIANO, HARMONY, and CLASS-SINGING LESSONS, by C. STIEBLER COOK, Associate of the Royal Academy of Music, five years Music and Choir Master at Uppingham School. Schools attended. 17, Keppel Street, Russell Square.

MR. E. W. TAYLOR, Mus. Bac., Oxon, &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for Musical Examinations; also gives lessons in Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., by post. Ebenezer Place, Stafford.

MUSICAL DEGREES and EXAMINATIONS.—J. W. HINTON, Mus. Doc., M.A., Trinity College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W., prepares candidates for Mus. B. or Mus. D., of Oxford, Cambridge, or Dublin, in all branches they may require. Dr. H. continues to revise or orchestrate for composers. Harmony and Counterpoint by post if required.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK receives PUPILS for HARMONY and COMPOSITION at 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W. For information as to days of attendance, terms, &c., address as above, or 5, Park Avenue Villas, Lower Norwood, S.E.

DR. SLOMAN gives LESSONS to CANDIDATES preparing for Musical Degrees. Grassendale, West Dulwich, S.E.

THE ORGANIST of RIPON CATHEDRAL teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Correspondence. For terms, address, Edwin J. Crow, Mus. Bac., Cantab.

MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST begs to inform his pupils and friends that he has REMOVED to 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N. Red trams direct from Moorgate Street. Nearest station, Rectory Road.

MR. HENRY J. SOUTH, Organist of St. Matthias, Richmond, has REMOVED to No. 8, Dynevor Place, Richmond Hill. All letters to be addressed as above.

MRS. OSGOOD requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts may be addressed to Mr. N. Vert, 52, New Bond Street, W.

MR. R. HOLLINS requests that all communications respecting engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, &c., be addressed to him at 26, St. Stephen's Road, Shepherd's Bush, W.

MR. THURLEY BEALE, having resigned his appointment at St. Paul's Cathedral, is open to an ENGAGEMENT for Sunday duty only. Address, 67, Newman Street, Oxford Street, W.

ORGAN LESSONS and PRACTICE on a fine new Instrument, with 2 manuals, 15 stops, 2½ octaves of pedals, with bourdons throughout. Terms moderate. Allen's Musical Instrument Warehouse, 17, Percy Street, Bedford Square, W. Lessons and Practice on other Instruments also.

ORGAN PRACTICE or INSTRUCTION.—Three Manuals, each of 56 notes, pedal organ, 30 notes, 17 effective stops, and blown by Lea's Automatic Hydraulic Engine. Terms, which are strictly inclusive, on application at Blennerhasset's Organ School and Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, Pentonville, W.C.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

Incorporated by Special Charter under Act of Parliament.

WEYMOUTH STREET, PORTLAND PLACE.

DEPARTMENT OF EVENING CLASSES.

THE THIRD WINTER SESSION will commence on THURSDAY, October 4, at 8 p.m., with a Public Reception of past and present students and their friends.

THE MUSICAL DIVISION comprises separate or combined Courses of Instruction in Harmony, Counterpoint, Canon and Fugue, Orchestration, Composition (musical form), Organ, Pianoforte, Solo and Class Singing, &c. Professors: Edmond Silas, J. Gordon Saunders, Mus. B., J. W. Hinton, M.A., Mus. D., Bradbury Turner, Mus. B., H. J. Stark, Mus. B., &c.

THE ARTS DIVISION embraces classes in Latin, Greek, French, German, English Composition and Literature, Mathematics, Natural Sciences, &c. Professors: E. Passawer, LL.D., W. J. Jennings, B.A., A. Motteau, &c. Also a MATRICULATION CLASS for London University, under the direction of Philip Magnus, B.A., B.Sc., Lond., assisted by a staff of graduates.

THE EVENING CLASSES. Prospectus may be had of the Assistant Secretary, at the College, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W. (about thirty doors west of Harley Street), by post, or on personal application. The College is within a few minutes of the Metropolitan Railway and of Oxford Circus.

THE COLLEGE CALENDAR for 1877-78 is now ready, price 2s. 6d., and may be had of the Publishers, Messrs. Reeves and Co., 185, Fleet Street, E.C.

THE HARMONY CLASS at TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON, will recommence on Monday Evening, October 8, at 7 p.m. Fee, One Guinea per term. Professor: J. GORDON SAUNDERS, Mus. B., Oxon.

THE COUNTERPOINT CLASS at TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON, will recommence on Monday Evening, October 8. Fee, One Guinea per term. Professor: EDMOND SILAS.

THE COMPOSITION CLASS at TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON, will recommence the second week in October. Fee, One Guinea per term. Professor: EDWIN M. LOTT. The ORCHESTRATION CLASS will be conducted by the same Professor.

THE PIANOFORTE COURSE at TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON, will recommence the first week in October. Professor: BRADBURY TURNER, Mus. B., Cantab., Member and Associate of the Royal Academy of Music.

THE ORGAN COURSE at TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON, will recommence the first week in October, under the direction of J. W. HINTON, M.A., Mus. D., and other Professors. Fee: Theory Students, One Guinea; otherwise, Two Guineas, per term.

THE HARMONY CLASS for LADIES at TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON (in which students are specially prepared for the College Certificates to Women) will recommence early in October. Professor: HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. B., Oxon.

NOTICE.—All APPLICATIONS respecting the above classes at TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON, should be addressed to the Assistant Secretary, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W.

THE MANCHESTER BRANCH of TRINITY COLLEGE will shortly reopen for the Winter Session, under the direction of J. KENDRICK PYNE, Organist of Manchester Cathedral, and J. MORGAN BENTLEY, Mus. B., Cantab. Class Rooms, 18, St. Ann's Street, Manchester.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

HIGHER EXAMINATIONS FOR WOMEN.

The New Regulations as to Examinations for Higher Musical Certificates to Women are now published, and may be had of the Registrar. The separate subjects in which certificates may be taken are: 1. Harmony; 2. Counterpoint; 3. General Musical Knowledge; 4. Pianoforte or Organ Playing; 5. The Voice.

The first examination will take place in January next.

HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. B.,
Trinity College, London, W. Hon. Registrar.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

RESIDENT STUDENTS.

Arrangements have been made for the reception of a number of Resident Musical Students, who will receive a complete Professional Training.

The complete course is of three years' (twelve terms) duration; Students, however, may be received for a shorter term on special recommendation.

The Regulations for Resident Students (who are subject to the same discipline as the Resident Students at the Universities) may be seen in the College Calendar for 1877-78, or may be had, with other particulars, of the Warden (at the College, Weymouth Street, London, W.), to whom all applications should be made in the first instance.

H. G. BONAVIA HUNT, Warden.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

HONORARY MEMBERS.

The privileges of Honorary Membership (town and country) may be ascertained on application to the Assistant Secretary. The next election will take place September 29 (Michaelmas day), from which date subscriptions will carry to the next January twelvemonth (1879).

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

The following is an analysis of the results of the recent Local Examination in Elementary Musical Knowledge in connection with Trinity College, London, for which 1,118 Candidates entered:—

	Senior	Junior	Combined Totals
Honours, 1st Class	9	17	26
" 2nd "	9	17	26
" 3rd "	24	35	59
Total honours	42	69	111
Pass certificates	95	419	514
Total successful	137	488	625
Failed	83	367	450
Withdraw	12	31	43

Total number of candidates... 232 886 1,118

Of the 419 successful Pass Candidates in the Junior Division 61 received Certificates, with Special Mention of the First, Second, and Third Class, and would have obtained honours but for disqualification of age.

£5 PRIZE. SENIOR DIVISION.

(Adjudicator: Sir Julius Benedict.)

Awarded to EMILIE BESSIE GRANT,

Plymouth Centre, T.C.L.

Hon. Local Sec., JOHN HELE, Mus. B.

£3 PRIZE. JUNIOR DIVISION.

(Adjudicator: Sir Julius Benedict.)

Awarded to KATE WHITMORE, Age 15.

Gloucester Centre, T.C.L.

Hon. Local Sec., FREDERIC CLARK.

The Special CATHEDRAL BOY'S PRIZE of Three Guineas is not awarded, as no candidate reached the required standard of excellence. Special Mention is, however, afforded by Sir JOHN GOSS to Frank Barraclough, age 12, chorister of Peterborough Cathedral. Hon. Local Sec., the Rev. W. Farley Wilkinson, M.A., Minor Canon of Peterborough Cathedral.

ORGAN STUDIO, 140 (late 166), STRAND (opposite the Gaiety).—LESSONS or PRACTICE (and at St. Michael's, Stockwell, S.W.) on fine two-manual C ORGANS (HILL and SON).—Full pedal compass.—W. VENNING SOUTHGATE (Organist, St. Michael's, Stockwell), "The Strand Organ Studio," W.C.: Established, 1867.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Fine instrument; two manuals; separate pedal organ. Terms, £1 1s. per quarter, 26 hours, blower included. Entwisle, Organ Studio, 1, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

ORGAN LESSONS and PRACTICE on one of the finest organs in the City; three manuals, 43 registers. Terms moderate. Address, Organist, 17, Brownwood Villas, Stroud Green Road, N.

TO AMATEUR COMPOSERS.—MSS. REVISED for PUBLICATION, and Lessons in Composition, by post, by W. H. GILL, Sidcup, Kent.

TO COMPOSERS WISHING TO PUBLISH.—MUSIC engraved, printed, and published in the best style at exceptionally low prices. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Simpson and Co., 33, Argyl Street, London, W.

MUSIC ENGRAVED, PRINTED, AND PUBLISHED in the best style, and on moderate terms, a statement of which sent on application, by B. Williams, 60, Paternoster Row.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest varied stock of Music in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day, or if in stock posted immediately, if required. Terms highly advantageous. London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

W. G. HALLIFAX & CO., 315, Oxford Street, W., ENGRAVE AND PRINT AUTHORS' WORKS at the lowest possible cost, and introduce them. Estimates by return of post.

COMPOSERS wishing to bring their compositions prominently before the public should send their COMPOSITIONS for INSPECTION to E. DONAJOWSKI, Music Publisher, 8, Winsley Street, London, W. Samples of style of publication on receipt of six stamps. Great sale guaranteed for works selected.

MR. STEDMAN'S CONCERT PARTIES for
Oratorio and Miscellaneous Concerts, Institutions, Evening
Parties, Soirées, &c. &c.

MADE UP FROM THE MOST EMINENT ARTISTS, AND INCLUDING: Mesdames Annie Sinclair, Anna Williams, Mary
Davies, Matilda Scott, Worrell-Duval, Jessie Royd, Hugo, Saidie
Singleton, Poole, Helen D'Alton, Annie Butterworth, Helen Armin, Dones, Gill, Osborne Williams; Messrs. Stedman, Kenningham,
Charles Beckett, J. L. Wadmore, George Fox, Thurlay Beale, King
Hall, Russell Lochner, Henry Parker, &c. &c.

THE STANDARD QUARTETT—Messrs. Hodges, Stedman,
Charles Beckett, and Thurlay Beale. For terms and particulars address, Mr. STEDMAN, 1, Berners Street, W.

ESTABLISHED, APRIL 1866.

THE ENGLISH GLEE UNION.

Mr. H. ASHTON, Mr. F. H. COZENS,
Mr. FOUNTAIN MEEN, Mr. ALBERT HUBBARD,

ASSISTED BY

Madame ASHTON.

For terms, &c., address, H. Ashton, Secretary, Ivy House, Stamford
Hill, London, N.

THE YORKSHIRE CONCERT PARTY.—

Madame Pauline Grayston, Soprano; Miss Emily Empsall; Contralto; Mr. Verney Binns, Tenor; Mr. H. Rickard, Bass; Mr.
William Clark, Accompanist.

Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Concerts, &c. For terms, full party or otherwise, address, Mr. C. G. Taylor, 56, Lofthouse Place, Leeds.

First-class Agents wanted for London, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales.

SAINT CECILIA CONCERT PARTY.—Madame

Pauline Evison (Soprano), Miss Emmeline Kennedy (Contralto), Mr. George Nunns (Tenor), Mr. T. Dodds (Bass), Mr. Jno.
Shaw (Solo Pianist). Address, Mr. T. Dodds, 7, Brunswick Terrace, Leeds.

THE RIPON QUARTETT and CONCERT

PARTY.—Mr. H. J. Dutton (Alto), Mr. Herbert Parratt
(1st Tenor), Mr. J. W. Calverley (2nd Tenor), Mr. John Thursfield (Bass). A Lady Vocalist provided if necessary. For Concerts, Banquets, &c., address, Mr. John Thursfield, the Cathedral.

MADAME TREBELLI'S CONCERT TOUR.—

Artists: Madame Trebelli, Miss Anna Williams, Mdlle. Ida
Basilier, Mr. Barton McGuckin, Herr Conrad Behrens, and M. Claude
Jaquinot (violin). All communications to be addressed to Mr. N.
Vert, 52, New Bond Street, London.

MR. T. HARPER'S TOUR will commence this month. Artists: Miss Agnes Larkcom, Miss Marion Severn, Mr. Kenningham, Mr. Thurlay Beale, Mr. Fountain Meen (Pianoforte), Mr. Harper (Trumpet). 25, Brecknock Crescent, N.W.

CONCERT PARTY.—Metropolitan District only.—

WANTED, SOPRANOS, CONTRALTOS, TENORS, and BASS for Solos and Glees. Address, Conductor, Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 & 81, Queen Street, E.C.

MISS CARINA CLELLAND (Prima donna, Soprano) begs to intimate that all dates from 1st September to 7th October are now filled up. Miss Clelland will visit Manchester in October to fulfil oratorio and concert engagements in the north. For vacant dates, address, 35, Charteris Road, Finsbury Park, London; or, Mr. Clelland, Cheetham, Manchester.

ITALIAN LANGUAGE.—Signor CONTI

(a Tuscan) TEACHES ITALIAN either for Public Examinations or simple pronunciation. His pupils have more than doubled the necessary marks to qualify. Visits any direction of London. Address, at any date, 19, Sloane Terrace, Sloane Square.

A YOUNG LADY is desirous of obtaining a SITUATION in a MUSIC SHOP. Can play pianoforte. No previous experience. Address, E. C., Mr. Buswell, Stationer, &c., Redland, Bristol.

WANTED.—A RE-ENGAGEMENT required in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE by a Young Lady, who has had eight years' experience. Good references. M. W., Belvoir House, Walton Street, Oxford.

WANTED, by a YOUTH aged sixteen, well grounded in Practical and Theoretical Music, a SITUATION in a Musical Warehouse, where he will enjoy the privilege of perfecting himself in every branch of Musical Education. Address, A. F., 104, High Street, Barnstaple.

TUNER, understands Harmoniums and Repairing, desires an APPOINTMENT; steady and respectable.

Tuner, 14, William Street, Ipswich.

WANTED, in September, by a Young Man, aged 22, married, a SITUATION as ASSISTANT in a PIANO and MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Can teach and tune. Been five years Pupil Teacher and Organist. Address, Etcetera, 4 Hapton Street, Padiham, Lancashire.

PIANOFORTE REGULATOR and REPAIRER.

A thoroughly practical and steady Man (good workman) desires a PERMANENT ENGAGEMENT. Understands harmoniums and American organs. Highest references. Apply, Regulator, Post Office, Southampton Road, Kentish Town, London, N.W.

WANTED, a SITUATION as IMPROVER, and where a knowledge of Pianoforte Tuning can be gained, by a Youth aged sixteen. Is able to tune and repair Concertinas, Harmon-iums, and Accordions. Good references. Apply, J. R. P., Music Warehouse, Bridge Street, Wisbech.

WANTED, a SITUATION as ASSISTANT

TUNER, REGULATOR, and REPAIRER. Age 26. Factory experience. Good reference. Southern counties preferred.
Address, A. B., Sussex Pianoforte Manufactory, Lindfield, Hayward's
Heath, Sussex.

TUNER, REGULATOR, &c., 26, open to engagement. Country. Abstainer, Musical Times Office.

A TUNER (from Broadwood's) wishes to obtain

EMPLOYMENT for three or four days in the week. West or South-west district preferred. Is a good Pianist. A. B., 25, Paddington Green, W.

WANTED, a SALESMAN, with good address, for a Pianoforte Warehouse in Edinburgh. Must play the pianoforte and harmonium, assist at the counter department, or be able to tune or keep the books. Liberal salary. Apply, Edina, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

REPAIRER WANTED for the Pianoforte, Harmonium, and American Organ. Must be a first-rate hand for the Workshop only. W. C. Burden and Co., 35, Granby Street, Leicester.

PIANOFORTE TUNER.—Messrs. Abel, of Northampton, have an opening for a first-class outdoor TUNER and REGULATOR. His character must be unexceptionable. The appointment will be a permanent one. State terms and references.

TUNER and REPAIRER.—WANTED, in November next, for a music and pianoforte business in a large town in the North of England, a TUNER who can regulate and repair.

One who has been with the Messrs. Broadwood preferred. Good references indispensable. Address, F. F., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER and REGULATOR required for country outdoor work. Must be experienced, and from a leading London firm. Apply, stating particulars, age, and salary required, to R. J. H., 5, Bridge Street, Newport, Monmouth.

A COMPETENT and steady TUNER WANTED.

Regular work and wages to a good hand; must be able to do slight repairs and regulate. Apply to Locke and Son, 34 and 36, Great Ducie Street, Manchester. N.B.—Good character indispensable.

WANTED, a respectable Young Man, as PIANO-

FORTE TUNER, &c. He must be able to give thoroughly satisfactory references. Apply, stating salary required, to X. X., care of Messrs. Novello and Co.

TO ORGAN-BUILDERS.—WANTED first-class

WORKMEN (inside hands). Apply to Mr. J. Porritt, Organ-Builder, Leicester.

WANTED, a MUSIC BUSINESS. Address,

Mr. Hacking, 37, Houndsgate, Nottingham.

PIANOFORTE and TUNING BUSINESS; well situated, North London; same hands 20 years, proprietor retiring;

net profits, £350 yearly, with energy could be doubled; lease, goodwill, and fixtures, very low terms. Large 10-roomed house. Rent nominal.
Apply, 15, Dalston Lane, N.

PARTNER, with capital, WANTED, to assist advertiser in carrying out contracts for musical instruments.

Address, Bach, Messrs. Novello and Co.

EAST LONDON ORGAN WORKS,

9, Burdett Road, Mile End, E.—E. CARPER is prepared to send Specifications for building Organs of very superior materials and workmanship. Alterations, rebuilding, and repairs. First-class workmen sent to all parts on very moderate terms. Tuning, &c. Second-hand ORGANS for SALE.

ORGANS for Church or Chamber, full rich tone,

from 35 guineas. ORGAN HARMONIUMS, with 1 or 2 manuals, full compass of pedals, from 25 to 54 guineas, invaluable for Teaching or Organ Practice. SPRAGUE'S Celebrated ORGAN-
TONE HARMONIUMS, 6 guineas; best in the trade.—William Sprague, 7, Finsbury Pavement, London.

A MONK'S 100-GUINEA ORGANS, 2 CC Manuals,

Bourdon pedal pipes, 10 stops. 200-guinea Organs, 2 manuals,
16 stops. 300-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 21 stops. 400-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 27 stops. Organs built to any design. Old Organs rebuilt. Additions, Repairs, Tunings, &c. Specifications and Estimates free. Sussex Terrace, King's Road, Camden Town, London.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minories, London.

STUTTGART HARMONIUM COMPANY.—LEOPOLD KAHN, Stuttgart, Germany.

Price Lists on application to ALPHONSE CARY, Sole Representative, 26, Fortress Terrace, Kentish Town, N.W.; close to Kentish Town Station. Inspection solicited.

T. R. WILLIS (established, 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c. 29, Minories, London. List for stamp.

DEAN'S CHEAP MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.—School Band Flutes, from 3s. 6d.; 8-Key Concert Flutes, 25s.; Cornets, in case, 30s.; Drums, Tambourines, Banjos, and every article in the trade. A good Violin, with Bow and Book, in case, 20s. English, Roman, and Acribelle Violin Strings—5 English firsts, warranted to stand at concert pitch, sent free for 13 stamps. Joseph Dean, Music Warehouse, 77, City Road, E.C. Established, 1843. Price lists sent free.

BRASS, REED, STRING, and DRUM and FIFE BANDS, PIANOFORTES and HARMONIUMS, supplied at wholesale prices, at J. MOORE'S, Buxton Road, Huddersfield. Prices, with drawings of every instrument, post-free. Music for any kind of band. Patronised by the army, navy, and rifle corps.

RUSSELL'S MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

CONCERTINAS, Harmoniums, Organ Accordions, Flutinas, Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Violins, Cornets, Saxhorns, Clarionets, Flageolets, Guitars, Banjos, Musical Boxes, Strings, &c. Self-instruction Books. Instruments repaired or exchanged. Price Lists free. J. Russell, 158, Goswell Road, Clerkenwell, London.

ACCURATE METRONOMES, 1s., post-free. Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing Class Tutor, 12th ed., 6d. each. D. Scholefield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES.—150 by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, Allison, &c., from 4 guineas upwards. HARMONIUMS (New), from £5, in Walnut or Mahogany cases. Largest stock of Pianos and Harmoniums in London at Kelly and Co.'s, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital. Trade supplied.

GREAT SALE OF MUSICAL PROPERTY.

MESSRS. KELLY & CO. beg to announce to the Trade, Professors, Schools, and Public in general, that their forthcoming QUARTERLY SALE OF MUSICAL PROPERTY, &c., comprising about 135 Pianofortes, Harps, and Harmoniums by all the principal makers, will take place on WEDNESDAY, October 3, at their Great Central Repository, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital. Catalogues will be forwarded post-free on application.

PIANOFORTES, 15 Guineas.—CLEARANCE SALE, all 7 octaves and by good makers, for 17 guineas, cost 34; for 25 guineas, cost 50. Great bargains. On view at Robinson and Co.'s, opposite Dalston Junction.

TO SELL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS of every description, also Libraries of Music, Music Plates and Copyrights, Stock-in-Trade, &c., SALE (devoted exclusively to this class of property) held every month. Single instruments inserted. Consignments received at any time. Puttick and Simpson, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C. [Established, 1794.]

VIOLINS, TENORS, VIOLONCELLOS, and DOUBLE BASSES, by "Craske" equal to Stradivarius and Guarnerius.

Upwards of 500 of these splendid Instruments now on Sale at Edward Crompton's, 54, Barton Arcade, Deansgate, Manchester (3rd floor), many of which have been made 50 years.

Also a large collection of Italian Instruments.

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, VIOLONCELLOS, &c.—JOHNSON HICKS, Dealer in, and careful Repairer of, "CREMONA" and other Violins, &c.—Brunswick House, Torquay, Devon.

OLD VIOLINS.—To Amateurs and Professionals. —To be DISPOSED OF, two genuine Old Violins in excellent preservation, in a handsome case, complete. One suitable for a Soloist, the other a Leader. Full rich tones. Apply before eleven or after three for inspection and trial at 22, Richmond Terrace, Clapham Road.

THROAT IRRITATION.—The throat and wind-pipe are especially liable to inflammation, causing soreness and dryness, tickling and irritation, inducing cough and affecting the voice. For these symptoms use glycerine in the form of jujubes. Glycerine, in these agreeable confections, being in proximity to the glands at the moment they are excited by the act of sucking, becomes actively healing. Sold only in 6d. and 1s. boxes (by post for 14 stamps), labelled JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle Street, and 170, Piccadilly.

FLUTE MUSIC.—WANTED, a Copy of PRATTEN'S SCALES and EXERCISES, fingered for Siccama flute. W. Duck and Co., Musicians, Bath.

D'ALMAINE'S PIANOS (485)

AT HALF-PRICE.

IN CONSEQUENCE OF THE DEATH OF THE LATE PROPRIETOR THE

WHOLE OF THIS SPLENDID STOCK

IS OFFERED AT

15 AND 17 GUINEAS

(WORTH 30 AND 35 GUINEAS);

20 AND 25 GUINEAS

(WORTH 40 AND 50 GUINEAS).

DOUBLE CHECK ACTIONS ALL HALF-PRICE.

To effect a speedy clearance easy terms arranged.

SEVEN YEARS WARRANTY.

ON VIEW AT

5, FINSBURY PAVEMENT,

MOORGATE STATION.

LONDON AGENTS,

MESSRS. MOUTRIE AND SON,

PIANOFORTE SALOON,

55, BAKER STREET, LONDON, W.

MR. J. HAMILTON begs to inform Organists, Organ Students, and others that the Pedals and Action for attachment to Pianofortes manufactured by him can be inspected and ordered at the above address.

A set of Straight Pedals 30 notes (C to F), with action and printed instructions, "How to Attach," price £4 4s. Or Radiating and Concave Pedal Board, with action, price £5 5s.

TESTIMONIAL.

"Barrow Street, Quorndon, near Loughborough,

July 16, 1877.

"SIR,—It is now over two years since I purchased a set of your pedals and action for pianofortes. After having thoroughly tested them and used them regularly for so long a period I have no hesitation in saying that they are a most decided success, and at the same time advise every organ student who wishes to become proficient in the art of pedalling to procure a set of them at once.

"I remain, Sir, yours truly,

"To Mr. J. Hamilton."

"J. J. CALLIS.

Orders accompanied with Cheque or P.O. Order will receive immediate attention. Send for prices to the Profession and Trade.

Address, J. HAMILTON, 11, Brunswick Street, City Road, Bristol.

HIGHEST CLASS OF EXCELLENCE.

MILLEREAU'S BAND INSTRUMENTS FOR ARTISTS.

BOEHM AND ENGLISH CLARINETS, CONSERVATOIRE AND BOEHM OBOES, CORNET-A-PISTONS, CYLINDRICAL BOEHM FLUTES, &c.

MILLEREAU'S FRENCH VOCAL HORN IN C.

Priced Catalogue and Designs free to any part of the world.

PARIS. 29, RUE DES TROIS BORNES. FRANCE.

TO ORGANISTS, &c.—For SALE, all MOZART'S and HAYDN'S MASSES (34 copies), folio edition, by Novello, bound in six volumes, nearly new. Bargain, £3 10s. Apply to Mr. Campbell, 68, Lupus Street, Pimlico, S.W.

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.'S

CELEBRATED

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS

UNEQUALLED BY ANY OTHER MAKERS.

These ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS stand first among any such instruments for

QUALITY OF TONE, DURABILITY, RAPIDITY OF TOUCH,
PREDOMINANCE OF THE TREBLE OVER THE BASS,
PERFECT ACTION,
BRILLIANCY OF THE SOLO STOPS, NEWLY INVENTED
DOUBLE ACTION, SOLID IMPROVED SOUND-BOARD,
AND DOUBLE EFFECTIVE SWELLS.

List of Prices and Books of Designs, and upwards of 300 Testimonials from all parts of the globe, to be had post-free.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.,

10, 12, & 14, Bow Street, Sheffield.

N.B.—These Harmoniums are 20 per cent cheaper than any other house, and a far superior tone.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium gives the greatest satisfaction, and is really the best instrument I have fallen in with.—Yours truly,
W. P. M. SLATER.

39, Franklin Street, South Shields, May 6, 1876.

GENTLEMEN,—By a mistake in the address the Harmonium was left at a wayside station, so that I did not get it here till last night; however, it is uninjured and gives me every satisfaction. Its tone and workmanship are admirable, and in rapidity of touch it is quite equal to a large Alexandre Percussion instrument, on which I sometimes play. I shall always be glad to recommend your Harmoniums.—Believe me, faithfully yours,

W. F. ASHBIDGE, M.A., Curate of Bessingby.

Bessingby Road, Bridlington, Dec. 15, 1876.

Mr. J. M. Boulard, Manager of the Alleghanians, Vocalists and Bell Players.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium you made for me in travelling case answers our purpose exceedingly well, and my company are all delighted with it.—Yours truly,
Sept. 16, 1876. J. M. BOULARD.

GENTLEMEN,—Kindly find cheque for the Harmonium to hand. I may add that our people are very much pleased with the instrument. It is a little gem.—Yours faithfully,
Shirland and Higham School Board, Shirland, near Alfreton,
Feb. 2, 1877. J. W. H. WOOD.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium arrived here yesterday. I am much pleased with it, and it is a very pretty, nice-looking instrument.—Yours truly,
Merrington Vicarage, Terry Hill, Dec. 10, 1875. DAVID BRUCE.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium arrived here in capital condition last week. I am very pleased with it. The tone is exceedingly sweet and pleasing. All who have seen it here like it very much.—Yours faithfully,
Montserrat, West Indies, Aug. 11, 1876. H. R. HOLME.

"A supreme and perfect harmony of notes."

E. & W. SNELL'S

IMPROVED ENGLISH HARMONIUMS.

MANUFACTORY: LITTLE KING STREET NORTH, CAMDEN TOWN, LONDON, N.W.

Chief characteristics of the "SNELL HARMONIUM." Pure, musical, and euphonious quality of tone, possessing great sweetness and organlike character, combined with perfect articulation and equality of sound throughout the scale, the tenor notes not predominating over the treble. Light and elastic touch, rendering the instrument equally effective for Secular as for Sacred music. Simplicity and novelty of action. Improved mechanism and superior finish throughout. Durability, general excellence, and extreme moderation of price. Full particulars, designs, and prices, with testimonials specially referring to the important improvements introduced into these much admired instruments, free of the makers, E. and W. SNELL, as above. Profession and trade supplied.

E. and W. SNELL beg to announce that, having just completed the Enlargement of their Premises, they are now enabled to execute any orders with which they may be favoured with promptitude and despatch. Any kind of instrument of the free reed class to order.

ORGAN.—Advertiser OFFERS ORGAN (8 stops, pedals) for £30 or Piano and £10. 170, Pentonville Road, N.

CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.

NOTICE.

A PRIZE MEDAL of the FIRST RANK was awarded at Philadelphia, 1876, to

PELOUBET, PELTON, & Co.,

NEW YORK,

FOR THE GENERAL EXCELLENCE OF THEIR

"STANDARD"

AMERICAN ORGANS.

PRICES, 12 TO 125 GUINEAS.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE to be had on application to

BARNETT SAMUEL & SON,

31, HOUNDSDITCH, E.C., & 32, WORSHIP STREET, FINSBURY SQUARE,

Sole Agents for the United Kingdom and British Colonies.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT ALLOWED TO THE TRADE.

MUSIC STRINGS—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

J. P. GUIVIER AND CO.,

MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF

ALL KINDS OF MUSIC STRINGS FOR ALL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

Sole Dépôt for Signor ANDREA RUFFINI'S (of Naples) Celebrated Strings for Soloists.

25, SHERWOOD STREET, REGENT CIRCUS, PICCADILLY.

Price List free on application.
All kinds of strings covered in a superior manner on powerful machines made on the best principle with all modern improvements.

J. B. CRAMER AND CO'S FRENCH POLISH REVIVER, invented by GEORGE WATTS, for cleaning and polishing furniture, pianos, and leather of every description.

OPINIONS OF THE LONDON AND BRIGHTON PRESS.

"This is a really genuine article."—Times. "The brilliant and lasting polish obtained is surprising."—Guardian. "Very successful results have attended its application."—Daily News. "We have, therefore, much pleasure in recommending it to housekeepers as a really useful and valuable preparation."—The Queen. "Any one can use Cramer's Reviver with success."—The Orchestra.

Price 1s., 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d. per bottle. To be obtained of grocers and pianoforte dealers. Agents wanted.

Wholesale and retail agents—J. B. Cramer and Co., and Metzler and Co., London. Manufacturers—J. B. Cramer and Co., Brighton.

WANTED TO PURCHASE, a good Second-hand AMERICAN ORGAN, with two manuals and independent pedals, for Organ practice at home. Address, J. G. Jones, Music Warehouse, 82, High Street, West Cowes, I.W.

WANTED, TENDERS for good CHURCH ORGAN, three manuals and pedal. About £600. Or good Second-hand Instrument. B. S., care of Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN WANTED, with two CC manuals, bourdon pedals, and about 10 stops, in good condition; suitable for a small chapel. Send price and full particulars to the Rev. W. A. Bevan, Crediton, Devon.

ORGAN.—CHURCH ORGAN, two CC Manuals, Great Organ, seven stops, Swell Organ, six stops, with Bourdon pedal pipes, twenty-nine notes, three composition pedals, speaking front. Price £170. J. Grover, Organ Builder, 82, Norfolk Terrace, Westbourne Grove, London, W.

ORGAN.—I have for immediate DISPOSAL a new ORGAN, containing 5 stops and pedals; 35 front pipes, all speaking. Price 28 guineas. Rare opportunity. J. W. Kennard, Bishop Sutton.

ORGAN FOR SALE. Two manuals throughout, two octaves, pedal pipes, and fourteen stops. Particulars from Wm. Statham, Esq., St. Mary's House, Bedford.

CHURCH ORGAN for SALE, cheap. Two manuals, pedals, 11 stops. T. C., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

GLOUCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL,

SEPTEMBER 4th, 5th, 6th, and 7th, 1877.

Principal Singers at present engaged:—

Mademoiselle ALBANI,	Mr. E. LLOYD,
Miss ADELA VERNON,	Mr. CUMMINGS,
Madame SOPHIE LÖWE,	Mr. MAYBRICK,
Miss BERTHA GRIFFITHS,	and
and	Mr. SANTLEY,
Madame PATEY.

Conductor, Mr. C. H. LLOYD.

IN THE CATHEDRAL.

On Tuesday, at 1.45—Mendelssohn's "Elijah."
On Wednesday, at 11.30—Bach's "Passion" (St. Matthew), Beethoven's "Engedi."

On Wednesday Evening, at 7.30—Haydn's "Creation," Mendelssohn's "St. Paul."

On Thursday, at 11.30—"Kyrie," Luard Selby, Brahms's "Requiem," Wesley's "Wilderness," "Hymn of Praise."

On Friday, at 11.30—Handel's "Messiah."
Choral Service Daily, and Special Service on Friday Evening.
Grand Concerts at the Shire Hall on Tuesday and Thursday Evenings.

Programmes and Tickets at Mr. E. Nest's, Westgate Street, Gloucester.

LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1877, TOWN HALL, LEEDS.

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY, and SATURDAY,
SEPTEMBER 19th, 20th, 21st, and 22nd, 1877.

Conductor ... SIR MICHAEL COSTA.

PRINCIPAL VOCALISTS:—

MDLLE. ALBANI,
MDME. EDITH WYNNE, MRS. OSGOOD,
MDME. PATEY,

MDLLE. REDEKER, MRS. MUDIE-BOLINGBROKE,
MR. EDWARD LLOYD, MR. WM. SHAKESPEARE,
MR. SANTLEY,

MR. CECIL TOVEY, and SIGNOR FOLI.

BAND AND CHORUS OF 400 PERFORMERS.

Organist: DR SPARK. Chorus Master: MR. BROUGHTON.

OUTLINE PROGRAMMES.—WEDNESDAY: Elijah. Evening: The Fire-King (new Cantata), by Walter Austin, and Miscellaneous Selection. THURSDAY: Mendelssohn's Walpurgis Nacht, Beethoven's Symphony (No. 8), and Miscellaneous. Evening: Solomon. FRIDAY: Joseph, by G. A. Macfarren (written for this Festival). Evening: Raff's Symphony in G minor, and Miscellaneous. SATURDAY: Bach's Magnificat in D, Mozart's Requiem, and Beethoven's Mount of Olives.

FRONT SEATS AND GALLERY TICKETS (Reserved) at the Festival Offices.

Serial Ticket for the seven performances (transferable) ... £5 0s.

Single Ticket, morning ... £1 1s.

Ditto evening ... 15s.

SECOND RESERVED SEAT TICKETS only at HOPKINSON BROTHERS and Co., Commercial Street.

Morning ... 10s. 6d.

Evening ... 7s. 6d.

FULL FESTIVAL PROGRAMMES may be had gratis at the FESTIVAL OFFICES, and at the MUSIC WAREHOUSES.

JOHN WM. ATKINSON, } Hon. Secs.

FRED. R. SPARK,

Festival Offices, Great George Street (Town Hall), Leeds.

ROYAL ALBERT HALL CHORAL SOCIETY.

President, H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.

Conductor, Mr. BARNEY.

LADIES and GENTLEMEN desirous of joining this Society should apply at once to Mr. J. Hedley, Royal Albert Hall, Kensington, S.W.

THE GROSVENOR CHORAL SOCIETY.

CONDUCTOR, MR. J. G. CALLCOTT.

An Amateur Orchestral Band is now being formed to assist in the performance of new and standard works at this Society's Monthly Concerts. None but efficient performers will be admitted.

Further particulars can be obtained of Mr. Henry Baker, 20, Claverton Street, S.W.

THE MANCHESTER GENTLEMEN'S GLEE CLUB.

in order to encourage and develop the composition of English Glee, hereby offers a PRIZE OF TWENTY POUNDS (£20) for the Best Original SERIOUS GLEE, and a like Prize for the Best Original CHEERFUL GLEE. Arrangements will be found in the Conditions for preserving the perfect incognito of the unsuccessful competitors if they so desire it. Full particulars of the Conditions under which the Prizes will be offered and awarded may be obtained on application, by letter, addressed to Mr. Henry T. Robberds, 17A, Cooper Street, Manchester, Hon. Sec. to Prize Sub-Committee.

Just published, price 2s. 6d.

MUSIC IN THE HOUSE,

By JOHN HULLAH,

Being Vol. III. of the "ART at HOME SERIES." With illustrations.

Crown 8vo.

MACMILLAN and Co., London.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

(PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH)

Price Threepence.

Annual subscription, including postage, 4s.

Subscriptions will also be received by all Book and Music Sellers (not including postage), 3s.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines
For every additional Line
Half a Column
A Column
A Page

A discount of 10 per cent is allowed for twelve consecutive insertions. It is respectfully requested that a remittance be sent with all Advertisements.

Advertisements for the October number should reach the Office not later than September 24. Those received after this date cannot be guaranteed insertion in their proper places, but will appear among the late Advertisements.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

IN THE

UNITED STATES, CANADA, AND AUSTRALIA.

THE Musical Times can be sent direct by post to the UNITED STATES, CANADA, and AUSTRALIA at the ordinary subscription rate, viz. Four shillings per annum.

Post-office orders should be made payable to
NOVELLO & CO., 1, BERNERS STREET. W.

MESSRS.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Have the honour to announce that, in consequence of the retirement from business of their late American Agent, Mr. J. L. PETERS, the Sole Agency for the sale of their Publications in the UNITED STATES has been transferred to

MESSRS. DITSON & CO.

All of Messrs. NOVELLO's Publications will in future be kept in stock by—

Messrs. OLIVER DITSON and Co. ... Boston.
" C. H. DITSON and Co. ... New York.
" J. E. DITSON and Co. ... Philadelphia.
" LYON and HEALY ... Chicago.
" DOBMEYER and NEWHALL Cincinnati.

ALL ORDERS SHOULD STATE

NOVELLO'S EDITIONS.

New and Important Work for the Competitive Musical Examinations, &c.

Just published, in crown 8vo, cloth, price 6s.

THE STUDENT'S TEXT-BOOK

OF THE

SCIENCE OF MUSIC

For Use in Schools and Colleges, and for purposes of self-instruction.
By JOHN TAYLOR, Author of "Manual of Vocal Music," &c. &c.

London: George Philip and Son, 32, Fleet Street; and 49 and 51, South Castle Street, Liverpool.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

SEPTEMBER 1, 1877.

MUSICIANS AND THEIR MASTERS.

By JOSEPH GREEN.

THE "Proceedings of the Musical Association," the third volume of which has just appeared, begin to be looked forward to in their printed form as an important annual. The report for 1876-77 contains papers of considerable interest on various subjects connected with the mechanics, the science, the literature, history, theory, and even the philosophy of the art.

On the present occasion we intend to confine ourselves to one subject, not because it is by any means of the most general interest, but because it is perpetually appearing in the discussions, and is one of the reasons for the existence of the Association. We refer to the opposite standpoints of science and technique in musical theory.

In spite of the recent acoustical discoveries which occupy most attention in the scientific papers read at the meetings of the Association, no one at all versed in such matters can take a cursory glance at those papers without experiencing the indescribable feeling of sadness that a perusal of history, or even of an historical novel, is apt to excite.

About a hundred and fifty years ago there was just such another scientific revival as seems to be now impending amongst musical students. At that time a certain provincial organist in France was becoming a little crazed with the scientific novelty then known as "resonance." He subsequently published the notion that in addition to what we now call "over-tones," the vibrating chord set in motion other vibrations which gave an "undertone," or, to distinguish it from a phenomenon now better known by the same name, let us say "underfifth." Rameau, to whom we allude, quickly abandoned his hypothesis as a question of physical science; but the musical device vulgarly called "inversion" which he wanted to confirm by a process of nature still remains what Mr. Bosanquet, in the report of the Musical Association, very well describes as "an extremely simple and powerful mode of exhibiting" the relationship of sounds. But we do not see very clearly why Mr. Bosanquet should emphasise his discovery by "coming down at once," as he says, "to Crotch" to call our attention to so old and familiar a fact as a scale, or a triad and its inversion.

Mr. Bosanquet informs us that the system of a table he quotes from Crotch is "substantially" the same as the one Mr. Ellis employs in his "Duodenae." The principle is exactly the same, excepting that in Mr. Ellis's system there is an attempt at classification and in Crotch's table there is none whatever. Mr. Bosanquet must have found the same system in theory books more than a century old. It is employed by Helmholtz in the little of mere technical theory he chooses to give us; it is employed by nearly all Continental theorists of our day, as well as by all recent commentators on the Greek system, who use it to show in our notation a transformed scale without change of diatonic—in other words, the difference between a Greek "tone," key, or "scale of transposition," and a "mode" or "genus" contained in the key.

Mr. Bosanquet, we are quite sure, for the sake of a common interest in the subject, will excuse us singling out his over-emphatic allusion to Crotch and his table for our own purpose of suggesting that the habit of viewing musical questions chiefly from the scientific side induces a certain neglectfulness in looking for and in seizing and appreciating those common facts and devices which the technical musician has at his finger-ends. On that and many other accounts scientific men are out of their element when they invade the province of the technical theorist. Helmholtz himself is no exception.*

We have been told lately by a member of the Syndicate of Cambridge University that the theory of music means the underlying science, and that what musicians choose to call the theory of music is nothing more than the "classification of chords;" and we think it was in this very periodical that we read some time since a letter, either from a scientist of musical tastes, or, what is often still more deplorable, a musician with a smattering of science, in which it was stated that musical theory was a question of ratios, &c., and "if it is not that," said the writer, "it can all be put on half a sheet of music-paper."

Now we are quite convinced with Dr. Pole, whose paper on the "Philosophy of Harmony" appears in the report, and we almost think with Mr. Bosanquet himself, that musical theory is not "that;" and moreover we are inclined to the opinion that it is the arithmetic of music which can be put on half a sheet of paper, and that it is the technical classification of sounds and chords which has so far fruitlessly occupied some of the best intellects, and will probably continue to occupy many minds for years to come. Any dolt can add and subtract logs., or acquire at second-hand a few facts in physical science, but the true scientific aptitude which declares itself at once in the comparing and classifying of the figures and facts and adapting them to a specific purpose is a very rare gift. To parody an old quotation, "Would that our enemies, or scientific friends, would write a technical system of music!" That is really what we want.

It is very discouraging to think of the waste of labour and love by some of our scientists in regard to music, the columns of ratios and lines of mantissa piled and compiled with so little practical good. It is the same more or less everywhere. We have before us a critique in a French newspaper signed by a writer celebrated as a musical arithmetician and theorist, who in reviewing a batch of new books on "Music and Physics" and "Physics and Music" laments the barrenness of the result as far as practical music is concerned. The writer of that article knows all about Helmholtz, and how much musicians might be and will be indebted to him when his discoveries are truly applied to musical theory. The musician does not expect the scientist to compose his music for him—indeed the idea is too painful to entertain for a moment—but he does expect that the raw materials burrowed out with so much labour should be sufficiently well polished and put together to enable him to use them, and to advance a scientific reason for employing a flat in preference to a sharp, or vice versa. From the scientific laws and facts of harmony alone, as distinguished from what we are somewhat disposed to think equally imperative—the cognate laws of melody—we can as yet find no valid reason for settling a problem so elementary.

* In Mr. Ellis's paper on "Pitch and Change of Pitch in Music," he says (page 13), "Mr. Herrman Smith writes to me that very few persons are able to discriminate between a perfect and a slightly imperfect interval of an octave. It is only by interposing another interval that you can be certain of an octave." That fact, in our opinion, illustrates the whole question between science and technique. Music is an affair of contrast. The illustration refers not only to pitch but to quality. A very good judge of a violin is apt to err unless he can compare its tone with another instrument. In the sister art the varying effect of colours by juxtaposition is capable of scientific explanation. We have not arrived at that in music; but every one feels that the effects of intervals change by juxtaposition. The scientist nevertheless insists on specified intervals of the same pitch and of the same quality being of the same effect in all cases.

Mr. Bosanquet says, "Almost all recent writers state that whenever harmony has been practised the chords have been made up by combining certain sounds of the scale at that time in use." He adds, "As far, however, as my studies have carried me there is no instance until quite recently in which even a theoretical writer has derived his chords in this way, nor is there any historical authority for the statement that they were actually so derived. Crotch and all the older writers derive the scale from the chords."

Mr. Bosanquet seems to be deeply impressed by his recent researches into Crotch. Any technical theorist would tell him that Dr. Crotch had not a suggestion of his own to offer, and that his work—an excellent work, by-the-way—is simply a compilation from the books, principally French, which were in vogue before his time.

Crotch derives his scale from chords, according to the then prevailing system of "adjacent triads"—a system which is decidedly the "red herring" of musical theory, neither music nor science, neither Greek, nor modern, nor even good of its kind. But Mr. Bosanquet will remember that the same scale existed before the system of triads, and even before harmony in its modern acceptation was thought of. He could tell us, as a mathematician, that when in that very system we add a sound, the subdominant of the scale to a major triad, and are pleased to call it a seventh, harmony is at an end; and the principle of the scale, whatever it may be, physical or æsthetical, asserts its share of authority.

Mr. Bosanquet seems to treat intervals as chords. It is quite true, as he says, that "ancient music was determined by the lyre tuned in consonances." But the fifths and fourths he refers to, only determined the framework of the scale—the tetrachords conjunct or disjunct. The moment it is a question of filling up the intervals—and, much more in our time, the moment it is a question of combining intervals into chords—either the harmony or the scale has to succumb, and surely with musicians, time out of mind, it is the harmony which succumbs. We think Mr. Bosanquet will agree with us, that it may be taken as a maxim in musical theory that the two desiderata, "a fixed scale" and "just intonation in harmony," are simply incompatible. We judge that to be his opinion from his own remarks as to the "ninth" in the scale, and as to the greater importance of perfect fifths in harmony compared with true thirds. On that point we are glad to coincide with him completely. It is a very important point, as it revolutionises current notions on technical theory, which has always run too much on questions of thirds.

But knowing the tenderness with which we have to propose to musicians the smallest change in the scale, we cannot conceive how Mr. Bosanquet has brought himself to believe that it is "only quite recently" that theorists have derived their chords from the scale. For our parts, we cannot recall a single technical theorist, unless it be some one with a specific and exceptional craze about the series of harmonics, who has ever suggested anything else. A theorist may recommend the alteration of a scale, or the shifting of a scale, just as violinists and singers do for themselves; but the point is still "the scale," or change of scale, and the recommendation, if followed up, would only result in a revival of the Greek modes and the Greek system of modulation.

We have a strong opinion that such is the system which is to be the outcome of modern research in physical, physiological, and technical harmony. We cannot help seeing that when Mr. Bosanquet speaks of "recent theorists" he is alluding to Dr. Stainer, and has a little mystified himself in the appreciation of Dr. Stainer's theory. As we choose to understand it, although we do not pretend to commit Dr. Stainer to any such views, his theory is a complete revival of the Greek system of modes and scales of transposition. His chords are vertical scales. As the consecutive chords are treated by Wagner and the modern composers, nearly every one of them could be identified with a Greek mode. Helmholtz has tried to show the same thing. Mr. Charles Child Spencer years ago identified, as Helmholtz has done, chords of the extreme sixth with the old Church modes. Dr. Day's system of chromatics is nothing more than the old Greek relative system inverted; consequently his chromatics are all flats, excepting the sharp fourth which represents his one scale of transposition. We require more; and now that later commentators have dispelled our old notions as to the musical system of the Greeks, and their supposed total ignorance of harmony and modulation, there is no difficulty in assimilating within certain obvious limits the ancient and modern methods. The foundation of both is melody, "the essential basis of music," as the prophet of modern harmony, Helmholtz, tells us himself, as a kind of parting advice on the subject though perhaps a little overstated. The principle of "reminiscence" we now read so much of, and which is the foundation of melody, is described almost in the very words of Helmholtz by Serre a century and a quarter ago. It is that principle acknowledged by modern science which corrects or neutralises departures from truth of intonation in our chords, and allows of their being taken from a scale or one of its modes, and accounts for a dominant "ninth" either as 27:16, as Helmholtz and Mr. Bosanquet require, or 5:3, as Hauptmann and we think most musicians would make it in the majority of cases. Such combinations are not necessarily added sounds or the superposition of triads; they may be superposed modes, perhaps the Dorian system superposed on the Lydian.

We should very much like to see a system in which the chords are taken independently even of a vertical scale, the modes it contains, or its framework. We have a notion that such a system would be perilously near the one fundamental and its illimitable harmonic series. A bare allusion to the common minor scale and the chords derived therefrom ought to be sufficient to demonstrate that neither Crotch nor any one else could employ harmony-intervals except as means of adjustment. By a merely undeveloped application of the principle of inversion, to which Crotch refers without making any practical use of it, the alteration of the B flat—the chief offender in our minor scale—would force the musician into the dominant series of modes and keys; whereas the scale, like all minor modes in their pure forms, leans rather to the subdominant side. The isolated physical facts, the pure consonances, have therefore to shift for themselves when they come into collision with stronger existencies. This is not a question of drawing a deep trench between the physical and æsthetical. Probably no such division exists. It is a question of hard fact, like science itself; and perhaps in no other subject of inquiry are the dogmas of a too microscopic "scientification" more easily reduced to their probable value than in musical theory. We say "probable value" because the value of a scientific dogma is what it will fetch in another generation, when tested by other facts and newer discoveries.

THE GREAT COMPOSERS, SKETCHED BY THEMSELVES.

By JOSEPH BENNETT.

No. I.—HAYDN.

It was a saying of Roger l'Estrange that "men are not to be judged by their looks, habits, and appearances, but by the character of their lives and conversations, and by their works." The philosopher might have added, "and most of all by their letters." On the fair white surface which receives the impression of hopes and fears, loves and hates, desires and repudiations, do men leave the true stamp of themselves; and this is why I propose devoting a series of articles to the letters of the great composers. There can be no need for the worker in this case to apologise for his work, inasmuch as the danger of a false issue arises only from misinterpretation, the means of correcting which are close to every reader's hand. I begin with Joseph Haydn, simply premising that I shall say as little, and allow Haydn himself to say as much as possible.

We must await the further course of Herr Pohl's exhaustive biography in order to know the precise conditions under which Haydn passed so many years of his life as chapel-master to the Esterhazys. But his correspondence gives reason to believe that he had a fair share of the small personal worries which, because they touch so closely, are in their effects great. For instance, take this passage in a letter to Artaria, dated Estoras, September 29, 1782: "Now I beg you will put the 25 ducats, full weight, into a little box, seal it up, and wrap or sew it into an oil-cloth cover, and write nothing on it except 'à M. Haydn,' for I do not desire that any of the family here should know of my transactions. You can deliver the box to the prince's porter, and only tell him that it contains money, and then I shall receive it quite safely from him." Driven to such an expedient in order, as is too probable, to protect his hard-earned cash from extravagant feminine hands, the master is worthy of pity; but this was not all. He could not keep even his correspondence safe from the prying eyes which ought to have looked upon that simple honest nature with entire trustfulness. In a letter to Frau von Genzinger (Estoras, May 13, 1790) we read, "My highly esteemed benefactress, this is not the first time that some of my letters, and of others also, have been lost, inasmuch as our letter-bag on its way to Dedenberg (in order to have letters put into it) is always opened by the steward there, which has frequently been the cause of mistakes and other disagreeable occurrences. For greater security, however, and to defeat such disgraceful curiosity, I will henceforth inclose all my letters in a separate envelope to the porter. This trick annoys me the more because you might justly reproach me with procrastination, from which may Heaven defend me? At all events the prying person, whether male or female, cannot either in this last letter or in any of the others, have discovered anything in the least inconsistent with propriety." But it would appear that Haydn unjustly suspected the folk at Dedenberg. The "prying person" was nearer home, and the master writes to his fair friend a little later (May 30), "Such curiosity can do me no harm, far less yourself, as the whole contents of the letter were an account of my opera 'La Vera Costanza,' performed in the new theatre in the Landstrasse, and about the French teacher who was to have come at that time to Estoras. You need therefore be under no uneasiness, dear lady, either as regards the past or the future, for my friendship and esteem for you (tender as they are) can never become reprehensible, having always before my eyes respect for your elevated virtues, which not only I but all who know you must reverence. Do not let this deter you from consoling me sometimes by your agreeable letters, as they are so highly necessary to cheer me in this wilderness and to soothe my deeply wounded heart. Oh that I could be with you, dear lady, even for one quarter of an hour, to pour forth all my sorrows and to receive comfort from you!" The master's letters give indications that in other respects than those connected with domestic relationships his life at Estoras was not the calm content generally pictured. As regards personal liberty he was little better off than a slave. In the letter last quoted we read, "I trust therefore you will not be displeased with your Haydn, who, often as his prince absents himself from Estoras, never can obtain leave, even for four and twenty hours, to go to Vienna. It is scarcely credible, and yet the refusal is always couched in such polite terms and in such a manner as to render it utterly impossible for me to urge my request for leave of absence. Well, as God pleases." Again, writing to Frau von Genzinger (June 27, 1790), he says, "I am doomed to stay at home. What I lose by so doing you can well imagine: it is indeed sad always to be a slave; but Providence wills it so. I am a poor creature, plagued perpetually by hard work, and with few hours for recreation. Friends? What do I say? One true friend; there are no longer any true friends save one female friend. Oh yes! no doubt I still have one, but she is far away. Ah well! I take refuge in my thoughts. May God bless her and may she never forget me." Once more writing from London to the same correspondent, Haydn exclaims, "Oh, my dear good lady, how sweet is some degree of liberty! I had a kind prince, but was obliged at times to be dependent on base souls. I often sighed for release, and now I have it in some measure. I am quite sensible of this benefit, though my mind is burdened with more work. The consciousness of being no longer a bond-servant sweetens all my toils." How different a state of things do these extracts suggest than that fondly imagined in view of the almost uniform serenity or cheerfulness of the master's music! But I have not quoted them to prove that Haydn shared the troubled inheritance of humanity so much as to point out the meekness and gentleness with which he endured. He could pour his cares and sorrows into the heart of a faithful friend, but with regard to those from whom they came he knew how to be silent, never returning evil for evil nor railing for railing. It is a remarkable fact, for example, that his published letters contain only two references to the woman who made his married life so unhappy. In the first instance he begs Frau von Genzinger from London to advance 150 florins to Frau Haydn, and adds with characteristic caution, "To insure the safety of the money, Herr Hamberger, a good friend of mine, a man of tall stature, our landlord, will bring you this letter himself, and you can with impunity intrust him with the money; but I beg you will take a receipt both from him and from my wife." The italics are mine. In the second case he identifies Frau Haydn with a malicious report the very sending of which to the absent composer reveals the woman's nature: "My wife wrote to me that Mozart depreciates me very much, but this I will never believe. If true, I forgive him." The delicacy which restrained him, under great provocation, from making domestic circumstances a matter of discussion even with his friends is here worthy of note, but was quite in keeping with the master's general behaviour. During his first visit to London a rival enterprise to that of Salomon brought over Haydn's pupil Pleyel as a counter-attraction, and the advent of the younger musician is found thus noted in the diary of the elder: "Pleyel came to London on December 23, and I dined with him on the 24th." Moreover Haydn wrote to Frau von Genzinger (January 17, 1792), "Our rivals of the Professional Society have sent for my pupil Pleyel from Strasburg to direct their concerts. So a bloody harmonious war will now begin between teacher and scholar. . . . Pleyel on his arrival showed so much modesty towards me that he gained my goodwill afresh. We are very often together, which is much to his credit, and he knows how to appreciate his 'father;' we will share our laurels fairly, and each go home satisfied." On March 2 he writes, "My labours are augmented by the arrival of my pupil Pleyel, who has been summoned here by the Professional Society to direct their concerts. He brought with him a number of new compositions, which were, however, written long ago. He accordingly promised to give a new piece every evening. On seeing this I could easily perceive that there was a dead set against me, so I also announced publicly that I would give twelve different new pieces; so, in order to keep my promise, and to support poor Salomon, I must be the victim and work perpetually. I do feel it, however, very much. My eyes suffer most, and my nights are very sleepless, but with God's help I will overcome it all. . . . Pleyel's presumption is everywhere criticised, and yet I love him, and have gone to his concert each time, and been the first to applaud him." The perfectly amiable nature of Haydn, as exhibited in these and a host of other instances, draws us to him with irresistible force, and compels us to accept without shadow of question the honesty of his very beautiful and touching reply to an address from a Musical Society in Bergen. Writing on September 22, 1802, the old master said, "You give me the pleasing conviction (which cannot fail to be the most fruitful consolation of my declining years) that I am often the enviable source from which you, and so many families susceptible of true feeling, derive pleasure and enjoyment in domestic life. What happiness this thought causes me! Often, when contending with obstacles of every sort opposed to my works—often when my powers both of body and mind failed, and I felt it a hard matter to persevere in the course I had entered on—a secret feeling within me whispered, 'There are but few contented and happy men here below, everywhere grief and care prevail: perhaps your labours may one day be the source whence the weary and worn, or the man burdened with cares, may derive a few moments' rest and refreshment.' What a powerful motive to press onwards!"

How Haydn carried this kindness and gentleness of disposition even into the troubled region of artistic life, where such qualities are seldom found, let his outspoken admiration for Mozart testify. Writing to Herr Roth, in December 1787, he used expressions concerning his young rival that redound to his eternal honour: "I only wish I could impress on every friend of music, and on great men in particular, the same depth of musical sympathy, and profound appreciation of Mozart's inimitable works, that I myself feel and enjoy; then nations would vie with each other to possess such a jewel within their frontiers. Prague ought to strive to retain this precious man; but also to remunerate him, for without this the history of a great genius is sad indeed, and gives very little encouragement to posterity to further exertions; and it is on this account so many promising geniuses are ruined. It enrages me to think that the unparalleled Mozart is not engaged by some imperial or royal Court. Forgive my excitement, but I love the man so dearly." No higher or more significant testimony to the beauty of Haydn's personal character need be asked for than this; none other, assuredly, will be demanded by those who know the tendencies and temptations of artistic life.

It must not be thought, however, that Haydn was wholly wanting in spirit. There were times, as his letters show, when he could give as well as take, and at such times we always discover that somebody has either been trying to "do" him in matters of business, or criticising his music with, in the composer's estimation, undue severity. In business concerns Haydn, with all his simplicity of character, was both sharp and shrewd; attempts to take advantage of him, therefore, not only aroused his indignation, but were promptly exposed. Thus Artaria, having announced the publication of certain quartetts before Haydn had distributed copies to his subscribers, heard from Estoras (June 4, 1782) to this effect: "Such a proceeding redounds very little to my credit, and is most injurious to me, and it is certainly a very Jewish step on your part. . . . By heavens! you have wronged me to the extent of more than fifty ducats, not having yet fulfilled my engagements with many of my subscribers. This step must cause the cessation of all transactions between us." It is true that Haydn wrote a few weeks later, "I regret having written my last letter to you in a moment of hasty passion, and I do hope that, in spite of it, we shall remain good friends;" but though his anger was "as the crackling of thorns under a pot," it was anger all the same. One more example of it will suffice, the cause being again Artaria, who neglected to answer some business proposition: "I have been much provoked by the delay, inasmuch as I could have got forty ducats from another publisher for these five pieces, and you make too many difficulties about a matter by which, in such short compositions, you have at least a thirty-fold profit. The sixth piece has long had its companion; so pray make an end of the affair, and send me either my music or my money." We scarcely recognise our gentle Haydn in these fierce little notes; but where profit was concerned he could hold his own with the best, and his business letters, which would not disgrace a man in the "City," surprise us as coming from a recluse.

In the matter of criticism Haydn appears to have been so sensitive that he could not refrain from showing his irritation even in a brief autobiography written at the request of a lady: "I had the good-fortune to please almost all nations (except, indeed, the Berliners) in chamber-music, as testified by the public papers, and by letters addressed to myself; I only marvel that those judicious Berlin gentlemen preserved no medium in their criticism of my works, as in one weekly paper they laud me to the skies, and in another bury me sixty fathoms deep in the earth, and without any valid reason; but I know why it is—because they are unable to perform these pieces of mine, and are too conceited to give themselves the trouble to understand them properly; and from other causes which, God willing, I will bring forward at the right time. Capellmeister von Dittersdorff, in Silesia, recently wrote entreating me to defend myself against their cruel attacks, but I replied that one swallow does not make a summer; that perhaps one of these days some impartial authority would stop their tongues, which happened to them once before when they had accused me of monotony." Passages like these more suggest Herr Wagner girding at his censors than the meek and long-suffering Haydn. In another case he prints a note on the title-page of one of his works, with reference to the peculiar treatment of a certain passage, in order, as he says, "to anticipate the criticisms of any wittlings," and that "the whole work may not be exposed to blame on account of this well-weighed passage, which the critics, and above all my enemies, might pervert." The key to this sensitiveness we of course find in the extreme complacency with which Haydn regarded his own music, a complacency often expressed in a matter-of-fact way nothing short of funny. Thus (February 8, 1780) he despatched a Sonata to Artaria with a note which said, "It is only those who are envious (and there are many such) who will find fault with it." Referring to transactions with the Directors of the Paris Concerts spirituels, he wrote (May 27, 1781), "They made me an offer to engrave all my future works, on very advantageous terms, and are much surprised that my compositions for the voice are so singularly pleasing; I, however, am not in the least surprised, for as yet they have heard nothing. If they could only hear my Operetta 'L' Isola disabitata,' and my last Shrovetide Opera, 'La Fedeltà premiata'! I do assure you that no such work has hitherto been heard in Paris, nor perhaps in Vienna either." Again, writing to Artaria (July 20, 1781) about a setting of three songs by Frieber, the master, while indulging his own self-complacency, makes a—for him—perfectly vicious attack upon a certain Capellmeister Hofmann: "The same three songs have (between ourselves) been set to music wretchedly by Capellmeister Hofmann; and just because this braggart thinks that he alone has climbed to the summit of Mount Parnassus, and tries in every case to run me down with certain circles of the great world, I have composed these same three songs, to show this pretended great world the difference." He adds further on, "They are indeed merely songs, but not street songs, like those of Hofmann, devoid of ideas, expression, and above all of melody." In another case he recommends to Artaria his new Capriccio as one which, "from its taste, singularity, and elaborate finish, cannot fail to be received with approbation by learned and unlearned." And there is a later reference to "twelve new and very charming Minuets and Trios," offered to Artaria for as many ducats. Yet in all these, and other instances, the simple good faith of the man is evident and removes every cause of offence. His words read like the utterances of a self-respect too unconscious of vanity to dread the charge of conceit and arrogance, "from which," the master piously says in a letter to Breitkopf and Härtel, "my heavenly Father has preserved me all my life long."

The pious remark just quoted reminds us of a phase in Haydn's character which his letters put in the clearest possible light. The master was of an intensely religious nature, not given to vague sentimentalism, as is often the case with religious natures, but living and acting as though in the presence and under the government of a personal God, whom he regarded as infinitely kind, and as overruling all things for good. Proofs of this abound throughout his correspondence and other writings. Thus he concludes the autobiographical sketch already mentioned with the following words: "I offer up to Almighty God all eulogiums, for to Him alone do I owe them. My sole wish is neither to offend against my neighbour nor my gracious prince, but above all not against our merciful God." Referring to his expected dismissal by Prince Esterhazy for remaining so long in London, he writes, "But I hope even in that case that God will be gracious to me, and enable me in some degree to remedy the loss by my own industry." In a subsequent letter he says, "May God only vouchsafe to grant me the health that I have hitherto enjoyed, and may I preserve it by good conduct and out of gratitude to the Almighty." A propos to his earnings in London, we read, "I daily thank my Creator for this boon." And again, with reference to exhaustion from overwork, "Providence alone can repair the deficiency in my powers, and to Him I daily pray for aid, for without His support I should indeed be a poor creature." Finally, for such quotations need not be multiplied, he begins an appendix to his will with the words, "Should God call me away suddenly," and goes on, "In the name of the Trinity. The uncertainty of the period when it may please my Creator, in His infinite wisdom, to call me from time into eternity has caused me, being in sound health, to make my last will with regard to my little remaining property." The whole tenour of Haydn's character forbids the uncharitable assumption that these repeated evidences of religious feeling were other than genuine. It is clear, indeed, that Haydn had a childlike trust in his God, and looked upon himself as directed in all his ways by infinite Power conjoined with infinite Benevolence. Here we have the clue to many of the chief phases of his disposition. The man who feels as Haydn felt can be no other than cheerful, patient, and resigned, for though the Being in whom he confides often "moves in a mysterious way" He may be trusted even where He cannot be traced.

All the goodness and beauty of Haydn's character is epitomised in the will of which mention has just been made. Not only are his relatives of every grade considered by the disposition of his property, but also a host of people having no sort of claim upon him. Priests, schoolmasters, and schoolchildren are thought of; "poor blind Adam in Eisenstadt" gets 24 florins; Fräulein Anna Buchholz receives 100, "inasmuch as in my youth her grandfather lent me 150 florins, when I greatly needed them, which, however, I repaid fifty years ago;" to "the old gardener Michel" are bequeathed 24 florins, and 100 to "the blind daughter of Herr Graus, leader of the choir in Eisenstadt;" while the "four sisters Sommerfeld, daughters of the wigmaker in Presburg," receive 200. So the good old man runs on through sixty-three bequests; and at this characteristic task I should leave him but for the temptation to show how, in one respect at least, he enjoyed the life thus made more easy to others. Musical artists are not, as a rule, insensible to creature comforts, and to that rule Haydn presents no exception. In plain words, he thought a good deal about his dinner, and relished it with the zest of the typical alderman. Writing to Artaria from Estoras (1788) he says, "By-the-bye I am very much obliged to you for the capital cheese you sent me, and also the sausages, for which I am your debtor, but shall not fail when an opportunity offers to return the obligation." In a subsequent letter to Frau von Genzinger he comically laments the change from Vienna to Estoras: "I lost 20 lbs. in weight in three days, for the effect of my good fare at Vienna disappeared on the journey. 'Alas! alas!' thought I, when forced to eat at the restaurateurs,' instead of capital beef, a slice of a cow fifty years old; instead of a ragout with little balls of forced meat, an old sheep with yellow carrots; instead of a Bohemian pheasant, a tough grill; instead of pastry, dry apple fritters and hazelnuts, &c.' Alas! alas! would that I now had many a morsel I despised in Vienna! Here in Estoras no one asks me, 'Would you like some chocolate, with milk or without?' 'Will you take some coffee, with or without cream?' 'What can I offer you, my good Haydn?' 'Will you have vanille ice or pineapple?' If I had only a piece of good Parmesan cheese, particularly in Lent, to enable me to swallow more easily the black dumplings and puffs! I gave our porter this very day a commission, to send me a couple of pounds." A month later he writes to his fair friend, who it is clear took pity on his distress, "You must now permit me to kiss your hands gratefully for the rusks you sent me, which, however, I did not receive till last Tuesday; but they came exactly at the right moment, having just finished the last of the others." From London even, where his Italian landlord gave him "four excellent dishes" at every dinner, and where he was invited out six times per week, we find him exclaiming to Frau von Genzinger, "Oh! how often do I long to be beside you at the piano, even for a quarter of an hour, and then to have some good German soup. But," he resignedly adds, "we cannot have everything in this world." Dear old master! let us take our last look at him in a position described by himself with charming and characteristic naïveté; the scene is an amateur concert-hall: "After the concert I was taken into a very handsome adjoining room, where tables were laid for all the amateurs, to the number of 200. It was proposed that I should take a seat near the top; but, as it so happened, I had dined out that very day and eat more than usual. But, in spite of this, I could not get off drinking the health, in Burgundy, of the harmonious gentlemen present. All responded to it, but at last allowed me to go home." Haydn was "allowed to go home" in a very definite sense eighteen years later; but, while his letters endure, the remembrance of his gentleness, amiability, and piety will never fade.

DUSSEK'S PIANOFORTE SONATAS.

By EBENEZER PROUT, B.A.

It is a frequent subject of complaint with those pianoforte teachers who are conscientious in the selection of music for their pupils that they find it difficult to get good classical pieces of only moderate technical difficulty. Until a player is fairly advanced it is worse than useless to give Beethoven's Sonatas, and one cannot be always teaching Mozart. It is a curious thing that these teachers frequently ignore altogether—indeed are often themselves unacquainted with—the pianoforte works of Haydn, Clementi, and Dussek. With the object of directing their attention to a perfect mine of musical beauty, I propose to make some remarks on the Sonatas of the last-named of these three composers.

Comparatively few, even among educated musicians, know how much Dussek did toward developing the technical resources of the piano. The contemporary of Mozart, and a great pianist, he composed more than fifty Sonatas, twelve Concertos for the piano with orchestra, a Quintett, Quartett, and Trio for piano and strings, and a literally countless number of small pieces, Variations, Rondos, &c. Of this enormous mass of music how much is known by the average teacher of the present day? The Sonata dedicated to Mrs. Chinnery (Op. 24), the "Plus Ultra" Sonata, "La Consolation," and perhaps the little Rondo "La Matinée," to which may occasionally be added the "Invocation," and even "Les Adieux" and the "Élégie harmonique." That these are on the whole fairly representative of their composer there is no doubt; but there are many other works equally, if not more beautiful, which, so far as general appreciation is concerned, might as well never have been published. That Dussek published many things unworthy of his reputation is indisputable: he was at one time a partner in a music business, and doubtless wrote a good deal for the "shop;" but these ephemeral pieces are mostly in smaller forms (Variations, Rondos, &c.), and among the Sonatas it is rare indeed to find works without some special features of interest.

As a composer Dussek has both strong and weak points. He was a great melodist—no more absolutely tuneful music than his exists; and, even when trivial, he never ceases to be graceful and pleasing. In addition he had the power of inventing "new passages," in the technical sense of the word. In this respect his Sonatas show an advance on those of Mozart, and approach more nearly to the style of Hummel, who owed more to his great predecessor than is generally known or acknowledged. On the other hand, Dussek seems to have been deficient in strict scientific training. Harmonic crudities are not uncommon in his pieces, while absolute faults are occasionally to be met with. His thematic developments, also, are frequently weak, sometimes consisting of little more than repetitions of previously heard passages, though the constant flow of melody in the music frequently hides the deficiency in great part, if not entirely.

The best edition of Dussek's Sonatas is that published at Leipzig by Breitkopf and Härtel, which has been reprinted in a cheaper form by Litolf. It does not contain the whole of the Sonatas, only thirty-two out of about fifty being given; but as it includes most of the best, and many of the others are out of print, I shall confine my remarks to those comprised in this collection, and take them in the order in which they appear in the volumes, that of their opus-numbers.

The three Sonatas, Op. 9, which begin the series are all admirable specimens of their composer. They were formerly among the most esteemed of his works; and age has robbed them of but little of their freshness. The first, in B flat, is decidedly the easiest, and will be found very useful as a teaching piece. The second subject of the first movement affords an illustration of what was said above as to Dussek's weakness in composition. He gives us consecutive octaves between extreme parts of very bad effect. Their correction is so easy that, were it not establishing a dangerous precedent to tamper on any pretence with the text of the old masters, one would feel much inclined to change the passage. The Sonata contains only two movements; the final Rondo, in $\frac{3}{4}$ time, is a favourable specimen of a form in which Dussek is almost invariably happy. The second Sonata, in C major, is a more elaborate and brilliant work than the first. The opening Allegro is very showy, and by no means easy to play well; it will be noticed that, even in the most brilliant passages, the music never loses its melodious character. The plaintive slow movement, in A minor, is an excellent study for the practice of uneven groups of notes (four against three, &c.) in the two hands; while the final Presto is one of its composer's most sparkling movements. The third Sonata, in D, is the most brilliant and difficult of the set; perhaps, on the whole, also the most beautiful. The first movement abounds in runs of thirds, sixths, and octaves, and the Finale (prestissimo) is a kind of "Moto continuo" requiring great clearness of finger and some "staying power." The Sonata is more fitted for concert use than for a teaching piece, though advanced pupils will be able to grapple with it. Its constant flow of melody must make it a favourite wherever it is known.

The three Sonatas, Op. 10, are perhaps a little, but only a little, inferior to those just noticed. Of the three, the first, in A major, though full of beauty, is the least striking. As with Op. 9, it is also the easiest of the three. The short Adagio in E major is a fine specimen of its composer's graceful manner; and the Rondo, the chief subject of which is founded upon the scale, is overflowing with melody. The second Sonata, in G minor, is unique in its form among the Sonatas of Dussek. It contains only two movements, a long Adagio in the style of Emanuel Bach, consisting of two parts, of about equal length, the first of which is repeated, and a Vivace con spirito of unusual fire and boldness, which in parts reminds one somewhat of Mozart. The whole work, which is not of excessive difficulty, is one which will be studied with pleasure. The third Sonata of Op. 10 (in E major) is the finest of the set. It is again in two movements, the first Allegro having much affinity, especially in the character of the passage-writing, with the third Sonata of Op. 9; and the final Presto con fuoco, in E minor, $\frac{3}{4}$ time, is a most curious anticipation of Mendelssohn. Both the first and second principal subjects remind us irresistibly of that composer, while the phrase at the conclusion of the first part, repeated at the end of the movement, is almost identical with a well-known passage in the first movement of the "Scotch Symphony." Is the coincidence accidental, or did Mendelssohn know the Sonata, and was he unconsciously influenced by it? The technical difficulty of this piece is considerable, and it can therefore only be recommended for well-advanced pupils.

The six Sonatas, Op. 20, which come next in order require no detailed notice. They are charming little pieces, similar in character to Clementi's much better-known Sonatinas, and of about the same degree of difficulty, but more attractive in their melody. Dussek's music, though less highly finished than Clementi's, is of a more tuneful character; and the comparison of these Sonatinas with Clementi's, Op. 36, will show at once the different quality of the inventive power of the two great pianists. There is a warmth in Dussek which is too often absent in his Italian contemporary.

The Sonata in B flat, dedicated to Mrs. Chinnery, is probably the best known of all Dussek's works, unless it be "La Consolation." For that reason it will be needless to say much of it now. Though very pleasing, and a capital teaching piece, it is by no means one of its composer's best Sonatas. It may be remarked in passing that a discrepancy exists between the English and German editions as to the opus-number of this and some other Sonatas of the series. The old English edition bears the number Op. 24, while Breitkopf and Härtel's gives it as Op. 23. Similarly, Breitkopf's Op. 45 is Op. 46 in the original edition, and I have seen an old copy of the "Plus Ultra" marked Op. 71, instead of Op. 70, the number generally accepted. How these differences are to be accounted for I am not able to say; it is as well that they should be mentioned, as some of my readers may have copies of the older edition. Similar variations are also to be found in the different editions of many of Clementi's Sonatas.

The preference shown by Dussek for the two-movement form of the Sonata is somewhat curious. Of the thirteen early Sonatas already noticed only two (Op. 9, No. 2, and Op. 10, No. 1) are in three movements; and although in the later and on the whole more important works which are now to come under consideration a third movement is more common, while in three cases we shall even find a fourth, the composer still in many cases confines himself entirely to the Allegro and Rondo. It is difficult to conjecture the reason for this; it certainly did not arise from any weakness of inventive power as regards the slow movement, for Dussek has left us charming specimens both of Andante and Adagio. What makes the omission still more inexplicable is that in some instances the works themselves seem to suffer from the want of that contrast which a slow movement interposed between the two quick ones would give. Of this the first Sonata to be mentioned here is a striking example. The three Sonatas, Op. 35, dedicated in the original edition "al suo stimatissimo amico Muzio Clementi," are said by Fétis in his "Biographie universelle des Musiciens" to have been considered by their composer as among his best works; and from this opinion few who are acquainted with them will differ. The first of the set, in B flat, opens with a rather long and very showy Allegro moderato e maestoso, the melodies of which are very characteristic of the composer. The movement, however, is not altogether free from the charge of a certain monotony in the passage-writing, one particular figure of semiquaver triplets, first used just before the second subject is reached, recurring too frequently afterwards. As already stated, this Sonata suffers from the want of a slow movement. The Allegro, in common time, is immediately succeeded by a Finale in $\frac{3}{4}$ time, and the general similarity of rhythm acts prejudicially on the effect of the work as a whole. Apart from this, however, the Finale is one of the brightest and freshest movements that ever fell from Dussek's pen. In its form it is peculiar: the first part, with the second subject in the dominant, is repeated like an ordinary first movement; but after the "free fantasia," which ends with an unusually long dominant pedal, the return is made to the second subject, and the first is not introduced in its entirety at all, though it is hinted at in the subsequent developments. The whole of this Sonata will be found a most useful and enjoyable teaching piece for tolerably advanced pupils.

Decidedly finer, however, is the second Sonata, in G major. Like the first, it is only in two movements; but the Rondo is in all respects so strongly contrasted with the first Allegro that in this case the want of a slow movement is not felt. The opening subject is unusually bold in style, while the second is one of Dussek's most lovely ideas. The passage-writing, too, is full of charm, and the frequent use of double counterpoint in the movement reminds one of the fact that the composer was not merely a distinguished pianist but an excellent organist. The Rondo is even more charming than the first movement. It is in the somewhat unusual time, for a Rondo, of $\frac{3}{4}$; its themes are of remarkable beauty, and though containing nothing quicker than quavers, is by no means easy to play well. The time is molto allegro, and the episode in G minor, especially, requires great neatness and perfect equality of both hands. The closing bars of the Sonata are curiously like Spohr in their gradual dying away upon a long tonic pedal. With Spohr this conclusion was almost a mannerism; in Dussek, on the other hand, this is probably a solitary instance.

The third Sonata, in C minor, is a worthy companion to its predecessors. The fiery opening movement almost recalls Beethoven's earlier style in the boldness of its harmonies; while the long Adagio patetico has the grace and suavity of Mozart. Here again the very florid ornaments seem to have furnished more than one hint to Hummel. The Finale is preceded by a short Intermezzo, which is in fact nothing more than a Prelude. Though full of spirit and very tuneful, it cannot be said that this movement is at all equal to the rest of the Sonata. Its chief theme is very trivial, and not without a tinge of vulgarity; and as it forms the principal material for the subsequent developments, the music nowhere rises to a high level.

Over the next set of three Sonatas (Op. 39) I must pass hastily, though much might be said about them. They are suited for teaching, rather than for concert purposes, being only of moderate difficulty. All of them abound in delightful melody, and in passages which are most pleasant to play as well as improving to pupils. The first and third (in G and B flat) are on the whole the best; the second (in C), though extremely pretty, is, with the exception of a delicious little final Rondo, hardly in its author's happiest style.

With respect to the third Sonata, in B flat, there is a very curious difference of text in different editions, on which some of my readers may perhaps be able to throw a little light. I have in my library the original English edition of these three Sonatas, and on comparing it with Breitkopf's new edition very remarkable discrepancies appear in the Rondo of No. 3. In the first place the chief theme of the movement appears each time unchanged in the old edition, while in the new edition it is embellished with different ornaments on each recurrence. Besides this (not to mention minor differences) two bars of the original are omitted in Breitkopf's edition, at the foot of the last page but one; and the last five bars of the old edition are replaced by nine which are entirely different in the new. Breitkopf's new edition is, I believe, reprinted from their old complete edition of Dussek's works in twelve volumes. Can anybody inform me whether the latter (which, to judge from the type, must have been published early in the present century) was produced under the superintendence of the composer, or whether the alterations are founded upon tradition, or are the work of some irresponsible editor? The changes are important enough to make the question worth asking.

In the next Sonata, Op. 43, in A major, is found the most important and brilliant, and in some respects the finest, of all the two-movement Sonatas. It is pre-eminently a concert piece, and in point of technical difficulty is surpassed by very few of Dussek's works. The first movement is an excellent study for double notes; rapid passages in thirds and sixths are of frequent occurrence, but the music never degenerates into a mere finger-exercise. It has been already said that Dussek was remarkably happy in his invention of passages; and nowhere is to be found a better example of the combination of brilliance with melodic charm than in this Allegro. The following Rondo is, with the exception of one page, considerably less difficult, but not less beautiful; the music flows along in one tuneful stream from the first bar to the last. This Sonata would be well worth producing at the Monday Popular Concerts.

(To be continued.)

ENGLISH MUSICAL PRIVILEGES.

BY HENRY C. LUNN.

THAT our many ruined castles must not be accepted as a proof that the power and independence of the inhabitants of this country have in the slightest degree declined may be shown by the patriotic adage that "an Englishman's house is his castle," a proverb which, although in the present day not being capable of too literal an application, is one grateful to a Briton, as undeniably affirming the truth that neither physically nor mentally is he to be easily dispossessed of what he has once firmly got hold of. Douglas Jerrold, in one of his comedies, has sarcastically drawn the character of an Englishman who, confined in a French fortress, resolutely insists upon it that even British prisons are infinitely superior to foreign ones, and naively asks an officer who is eloquent on the wines of his country whether he has ever tasted our English champagne. Caricature apart, however, there is much in our national character which, owing perhaps greatly to our insular position, may be said to amount almost to dogged obstinacy. It is very well for foreigners to fancy that by the adoption of new ideas they are progressing; but "Old England" as a rule erects her "wooden walls" as pertinaciously against the invasion of mental as against physical intrusions upon her territory, and holds on to what she has long believed in with a bland feeling of contentment which astonishes those whose convictions are based solely upon the result of intellectual investigation. Were we free to range over every subject, we could cite many instances of this truth; but, confining ourselves solely to that of music, there can be no difficulty in showing in how determined a manner we guard against any alteration in our existing artistic methods of thought, whilst the utmost diversity of opinion exists around us.

In our school geographies we are told, after naming the established religion of a nation, that "all others are tolerated." Precisely so is it with our recognised theory of what is generally termed "Harmony." There is a popular belief that the origin and treatment of chords has been reduced to a system which is universally taught in this country; and although it is well known that the subject has latterly been reconsidered and ably explained upon principles diametrically opposed to those which have hitherto been received, and this by the very ablest musicians, no movement is made towards authoritatively establishing the science upon a firm and solid basis. Reviews tell us that the laws laid down in the books of some of our best modern theorists are incontrovertible. We have of course no intention here of arguing their relative merits, but there can be no doubt that these critiques are in many cases perfectly true; yet each man has to fight his own battle unaided, the inference being unquestionably that amidst a conflict of theories it is better not to favour any one, a resolve perhaps thoroughly in accordance with the natural independence of the British character upon which we have commented, but scarcely one which can conduce to the progress of the art. There may be a little healthy excitement when the pupils of one master quarrel with those of another as to the fundamental facts which regulate the science each is studying; yet we cannot but believe that, were a congress of the most eminent musicians called to frame a code of laws which should be universally accepted, a permanent good would result to the many, although some trifling concessions might be necessary for the few.

Then we would ask whether our firm resolution to adhere to a pitch which has been gradually raised until it has reached an altitude which frightens vocalists who visit us is not essentially English? True it is that, as in the instance already mentioned, having once settled the matter, we may choose to defend it, regardless of consequences, merely because it exists; but we can scarcely expect that foreigners will favour our conservative views on the subject, and some day therefore we may find that we shall be forced to give up a point, as a matter of policy, which long ago we should have gracefully conceded as a matter of reason. In this case, however, many have arisen in our own country ready and willing to point the way to a solution of the difficulty. The Society of Arts, after deliberating for some time upon the subject, and inviting discussion from all those most competent to consider it in all its bearings, came to a conclusion as to the number of vibrations which should represent the note C. Tuning-forks adjusted to this pitch were sent round to each person who assisted at these meetings; and, as far as the Society was concerned, the matter was settled. But what was the result? Pianoforte-makers tuned their instruments precisely as their customers pleased; the pitch in concert-rooms and opera-houses was regulated by the will of each Conductor; and the tuning-forks already mentioned remained as a melancholy proof of the futility of imagining that any deliberative assembly can interfere with the boasted privileges of Englishmen. But the matter did not rest here, for a vocalist whose services could ill be spared protested that he would not sing at the absurdly high pitch prevailing in this country. It might be imagined that, having thus assumed so practical a form, the question would be sufficiently important to compel us to a definite settlement of the pitch, even presuming that we did not adopt the diapason normal, which was held up as a model for imitation. Not a bit: rather than acknowledge that any reform could be needed, the artist mentioned was openly accused of wishing to bring down the pitch to suit his failing voice; and, although a prima donna (against whom the same charge could scarcely be brought) joined most heartily in condemning what is termed the "English pitch" (which in fact means the pet pitch of any Conductor), the slight agitation caused by the discussion very shortly calmed down, and Englishmen continued to retain the glorious privilege of measuring notes as they please, irrespective of the requirements of those artists whose interests should have been first consulted.

The "English fingering," too, is one more instance of the tenacity with which we hold to our vested musical rights. Music is said to be an universal language, and, as far as notation goes, we freely admit this truth; but foreign editions of pianoforte works which are fingered are rendered useless in this country, not because (as we have often heard said) we finger differently from our Continental neighbours, but because they finger differently from us. Pupils may be told, it is true, that four means three, and two means one; but as a rule they revolt against foreign fingering; and we have even heard a refractory student declare that she was not going to put her thumb when it was clearly marked first finger. Musical publications, therefore, printed abroad must undergo a certain revision before they can be accepted in this country; for it is not likely that we, who refuse to accept a Continental pitch, would blandly accept a Continental fingering.

We could strengthen our case by adducing more proofs of England's refusal to be guided by the musical customs of other countries—such, for example, as admitting persons in our concert-rooms during the performance of a composition; tuning all the orchestral instruments before an audience; and waiting between the acts of an opera until those who occupy unsecured seats are perfectly wearied out—but enough has been shown to prove that we are resolved to defend our artistic privileges against all innovators, without any examination into their merits. Resistance of foreign intervention is an instinct with our countrymen; and although it may perhaps be questioned whether fencing ourselves around with convictions sometimes sanctioned more by age than by reason will not occasionally have the effect of drawing ill-natured criticism upon us, we can at least have the satisfaction of feeling not only that "an Englishman's house is his castle," but that he would rather let it crumble away from the ravages of time, than be forced to repair it by pressure from without.

It is a fact no less melancholy than true that by running away from the metropolis you do not run away from music. Possibly there may be a lingering idea that a man cannot enjoy himself thoroughly unless "sweet sounds" accompany him through the brief holiday he usually snatches from his life of drudgery; but the "music of the sea," to which a longing allusion is so constantly made by business men, is by no means the same thing as the "music of the seaside;" and indeed the expression is after all only a poetical method of affirming the truth that the monotony of nature, as distinct from the monotony of art, is soothing, but never irritating. It may be said that a man who places himself in a quiet nook at some pretty watering-place need not go where music is to be heard, and this we at once freely admit; but how is he to escape from the infliction when, as we can affirm from experience, the music comes to him? To say nothing of organs, accordions, and banjos occasionally mingling with the welcome roar of the waves on the beach, a pianoforte in the next house at the moment we write greets our ears, the selection for the morning including Czerny's "Hundred and One Elementary Exercises," the "Plough-boy," with variations, and one of Mendelssohn's "Lieder ohne Worte," La melodia ben marcato. Then a band plays immediately under our window every morning from eleven till one, the music being chosen to display rather the power than the delicacy of the performers. As one of the principal residents of the town remarked, however, people would not be satisfied unless there were "plenty of the trombone and big drum." And very likely he is right, only we cannot help thinking that, in justice to those who dissent from this view of the subject, it would be better to confine the performances of the band to some open space where only those might assemble who wished to hear it. Would it not also be possible to set apart a portion of the town where pianofortes for practice could be provided at so much an hour—a sort of musical gymnasium which should be kept exclusively for the exercise of little fingers? Of course we know that we are bound to put up with certain inconveniences when away from home, but we are not prevented from grumbling at them; and many fellow-sufferers will, we are sure, thank us for our suggestions. If what is known as "seaside music" must continue, every well-trained person should certainly learn to bear it like a man, but, as Macduff tells Malcolm, he must also "feel it as a man."

EXPERIENCE has proved that nothing is so easy to obtain as a "testimonial" to the efficacy of an instrument designed to facilitate teaching; for many persons, partly from a laudable desire that the inventor should be rewarded for his ingenuity, and partly with the hope that by recording a favourable opinion they will be certain to hear no more of the matter, will good-naturedly advise everybody to test the merits of an article which they would never think of using themselves. Musical students have a large choice of such inventions, and yet where can we find an eminent singer who has been trained by putting silver spoons and wedges in the mouth, or a pianist who in early practice has had a hand-rail over the key-board of his instrument to support the wrist, or allowed his arms to be bound to his body by ropes? We know that all these methods have been strongly recommended, and we know also that they have been tried by persons whose natural defects should have prevented them from becoming executants, either vocal or instrumental, the only artist of note—Schumann—who aimed at strengthening his fingers by mechanical aid, proving our case by utterly incapacitating himself from touching the pianoforte at all. And yet these inventions multiply, for we have before us from America the description of an instrument called the “Phono-Mendator,” which by being placed in the mouth of those studying singing will enable them to keep the mouth and tongue in a proper position, to pronounce perfectly the Italian vowels, to avoid a “shrill or howling tone,” to detect a nasal tone “by means of the little mirror which shows when the arches of the palate are narrowed,” and to economise the breath, “as denoted by the greater or less motion of the feather.” Now, what more can be required to make a perfect singer—except perhaps a voice, which unfortunately no instrument can give? The only question is whether those gifted with this indispensable qualification for a vocalist, and a reasonable amount of intelligence, will not get on very well, as they have hitherto done, with the guidance of an able teacher only; and whether those not so gifted ought to study singing at all—even with the assistance of the “Phono-Mendator.”

MUSICIANS who, in consequence of the severe examinations now instituted at Cambridge University, have been deterred from entering themselves as candidates for a degree, will be glad to find that an opportunity is presented of obtaining this coveted distinction by merely writing to Jersey and paying, we presume, a few necessary expenses. Whether the ventilation of the subject in this journal—which, as our readers may remember, commenced by our simply requesting a professor who signed himself Mus. Doc. to state where he obtained his degree—may have made this country somewhat too warm for the traders in musical honours to pursue their calling we cannot say, but the following advertisement, quoted from the Deutsche Musiker-Zeitung, will show that the appeal is now made especially to Germans: “DOCTOR OR PROFESSOR OF MUSIC.—May be obtained, in absentia, by ladies and gentlemen of education, artists, musicians, professors, and opera-singers in particular. Information will be given upon prepaid inquiries addressed, Medicus, King Street, Jersey (England)”!! There is little novelty in this announcement save the intimation that “ladies” and “opera-singers” are included amongst those for whom the advertiser will kindly procure a degree; but too much publicity cannot be given to the fact that so nefarious a traffic as this advertisement discloses has not yet died out. It is notorious that many persons still style themselves Mus. Docs. who have no more right to the title than they can purchase through such a channel as we have called attention to, and we cannot but believe that it is the duty of all who hold a recognised degree to fearlessly expose those who claim an honour which has been bought instead of earned. This we believe could be easily done, for were it once understood that a Mus. Doc. or a Mus. Bac. were compelled to state, after such title, where it was granted, not only would a University degree be doubly valuable, but that gained, in absentia, by such agents as “Medicus” would be perfectly valueless.

ALL who glance at the list of pensions periodically awarded to those who distinguish themselves in art, science, or literature must, we are certain, be gratified to find that persons who have passed their lives in a pursuit too often more beneficial to others than themselves are not quite unrecognised by the Government. It is true that we often see names comparatively unknown, which may suggest the question as to whether interest has not somewhat more to do than it should have with the distribution of the limited amount allowed; but with this we have at present nothing to do, because we wish to confine ourselves exclusively to the inquiry why those whose eminence in musical composition is a proof that they have scattered treasures far and wide for the benefit of their fellow-creatures are never included amongst the favoured few to whom we have alluded? We freely admit that Handel received a kind of state pension, but this was strictly a royal reward for musical services rendered in glorification of warlike achievements; and we can also call to recollection that an annuity was granted to Dibdin, but he was known more as a songwriter than a song-composer; and then it must be remembered that he helped by his stirring verses to keep alive the feeling that England's ships and England's sailors were the natural rulers of the sea at a time when it was highly important that such feeling should be encouraged. These exceptions therefore prove the rule, for neither was rewarded by the Government purely as an artist; and we are still left to wonder why the creators of works which appeal so powerfully to the multitude should not be considered as great benefactors as those who have enriched the store of intellectual knowledge in another language. We should be sorry indeed to believe that unless music is employed in praise of war, its followers can have no claim upon the gratitude of their countrymen: surely we are not to bestow honours upon the artists who incite us to send men out of the world, and pass over those who seek to better men who are in it.

WE recollect, during an examination at a village school, the master was asked how it happened—seeing that so few of his pupils could either read or write—that he had been appointed a schoolmaster, when he naively replied that he was considered in the neighbourhood too stupid for anything else. This anecdote has often occurred to us in reading musical notices; for, although in some of these articles we occasionally see an indication that the author might have written passably enough upon other matters, he constantly shows us that upon the special subject chosen he has even less knowledge than the majority of his readers. We have on many former occasions cited instances of this fact; but another, lately met with in the pages of a contemporary, is too good to be passed over. We should certainly have imagined that all persons professing any knowledge of music would have known that Mendelssohn never claimed any of the Chorales in "St. Paul" as his own, but that he took them, as Bach did in his "Passion-music," because they were popular enough to reach at once the hearts of their hearers. But a correspondent in the journal mentioned writes to express his indignation at the discovery that "Sleepers, wake" is an old Chorale "turned to account" by the composer of "St. Paul," and emphatically asserts that such plagiarism is "too bad." Now this ignorance might be merely amusing, but the melancholy part of it is that this very correspondent is the writer of a long article in depreciation of Mendelssohn, the authorship of which he proudly claims in his signature at the conclusion of the letter referred to. Really if a man will insist upon thus putting himself into the pillory he must not complain if he attract the notice of casual passers-by.

THE Gazetta Musicale di Milano mentions the invention by one Guida, of Naples, of a musical (?) instrument which, although bearing the terrible name of Dactylomonocordo, has (as indeed the word would imply) only one string, and is played with one finger. The inventor has lately given some concerts on his new instrument, probably, we should think, with a view to demonstrate to his audience the effect produced by similar primitive instruments of savage tribes. In the face of the complicated and wonderfully perfected organs of musical expression of which modern orchestras are composed, this new "invention" seems certainly remarkable. But perhaps we are doing Signor Guida an injustice, and his one string may—like the "one string of continuous melody" which connoisseurs detect in the later works of Herr Wagner—be capable of a variety of expression hitherto undreamt of.

GEORGE TOWNSHEND SMITH.

THE gloom thrown over Hereford by the sudden death of Mr. George Townshend Smith (the Cathedral Organist) on the evening of the 3rd ult. was not merely that which would naturally arise from the loss of an artist who had faithfully and earnestly performed his duties for upwards of thirty-four years; it was the deep and heartfelt grief for the removal of a man who had won the esteem—we may indeed say the love—of the many who had grown up around him, to regard his genial and kindly presence in the city as almost a necessity. But Mr. Smith was so universally known through his connection with the Three Choir Festivals that not only in Hereford, but only in the cities where these meetings were held, but amongst all the artists, spread far and wide, who had been brought periodically into contact with him, the news of his death was felt with a poignancy of regret which sufficiently evidenced the high estimation in which he was held, even by those whose attachment to him could in no degree be influenced by local position.

The deceased was, we understand, in early life a chorister of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, on leaving which he became a pupil of Mr. Highmore Skeats, organist of St. George's, and afterwards studied under "Old Sam" Wesley (as he was called), father of the late organist of Gloucester Cathedral. He then became organist at Eastbourne, changing to a similar office at King's Lynn before he was appointed to Hereford Cathedral, which event took place in 1842. In the following year he superintended his first meeting of the "Three Choirs," and so successfully carried through his twelfth Triennial Festival last year as to earn not only the praise of artists, critics, and friends, but an official recognition of his valuable services, for the second time, in the shape of a handsome testimonial from the stewards.

The Sunday services at the Cathedral were most solemn, for the instrument at which the deceased had officiated for so many years was silent, the hymns and anthems were selected as being appropriate to the sad event, and the sermons, both in the morning and evening, contained pointed allusions to the matter which was uppermost in the thoughts of every member of the congregation. The funeral took place on the following Tuesday, the coffin, with its floral pall of wreaths and crosses—emblems of the affection of only a few of many loving friends—being met by the Cathedral authorities, consisting of Canon Jebb, the Hon. and Very Rev. the Dean, some of the Prebendaries, the Priest Vicars, and the Bishop. The procession having been formed, the choristers led the way, singing the opening sentences of the Burial Service to Croft and Purcell's music. The Dean read the lesson; Spohr's "Blest are the departed," from "The Last Judgment," followed as an anthem, and the procession moved slowly down the nave of the Cathedral while the remainder of the sentences, usually given at the grave, were sung. The organ (played by Mr. Harford Lloyd, of Gloucester Cathedral) pealed out the Dead March in "Saul" as the coffin was being placed in the hearse; and at the cemetery the funeral service was performed by the Rev. J. Goss. The mourners were Mr. Montem Smith, Mr. Samuel Smith, Mr. J. Carless, jun., Rev. Robert Dixon, Alderman Carless, and Mr. Woodley Smith; but grouped around the grave were so many whose moistened eyes showed the real grief at their hearts that we might in truth almost indefinitely extend this list. In the city on the morning of the funeral not only the principal shops were closed, but the blinds of many of the private houses were drawn down; and so universal was the feeling of sorrow that at the luncheon given to the Royal Archaeological Institute the Mayor said that one of the reasons for setting an example of brevity was the deep regret he felt at the absence of Mr. Smith (who was one of the first to accept his invitation), and the knowledge that so many were anxious to pay the last tribute of respect to his memory.

SALE OF DR. RIMBAULT'S LIBRARY.

A FEW years since was published an amusing squib, consisting of ten pages, with the following title, "Catalogue of the extensive library of Doctor Rainbeau, F.R.S., F.S.A., A.S.S., &c., which Messrs. Topsy, Turvey, and Co. will put up for public competition on Saturday, October —, 1862." The number of lots in the catalogue is 116, and the author must have possessed a considerable fund of ingenuity to have been able to spin out such a long web of quasi-learned imposture. Whether intended seriously to impugn the fame and repute of the Doctor it is scarcely possible now to tell; at all events he lived on for many years, acquiring new treasures and new friends and admirers. We are reminded and assured of this by the recent sale of Dr. Rimbault's library, which occupied five days, in the rooms of Messrs. Sotheby, Wilkinson, and Hodge, commencing on the 31st of July; on each day the auction-room being well filled with eager purchasers, many of them well-known authorities in bibliography.

Looking over the catalogue of 159 pages, we are struck not so much with the prevalence of antiquarianism as with the extended field of literature covered by 2,259 lots. The amount of musical matter was comparatively small, but in many cases most interesting: certainly no sale of recent times has obtained such high average prices, the entire sum realised being £1,977 13s. 6d. Amongst the more curious lots were Arbeau's "Orchesographie," published in 1596, having autograph signatures of former owners, "Dr. Pepusch and John Stafford Smith;" this sold for six guineas. Brookbank's "Well-tuned Organ" (A.D. 1660), two guineas. Burney's "History of Music" sold for the moderate price of £4 6s. A collection of Carols, all modern reprints, in one volume, for £3 3s. Clifford's "Words of Anthems" (A.D. 1664) brought the extraordinary sum of £2 7s. Mersenne's "Harmonicorum Libri" (A.D. 1636), four guineas; a second copy of the work, £2 6s. Playford's "Banquet of Musick" (A.D. 1688-92), £5 15s. Beaujoyeaulx's "Balet Comique de la Roynie" (A.D. 1582), £14 10s. Byrd's "Parthenia" (A.D. 1611), £9; a second edition of the same

(A.D. 1659), five guineas. "The Division Viol" (A.D. 1685), £5 2s. 6d. Farmer's "Plain Song" (A.D. 1591), ten guineas. Holborne's "Pavans, &c." (A.D. 1599), £8 10s. Morley's "First Booke of Consort Lessons" (A.D. 1611), thirteen guineas. Playford's "Musick's Delight on the Cithren" (A.D. 1666), £7 10s.

The foregoing lots were of course all printed; and, as may be seen, many fetched exceptionally high prices, owing no doubt to the persistent bidding of a wealthy American. Considerable excitement arose over some of the manuscript music; in some cases the lots were not only intrinsically valuable but also probably the only copies extant of works by old English composers, and all should have been purchased for the British Museum: now unfortunately it is too late, as a large proportion are on their way to New York.

An oblong set of parts containing anthems, &c., by Tallis, Byrd, Mundy, Amner, Tomkins, Wilbye, Weelkes, Bateson, Gibbons, Este, and others, brought £20 10s. A volume of parts used by "Thomas Britton the small-coal man," nine guineas. Byrd's "Virginal Music," five guineas. Lock's "Instrumental Pieces for Stringed Instruments," five guineas. A volume of "Lock and Purcell," six guineas. "Motetts, Anthems, &c., by Italian and English composers," £21. All the foregoing lots were bought for America. The most extraordinary lot in the whole sale was Mulliner's "Collection of Motetts, Hymns, Anthems, Voluntaries, Songs, &c., by Tallis, Tye, Blitheman, Edwards, Farrant, Taverner, Johnson, Redford, Sheppard, Allwood, Shelbye, Newman, Nicholas, Carleton, &c., for Organ or Virginals." This book is partly in the autograph of Mulliner, who was master of the choristers of St. Paul's Cathedral, and one of the musicians to Henry VIII. From the devices on the binding of the volume it evidently once belonged to that king, and it is of the greatest value, containing numerous compositions of Tallis, the father of English Church music, who was a pupil of Mulliner. The book was bought by Dr. Rimbault for eight guineas many years ago, and it is said that he had refused almost fabulous offers for it. Its importance as a national musical monument cannot be over-estimated, and assuredly its true home should be the national library. The purchase of the volume was keenly contested by the American gentleman and Mr. W. H. Cummings, the latter finally securing it for the sum of £82.

A collection of upwards of 300 songs by Wilson, Lawes, Johnson, Gamble, and other English composers, containing also the autograph inscription, "John Gamble his book, Amen. 1659 Anno Domini," thirteen guineas, for America. "Virginal Music by Byrd, Bull, Weelkes, Gibbons, Este, and others," ten guineas (America); another similar volume, £6 15s.; and another, eight guineas. An interleaved and inlaid copy of North's "Memoirs of Musick," £13 15s. Playford's "Breefe Introduction to the skill of Musick," A.D. 1654, presumed to be the first edition, and unique, ten guineas, for America.

We have not referred to works in general literature, and it may suffice to state there were many fine and rare books. One other lot may be mentioned; a collection of material for, and 200 pages in manuscript of, a history of Soho, almost the last work undertaken by the late Doctor; this sold for £33. Probably no one will ever again have such opportunities for acquiring rarities as Dr. Rimbault had; and it must be a matter of congratulation to those intimately concerned that books which cost the late possessor a few pence have in some cases realised as many pounds.

 We are sorry to be compelled to postpone the continuation of Dr. Chrysander's article on the "History of Music Printing" until our next number.*

THE pressure upon our space in the heart of the season prevents the possibility of giving even a brief abstract of the papers read at the "Musical Association" during the session; but from the volume of the "Proceedings" of the Society, just published, we now give a few short extracts. Mr. A. J. Ellis's paper, "On the Sensitiveness of the Ear to Pitch and Change of Pitch in Music," draws attention to some highly important results recently obtained by Dr. W. Preyer, Professor of Physiology in the University of Jena; but the subject is of too abstruse a character to be even partially understood by detached quotations from the article. Respecting the various methods of vocal instruction, however, the following expresses some plain truths:—

"There are at least four popular ways of teaching to sing: first, by the feeling for intervals between two successive notes, which is Mr. Hullah's plan; next, by the feeling for diatonic succession only, the successive notes being mentally connected by such a chain, which is M. Chevé's plan; thirdly, by the mental effect of each tone in the major and relative minor scales, which is the Tonic Sol-fa plan; and last of all, most general I fear, by playing the air on a piano, and imitating it. The extreme variety of intervals in just intonation confines the first plan to tempered intonation, and yet it is only in just intonation that the principle of an identified partial, giving the true feeling of an interval, is possible. The second plan was originally developed for a tempered scale, differing from the usual equal temperament, and it is hardly applicable to just intonation. The third method was suggested by the practice of just intonation, to which it appears exactly suited. The fourth plan reduces everything to learning 'by ear.' There is a fifth plan possible for those who can remember every tone within the compass of their voice. Determining what is the precise interval heard, and proceeding by a known interval from one tone to another, are two different things, and probably the second is much easier than the first."

And this may be cited to show what is Mr. Ellis's opinion of a "good ear":—

"To sum up by a single question, What is a good ear for music, considered merely in its melodic relations? We may, perhaps, give the following partial answer. A good ear is one which, within the 6th, 7th, 8th, and 9th octaves appreciates, both in existence and direction, an interval of one or two cents in unisons, octaves, and fifths, and ten to fifteen cents in other intervals. Such an ear must in the 8th and 9th octaves appreciate that an equally tempered fifth is flat, and an equally tempered fourth is sharp, and in all the octaves that the equally tempered major sixth and major third are decidedly much too sharp, and, perhaps, but not so certainly, that the equally tempered minor third and minor sixth are too flat. As regards the equally tempered major seventh, there is such a habit of using a still sharper tone for the 'leading note' that no ear of singer or violinist can be trusted for it. A good ear ought also in these octaves to distinguish a minor from a major tone."

The paper on "Music in Cathedrals," by Mr. W. A. Barrett, treats a somewhat difficult question with much delicacy. In his preliminary remarks, he says very truly:—

"With regard to the provision of the musical force in our cathedrals I think we have much to learn. In those places where the change has not already been organised, a revised treatment of the choristers might not inaptly inaugurate reforms in all other departments. The education of the choristers should be of the highest and most carefully devised character to fit them for the service of the Church while they are attached to it, and to qualify them for competition with the world when they are sent adrift. The manner in which choristers have been, and in many places yet are, treated in cathedral schools is simply disgraceful. Their statutory rights have been placidly ignored, their musical tuition too often so neglected that at the end of their time they are frequently ignorant of the very alphabet of their art, and their religious and moral culture is so shamefully disregarded or overlooked that the familiarity with sacred things has brought with it, for them, the proverbial result of familiarity. Those who know the life of a chorister of this pattern know that nine out of ten of the children of a choir, when their voices are broken, never set foot in the building in which they formerly ministered, although they may be living near it."

Respecting composers for the church and their emoluments, we have the following observations:—

"If a man confines the exercise of his talents to the service of the Church, he should have as fair a prospect of reasonable reward as if he devoted himself to any other profession. I do not think that the peculiar character of the work he has to do is a sufficient make-weight for ill-paid labour. Being a man, he must perforce eat, and drink, and be clothed and housed, and bring up his children in the fear of God, and to honour the laws of society. He therefore should be remunerated in proportion to his position. A cathedral musician should be able to devote the whole of his talents to the service of the Church. He should not be compelled, as all are, to eke out existence by all sorts of shifts and ends, frequently undignified and uncongenial, and too often to the scandal of the society to which he belongs, and the place to which he is attached. Every one, therefore, who has the gift of music in any degree is justified in taking his talents to the best market. I cannot help feeling and expressing a doubt, however, whether the cathedral is the proper market for much of the stuff supplied. I doubt, also, whether many of the works printed are calculated to bring a creditable estimate of English musical genius, either in the present or the future. Cathedral music, like the cathedral service, ought not to be influenced by the wind of passing popularity or flying fashion. I am perfectly sure, of course, that the good alone among these compositions will survive, and that the poor will die a natural death; but I do not think that consolation sufficient for all that must be endured until such times come. I think that the cathedral writers ought to approach their work with a greater sense of responsibility than they do. No man has a right to live a selfish life, or to regard the present as final and conclusive for him, not even a modern composer or a cathedral organist; something must be done for posterity, if only out of an ordinary feeling of gratitude for inheritances enjoyed. We may do all we can for the elevation of music in cathedrals, we may institute improved methods for the nurture and education of choristers, we may exalt the position and augment the salaries of the several officers to whom the performance of the music is entrusted; we may make the services worthy of the building in which they are given and the traditions connected with them; but until the cathedral composer learns to employ the liberty allowed him with a less degree of licence than at present, the works of the old writers will stand as memorials of reproach for ill-used talents, and our cathedral music transmitted to posterity will go down, if not as a sorrow and a shame to us, at all events as nothing in any way worthy of our extended and extensive knowledge of the art."

One of the most interesting papers in the volume is that by Mr. C. K. Salaman, "On the English Language as a Language for Music," and we regret that we cannot do more than quote from it the following paragraphs:—

"It is probable that the prejudice which still obtains against the English language as a language for song commenced with the introduction of the Italian opera into this country; for it is difficult to conceive that it could have had existence while the illustrious Henry Purcell flourished—he who in every page of his vocal music, whether for the Church or for the stage, afforded irrefragable proof of the fitness of the English language for English music. 'Purcell,' says a contemporary writer, 'was particularly admired for his vocal music, having a peculiar genius to express the energy of English words, whereby he moved the passions as well as caused admiration in all his auditors.' With what perfection Purcell has married his immortal music to immortal verse need not be told to the privileged minority who have delighted in making acquaintance with his compositions. When Italian operas were first imported into England, and English translations of the Italian text were called for, it was discovered that our language would not amalgamate with the music of Italy; and as it had already become the fashion to consider that nothing was worthy to be designated 'music' which was not of Italian origin, the notion that the English was not a musical language was then sown, it took root, and widely spread."

In continuation of his observations upon the necessity of composers studying well the words they select, he says:—

"Our pliant language is susceptible of the utmost refinement and the highest polish, and can naturally, and as it were affectionately, lend itself to every kind of musical expression. We have such a wealth of words at our disposal that, when found necessary on the score of euphony and variety, to substitute one word for another, we can do so to almost any extent with ease, and without the sacrifice of either sense or strength. My friend the late Sir Henry Bishop informed me in 1843 that when he and Thomas Moore were conjointly engaged upon the 'National Melodies,' which he harmonised and adapted to Moore's original poetry, the poet, in order to ensure the most musically sounding words, so often substituted one word for another that in the end, after three years of revision, scarcely one word was retained that had appeared in the original manuscript."

And, in conclusion, he adds:—

"Handel knew and appreciated well the language of his adopted country. 'Comfort ye, My people,' 'He was despised,' 'I know that my Redeemer liveth,' 'Total eclipse,' 'Deeper and deeper still,' and other sacred works by the same illustrious master, will live everlastingly to testify to the aptitude of our Scriptural language for our sublime music, and to prove irrefutably that pathos, tender expression, energy, and force can more than compensate an Englishman for the want of vowel-ending words, and for the presence of words replete with consonants, sibilants, and every other objectionable quality which may be discoverable in our rich and noble language."

THE contest between the Bands and Choirs of Schools, under the superintendence of the Local Government Board, took place at the Alexandra Palace on Wednesday the 22nd ult. Cornets, with all recent improvements, with a Euphonium and a Trombone (ranging in value from 15 to 12 guineas), were given as band prizes by Messrs. F. Besson and Co., and Mr. W. Hillyard; and these were supplemented by purses of money awarded by the lessees of the Alexandra Palace and the Chaplain to the Strand Union Schools, together with a gold-mounted bâton to Mr. S. Graham, Bandmaster of the Milton Schools, Portsmouth, for having sent the greatest number of boys (30) into the army and navy since the last competition. The prizes for the school choirs comprised purses of 15 and 10 guineas presented by Sir Frederic Fitzwygram, Bart., and 5 guineas by the lessees. Eight bands competed. The boys, whose ages vary from eight to fourteen, performed successively in the Central Hall, each band playing a Quick March of its own selection, and a contest piece, with solos, from Balfe's "Bohemian Girl," specially arranged by Mr. R. Wheatley, to whom all the arrangements of the contest were confided, and who acted as one of the judges. Both the instrumental and choral performances were of great excellence. The competition was very close, and resulted in the award of the following band prizes: 1. Strand Union School, Edmonton; 2. St. Pancras School, Leavesden; 3. West London District School, Ashford; 4. St. Mary's Orphanage, North Hyde, Hounslow; 5. Exmouth Training Ship; 6. Milton Schools, Portsmouth. The singing prizes were given to the best of the six competing choirs as follows: 1. St. Mary's Orphanage; 2. Milton School, Portsmouth; 3. South Metropolitan Schools, Sutton. In presenting the prizes to the band and choir masters Sir F. Fitzwygram expressed his gratification with the success of the competition, and his intention to give similar prizes in the next competition.

THE Royal Society of Musicians has just received some interesting gifts to add to the choice souvenirs of the great departed already in its possession. The first is a proof engraving of the portrait of the late Sir W. Sterndale Bennett, signed by the artist and engraver, Millais and Barlow. This fine work of art was presented to the Society, framed and with a suitable inscription, by the late eminent musician's daughter, Mrs. Case. The other gifts are from Mr. Charles Neate (son of the pianist of that name whose death was noticed in the MUSICAL TIMES of May last), and are valuable memorials both of Neate and his master Beethoven. They consist of an engraved portrait of Beethoven (date 1814), with a few words recording the gift and signed by the mighty master, who accidentally let fall a large blot of ink on the paper and was desirous of cancelling the presentation and substituting another; but to this Neate demurred, saying "a blot from Beethoven was superior to a page of any other material from an inferior author." To the portrait Mr. Neate has added a letter from Beethoven to his father, in French, in which Beethoven says, should Neate decide on having a benefit concert, his services will be available in any way he may desire. The Royal Society of Musicians possesses many excellent portraits and other musical treasures, which are most carefully preserved in the large meeting-room, Lisle Street, Leicester Square; and it is pleasant to find that the Charity is not forgotten by the relatives of those who during a long life were not only members but also warm friends of this very deserving Institution, which distributes the whole of its funds in relieving the wants of aged and distressed musicians.

THE Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's having kindly agreed to sanction a special Service for the working classes in the Cathedral, after consultation with Mr. Robert Alderson Turner, the Hon. Secretary of the Gregorian Association, it was determined that the Festival Service as given in May last should be repeated on the 9th ult., and the working classes especially invited to attend. The choir, numbering about 1,000 voices, including nearly 100 of the clergy, was accompanied by an efficient band of brass instrumentalists, as well as the organ, at which Mr. Warwick Jordan presided. The Rev. John W. Bennett, of Regent's Park, acted as Precentor and Conductor, assisted by two Cantors. The enormous procession (led by Mr. Robert A. Turner), marching four abreast down the south aisle of the Cathedral and up the nave, sang the processional hymns, "Urbs beata," and "Saviour, through the desert lead us," whilst the vast congregation was assembling, and at the conclusion of the Service. Mr. Jordan played the following with great taste: "How excellent" (Saul), Overture to Handel's "Occasional Oratorio," Allegro in G minor (Spohr), Mendelssohn's "Cornelius March," and Bach's Toccata and Fugue in D minor; and the Rev. J. Oakley, of St. Saviour's, Hoxton, preached an eloquent sermon from the text "He taught daily in the Temple." Often as these great Festivals have been held in St. Paul's, such an enormous congregation as that gathered together on this occasion has probably never been seen before in the building; indeed, it is computed that 15,000 persons were present.

THE series of so-called "Promenade Concerts" commenced on the 11th ult. at Covent Garden Theatre, the refreshment department being again presided over by the lessees, Messrs. A. and S. Gatti, and the music, which enlivens the proceedings at the buffets, by Signor Arditì. We have already recorded our opinion that art has nothing whatever to do with these annual entertainments; and need therefore only chronicle the fact that on the opening night the programme contained the usual heterogeneous mass of compositions, including an "arrangement" of Gounod's new Opera "Cinq-Mars," and a "Drummer-boys' Polka," composed on the model of the late M. Jullien's sensational orchestral pieces, by the Conductor. Several new vocalists have appeared already, and the co-operation of M. Maurel is promised in the course of the present month; but no judgment can be formed on the merit of artists amidst such uncongenial surroundings. "Classical Nights" have, as usual, been given; but we are glad to find that our fears respecting the establishment of occasional "Promenade Oratorios" during the season are likely to prove groundless, for "Sacred Nights" have been abandoned.

We understand that the applications for tickets at the approaching Leeds Musical Festival have been beyond anticipation, the seats for every performance being rapidly taken up. The choral portion of the Festival promises to be the finest yet heard in this country. Already no fewer than twenty-two rehearsals have been held. Mr. Walter Macfarren, who will conduct his brother's new Oratorio, Joseph, has twice attended rehearsals of the work; and Mr. Thomas Wingham, of London (who is to conduct Mr. Austin's new Cantata, The Fire-King), has also personally directed rehearsals of that composition. These two new works are spoken highly of by all who have heard the rehearsals. Mdlle. Albani, who was engaged by the committee in view of Mdlle. Titiens's inability to attend, will sing the soprano solos of Joseph, and also take part in several other performances during the Festival.

A VERY successful Choral Festival Service was held in the City Temple on Thursday evening, July 26. About sixteen choirs belonging to Nonconformist churches in London met together at the invitation of Mr. Minshall, the Organist, the total number of voices being about 320. The Anthem, "And the glory of the Lord," was given with much precision and effect. The hymns were excellently sung, the parts blending well together. Mr. Minshall ably presided at the organ. The spacious church was overcrowded, the aisles, staircases, and galleries being thronged.

We regret that, up to the time of our going to press, no cheering accounts reach us respecting the health of Mdlle. Titiens. Her name has been withdrawn from the programmes of the Gloucester and Leeds Festivals, and medical reports do not assure us that she is progressing towards convalescence. No news, however, is good news; and we may hope therefore that, although compelled to lose her valuable services at the approaching Festivals, we shall shortly welcome her return to a career which, in the full tide of her popularity, has been so unhappily suspended.

THE prospectus of the Sunderland Philharmonic Society announces three Subscription Concerts during the coming season, at the first of which will be given Gade's Cantata, "The Crusaders," and Handel's Serenata, "Acis and Galatea;" at the second Haydn's Oratorio, "The Creation;" and at the third Sir Michael Costa's Oratorio, "Eli." The orchestra will be under the leadership of Mr. Henry Nuttall, of Manchester, the principal performers being selected from Mr. Charles Hallé's band. The season commences on the 5th of November.

We are sorry to record the death of Mrs. March (Virginia Gabriel), who was thrown from her carriage during the past month and sustained such severe injuries that, although taken to St. George's Hospital and carefully attended to, she lingered only until the following night. Mrs. March was well known as the composer of many graceful and expressive vocal pieces, several of which became extremely popular with amateurs.

IN proof of the desire to encourage the composition of English Glee, the Manchester Gentlemen's Glee Club has offered a prize of £20 for the best original Serious Glee, and a like prize for the best original Cheerful Glee. It is announced that arrangements will be made for preserving the perfect incognito of unsuccessful competitors, so that it may be hoped that some composers of eminence will respond to the invitation.

THE continued indisposition of Mdlle. Titiens rendering it impossible for her to appear at the Gloucester Festival, which commences on the 4th inst., the sacred solos have been divided between Miss Adela Vernon and Madame Sophie Löwe. The sale of tickets is already exceedingly large; and it is announced that the sermon will be preached by the Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, who has hitherto held aloof from the Three Choir Festivals.

We regret to hear that the Musical Association is about to lose the valuable services of Mr. C. K. Salaman, who resigns, at the end of the present season, the post of Honorary Secretary, which he has held since the formation of the Society.

MR. LANGDON COLBORNE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., late Organist of St. Michael's College, Tenbury, has been appointed by the Dean and Chapter of Hereford to the vacancy created by the death of Mr. George Townshend Smith.

REVIEWS.

Friedrich Chopin: sein Leben, seine Werke und Briefe. Von Moritz Karasowski. 2 vols. Dresden: F. Ries.

THERE are artists whose life, in the full significance of the word, must ever remain unwritten. Its main features may be recognised and understood by the sympathetic insight of a kindred artistic mind, and thus a true, if ideal, picture of the life in question may be attained which, however, defies the dissecting process of the literary pen. In the various phases of modern musical development we meet with not a few representatives of the art whose distinct and most marked individuality has entitled them to a niche in the hall of fame, but whose comparatively uneventful life offers little or no scope to the biographer. We will only instance Franz Schubert as an illustration of our remarks; they are equally applicable, although in a different degree, to Friedrich Chopin. His outward career was marked by no striking incidents which would have raised it above the conventional sphere of the artist, nor can it be said that he exercised a direct and personal influence upon the art-consciousness of his time. The occasions on which he appeared before the public were extremely rare, and may almost be counted on the fingers. He was, indeed, the admired and courted favourite of a world, but it was the narrow world only of the Parisian salons, while his true home remained in the seclusion of his chamber or in the society of a few sympathetic friends. A genius, unique though singularly confined within a narrow limit of creative activity—a rich and imaginative nature in which a certain melancholy dreaminess predominated, a yearning for an undefined something which was ever receding from his grasp—a heart capable of forming and retaining throughout life the deepest attachments, and glowing with a generous love of his unfortunate country—such are, in short, the prominent features in the portrait of the Polish tone-poet. The biographer may collect the scattered details of the outer circumstances of such a career; but the life of Chopin was essentially an inner one, and its biographical picture will always remain more or less incomplete, in accordance with the degree of the capacity on the part of the reader to penetrate into the mystic laboratory of genius.

Fortunately for Chopin and for the lovers of his music, the man who of all others possesses the just-mentioned capacity in an eminent degree, the intimate friend of the composer, Franz Liszt, has already given to the world his experience of this inner life; and it must be admitted that

Words by H. W. GODFREY.

PART-SONG.

Music by J. L. HATTON.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, BARNES STREET (W.) and 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET (E.C.)

Andante grazioso.

TREBLE.

1. Like the blush on Beau-ty's cheek, The de-part-ing God of
 2. Sweets from ev'-ry clo-sing flow'r, O'er the charm-ed sense pre-

ALTO.

1. Like the blush on Beau-ty's cheek, The de-part-ing God . . .
 2. Sweets from ev'-ry clo-sing flow'r, O'er the charm-ed sense . . .

TENOR
(Svs. lower).

1. Like the blush on Beau-ty's cheek, The de-part-ing God of
 2. Sweets from ev'-ry clo-sing flow'r, O'er the charm-ed sense pre-

BASS.

1. Like the blush on Beau-ty's cheek, The de-part-ing God of
 2. Sweets from ev'-ry clo-sing flow'r, O'er the charm-ed sense pre-

Andante grazioso.

PIANO.
♩ = 104.

day . . . Tips with ro-sy light the clouds, As they slow-ly sail a-vail, . . . And from yon-der moon-lit bow'r, Sings the lone-ly night-in-

. . . of day Tips with ro-sy light the clouds, As they sail a-
 . . . pre-vail, And from yon-der moon-lit bow'r, Sings the night - - in-day . . . Tips with ro-sy light the clouds, As they sail a-vail, . . . And from yon-der moon-lit bow'r, Sings the night - - in-day . . . Tips with ro-sy light the clouds, As they sail a-vail, . . . And from yon-der moon-lit bow'r, Sings the night - - in-way, sail . . . a - way, slow - ly sail . . . a - way.

 gale, the night - - - in - gale, sings the lone - ly night - in - gale.

way, sail . . . a - way, they slow - ly sail a - way.
 gale, the night - in - gale, the lone - ly night - in - gale.

way, sail . . . a - way, they slow - ly sail . . . a - way.
 gale, the night - in - gale, the lone - ly night - in - gale.

way, sail . . . a - way, sail . . . a - way. From the gale, the night - in - gale, the night - in - gale. Thro' the

Ze-phyr
 To the

From caves pro - found steal - - - ing, Ze-phyr the lim - pid rills As they wind a - long, To the

From caves pro - found soft - ly steal - ing, Ze-phyr the lim - pid rills As they wind a - long, . . . To the o - cean caves profound soft - ly steal - ing thro' the grove, Ze-phyr vale the lim - pid rills As they wind their way a - long, To the bears on dow-ny wing . . Cho-ral hymns of joy and love; Oh! what spells you smi-ling stars a - bove, . . Chime their drea-my un - der - song. Oh! what spells you bears on dow-ny wing . . Cho-ral hymns of joy and love;

smi-ling stars a - bove, . . Chime their drea-my un - der - song.

bears on dow-ny wing . . Cho-ral hymns of joy and love;
smi-ling stars a - bove, . . Chime their drea-my un - der - song.

bears on dow-ny wing . . Cho-ral hymns of joy and love;
smi-ling stars a - bove, . . Chime their drea-my un - der - song.

weave, . . . Oh! what spells you weave, Oh! what mys-tic spells you weave, . . . Oh! what spells you weave, Oh! what mys-tic spells you

. . . what spells you weave, . . . what spells! Oh! what mys-tic spells you
. . . what spells you weave, . . . what spells! Oh! what mys-tic spells you

. . . what spells you weave, . . . what spells! Oh! what mys-tic spells you
. . . what spells you weave, . . . what spells! Oh! what mys-tic spells you

. . . what spells you weave, . . . what spells, Oh! what mys-tic spells you
. . . what spells you weave, . . . what spells, Oh! what mys-tic spells you weave . . A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve, what mys - tic spells, what weave . . A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve, what mys - tic spells, what weave . . A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve, what spells weave . . A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve, what spells weave A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve, what mys - tic spells, what weave A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve, what mys - tic spells, what weave A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve,

 weave A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve,

mys - tic spells you weave A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve!
 mys - tic spells you weave A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve!

you weave, you weave A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve!
 you weave, you weave A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve!

mys - tic spells you weave A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve!
 mys - tic spells you weave A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve!

you weave A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve!
 you weave A - round the heart, fair sum - mer eve!

This Part-Song may be had also in its original form for A.T.T.B., in A flat, Octavo 1½d., Folio 1s. 6d.; and arranged for four equal voices in F, Octavo 1½d., Folio 1s. 6d.

The Wanderer's Night Song.

Words from the German of GÖTHE.

Music by SCHNIDDER VON WARTENBURG.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.) and 80 & 81 Queen Street (E.C.)

Adagio.

TRUMBLE. p pp mf

O-ver all the mountains is peace! is peace! In all the fir-tree tops scarcely

ALTO. p pp mf

O-ver all the mountains is peace! is peace! In all the fir-tree tops scarcely

TENOR (Sve. lower). p pp mf

O-ver all the mountains is peace! is peace! In all the fir-tree tops scarcely

BASS. p pp mf

O-ver all the mountains is peace! is peace! In all the fir-tree tops scarcely

Adagio.

PIANO. p pp mf

dim. p mf pp

whis-pers a breath! The bird in the woodland si-lent re-po-ses, the bird in the wood-

dim. p mf pp

whis-pers a breath! The bird in the woodland si-lent re-po-ses, the bird in the wood-

dim. p mf pp

whis-pers a breath! The bird in the woodland si-lent re-po-ses, the bird in the wood-

dim. p mf pp

whis-pers a breath! The bird in the woodland si-lent re-po-ses, the bird in the wood-

dim. p mf pp

whis-pers a breath! The bird in the woodland si-lent re-po-ses, the bird in the wood-

mf p pp

land re-po-ses; Yet awhile thou too, yet awhile thou too, thou soon wilt rest,

mf p pp

land re-po-ses; Yet awhile thou too, yet awhile thou too, thou soon wilt rest,

mf p pp

land re-po-ses; Yet awhile thou too, yet awhile thou too, thou soon wilt rest,

mf p pp

land re-po-ses; Yet awhile thou too, yet awhile thou too, thou soon wilt rest,

mf p pp

land re-po-ses; Yet awhile thou too, yet awhile thou too, thou soon wilt rest, thou soon wilt rest, yet awhile thou too, yet awhile thou too, thou soon wilt rest, thou soon wilt rest, yet awhile thou too, yet awhile thou too, thou soon wilt rest, thou soon wilt rest, yet awhile thou too, yet awhile thou too, soon wilt rest, thou soon wilt rest, yet awhile thou too, yet awhile thou too, soon wilt rest, thou soon wilt rest, yet awhile thou too, yet awhile thou too, soon wilt rest, thou soon wilt rest, yet awhile thou too, yet awhile thou too, soon wilt rest, pp mf cres.

 thou wilt rest, yet a-while thou too, thou . . . soon wilt rest, wilt pp mf cres.
 thou wilt rest, yet a-while thou too, thou soon wilt rest, wilt
pp mf cres.
 thou wilt rest, yet a-while thou too, thou too, soon wilt rest, . . wilt pp cres. mf cres.
 thou wilt rest, . . yet a-while thou too, thou too, soon wilt rest;
pp mf cres.

mf
 rest, yet a-while thou too, thou too wilt rest.
pp mf pp ppp
 rest, yet a-while thou too, thou too wilt rest, thou too wilt rest.
pp mf pp ppp
 rest, yet a-while thou too, thou too wilt rest, thou too wilt rest.
pp mf pp ppp
 rest, yet a-while thou too, thou too wilt rest.
pp mf pp dim. ppp

the rhapsodical style of the Abbé, if somewhat embarrassing at times, is peculiarly suited to the subject and to the wayward genius of whom he treats. This brilliant effusion of a poetic mind should be read in conjunction with the connected story of the composer's career at present under our notice; they supplement one another. Herr Karasowski is a countryman of Chopin, and as such especially fitted to be the interpreter of the ardent patriotic sentiments which form such a prominent element in the character of his compositions; he is also an intimate friend of the Chopin family, a circumstance which has enabled him to obtain a number of details, of anecdotes and incidents in connection particularly with the youth of Friedrich, which admit new light upon his early development, and which will be welcomed by all who take an interest in the matter. The most interesting portion of the work is, however, a number of letters of the composer now published for the first time, which enable the biographer at various stages of his work to let his hero speak for himself—the true secret, in fact, of all successful biography. These letters, originally written in the Polish language (the mother-tongue, in the strictest sense of the word, of our composer, whose father, a Frenchman by birth, had settled near Warsaw and married a Polish lady), are given in admirable translation, and are dated from various parts of Poland and Germany, and subsequently from Paris, where, after a sojourn of many years, the great musician fell the victim of a painful and protracted malady. Unfortunately, as we learn in the course of the above narrative, the whole of the letters written by Chopin to his family while resident in the French capital, and thus comprising the most interesting and important period of his life, were destroyed by the vandalism of the Russian soldiery incidental to one of those chronic disturbances to which their author's divided and unhappy country is periodically subjected. Enough, however, of his correspondence dating from that epoch, and directed chiefly to his bosom-friend Titus Woyciechowski, has been preserved to make the existing disproportion in the personal communications, supplied respectively in the first and second part of the work, less apparent. With Herr Karasowski as our guide, we are introduced to the talented members of the Chopin family at Zelazwa Wola, the village near Warsaw where the composer spent the early days of his youth, and to the excellent musician Elsner, who watched over and directed the development of the precocious talent of his pupil step by step, who was so proud of his subsequent success, and who in after life so impatiently and fruitlessly awaited that crowning effort on the part of his favourite, viz. the composition of a Polish national opera. We follow the young virtuoso upon his visits to Berlin and Vienna, always modest, always shrinking from the public gaze, yet always eliciting admiration, and exercising that indefinable fascination upon his auditors by which a powerful individuality manifests itself. Finally, we see the now matured musician take up his abode in Paris; we find him surrounded by a circle of fellow-artists, yielding in brilliancy and fame to that of no other epoch in the art-history of the great metropolis, himself the flattered and spoilt child of the salons, from whose scented atmosphere he would often turn to his rooms at the Chaussée d'Antin, with the grief of his betrayed country in his heart, with the stings of disappointed love still ranking in his bosom, to pour out his woe at the pianoforte in unheard-of improvisations. We hear something also of the composer's alternate attachment to two Polish ladies, who proved in turn faithless; and a good deal about his subsequent relations to Madame Dudevant, the great French novelist known by the name of George Sand. The author treats in a separate chapter of the importance of Chopin as a creative artist, by which means he manages to convey a great many instructive suggestions to the mind of the student, which form not the least valuable portion of the biography.

We have, we think, said enough to recommend this interesting and important addition to biographical literature to such among our readers whose knowledge of German will enable them to peruse its pages: those unacquainted with that language must be content to wait; we fancy it will not be long before the work will follow its predecessor (Franz Liszt's) with an English translation.

Herr Karasowski's "Life of Friedrich Chopin" contains probably as much as we shall ever learn of the career of a musician whose genius had chosen but few forms of expression, into which few, however, he has infused endless variety and a singular depth of poetry entirely his own.

Venite, Te Deum, Deus Misereatur, the Preces and Responses, set to music for use during Advent and Lent, Ten Offertory Sentences, "Sing to the Lord," Hymn for four voices; "Onward, Christian soldiers," Processional Hymn. Composed by Ernest C. Winchester, A.C.O., Ch. F. London: F. Pitman.

THE above compositions and arrangements are all designed for average parish choirs. The three canticles which come first on our list are very good arrangements of Gregorian tones, judiciously harmonised with a free organ part; these will be found useful at churches where Gregorian music is sung, but where the organists have not sufficient experience, or perhaps skill, to be able to harmonise for themselves. The Preces and Responses will not, we think, be likely to supersede Tallis. The Offertory Sentences are pleasing and well written; the only fault we have to find with them is that in one or two cases Mr. Winchester has not been sufficiently careful in the accenting of his words; thus in No. 7 we twice find the word "behold" with the first syllable at the beginning of a bar; and in No. 8 we have "do good unto all men," "and specially to them," the syllables printed in italics coming on the accented part of the bar. "Sing to the Lord," a tune which gained the College of Organists' Prize in 1874, is very good; the harmonies are in the style of Bach, with moving inner parts, and therefore not particularly easy for congregational singing. The Processional Hymn we like less; and the composer has made a bad slip in his harmony, giving consecutive octaves between melody and bass at the end of the passage for sopranos alone.

Spare us, good Lord. Sacred Song. Written and composed by J. Adams. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

IT is difficult to advance anything in disparagement of a song which shows good intention, and offends not by any violation of musical grammar; but were a literary work submitted for notice which said but little, yet said that little in pure English, we question whether it would not be passed over in silence. In truth, music has not yet arrived at that point which would justify a reviewer in throwing aside a composition which, although well and carefully written, bears no evidence of the possession of origination power; for were he to do so, not only would the journal in which he wrote show a sorry list of new works, but he would himself be accused of "favouritism" by many who hold a highly respectable position in the art. Let us do our duty, therefore, and say that the "sacred song" before us is neither better nor worse than the number we are daily called upon to notice. The little bit of legato melody which, with the exception of the short opening phrase, makes up the entire composition, is vocal, and smoothly accompanied. It is a question, however, whether it will bear being repeated three times.

The Song of a Sprite. Words by Mrs. Radcliffe. Composed by Mrs. Mounsey Bartholomew. [Samuel Brewer.]

WE have often awarded much praise to the vocal compositions of Mrs. Bartholomew, but this is unquestionably one of the best we have yet seen from her pen. A light and characteristic symphony well prepares us for the nature of the verses chosen by the composer, the setting of which is materially aided by the highly dramatic accompaniment, which is skilfully varied with the charges of feeling in the poetry. We particularly admire the subdued and melodious phrase commencing with the words "And listen to celestial sounds;" and the modulation into E flat minor may be cited as a remarkably happy point. The song is dedicated to "La Marquise de Caux," whose voice would certainly be admirably suited to its due rendering.

Stay, sweet Swallow. Song. Words by Edward Oxenford.

Love and Time. Song. Words by F. E. Weatherly, M.A.
Composed by Berthold Tours.
[Duff and Stewart.]

THE first of these songs has a pleasing and sympathetic theme, although we can scarcely rank the composition amongst the best of the many works of the kind lately contributed to the musical world by Mr. Berthold Tours. The harmonies to the broken phrases in the voice-part at the commencement are extremely happy, and the conversational bits between melody and accompaniment have an excellent effect; but on their repetition in the second verse a feeling of monotony is created, and the "Poco meno mosso," in the relative minor, is felt as a relief. "Love and Time," on the contrary, is a song which must appeal to all who desire that the pianoforte part should form a portion of the composition, rather than be degraded into a mere accompaniment. To those who are not in the habit of studying the meaning of the work they are singing, the music will doubtless appear somewhat patchy; but the composer has sympathised with the poet in setting the words; and the vocalist, to do justice to the song, must sympathise with both. In truth, it is a charming and thoroughly musicianlike little vocal piece, which can be conscientiously recommended both for practice and performance.

The Dreamer. Song. Written by R. W. MacDonnell.
Composed by Henry Potent. [C. Jefferys.]

THIS is a really good and effective ballad, both words and music being as unaffectedly simple as such compositions should be. We could wish, however, that one having so much melodic feeling would write his harmonies more carefully. For instance, we suggest the reconsideration of the three bars commencing page 3, the doubled discord in the second bar being particularly unpleasant; and we cannot reconcile to ourselves the leap of the A in the bass (between the third and fourth bar), which can only be felt as a passing note, to the root of the following harmony. Doubled leading notes, too, frequently occur, and in the modulations into the dominant, E naturals are often omitted. These inaccuracies are easily remedied; and we should scarcely have thought it worth while to mention them had we not felt that the song may very probably reach a second edition.

Prythee, why so pale? Song for a Bass voice. Words by Sir John Suckling. Music by W. Howell Allchin. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

SIR JOHN SUCKLING'S quaint poetry has been set with a kindred feeling by Mr. Allchin, the drop of the major seventh at the commencement, and, on the repetition of the words, of the diminished fifth, giving much force to the question which forms the title to the song. We scarcely like the change from C to E major, and must take exception to some of the harmonies; as for instance where the 4-2 on A (between the third and fourth bars of page 4) leaps down to the triad of E, in order to get out of the way of the voice; but generally the accompaniments show a commendable desire on the part of the composer to avoid anything like eccentricity. In the present dearth of novelty for this class of voice Mr. Allchin's composition should find favour with bass singers.

I prithee send me back my heart. Song. Poetry by Sir John Suckling. Music by Charles Simon. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

MR. SIMON'S music is so sympathetic with the feeling of the unaffectedly simple verses of the old poet that this song should find favour with all who desire to produce effect by legitimate means. The bold diatonic harmonies which appropriately colour the theme would be unexceptionable but for the unfortunate fifths between the triads of C and B flat major (page 3, bars 12 and 13), which might very easily be altered. We are glad to find that composers are beginning to bestow more attention on the words they select for musical setting, as it is impossible to expect that anything but commonplace phrases can be wedded to commonplace lines.

Helen. Song. Words, Anon. (1700). Composed by George Langley. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE fact of this song being so profusely marked with such directions as "Lamentoso," "Con rabbia," "Doloroso," "Amoroso," "Dolentissimo," &c., seems to prove that it is the work of an amateur. Composers should be thoroughly aware that it is utterly impossible to indicate every phase of feeling throughout a vocal piece; and a few general guides to the singer are therefore all that are necessary, the words and music as a rule sufficiently evidencing the manner in which the phrases are to be sung. In every other respect, however, the composition has nothing "amateurish" about it. A pathetic phrase in C minor, with an obstinate inner tonic pedal, well expresses the somewhat mournful verses, respecting the authorship of which we have no indication. The song may be recommended as a fair specimen of quiet and unpretentious workmanship.

Old and New. A Song of the Changing Year. Poetry and Music written and composed by James Gaskell. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THAT it is better to accomplish what you aim at in a minor work than to achieve only partial success in a more ambitious one is amply evidenced by Mr. Gaskell's song. A smooth melody in A minor, with a triplet accompaniment, a second theme in the tonic major, and an easy chorus, in the same key, express the simple words with good effect, the only question being whether all this occurring three times over will not become somewhat monotonous. Mr. Gaskell's poetry is as unpretentious as his music; but both disarm elaborate criticism, for the song, "affectionately inscribed to his wife," is as pure a domestic offering as can possibly be desired.

A Vision of Home. Song. Words by Charles J. Rowe. Music by Julia Woolf. [J. B. Cramer and Co.]

WE can imagine that so simple and melodious a ballad as "A Vision of Home" would command an extensive sale, but it would puzzle any reviewer to know what to say of it, beyond advertising the simple fact we have stated. The plain tonic, subdominant and dominant harmonies are distributed into crotchets, minims, and semi-quavers, with appropriately sympathetic feeling; and, as a domestic ballad, it fulfils every requirement; but we can scarcely see why the composer should announce on the title-page that she was "re-elected King's Scholar" at the Royal Academy of Music. The song sufficiently evidences that its author is a musician; and we certainly think the announcement of the honours she has received would have been better reserved for a composition of more pretension.

The Rose. Song. The English words translated from the German of Kletke, by the Rev. J. Troutbeck. The Music composed by Willem Coenen. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

WE are glad to see songs so thoughtful as that now before us steadily multiplying; for it proves beyond doubt that there is a public for good, as well as for bad and indifferent music. It is also refreshing to find that Herr Coenen, whose executive powers are well known, is not tempted into writing a pianoforte piece with vocal accompaniment, a form which those who mould their works upon the German Lied are too apt to adopt. The melodious theme which commences this song is most artistically coloured by the harmonies, which, although varied, are never obtrusive. The sudden transition from D to B flat major is extremely beautiful, an excellent effect being gained on the return to the subject by the voice lingering upon the F natural, the original key being proclaimed by the first occurrence of the F sharp, upon tonic harmony. The triplet accompaniment is happily relieved at the phrase commencing "Why should a trembling tear be seen?" and in every respect the composition bears evidence of having been conceived upon a definite plan throughout.

Without thee! (Ce que je suis sans toi.) Song. Poetry by L. de Peyre.

Flowers from my Sweet! (L'Envoi de Fleurs.) Poetry by Emile Angier.

Composed by Ch. Gounod.

[J. B. Cramer and Co.]

M. GOUNOD has thoroughly caught the spirit of these two poetical songs, and, especially in the first one, has thrown such a glow over the verses as to make words and music almost inseparable. The syncopated accompaniment gives much effect to the theme so happily expressing the lingering hours of suspense; and the modulations are throughout most sympathetic with the varied feelings of the text. The second song is more simple in construction, but no less beautiful. Only the nearly related keys are touched, and the accompaniment is as unpretending as the vocal part. In songs so well considered as these we are struck with the announcement that they are published for soprano, tenor, mezzo-soprano and baritone: surely the composer knows best what voice he writes for; and, if the pitch originally fixed upon is to be utterly disregarded, we see no more reason why a song designed for a tenor should be sung by a baritone than that a piece intended for the violin should be played on the violoncello.

Hop. Caprice Brillant, pour Piano, par Lefébure-Wely. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE name of the composer of this piece will be a sufficient guarantee that "Hop," in spite of its eccentric title, contains good material, if not of the very best texture. The skips in the principal theme are evidently suggestive of some leading idea which the author has had in view throughout. The chromatic ascent of the second subject, commenced with the left hand, is extremely effective; and the semiquaver passages which follow give much vitality to the movement. A well-written Coda forms a brilliant termination to the composition.

Six Sonatines, for the Pianoforte, composed by D. Magnus. [William Czerny.]

OF all things a Sonatina should be interesting, for, being put into the hands of young players who are naturally somewhat frightened at the "classical" form which it assumes, it is essential that they should be coaxed into playing it by the innate beauty of the music itself. Favourably therefore as we are disposed to regard the result of Mr. Magnus's labours in a musical point of view, we cannot say that we think his six Sonatines will become popular with the juvenile pianists for whom they are designed, for, with few exceptions, the themes are dry and unattractive. No. 1, in C major, is perhaps more particularly open to this objection. No. 3, in A minor, with a Romanza in F sharp minor, shows an earnest desire to escape from the commonplace; but the "Presto" of the last-named movement is vague and unsatisfactory. No. 5, in B flat major, is undoubtedly the best of the set, all three movements having a well-defined subject, the "Andantino," in the relative minor, especially being a well-considered piece of simple writing. There is character in the opening of No. 6, in E major, the syncopation with the figure for the left hand being extremely effective; but both the "Scherzo" and "March" are trifling. There is no question that the composer in attempting to write six Sonatines has set himself a task of no ordinary difficulty; for, although comparisons are notoriously odious, we cannot but remember how many little gems fashioned in the same mould have been left to us by those whose names are immortalised by the production of the greatest works in art.

Consolation. Rêverie mélodieuse, pour Piano, composée par Madame Oury. [Paterson and Sons.]

AS Madame Oury, although always writing gracefully, does not usually appeal to those gifted only with moderate executive ability, we predict that "Consolation" will prove one of her most popular pianoforte Sketches. The themes are graceful, and the passages with which they are ornamented invariably refined and appropriate. We cannot help thinking that Dussek's well-known piece with the same title has been occasionally recalled in composing some of the variations; but nothing that can possibly be termed plagiarism can be truthfully urged against the author. As the composition may very possibly reach another edition, it would be well, we think, to reconsider the notation of the last line on page 7. If the F sharp in the second group of semiquavers is to be changed to G flat in the third group (an alteration by no means necessary), how are the other G's and F's throughout the bar to be played? There can be no doubt that amateurs, who are usually in no respect guided by harmonies, will be in a terrible state of confusion as to what is really intended.

Six Celebrated Toccatas, for Pianoforte. Revised, and the fingering supplemented, by E. Pauer. No. 6, by Robert Schumann. [Augener and Co.]

WE have already noticed the preceding numbers of these excellent pianoforte studies, the editing and fingering of which reflect much credit upon the eminent pianist, who is also, we presume, responsible for the selection of the pieces. An exercise for double notes this Toccata will prove highly valuable; and we may also assure those who can sufficiently master the passages that they will find in the composition a musical interest that will amply repay them for the time consumed in conquering its technical difficulties.

Andante from the Sonata in D minor, for the Pianoforte. Sketch in E, for the Pianoforte Composed by H. G. Trembath, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

[Weekes and Co.]

WITHOUT displaying any very striking points, Mr. Trembath's Andante may be fairly commended as a musician-like and carefully written movement. We like the subject in the dominant, with the flowing arpeggio accompaniment; but the modulation into D minor, before the return of the theme in B flat (which reappears precisely in its original form) strikes us as being somewhat laboured. An Andante, however, detached from the Sonata for which it was written is subjected to a somewhat severe test. The "Sketch" in E, with a second subject in A minor, is somewhat in the "Lieder ohne Worte" form, both being exceedingly graceful and melodious. The passages lie well under the hand, and the piece may be recommended both for practice and performance.

Coralline. Caprice pour Piano, par Louis Diehl. [Ashdown and Parry.]

A BRIEF and showy Introduction prefaces a melodious and well-written song without words in E major, but "Coralline" is moulded throughout on the conventional form which now finds favour with amateur pianists, and on the return of the theme therefore after the usual sixteen bars it becomes surrounded with arpeggios. Although laying no claim to originality, the skill of the musician is evidenced throughout; and pianists who have cultivated a refined touch will be certain to produce effect with Mr. Diehl's elegant little Sketch before a drawing-room audience.

Laurel Leaves. Morceau élégante, pour Piano, par H. S. Roberts. [Simpson and Co.]

THE extraordinary mixture of languages upon the title-page of Mr. Roberts's piece is perhaps attributable to the fact of his wishing to name it "Laurel Leaves," but being too modest to call it "Elegast" in English. Some day perhaps a race of British composers may arise who will not be ashamed of their country; but we fear this will not be until English female vocalists use the prefix "Mrs." instead of "Madame," and English male vocalists, like Messrs. Sims Reeves and Santley, sing at our lyrical establishments without attempting to twist their names into bad Italian. The theme of "Laurel Leaves" is sufficiently slender to have been termed merely a waltz; but it is tuneful, and treated in a refined manner throughout, a few passages of imitation giving more character to the piece than we often find in such unpretentious sketches.

Chromatic Rondo, for the Pianoforte, by Arthur J. Barth. [Weekes and Co.]

WE can imagine that Mr. Barth had not got more than half-way through his piece before he wished that he had not called it a "Chromatic Rondo." He is not the first person who has been fettered in an artistic work by his title; for do we not often see how much better some pictures might have been had the artist not been regulated by the necessity of faithfully adhering to some "historical" event—how interesting some stories might have been made had the author not had a definite "moral" to work out? There is very much to admire in Mr. Barth's Rondo; good musical feeling and much freedom in writing are apparent, but the strength shown at the commencement is scarcely sustained to the end; and the "chromatic" passages often steal in after a "diatonic" subject, as if the composer had suddenly become impressed with the nature of his self-imposed task. Mr. Barth, however, has displayed enough in this little piece to convince us that he can work better when less under restraint.

The Huntsman's Song (Chant du Chasseur), for the Pianoforte, by Stephen Heller. [Ashdown and Parry.]

THIS characteristic little piece, like all the minor works of its composer, is so highly finished as to insure its ready acceptance, even with the most critical audience. The enharmonic change from E flat—accidentally made minor—to the key of B major is extremely happy; and pianists even of advanced executive ability will find, both in the first and second subject, employment for the finger as well as for the mind. Of course in all "hunting pieces" there must be a certain amount of family likeness; but Stephen Heller's "Chant du Chasseur," apart from this necessary resemblance, is perfectly original.

IN reply to our inquiry respecting the meaning of the cross which occurs in the Credo of Mr. A. H. Brown's "Missa Seraphica" (reviewed in our last number) several letters have reached us, in many of which the writers are indignant that this "Roman Catholic" mark (which indicates that the choir and congregation are to make the sign of the cross) should appear in a Service for the English Church, one correspondent also inquiring, as the sign is placed in the accompaniment as well as in the voice parts, how the organist can obey the direction and play on his instrument at the same time.

FOREIGN NOTES.

DURING the last few weeks the French musical press has devoted its columns almost entirely to the growing generation of artists, as represented by the élèves of the Paris Conservatoire. The great annual competitive examinations held by that national institution, and regarded with much interest by the musical public generally, and by directors of opera companies and impresarios in particular, came to a close during the early part of last month; and in the almost total absence of general musical events at this season of the year, the journals have published most copious reports of the proceedings. Among the pupils who have gained first prizes in dramatic singing are mentioned Mdlles. Richard and Mendez, and three tenors, MM. Talazac, Jourdan, and Sellier, some of whom have already obtained engagements at operatic establishments in Paris. In the instrumental sections two ladies have won special distinction, viz. Mdlle. Heyberger as pianist, and Mdlle. Gatineau as violoncellist. The Conservatoire will reopen its doors for the commencement of a new term on October the 8th. The Minister of Public Instruction and Fine Arts, who presided at the distribution of prizes, referred in his speech to the coming International Exhibition to be inaugurated next year at the French capital, and promised that music too should be represented on that occasion in a manner consistent with the dignity and importance of the art. For that purpose the sum of 250,000 francs has already been granted from the general Exhibition Fund, and a commission has been nominated to superintend the arrangements. In reference to the latter, L'Art Musical complains that it counts too many heads, and that, in consequence, no satisfactory result will be arrived at. The commission in question is presided over by the Marquis de Chennevières and M. Ambroise Thomas. At the Grand-Opéra the performances have been continued during the past month, the répertoire being supplied chiefly by "Le Prophète," "Robert le Diable," and "Faust." There has, however, been a revival also, namely, that of Halévy's "La Reine de Chypre," the third in point of time of the composer's great five-act operas, written in 1841, and which had not been performed for many years. The principal rôles were divided amongst Mdlle. Rosine Bloch, MM. Caron and Lasalle; and the whole mise-en-scène is spoken of as superb. The representations of the work will probably continue until the commencement of the coming season.

A propos of the charge of Wagnerian leanings periodically preferred by Le Ménestrel and other French journals against contemporary French composers, the Revue et Gazette Musicale publishes a letter by M. Saint-Saëns of which the following is a translation: "It is not without a feeling of painful surprise that I notice in a recent article of Le Ménestrel, relative to the projected revival of 'La Perle de Brésil,' the recommencement of those oft-repeated and irritating attacks upon young French musicians which at one time seemed to have been allowed to drop. If certain critics, with whom, unfortunately, Le Ménestrel makes just now common cause, are to be believed, our young school would seem to be the prey of a lamentable Wagnerism in the production of works absolutely anti-musical and anti-French. Let us examine these words by the light of facts. Who are the members of this anti-musical school? Which are these Wagnerised works? Surely, it cannot be Guiraud with his 'Piccolino.' Or is it, perchance, Delibes with 'Le Roi l'a dit,' 'Sylvia,' and 'Coppélia,' or Massenet with 'Marie-Madeleine' and 'Le Roi de Lahore'? Le Ménestrel has itself confessed to the charm of their melodies, has bestowed praise upon the lucidity and the essentially French character of their music. Turning to Joncières and his 'Dimitri,' who does not remember the brilliant inauguration of that work at the Théâtre-Lyrique, and the applause it elicited from the entire press? Again, M. Salvayre has been complimented upon the fact of his having, in 'Le Bravo,' escaped the obnoxious tendencies of the modern school. There only remains, as far as I can see, 'Le Timbre d'Argent,' the music of which has, not without some surprise, been found to contain nothing at all Wagnerian, being rather the reverse of that school. Let them be shown up, then, these ferocious composers, these incomprehensible works!" We may add that M. Saint-Saëns himself is among those chiefly suspected of harbouring tendencies corresponding with those entertained by the modern school au delà du Rhin. A new opera from the pen of the composer just mentioned will, it is announced, be performed during the coming season at Lyons. It is entitled "Etienne Marcel," and M. Louis Gallet is the author of the libretto.

At the forthcoming International Exhibition the eminent firms of pianoforte manufacturers, Pleyel-Wolff, Henri Herz, and Baudet, will respectively produce some new instruments showing important improvements upon those hitherto emanating from their factories.

Madame Adelina Patti, after her recent separation—de corps et de biens, as the French legal phrase has it—from her husband, declines to fulfil her contract with the Paris Grand-Opéra, and will, in consequence, have to pay the sum of 100,000 francs by way of compensation. The diva contemplates a tour in the United States, where, it is supposed, she will soon make up for her losses.

Among the principal performances in connection with the Mozart Festival recently held at Salzburg were Cherubini's Overture to "Anacreon;" a Sinfonia Concertante for violin and viola, with orchestral accompaniment, by Mozart; the Symphony in C major, with the Fugue, by the same master; Wagner's "Faust" Overture; Brahms's Variations on a Theme by Haydn; and Weber's Overture to "Euryanthe." The total exclusion, however, from the programme of any of the grand choral masterpieces showed, as a correspondent of the Neue Berliner Musik-Zeitung justly remarks, a grave want of judgment on the part of the committee, depriving the occasion to a great extent of its festive character. Seeing that the "festival" is to be an annually recurring one, it is to be hoped that next year the defect in question will be remedied.

Vocal performances of especial interest will be given by the Association known as "Renner's Madrigal Quartett" in connection with the hundredth anniversary of the foundation of the Germanic Museum at Nürnberg. The programme will comprise a number of Madrigals from the time of the 'Meistersinger,' as well as compositions of a similar character by Senfl (1520), Orlando di Lasso (1520-94), Thomas Tallis (1585), Thomas Morley (1600), and many others rarely, if ever, heard even in these days of antiquarian research.

According to the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik a number of autograph letters, &c., by eminent composers, formerly in the possession of a wealthy amateur, has just passed into the hands of Dr. Joseph Müller (late editor of the Allgemeine Musik-Zeitung). The importance of this collection is greatly enhanced by the fact that its contents have hitherto been entirely unknown, being jealously guarded by its previous possessor, who has, moreover, by testamentary direction, interdicted the publication for a number of years. The letters are thirty-seven in number, viz. J. S. Bach (3), C. Ph. E. Bach (2), Beethoven (4), Couperin (2), Gluck (4), Grétry (2), Handel (7), Haydn (3), Di Lasso (1), Lully (3), Morley (1), Mozart (4), and Heinrich Schütz (1), nearly all of them being documents of considerable importance to the student of art-history. Besides these letters, the collection contains unpublished compositions by Bach, Couperin, Handel (a complete opera), Haydn, Lully, and Schütz.

In January next the town of Hamburg will celebrate the two hundredth anniversary of the first representation on any stage of an original German Opera. The work then performed was called "Adam und Eva, oder der erschaffene, gefallene, und aufgerichtete Mensch" ("Adam and Eve, or man created, fallen, and anon raised up"); the text is written by the laureate poet Richter, the music by Johann Theile, the quondam Capellmeister at the great Hansa Town.

On the occasion of his recent stay at Heidelberg, Herr Richard Wagner read some extracts from his new work, entitled "Parcival," to a small circle of members of the "Wagner-Verein" at Mannheim.

It appears from the annual report of the Vienna Conservatorium for Music and Dramatic Art that this institution numbers at present 716 pupils, of whom as many as 674 devote themselves to the study of instrumental and vocal music, the remainder appertaining to the dramatic classes.

A most interesting concert, consisting of choral and orchestral works almost exclusively by Franz Liszt, will be held at the Leipzig Gewandhaus towards the middle of the present month. The performances will be conducted by Dr. F. Stade, whose eminent acquaintance with the works of the Abbé is well known. Liszt himself will, it is rumoured, shortly again take up his residence at Rome, having regained the favour of Pius IX. since the death of Cardinal Antonelli. The great artist will no doubt be once more a welcome visitor in the private apartments of the Vatican. The Neue Zeitschrift für Musik gives currency to the statement that the Abbé has been offered the enormous sum of a million dollars for a concert-tour in America, which offer the maestro, however, refused.

What is called a "Congress" of German Zither Players will be held during this month at Cassel, convened by the "Zither Club" existing in that town.

Among the artists engaged for the season 1877-78 at the Imperial Opera Houses of St. Petersburg and Moscow, we notice the following names: Mesdames Nilsson, Albani, D'Angeri, Pozzoni, Marziali-Passerini, and Scalchi-Lolli; MM. Masini, Capoul, Stagno, Campanini, Cotogni, Rota, Capponi, and Fiorini. Gounod's "Cinq-Mars" and Halévy's "La Reine de Chypre" are in course of preparation. Madame Nilsson, whose engagement will extend from October 25 to January 25 next, has, it is said, been guaranteed the sum of 7,000 francs for every night of her appearance.

Herr Behrens, the eminent bass-singer, will during this autumn undertake a concert-tour in the Scandinavian provinces, accompanied by Madame Trebelli, Mdle. Valeria (an American prima donna), and Mr. Cowen, the English pianist.

The prize offered on the part of the Société d'Harmonie at Antwerp for the composition of a festive overture for the recent three hundredth anniversary of the birth of Rubens has been gained by M. Jean Blockx.

The well-known firm of Chickering and Son, of New York, having recently completed the number of 50,000 in the manufacture of their pianofortes, have founded a library for the special use of their employés, in memory of the event.

The Hungarian journals dwell with much pride upon the fact that during the past London music season the greatest successes have been gained by Hungarian artists; among others, by Joachim, Keler Bela, Hans Richter, Auer, Remenyi, and last, not least, by Etelka Gerster.

We have to record the death of Herr Fischert, the immediate successor of Marschner in the conductorship of the Royal Opera at Hanover.

CORRESPONDENCE.

MUSIC IN THE UNITED STATES OF COLOMBIA.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—On looking through a file of the Official Diary of the United States of Colombia, I find in the Record of the proceedings of the Chamber of Representatives the following proposed law, which may possibly interest some of your readers:—

"Proposed law to honour and stimulate the artistic lueubrations of Señor José Maria Ponce de Leon."

"WHEREAS,

"1. Señor José Maria Ponce de Leon has devoted himself sedulously to the cultivation of music, prosecuting both in Bogotá and in Europe the studies necessary for perfecting himself as a composer;

"2. The musical works he has produced prove that a stimulus granted by the Government will develop his artistic qualities to the gain of the nation and of civilisation;

"3. The fostering of the arts and sciences, and the encouragement of a genius which is destined one day to be an honour to the Republic, are matters of national importance;

"The Congress of the United States of Colombia decrees:

"Article 1.—That the name of Señor José Maria Ponce de Leon be recommended to Colombians as that of a citizen distinguished for his musical aptitude and his devotion to the art.

"Article 2.—The military band directed by him in this capital shall be increased to fifty performers, and such instruments shall be furnished as he may judge conducive to the daily development of the ability and merit of the band.

"Article 3.—Señor José Maria Ponce de Leon shall receive a monthly salary of $100 as director of one of the military bands.

"Article 4.—The Executive shall be authorised to assist Señor José Maria Ponce de Leon pecuniarily in the publication of his works under a suitable arrangement or contract. N.B.—Such sum to be included in the estimate for current expenses.

"Given," &c.

This proposal emanates from the representative for the State of Santander.

It appears from the report on the above proposal that Señor Ponce's present duties consist of the management, financial as well as musical, of a band of thirty performers, and the production each month of four pieces for the band, say 240 pages of music. He has also to defray the cost of music-paper and other requisites. It will be acknowledged that his remuneration is not excessive at the rate of $50 (about £8 15s.) per month (the pay of a "writer" is about $60).

The proposed bill doubles his salary, but at the same time increases his labours by raising the numerical strength of his band to fifty performers; and, as the report on the bill states, neither can this be considered a very extravagant allowance.

Señor Ponce is stated to have studied seven years in Colombia and five in Europe, and to be the composer of two important and promising works, "Esther" and the "Mysterious Castle."

Happy Colombia, to find time in the intervals of an intermittent state of civil war to foster the arts of peace, even though the medium be a military band! And fortunate José Maria Ponce de Leon, to be held worthy of a whole Act of Parliament to himself!—Yours truly,

C. B.

THE "STICKER ACTION" IN PIANOFORTES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—It is a matter of constant regret to the writer of this that the London pianoforte-makers, with rare exceptions, continue to use the old Sticker action, the simplicity of which can be its only recommendation, for a more unsatisfactory action for general use is rarely to be met with. The regulator (or tuner, if in the country) may adjust it perfectly to-day, and for a short time it will be satisfactory; but from changes of temperature, often in two or three days, or it may be a little longer, the action will be almost certain to block in some notes, if not all through. A complaint of bad tuning is usually, and not unnaturally, made. The tuner has then to call and alter the blocking (which has been credited to him as bad tuning, but which has really nothing to do with it), yet the action still remains uncertain, even after the most careful regulating. This has been my own experience for many years, and will no doubt be borne out by many who sell or let out pianofortes on hire in the country, and particularly by those at the seaside. The use of Bord's pianettes and other foreign instruments for the last twenty years, all of which have had the foreign action (often called the French), has entirely removed all trouble on the matter in question; and no instruments have proved more generally satisfactory, as they are always to be depended on, and seldom if ever does a note get out of order. Nos. 6 and 7 in Broadwood's list have the action referred to (called by them "crank action"), and better London-made cottage pianofortes cannot be met with. The wonder is that other makers do not also adopt this improvement, and at least give the choice of either action to their customers. Most makers will apply the foreign action if ordered; but this has seldom proved successful, for, in consequence of the fitter-up not thoroughly understanding the action, or balancing the key improperly, the touch is often tough or heavy, and very different to the beautiful elastic and sensitive touch of the Broadwood pianofortes before named.

Can any of your readers or any pianoforte-makers state what is the real hindrance to the introduction generally of the foreign action, as it appears to me (unless there are some valid objections) inconceivable that it is not more frequently used? There can be little doubt that the London pianoforte-makers would be wise in adopting this action in some of their instruments, as a large portion of the trade would not then have to seek abroad for pianofortes they cannot obtain at home.—Apologising for the length of this letter, I remain, yours truly,

A MUSICSELLER OF THIRTY YEARS' STANDING.

THE BARKER FUND.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—The result of the appeal made on behalf of Mr. Barker, the inventor of the pneumatic action, having fallen somewhat short of the anticipations of the committee, they have determined to make a final effort to obtain additional funds before closing the list of subscriptions. The committee feel sure that there are many musicians, both professional and amateur, who would gladly contribute towards this object, and that the absence of their names from the present list can only arise from want of knowledge of the urgency of the case. The committee venture, therefore, earnestly to press upon such of your readers who are interested in organ matters the desirability of their assisting as speedily as possible in efforts to procure a small annuity for this most deserving artist.

Subscriptions may be sent to the Hon. Treasurer, F. Davison, Esq., 24, Fitzroy Square, N.W.—Yours, &c., (Signed) J. F. BRIDGE, Mus. Doc.

F. DAVISON, Hon. Treasurer.
HENRY SMART.
J. STAINER, M.A., Mus. Doc.
E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Sec. Coll. Org.
GEORGE CARR, Hon. Sec. Sub-Committee Barker Fund.

"THE HARMONIOUS BLACKSMITH."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Your reply to "An Amateur" in the current number of the MUSICAL TIMES contains a reference to the name of Dr. Crotch in connection with "The Harmonious Blacksmith." I possess the late Dr. Crotch's copy of Handel's "Suite de pièces," full of annotations made by the Doctor; and I find his note to the air in question stands thus: "This taken from one in G by Wagenseil, with variations, but greatly improved; also said to be like something called 'The Harmonious Blacksmith'!"—Yours, &c.

WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS.

Brackley Villas, Thurlow Park Road, S.E.

August 24.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will greatly oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all Subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music pages are always stereotyped, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

ELIZA R. BITTINGTONE.—We cannot reply to our correspondent's string of trivial questions.

We will answer our correspondent who enquires how to proceed respecting the publication of some compositions, on three conditions, viz. that the name of the writer shall be legible enough to read, that the address be given, and that we shall be informed whether we are replying to a lady or gentleman.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this Summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

BANGOR.—The members of the Choral Society gave a Grand Rehearsal of the Messiah, at the Penrhyn Hall, on Monday the 20th ult., prior to their appearance in the same Oratorio at the Carnarvon National Eisteddfod and Musical Festival. The solos were taken by Miss Mary Davies, winner of the Christine Nilsson first prize at the Royal Academy of Music, London; Miss Martha Harries, R.A.M., Mr. James Sauvage, gold medalist at the R.A.M., and Mr. J. L. Williams, R.A.M. Mr. Hutton, of Cheltenham's Orchestra, played the accompaniments, the conductor being Mr. W. Williams, Port Penrhyn, Bangor. At Carnarvon Eisteddfod the solos were sung by Miss Edith Wynne, Madame Patey, Eos Morlais, Mr. James Sauvage, Signor Foli, and Mr. D. Gordon Thomas (Bangor Cathedral), the same orchestra supplying the accompaniments.

BUCKLEY, NEAR CHESTER.—A new Organ, erected in the Congregational Church, by Messrs. Bevington, of London, was opened on Sunday the 26th ult. Special Services were held morning and evening, and in the afternoon a Service of Song was given by the Sunday-school children. Mr. J. R. Griffiths, of Highgate Congregational Church, London, presided at the organ most efficiently, and after the services played a selection of Voluntaries, showing off the various stops in a very effective manner. The instrument (which has a very imposing appearance, the front pipes being illuminated in gold and colours) is placed in an organ chamber behind the pulpit, the cost, including the building of the chamber, being estimated at over £300.

HEPTONSTALL, NEAR HALIFAX.—On Tuesday, the 31st July, the sacred Cantata, Jonah, was performed in the Parish Church by the Halifax Parish Church Choir, assisted by members of the choir at Heptonstall. The Rev. F. Pigou, M.A., Vicar of Halifax, gave an appropriate address on Church Music. The principal parts of the Cantata were taken by Mrs. Whitehead (soprano), Miss Empsall (contralto), Mr. Verney Binns (tenor), and Mr. Morton (bass). Dr. Roberts, the composer of the work, presided at the organ. The Cantata was most efficiently rendered, and produced a very favourable impression.

LEVERINGTON, WISBECH.—On the 1st ult. a new Organ of fifteen stops, built by Conacher and Co., Huddersfield, was opened in the Parish Church. Mr. Arthur C. Thacker (Organist of Thorney Abbey) presided at the instrument. There was a full Choral Service at 11.30, which was ably rendered by the choir of St. Augustine's, and their Rector, the Rev. E. J. Littlewood. The sermon was preached by the Lord Bishop of Winchester. At four o'clock Mr. Thacker displayed his accustomed efficiency in an Organ Recital from the works of Handel, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Batiste, &c., when the church was crowded in every part. The Organ is admirably constructed, and the tone very fine and rich.

MARCH.—On the 1st ult. a successful Festival of Parochial Choirs was celebrated in the Church of St. John, under the able direction of the Organist, Mr. Charles Greenwood. The following Choirs took part in the service, viz. St. John's, March; St. Mary's, March; Holy Trinity, Coates; Coldham; Welney; total number of voices, 104. The interior of the church was tastefully decorated, and the congregation very numerous. The service commenced with a processional hymn, sung by the surpliced choirs, "Hark, the sound of holy voices." The Anthem was taken from Psalm cl., "Praise God in His holiness." The Hymns were 157, 323, 335, concluding with a Recessional (197, Ancient and Modern), the latter to the grand old tune, "St. Ann's." The Ely Confession (as usual at St. John's) was sung, and Tallis's Responses were used. The Canticles were sung to a service by Dr. Wesley, and the three special Psalms to Anglican chants. A very eloquent and appropriate extempore sermon was preached by the Rev. Canon Bulstrode, of Ely Cathedral, founded upon the text "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness." The offertory was liberally responded to. The proceeds will be devoted to the "Choral Fund."

POOLE.—On Wednesday the 8th ult. the first of a series of Organ Recitals was given on the fine instrument in St. James's Church. A well-selected programme was played with excellent effect by Mr. Theodore Drew, Organist of St. Luke's, Shepherd's Bush, London (who was on a visit in the town), and was listened to with earnest attention by a large congregation.

RYDE.—The first of a series of Organ Recitals in aid of the Organ Fund was given at the Parish Church (All Saints') on Monday the 6th ult. by Mr. F. H. Simms, Organist of the Church. Mr. G. E. Blunden, of Kidderminster, gave the Second Recital on the 20th; and a third will be given on Monday the 3rd inst., by Mr. T. E. Aylward, Organist of Chichester Cathedral.

SUTTON BRIDGE, LINCOLNSHIRE.—A successful Concert was given at this village on Monday evening, July 30. A great feature in the programme was the pianoforte-playing of Miss Beaton, of the Conservatoire at Stuttgart, where she has been a pupil of Professor Spieldel. The vocalists were Miss Mary Snooke (of the Royal Academy of Music), who created a highly favourable impression, Miss E. Carlyon (who has an excellent contralto voice), Mr. A. G. Lascelles (well known here, not only as a useful baritone, but as a violin-player), and the Rev. E. Bellman, who was encored in his second song.

TREWESBURY.—On Wednesday the 22nd ult. an Organ Recital was given in the Abbey Church by Mr. Charles Joseph Frost, Mus. Bac., Cantab., of London, which was attended with the utmost success. Mr. Frost's playing was the theme of general admiration, especially in Lemmens's Storm Fantasia, Mendelssohn's First Sonata, and Bach's G minor Fantasia and Fugue. The other pieces were by Smart, Batiste, Guilmant, and Frost. The choir of the church sang the vocal items of the programme, viz. the Duet "The Lord is a man of war" (Messrs. Watson and Horniblow), and the Anthems "He shall be great" (Frost), "O give thanks" (Elvey), "I was glad," (Horniblow), and "When the Lord turned again the captivity of Sion" (Frost), the latter of which was much admired, Mrs. Peck's effective rendering of the soprano solo, "They that sow in tears shall reap in joy," giving the utmost satisfaction.

YOUGHALL, CORK.—On Tuesday the 7th ult. a Concert was given in the Mall House, the Assembly-room being crowded to its utmost limits. The most interesting features in the programme were the orchestral pieces, performed by a complete string band, formed from the Cork Orchestral Union, and under the direction of Mr. W. Ringrose Atkins, Conductor of that Society. The works given included the Overtures "Le Chevalier Breton" (Hermann), "La Dame Blanche" (Boieldieu), the "Surprise Symphony" (Haydn), a Gavotte, "Air du Dauphin" (Roedel), and Mr. Atkins's Orchestral Fantasia on Irish Airs, all of which were played with extreme delicacy and precision. Mr. Howard also performed a Violin Solo with good effect, and the Misses Uniacke and Davis, Messrs Troy, Bayly Courtenay, Walpole, and Ronayne contributed some vocal music. Miss Fitzgerald and Mr. W.

H. Shaw were the accompanists at the pianoforte; and the entire Concert, under the able business management of Mr. W. H. Walpole, was a complete success.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. F. C. Bevan, Sub-Organist and Choirmaster to St. Margaret Pattens, Rood Lane, E.C.—Mr. Wm. Arthur Blakeley, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Mansfield, Notts.—Mr. F. J. Read, Mus. Bac., Oxon., and F.C.O., to Christ Church, Reading.—Mr. Edward Nield to Mount Tabor New Connexion Chapel, Wellington Road South, Stockport.—Mr. Langdon Colborne, Mus. Bac., Cantab., to Hereford Cathedral.—Mr. Alfred Alexander, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Wigan.

CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. F. Elliott Langworth to St. Peter's, Eaton Square.—Mr. Alfred James to St. Luke's Church, Redcliff Square, Earls Court, South Kensington.

OBITUARY.

On July 30, at Windsor, CHARLOTTE ICELY, wife of HENRY BARNBY, aged 42 years.

On the 3rd ult., at the Close, Hereford, very suddenly, of heart disease, GEORGE TOWNSHEND SMITH, Organist of Hereford Cathedral, in the 64th year of his age.

On the 7th ult., from injuries sustained by a fall from a carriage, MARY ANNE VIRGINIA, the beloved wife of GEORGE MARCH, of No. 58, Cadogan Place.

On the 14th ult., at 27, Lorne Gardens, Hanover Gate, SELINA, the wife of ADOLPHE POLLITZER.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

CATHEDRAL PSALTER CHANTS. Edited by S. Flood Jones, M.A., Precentor of Westminster; James Turle, Organist of Westminster; J. Troutbeck, M.A., Minor Canon of Westminster; J. Stainer, M.A., Mus. D., Organist of St. Paul's; and Joseph Barnby, Precentor of Eton. Oblong 4to, paper covers, 2s.

STAINER, DR.—(In B♭) Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis. Composed for the Fifth Annual Festival of the London Church Choir Association. Vocal score, 8vo 6d.

DUGARD, F. J.—(In G) Office for the Holy Communion, with Benedictus and Agnus Dei. Vocal score, 8vo 8d.

GROOME, J. E.—"Sing we merrily unto God our strength." Verse s. Vocal score, 8vo 4d.

HEAP, C. SWINNERTON, Mus. Doc., Cantab.—"While the earth remaineth." Harvest Thanksgiving Anthem for Four Voices. Vocal score, 8vo 4d.

MONK, DR. E. G.—"God so loved the world." Verse t. Vocal score, 8vo 8d.

NAYLOR, JOHN, Mus. Doc., Oxon.—"Out of the Deep." Full, Four Voices. Vocal score, 8vo 4d.

T. P. M.—Six Songs. 8vo, paper covers, 1s. 6d.
No. 1. Past and Present. No. 4. Recollection.
" 2. Summer Moon. " 5. Spring Song.
" 3. A Lullaby. " 6. Old Folks.

HARDING, H. A. "Dearest little Maiden." Song. 2s.

YOUNG, W. J.—Four-part Songs.
No. 20. England's glory. 8vo, 3d.
" 21. A merry Christmas to you all. 8vo, 3d.

DAVIS, GABRIEL.—"Hark, 'tis music." Part-song. 8vo, 2d.

LILFEE, FREDERICK.—March for the Organ, in F major. Arranged from the score, with Pedal obligato, by W. J. Westbrook. 1s. 6d.

MATTHEWS, T. R.—The Village Organist New edition. Paper covers, 5s.; cloth gilt, 7s. 6d.

WESLEY, DR. S. S.—Andante in A for the Organ. 3s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CONTENTS.

	PAGE
Musicians and their Masters	417
The Great Composers. No. 1. Haydn	419
Dussek's Pianoforte Sonatas	422
English Musical Privileges	424
Occasional Notes	425
George Townshend Smith	427
Sale of Dr. Rimbault's Library	427
Paragraphs	428
Reviews	430
Summer Eve. Part-Song, by J. L. Hatton	431
The Wanderer's Night Song. Part-Song, by Schnyder von Wartensee	435
Foreign Notes	440
Correspondence	441
Brief Summary of Country News	442
Organ Appointments, &c. &c.	443

MADAME WENSLEY (Soprano).

15, Alma Square, St. John's Wood, N.W.

MRS. MUDIE-BOLINGBROKE (Miss Bolingbroke)

(Contralto).

12, Gower Street, W.C.

MR. JOHN M. HAYDEN (Tenor),

Salisbury Cathedral (late of S. Andrew's, Wells Street, London).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 74, Windsor Road, Salisbury.

MRS. MUDIE-BOLINGBROKE (Miss Bolingbroke) requests that all communications respecting engagements for Oratorios, Operatic and Miscellaneous Concerts, &c., be addressed to 12, Gower Street, W.C.

MR. E. BROMELL gives Lessons in Harmony.
For terms address, 68, Eglinton Road, Bow.

ORGAN PRACTICE REQUIRED in the neighbourhood of Notting Hill. Services or cash in return. H. M. E., 206, Cornwall Road, Notting Hill, W.

TO STUDENTS.—A Lady, whose daughter is studying for the Musical Profession, offers BOARD and RESIDENCE, with every home comfort and care, to one or two young ladies similarly occupied, on moderate terms. Address, Musicus, Crowcombe Villa, Ealing Common, W.

SOPRANO (Leader) WANTED in choir of a Nonconformist Church in Islington. Two services on Sunday. Week-night practice. Apply to Mr. Bartram, 34, Douglas Road, Canonbury, N.

WANTED immediately, for Emmanuel Church Choir, West Dulwich, TWO leading TREBLE BOYS' VOICES. Surplised choir. Services on Sunday morning and evening; and on Wednesday evening, with practice. Address, stating salary required, &c., Rev. E. Rae, Clarendon Villa, Park Road, West Dulwich.

LADY ORGANIST.—WANTED, by a Clergyman's Daughter, an APPOINTMENT as ORGANIST, near London. Clerical references. Address, Miss Ross, 10, Clarence Road, Finsbury Park, London.

ORGANIST or DEPUTY.—Advertiser wishes RE-ENGAGEMENT as above. Salary, moderate. Apply, B., Mr. Faulkner's, Broad Street Station, E.C.

THE Advertiser seeks an ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST, or would act as Deputy where he would gain experience in Cathedral work. He has had four years' experience under an organist at a large public school, and can play most of Bach's Organ Fugues and Mendelssohn's Organ Sonatas; also Sterndale Bennett's Pianoforte Works. Address, F. B., Forsyth Brothers, Regent Circus, Oxford Street, London.

PIANOFORTE TUNING.—Young Man wishes SITUATION as PIANOFORTE and HARMONIUM TUNER. Can repair, and has had considerable experience with American organs. Excellent references as to character and ability. Address, P. T., Keith and Co., Advertising Agents, Edinburgh.

WANTED.—An experienced Young Man, of good address, as ASSISTANT in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Satisfactory references required. Apply personally after 6 p.m. E. Phillips, Music-seller, Clapham Common, S.W.

A MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE.—Established 17 years. For particulars apply to T. J., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

12S. WORTH OF MUSIC for One Shilling, post-free for fifteen stamps, soiled and surplus stock. James Smith and Son, 76, 74, and 72, Lord Street, Liverpool.

ORGAN METAL PIPES, ORGAN PIPES.—J. GILDERSLEEVE is prepared to supply every description of Organ Pipes, voiced or unvoiced, on reasonable terms. Organ-Pipe Works, 7, Exeter Street, Hawley Road, Kentish Town, London, N.W.

ORGAN.—A large Barrel and Finger Organ for SALE. Great bargain. Also small two-manual now in course of erection. Apply to J. B., 33, Victoria Road, Kentish Town, London, N.W.

ORGAN, good tone and condition, equal to new, handsome case, two manuals, pedals, and 15 stops, by JOSEPH WALKER. This is really a fine instrument and cheap; £100. At Stockwell Green Congregational Chapel. Keys and particulars on the premises.

ORGAN (CC) for SALE; 3 rows of keys, and pedals; 31 stops, &c. For particulars and price apply to Mr. T. S. Jones, Organ Builder, 25, Pentonville Road, N.

ORGAN for SALE.—Two manuals, CC to G, fine tone, variety of stops, independent pedal organ, handsome case. Apply, E. C., 9, Burdett Road, Mile End Road, London, E.

ORGAN, for SALE.—Fine tone; contains 4 stops, 2 octaves of pedals, in handsome case. Apply, E. C., 9, Burdett Road, Mile End Road, London, E.

CHURCH ORGAN.—GG to F; 6 stops, general swell, and pedals. Plays behind. Gothic front, in good condition. Price £30. Bevington and Sons, Rose Street, Soho.

LARGE ORGAN for SALE, consisting of three manuals and independent pedal organ, 38 sounding-stops and five couplers. Built from specification of the late Dr. Gauntlett by Holdich in December 1867. A copy of the specification of the instrument will be sent on application to Mr. Mackinnon, North House, Stoke Newington, London, N.

ON SALE, a sweet-toned ORGAN, suitable for a small place of worship or private house, with 2 manuals, containing 14 stops, including couplers and two octaves and a third of pedals. Address, George Daniels, 35, Russell Street, Eccles, near Manchester.

TO THE TRADE AND PROFESSION.—TWO ORGANS, quite new, to be SOLD at a sacrifice; one double manual, 16 stops; one single manual, 8 stops. Particulars on application to William Beale, High Street, Bridgwater.

CHAMBER ORGAN FOR SALE.—Advertiser wants the room the Organ occupies. It is built by Hill, has four stops throughout, 1½-octave pedals, Venetian swell, polished oak case. Cost 100 guineas. Price £35. Reference permitted to Messrs. Abel and Sons, Northampton.

LARGE ORGAN for SALE, new, with all the latest improvements, CC to G; 9 stops on the great; 9 ditto on the swell; large scale pedal pipes; three compositions, great; three ditto, swell; concave German pedals, 30 notes; no case. Apply, A. Hunter, 379, Kennington Road, London, S.E.

ORGAN for SALE; 4 stops; two octaves of pedals; speaking front. S. Fowler, Organ-Pipe Manufacturer, Voicer, and Tuner, 127, Pentonville Road, N.

ORGAN-HARMONIUM for SALE, by Gilbert Bauer. Very little used, with 24 octaves of Bourdon pedals, and 4 rows of vibrators. Stops, double diapason, diapason, sordine, principal, bourdon, coupler; also hand and foot blower, and foot swell; in splendid polished walnut case. Cost £65, for 40 guineas. Mr. John White, Type-Music Printer, George Street, Stroud, Gloucester.

ORGAN-HARMONIUM, £40, two manuals, fine Organ-tone, Dulciana stops, Bourdon on full compass, German pedals, two couplers; one manual with pedals, 2½ rows of reeds, £20. Manufactured for pedal practice by W. J. Robertson, 107, Tottenham Road, London, N. Lists, with extracts of letters from Organists.

A CATALOGUE of valuable ORGAN and CHURCH MUSIC may be had gratis and post-free of the Publishers, Messrs. Robert Cocks and Co. N.B.—Now ready, new and enlarged edition of Hopkins and Dr. Rimbault's great Work on the Organ. pp. 636, 31s. 6d.

Half-Hours at the Organ. Arranged by John Bishop. 24 books, 3s. each; or in 2 vols., 21s. each.

The Amateur Organist, consisting of a Selection of the most Favourite Movements from the Great Masters. By J. Warren. 12 books, 3s. each; or in 1 vol., 21s.

THE NEW NATIONAL PART-SONGS.—Victoria. Henry Smart. 4 stamps. The song, 18 stamps.

God bless the Prince of Wales. Brinley Richards. 4 stamps. The song, 24 stamps.

God bless our Sailor Prince. Stephen Glover. 4 stamps. The song, 18 stamps.

Let the Hills resound. Brinley Richards. 4 stamps. The song, 18 stamps.

London: ROBERT COCKS & CO., New Burlington Street.

HARVEST ANTHEMS.

- STAINER, JOHN.—YE SHALL DWELL IN THE LAND. 4 voices, 8vo, 1½d.
- SMART, HENRY.—THE LORD HATH DONE GREAT THINGS. 8vo, 4d.
- GARRETT, G. M., Mus. D.—THE LORD IS LOVING UNTO EVERY MAN. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, folio, 1s.; ditto, 8vo, 3d.; vocal parts, 1s.
- BARNBY, J.—I WILL GIVE THANKS UNTO THEE. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 2s.; ditto, 8vo, 4d.; vocal parts, 1s. 6d.
- O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD ARE THY WORKS. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, folio, 9d.; ditto, 8vo, 1½d.; vocal parts, 6d.
- THE HARVEST-TIDE THANKSGIVING. Hymn for 4 voices. Words by the Rev. S. CHILDS CLARKE. 8vo, 1½d.; Words only, 1s. 6d. per 100.
- GOSS, Sir JOHN.—FEAR NOT, O LAND, BE GLAD AND REJOICE. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 2s. 6d.; ditto, 8vo, 6d.; vocal parts, 1s. 6d.
- I WILL MAGNIFY THEE, O GOD. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; ditto, 8vo, 3d.; vocal parts, 6d.
- OUSELEY, The Rev. Sir FREDERICK.—THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 9d.; vocal parts, 6d.
- CALLCOTT, W. H.—THOU VISITEST THE EARTH AND BLESSEST IT. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; vocal parts, 6d.
- Ditto, Treble solo, 6d.
- MACFARREN, G. A.—GOD SAID, BEHOLD, I HAVE GIVEN YOU EVERY HERB. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 2s.; vocal parts, 1s. 6d.
- O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD ARE THY WORKS. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; vocal parts, 6d.
- HAYES, Dr. W.—PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s. 6d.; ditto, 8vo, 4d.; vocal parts, 1s.
- HERVEY, Rev. F. A. J.—MAKE MELODY WITHIN YOUR HEARTS. Carol. 8vo, 3d.
- GREENE, Dr.—THOU VISITEST THE EARTH. Tenor solo and chorus. Vocal score, folio, 6d.; ditto, 8vo, 1½d.; vocal parts, 6d.
- CLARKE, Dr. JOHN WHITFIELD.—BLESSED ARE ALL THEY THAT FEAR THE LORD. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; vocal parts, 7½d.
- THORNE, E. H.—ALL THY WORKS PRAISE THEE. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; ditto, 8vo, 3d.; vocal parts, 1s.
- STEGGALL, CHARLES, Mus. D., Cantab.—PRAISED BE THE LORD. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 1s.; vocal parts, 6d.
- HOPKINS, E. J.—I WILL GIVE THANKS UNTO THEE, O LORD. Full, 4 voices. 8vo, 6d.
- HOPKINS, JOHN L., Mus. D.—THE FOST'RING EARTH, THE GENIAL SHOWERS. Words by GEORGE E. SHIRLEY, Esq. 8vo, 3d.
- PATTISON, T. M.—O HOW PLENTIFUL IS THY GOODNESS. Full, 4 voices. Vocal score, 9d.; 8vo, 3d.; vocal parts, 6d.
- TAYLOR, W.—THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE. Solo, Trio, Quartett, and Chorus. 8vo, 6d.
- BRIDGE, J. FREDERICK.—GIVE UNTO THE LORD THE GLORY. Full, 4 voices. 8vo, 4d.
- MATTHEWS, J. J.—THE LORD SAID IN HIS HEART. Full, 4 voices. 8vo, 4d.
- ARNOLD, GEORGE B., Mus. D., Oxon.—THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE. S.S.A.T.B. 8vo, 3d.
- KEETON, HAYDN.—THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE. Full, 4 voices. 8vo, 4d.
- SMITH, THOMAS.—THOU CROWNEST THE YEAR. Full, 4 voices. 8vo, 3d.
- LOWE, ALBERT.—THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S. Full, 4 voices. 8vo, 3d.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW ANTHEM FOR HARVEST.
WHILE THE EARTH REMAINETH.

Harvest Thanksgiving Anthem for Four Voices.

Composed by

C. SWINNERTON HEAP, Mus. Doc., Cantab.

Octavo, Fourpence.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

HARVEST.
THOU VISITEST THE EARTH.

Full Harvest Anthem. Price 3d.

GOD IS THE LORD.

Full Harvest Anthem. Price 6d.

WHEN THE LORD.

Harvest Anthem, with Treble or Soprano Solos. Price 6d.

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TWELVE HYMNS WITH TUNES

FOR

HARVEST

SELECTED FROM

THE HYMNARY.

PRICE ONE PENNY.

- SING TO THE LORD A JOYFUL SONG J. BARNBY.
- O LORD, THE HEAVEN THY POWER }
DISPLAYS } SIR F. OUSZLEY.
- FATHER, BLESSING EVERY SEED- }
TIME - - - - - } DR. DYKES.
- LORD, IN THY NAME THY SERVANTS }
PLEAD - - - - - } W. METCALFE.
- THE WINTRY TIME HATH ENDED - - - - - DR. GAUNTLETT.
- COME, YE THANKFUL PEOPLE, COME - - - - - SIR GEO. ELVEY.
- GOD THE FATHER, WHOSE CREATION H. SMART.
- LORD OF THE HARVEST, THEE WE }
HAIL - - - - - } ANONYMOUS.
- LO, SUMMER COMES AGAIN - - - - - REV. E. B. WHYLEY.
- PRAISE, O PRAISE OUR HEAVENLY }
KING - - - - - } GERMAN.
- SUMMER ENDED, HARVEST O'ER - - - - - J. ADCOCK.
- O LORD OF HEAVEN, AND EARTH, }
AND SEA - - - - - } DR. WESLEY.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Now Ready.

ALBERT LOWE'S

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM

"THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S,"

Composed expressly for Parish Choirs (short, easy, and full). Octavo, price Threepence.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ALBERT LOWE'S

HARVEST CAROL

"HOLY IS THE SEED-TIME."

Composed expressly for Harvest Festivals. Octavo, Twopence.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM.—"O THE DEPTH OF THE RICHES." Composed by ARTHUR BAXTER. Price 3d.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

EASY ANTHEM FOR HARVEST FESTIVALS.—
"O SING UNTO THE LORD WITH THANKSGIVING."
Composed by T. PALMER.
"Pleasingly written, and up to the average of easy anthems."—
Choir.

Price 4d.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ELEVENTH EDITION. Price 3d.

HARVEST ANTHEM.—"THOU CROWNEST THE YEAR." By THOMAS SMITH. "Easy and effective." London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street. Post-free from the Composer, 25, Angel Hill, Bury St. Edmunds.

THIRD EDITION. Price 3d.

O WORSHIP THE LORD IN THE BEAUTY OF HOLINESS. To be had as above.

HARVEST.

A SHORT FESTAL MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in F. By E. H. BIRCH, Mus. B., Oxon. 8vo, 4d. LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

CAROL OF THE REAPERS. (S.A.T.B.) 3d. SIX EASY ANTHEMS FOR VILLAGE CHOIRS. 2d. each. NOVELLO AND CO.; or of the Composer, W. H. GILL, Sidcup, Kent.

TEN KYRIES.

TEN GLORIAS (BEFORE GOSPEL).

TEN GRATIAS (AFTER GOSPEL).

See CHARLES JOSEPH FROST'S Communion Service in C major.

Price 6d.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

REDUCED PRICE.

Third edition enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s. paper covers ; 3s. cloth lettered.

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS

SINGLE AND DOUBLE

EDITED BY THE

REV. SIR F. A. GORE OUSELEY, BART., ETC.,
AND
EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This Work contains nearly 400 Chants, which are appropriated to "Venite exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page and affording several Series, suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter, from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER & CO., 1, BERNERS STREET (W.), AND 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET (E.C.)

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION OF THE ORATORIOS, CANTATAS, MASSES, &c. IN PAPER BOARDS.

The Works comprised in the above-mentioned series are now issued in PAPER BOARDS, WITH CLOTH BACKS AND GILT LETTERING, the price in each case being Sixpence above that of the edition in paper covers.

	s.	d.
HANDEL'S MESSIAH - - - - -	2	6
„ JUDAS MACCABÆUS - - - - -	2	6
„ ISRAEL IN EGYPT - - - - -	2	6
MENDELSSOHN'S ELIJAH - - - - -	3	6
„ ST. PAUL - - - - -	2	6
HAYDN'S CREATION - - - - -	2	6
BENNETT'S MAY QUEEN - - - - -	3	6

&c. &c.

Nearly all the works published in this edition may now be had in the above form.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

“JOSEPH.”

AN ORATORIO.

Music composed expressly for the Leeds Musical Festival by

G. A. MACFARREN.

Paper covers, 4s.; bound in cloth, 6s.

Vocal and Orchestral Parts can be hired.

STANLEY LUCAS, WEBER, AND CO., 84, New Bond Street,
and 308A, Oxford Street, W.

MOTETTS BY SAMUEL WESLEY.

IN EXITU ISRAEL, for Double Choir. Vocal score, folio, 3s.; octavo, 4d.; vocal parts, 2s.

EXULTATE DEO, for Five Voices. Vocal score, folio, 3s.; vocal parts, 1s. 3d.

DIXIT DOMINUS, for Double Choir. Vocal score, octavo, 1s.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE HOLY ANGELS. Hymn for a Little Child.
Music by R. BARTHOLOMEW. Octavo, Threepence. London:
Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Just published, price 4s.

NEW SONGS FOR CONTRALTO VOICE.

FIRST LOVE

Words by JOHN CLARE,

Music by CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

Just published, price 4s.

YOUTHFUL SONGS

Words by A. C. RATHBONE.

Music by CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Now ready, price 1s.

A COMPLETE

MORNING, COMMUNION, & EVENING SERVICE, IN THE KEY OF C MAJOR.

Composed expressly for Parish Choirs, by

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

The Services may be had separately.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Novello, Ewer & Co.'s Music Primers

EDITED BY DR. STAINER.

NOW READY, PRICE TWO SHILLINGS,

THE PIANOFORTE

BY

ERNST PAUER

PRINCIPAL PROFESSOR OF THE PIANOFORTE AT
THE NATIONAL TRAINING SCHOOL FOR MUSIC.

CONTENTS.

	PAGE
Introductory Remarks - - - - -	3
1. The Position of the Performer - - - - -	9
2. The Position of the Hand - - - - -	9
3. The Touch - - - - -	10
4. Technical Execution - - - - -	15
5. On Practising - - - - -	66
6. Feeling; Expression - - - - -	67
7. The different Signs of Expression - - - - -	68
8. Graces and Manners, as employed in older Clavecin Music - - - - -	69
9. The necessary Conditions for a good Performance	70
10. The ordinary Faults in a Performance - - - - -	70
11. On Reading at Sight - - - - -	70
12. Exercises; Studies - - - - -	71
13. The Order in which the Sonatas of our Classical Masters should be studied - - - - -	73
14. Classification of Composers; their Styles and Schools - - - - -	74
15. Concluding Remarks - - - - -	75
Appendix.—The Pianoforte and its Predecessors - - - - -	77
Vocabulary of Technical Terms and Expressions connected with the Pianoforte - - - - -	79
Chronological Table of Composers.

Now ready, price Two Shillings.

THE CATHEDRAL PSALTER CHANTS

EDITED BY

S. FLOOD JONES, M.A.,

PRECENTOR OF WESTMINSTER;

JAMES TURLE,

ORGANIST OF WESTMINSTER;

J. TROUTBECK, M.A.,

MINOR CANON OF WESTMINSTER;

J. STAINER, M.A., Mus. D.,

ORGANIST OF ST. PAUL'S;

AND

JOSEPH BARNBY,

PRECENTOR OF ETON.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE CATHEDRAL PSALTER POINTED FOR CHANTING

PUBLISHED WITH THE SANCTION OF

THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF ST. PAUL'S

AND

THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF WESTMINSTER.

					s.	d.
Imperial 32mo, cloth	-	-	-	-	0	9
Ditto, with Proper Psalms, cloth	-	-	-	-	1	0
Demy 8vo, large type, with Proper Psalms, cloth	-	-	-	-	2	6
Proper Psalms separately. Paper covers. 32mo	-	-	-	-	0	3
Canticles, 32mo	-	-	-	-	0	1
Ditto, 8vo	-	-	-	-	0	3

All Editions contain the Canticles, and Special Hymns for use on certain days instead of the Venite.

The Clergy can be supplied with copies, in quantities of not less than 25, on liberal terms.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.,

1, BERNERS STREET (W.), AND 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET (E.C.)

THE HYMNARY

A BOOK OF CHURCH SONG.

THE FOLLOWING EDITIONS ARE NOW READY:—

No.					s.	d.
1.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Bourgeois Antique.	Cloth, red edges	1	0
2.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Cloth, red edges	0	6
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Limp cloth	0	4
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Paper covers	0	3
3.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth		4	0
4.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		5	0
5.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth		3	0
6.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		4	0
7.	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo		1	6
"	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo, cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		2	0
8.	Hymns with Tunes.	Small post 8vo, to bind with the Pearl 8vo Prayer Book.	Cloth		2	6
9.	Hymns with Tunes.	Ditto.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		3	0
10.	Hymns with Tunes.	Large type, Imperial 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		10	6
	Selections of Hymns with Tunes for Advent, Christmas, Easter and Harvest, price One Penny each.

A Discount of 20 per Cent will be allowed to the Clergy, for Cash, when not less than six copies of one edition are taken.

Applications for permission to print the Hymns and Tunes for Choral Festivals should be addressed to the Publishers.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE NEW HYMNAL.

THE SONG OF PRAISE, By Lady VICTORIA EVANS-FREKE. Being a New and Enlarged Edition of the Rev. EDWARD HARLAND'S CHURCH PSALTER and HYMNAL, including a large number of Original Tunes written by the most eminent Church musicians of the day expressly for this work. Prices as follow:—

	s.	d.
Large Organ Edition	8	6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, with blank music paper at the end, gilt lettered...	10	6
Small Music Edition	3	6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, gilt lettered	4	6
Words only	1	2
Ditto, red edges, gilt	1	6

Liberal Terms to the Clergy.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, THE BROADWAY, LUDGATE.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK, containing 258

Tunes and 85 Chants.

No 1.	Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 6d.
" 2.	Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 3.	Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 6d.
" 4.	Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	2s. 6d.

About 250,000 copies have already been sold.

Now Ready.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK (Second Series), containing 298 Tunes and 74 Chants.

No. 5.	Limp cloth	2s. 6d.
6.	Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 7.	Limp cloth	2s. 6d.
" 8.	Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	2s. 6d.

First and Second Series Bound together.

No. 9.	Limp cloth	4s. 6d.
" 10.	Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	6s. 6d.
" 12.	Tonic Sol-fa, cloth	3s. 6d.

Now Ready.

SMALL EDITION of the COMPLETE WORK.

715 Tunes and Chants, providing for nearly 200 Varieties of Metre.

No. 11.	Cloth	3s. 6d.
---------	-------	---------

Each Edition may be had in Superior Binding.

Communications and inquiries as to Copyrights, and also as to supplies of this work at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; Bristol: W. and F. Morgan; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Now Ready.

THE LONDON TUNE-BOOK. A Companion

for all Hymnals. Cloth, 3s.; red edges, 3s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Enlarged Edition.

TUNES, NEW AND OLD; comprising all the Metres in the Wesleyan Hymn-Book. Also, Chants, Responses, and Doxologies. Compiled by JOHN DOBSON; and for the most part revised or rearranged by HENRY JOHN GAUNTLETT, Mus. Doc.; JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; and SAMUEL REAY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, and 80 and 81, Queen Street. Sold also at 66, Paternoster Row. Prices: plain cloth, 3s. 6d.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 5s. TONIC SOL-FA EDITION: plain cloth, 2s.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 3s.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN; containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tunes; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE BURNLEY TUNE-BOOK.—NOTICE.—

An ADDENDA of about 200 Peculiar Metre and other Tunes will shortly be added, and some of the choicest original compositions will be provided for nearly every known metre. MSS. received, but only those will be answered that are accepted.

THE MISSIONARY MANUAL TUNE-BOOK.

Compiled and Edited by Sir JAMES ERASMUS PHILLIPS, Bart, M.A., Prebendary of Sarum, Vicar of Warminster, and Proctor in Convocation, and WILLIAM VINCENT, M.A., Rector of Postwick, Norfolk. Paper covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, 2s.

THE MISSIONARY MANUAL OF HYMNS AND PRAYERS.

Price 2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Sixth Edition, oblong 4to, cloth, 7s.

PARR'S CHURCH PSALMODY, containing 392 Tunes in 100 Metres, 301 Chants, various Responses, &c., with Memoirs of the Composers and Histories of the Pieces, giving an amount of information nowhere else to be found.

* Purchasers of this edition can have some important additions to the Biographical Index, gratis, on application to the author.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Prices: (A), 1s. 4d., limp cloth; (B), 1s. 6d., cloth boards.

ALL SAINTS' PSALTER, Pointed by the Rev. C. A. STEVENS, M.A., Vicar of All Saints', Blackheath. Sold at the NATIONAL SOCIETY'S Depository, The Sanctuary, Westminster. Reduced prices to members and the clergy.

THE REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S "SUPPLEMENTAL HYMN AND TUNE BOOK" (4th Edition) may be had of the publishers, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. Quarto post, large type and beautifully bound in cloth, price 6s. 6d.; on toned paper, extra thick, ros. 6d.

"MY SPIRIT LONGS FOR THEE." Hymn, set to Music by JOHN NAYLOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon., together with five other original Hymn Tunes, including "Rock of ages," for men's voices only. Price 4d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

HYMN TUNES, composed by ROBERT BROWN-BORTHWICK, Vicar of All Saints', Scarborough. Elegantly bound in scarlet cloth, price 2s. 6d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S SERIES of MODERN HYMN TUNES, KYRIES, &c. This Series embraces original Tunes and Kyries by some of the best living composers of Church Music, and may be had in separate numbers from 3d. and 6d. each. Novello, Ewer and Co.

WENTWORTH PHILLIPSON'S "GUIDE TO YOUNG PIANOFORTE TEACHERS AND STUDENTS." 2s.; by post, 26 stamps. Czerny, 349, Oxford Street, W.

BAKER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR. Easy and very plain instructions. Adapted for Schools and General Teaching Purposes. London: B. Williams, 60, Paternoster Row; or, post-free, 3s., of G. Baker, Stamp Office Place, Wakefield.

Third Edition.

FIRST STEPS FOR CHOIR-BOYS. By JAMES H. SIMPSON. Price 2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE NEW METHOD.

TO SING from Notes IN PROPER TIME and TUNE, for Private Use or Classes. By TH. GOEBBELS. Book I., 2nd edition, 4s.

London: W. REEVES, 185, Fleet Street
Liverpool: HIME and Son, 57, Church Street.

MUSIC FOR THE NEW CODE.—"THE SINGING-CLASS MANUAL," by the late WILLIAM JACKSON MASHAM, is admirably suited for use in the Public Elementary Schools. Price (with Appendix, containing eight pieces of music in different keys) 2s. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; and all Musicsellers and Booksellers.

Now Ready. (Dedicated to College of Organists.)

ON TUNING THE ORGAN. Illustrated APPENDIX, containing faults in action with remedies, price 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. Hemstock, Diss.

SYDNEY SMITH'S FOUR NEW PIECES.

FIGARO (Fantasia on Mozart's Opera)	s. d.	4 0
CYNTHIA (Serenade)	4 0
SOUVENIR DE BAL	4 0
AIR DANOIS	4 0

London: ASHDOWN & PARRY, Hanover Square.

SELECT PIANOFORTE PIECES OF STEPHEN HELLER.

AN AUTUMN LEAF	s. d.	3 0
(Romance, Op. 105, No. 3.)
AN EVEN SONG	3 0
(Prelude, Op. 119, No. 16.)
AUBADE	3 0
(Prelude, Op. 81, No. 7.)
BARCAROLLE	3 0
(Prelude, Op. 81, No. 23.)
BERCEUSE	1 0
(Study, Op. 47, No. 19.)
CHANSON DE MAI	1 0
(Prelude, Op. 81, No. 17.)
CHANT DU BERCEAU	2 6
(Prelude, Op. 81, No. 15.)
CHANT DU SOIR	1 0
(Study, Op. 45, No. 9.)
CRADLE SONG	3 0
(Chanson du berceau, Op. 73, No. 3.)
FEUILLET D'ALBUM	2 0
(Study, Op. 16, No. 15.)
HALTE DU CHASSEUR	3 0
(Dans les bois, Op. 86, No. 3.)
HUNTSMAN'S SONG	3 0
(Chant du chasseur, Op. 73, No. 1.)
JÄGDLIED	2 6
(Study, Op. 90, No. 7.)
L'AVALANCHE	1 0
(Study, Op. 45, No. 2.)
LA TRUITE	4 0
(Caprice brillant on the Song of Schubert, Op. 33.)
LIEDCHEN	1 0
(Study, Op. 46, No. 8.)
ON SONG'S BRIGHT PINIONS	4 0
(Improvisata on Song of Mendelssohn, Op. 67.)
ONDINE	1 0
(Study, Op. 45, No. 16.)
PARTING SONG	3 0
(Mendelssohn's Song transcribed.)
RÊVERIE AU BOIS	1 0
(Study, Op. 45, No. 13.)
THE WATERMILL	2 0
(Study, Op. 45, No. 20.)
UN RAYON DU SOLEIL	1 0
(Study, Op. 45, No. 1.)
UNE PETITE FEUILLE	3 0
(Op. 110.)
UNE PETITE HISTOIRE	1 0
(Study, Op. 125, No. 6.)
WANDERSTUNDEN	3 0
(Réveries d'Artiste, Op. 80, No. 2.)

The above pieces are among the most popular Works of this esteemed Composer. A complete catalogue of his entire Works, Op. 1 to Op. 141, is now ready, and will be forwarded gratis and post-free (on application) to any part of the world.

LONDON: ASHDOWN & PARRY,
HANOVER SQUARE.

FOUR-PART SONGS

BY

R. L. DE PEARSALL.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK, Vols. X. & XI.,

Scarlet cloth, gilt, price 5s. each.

CONTENTS OF VOL. X.

284 The Hardy Norseman	(S.A.T.B.) ..	4d.
284* do. do.	(A.T.T.B.) ..	4d.
285 Nymphs are sporting	(S.A.T.B.) ..	3d.
286 O who will o'er the downs	" ..	4d.
286* do. do.	(A.T.T.B.) ..	4d.
287 Who shall win my lady fair	(S.A.T.B.) ..	4d.
288 Why with toil	" ..	3d.
289 When Allan-a-Daie went a-hunting. Glee	" ..	4d.
290 I saw lovely Phillis. Madrigal	" ..	4d.
291 The River Spirit's song	(A.T.T.B.) ..	3d.
292 It was upon a Spring-tide day. Madrigal	(S.A.T.T.B.) ..	4d.
293 Take heed, ye shepherd swains. Madrigal	(S.S.A.T.T.B.) ..	4d.
294 Sprin returns. Madrigal	(S.S.A.T.B.) ..	4d.
295 Great God of love. 8 voices. Madrigal	" ..	3d.
296 In dulci jubilo. Christmas Carol	" ..	3d.
297 The song of the Frank companies	(S.A.T.B.) ..	3d.
298 How bright in the May-time	" ..	3d.
299 The Winter song	" ..	2d.
300 The Bishop of Mentz	" ..	3d.
301 When last I strayed	" ..	2d.
302 See how smoothly.	" ..	2d.
303 Let us all go Maying.	" ..	2d.
304 List! Lady be not coy. Madrigal... ..	(S.S.A.T.T.B.) ..	3d.
305 O ye roses. Madrigal	" ..	3d.
306 Sing we and chaunt it. Madrigal for Double Choir	" ..	2d.
307 " " " for 4 voices	" ..	2d.
308 The red wine flows	(T.T.B.B.) ..	2d.
309 Shoot, false love, I care not. Ballet Madrigal (S.A.T.B.)... ..	" ..	3d.

CONTENTS OF VOL. XI.

310 Laugh not, youth, at age. Madrigal	(S.A.T.B.) ..	4d.
311 Down in my garden fair. "	" ..	3d.
312 Adieu! my native shore	" ..	2d.
313 Purple glow the forest mountains	" ..	2d.
314 Caput apri defero	" ..	3d.
315 A Chieftain to the Highlands bound	" ..	2d.
316 A King there was in Thule	" ..	2d.
317 Come, let us be merry. Twelfth-Night song	" ..	1½d.
318 Mihi est propositum	(A.T.B.B.) ..	2d.
319 Light of my soul. Madrigal	(S.S.A.T.B.B.) ..	3d.
320 Lay a garland. Madrigal for 8 voices	" ..	3d.
321 Summer is y' coming in. Madrigal	(S.S.A.T.B.B.) ..	2d.
322 Why should the Cuckoo's tuneful note. Do. (S.S.A.T.B.) ..	" ..	3d.
323 Why weep, alas! my lady love. Madrigal	" ..	3d.
324 There is a paradise on earth	(A.T.B.B.) ..	3d.
325 O! all ye ladies fair and true	" ..	2d.
326 War Song of the Norman Baron Taillefer (S.A.T.B.) ..	" ..	2d.
327 Why do the roses. Madrigal for 4 voices	" ..	2d.
328 Sweet as a flower in May. Ditto	" ..	2d.
329 The praise of good wine	(T.T.B.B.) ..	2d.
330 { The Watchman's Song (T.T.B.B.) }
{ Ditto ditto (S.A.T.B.) }
331 The Waters of Elle	(S.S.A.T.B.) ..	2d.
332 No! No! Nigella. For double choir... ..	" ..	2d.
333 Sir Patrick Spens. In 10 parts	" ..	4d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

NEW PART-SONGS, MADRIGALS, &c.,

BY

R. L. DE PEARSALL.

COLLEGIATE SERIES.

No.
68.	Part-Song	... A lad and lassie.	S.A.T.B.	...	2d.
70.	Part-Song	... True love, to-day I must away	2d.
64.	Madrigal	... When old King Cole	3d.
54.	Madrigal	... My bonnie lass, she smileth	3d.
67.	Glee	... Glorious Apollo	2d.
73.	Part-Song	... Was there not a look of fondness	2d.
55.	Part-Song	... Robin Hood	3d.
65.	Glee	... King Charles	3d.
72.	Part-Song	... My mother loves me not	2d.
69.	Part-Song	... Spring brings flow'rets fair	2d.
71.	Part-Song	... 'Twas a trumpet's pealing sound	3d.
52.	Ballad Dialogue	... Who kill'd Cock Robin?	...	8th Edition	3d.
(Folio, illustrated, 3s.)
50.	Part-Song	... Brave Lord Willoughby	...	5th "	3d.
25.	Madrigal	... Here on the waters	...	4th "	4d.
53.	Part-Song	... Her eyes the glow-worm	...	3rd "	3d.
4.	Student's Song	... The Three Friends	S.A.T.B.	4th "	3d.
5.	Student's Song	... " " " " " "	T.T.B.B.	4th "	3d.
60.	Madrigal	... Down by a river straying	...	2nd "	4d.
61.	Madrigal	... Hie away! o'er bank and brae	...	2nd "	4d.
58.	Glee	... Flow, limpid stream	A.T.B.B.	...	3d.
51.	Student's Song	... Gaudeamus igitur	...	6th Edition	3d.
74.	Part-Song	... Springs she not as light as air	2d.
63.	Part-Song	... My enemies, they do increase	3d.
62.	Part-Song	... 'Tis raining!	3d.
59.	Part-Song	... The poacher's song	3d.
56.	Market Chorus	... The Villagers (with Pianoforte, Flute, or Violin Accompaniment), Chorus of Peasants, Market Women, Swiss Jodel, &c.	4d.
75.	Part-Song	... Young Jamie loved me well.	S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
76.	Part-Song	... How happy were my days.	S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
77.	Part-Song	... Up there upon that mountain.	S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
78.	Part-Song	... My heart is full of bitter woe.	S.A.T.B.	...	3d.

DR. S. S. WESLEY.

3.	Part-Song	... The Mermaid.	S.A.T.B.	...	3rd Edition	4d.
6.	Part-Song	... Arising from the deep.	S.A.T.B.	...	2nd "	4d.
2.	Chorus	... The praise of music (Double Choir).	"	4d.
18.	Anthem	... O how amiable!	3rd Edition	4d.
19.	Anthem	... Wherewithal shall a young man	2nd "	4d.
40.	Anthem	... The Lord is my Shepherd	2nd "	4d.
14.	Anthem	... Let us now praise famous men.	4th "	4d.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

8.	Part-Song	... Swift the shades of eve	...	6th "	3d.
12.	Part-Song	... The vikings and the north wind	...	3rd "	3d.
10.	Part-Song	... The eagle	...	2nd "	3d.
42.	Anthem	... O praise the Lord	3d.
43.	Anthem	... I waited patiently	3d.

DULCIANA.

13.	National Anthem, God save the Queen	20th Edition	2d.
(With Organ Accompaniment, Full Score, 2s. 6d.)
7.	Part-Song	... Auld lang syne (Organ Acc.).	...	26th Edition	3d.
27.	National	... Rule, Britannia (Organ Accompaniment)	2d.

SCHUMANN.

26.	Solo and Chorus	... Sleep on, in visions	...	4th "	3d.
11.	Solo and Chorus	... Vesture pure and scatheless	...	3rd "	3d.
29.	Trio (s.s.a.)	... Magna peccatrix	3d.
30.	Trio (s.s.a.)	... The midnight hags	3d.

J. P. KNIGHT.

1.	Madrigal	... Canst thou say me nay?	...	3rd Edition	3d.
----	----------	----------------------------	-----	-------------	-----

J. L. ROECKEL.

34.	Part-Song	... The old grey oak.	S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
35.	Part-Song	... The stars are with the voyager.	S.A.T.B.	...	3d.

G. B. ARNOLD, MUS. DOC.

28.	Madrigal	... My dainty Chloris.	S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
-----	----------	------------------------	----------	-----	-----

C. E. HEY.

33.	Part-Song	... How dear to me.	S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
79.	Part-Song	... Whither?	S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
80.	Part-Song	... The water rushing.	S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
81.	Part-Song	... The water rushing.	T.T.B.B.	...	3d.
82.	Part-Song	... The day is ending.	S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
83.	Part-Song	... 'Tis sweet in the green spring.	S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
84.	Part-Song	... The minstrel boy.	S.A.T.B.	...	3d.

ERNEST LINDE.

9.	Where the lordly stag.	Solo and Chorus	3d.
----	------------------------	-----------------	-----	-----	-----

London: NOVELLO, EVER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.
WEEKES and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

C. JEFFERYS,

67, BERNERS STREET,

Begs to announce to the Profession and Trade that he has purchased the following valuable copyrights from Mr. BERESFORD, of Birmingham:

Lasting Pleasures (Morceau de Salon), by	s. d.
Berthold Tours	4 0
Fade not, Sweet Flowers ("Caro mio ben," with English and Italian words)	3 0
"Caro mio ben," arranged for the Pianoforte by Stephen Stratton	3 0

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Comrade, to arms (Duet for Tenor and Bass)
Michael Watson	3 0
When Music's charms (Duet for Tenor and Soprano). New edition in C	F. Schira 3 0
Blind Johann of Bohemia (compass B to E), for Baritone	J. L. Hatton 3 0
Jack's Yarn (sung by Signor Foli) (B to E) Louis Diehl	4 0
Pirate Chief (A to D)	Ditto 3 0
White Blossoms (D to D)	W. C. Levey 3 0
Fairy's Dream (E to F)	Ditto 3 0
The Land of Dreams (D to F)	Odoardo Barri 3 0
A Golden Dream (C to F)	Ditto 3 0
Sweet and Fair (for Baritone) (C to F)	Ditto 3 0
Carissima (F to G)	Henry Pontet 3 0
After long years (D to F)	F. Schira 3 0
The open window (D to E)	Dolores 3 0

MELODIOUS MELODIES

ARRANGED FOR THE HARMONIUM.

PARTS I. TO VI., ONE SHILLING EACH.

The subjects selected from the Works of

Auber.	Haydn.	Rossini.
Batiste.	Hiller.	Schubert.
Beethoven.	Méhul.	Schumann.
Boccherini.	Mendelssohn.	Spohr.
Chopin.	Meyerbeer.	Verdi.
Donizetti.	Mozart.	Wagner.
Handel.	Rink.	&c.

NEW NUMBERS OF

HOUSEHOLD MELODIES

FOR THE

PIANOFORTE

By MICHAEL WATSON.

Two SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE EACH.

No. 13.	JEANNETTE AND JEANNOT.
14.	WE HAVE LIVED AND LOVED TOGETHER.
15.	WINGS.
16.	O ERIN, MY COUNTRY!
17.	OH, FOR THE BLOOM!
18.	COME, LET US BE HAPPY TOGETHER.

LONDON:

C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS STREET, W.

Now ready. Small 4to. Price 1s. Vocal parts, 12mo, price 6d. each. 1st and 2nd Series bound together, cloth, 2s. 9d. Vocal parts 1st and 2nd series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE CANTICLES and HYMNS of the CHURCH, pointed for Chanting, and set to appropriate Anglican Chants, Single and Double; together with Responses to the Commandments, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., etc., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK. This work contains a selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

This pointing of the Canticles is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS. Set to Music by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c.

For general or Festival use; for male voices and four-part Chorus, with Organ accompaniment, ad lib. Price 3d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK.

Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 1s.; cloth, 2s. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Oxford: PARKER.

Eighth Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK, edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d.

Large edition, cloth, 3s. 6d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

OUSELEY AND MONK'S PSALTER AND CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 24mo, without chants, 9d.; with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to, with chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to, 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo, 14d. Novello, Ewer and Co., and Parker and Co.

Preparing for the Press.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF WORDS OF ANTHEMS, new Edition, revised, corrected, and brought down to the present date.

Twelfth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Price 5s. 6d., paper covers; 7s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-notes.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. St. J. B. JOULE.

Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter having been collated with the Sealed Books is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small Edition is in preparation.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Fourth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. Quarto, in cloth elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Fifth Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION.

Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. St. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

A MORNING SERVICE, Te Deum, Jubilate, and Kyrie, by the Rev. EDWARD YOUNG. Tenth edition, abbreviated for Parochial use. Organ and Choir copies, 4d. each.

"Melodious, vocal, and nicely harmonised—that is, without pretence or straining at effect; and they declaim the words devoutly and emphatically."—Musical Times.

"Good points, and tuneful passages."—Musical Standard.

"The intelligent, devoted, and devotional spirit in which every note seems to have been composed furnishes one of the best guarantees for excellence."—English Churchman.

"All competent criticism will be found in accordance with the verdict of a high professional authority as to 'abundant proof of imagination, poetical conception, and musical feeling.'"—Christian Observer.

"The strain is devotional, and harmonies full, solemn, and massive. . . . He fairly claims to have dug a channel for the devout utterance of the words."—Bristol Times.

Also,

CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A MORNING AND EVENING SERVICE, set to music principally in chant form for Four Voices, in harmony and unison with organ accompaniment. "Easy, effective, and congregational, and useful to parish choirs." Price 9d.; not less than one dozen copies, post-free, 7s. 9d., from the composer only. H. T. Harwood, Yeovil.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

G. A. MACFARREN'S CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR. For Voices in Unison and Organ. 8vo, 6d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

EASY ANGLICAN SERVICES for the TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, for Village Choirs (divided also into its doctrinal parts), by FREDERICK LLIFFE, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

No. 1, in the key of G, price 2d. each.

No. 2, in the key of A " "

No. 3, in the key of F " "

The setting No. 1 was used at the Annual Festival of Parochial Choirs in Chichester Cathedral.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in key of G, for Four Voices, with Organ Accompaniment. By E. BUNNETT, Mus. D., Cantab. Price Threepence.

Also, by same Composer, two Settings of the VENITE EXULTATE MUS DOMINO, in Chant form. Price Twopence each.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in E flat. Composed by ALFRED J. DYE. Small 8vo, 3d.; organ copy, 6d.

"A simple setting, quick within the reach of ordinary church choirs."—Musical Record.

"In the various broad and effective unison sentences the organ is handled with judgment and skill."—The Choir.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CANTATE and DEUS, by R. TAYLOR. An easy Unison Service in F. Price 6d. To be had of Novello and Co., or of the Author, Brighton College.

THE OFFICE of the HOLY COMMUNION (as sung at S. Columba's College, Dublin). Set to music in the key of C, for voices in unison, by FREDERICK CAMBRIDGE. 8vo, 6d.

Also by the same composer,

ANTHEM, "NOT UNTO US, O LORD." Vocal Score, 3s.; Vocal Parts, 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

8vo, price 4d.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES

(COMPLETE)

SET TO MUSIC BY

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

The above will be found an agreeable change with the settings already in use, and will be found to be within the capacity of every choir. The treble part is written so that it can be sung in unison by the whole choir, if preferred.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

8vo, price 6d.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES COMPLETE (20), with Music in full for Organist and Choir. By HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster.

One or more of these beautiful and effective Sentences may be sung after the Priest has said the Offertory, or after the Hymns at Matins or Evensong, whilst the alms are being collected.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE OFFERTORY SENTENCES

WITH AN APPENDIX FOR FESTAL USE,

SET TO MUSIC BY

JOSEPH BARNBY.

Price 1s. 6d.; or in Numbers at 2d. each.

- No. 1. Let your light so shine.
2. Lay not up for yourselves.
3. { Whatsoever ye would that men.
4. { Not every one that saith unto Me.
5. { Zacchæus stood forth.
6. { Who goeth a-warfare.
7. { If we have sown.
8. { Do ye not know.
9. He that soweth little.
10. Let him that is taught in the word.
11. { While we have time.
12. { Godliness is great riches.

13. Charge them who are rich.
14. God is not unrighteous.
15. { To do good.
16. { Whoso hath this world's goods.
17. { Give alms of thy goods.
18. { Be merciful after thy power.
19. He that hath pity upon the poor.
20. Blessed be the man.
21. Let your light so shine.

Festal Setting.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ELEVEN OFFERTORY SENTENCES ... 4d.

"The Lord is my Shepherd" 4d.

"Let not your heart be troubled" (arrangement) 4d.

Tunes, set to popular Hymns, and Chants. Books 1 and 2, each 4d.

By CHARLES SWAIN, Stockport.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now ready, 8vo, price Threepence.

THE APOSTLES' CREED, Set to Music (chiefly in Recitative) for Voices in Unison, with an Accompaniment for the Organ, by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Director of the Choir, York Minster.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BENEDICTE, with Appropriate Chants. Three different Settings. By ALEX. S. COOPER. Second edition. Price 3d. "Very suitable for Harvest Festivals."

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

4TH BOOK NOW READY. Collection of KYRIES, &c. Original Compositions by Dr. F. Hiller, Guillemant, G. A. and W. Macfarren, Sir G. J. Elvey, Tours, Salaman, Francesco Berger, E. G. Monk, J. Baptiste Calkin, Scotsman Clark, Hamilton Clarke, &c. Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 1s. each. Separate Nos. (1 to 71), 1d.

SPOHR'S 24th PSALM, 8vo (2nd thousand), 9d.; folio, 4s. net.

London: Novello and Co. Sheffield: W. T. Freemantle, High Street.

SIX KYRIES. Price 2d.

EVENING SERVICE (on a Rouennais Theme). Price 4d.

By G. H. GREGORY, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

These compositions have been very favourably reviewed, and are suitable for Choirs of moderate ability.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MY SOUL TRULY WAITETH STILL UPON GOD. Anthem for Four Voices. Composed by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, York Minster. Vocal score, folio, 1s. 6d.; octavo, 4d.

GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD. Anthem for Tenor Solo and Chorus. Composed by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, York Minster. Vocal score, folio, 2s. 6d.; octavo, 8d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

DR. SPARK'S NEW ANTHEM,

"AND NOW, ISRAEL,"

16 pages, price 6d.

"A most effective and successful composition, and one which we are sure will be found very useful in any ordinary choir for general use, as well as for festival occasions."—Worcester Journal.

"The anthem will be found applicable to many services that are not of the high festival kind; besides, it is written in a comparatively simple style, and is therefore within the grasp of any fairly organised choir. The whole work does its author great credit."—York Herald.

"No choir should be without this beautiful anthem, which is written throughout with the skill and power of an experienced composer."—Express.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now ready, price Sixpence.

"WHOSO DWELLETH UNDER THE DEFENCE OF THE MOST HIGH". Festival Anthem, by GEORGE LOMAS, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Also by the same, price Threepence.

HARVEST ANTHEM.—"PRAISED BE THE LORD DAILY."

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SING WE MERRILY UNTO GOD OUR STRENGTH. Anthem for Four Voices, with Soprano Solo. Composed by JOHN EDWARD GROOME. Octavo, 4d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now ready.

CAROLS FOR USE IN CHURCH DURING CHRISTMAS AND EPIPHANY.

s. d.		s. d.
A. Cloth, gilt lettered ...	4 0	D. Words only, cloth, gilt lettered ...	1 0
B. Suitable for presents, in handsome binding designed by Mr. Butterfield ...	7 6	E. TREBLE PART, in paper covers ...	1 0
C. Words only, in paper covers ...	0 6	F. Ditto, cloth, gilt lettered ...	1 6

London: METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough Street, W.; NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

NEW HYMN AND CHORUS IN F. Sent free for six stamps. Mr. Lythe, Cottingham, Hull.

THE CAPTIVITY.—"THEY THAT WAIT UPON THE LORD." Chorus from this Oratorio, by FRAZIS HOWELL, published in the Choir of August 11, 1877. Price 2d.

METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

Ready early in September.

A NEW CANTATA, by GEORGE WELLS, "PEACE AND WAR." Price One Shilling. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, price Sixpence. Practical Singing-Class Handbook, by GEORGE WELLS. New edition, price Sixpence. London: F. Pitman.

Now ready, Book I., Hymns and Tunes, 1s. net.

ANDREWS'S POLYHYMNIA for Evening and Sunday Hours. The Author, 14, Park Avenue, Longsight, Manchester.

A MANUAL OF SINGING FOR THE USE OF CHOIR TRAINERS & SCHOOLMASTERS.

By RICHARD MANN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

This work offers to the clergy and other amateur choir-trainers a systematic and simple course of instruction, by which they may teach their pupils to read music at sight in a comparatively short time.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FORTY-NINTH EDITION.

Price 1s. A specimen copy post-free for 12 stamps.

COLLEGIATE AND SCHOOL SIGHT-SINGING MANUAL.

FOR CHOIRS.—The easiest system that can be obtained for training, improving, and learning to read music at sight.

FOR SCHOOLS.—Every requisite for learning Music, and reading at sight in a few lessons.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.—The exercises will be found invaluable, tending to produce musical effects seldom heard.

Third Edition, 2s. 6d. net.

COLLEGIATE VOCAL TUTOR.

Containing Treatise on Voice and Vocal Art, with Anatomical Illustrations of the Vocal Instrument.

COLLEGIATE ORGAN TUTOR.

EDITED BY FREDERIC ARCHER.

3s. 6d. net.

COLLEGIATE PIANOFORTE TUTOR.

3s. 6d. net.

CONSECUTIVE FIFTHS AND OCTAVES IN COUNTERPOINT.

AN ESSAY, BY R. L. DE PEARSALL.

Price 2s.; post-free, 2s. 2d.

Tenth edition. Paper covers, 1s.; bound in cloth, 1s. 6d.

CATHEDRAL CHANT-BOOK.

Containing nearly 200 Single and Double Chants; Gregorian Tones.

NEW BALLADS.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

THE CATHEDRAL CHOIR (with Chorus) 4s.

R. L. DE PEARSALL.

DRUMMING AND FIFING 3s.

BRAVE LORD WILLOUGHBY 3s.

WHO KILL'D COCK ROBIN? 3s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W., and

80 & 81, Queen Street, E.C.

WEEKES and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

NEW EDITION OF

DR. BENNETT GILBERT'S SCHOOL HARMONY.

Price 1s. 6d. net.

"From intervals to composition."

This popular work being now printed from stereotype plates, the publishers are prepared to supply any number of copies on the shortest notice.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TRUTH AND EASE IN MUSIC. NO MORE SHARP OR FLAT KEYS FOR INSTRUMENTALIST OR VOCALIST.

Just published, price Sixpence, with illustrations, a new edition of
THE SEQUENTIAL SYSTEM OF MUSICAL NOTATION.

By WILLIAM A. B. LUNN.

"Its completeness and simplicity, when once understood, should recommend it to universal adoption."—Blackburn Standard.

London: E. W. ALLEN, 11, Ave Maria Lane.

THEORY OF MUSIC.

BY LOUISA GIBSON.

NOW READY.

A SECOND BOOK

AND

A THIRD BOOK.

BEING A CONTINUATION OF

A FIRST BOOK

On the Theory of Music, written for the use of Schools, and for Students preparing for the Oxford and Cambridge Local Examinations.

"A FIRST BOOK" has already reached the fourth edition; it is highly commended by Dr. G. A. Macfarren, Sir J. Benedict, Sir F. A. G. Ouseley, &c., and is adopted at the South London Musical Training College, the Nottingham Music School, and in many High Schools, &c., in London and the provinces.

Price: Boards, 3s.; Stiff Paper, 2s.; Postage, 2d.

London: WEEKES and Co.; NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; WHITTAKER and Co.; and of the Author, 13, Seaton Terrace, Plymouth.

CHARLES GOUNOD'S

CINQ-MARS,

Opéra en Quatre Actes.

POÈME DE PAUL POIRSON ET LOUIS GALLET.

VOCAL SCORE, in Octavo net 20s.

PIANO SOLO " 12s.

PIANO DUET, in Quarto " 25s.

Lists of detached Vocal and Instrumental Pieces, Transcriptions, Arrangements, &c., post-free on application.

SCHOTT and Co., 159, Regent Street, London, W.

SCHOTT & CO.'S NEW CATALOGUES of Pianoforte Music, Violin Music, Tenor (Viola) Music, Violoncello Music, Double Bass Music, Flute Music, Clarinet Music, Organ Music, Harmonium Music, Harp Music, Concerted Music (Pianoforte Trios, Quartets, &c.), Sacred Music, Masses, Elementary Vocal Music, French Romances; also of the Works of Richard Wagner, may be had post-free on application.

159, Regent Street, London, W.

RICORDI'S (of MILAN) DEPOT, 23, CHARLES STREET, MIDDLESEX HOSPITAL, LONDON, W.

LISTS of Vocal, Pianoforte, and Instrumental Music of every description, gratis and post-free.

RICORDI'S GRAN CATALOGO, containing nearly 50,000 works of his own publication, 5s. net.

SAMPLE COPIES of Sheet Music to the Trade at the usual prices.

THE MUSICAL DIRECTORY, 1878.—Professors of Music, Vocalists, Secretaries and Conductors of Musical Societies, Instrument Makers and Dealers, Musicsellers, &c., whose names have not hitherto appeared in the MUSICAL DIRECTORY, or who have changed address since the last issue, are requested to communicate to the Publishers forthwith, that the printed form for the proper insertion of particulars may be duly forwarded.

RUDALL, CARTE and Co., 20, Charing Cross, London.

Now ready, Vocal Score, price 3s.

JONAH. A Sacred Cantata. By J. V. ROBERTS, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Choirmaster of the Parish Church, Halifax.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

P.S.—Full Orchestral Parts to be had of the Composer.

POPULAR FOUR-PART SONGS BY GABRIEL DAVIS.

THE KNIGHT'S RETURN	2d.
GOD SAVE THE PRINCE. (12th Edition)	2d.
THE DISTANT SEA	2d.
TO THE WOODS	2d.
HARK! 'TIS MUSIC	2d.
THE HOUR OF REST	2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW PART-SONGS, by ALEXANDER S. COOPER.—"Happy bygone days," "The wayside well," "Cheerily" and "Sweet echo," for mixed voices; "O tranquil eve" and "Every season," for male voices. Second edition, price 2d. each. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., and Weekes and Co.

FIVE INTRODUCTORY VOLUNTARIES for the ORGAN. Composed by T. MEE PARTISON.

These Voluntaries, of medium difficulty, with Pedal Obbligato, will be found eminently useful for the introduction of Divine Service, both as regards character and length. Price 3s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S
POPULAR PART-SONGS

FOR S.A.T.B. 8vo.

		20th Edition	s. d.
1. I love the merry springtime	...	20th Do.	0 2
2. Gaily through the greenwood	...	25th Do.	0 2
3. Welcome, merry May	...	6th Do.	0 2
4. The mountain maid	...	6th Do.	0 2
5. Come o'er the mountain	...	8th Do.	0 2
6. Hail, merry, merry Christmas	...	15th Do.	0 2
7. Songs of praise the angels sang	...	5th Do.	0 3
8. Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow	...	6th Do.	0 3
9. Fairy revels	...	9th Do.	0 3
10. Oh! peaceful vale of rest	...	5th Do.	0 1 1/2
11. The merry bird	...	5th Do.	0 3
12. Come, let us be merry and gay	...	4th Do.	0 3
13. Forest echoes	...	7th Do.	0 3
14. Haste, ye merry elves	...	5th Do.	0 3
15. The streamlet	...	2nd Do.	0 3
16. Sunshine and shadow	...	2nd Do.	0 3
17. Sunny rays	...	2nd Do.	0 3
18. O happy New Year	...	2nd Do.	0 3
19. The coming of Spring	...	3rd Do.	0 3
20. England's glory	...	Just published	0 3
21. A merry Christmas to you all!	...	Do.	0 4

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W., and 80 & 81, Queen Street, E.C.
Manchester: HIME and ADDISON, and FORSYTH BROTHERS.

THE POET'S DAUGHTER,

PART-SONG

WORDS BY ROBERT BURNS

SET TO MUSIC FOR S.A.T.B.

By C. SWINNERTON HEAP, Mus. Doc., CANTAB.
Price 3d.

Birmingham: HARRISON & HARRISON, Colmore Row.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CHORAL SONGS, as sung by Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir, the Birmingham Festival Choral Society, &c.

No. 1. "THE SILENT LAND." Price 3d.

"Replete with melody. Some phrases are of remarkable beauty."—Musical Times.

No. 2. "THE BETTER LAND." Price 4d.

"Distinguished by beauty of melody and richness of harmony."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"Full of charming effects."—Birmingham Daily Post.

No. 3. "THE DAY IS DONE." Price 4d.

Composed expressly for Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SOUTHWELL SCHOOL SONGS. First series, 1s. 6d. By the Rev. R. F. SMITH, Minor Canon of Southwell.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The Queen.—"Fourteen" (sixteen) "capital little songs in a cheap handy form. Quite new and withal pretty and neatly written."

The Schoolmaster.—"Easy, pleasing tunes, suitable to school use. The composer shows himself a true musician; each 'lay' has a separate tune, which is catching, appropriate, and quite in old ballad-song style."

The Musical Times.—"The sympathetic and musicianlike manner in which he has wedded them to melodies which cannot fail to please the young vocalists for whom they are expressly designed."

By the same Composer,

TE DEUM in F, 3d. ANTHEM (S.A.T.B.), "The Lord is nigh," 6d.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition.—Reduced Prices.

CHORAL SONGS FOR SCHOOL & HOME.
FORTY-TWO ORIGINAL SONGS

FOR

ONE, TWO, OR FOUR VOICES.

COMPOSED BY ROBERT JACKSON.

Cloth, complete, 3s.; Parts I. and II., paper cover, 1s. each; Single Numbers, 1d.

From Concordia.

"This little book is designed for singing-classes in schools, and the simplicity, tunefulness, and attractiveness of the small compositions it contains eminently adapt it for such a purpose."

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NORWEGIAN NATIONAL MUSIC. Catalogues are sent gratis on application to Mr. C. Warmuths, Music Publisher at Christiania.

SELECT COMPOSITIONS

FROM THE
GREAT MASTERS,
ARRANGED FOR THE ORGAN
With Pedal Obligato by
A. H. BROWN.

- No.
1. "Wedding March," by Mendelssohn.
2. March from "Tannhäuser," by Wagner.
3. March from "Scipio," also from Occasional Oratorio, both by Handel.
4. "Coronation March," from Meyerbeer's "Prophète."
5. "The Dead March" in "Saul," and "See the conquering hero comes," both by Handel.
6. Andantino, from the 11th Grand Symphony by Haydn, and "Waft her, angels," from Handel's "Jephtha."
7. "As pants the hart," from Spohr's "Crucifixion," and "Where'er you walk," from Handel's "Semele."
8. "My heart ever faithful" (Mein gläubiges Herz frohlocket), by Bach.
9. Andantino from the 5th and Andante from the 4th Sonatas, by Pleyel.
10. "The Hero's March," by Mendelssohn.
11. "Quis est homo?" from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."
12. Air et Chœur, from "La Dame Blanche," by Boieldieu.
13. Grande Marche Héroïque in C, by Fr. Schubert.
14. Grande Marche Héroïque in D, by Fr. Schubert.
15. Overture, "Berenice," by Handel.
16. Overture, "Sosarmes," by Handel.
17. Handel's Overture, "Alcina."
18. Gavotte, from Handel's Overture, "Otho."
19. "La Carita," by Rossini.
20. "Angels ever bright and fair," and "Pious orgies," both by Handel.
21. "Ave Maria," by Franz Schubert.
22. Aria, by Antonio Lotti. Circa 1700.
23. "My soul thirsteth for God," Aria from Mendelssohn's 42nd Psalm.
24. "Gloria in Excelsis," from Weber's Mass in G.
25. "Fac ut portem," from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."
26. "Pietà, Signore," from the Oratorio "San Giovanni Battista," Stradella.
27. Handel's Overture to "Julius Cæsar."
28. Serenade, by Franz Schubert.

[Continuing.]

Price Two Shillings each.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

Now ready.

AN ANDANTE IN A FOR THE ORGAN

BY
SAMUEL SEBASTIAN WESLEY.

Price 3s. net.

Now published for the first time.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

AN AIR FOR HOLSWORTHY CHURCH BELLS.

Composed and varied for the Organ, by SAMUEL SEBASTIAN WESLEY. Price 3s. net.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FESTIVE MARCH for the ORGAN.

Composed by E. H. THORNE. Price 2s. Arranged as a Pianoforte Duet, price 4s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

New Edition, complete in One Volume, 142 pages; paper cover, 5s. net; handsomely bound in scarlet cloth, gilt edges (as a gift or prize book), 7s. 6d. net.

"THE VILLAGE ORGANIST."—Seventy-eight

Easy Voluntaries, expressly contributed by Sir Julius Benedict; Sir William Sterndale Bennett, M.A., Mus. Doc., Cantab.; Sir George J. Elvey, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; Sir F. A. G. Ouseley, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon.; Dr. G. B. Arnold, Dr. E. T. Chipp, Dr. J. B. Dykes, Dr. H. J. Gauntlett, Dr. A. S. Holloway, Dr. G. A. Macfarren, Dr. E. G. Monk, Dr. E. F. Rimbault, Dr. William Spark, Dr. J. Stainer, Dr. C. G. Verrinder, Dr. S. S. Wesley; C. Goodband, Mus. Bac., Oxon.; S. Keay, Mus. Bac., Oxon.; J. Barnby, J. F. Barnett, R. Forsey Brion, J. Baptiste Calkin, William Hutchins Calcott, W. G. Cousins, E. M. Delaborde, Henry Farmer, P. E. Gladstone, John Hullah, H. S. Irons, C. W. Lavington, Mrs. Mounsey-Bartholomew, Franz Nava, Alberto Randegger, Brinley Richards, J. E. Richardson, Charles Salaman, E. Silas, Henry Smart, Boyton Smith, E. H. Thorne, J. Tilleard, and E. H. Turpin.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

 "THE VILLAGE ORGANIST" is very popular with town Organists as a lesson-book for their organ and harmonium pupils.

ORGAN MOVEMENTS.—Six Selected MOVE-

MENTS from the Organ Sonatas by Mendelssohn. Edited and fingered by JAMES LOWE. Reduced price complete, 3s. 6d. Single numbers—1, 3, 4, and 6, 9d. each, and 2 and 5, 1s. each net.

Manchester: HIME and ADDISON, 30, Victoria Street.

London: C. JEFFERYS, 67, Berners Street.

HANDEL'S HERCULES. An Oratorio, Edited and the Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged from the German Handel's Society's Full Score, by EBENEZER PROUT. Octavo, paper cover, 3s.; scarlet cloth, 5s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SMALLWOOD'S
CLASSICAL & SECULAR EXTRACTS
FOR THE PIANOFORTE.

- No. 52 Nos. ready, 3s. each.
1. Classical.—Hymn of Praise (Mendelssohn).
19. " Kyrie Eleison (Mozart's Twelfth Service).
35. " I know that my Redeemer (Messiah).
4. Secular.—May-bells (Mendelssohn).
20. " Selection from Die Zauberflöte (Mozart).
40. " Selection from Masaniello (Auber).
Post-free, 18 stamps each number.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

INTRODUCTION and RONDO for PIANO-FORTE, by the late WM. BARLOW, Manchester, formerly published by Addison and Hollier. Will the present holder of the copyright or engraved plates please communicate his address to W. Gee, 47, West Clowes Street, Salford?

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S ONLY COMPLETE AND UNIFORM EDITION OF

MENDELSSOHN'S

THIRTEEN TWO-PART SONGS

With the German and W. BARTHOLOMEW'S Original English Words.

Complete in One Volume, folio, 5s. net. Octavo, paper, 2s. net; cloth gilt, 4s. net; or singly, 2s. each. The separate Numbers are sold at half-price.

- | | |
|------------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| No. 1. I would that my love. | No. 7. My bark is bounding. |
| 2. The passage bird. | 8. Can I light-hearted be? |
| 3. Greeting. | 9. Evening song. |
| 4. Autumn song. | 10. Zuleika and Hassan. |
| 5. O wert thou in the cauld blast. | 11. The Sabbath morn. |
| 6. The maybells and the flowers. | 12. The harvest field. |
| | 13. Song from Ruy Blas. |

N.B.—The Quartett score to No. 13, 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO'S
TONIC SOL-FA SERIES,

TRANSLATED AND EDITED BY

W. G. McNAUGHT.

ANTHEMS, CHORUSES, PART-SONGS, &c.

Nos. 1 to 81 now ready.

	s.	d.
ELIJAH (Translated by J. W. Powell) ...	MENDELSSOHN.	1 6
HEAR MY PRAYER ...	MENDELSSOHN	0 3
HYMN OF PRAISE (Lobgesang) ...	MENDELSSOHN	1 0
ATHALIE ...	MENDELSSOHN	1 0
LORELEY ...	MENDELSSOHN	0 6
LAUDA SION (Praise Jehovah) ...	MENDELSSOHN	0 9
CHRISTUS ...	MENDELSSOHN	0 6
THE CRUSADERS ...	NIELS W. GADE	1 0
THE MAY QUEEN ...	SIR W. S. BENNETT	1 0

Complete Lists sent free on application.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

FULL ORCHESTRAL SCORES,

ONE GUINEA EACH.

HANDEL'S MESSIAH

(With Mozart's Accompaniments)

HANDEL'S ISRAEL IN EGYPT

HAYDN'S CREATION.

Large Paper; bound in cloth.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

CHALLEN AND SON'S GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, 20, OXFORD STREET, LONDON.

ESTABLISHED 1804.

PRIZE MEDAL, LONDON, 1862.

GOLD MEDAL, SOUTH AFRICA, 1877.

The only Firm who obtained the International Exhibition Medal for the special distinction of "excellence of touch and tone."

CHALLEN & SON'S GOLD MEDAL PIANETTE, with Check Action, in elegant Walnut or Rosewood Case, from 29 Guineas.

"The Pianettes manufactured by CHALLEN & SON are most satisfactory instruments."—Anton Rubinstein.
"I can testify in the strongest manner to the qualities of the Pianette as manufactured by CHALLEN & SON. In every point, as to tone and touch, they are excellent; and I can also certify from experience as to their durability under hard wear."—William Henry Monk, Professor of Music in King's College, London.

CHALLEN & SON'S GOLD MEDAL SEMI-COTTAGE, with Check Repeater Action, from 32 Guineas.

"The Pianos I have selected from Messrs. CHALLEN & SON have invariably given complete satisfaction, some of them having had to bear the severe test of an Indian climate."—William H. Cummings.

CHALLEN & SON'S GOLD MEDAL COTTAGE; trichord throughout; brass bridge; check repeater action, from 60 Guineas.

"I hold a very high opinion of Messrs. CHALLEN & SON's Pianos. Their qualities of tone and touch can be at once estimated; but I can furthermore bear testimony to their great durability."—Lindsay Sloper.

"CHALLEN & SON is a name synonymous with wonderful durability, great beauty of tone, and moderation in price. We know of not one single maker whose Pianos excel theirs in the qualities most desirable in a good and lasting Piano."—Cape Argus, May 7.

May be obtained from all Musicsellers. Illustrated list forwarded free.

CHALLEN & SON, 20, OXFORD STREET.

Steam Works—Cardington Street, Euston Square.

IN THE PRESS.

CHRISTIAN THE PILGRIM

OR

THE PILGRIM'S PROGRESS

SACRED CANTATA

SET TO MUSIC BY

WILFORD MORGAN.

The above Cantata is a condensed version of BUNYAN's famous work, arranged by ARTHUR MATTHISON for Solos and Choruses, and will be found well worthy the attention of Choral Societies. Time of performance, one hour.

PRICE TO SUBSCRIBERS, 5s. EACH COPY.

Orchestral Parts may be had of the Composer, and Subscribers' names can be received at his residence, 18, SURREY STREET, LONDON, W.C.

LIST OF

FLUTES.

PRIZE MEDAL,

PRIZE MEDAL,

MANUFACTURED ONLY BY

RUDALL, CARTE, & CO.

20, CHARING CROSS.

LONDON, 1851.

LONDON, 1862.

		£	s.	d.
a	CYLINDER FLUTE, with Parabola Head-joint, Boehm and Carte's Systems combined (1867 Patent); of Solid Silver, or in Cocoa Wood, or Ebonite, with Silver Keys and Fittings, in Case, complete	29	8	0
b 1	CYLINDER FLUTE, with Parabola Head-joint, Boehm's System; of Solid Silver, Cocoa Wood or Ebonite, with Silver Keys and Fittings, in Case, complete	29	8	0
b 2	CYLINDER FLUTE, with Parabola Head-joint, Carte's System (1851 Patent); of Solid Silver, Cocoa Wood, or Ebonite, with Silver Keys and Fittings, in Case, complete	29	8	0
c	CYLINDER FLUTE, with Parabola Head-joint, Boehm's System, Rockstro's Model; of Solid Silver, Cocoa Wood, or Ebonite, with Silver Keys, in Case, complete	29	8	0
d 1	CYLINDER FLUTE, with Parabola Head-joint, Old System; of Solid Silver, Cocoa Wood, or Ebonite, with Silver Keys, in Case, complete	29	8	0
d 2	CYLINDER FLUTE, with Parabola Head-joint, Old System (Radcliff's Model); of Solid Silver, Cocoa Wood, or Ebonite, with Silver Keys, in Case, complete	29	8	0
	Any of the above, extra finished and fitted in Morocco Case	34	13	0
d 3	CYLINDER FLUTE in Silver, Ebonite, or Cocoa, with Foot-joint down to B	31	10	0
d 4	DITTO in Silver, Ebonite, or Cocoa, with Foot-joint down to B flat	33	12	0
d 5	CYLINDER FLUTE in THIN EBONITE or COCOA WOOD, Carved Lip Piece, Silver Keys and Mountings, either System	36	15	0
d 6	CYLINDER FLUTE, Clinton Model, with Parabola Head-joint, in Solid Silver, Cocoa Wood, or Ebonite	31	10	0
	D sharp Shake to any of the above, extra	2	2	0
	D and D sharp, extra	3	3	0
	GOLD HEAD to Wood, Ebonite, or Silver Flute, any System of Fingering	31	10	0
e	CYLINDER FLUTE, entirely of 18-Carat Gold, with Parabola Head-joint, of either System	178	10	0
	D sharp Shake Key, extra	10	10	0
	D and D sharp Shake Keys, extra	15	15	0
f	CYLINDER FLUTE, with Parabola Head-joint, of either System, of 18-Carat Gold, with Silver Keys and Mountings	105	0	0
g	CYLINDER FLUTE, in Ebonite or Cocoa Wood, with 18-Carat Gold Keys and Mountings	131	5	0
h	CYLINDER FLUTE, DITTO, with 18-Carat Gold Head, Keys, and Mountings	147	0	0
j	CHEAP CYLINDER FLUTE, of Cocoa Wood, with Silver Rings, Keys, and Mountings, Old System, Radcliff's Model (simple form)	15	15	0
	FLUTE, with Conical Bore, Old System, Radcliff's Model; Cocoa Wood or Ebonite, with Silver Keys, &c.	29	8	0
k	DITTO, CONICAL FLUTE, with Silver Rings, Keys, and Mountings, Old System, Radcliff's Model (simple form)	15	15	0
k 2	CHEAP CYLINDER FLUTE, German Silver Keys and Mountings (Old System)	8	8	0
	CYLINDER FLUTE, Boehm's System, of German Silver or Cocoa Wood, with German Silver Keys and Fittings	18	18	0
l	ORDINARY EIGHT-KEYED FLUTE, of Cocoa Wood, German Silver Keys and Mountings and Tuning Slide	4	4	0
m	DITTO DITTO, with Silver Keys and Mountings	7	7	0
n	DITTO DITTO, with Stronger Silver Keys and Mountings than the above, Superior Wood, Double Springs, in Case, with Fittings, complete	11	11	0
o	DITTO DITTO, with Keys acting on Silver Pillars, Cork Joints, and Silver Sockets	16	5	6
p	ORDINARY TEN-KEYED FLUTE (including the lowest B and B flat Keys), Cocoa Wood, Silver Keys and Mountings, Superior Wood, Double Springs, in Case	15	15	0
q	SICCAMA MODEL, with Ten German Silver Keys	8	8	0
r	DITTO DITTO, with Silver Keys and Mountings, in Case, with Fittings, complete	12	12	0
w	DITTO DITTO, with Keys on Pillars ditto	18	18	0
Silver Plate entirely round the Head of the Embouchure of any of the Wood Flutes, One Guinea extra.
Patent Tuning Head to Eight-Keyed Flute, Two Guineas extra.
s	OCTAVE FLUTE or D PICCOLO, Cocoa Wood, Six German Silver Keys, and Tuning Head	2	12	6
t	DITTO DITTO, Six Sterling Silver Keys, &c.	4	4	0
u	DITTO DITTO, Six Sterling Silver Keys on Pillars	6	6	0
v	DITTO DITTO, Boehm's, Carte's, Radcliff's, or Boehm and Carte's Systems	15	15	0
w	DITTO DITTO, entirely Sterling Silver	18	18	0

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT MAKERS TO THE ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA AND HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, 20, CHARING CROSS, LONDON, S.W.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LISTS POST-FREE.

JOHN BRINSMEAD AND SONS'

Patented 1862, 1868, 1871,
and 1875, in Great Britain,
France, Prussia, Austria,
Italy, Belgium, and America.

GOLD MEDAL PIANOS.

18, WIGMORE STREET, LONDON, W.

ON THE THREE YEARS' SYSTEM.

The Grand Prize Medal and Diploma of Merit, Philadelphia, 1876.
The Grand Diploma of Honour, Paris, 1874.
The Gold Medal, Paris, 1870.
Le Diplome de la Mention Extraordinaire,
Amsterdam, 1869.
La Medaille d'Honneur, Paris, 1867.
Prize Medal, London, 1862, etc., etc.
The Gold Medal, South Africa, 1877.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

SIR JULIUS BENEDICT. { "This most ingenious and valuable invention cannot fail to meet with success."
SYDNEY SMITH. { "The touch is absolute perfection."
BRINLEY RICHARDS. { "A very clever and useful invention, and likely to be extensively adopted."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS. Six feet six inches in length, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action. Price, 105 to 115 Guineas.

"The tone of the Grand now referred to possessed all the qualities that a good piano ought to have, and in touch and action was perfect.
The sweet and silvery quality of the upper octaves was worthy of special admiration."—The Era.

"Sir Julius Benedict played his well-known composition, 'Where the Bee sucks,' on one of Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons' Grand Pianos, with the recently patented improvements, which enabled him to produce the sustained tones with great variety of effect in the light and shade of tones, especially so when extreme delicacy of touch is required."—Court Journal.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS. Six feet six inches in length, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action. Price, 105 to 115 Guineas.

"Admirable repetition, perfect sostenuto, and luscious tone of the instrument fully justified the performer's choice."—Sunday Times.

"Magnificent, grand, the air telling out with almost vocal clearness and sweetness to the bell-like treble arpeggio accompaniment, which contrasted excellently with the extraordinary power produced in the forte passages."—Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic News.

"An immense improvement in arpeggios. The rapid passages in the upper register, the beautiful flute-like tone, and quick and perfect repetition, were very effective."—Figaro.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' CONCERT IRON GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Re- peater Action.

"Sir Julius Benedict, now seldom heard as a soloist, delighted the public once more by his arrangement of 'Where the Bee sucks.' He played upon a new Patent Grand by Brinsmead, possessing a remarkably loud and clear tone."—Echo.

"The upright Iron Grand Piano, with sostenente sounding-board,
the mechanism produces the obvious result of a fuller and richer tone."
—Morning Advertiser.

"Every means are adopted to insure the production of perfect instruments."—The Orchestra.

GUARANTEED FOR FIVE YEARS.

•• ILLUSTRATED PRICE LISTS AND DESCRIPTIONS, WITH OPINIONS OF THE LONDON PRESS AND MUSICAL PROFESSION
FORWARDED POST-FREE UPON APPLICATION.

Gilbert L. Bauer's Prize Medal Drawing-Room Organs, from 8 Guineas to 300 Guineas.

JOHN BRINSMEAD AND SONS,

18, WIGMORE STREET, LONDON, W.,
AND THE "BRINSMEAD PIANOFORTE WORKS," GRAFTON ROAD, KENTISH TOWN, N.W.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER and Co. at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.).
Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row; and by DITSON and Co., Boston, New York, and Philadelphia.—Saturday, September 1, 1877.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON

GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action
"Where all the pianos go to seems somewhat of a mystery, for a really good instrument will last a lifetime: and yet every year thousands are made by each of the great London manufacturers, while the numbers made by the 200 or more smaller firms must represent an enormous number in the course of each year. The improvements made in English pianos have caused this trade rapidly to increase, until one pianoforte manufactory after another has been built to supply the growing demand. One of the largest of these, lately erected by Messrs.
John Brinsmead and Sons, of Wigmore Street, covers nearly an acre of ground in the Grafton Road, Kentish Town, and is intended to accommodate 300 workmen. These works alone can supply 3,000 pianos annually, and there are at least three manufactories in London capable of making an equal number."—Illustrated London News.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

"A metal bridge of a peculiar form is used to produce the treble; and a much finer tone is produced than if a wooden bridge were used."—Morning Post.

"A perfect check, great power, and quick repetition."—Times of India.
"Produces a better quality of tone, greater durability, the new patent perfect repetition, with a check (never before attained), with the certainty of the instrument never blocking."—Land and Water.

"Beautiful, light, and elastic touch, and an instant repetition."—Globe.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL

PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"The softest touch is sufficient to secure a reply, the touch and facility of repetition are really perfect."—Belgravia.

"The advantages fully justify the term 'Perfect' Check Repeater Action."—John Bull.

"The touch is very sure, light, and elastic."—Musical Times.

"This invention is simplicity itself."—The Queen.

"The latest and greatest improvements in the pianoforte."—City Press.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL

PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

On the Three Years' System.

"Receive the greatest approbation everywhere of musicians and manufacturers."—Standard.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL

PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action, from 33 to 300 Guineas. May be obtained of all the principal Musicsellers.

THE MUSICAL
TIMES

MR. FREDERICK LUCAS,

Public Accountant, Auditor, & Professional Trustee,

20, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET,

REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.

Partnership and other Accounts audited Periodically, and the various Statements of Affairs, Balance Sheets, and Valuations made for those engaged in the Pianoforte and Music Trades as occasion may require.

SALES AND EXCHANGES ARRANGED.

MR. LUCAS having the support of most of the principal Firms in the Pianoforte and Music Trades will be happy to give references to them if required.

SPECIALLY PUBLISHED FOR THE USE OF THE MUSIC TRADE,

THE PIANOFORTE, HARMONIUM, AND ORGAN STOCK-BOOK,

THE PIANOFORTE TUNING REGISTER,

AND

THE THREE YEARS' SYSTEM PIANOFORTE REGISTER.

These Books have been Compiled and Arranged by

FREDERICK LUCAS

With great care, and can be had at his address as above, price 5s. each, net.

These Books have proved to be of the greatest assistance to all engaged in the Pianoforte Hiring and Tuning Trade.

The "Stock-Book" is arranged for 100 Pianos, and is adapted not only as a Register showing all Pianofortes and Harmoniums in Stock and out on Hire, but it also shows the result of the Hiring and the Price each Piano realised.

The "TUNING REGISTER" is alphabetically arranged for nearly 1,500 Tunings, and shows also the List of Pianos to be Tuned and the Dates for Tuning the same.

The "HIRE-BOOK" for Pianos on the Three Years' System is arranged to show at a glance the number of Instalments paid or unpaid by each Hirer on each Pianoforte, &c.

These Books have been adopted very generally by the principal Houses in the Pianoforte Trade throughout the United Kingdom.

A SPECIMEN PAGE BOUND WITH EACH BOOK.

LARGER STOCK-BOOKS, STRONGLY BOUND, PRICE 15s.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

The Music Pages only are stereotyped; those persons who would possess the Musical Articles, Notices, Advertisements, &c., can only insure doing so by taking the work as it appears.

No. 416.—Vol. 18.
Registered for transmission abroad.

OCTOBER 1, 1877.

Price 3d.; Post-free, 4d.
Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 4s.

CHALLEN AND SON'S GOLD MEDAL PIANOS,

20, OXFORD STREET, LONDON.

ESTABLISHED 1804.

PRIZE MEDAL, LONDON, 1862.

GOLD MEDAL, SOUTH AFRICA, 1877.

The only Firm who obtained the International Exhibition Medal for the special distinction of "excellence of touch and tone."

CHALLEN & SON'S GOLD MEDAL PIANETTE,
WITH CHECK ACTION, IN ELEGANT WALNUT OR ROSEWOOD CASE.
FROM 29 GUINEAS.

"The Pianettes manufactured by CHALLEN & SON are most satisfactory instruments."—Anton Rubinstein.
"I can testify in the strongest manner to the qualities of the Pianette as manufactured by CHALLEN & SON. In every point, as to tone and touch, they are excellent; and I can also certify from experience as to their durability under hard wear."—William Henry Monk, Professor of Music in King's College, London.

CHALLEN & SON'S GOLD MEDAL SEMI-COTTAGE,
WITH CHECK REPEATER ACTION.
FROM 32 GUINEAS.

"The Pianos I have selected from Messrs. CHALLEN & SON have invariably given complete satisfaction, some of them having had to bear the severe test of an Indian climate."—William H. Cummings.

"As a customer of some years' standing, I speak with confidence of the quality of the instruments supplied by Messrs. CHALLEN & SON. The two I have for my own use have had a great deal of wear, and in this respect have entirely satisfied me as to their durability; and the tone and touch of all those selected by me for myself or pupils have been much commended."—Alfred Gilbert, R.A.M.

CHALLEN & SON'S GOLD MEDAL COTTAGE;
TRICHORD THROUGHOUT; BRASS BRIDGE; CHECK REPEATER ACTION.
FROM 60 GUINEAS.

"I hold a very high opinion of Messrs. CHALLEN & SON's Pianos. Their qualities of tone and touch can be at once estimated; but I can furthermore bear testimony to their great durability."—Lindsay Sloper.

"CHALLEN & SON is a name synonymous with wonderful durability, great beauty of tone, and moderation in price. We know of not one single maker whose Pianos excel theirs in the qualities most desirable in a good and lasting Piano."—Cape Argus, May 7.

EXCELLENCE IS GUARANTEED, AND EVERY INSTRUMENT WARRANTED TO BE OF THE HIGHEST CLASS WORKMANSHIP AND MATERIALS.

EBONISED AND GOLD PIANOS

Kept in Stock, of Superior Make and Elegant Designs.

May be obtained from all Musicsellers. Illustrated List forwarded free.

CHALLEN & SON, 20, OXFORD STREET.
STEAM WORKS—CARDINGTON STREET, EUSTON SQUARE.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MRS. BROOK MYERS (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 53, Blenheim Place, Idle, near Leeds, Yorkshire.

MRS. WARREN (Soprano),

Of Mr. C. Hallé's Concerts. For Oratorio or other Concerts, address, 150, Radnor Street, Hulme, Manchester.

Lessons in Singing. References—C. Hallé, Esq., and E. Hecht, Esq.

MRS. ALFRED J. SUTTON (Soprano)

Is open to engagements for Concerts and Oratorios. 54, Duchess Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MADAME PAULINE GRAYSTON (Soprano).

Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Concerts, &c. For terms address, 56, Lothhouse Place, Leeds.

MISS MAUD WOODCOCK (Soprano),

Of the Crystal and Alexandra Palaces, Promenade, and Madame Liebhart's Concerts. 6, Euston Grove, N.W.

MISS ADA MOORE (Soprano),

Pupil of Signor Randegger. For Oratorio and other Concerts, 95, Bristol Street, Moss Side, Manchester. Lessons in singing.

MISS HARRIETTE LEDERS (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 5, Crown Street, Liverpool.

MISS ANNETTE IVANOVA (Soprano).

For Concerts, &c., "Brooklyn," Howard Road, South Norwood.

MADAME PAULINE EVISON (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 57, Walmsley Street, Hull.

MISS DUMVILLE (Soprano).

For Oratorios, &c., address, 119, Elizabeth Street, Cheetham, Manchester.

MISS JOHNSON (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 26, Charlotte Street, Oldham.

MADAME DE VALENCE (Soprano),

Of the Alexandra Palace, Promenade Concerts, &c. For engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 63, Palace Road, Upper Norwood.

MISS EMILY EMPSALL (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 16, High Street, Halifax.

MISS RUTH HARLOW (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 34, Booth Street East, Oxford Street, Manchester.

MISS LOUISA BOWMONT (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 51, Mercer Street, Embden Street, Hulme, Manchester.

MR. GREENHILL (Tenor).

7, Park Place, Regent's Park.

MR. VERNEY BINNS (Tenor),

Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Sig. Ciro Pinsuti. For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 65, King Cross Street, Halifax.

W. MANN DYSON (Tenor).

For Concerts or Oratorios, address, Cathedral, Worcester.

MR. N. DUMVILLE (Principal Tenor).

For Oratorios and Concerts, address, Cathedral, Manchester.

MR. WALTER WILLIAMS (Tenor).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Cathedral, St. Asaph.

MR. WELBYE WALLACE (Tenor),

Of the Crystal Palace, and Gentlemen's Concerts, Manchester, &c. &c., desires that all communications concerning engagements for Oratorio, Concerts, or Opera be addressed to 24, Harcourt Terrace, Redcliffe Square, London, S.W., or care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. WILLIAM HOGARTH (Baritone).

Address, care of Hammond and Co., Vigo Street, Regent Street, London.

MR. RICKARD (Bass),

Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Signor Ciro Pinsuti. For Oratorios and Concerts, address, King Cross, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MR. THORNTON WOOD (Bass),

Of the Royal Albert Hall Concerts. For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. ADOLPHUS PHILLIPS (Basso).

For Oratorios, &c., address, Cathedral Choir, Lincoln.

MR. T. DODDS (Bass).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 7, Brunswick Terrace, Leeds.

MR. CH. J. BISHENDEN (the celebrated Bass), Author of "How to Sing" &c. For Concerts and Pupils, 20, Duke Street, Portland Place, London, W.

ALBERT E. BISHOP.

(Organ, Harmony, and Counterpoint.) Address, 26, Wilson Street, E.C.

MR. J. SHARPE (Oboecist).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 235, Lidgett Hill, Pudsey, near Leeds.

N.B.—Bandmasters and others supplied with Triebert's and Morton's celebrated Oboes. Best Oboe Reeds, 2s. each; Staples recaned, 1s. each.

SOPRANO.—MRS. BULMER (late Miss North), formerly pupil of the late Mrs. Wood, is open to engagements for Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts. Address, 54, Fitzwilliam Street, Huddersfield.

SINGING ENGAGEMENTS REQUIRED by a LADY (either Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano). Terms moderate. Miss Vernon, care of W. H. Röss, 29, Norfolk Terrace, Bayswater.

MR. H. T. BYWATER, TENOR, is OPEN to ENGAGEMENTS for ORATORIOS and MISCELLANEOUS CONCERTS. Address, 36, St. Germain's Road, Forest Hill, London, S.E.; or 40, Darlington Street, Wolverhampton.

MISS ASHMORE (Pianist and Accompanist) desires a few Pupils. Disengaged for first-class Concerts, &c., in London or suburbs. Fern Cottage, 5, Clareville Grove, South Kensington, London.

BOROUGH OF HACKNEY CHORAL ASSOCIATION.—There are a few VACANCIES in the CHOIR for thoroughly qualified CONTRALTI and TENORS. Rehearsals on Friday evenings, at 8. Application to be made to the Hon. Sec., Mr. H. A. Johnson, 286, Dalston Lane, E.

MAGDALEN COLLEGE, OXFORD.—There are VACANCIES in the Magdalen College Choir for two Lay Clerks. The VOICES required are ALTO and BASS (not Baritone). Stipend, £110 per annum. Preference will be given to candidates under 30 years of age. The Examination of Candidates will commence at 10 o'clock on Tuesday, Oct. 9. There are also Vacancies for Two Academical Clerks. The Voices required are ALTO and TENOR. Stipend, £95 per annum. For further particulars application may be made to the Rev. T. H. T. Hopkins, Magdalen College, Oxford.

CITY CHURCH CHOIR.—There is a VACANCY for a SOPRANO VOICE in the Choir of St. Alphege, London Wall. The duties comprise two services on Sunday and a rehearsal on Thursday evening. Service, full choral. Salary, £10 per annum. Candidates must be well up in Church music and be able to read fairly at sight. Address, with testimonials or references, Organist, care of Messrs. Knight and Co., 3, Abchurch Lane, E.C.

A CLERGYMAN wishes to meet with a place in a CHOIR for a SON, with a good SOPRANO voice, where he might have some equivalent for his services and be improved. B. A., Cottisford Rectory, Brackley.

S. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.—There will be a VACANCY in the Choir for an Assistant Vicar Choral (ALTO) on November 18. Candidates must be under 30 years of age, members of the Church of England, and communicants. Testimonials as to moral character and musical ability to be sent to the Rev. Dr. Simpson, Succentor, S. Paul's Cathedral, before October 6.

ROLLS CHAPEL, CHANCERY LANE.—ALTO, TENOR, and BASS VOICES WANTED. Voluntary choir. Choral Service. Sunday morning only. Address, Mr. F. J. Sharland, 100, Albion Road, Stoke Newington, N.

ALTO WANTED immediately for Surpliced Choir in a West End Church. Stipend, £10. Address, E. R. T., care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AN ALTO and BASS WANTED for Parish Church, Clapham. Attendance, twice on Sundays and rehearsal. Services, choral. Stipend, £15 and £12 respectively. Application to Mr. Carder, 76, Bow Road, E.

TENOR WANTED for Christ Church, Lee Park, S.E. Cathedral services. Surpliced choir. J. T. Field, 3, Essex Villas, High Road, Lee, S.E.

TENOR WANTED. £10. Surpliced choir. Two months' holiday in the year. Also BOYS with GOOD VOICES. Salary and musical instruction. Address, Principal, South London Musical Training College, S. James's, Hatcham, S.E.

BRISTOL CATHEDRAL.—A TENOR VOICE is REQUIRED. Salary, £60 with extras. Duty, five days in the week. Candidates must be communicants, of unexceptional character, and have had experience in Cathedral music. Age not above 30. Testimonials to be sent to the Chapter Clerk, 10, College Green, Bristol.

WANTED, for St. John's, Ladbroke Grove, Notting Hill, TWO BASSES and TWO TENORS. Remuneration, £10. Two services on Sunday and a weekly practice. Apply, by letter only, R. G. F., 32, Portland Road, Notting Hill.

BASS REQUIRED at St. Mary's Church, Aldermanbury, City. Surpliced choir. Full choral service. Stipend, £10. Address, Organist, as above.

SOUTHWELL MINSTER.—There is a VACANCY in this Choir for LAY CLERK, BASS. Salary, £60. Only qualified singers with powerful voices need apply. Daily services. Attendance at practice when required by the organist. Applications, stating age and inclosing testimonials as to character and musical efficiency, to be addressed to W. W. Ringrose, Esq., Mus. Bac., Oxon., Vicar's Court, Southwell, Notts.

CHORISTER SCHOOL, S. MICHAEL'S, PAD-DINGTON.—Several VACANCIES. Terms, 20 guineas, including board and lodging. Boys of the middle class admitted from 8 to 10 years. Sound commercial education. Applicants must have a good ear. Apply to Vicar, 17, Cambridge Terrace, Hyde Park, W.

THE ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER at Alton Parish Church (communicant) desires a RE-ENGAGEMENT where there is a good opening for teaching. Highest testimonials or references. Address, Mr. T. Palmer, High Street, Alton, Hants.

AN EXPERIENCED ORGANIST, having a high reputation as an Extemporist and effective and refined Accompanist (good Theorist), will shortly be DISENGAGED. Address, H. W. A., Mr. Donajowski, 8, Winsley Street, W.

ASSISTANT ORGANIST.—POST WANTED as above, in or near London, for a Lad of 16 years. Can take a simple service. Address, B. K., 43, Elgin Terrace, Maida Vale, London, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A PROFESSIONAL GENTLEMAN REQUIRES a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above. High-class testimonials and references. Address, Organist, Newtown Nursery, Great Malvern.

VOLUNTARY ORGANIST.—A YOUNG GENTLEMAN WISHES an ENGAGEMENT as above. Apply by letter to Alfred Physick, 136, Marylebone Road, N.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Professional Gentleman requires a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above, or to deputise. Address, H. J. Dean, 2, Blomfield Street, Finsbury, E.C.

MR. M. RUSSELL LOCHNER, late Organist and Choirmaster of St. Philip's Church, Kensington (5 years), and formerly of St. Jude's, South Kensington, is willing to take an APPOINTMENT at a Church in or near London. Address, care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST WANTED for Trinity Church, Melrose, N.B. Salary, £40. Apply to Rev. W. Simpson, M.A., Trinity Parsonage, Melrose, N.B.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED for the Priory Church, Leominster, about the end of November. Stipend, £55 per annum. Apply to the Vicar.

WANTED, an ORGANIST, for an English Church in Paris. There is an opening also for lessons in Music and English. Apply to Mr. Hart, Colonial Church Society, 9, Serjeant's Inn, Fleet Street, E.C.

AN ORGANIST WANTED for a Parish Church 17 miles from London. Two services on Sundays, and one evening in the week; also practice of the choir. Salary, £35 per annum. Apply to the Vicar, Hoddesdon, Herts.

WANTED, an efficient ORGANIST, accustomed to train a Choir, for two small Village Churches. Salary, £50 per annum. Only a thoroughly competent person need apply. Address, the Rector, Durweston Rectory, Blandford.

WANTED, PIANIST, of gentlemanly appearance to join an operatic entertainment now forming. Amateur preferred. Stamped envelope to J. B. B., 28, Brunswick Terrace, Camberwell, S.E.

ARTICLED PUPIL desired by a PROFESSOR residing in a healthy suburb near Liverpool. Pianoforte, Organ, Theory, and Voice Training. Address, A., Office of this Paper.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK has a VACANCY for a RESIDENT ARTICLED PUPIL. For terms, address, Park Avenue Villas, Lower Norwood, S.E.

ARTICLED PUPIL.—The Organist of S. Peter's, Eaton Square, has a VACANCY for the above. Apply to the Organist, S. Peter's Vestry, Eaton Square, S.W.

A PROFESSOR OF MUSIC in the West of England has a VACANCY for a YOUTH, to study with another. Comfortable home. Three manual organ, and great musical advantages. Premium. Address, E. Mackie, 24, Scarsdale Villas, Kensington, W.

MR. C. WARWICK JORDAN, Mus. Bac., Oxon., Fell. Coll. Org., Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Stephen's, Lewisham, has a vacancy for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Address, 8, Heath Terrace, Lewisham, S.E.

A GENTLEMAN is desirous of giving LESSONS by post in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. References from present pupils if desired. Terms very moderate. Address Magister, Musical Times Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.

PIANO and HARMONY LESSONS, by C. STIEBLER COOK, Associate of the Royal Academy of Music, five years Music and Choir Master at Uppingham School. Singing classes conducted. Schools attended. 17, Keppel Street, Russell Square.

MR. E. W. TAYLOR, Mus. Bac., Oxon., &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for Musical Examinations; also gives lessons in Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., by post. Ebenezer Place, Stafford.

MUSICAL DEGREES and EXAMINATIONS.—J. W. HINTON, Mus. Doc., M.A., Trinity College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W., prepares candidates for Mus. B. or Mus. D., of Oxford, Cambridge, or Dublin, in all branches they may require. Dr. H. continues to revise or orchestrate for composers. Harmony and Counterpoint by post if required.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK receives PUPILS for HARMONY and COMPOSITION at 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W. For information as to days of attendance, terms, &c., address as above, or 5, Park Avenue Villas, Lower Norwood, S.E.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK undertakes to PREPARE CANDIDATES for the MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS at either UNIVERSITY; also for the Trinity College, London, and College of Organists' Examinations. Lessons in Harmony and Composition by post. Park Avenue Villas, Lower Norwood, S.E.

DR. SLOMAN gives LESSONS to CANDIDATES preparing for Musical Degrees. Grassendale, West Dulwich, S.E.

THE ORGANIST of RIPON CATHEDRAL teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Correspondence. For terms, address, Edwin J. Crow, Mus. Bac., Cantab.

HARMONY and COMPOSITION may be effectually taught by correspondence if a proper system adopted. The Principal of the South London Musical Training College is now preparing special papers for the use of students at a distance.

HARMONY and COMPOSITION by CORRESPONDENCE.—Address, the Principal, South London Musical Training College, S. James's, Hatcham, S.E.

HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT CLASSES. Ladies on Thursdays, at 6 p.m.; Gentlemen on Mondays, at half-past eight. South London College, S. James's, Hatcham.

PRACTICAL HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c.—Lessons by post by an experienced Professor upon a principle (mainly that of the late Dr. Gauntlett) which insures solid and rapid progress, and enables students to read with facility difficult theoretical works. Terms, 19 stamps for each lesson (two pages of 12 stave paper). Address Musicus, E. Donajowski, 8, Winsley Street, W.

MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS.—CANDIDATES TRAINED for Examinations, either personally or by correspondence. Dr. Holloway, F.C.O., 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

TO COMPOSERS.—Dr. HOLLOWAY continues to Revise and Arrange every description of Music for Publication. Students prepared for the profession or for examinations. If residing at a distance, lessons can be had by post. Faults pointed out and every information given to the young aspirant. Dr. Holloway, 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

MR. JOHN HILES, 51, Elsham Road, Kensington, W. (Author of the "Catechism of Harmony, Thoroughbass, and Modulation," "Hiles' Short Voluntaries," "Catechism for the Pianoforte Student," and several other important musical works), gives Lessons in Harmony, &c. by post.

MR. JOHN HENKEN'S MUSIC CLASSES AT THE BIRKBECK INSTITUTION, SOUTHAMPTON BUILDINGS, CHANCERY LANE.—THE NEW SESSION commences OCTOBER 1. Elementary Singing on Mondays, Advanced on Tuesdays, and Upper Advanced on Thursdays, at 8.30. Fees per Quarter: Ladies, 1s. 6d.; Gentlemen, 2s.; Members of the Institution, 1s. and 1s. 6d. Theory of Music on Fridays, at 7.45. Fees: 1s. 6d. and 4s. Prospectus gratis on application.

BANJO and GUITAR STUDIO, 1, ST. MARY AXE, CITY.—PROFESSOR BALLANTINE, the eminent Solo Banjoist (late of St. James's Hall), TEACHES the above Instruments, by music or otherwise; also the new instrument for ladies, the Banjoline. Pupils visited at own residences, and schools attended in town and country. Terms moderate.

TO ORGANISTS.—Practice may be had on a very good Organ. Two manuals; swell; variety of stops; 2½ pedals; bourdon to CCC. Terms very moderate. Address, E. F., Organist, 188, Upper Street, Islington, N.

ORGAN LESSONS, with Practice on one of the finest Organs in the City. Address, Organist, 17, Brownwood Villas, Stroud Green Road, N.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

Incorporated by Special Charter under Act of Parliament.

WEYMOUTH STREET, PORTLAND PLACE.

DEPARTMENT OF EVENING CLASSES.

THE THIRD WINTER SESSION will commence on THURSDAY, October 4, at 8 p.m., with a Public Reception of past and present students and their friends.

THE MUSICAL DIVISION comprises separate or combined Courses of Instruction in Harmony, Counterpoint, Canon and Fugue, Orchestration, Composition (musical form), Organ, Pianoforte, Solo and Class Singing, &c. Professors: Edmond Silas, J. Gordon Saunders, Mus. B., J. W. Hinton, M.A., Mus. D., Bradbury Turner, Mus. B., H. J. Stark, Mus. B., &c.

THE ARTS DIVISION embraces classes in Latin, Greek, French, German, English Composition and Literature, Mathematics, Natural Sciences, &c. Professors: E. Passawer, LL.D., W. J. Jennings, B.A., A. Motteau, &c. Also a MATRICULATION CLASS for London University, under the direction of Philip Magnus, B.A., B.Sc., Lond., assisted by a staff of graduates.

THE EVENING CLASSES. Prospectus may be had of the Assistant Secretary, at the College, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W. (about thirty doors west of Harley Street), by post, or on personal application. The College is within a few minutes of the Metropolitan Railway and of Oxford Circus.

THE COLLEGE CALENDAR for 1877-78 is now ready, price 2s. 6d., and may be had of the Publishers, Messrs. Reeves and Co., 185, Fleet Street, E.C.

THE HARMONY CLASS at TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON, will recommence on Monday Evening, October 8, at 7 p.m. Fee, One Guinea per term. Professor: J. GORDON SAUNDERS, Mus. B., Oxon.

THE COUNTERPOINT CLASS at TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON, will recommence on Monday Evening, October 8. Fee, One Guinea per term. Professor: EDMOND SILAS.

THE COMPOSITION CLASS at TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON, will recommence the second week in October. Fee, One Guinea per term. Professor: EDWIN M. LOTT. The ORCHESTRATION CLASS will be conducted by the same Professor.

THE PIANOFORTE COURSE at TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON, will recommence the first week in October. Professor: BRADBURY TURNER, Mus. B., Cantab., Member and Associate of the Royal Academy of Music.

THE ORGAN COURSE at TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON, will recommence the first week in October, under the direction of J. W. HINTON, M.A., Mus. D., and other Professors. Fee: Theory Students, One Guinea; otherwise, Two Guineas, per term.

THE HARMONY CLASS for LADIES at TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON (in which students are specially prepared for the College Certificates to Women) will recommence early in October. Professor: HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. B. Oxon.

NOTICE.—All APPLICATIONS respecting the above classes at TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON, should be addressed to the Assistant Secretary, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W.

THE MANCHESTER BRANCH of TRINITY COLLEGE will shortly reopen for the Winter Session, under the direction of J. KENDRICK PYNE, Organist of Manchester Cathedral, and J. MORGAN BENTLEY, Mus. B., Cantab. Class Rooms, 18, St. Ann's Street, Manchester.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

HIGHER EXAMINATIONS FOR WOMEN.

The New Regulations as to Examinations for Higher Musical Certificates to Women are now published, and may be had of the Registrar. The separate subjects in which certificates may be taken are: 1. Harmony; 2. Counterpoint; 3. General Musical Knowledge; 4. Pianoforte or Organ Playing; 5. The Voice.

The first examination will take place in January next.
HUMPHREY J. STARK, Mus. B.,
Trinity College, London, W. Hon. Registrar.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

RESIDENT STUDENTS.

Arrangements have been made for the reception of a number of Resident Musical Students, who will receive a complete Professional Training.

The complete course is of three years' (twelve terms) duration; Students, however, may be received for a shorter term on special recommendation.

The Regulations for Resident Students (who are subject to the same discipline as the Resident Students at the Universities) may be seen in the College Calendar for 1877-78, or may be had, with other particulars, of the Warden (at the College, Weymouth Street, London, W.), to whom all applications should be made in the first instance.

H. G. BONAVIA HUNT, Warden.

ORGAN STUDIO, 140 (late 166), STRAND (opposite the Gaiety).—LESSONS or PRACTICE (and at St. Michael's, Stockwell, S.W.) on fine two-manual C ORGANS (Hill and Son).—Full pedal compass.—W. VENNING SOUTH-GATE (Organist, St. Michael's, Stockwell), "The Strand Organ Studio," W.C. Established, 1867.

ORGAN LESSONS and PRACTICE on a fine new Instrument, with 2 manuals, 15 stops, 2½ octaves of pedals, with bourdons throughout. Terms moderate. Allen's Musical Instrument Warehouse, 17, Percy Street, Bedford Square, W. Lessons and Practice on other Instruments also.

ORGAN PRACTICE or INSTRUCTION.—Three Manuals, each of 56 notes, pedal organ, 30 notes, 18 effective stops, and blown by Lea's Automatic Hydraulic Engine. Terms, which are strictly inclusive, on application at Blennerhasset's Organ School and Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, Pentonville, W.C. Sole Agent for LEA'S HYDRAULIC ORGAN BLOWER. The cheapest, simplest, best, and most effective ever invented. Full particulars, and estimates as above, free. Inspection invited.

MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST begs to inform his pupils and friends that he has REMOVED to 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N. Red trams direct from Moorgate Street. Nearest station, Rectory Road.

MR. E. H. THORNE begs to announce his REMOVAL to No. 13, Neville Terrace, Onslow Gardens, S.W.

MRS. OSGOOD requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts may be addressed to Mr. N. Vert, 52, New Bond Street, W.

MR. HARPER KEARTON requests that all letters be addressed 21, Sutherland Square, Walworth, S.E., and not to Westminster Abbey.

MUSIC ENGRAVED, PRINTED, AND PUBLISHED in the best style, and on moderate terms, a statement of which sent on application, by B. Williams, 60, Paternoster Row.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest varied stock of Music in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day, or if in stock posted immediately, if required. Terms highly advantageous.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

W. G. HALLIFAX & CO., 315, Oxford Street, W. W. ENGRAVE and PRINT AUTHORS' WORKS at the lowest possible cost, and introduce them. Estimates by return of post.

TO ORGANISTS AND CHOIRMASTERS.—Chants, Hymn-tunes, and Kyries multiplied by a new Polygraphic Process. 2s. per hundred, including paper. Specimen, one halfpenny stamp. H. Brown, 39, Broad Street, Alloa, Scotland.

TO PROFESSORS AND COMPOSERS.—MUSIC COPYING WANTED by an Adept. Specimens if required. Address, A. C. J., 7, Royal Crescent, Margate.

WANTED, a SITUATION as TUNER and REPAIRER, &c. Good references. Address, C. B. A., 13, Oxford Grove, Oxford Road, Manchester.

A TUNER, having finished his time at one of the largest manufacturers', is open to an ENGAGEMENT. Good reference. Address, stating full particulars, G. T., 6, Vicar Road, N.W.

WANTED, a SITUATION as ASSISTANT TUNER, REGULATOR, and REPAIRER. Age, 26. Factory experience. Good reference. Address, A. B., The Poplars, Lindfield, Hayward's Heath, Sussex.

PIANOFORTE TUNER seeks an ENGAGEMENT. Practical experience. Address, Frank, 14, William Street, Ipswich.

WANTED, SITUATION as OUTDOOR TUNER and REGULATOR. Understands Harmoniums and American Organs. Address, J. H. W., 20, Cheapside, Barnsley.

SITUATION REQUIRED as TUNER and REPAIRER. First-class testimonials. Address, T. W., 12, Rothwell Street, Regent's Park, London.

ESTABLISHED, APRIL 1866.

THE ENGLISH GLEE UNION.

Mr. H. ASHTON, Mr. F. H. COZENS,
Mr. FOUNTAIN MEEN, Mr. ALBERT HUBBARD,

ASSISTED BY

Madame ASHTON.

For terms, &c., address, H. Ashton, Secretary, Ivy House, Stamford Hill, London, N.

MR. STEDMAN'S CONCERT PARTIES for
Oratorio and Miscellaneous Concerts, Institutions, Evening Parties, Soirées, &c. &c.

MADE UP FROM THE MOST EMINENT ARTISTS, AND INCLUDING: Mesdames Annie Sinclair, Anna Williams, Mary Davies, Matilda Scott, Worrell-Duval, Jessie Royd, Hugo, Saidie Singleton, Poole, Helen D'Alton, Annie Butterworth, Helen Armit, Dones, Gill, Osborne Williams; Messrs. Stedman, Kenningham, Charles Beckett, J. L. Wadmore, George Fox, Thurley Beale, King Hall, Russell Lochner, Henry Parker, &c. &c.

THE STANDARD QUARTETT.—Messrs. Hodges, Stedman, Charles Beckett, and Thurley Beale. For terms and particulars address, Mr. STEDMAN, 1, Berners Street, W.

THE YORKSHIRE CONCERT PARTY.—

Madame Pauline Grayston (Soprano), Miss Emily Empsall (Contralto), Mr. Verney Binns (Tenor), Mr. H. Rickard (Bass), Mr. William Clark (Accompanist).

Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Concerts, &c. For terms, full party or otherwise, address, Mr. C. G. Taylor, 56, Louthouse Place, Leeds.

First-class Agents wanted for London, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales.

SAINT CECILIA CONCERT PARTY.—Madame

Pauline Evison (Soprano), Miss Emmeline Kennedy (Contralto), Mr. George Nunns (Tenor), Mr. T. Dodds (Bass), Mr. Jno. Shaw (Solo Pianist). Address, Mr. T. Dodds, 7, Brunswick Terrace, Leeds.

THE RIPON QUARTETT and CONCERT

PARTY.—Mr. H. J. Dutton (Alto), Mr. Herbert Parratt (1st Tenor), Mr. J. W. Calverley (2nd Tenor), Mr. John Thursfield (Bass). A Lady Vocalist provided if necessary. For Concerts, Banquets, &c., address, Mr. John Thursfield, the Cathedral.

BELLS! BELLS! BELLS!—CRITERION

TEMPERANCE CAMPANOLOGISTS and GLEE-SINGERS. Terms moderate. Excellent performance. Address for circular and testimonials, Mr. Harry Tipper, 118, The Grove, Hammersmith.

MR. T. HARPER'S TOUR during the Autumn and Winter. Artists: Miss Agnes Larkcom, Miss Marion Severn, Mr. Kenningham, Mr. Thurley Beale, Mr. Fountain Meen (Pianoforte), Mr. Harper (Trumpet). Address, 25, Brecknock Crescent, N.W.

A FIRST-CLASS TUNER AND REGULATOR

from Collard and Collard's wishes for a permanent ENGAGEMENT. Address, A. G., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

A YOUNG LADY, brilliant Pianist, Extemporist, and Vocalist, able to read well at sight, requires MUSICAL EMPLOYMENT. Address, F. B. B., 78, Redesdale Street, Chelsea, S.W.

RE-ENGAGEMENT REQUIRED by EXPE-

RIENCED YOUNG LADY. Thorough knowledge of Sheet Music Trade. Accustomed to conduct sales of pianofortes, harmoniums, &c. Good Saleswoman, Correspondent, and Bookkeeper. Unexceptionable reference. M. W., Music Warehouse, Doncaster.

WANTED by a YOUNG LADY, a RE-ENGAGE-

MENT in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Brilliant pianist. Able to read at sight. Used to the business. Address, F. J., 18, Argyle Square, W.C.

WANTED, a FIRST-CLASS FINISHER and REGULATOR, from Collard's, Broadwood's, or Erard's. Apply to Q., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

A GOOD Country TUNER WANTED for an old-established country business. Several other tuners kept, and a permanent situation for a good man. Age not less than 25. Wages, 50s., and extras. Address, Accorder, care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

WANTED, an ASSISTANT for the PAPER

DEPARTMENT in a Music Warehouse in Manchester. Apply, Alpha, care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

COUNTER ASSISTANT, active and of gentlemanly manners, WANTED for permanent engagement by leading house in Midlands. Address, stating age, terms, and references, "Birmingham," care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE.—To be DIS-

POSED OF, the BUSINESS of those excellent and spacious Premises (with large dwelling-house attached) known as the Southport Pianoforte and Music Warehouse; doing a first-class counter and hire trade. Rent, £185. This would prove a good investment to capitalists, to whom satisfactory reasons for leaving and any further particulars will be given on application to Philipps, Son, & Co., 91, Lord Street, Southport.

TO ORGAN-BUILDERS.—WANTED first-class
WORKMEN (inside hands). Apply to Mr. J. Porritt, Organ-Builder, Leicester.

EAST LONDON ORGAN WORKS,

9, Burdett Road, Mile End, E.—E. CARDER is prepared to send Specifications for building Organs of very superior materials and workmanship. Alterations, rebuilding, and repairs. First-class workmen sent to all parts on very moderate terms. Tuning, &c. Second-hand Organs for SALE.

ORGANS for Church or Chamber, full rich tone, from 35 guineas. ORGAN HARMONIUMS, with 1 or 2 manuals, full compass of pedals, from 25 to 54 guineas, invaluable for Teaching or Organ Practice. SPRAGUE'S Celebrated ORGAN-TONE HARMONIUMS, 6 guineas; best in the trade.—William Sprague, 7, Finsbury Pavement, London.

A. MONK'S 100-GUINEA ORGANS, 2 CC Manuals,

Bourdon pedal pipes, 10 stops. 200-guinea Organs, 2 manuals, 16 stops. 300-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 21 stops. 400-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 27 stops. Organs built to any design. Old Organs rebuilt. Additions, Repairs, Tunings, &c. Specifications and Estimates free. Sussex Terrace, King's Road, Camden Town, London.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minorities, London.

HY. JACKSON, Organ Builder, is prepared to send Specifications and Estimates for building Organs of superior materials and workmanship. Rebuilding and repairs done on moderate terms. Tuning, &c. Address, 15, Rasen Lane, Lincoln.

STUTTGART HARMONIUM COMPANY.—

LEOPOLD KAHN, Stuttgart, Germany.

Price Lists on application to ALPHONSE CARY, Sole Representative, 26, Fortress Terrace, Kentish Town, N.W.; close to Kentish Town Station. Inspection solicited.

T. R. WILLIS (established, 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c. 29, Minorities, London. List for stamp.

DEAN'S CHEAP MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.—

School Band Flutes, from 3s. 6d.; 8-Key Concert Flutes, 25s.; Cornets, in case, 30s.; Drums, Tambourines, Banjos, and every article in the trade. A good Violin, with Bow and Book, in case, 20s. English, Roman, and Acribelle Violin Strings—5 English firsts, warranted to stand at concert pitch, sent free for 13 stamps. Joseph Dean, Music Warehouse, 77, City Road, E.C. Established, 1843. Price lists sent free.

BRASS, REED, STRING, and DRUM and FIFE

BANDS, PIANOFORTES AND HARMONIUMS, supplied at wholesale prices, at J. MOORE'S, Buxton Road, Huddersfield. Prices, with drawings of every instrument, post-free. Music for any kind of band. Patronised by the army, navy, and rifle corps.

RUSSELL'S MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

CONCERTINAS, Harmoniums, Organ Accordions,

Flutinas, Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Violins, Cornets, Saxhorns, Clarionets, Flageolets, Guitars, Banjos, Musical Boxes, Strings, &c. Self-instruction Books. Instruments repaired or exchanged. Price Lists free. J. Russell, 158, Goswell Road, Clerkenwell, London.

ACCURATE METRONOMES, 1s., post-free.

Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing Class Tutor, 12th ed., 6d. each. D. Scholefield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES.—150 by

S. Broadwood, Collard, Erard, Allison, &c., from 4 guineas upwards. HARMONIUMS (New), from £5, in Walnut or Mahogany cases. Largest stock of Pianos and Harmoniums in London at Kelly and Co.'s, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital. Trade supplied.

TO SELL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS of every description, also Libraries of Music, Music Plates and Copyrights, Stock-in-Trade, &c., SALE (devoted exclusively to this class of property) held every month. Single instruments inserted. Consignments received at any time. Puttick and Simpson, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C. [Established, 1794.]

"UNION IS STRENGTH."

THE LONDON PIANOFORTE and HARMO-

NIUM CLUB affords the best possible (if not the only) means of obtaining a GOOD INSTRUMENT by EASY PAYMENTS at absolute cost price. Pianos from 18 guineas; Harmoniums from 5 guineas. Full particulars post-free of the Secretary, 60, Colveston Crescent, West Hackney, London.

VIOLINS, TENORS, VIOLONCELLOS, and

DOUBLE BASSES, by "Craske," equal to Stradivarius and Guarnerius.

Upwards of 500 of these splendid Instruments now on Sale at Edward Crompton's, 54, Barton Arcade, Deansgate, Manchester (3rd floor), many of which have been made 50 years.

Also a large collection of Italian Instruments.

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, VIOLONCELLOS, &c.—

JOHNSON HICKS, Dealer in, and careful Repairer of, "CREMONA" and other Violins, &c.—Brunswick House, Torquay, Devon.

WARD'S
ROYAL PIANOFORTE AND
HARMONIUM LAMP,
FOR PROVIDING A CENTRAL & DIRECT LIGHT
FOR THE PERFORMER.

The inconvenience of the present mode of lighting a performer at a pianoforte or harmonium by means of sconces fitted at the extremities of the instrument has long been a subject of complaint. The requirement is a central light to fall direct upon the music-book. This can be obtained by using Thomas Ward's Royal Pianoforte Lamp, which can be fitted to any form of instrument without defacing the same. Vocalists also will thus find a convenience which does not exist in other modes of lighting.

PROSPECTUSES POST-FREE.

Price 7s. 6d.

Agents: Messrs. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond Street; and Mr. J. WILLIAMS, 23, Berners Street, Oxford Street (W.)

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.'S

CELEBRATED

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS

UNEQUALLED BY ANY OTHER MAKERS.

These ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS stand FIRST among any such instruments for

QUALITY OF TONE, DURABILITY, RAPIDITY OF TOUCH,
PREDOMINANCE OF THE TREBLE OVER THE BASS,
PERFECT ACTION,
BRILLIANCY OF THE SOLO STOPS, NEWLY INVENTED
DOUBLE ACTION, SOLID IMPROVED SOUND-BOARD,
AND DOUBLE EFFECTIVE SWELLS.

List of Prices and Books of Designs, and upwards of 300 Testimonials from all parts of the globe, to be had post-free.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.,

10, 12, & 14, Bow Street, Sheffield.

N.B.—These Harmoniums are 20 per cent cheaper than any other house, and a far superior tone.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium gives the greatest satisfaction, and is really the best instrument I have fallen in with.—Yours truly,

W. P. M. SLATER.

39, Franklin Street, South Shields, May 6, 1876.

GENTLEMEN,—By a mistake in the address the Harmonium was left at a wayside station, so that I did not get it here till last night; however, it is uninjured and gives me every satisfaction. Its tone and workmanship are admirable, and in rapidity of touch it is quite equal to a large Alexandre Percussion instrument, on which I sometimes play. I shall always be glad to recommend your Harmoniums.—Believe me, faithfully yours,

W. F. ASHERIDGE, M.A., Curate of Bessingby.

Bessingby Road, Bridlington, Dec. 15, 1876.

Mr. J. M. Boulard, Manager of the Alleghanians, Vocalists and Bell Players.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium you made for me in travelling case answers our purpose exceedingly well, and my company are all delighted with it.—Yours truly,

J. M. BOULARD.

Sept. 16, 1876.

GENTLEMEN,—Kindly find cheque for the Harmonium to hand. I may add that our people are very much pleased with the instrument. It is a little gem.—Yours faithfully,

J. W. H. WOOD.

Shirland and Higham School Board, Shirland, near Alfreton,
Feb. 2, 1877.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium arrived here yesterday. I am much pleased with it, and it is a very pretty, nice-looking instrument.—Yours truly,

DAVID BRUCE.

Merrington Vicarage, Terry Hill, Dec. 10, 1875.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium arrived here in capital condition last week. I am very pleased with it. The tone is exceedingly sweet and pleasing. All who have seen it here like it very much.—Yours faithfully,

H. R. HOLME.

Montserrat, West Indies, Aug. 11, 1876.

CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.

NOTICE.

A PRIZE MEDAL of the FIRST RANK was awarded at Philadelphia, 1876, to

PELOUBET, PELTON, & Co.,

NEW YORK,

FOR THE GENERAL EXCELLENCE OF THEIR

“STANDARD”

AMERICAN ORGANS.

PRICES, 12 TO 125 GUINEAS.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE to be had on application to

BARNETT SAMUEL & SON,

31, HOUNDSDITCH, E.C., & 32, WORSHIP STREET,
FINSBURY SQUARE,

Sole Agents for the United Kingdom and British Colonies.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT ALLOWED TO THE TRADE.

“A supreme and perfect harmony of notes.”

E. & W. SNELL'S

IMPROVED ENGLISH HARMONIUMS.

MANUFACTORY: LITTLE KING STREET NORTH, CAMDEN TOWN, LONDON, N.W.

Chief characteristics of the “SNELL” HARMONIUM. Pure, musical, and euphonious quality of tone, possessing great sweetness and organlike character, combined with perfect articulation and equality of sound throughout the scale, the tenor notes not predominating over the treble. Light and elastic touch, rendering the instrument equally effective for Secular as for Sacred music. Simplicity and novelty of action. Improved mechanism and superior finish throughout. Durability, general excellence, and extreme moderation of price. Full particulars, designs, and prices, with testimonials specially referring to the important improvements introduced into these much admired instruments, free of the makers, E. and W. SNELL, as above. Profession and trade supplied.

E. and W. SNELL beg to announce that, having just completed the Enlargement of their Premises, they are now enabled to execute any orders with which they may be favoured with promptitude and despatch. Any kind of instrument of the free reed class to order.

LONDON AGENTS,

MESSRS. MOUTRIE AND SON,

PIANOFORTE SALOON,

55, BAKER STREET, LONDON, W.

MR. J. HAMILTON begs to inform Organists, Organ Students, and others that the Pedals and Action for attachment to Pianofortes manufactured by him can be inspected and ordered at the above address.

A set of Straight Pedals 30 notes (C to F), with action and printed instructions, “How to Attach,” price £4 4s. Or Radiating and Concave Pedal Board, with action, price £5 5s.

TESTIMONIAL.

“Barrow Street, Quorndon, near Loughborough,
July 16, 1877.

“SIR,—It is now over two years since I purchased a set of your pedals and action for pianofortes. After having thoroughly tested them and used them regularly for so long a period I have no hesitation in saying that they are a most decided success, and at the same time advise every organ student who wishes to become proficient in the art of pedalling to procure a set of them at once.

“I remain, Sir, yours truly,

“To Mr. J. Hamilton.”

“J. J. CALLIS.

Orders accompanied with Cheque or P.O. Order will receive immediate attention. Send for prices to the Profession and Trade.

Address, J. HAMILTON, 11, Brunswick Street, City Road, Bristol.

HIGHEST CLASS OF EXCELLENCE.

MILLEREAU'S BAND INSTRUMENTS
FOR ARTISTS.BOEHM AND ENGLISH CLARINETS, CONSERVATOIRE AND BOEHM
OBOES, CORNET-A-PISTONS, CYLINDRICAL BOEHM FLUTES, &c.

MILLEREAU'S FRENCH VOCAL HORN IN C.

Priced Catalogue and Designs free to any part of the world.

PARIS. 29, RUE DES TROIS BORNES. FRANCE.

MUSIC, STRINGS—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.J. P. GUIVIER AND CO.,

MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF

ALL KINDS OF MUSIC STRINGS FOR
ALL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.Sole Dépôt for Signor ANDREA RUFFINI's (of Naples) Celebrated Strings for Soloists.25, SHERWOOD STREET, REGENT CIRCUS, PICCADILLY.
Price List free on application.All kinds of strings covered in a superior manner on powerful machines made on the best principle with all modern improvements.J. B. CRAMER AND CO'S FRENCH POLISH REVIVER, invented by GEORGE WATTS, for cleaning and polishing furniture, pianos, and leather of every description.

OPINIONS OF THE LONDON AND BRIGHTON PRESS.

"This is a really genuine article."—Times. "The brilliant and lasting polish obtained is surprising."—Guardian. "Very successful results have attended its application."—Daily News. "We have, therefore, much pleasure in recommending it to housekeepers as a really useful and valuable preparation."—The Queen. "Any one can use Cramer's Reviver with success."—The Orchestra.Price 1s., 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d. per bottle. To be obtained of grocers and pianoforte dealers. Agents wanted.Wholesale and retail agents—J. B. Cramer and Co., and Metzler and Co., London. Manufacturers—J. B. Cramer and Co., Brighton.THROAT IRRITATION.—The throat and windpipe are especially liable to inflammation, causing soreness and dryness, tickling and irritation, inducing cough and affecting the voice. For these symptoms use glycerine in the form of jujubes.
Glycerine, in these agreeable confections, being in proximity to the glands at the moment they are excited by the act of sucking, becomes actively healing. Sold only in 6d. and 1s. boxes (by post for 14 stamps), labelled JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle Street, and 170, Piccadilly.12s. WORTH of MUSIC for One Shilling, post-free for fifteen stamps, soiled and surplus stock.
James Smith and Son, 76, 74, and 72, Lord Street, Liverpool.LARGE ORGAN for SALE, new, with all the latest improvements, CC to G; 9 stops on the great; 9 ditto on the swell; large scale pedal pipes; three compositions, great; three ditto, swell; concave German pedals, 30 notes; no case. Apply, A. Hunter, 379, Kennington Road, London, S.E.CC ORGAN for SALE.—3 manuals, 54 notes, pedals 20 notes, 6 companion pedals, 31 draw stops; suitable for church or chapel or chamber use. Metal work and reeds by COUR-CELLI. Now being finished and can be completed to suit purchaser.
To be sold at a very low price, or can be had on hire, with view to purchase by agreement. Will be found a great bargain. Apply to Jones and Co., Organ Builders, 25, Pentonville Road, Islington, N.ORGAN FOR SALE, containing 7 stops and pedals. Mahogany case; front pipes gilded. Price £30. A good bargain. For further particulars, F. Tarry, Organist, Yardley, Hastings, Northampton.ORGAN FOR SALE, to make room for a larger instrument. Two manuals and independent pedals, swell to tenor C, 15 stops, 4 couplers, pedal open diapason. In handsome case, with gilt front pipes. Price £125. Apply, Churchwardens, St.
Thomas's, Preston.CHAMBER ORGAN, two manuals, compass from CC to G, 10 stops, and independent pedal organ. General swell, foot and hand blower. Nearly new. Cheap. Apply to James Cole, Cornbrook Organ Works, Manchester.ORGAN.—Advertiser OFFERS ORGAN (8 stops, pedals) for £30 or Piano and £10. 170, Pentonville Road, N.TO ORGAN STUDENTS.—FOR SALE, a SET of PEDALS with action to attach to Piano, by the celebrated builder, Walker. Cost £12. Price, exclusive of carriage, £6. Also Pedal Harmonium. Two manuals; hand and foot blowers. £15.
T. F., 2, Linton Cottages, Wilmot Road, Leyton, Essex.ORGAN-HARMONIUM, £20. Fine organ tone, 2½ rows of reeds, bourdon on full compass, German pedals.
Manufactured for pedal practice by W. J. Robertson, 107, Tottenham Road, London, N. Lists with extracts of letters from organists.FOR SALE, a very fine SET of HANDEL'S WORKS, in full score (Arnold's Edition), in 37 volumes, half-bound calf. Price £10. Address, C., Novello, Ewer and Co.DEBAIN'S HARMONIUMS, ORGANO-PHONES, PIANOS, &c. &c. New lists are now ready, and will be forwarded, post-free, on receipt of card. Debain & Co., 357, Oxford Street, London, W.TO MUSICAL ANTIQUARIES.—To be SOLD,
a SPINET, made by Johannes Hitchcock, Londini, fecit 1676, and upon which Handel composed several pieces; late the property of Andrew George Lehmann, Leader of the Band to Frederick the Great,
King of Prussia. For price and particulars apply to Mrs. M. A.
Spencer, Bridge Street, Downham Market, Norfolk.TO PIANOFORTE DEALERS and OTHERS.—
About 200 NEW and SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES and HARMONIUMS for SALE. All kinds. Cheapest house in the trade.
H. T. Cassini, 319, Goswell Road, Islington, N.PIANOFORTE FOR SALE.—A 7 Octave, full-size, superior Drawing-room Grand, by Broadwood, in rosewood, elegantly carved. Very little used, nearly new. Under dampers.
Patent repetition action. Trichord throughout. Lowest cash price
£85; cost 175 guineas. C., 14, Victoria Road, Kentish Town, N.W.COLLARD & COLLARD'S 55 guinea 7 Octave
TRICHORD COTTAGE, quite equal to new, only 40 guineas cash, or 4 guineas quarterly on the three years' system. C. J. Fox, 34, Finchley Road, St. John's Wood, adjoining Marlborough Station.BROADWOOD'S 7 Octave 55 guinea WALNUT TRICHORD COTTAGE, only 35 guineas; Broadwood's Tri-chord Pianette, only 18 guineas. C. J. Fox, 34, Finchley Road, St.
John's Wood. Or on hire, 15s. and 10s. monthly. Atlas bus to door.TO ORGAN STUDENTS.—PIANETTE, Paris model, with full compass of pedals, CCC to F; the latter sound in 8ves, producing 16 and 8 feet tone. Price, with organ stool, £25.
H. F. Frost, 14, Tavistock Row, Covent Garden, W.C.ORGAN METAL PIPES, ORGAN PIPES.—
J. GILDERSLLEEVE is prepared to supply every description of Organ Pipes, voiced or unvoiced, on reasonable terms. Organ-Pipe
Works, 7, Exeter Street, Hawley Road, Kentish Town, London, N.W.FOR SALE, CHEAP, TWO FINE OLD VIOLON-CELLOS; also a FINE DOUBLE BASS. W. Browett, 45, Featherstone Street, City Road.SOLO VIOLIN and TENOR to be SOLD. Late the property of C. A. Seymour, Esq., of Manchester. Apply to C. F. Seymour, 27, Pyrland Road, Canonbury, London, N.HANDEL'S ORATORIOS.The following works by HANDEL have lately been added toNOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITIONBELSHAZZAR ESTHER
THEODORA ATHALIAH
SUSANNA HERCULES
ALEXANDER BALUS.All the above are published at 3s. each, in paper covers;
3s. 6d. paper boards; and 5s. cloth gilt.

NEARLY READY:

THE TRIUMPH OF TIME AND TRUTH

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

READY, OCTOBER 15.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS.

EDITED BY DR. STAINER.

THE ORGAN

BY

DR. STAINER.

One hundred and four large 4to pages.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SECOND EDITION, NOW READY, PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

THE

CATHEDRAL PSALTER CHANTS

EDITED BY

S. FLOOD JONES, M.A.,

Precentor of Westminster;

JAMES TURLE,

Organist of Westminster;

J. TROUTBECK, M.A.,

Minor Canon of Westminster;

J. STAINER, M.A., Mus. D.,

Organist of St. Paul's;

AND

JOSEPH BARNBY,

Precentor of Eton.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE

CATHEDRAL PSALTER,

POINTED FOR CHANTING.

PUBLISHED WITH THE SANCTION OF

THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF ST. PAUL'S

AND

THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF WESTMINSTER.

Imperial 32mo, cloth	s. d.
...	0 9
Ditto, with Proper Psalms, cloth	1 0
Demy octavo, large type, with Proper Psalms, cloth ...	2 6
Proper Psalms separately. Paper covers. 32mo ...	0 3
Canticles. 32mo	0 1
Do. 8vo	0 3

All Editions contain the Canticles, and Special Hymns for use on certain days instead of the Venite.

The Clergy can be supplied with copies, in quantities of not less than 25, on liberal terms.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published, price 2s. 6d.

MUSIC IN THE HOUSE,

BY JOHN HULLAH,

Being Vol. III. of the "ART AT HOME SERIES." With illustrations.

Crown 8vo.

MACMILLAN and Co., London.

New and Important Work for the Competitive Musical Examinations, &c.

Just published, in crown 8vo, cloth, price 6s.

THE STUDENT'S TEXT-BOOK

OF THE

SCIENCE OF MUSIC

For Use in Schools and Colleges, and for purposes of self-instruction.

By JOHN TAYLOR, Author of "Manual of Vocal Music," &c. &c.

London: George Philip and Son, 32, Fleet Street; and 49 and 51, South Castle Street, Liverpool.

Fifth Edition, revised, fcap. 8vo, 5s.

TEXTBOOK OF MUSIC

BY HENRY C. BANNISTER,

PROFESSOR OF HARMONY AND COMPOSITION AT THE ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

This Manual contains Chapters on Notation, Harmony, and Counterpoint; Modulation, Rhythm, Canon, Fugue, Voices, and Instruments; together with Exercises on Harmony, an Appendix of Examination Papers, and a copious Index and Glossary of Musical Terms.

London: GEORGE BELL and SONS, York Street, Covent Garden.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

(PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH)

Price Threepence.

Annual subscription, including postage, 4s.

Subscriptions will also be received by all Book and Music Sellers (not including postage), 3s.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	2	3
For every additional Line	0	0	9
Half a Column	1	15	0
A Column	3	5	0
A Page	6	6	0

A discount of 10 per cent is allowed for twelve consecutive insertions. It is respectfully requested that a remittance be sent with all Advertisements.

Advertisements for the November number should reach the Office not later than October 25. Those received after this date cannot be guaranteed insertion in their proper places, but will appear among the late Advertisements.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

IN THE

UNITED STATES, CANADA, AND AUSTRALIA.

THE Musical Times can be sent direct by post to the UNITED STATES, CANADA, and AUSTRALIA at the ordinary subscription rate, viz. Four shillings per annum.

Post-office orders should be made payable to
NOVELLO & CO., 1, BERNERS STREET, W.

MOZART, BIOGRAPHY AND CORRESPONDENCE.

On October 12, with Portraits of Mozart and his Sister, in 2 vols., crown 8vo, price 21s. cloth.

THE LIFE OF MOZART. Translated from the German Work of Dr. LUDWIG NOHL by Lady WALLACE.
London: LONGMANS and Co.

VOLUNTARIES FOR THE ORGAN

Arranged from the works of Eminent Composers by

SIR JOHN GOSS.

Cloth, 3s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ORGANIST'S COMPANION,

A COLLECTION OF VOLUNTARIES,

Selected and arranged by

SIR JOHN GOSS,

Composer to Her Majesty's Chapels Royal and Organist (Retired) of St. Paul's Cathedral.

In Four Volumes, cloth, 5s. each; or 24 Numbers, 1s. each.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THREE PIECES FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

NIELS W. GADE.

Op. 22.

Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.

WAGNER'S

OPERA

THE FLYING DUTCHMAN

Paper covers, 3s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 5s.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

OCTOBER 1, 1877.

THE GREAT COMPOSERS, SKETCHED BY THEMSELVES.

BY JOSEPH BENNETT.

No. II.—WEBER.

It is to be regretted that Herr Ludwig Nohl's collection of Weber's letters contains but a few out of the many worthy of publication which the composer of "Der Freischütz" must have written. The reasons for this are, however, not difficult to imagine. In the biography of his illustrious father, written by Baron Max von Weber, no more than sparing use is made of the voluminous correspondence available, and the insertion of which would so materially have augmented the value and importance of the work. It may be assumed therefore that the representatives of the composer feel some delicacy about giving the bulk of his letters to the world at a time when many persons are living to whom perhaps reference is made. But those which have seen the light are far from valueless. Indeed, it may be questioned whether any still unpublished are of greater interest than the series addressed to Gänsbacher. The friendship between Weber and his fellow-student was of that peculiarly sentimental sort in which the German nature is prone to indulge. Gänsbacher was the dear brother of the master's heart, and into his ear he poured all his thoughts and feelings with an unreservedness and confidence more suggestive of the bond between man and woman than between man and man. In the Gänsbacher letters therefore Weber lays himself open to us. Never thinking that his words would be printed for all to read, the composer had no inducement to be other than perfectly honest and unaffected. He showed himself to his friend as that friend knew him to be, and it is our privilege now to look on at the revelation, and to gather therefrom all the lessons of which it is capable.

The correspondence published by Herr Nohl begins in 1810, while Weber was still with his master, "Papa" Vogler, and at a time when he entered upon the most feverishly active years of his life. It is easy to divine from the earlier epistles the impressionable and somewhat desponding nature of the man. Thus, for example, he is always imagining himself the victim of specially adverse circumstances. Referring to a professional visit to Baden, he says, "I delivered Nägeli's letter to the Crown Prince of Bavaria, by whom I was graciously received; I fixed the probable date of my concert, and anxiously awaited the arrival of Berger, and the music that Archer was to send, for an orchestra was out of the question; so I was obliged to do my best with the slender means at my command. But neither music nor Berger arrived, and, to complete my annoyance, neither in Baden nor its environs could I find a piano that it was possible to play on. I was told of one in Rastadt; so I went off there, and arrived just as the owner of the instrument had left the place. Meanwhile time passed, Princess Stephanie went on a journey, the Crown Prince talked of leaving; so I became provoked and gave it up altogether. I recognised in all this my evil genius, which had too long allowed things to go on pleasantly not to play me some vile prank on this occasion." On Weber's own showing he was persistently dogged by this evil genius; for which, indeed, he seems to have been always on the look out and always ready to make the most of having discovered signs of its existence. He was, he said to Gänsbacher, "the ball of Fate, who rolls me about the world according to her will and pleasure." But, to tell the truth, the master was very often unfortunate in these, his struggling years. Here is an instance related by himself: "I long delayed the concert I intended to give at Frankfort, waiting till the colder season set in, when at last a favourable time arrived; my acquaintances, and also the circumstance that no concert had been given there for a very long period, all seemed to promise me good receipts on the 22nd. Therefore I drove off from Darmstadt to Frankfort; but imagine my horror when the French entered the town at the same moment with myself, and confiscated all English wares and groceries in the town for their own use. The alarm and universal lamentations were so great that it was utterly useless to think of giving a concert." In the same letter Weber dwells ruefully upon another disappointment: "Princess Stephanie . . . took such a fancy to me that she proposed on the spot that I should remain at Mannheim. Every one congratulated me, and seemed delighted to keep me with them. . . . The affair was now daily spoken of, the Oberhofmeisterin of the Princess arranged the whole, and I was offered at once 1,000 florins, lodging, and firewood, and the thing was considered settled, when one day (after I had been repeatedly with the Duchess, playing and singing), the Oberhofmeisterin informed me that the Princess had spoken to her treasurer, and she regretted much that the state of her finances would not admit of engaging me at present. I was not told this till after I had been paraded about for a fortnight, having lost much precious time, and not even received a present." A third example of fortune's "cursed spite" will suffice to indicate the character of many others. Having given a successful concert at Carlsruhe, Weber went to Mannheim (December 1811), and was there "besieged" to give another. "I requested the co-operation of the musicians, which they all promised. I advertised the concert, had a capital subscription, and every prospect of first-rate receipts, when the orchestra all of a sudden changed their minds (owing to a cabal of Herr Ritter), and informed me in writing that, so long as their own concerts were going on, they had a law which prohibited their assisting strangers. I did not let the matter rest, but inserted in the papers a delicate hint that the gentlemen in question had broken their promise, which caused a great sensation. But what good did that do me? I was cheated of good profits." It may be said that awkward events like these happen to all, no matter in what sphere of life. That is true enough, but their special significance as regards Weber lay in the effect they had upon his sensitive organisation—an effect indicated by the frequency and length with which he dwells upon them. How much he felt such ordinary worries of the artist-life appears in a letter addressed to Gänsbacher from Würzburg (1811). After referring to a proposed tour, he says, "God knows how it may turn out. I am often obliged to call reason to the rescue, to prevent my becoming careless and morose; for can anything be more wretched than to run about from one stranger to another, and to play by snatches to each in turn, just to show one can do something, and, out of thirty, scarcely to light upon one who feels either sympathy or zeal in your cause?" In the light of extracts such as these it is possible to understand the remarkable paper now in the Imperial Library of Vienna, purporting to be a "Reverie," though it should be called a Rhapsody, written by Weber at 11 o'clock p.m., January 18, 1811. The sensitive artist-nature does strange things sometimes, and none more strange than with the pen at those moments of extreme exaltation or depression to which it is subject. Readers of Beethoven's biography will have in mind the extravagant outburst of feeling he more than once left on record; nor can the equally extravagant entries in the existing fragment of Schubert's diary be forgotten. Weber's Reverie might well go to keep these company. It begins, "Escaped from the social circle, I take refuge in my quiet retired chamber, the solitude of which acts with soothing influence on my feelings, and at least enables me to cast aside self-imposed restraint, and to exclude the world from my inmost thoughts. Weighed down by struggling against adverse circumstances, I have attained so much apparent calmness that few under my cheerful, nay, even gay, exterior are likely to discover the grief that consumes me, oppressing and irritating both body and soul." Weber then goes on to ask whether unfavourable circumstances and conditions have alone given birth to great men. If so, his destiny, he thinks, ought to be great indeed, for "never could any poor mortal boast of circumstances more adverse and oppressive, or more unpropitious to all talent," than himself. From this general indictment against fate he goes on to particulars. From the hour of his birth the path of his life was rough and thorny. No gay frolicsome childhood for him, and no glad uncontrolled youth. Even love was denied him, for he says, "all those by whom I foolishly fancied I was beloved were only trifling with me from the most pitiful motives." So, as in Hamlet's case, man delighted him not, nor woman either. He exclaims, in fact, "I adore woman, and yet I hate and despise her." From this the poor morbid master goes on to complain that even other love was almost wholly denied him. "I never knew the tender ties of fraternal affection; my mother died early, my father cherished me but too fondly, and in spite of all the love and esteem I bear him this deprived him of my confidence, for I often felt how weak he was towards me, and love of this kind is seldom forgiven. I thought I had found friends. The familiarity of daily intercourse had linked them to me; we parted, and I—was forgotten. I threw myself into the arms of art, worshipped great artists with idolatry, and, at length, after attaining the intimacy I sought, found them, with all their god-like qualities, nearly on as low a level as myself." But even art itself was his enemy. Apostrophising it, the master exclaims, "And yet thou, my sole resource, my all, thou canst stand in hostility before me, and while I passionately embrace thee, though conscious of my nothingness, thou, even thou, canst strike me to the earth at thy feet. The overwhelming force of events—the Hercules' garment of humanity—it is ye who estrange me from my beloved art and from God. While yielding to your power I destroy myself; while I laugh I perish, and in a bon mot I pronounce my own death-sentence." Summing up the whole matter, he says, "Misery is the lot of man; never attaining to perfection, always discontented, at war with himself, he is yearning personified; unstable, yet ever moving on, devoid of strength, volition, or repose, the fleeting impressions on his mind vanishing as soon as made, of which even these utterances from the depths of my heart are proofs." It may be said that this jeremiad was caused by some temporary depression arising from indigestion perhaps, or a sluggish liver, or a love "tiff." But, even so, it is a revelation of the nature of the man, and one, within its scope, almost complete to those who have eyes to see. Where there is smoke there must be fire, and the Reverie joins with a hundred other evidences of the same sort to prove the sensitiveness, the tendency to melancholy, and the readiness to be cast down which haunted Weber through life.

But it must not be supposed that Weber indulged his despondency, as Schubert did, by letting the world run by him and taking no steps to attract its attention. On the contrary, while grumbling at events like an Englishman, he never ceased his efforts to control them, some of the means adopted to that end being uncommonly astute. It is well known that he, anticipating Schumann, not only wrote music but wrote about it, and it was perfectly natural that even a casual journalist should recognise the importance of having the press on his side. Hence his letters to Gänsbacher contain frequent reference to measures having that end in view. Here are a few extracts: "If you find anything about it [Silvana]" in the Morgenblatt, pray see that an extract from it is inserted in one of your papers." "If the Vienna papers contain a notice of you, send it here at once, that the Alliance may circulate it." "Do try to get us some good correspondents in Vienna, for Weber [Gottfried] and I will probably publish a musical paper, of which you shall have the prospectus in my next letter, and you must endeavour to procure subscribers for us. Above all write regularly about every novelty, and the various concerts, operas, &c., in Vienna, that we may furnish the information in our paper. Strive to acquire some influence with any important journal in Vienna; for instance, the one that Schlegel edits. These are all positive duties." "It is in one sense disagreeable that there is no Austrian newspaper in which you can be employed, but on the other hand not so, as then our fame will come to us from other countries. Let me know at once what are the most popular and independent papers in Vienna." "I devolve on you the duty of establishing a connection with some popular paper in Vienna, which is necessary, as we have as yet obtained no influence there." "I intend to leave this to-morrow for Auran, where I mean to engage in our interests a very popular paper, Miscellany of the Latest News." "You will see from the accompanying newspaper the result of my concert here; I beg you will insert an extract from it in the Prague journals. A certain Herr C. R. André edits a weekly paper in Prague, the Hesperus—apply to him also." "The editors of newspapers now sprawl at my feet, and I hope that, in spite of my short stay here, much has been done to make me known in Austria." These extracts might be continued, but enough have been given to show that Weber was by no means deficient in keenness of perception and adroitness of action with a view to his own interests. But the most remarkable proof appears in the scheme of a Composers' Trades Union—it was styled "Harmonic Union"—of which he, Weber, was the presiding spirit. A document setting forth the object and machinery of this society still exists. Thus it begins: "The perpetual one-sided verdicts and party-feeling connected with art, the work of men bribed by publishers to praise everything they publish, and the difficulty of procuring for what is truly good (unless a great name is attached to it) distinction and a place in the world, have induced Carl Maria von Weber, Gottfried Weber, and Alexander von Dusch, to form an Harmonic Society, which, by mutual and energetic support, may act and work for the benefit of art." What the three gentlemen really meant was no doubt the benefit of themselves, since every musician holds the interests of art to be identical with his own. Now let us see how this crusade against injustice and corruption was to be carried on. In the first place, by secret action. Rule 1 lays down that "the strictest secrecy as to the existence of the union is a duty which springs from the very nature of the case. All its good effects would be rendered null and void were it to be made known, for the public would scarcely give credit to such a union for impartiality and truth." Exactly; the wisdom of this can no more be denied than its shrewd perception of facts. The rules go on to enact that "members of the union must be composers, or men who, without being composers, combine knowledge of music with literary talent, and, by their poems and other literary works, are useful to the science of music." The brothers must be chosen with extreme caution, and the proposed initiate is not before his election to know even that such a society exists. The whole body is to work together for mutual support. Good works are to be praised, bad ones, censured. Every member is expected to submit his publications to the director, who will tell off other brothers to review it. As to this, Rule 16 says, "The circulation and due praise of the works of the brothers will form an agreeable duty." But "if one of the brothers should compose something really bad, the director must tell him so candidly, and persuade him to take back his composition. If the author objects to the verdict of the director, the latter must then appeal to the judgment of two brothers; and if one of the two concurs with the director, and advises the composer to withdraw his work, and yet the latter still objects to do so, then Rule 15 is to be put in force against him." And Rule 15 decrees that it is a duty to warn the public against bad productions wherever they may be found. How far the working of this secret association satisfied its founders does not appear, but there are frequent references to it in Weber's letters; and in one place he speaks of the institution as going on swimmingly. As the members got older, however, they no doubt saw the hopelessness of the task they had set themselves. At any rate, the master, in his later epistles, is altogether silent on the subject; while we know that not long after the society was started Gottfried Weber devoted himself to law at Mayence, and treated his namesake in a decidedly non-fraternal manner. One of Carl Maria's letters contains a complaint of this: "Yearning once more to see at least one member of our triad, I hastened to Gottfried in Mayence. This was, however, the saddest moment of my journey, for I met him with all the old heartfelt love, and—he was no longer the same. I do not wish, however, to be unjust, having arrived at an unfavourable moment, when he had daily criminal cases, had just changed his quarters, &c.; and perhaps such was the origin of his no longer taking any interest except in his own affairs. He is also become rather dogmatical and dictatorial. In short, it caused me the utmost sorrow. I had so rejoiced in the thoughts of seeing him; indeed, this was the chief object of my journey. Well, all joys cannot be realised."

The extract just made directs attention to another trait in Weber's character, and one which his letters, as a whole, place in a very conspicuous light. I refer to his thorough affectionateness, and the warm sympathies, which, while they made him crave, so to speak, the love of others, compelled him to love in return with a depth and intensity out of the common.

It would be easy to bring forward here the touching quotations from Weber's letters to his wife, which are given in his biography. But while none can refuse a generous appreciation of the fondness these display, of the delight in home and family with which every sentence is instinct, it may be said that most men love a good wife. The Gänsbacher letters are, from this point of view, better testimony to the fidelity and strength of Weber's friendship. They show, indeed, a beautiful affection extending with undiminished force over years of time, and distinguished by a devotion that has in it something of romance. On one occasion he writes, "Your letter was true balsam to me, and I eagerly drank in the heartfelt love that shone forth in it. . . . Yes, dear brother, we do indeed stand alone; let us heartily clasp hands and form an enduring bond." In another place: "Your loving confidence touches me to the heart. Yes, by heaven! you are not mistaken in me, and the breast which has already withstood so many conflicts will gladly also bear the sorrows of a friend." Again he writes to his "most beloved and dear old Hans," "Scold, rage, abuse me, call me a dog, what you will, only spare one thing: do not think that I could even for a moment cease to be devoted to you with the heartfelt love of old, for that can only end with my life." The letter which begins thus ends in like manner: "O brother, I cannot realise all my delight in once more being able to have a right good talk with you. I press you warmly to my heart in thought, and stretch out a brother's hand to you from afar, until fate once more reunites you with your ever-loving and unchangeable brother." At one time Gänsbacher, who had been acting as chapel-master to some noble patron, held a commission in a Tyrolean regiment, but soon wearied of military life, and consulted Weber as to his next step. The master's faithful friendship shines in every line of his reply: "Poor fellow, so your present life no longer contents you! That I can well believe, but tell me any one thing that has not as many drawbacks. Is not an artist the most oppressed and persecuted of human beings? What do you mean to do? Earn a livelihood by your compositions, or become an artistic beast of burden and daily turn the mill-wheel of children's training and give lessons? In the former case, what with the bad payment of publishers, and your not choosing to write for them by the ell at random, you would fare badly enough; and in the latter you would be seized with the same disgust you now feel, and be more dissatisfied than ever." But, after this and more plain-speaking, all the tenderness of the man wells up and overflows: "Whatever you turn to or engage in, you well know that your faithful brother's hand and heart are equally at your service, and that to his latest breath he will stand by you and beside you." How zealously and constantly Weber worked to promote the interests of his friend by "pushing" his music there are scores of passages in the letters to show. But these I pass to note how, when the composer had settled at Dresden, he tried to find an opening for Gänsbacher also. Writing from the Saxon capital, he says, "Would that I could have the happiness of procuring for you a quiet little place in our Capelle as church composer. But so many lie in ambush for it, and the gentlemen whose names end in ini and elli know so well how to put every iron in the fire, and to take steps so long before, that my wish will probably only remain among the pia desideria." But it came very near being gratified. Herr Schubert, the actual church composer, fell ill, and Weber feared that his days were drawing to an end. He wrote therefore to Gäns-bächer, "I cannot renounce the plan, so essential to my happiness, of your living with me. If God would only grant me that joy, I should be at the height of my felicity." But the dear friend was not to be sanguine: "At a court like this innumerable people are on the watch for such a post, and they do not scruple to use any means. Go on therefore quietly with your Innsbruck affairs, and do not throw away any other chance. . . . You must always be prepared for many things and many annoyances which would never occur to the mind of a straightforward Tyrolese who has lived far from courts. But the man who steadily goes on his way animated by pure zeal will find himself respected here as elsewhere, and content. Besides in me you have a friend who knows the depth of the stream and who will be your faithful pilot." Shortly afterwards Weber exultingly wrote, "Now, thanks be to God and to my excellent chief, I have the intense joy of procuring for my King a faithful servant and admirable artist, an ornament to our artistic establishment; for you an honourable sphere of work; and for myself an attached comrade in joy and sorrow. I congratulate both you and ourselves from the depths of my heart, and rejoice unspeakably in the hope of soon embracing you." With this letter went 200 gulden to pay the expenses of Gänsbacher's journey, &c. But the union was, after all, not to take place; the Capellmeistership of St. Stephen's, Vienna, fell vacant, and Gänsbacher succeeded in obtaining the appointment, whereupon his faithful Weber wrote, "Beloved brother and colleague, in haven at last! God be praised, who in the end does all things well. My most heartfelt good wishes attend you and your beloved wife. You have everything that can contribute to the happiness of life: an existence free from care, a sphere for work; a faithful, prudent wife by your side, and loving friends; now do not fail to prize all these blessings and to enjoy them with gladness of heart. This is the greatest boon that I can wish for you and yours; for though God has bestowed so many rich bounties upon me beyond what most enjoy, I do not possess a cheerful spirit to elevate these gifts to pure earthly felicity, and therefore I best know that, without such a boon from the Almighty, you may persuade yourself by force of reason to be happy, but—the heart feels there is something wanting." With this my notice of the pure and touching friendship of Weber for Gänsbacher may well end. As to the light that it reflects upon the master not another word need be said.

Did space permit, Weber's letters might be quoted to show his modesty, conspicuously lacking as they are in self-glorification, his pious thankfulness for worldly benefits, and the earnestness with which he pursued his art. But the extracts I have made suffice to throw a flood of light upon a nature which, when properly studied, seems in marvellous accord with the music Weber's genius produced. Noting the master's keenness of sympathy, the energy of his spirit, and the romanticism of his friendship, the mingled spirituality and power of his artistic creations seem the most natural thing in the world.

DUSSEK'S PIANOFORTE SONATAS.

By EBENEZER PROUT, B.A.

(Concluded from page 424.)

THE Sonata in E flat, Op. 44 (commonly known as "Les Adieux"), is the longest of the whole series, containing four movements, and an Introduction, in E flat minor, to the first Allegro. Of the thirty-two Sonatas included in Breitkopf's edition there are only three which contain a Minuet and Trio—the present work, the "Retour à Paris" (Op. 70), and "L'Invocation" (Op. 77). In this respect Dussek resembles Mozart, who in all his pianoforte works shows a decided preference for the three-movement over the four-movement form. It was left to Beethoven to assert the true importance of the Minuet, which he developed into the Scherzo; but it is somewhat strange that Mozart and Dussek, and it may be added Clementi also, should, comparatively speaking, neglect this form, which had been so frequently and so charmingly employed by Haydn. In the Introduction to the present Sonata we meet with the organist Dussek again, the sustained harmonies and suspensions which abound in the music being quite appropriate to the "king of instruments." The succeeding Allegro, in E flat major, $\frac{3}{4}$ time, is one of its author's best movements; both the principal subjects are of great beauty, and the developments of the middle portion are of unusual interest. The Molto adagio e sostenuto, in B major, has much affinity of style with the better-known slow movement of the "Retour à Paris" ("Plus Ultra"). Though very beautiful, it suffers somewhat from diffuseness—a rare fault with the composer. The Minuet, in G sharp minor, with a Trio in its enharmonic key of A flat, is so good, especially the Trio, as to increase our surprise that Dussek should have written so few movements in this form. A very graceful, though rather long, Rondo forms a worthy conclusion to this admirable Sonata, which must rank as among the very best of its author's works. It is too difficult for any but very advanced pupils, and is indeed best suited for concert purposes. It has been played once, I believe, by Madame Goddard, at the Monday Popular Concerts, and would certainly be heard there again with pleasure.

Of the three Sonatas, Op. 45, the first and second (in B flat and G major) are gems of the first water. That in B flat is especially enjoyable. It is much less difficult than the Sonatas last noticed, being well within the reach of fair amateur players. What chiefly distinguishes it is its essentially melodious character. The Allegro cantabile is worthy of its name, being nearly throughout one long song; and the Adagio patetico is also in its composer's best manner. Both, however, are surpassed by the sparkling Rondo entitled "Allegro di Ballo." Speaking from an intimate acquaintance of many years with all these Sonatas, I am inclined to call the present movement the most perfect specimen of the Rondo which Dussek has left. It is impossible on paper to give any idea of the indescribable charm, or of the irresistible "go" of the music; I can only recommend all pianists to make its acquaintance. The second Sonata, though less striking than the first, is also a work of true inspiration. It is somewhat unusual in its form, as it commences with an Introduction, almost long enough to be called a slow movement, and of too much importance in its subjects to be considered a mere Prelude. To this succeeds an Allegro, the principal theme of which is in two parts only, and written in double counterpoint. This movement is more scientific, in form and treatment, than any other in the Sonatas, the nearest approach to it in this respect being the Allegro of the Sonata, Op. 35, No. 2. In spite of the strictness of its imitations in many parts, the composer's vein of melody never seems to fail; the music is throughout as tuneful as if it made not the slightest pretension to science. The Finale of this work is a Rondo in slow time, andantino con moto, the subjects and treatment of which are alike fresh and original. One is so accustomed to associate the idea of a Rondo with a rapid movement that an effect of great novelty is produced by the present piece, which is moreover totally unlike any other movement in all the Sonatas. The third Sonata, in D major, may be recommended as an excellent and brilliant teaching piece; but, though pleasing, it is not equal to the first and second numbers of this set, nor is it needful to dwell upon it.

The two Sonatas, Op. 47, may also be very briefly dismissed. They are both rather easy, and useful for pupils, but neither will rank among Dussek's finest works. Of the two, the second, in G, with a charming Rondo in $\frac{6}{8}$ time, is the better.

There are few things more unsatisfactory than the attempt to convey in words the impression produced by music. One is almost driven to use such common-places as "very graceful," "very beautiful," "characteristic of the composer," &c.; and after all the feeling remains that, by those who do not know the work described, only the most indistinct idea on the subject can be gained. I fear I have more than once laid myself open to the charge of this kind of generalisation; my apology must be that it has been my aim rather to call the attention of the readers of this journal to Dussek's beautiful but almost forgotten works than to attempt any description or analysis of them. I must ask the indulgence of my readers if I am compelled to offend in the same way again in the present article. The only way to avoid it would be to give copious extracts from the Sonatas, and to do this would require far more space than is available in these columns.

In Dussek's latest Sonatas, now to be noticed, may be observed a development of the technique of the piano as compared with his earlier works. The form and the melodic style are but very little, if at all changed; but the passages are frequently different from those which have been met with previously. It is not so much that they are more brilliant as that they are otherwise brilliant. In the earlier Sonatas the passages are mostly founded upon the scale or on broken chords; in those which we are now approaching will be found new and bolder dispositions of the arpeggios, which frequently embrace a tenth, and a much freer use of passing notes and appoggiaturas. When this change took place cannot be said with certainty. If, as is probable, the opus-numbers of Dussek's works correspond with the order of their production, a considerable interval must have elapsed between the Sonatas last noticed (Op. 47) and the "Élégie harmonique sur la mort du prince Louis-Ferdinand" (Op. 61), which is the next in order—how long it is difficult to tell, for none of the musical dictionaries give any dates for Dussek's compositions, and it is only indirectly that a few can be approximately fixed. For example, it is known that Prince Louis-Ferdinand was killed at the battle of Saalfeld in October 1806, and we cannot therefore be far wrong in assigning the "Elegy" to the end of that year or the beginning of the next. Again, Fétis tells us that Dussek returned to Paris in 1808; we may therefore safely infer from its title that the Sonata "La Retour à Paris" was composed about that time.

To return, however, to the "Élégie harmonique" (Op. 61). The Sonata opens with a long Introduction, lento patetico, which is not only very beautiful, but interesting from the employment of what, though in strict time, are really passages of recitative for the piano. The style of this Introduction is alternately plaintive and declamatory, and the modulations are of remarkable boldness. A curious and suggestive direction is given at the beginning of the piece, "senza ornamenti." From the composer's thinking such a caution necessary, one is led to infer that it was the habit of performers to embellish the music as they thought fit. It is traditionally known that Mozart did not play his own music as it is written, but introduced such ornaments as suggested themselves to him at the moment. Was this the custom of the time, and, if so, may it not be an explanation of the discrepancy of different editions, referred to in my first article in speaking of Dussek's Op. 39? To the Introduction of this work succeeds a Tempo agitato non presto, the two chief themes of which are in the strongest possible contrast. The first is full of passion and restlessness, the second very sustained and stately; it is as though there were a sudden lull in the storm of grief. It is, however of but short duration; a new figure, even more agitated than the first, appears, and a very beautiful and pathetic melody in C sharp minor leads to the close of the first part. The second half of the movement, which is by no means regular in its form, is constructed almost entirely of material previously heard. To this Allegro succeeds a Finale, tempo vivace e con fuoco quasi presto, the present being the last example of the two-movement Sonata which will be met with. This Finale is remarkable as a probably unique instance of a figure of syncopation carried incessantly through a movement of eight pages. Now in the treble and then in the bass, this constant displacement of the accent pursues us till within five bars of the end; but so great is the variety, both of melody and harmony, that no feeling of monotony is produced. A charming episode in the major relieves the agitated character of the music somewhat, though even here the persistence of the syncopation gives no absolute repose. It is difficult to see why, as the key of the Finale is F sharp minor, Dussek should have written this episode in G flat (instead of F sharp) major, unless it was to avoid double-sharps; and this hardly seems a sufficient explanation, as they are found in abundance in other parts of the movement. Though not one of the most popular in style, the present Sonata must undoubtedly be reckoned among its composer's best works.

The next Sonata in the volume (in D major) bears in Breitkopf's edition the simple opus-number, "Op. 69." It is more accurately, Op. 69, No. 3. In this set of three Sonatas Dussek has, rather singularly, grouped together two works for piano and violin and one for piano solo. The first of the set is the Sonata in B flat, so well known to amateurs from its frequent performance at the Monday Popular Concerts; with the second, in G major, I am unacquainted; the third, in D, is indisputably one of its author's most charming compositions. Dussek must have been in one of his happiest veins when he wrote the work; nowhere throughout the whole series do we find a more lovely flow of melody or more graceful passage-writing than in the first Allegro. The second subject and its continuations are especially beautiful. The developments of the "free fantasia" are unimportant, and mostly founded upon one single figure taken from the first page of the work. The slow movement of this work (larghetto espressivo) is short and unpretending; it is in fact a simple little Romance, in which everything depends upon the player, and which requires a singing and sympathetic touch to bring out its beauties. The Finale, "à la chasse" is an exceedingly brilliant movement, which will be most appropriately characterised as "jolly." No other word will so exactly express its effect. It is extremely melodious, and full of the most delightful passages for the player. There is not one of Dussek's Sonatas which is more thoroughly enjoyable than this, which, while important enough for concert use (I believe Mr. Charles Hallé played it some years since at one of his Recitals), is at the same time not too difficult for fairly advanced pupils. I have often taught it myself, and have always found it an especial favourite.

"Le Retour à Paris," in A flat, Op. 70 (usually called in this country "Plus Ultra") is so well known to musicians here that, as this paper has already far exceeded its intended limits, I shall pass very hastily over it. To this Sonata more than to any other, unless it be "L'Invocation," apply the remarks made above as to the technical development observable in Dussek's later works. Many of the passages are quite in Hummel's style, while one (page 6, first line, B. and H. edition) is remarkably like Weber. Next to Op. 44, this Sonata is the longest of all its composer's; its beauties are so well known that it is needless to enlarge further upon them.

Far otherwise is it with the next work, the Sonata in E flat, Op. 75, which is one of the most unjustly neglected of the whole series. Though decidedly less difficult, it is hardly less brilliant than "Le Retour à Paris," and in the charm of its melodies it is almost more beautiful. The passage-writing in the first Allegro is very new and elegant; the slow movement has some slight resemblance in character to the author's well-known Andante "La Consolation," to which, however, it is superior; and the final Rondo is one of the most perfect that Dussek has left us. Madame Goddard introduced this beautiful work once at the Monday Popular Concerts; it is much to be regretted that hardly any one seems to think it worth while to imitate her example.

The Sonata "L'Invocation," in F minor, Op. 77, appears to have been Dussek's last work; at all events no "Op. 78" exists. It is a worthy companion to the two last noticed. I have been unable to meet with any explanation of the title; can any of my readers supply the information? The first Allegro of this Sonata is distinguished by the dignified grace of its melodies, and by the brilliance of its passage-writing, in which it approaches very near to Op. 70. The second movement is a Minuet and Trio, of which the former is written in canon throughout. It is marked "canone alla seconda," but, though indicated "seconda grave," it is not really in the second below, as might be inferred, but in the seventh below, which of course is the inversion of the second. Towards the close we find the actual canon in the second above. The use of this form was a favourite with Clementi, in whose Sonatas many specimens are to be found; Dussek's canon seems to flow more naturally, and to have less pedantic stiffness about it than is frequently the case in those of his great contemporary. The Trio of this movement is in charming contrast with the Minuet; here science is abandoned and melody resumes her sway. The following Adagio non troppo ma solenne, in D flat, is one of our composer's most beautiful slow movements; and the final Rondo is in no way inferior to the rest of the work.

At the end of the series of Sonatas is printed one called "La Chasse." It is not really a Sonata, but only an Allegro in $\frac{3}{4}$ time, preceded by seven bars of introduction. It is very pretty, but in no way great, nor does it require more than a word of mention for the sake of completeness.

It is the fashion with some musicians of the present day to depreciate Dussek, and to speak of his music as old-fashioned and dull. To a very limited extent the truth of the former epithet may be admitted as regards some of his works. Many of the passages which he invented have been so frequently used and imitated since that they no longer possess the charm of absolute novelty; but in his best works even the passage-writing cannot at this day be called antiquated. And as to the charge of dullness, I am almost inclined to call it an outrage upon common sense. Trivial at times, nay, even commonplace, Dussek may be; but he certainly is never dull. If ever a man possessed an unfailing fountain of melody, that man was Dussek. Even in his least important and interesting Sonatas, the tune flows on continually, sometimes in a jog-trot sort of way, it is true, but it never stops. We never feel, as we do sometimes with Clementi, that the man has got to the end of his ideas, and is forced to eke out invention with science. It is probable that those who speak disparagingly of Dussek have so accustomed their musical palates to the highly spiced viands of Liszt and the school of "higher development" as to have lost their taste for simple and natural food. It is not risking much to predict that the best of Dussek's Sonatas will live as long as those of Mozart, with which in melodic charm they are quite on a par, while technically they are even more advanced. I trust that this article may do something towards calling the attention of musicians and of teachers to the writing of one who, though not a star of the first magnitude in the musical heavens, was nevertheless a man of real genius, and, within the comparatively limited range of pianoforte music to which he almost exclusively confined his attention, a true "tone-poet."

A SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF MUSIC-PRINTING, FROM THE FIFTEENTH TO THE NINETEENTH CENTURY

BY FRIEDRICH CHRYSANDER.

(Continued from page 378.)

SECOND PERIOD (continued).

BEFORE we advance further, the final words in the previous number, pages 377 and 378, require an explanation. The result of type-printing during the nearly 400 years of its existence, which is described there, is expressed far too briefly to be safe against all misunderstanding, or to be an accurate statement of the present usage of all countries. The words, "Of late years type-printing has been given up again, even for publications which have a large sale," and "it is now almost entirely confined to theoretical, historical, and instruction books on music," strictly describe only what is usual on the Continent. The obligation of an historical description is to pay especial attention to those countries which at the present time give the tone, and to regard their practice as that which is most sure of having a future before it. It should, indeed, have been added to the above words that music is still brought out by means of typography in a quantity perhaps greater than that issued from the combined presses of the engravers and lithographers. England and the United States, the dominions of the Anglo-Saxon tongue, are the countries where the leading musical firms bring out the majority of their publications by type-printing. A gentleman who is practically engaged in the business, and who brings great knowledge and interest to bear on everything connected with music-printing, declares his opinion that type-printing will be found the more suited to vocal music—the combination of music and speech—and engraving the best for instrumental. Although this view harmonises with what I remarked on page 377 on "the same system," which would come to be employed in printing letters of the alphabet and musical notes, still I think there is no need to draw so sharp a line in order to separate the two chief domains of music-printing. Indeed, on considering the question more closely, we find that these different methods of printing are employed quite peacefully side by side on the same field, that of vocal music. All new compositions which come out as independent opera of their author are engraved, whatever they may be, whether full scores or vocal scores, part-songs or single songs. The value of the single copy, from which the publisher has to determine the price, and the uncertainty of the sale of large quantities, recommend this course. But where the chief attention is given to the circulation of works whose copyright is extinct, and whose popularity will secure them a large sale, type-printing is the easiest and safest method. Countries which have only a scanty productiveness of new compositions of their own to set against what they reprint from foreign composers or old masters, yet have the widest possible field for the sale of their publications—like the United States—must naturally use typography by preference. In musical productiveness England of course stands on a very different level from the United States, yet here also the powers of production and of reproduction are at the present time by no means evenly balanced; the scale which favours type-printing being the heavier, musical typography finds a very advantageous field. Moreover, it is employed here with good reason, because England has for a considerable period surpassed all other countries in the refinement of taste shown in her style of letterpress, and is thereby enabled to give solidity and elegance of style to works of musical typography also. It is very different on the Continent, especially in Germany. Although type-printing is executed beautifully there, yet even cheap editions, which are undertaken solely with the view of an immense sale, are now produced by engraving and lithography rather than by typography, which in my opinion would be much better.

The discussion of these questions involves the chief points on the entire domain of music-printing, and I shall therefore recur to it at the end of this sketch. I now proceed to Tablature-printing.

THIRD PERIOD: TABLATURE.

It cannot be said that the ordinary conception of a labyrinth is that of a very clearly and simply planned erection, although it may appear so to those who have once found the clue to it, and they may be surprised to hear others complaining of difficulties, obscurity, and confusion. The case is similar with an ancient, and now quite obsolete, mode of notation and printing, the adherents of which in their day were so enamoured of it as the best possible system that the ultimate abandonment of it in the most influential musical circles turned them almost into misanthropes.

The word Tablature comes from the Latin tabula, "table," and had its origin in the circles of the organ and lute players of the fifteenth century. It is not found in any lexicon of Mediæval Latinity, not even in Tintor's "Diffinitorium" (i.e. definition of musical terms), printed at Naples in 1495. The player of keyed or stringed instruments of many tones compressed his compositions into the form of this kind of table, on a single page of paper or parchment, so that in playing he could survey all the parts at a glance. Externally therefore "tablature" signifies "table-notation." The real importance of the tablature lies in the possibility which it gives of delineating all compositions for instruments of many tones with the greatest brevity and clearness.

Recent writers on this subject usually assert that the tablature of those days was identical with what we now call "score," but this is incorrect. Intavolatura (the Italian word for "tablature") is, as late as the seventeenth century, clearly distinguished from partitura (score). Pieces of music were intavolati, when all the harmonic parts were crowded together on a single system of generally more than five lines, or on a small complication of lines, letters, and numbers, or of letters, numbers, and notes without lines; they were spartiti when the several parts were assigned to a corresponding number of lines, as has always been the case in scores.

The significance which the ancient tablature possessed in the history of musical art will be readily comprehended from this description. In the position of the notation of musical works at the end of the fifteenth century it was impossible, without great trouble and expenditure of space, to put on paper simple harmonic phrases by means of the ordinary notation. Those signs of notes were devised for the artistic contrapuntal music, in which each voice or part took its independent course; but in their then imperfect form were quite insufficient for players on the organ, lute, theorbo, and cembalo. The nature of these instruments demands a free and not strictly contrapuntal style of music; and accordingly the performance on them must be free—improvised as it were—and the notation is limited to short and general indications. These instruments have always been, and still are, the proper field for free improvisation, or for the "voluntary," as the old English term expressively names it. To provide the most fitting notation in the earliest age for the above mentioned keyed and stringed instruments of many tones was the object of the tablature; and it preserves therefore the organ, lute, and clavier music of the time. It must then be obvious that Tablature cannot be synonymous with score. It appears further that there are three kinds of tablature: for the organ, the lute, and the clavier. I shall treat the subject in these three divisions.

The specific mark and peculiarity of tablature is that it is a mixture of possible means of designating notes. It employs letters, numbers, some features of the ordinary musical notation, and other arbitrary signs as well. Letters have generally the precedence, and form the foundation, and numbers are the next in importance. But there are also tablatures without letters, in which the numbers occupy the first place. The ordinary musical notes always serve merely to help out the deficiencies of the other signs. This is the thread of Ariadne in the labyrinth which we see before us.

1. Organ-Tablature.

This is also called the German; and should properly be styled the Alphabetical Tablature. The Germans were distinguished from all other nations at the end of the Middle Ages by employing letters for the designation of musical notes. They thus acquired a musical alphabet for the notation of organ compositions, which greatly facilitated the practice of that instrument. But this was not the only advantage they gained. The alphabetical notation, far from being concocted from letters arbitrarily selected, was based on a musical foundation, on the most distinct figure known to music, the octave. It consequently employed only the seven letters already used by Guido of Arezzo, A B C D E F G, together with the intermediate tones, and by the application of these to the entire gamut formed a simple, short, and distinct system, which is undoubtedly more perfect than the Italian, adopted also in France and England, and based not on letters, but on the vocal syllables ut, re, mi, fa, sol, la, si. A force which in the end proves very great often starts from a very humble origin; and its importance remains long unrecognised. It is well known that the musical eminence of the Germans was first exhibited by organists and their scholars. Well, the formation of this alphabetical notation was the earliest act of those organ-schools, and prepared the ground for all their later achievements; and its ultimate importance far exceeds the use that was made of it for tablature during two centuries. I cannot here enter more deeply into this subject, although it deserves investigation; but must content myself with a brief account of some impressions of tablatures.

In 1512 was published at the press of Peter Schoeffer at Mainz a small book in oblong quarto, the only extant copy of which is possessed by the Leipzig City Library. It is entitled, "Tabulaturen etlicher lobgesang und liedlein uff die orgeln und lauten . . . von Arnolt Schlick." Arnold Schlick, of Heidelberg, was a noted master of the organ and lute, and this book of his contains the best instruction that the age had to offer. He was incited to print it by a book, full of faults, published a year before by a Swiss priest, named Sebastian Virdung, entitled "Musica getutscht" (Basle, 1511). In this work the instruction was as defective as the impression of the notes on wooden blocks. Music-printing with movable types was even then called "the true art of printing;" for Schlick says contemptuously of Virdung's book that it was not made by this true printer's art, but only by wooden plates, without rule or art, and without the possibility of correcting errors once admitted. Schlick's collection consists mainly of organ pieces, almost exclusively on sacred texts. As an example I give the beginning of page 37, on the hymn "Maria zart:"—

Maria zart.

Written in our notes according to their then value, this piece would appear as follows:—

For an explanation of the separate signs used in tablatures I must refer the reader to dictionaries and special treatises on the subject. We have here only to consider the general importance of that notation and the mode of printing it. In the second half of the sixteenth century several extensive collections of organ-tablatures were printed in Germany, the largest of which is one by Jacob Paix: "Ein schön nützlich und gebrauchlich Orgel-Tabulaturnbuch, darinn etlich der berühmtesten Componisten beste Motetten mit 12 bis 4 Stimmen auserlesen. . . . zuletzt auch allerhand der schönsten Lieder und Tänze," &c. (Augsburg, 1583, folio). But the larger portion was never printed at all. Till the end of the seventeenth century every scholar learned this tablature-notation for organ- and clavier-music, although long before that date it had become practically useless. Even music for single-toned instruments, and songs, were noted thus; but this was a manifest retrogression, to be accounted for by the one-sided prejudice of the Germans in favour of this mode of writing. It never made any way in other countries; and this fact may be regarded as a just indication of its value, in reference to the permanent usefulness of tablature for musical notation. The only element of the system which had a lasting value was the use of the alphabet in the arrangement of musical tones, on which it was based.

2. Lute-Tablature.

For this instrument, which was once very popular, and is called by Mace in his "Music's Monument" "the best of instruments," the notation was the most peculiar, and at the same time fully justified. Indeed, it seems as if tablature was invented on purpose for the lute. The notation in this case was determined solely by the construction of the instrument, and was accordingly mechanical rather than systematical.

This pictorial character imparted method to the arbitrary employment of letters, numbers, fragments of notes, and lines. It is as if we were to write pianoforte music by a representation of the keys themselves and an indication of the notes by means of numbers, chosen from the fingers that are to be used. With the lute this method was very natural, because in the fifteenth century it was very difficult to delineate music in several parts in any other way. The lute-player therefore gained two ends by this tablature, a notation for several simultaneous parts, and a pictorial guide to the use of his instrument. Thus it becomes intelligible how it was that no other notation was ever employed for the lute during the whole period of its existence; namely, from the fifteenth century to the middle of the eighteenth.

However, this mode of writing was not fixed at the very outset, but was developed by stages. We have to distinguish three kinds of lute-tablatures, German, Italian, and Mixed.

(a) Of the German Lute-Tablature we find the earliest printed examples—which are, however, not quite trustworthy—executed on blocks by Virdung in 1511, and the best of that age produced by Arnold Schlick a year later. Lute-music was printed in two different ways, according as it was used in connection with the voice or alone.

Here is an example of a song for one voice, with a lute accompaniment in two parts, from Schlick:—

Herzliebsteßes pild.

In modern notation it would read thus:—

Here the voice-part is written in the notation usual in most vocal compositions of the time, and printed on Petrucci's system. The notes which fell to the share of the lute and were "nipped" (gezwick) by the fingers, as Schlick expresses it, are quite different, as is obvious.

This is shown still more clearly in the following facsimile for the lute without the voice:—

All ding mit rath. Zwicklen mit dreien.*

There are here neither the five lines nor the figured notes with their time-value indicated, so that the very fundamental elements of the modern notation are absent. Nothing is left but fragments of notes, numbers, strokes, and other signs. The use of letters of the alphabet is characteristic of the German lute-notation.

(b) The Italian Lute-Tablature was more perfect than the German. Petrucci published four collections as early as the years 1507 and 1508, entitled "Intabulatura de Lauto," which must be regarded as the first printed lute-books. The Italians used lines, and avoided letters of the alphabet. But the lines were taken, not from the notation of florid song, but from

* "Zwicklen mit dreien," i.e. in three-part harmony for the lute. "All ding mit rath" is the beginning of a German song.

the six strings of the lute; there were therefore six lines, not five. In these lines the tones were inserted, but neither by letters, as was the practice of the German lutenists, nor by musical notes, but by the numbers 0, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5; so that they were denoted very similarly to the present mode of fingering pianoforte music in England ($\times 1, 2, 3, 4$). In pieces for the voice with a lute accompaniment, which Petrucci first printed in the work "Tenori e contrabassi intabulati col sopran in canto" in 1509, the voice-part was printed in five lines, as in Schlick, and the accompaniment put beneath it in six, which must certainly be pronounced a complicated and heterogeneous mode of writing.

As a short but significant example of this tablature I select that which Kieselwetter gave in No. 9 of the Allgemeine Musikalische Zeitung for 1831; it is taken from a book on dancing, printed at Venice in 1581: "Il Ballarino di M. Fabrizio Caroso da Sermoneta."

The image displays two examples of lute tablature and their modern translations. The first example, labeled 'Translation.', shows a piece of music with a six-line staff containing numbers (0-5) representing fret positions. Below it is a modern musical notation in G major, 3/4 time, with a treble and bass clef. The second example, labeled '(sic)', shows a similar piece of music with a six-line staff containing numbers. Below it is a modern musical notation in G major, 3/4 time, with a treble and bass clef. The modern notation uses a treble clef for the upper part and a bass clef for the lower part, with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a 3/4 time signature.

(c) The Mixed Tablature was a system of writing for the lute formed out of the two preceding ones by a combination of the best elements of both. The Italian six lines were retained, but not the numbers; and the places of the strings on which the player had to put the finger of his left hand were indicated by letters, according to the German system. This system of lute-writing was used in the Netherlands and in France, where books were printed in it as early as 1540. The Germans wavered in their adoption of it till 1600, first employing it occasionally, and subsequently returning to the system without lines in their largest collections; but after 1600 they wrote lute-music like their neighbours, with letters on six lines. The Italians, on the other hand, continued to hold to their numbers and avoid the letters. This practice was fundamentally the same, as the numbers had no musical meaning, but were quite arbitrary, and might have had any other signs that could be agreed upon—such as those of the zodiac or the pharmacopœia—substituted for them.

The lute-books were printed in all the ways that came into use in the course of time. Virdung's music of 1511 was engraved on wood, though that style had even then come into disrepute. All else, commencing from Petrucci's earliest book in 1507, was printed with movable types. Towards the middle of the seventeenth century copperplate engraving was introduced, and employed in printing music for the lute until about 1760, after which it disappears with the instrument itself. The drawbacks to this "best of instruments" were the changes and the complication of its mechanism and the uncertainty of its tone; for, as a writer about the year 1720 says, if a lutenist lived to be eighty years old, forty years of his life must have been spent in tuning.

However, the time when the instrument and music printed for it went out of existence has no interest to us. The historical importance of the lute- and organ-tablatures belongs to the sixteenth century, which must be regarded as the proper period of that species of notation.

3. Italian Tablature (Figured Bass).

Figured Bass is also a species of tablature, and is called Italian because it first came in use in Italy. Inasmuch as its object is the insertion of harmonious chords, it must be regarded as a substitute for the organ-tablature. The practice of indicating the chords by numbers above the bass appears to have arisen not earlier than the last quarter of the sixteenth century. These numbers are found in the printed editions of the earliest operas and similar works, commencing with the year 1590. They soon became common in all countries, especially in pieces for many voices, which the organist or clavecinist had to accompany in harmony from a single bass-part with appended numbers, instead of the now abandoned tablature.

By this means they evaded the difficulty of printing music in several parts on one staff, which indeed they were unable to do with the means then at their disposal. The employment of the numbers has been retained down to the present day, and will be kept in permanence in musical art, the sole relic of the most peculiar and remarkable mode of notation for harmonic music called Tablature.

This is the single point of view from which this subject concerns us in this connection. It has, however, great importance of a different kind in its bearing on music; and should this article not have tired the patience of my readers, I should be glad to claim their attention once more to a fuller exposition of the further significance of the figured bass, especially as its value has long been far too little recognised, to the injury of the art.

(Article 4 on Copperplate Engraving will appear in the next number.)

SENSATIONAL PARAGRAPHS.

By HENRY C. LUNN.

WE recollect once hearing a story of an editor who, whenever he was at a loss for news, inserted a paragraph in his journal respecting some artist upon whom public attention was for the time concentrated, announcing that he or she was about to retire from the profession, and in the following number decisively contradicted it; so that it became generally imagined that he possessed exclusive information upon the subject, although in truth he knew no more about it than any of his readers. It is scarcely fair, certainly, that those who come prominently before the public should be subjected to the effect of the circulation of such reports; but, as with Royal personages, we fear that the glass houses in which they reside can never be sufficiently protected from the gaze of idlers; and it is perhaps, therefore, the penalty they must necessarily pay for their popularity. It has often been said that when a person wishes for a minute knowledge of what is passing in his own home he calls upon his friends, most of whom he finds have later information upon his domestic arrangements than he has himself; and on the same principle we imagine that those who have attained a prominent public position must be in the habit of consulting the daily newspapers to find whom they are about to marry; if already married, whether happiness has blessed their union; and whether it is or is not their intention to abandon the exercise of an art which they have for so many years adorned. On referring to old musical periodicals now in our possession, we find little, if any, of these personal matters debated; and are led therefore to believe that the recent establishment of journals, an especial feature in which is the discussion of those private petty scandals with which we should think but few people could feel interested, has led to the adoption of a similar principle when speaking of those public persons whose movements must necessarily have an important bearing upon the progress of art. Inundated as we are with these professedly truth-telling and semi-comic sheets of news—many paragraphs in which, strangely enough, we see copied into the daily and weekly newspapers—it behoves us to be additionally cautious as to what we receive in evidence. Rumours, of course, there have always been as to the actions of the public's favourites; but when we read, as we have lately done, statements most confidently made which have not the slightest foundation, it should be a lesson to us for the future not to credit announcements which are unendorsed by some recognised authority.

Coming at once to facts, in confirmation of our remarks, we will not dwell long upon the many paragraphs which have appeared from time to time respecting incidents in the private lives of eminent artists. How, for example, the marriage of a celebrated vocalist was announced, and even the church mentioned at which the ceremony took place, although it is now generally believed that she is still single. How it was stated that dissensions had arisen between two persons who are well known to be about the happiest married couple in the artistic world. Neither shall we do more than allude to the personal attacks which have recently been made upon men fulfilling to the best of their abilities positions of trust and responsibility, because all these matters are best answered—if answered at all—by the persons assailed. But in the reports we are about to call attention to, the public interest is awakened, for both have reference to the future of two of our greatest singers, and both are untrue.

When Mlle. Titiens, after undergoing an operation, was lying in an enfeebled state at Worthing, it was stated (with all the authority of an advertisement, although in a paragraph) that on a certain evening she would sing at Her Majesty's Theatre, and that a few days afterwards she would appear at her Benefit Concert at the Royal Albert Hall. Now we care not to inquire with whom this announcement originated; but can most positively affirm that those who knew anything of the prima donna's state at that time must have been perfectly aware that, whatever might be hoped in the future, her singing on the days mentioned was an utter impossibility; and we can only wonder therefore that so wide a circulation should have been given to such a statement.

But the next is a still more glaring instance of paragraph-making; for in this we are told that, by a voluntary act of one of our favourite vocalists, the operatic world is to lose her services for ever. Madame Patti, a "well-informed" correspondent asserts, as exclusive news, is about to quit the scenes of her many triumphs, and to become henceforth a nun. "Tired of the world," he adds, warming with his theme, "wearied of the worry and turmoil of mundane strife, and wishing for the peace and tranquillity of complete withdrawal from public life, she has retired to the Convent of the Sacred Heart, with the object of preparing herself to take the veil." Nothing like being circumstantial when you are desirous of impressing people with the truth of your information—a fact happily illustrated by Sheridan in the "School for Scandal," where Crabtree, in describing a duel which never took place, says that a ball from Sir Peter Teazle's pistol "struck against a little bronze Shakespeare that stood over the fireplace, grazed out of the window at a right angle, and wounded the postman, who was just coming to the door with a double letter from Northamptonshire"—and so the author of the paragraph to which we allude takes care to tell us that Madame Patti on her way to Brittany, from Ilfracombe, where she was stopping, "stayed one night in Paris," and then departed to her future home, "accompanied by a member of her household." It is needless to say that this affecting piece of intelligence, which was duly transferred into many newspapers, caused the utmost consternation with those who had so long regarded the performances of this artist as amongst the most powerful attractions of the London season. Strange to say, however, a very short time elapsed before we were informed that Madame Patti had contracted to "sing in sixty representations of opera in Europe before the end of next month," and that she will appear at Manchester on the 12th and at Liverpool on the 17th inst. It may perhaps be said that some gossip had given a colour of truth to this report; but if it had been alluded to merely as "gossip," although we might deplore the practice of repeating such idle and improbable statements, the matter would scarcely have been worthy of serious attention. When, however, we are told that such an event has actually come to pass, and the minutest particulars are related respecting the manner in which it took place, we cannot but believe that much harm is done to journalism; for even were an ample apology inserted in the paper which first gave currency to the paragraph, the confidence of the reader is shaken, and "newspaper statements" become looked upon with a suspicion fatal to that honourable character which it should be the desire of a conscientious editor to acquire and steadily maintain.

There can be no question that "sensational paragraphs," like "sensational dramas," are an unfailing sign of the decay of that healthy tone which should rule the art of which they are the growth; and those who frantically applaud the scenes especially constructed to satisfy their craving for excitement at a theatre are precisely those who delight in reading the stimulating scraps of personal news so plentifully scattered through much of our periodical literature.

THAT our American cousins freely exercise the right of appropriating the brain-work of the litterati of the mother-country, sometimes without even a verbal acknowledgment, much less the cost of sending an honorarium across the Atlantic, is too well known to be repeated. But we suppose authors whose works are thus reproduced in America console themselves for the want of any pecuniary result by considering that, after all, it is not everybody who can write something worth stealing. If a man slips his light fingers into your pocket in the street, it may be taken for granted that he thinks you look sufficiently respectable to have in your possession a silk handkerchief or a purse. This is a gratifying thought if he fails to take either purse or handkerchief, but not quite so pleasant if both disappear. By the present law of copyright, American publishers are unquestionably entitled to issue works of English authors, and therefore we do not blame them for doing so. But there is no excuse for altering them when they reach their hands. Complaints as to this treatment often crop up in the English press, and now we are about to add one more to the list. Sir John Goss, as all our readers know, has set to beautiful music that exquisitely worded prayer from the Office of the Visitation of the Sick: "O Saviour of the world, who by Thy cross and precious blood hast redeemed us, save us and hear us, we humbly beseech Thee, O Lord." It is not surprising that these words are held dear by all of us; we know, and many of us deeply feel, that they may be of infinite value to each individually when lying on a sick-bed, worn down by suffering which no earthly physician can alleviate. What will be said to the following version, printed and published by Peters of New York? We will give the heading first: "O Saviour, guide us still. Full anthem; words by H. Miller; music by Sir John Goss."

O Saviour, guide us still,
Thy love each bosom fill,
Who by Thy cross and precious blood hast redeemed us.
Keep us for ever,
Guide each endeavour,
Save us and help us! O Saviour, hear our call.
O Saviour, be Thou our stay
And hope each day,
While we wander on,
Save us and take us,
And never forsake us,
We humbly beseech Thee, O Lord.

More unrhymical doggerel than this cannot well be conceived, and the composer deserves much commiseration for having one of his most elegant and impressive anthems presented to the public of the United States with such a dead weight of rubbish attached.

It is a general impression with those most competent to judge that but very little progress can be made by pianoforte pupils who do not commence in early life; and it is also believed that many years of laborious and earnest practice are positively necessary in order to attain anything like proficiency on the instrument. A perusal of the following advertisement, which recently appeared in a morning newspaper, will dissipate these old-world notions: "PIANO SIMPLIFIED. Old or young soon made brilliant players. Best, 5s. lesson (week's study); 3s. if taken at certain hours in London, or within twelve miles. Schools attended. Brilliant pianist; patient, experienced master. Write only, Professor ———." There are two or three points in this announcement which give it a distinctive character scarcely perhaps to be expected from the conventional heading, "Piano simplified." In the first place the promise that old or young can soon be made brilliant players seems to want some explanation, for we should assuredly be inclined to ask what meaning the advertiser attaches to the word "old." Can elderly ladies or gentlemen, for example, whose time hangs heavily upon their hands become at once "brilliant players," so that they may solace their declining years by performing the works of the greatest masters? Then what can "Best, 5s. lesson (week's study)" signify? Are we to believe that a week's work and a payment of 5s. are all that will be required; or as many weeks and as many five shillings as the teacher may find necessary? In any case we should advise intending students on this system not to think of the expense, but to pay five shillings at once and have the "best." The only thing that disappoints us in the advertisement is the intimation that we must "write only;" for we should have been much disposed to see and talk with a "Professor" who, irrespective of age, can create a race of brilliant pianists at so small an expenditure of time and money.

SEEING an announcement in a newspaper of volumes especially designed for seaside reading, recalled an observation made to us by the director of a band at a watering-place during the present summer. "You see, sir," he said, "people who leave town for a short time don't care about hearing too good music whilst they are away. Classical works and fresh air don't agree." No doubt this remark was founded on a long experience; and certainly, judging from the class of novels in the hands of idlers on the beach, "holiday music" is no worse than "holiday literature." But if the music played on our seaside promenades must thus be adapted to the requirements of the occasion, should not the same idea be carried out when preparing family musical portfolios for out-of-town performance in the drawing-room? It is true that compositions that would most thoroughly "agree with the fresh air" (as the bandmaster hinted that it should do) exist around us; but it seems strange that we should not be saved the trouble of searching for it. "The Moonlight Sail," "A Stroll on the Green," "The Bathing Polka," with coloured illustrated title-pages, would, we are certain, attract all those persons who purchase books adapted for the lazy time of the year; and there can be no doubt that, on the mercantile maxim that the constant supply of an article always increases the demand for it, a very complete library of such works might soon be formed. The only obstacle that we foresee is the excessive difficulty of appealing to the varied taste of purchasers. Certainly it might be imagined, on a cursory view of the subject, that it would be sufficient to write cheerful, light pieces, which should tax neither mind nor fingers, and give them pretty titles; but if the "Colorado Beetle," which we see advertised amongst the "Books for the Country," be really intended for summer reading in the green fields, who can decide what kind of music can be coupled with such literature?

As we are constantly called upon to determine the merits or demerits of musical compositions, we should like to understand what is the exact difference between a "Valse," a "Valse de Salon," and a "Valse-Caprice." To us they appear so precisely alike that, were these descriptive titles to be accidentally misplaced by the engraver, no injustice would, we think, be done to the composers. We at first thought that a "Valse" might be intended to dance to; a "Valse de Salon" to play in a drawing-room where light music reigned supreme; and a "Valse-Caprice" to rank amongst the showy pieces of more pretension. But when we found the first by no means well adapted for dancing, the second exceedingly danceable, but without a particle of brilliancy, and the third utterly destitute of either of these qualities, and without the faintest shadow of proof that its composer had given way to "caprice," we became completely baffled. We could of course extend our enquiries further, and ask of those who use these terms what makes one piece a "Melodie," another a "Morceau," and another a "Bluette;" but we have little doubt that we should receive the same answer that was once given to us by a composer who, after endeavouring to expound the meaning of an Italian word he had used in his piece, at length confessed that he knew himself, but could not explain it to others. For want of an artistic reason, then, we fear that we must accept the commercial one, that good old familiar words are not as attractive to purchasers as new ones. Let us cite, for example, a case within our own experience. At a shop we daily pass, the proprietor tried the usual method of "selling" goods, without attracting purchasers enough to support the establishment; he has now adopted the plan of "selling off," and for several years has, to our knowledge, secured an excellent trade.

ONE of the signs of the spread of choral music amongst the people in this country is the abolition of the C, and the substitution of the G, clef, in all the cheap editions of standard works. But little sympathy was felt for its loss when used to denote the soprano or alto voice; but the tenor clef lingered for some time, and has not disappeared without many sighs of regret. Indeed it may be said that even now its ghost haunts us, for although the treble clef is almost invariably employed for the third part in the vocal quartett, the direction, "Tenor an octave lower," shows the singer that the pitch of the sounds represented on the paper is not the true one. There may be perhaps a certain clumsiness in this method; but we are at a loss to understand the superiority of an invention, the description of which comes to us from Italy. In this the proposed sign represents the tenor clef interwoven with that of the treble; so that as each, according to all preconceived notions, equally rules the staff, it would be impossible to tell what are really the names of the notes without a key to the mystery. This appears to us going backwards instead of forwards. If the only object is to show that, although written for a treble, the part is to be sung by a tenor, surely this is gained by the notice at the commencement, "Tenor an octave lower;" but to use a clef which is to have no effect upon the names of the notes, combined with one which pitches them an octave higher than they are to be sung, is certainly an extraordinary method of simplifying the matter. At all events the singer has now only one falsehood to contend with, but on the new system he would assuredly have two.

THE GLOUCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Three Choir Festivals have long had two kinds of opponents, the first pertinaciously asserting that religious works, into which the greatest composers have put their highest thoughts, are unsuited for performance in all their integrity within a sacred edifice, and the second that the presentation of musical compositions on a grand scale is now a matter of such frequent occurrence that there can be no more reason why Gloucester, Worcester, and Hereford should hold in turn an annual Festival than any other three cities in the kingdom. Now, the first-named party of dissenters has been tolerably well answered by the energetic protest against the Dean and Chapter of Worcester's Festival in 1875—which, although supplanting the usual meeting, and propped up financially, was acknowledged to be a failure—by the unexampled success of the Hereford Festival in the following year, and now by the fact that at the Gloucester Festival just concluded the Bishop of the Diocese, who has hitherto absented himself from these meetings, preached the Festival sermon. Those who rank themselves amongst the second class we have mentioned cannot be too often told that they reason from totally wrong premises; for were these Festivals merely continued because they have existed for so many years, we candidly admit that they would scarcely be entitled to support. But those who have heard the effect of the standard sacred works when given in the grand old Cathedrals of these cities, need not be told that the Three Choir Festivals have an attraction which can be equalled by no other musical gatherings. We know that there are statistical critics who would fain make us believe that musical results are in proportion to the number of executants, and that consequently an orchestra with a thousand performers must be exactly twice as effective as one with five hundred. With such unimpressible calculators, however, art has nothing whatever to do; for, wherever its true mission is amply fulfilled, those who unconsciously yield to its influence care not to enquire by what means the effect has been attained. We claim to have had some little experience of sacred performances in secular buildings, and most unreservedly affirm that at no one of these have we witnessed such an intense feeling of devotion, so perfect an appreciation of the sublime colouring of the sacred text, or such a total abandonment of all distracting influences during the progress of a work as at a Three Choir Festival, even when the Cathedral was so crowded that every available seat both in the nave and aisles was occupied.

On the first morning of the Gloucester Festival (the 4th ult.) the early service in the Cathedral was attended by the Mayors and Corporations of Gloucester, Worcester, and Hereford, who marched from the Town Hall in procession, and presented a sufficiently imposing appearance to convince any doubters on the subject that they at least were resolved to support the time-honoured Three Choir Festivals. The service music was Croft in A, and the Anthem Sir F. A. Gore Ouseley's "O sing unto God," the members of the three choirs lending their aid, and the only accompaniment being the organ, at which Mr. S. G. Hayward, Deputy Organist of the Cathedral, presided. That the sermon, which, as we have said, was preached by the Bishop of Gloucester, contained no warm eulogium upon the Festival in its present form could not create surprise, for the Bishop's opinion was well known to all; and the sincerity of his convictions might reasonably have been doubted had he become a convert to the popular side since the former meeting in Gloucester. But he pleaded earnestly and eloquently for the Charity, and, in a true Christian spirit, placed aside his personal views on the matter, so that the weight of his influence might not be withheld when the widows and orphans of those who had devoted their lives to the service of the Church were crying for aid. Upon the vast congregation this appeal had perhaps a more powerful effect than if a preacher whose sympathies were wholly with the Festival had in the most glowing terms upheld their claim to public support against all innovators.

The appearance of the Cathedral at the commencement of the performance of "Elijah," the work selected for the first morning, could not but recall some melancholy associations, for since the last Gloucester Festival Dr. Wesley—a sound and true musician in the highest sense of the word, who, as Cathedral Organist, then stood at the Conductor's desk—and Mr. Townshend Smith, the Organist at Hereford—whose unwearied exertions, both in the musical and business arrangements of these meetings for so many years, can never be forgotten—had been removed by death; and when the Dead March in Saul, which was played between the parts of the Oratorio as a mark of respect for the deceased, pealed through the building, and the vast assembly rose, the solemn stillness which prevailed was felt by all as the highest homage that could be paid to the memory of those who had so worthily and conscientiously laboured in the cause of charity and art. The absence of Mdlle. Titiens, too, could not but be deeply felt at a meeting where her exceptional talents had been so often displayed, especially as it was universally known how severe was the illness which had so long separated her from her admirers. A general impression seemed to prevail that the services of Mdlle. Albani had been secured to sing the solos assigned in the original programmes to Mdlle. Titiens, but this could hardly have been the case, the portions of the sacred works which were to have been taken by Mdlle. Titiens having been divided between Madame Sophie Löwe and Miss Adela Vernon. The engagement of Mdlle. Albani (whose name appeared coupled with that of Mdlle. Titiens in the early list of vocalists) was, however, of the utmost importance, for her singing of "Hear ye, Israel," in the second part of the Oratorio, and indeed of all the following soprano music, produced a marked impression upon the audience. Although it must be admitted that Miss Adela Vernon was overweighted in the Widow's scene with Elijah, she sang well, and threw an intelligence into the delivery of her impassioned phrases which insured the sympathy of her hearers. Every indulgence should be shown to one so talented, but we cannot think it judicious, at so early a stage in her career, to aim at music which requires the highest vocal and dramatic qualities for its due rendering. Madame Sophie Löwe—also a débutante at these Festivals, but an experienced singer—gave with much expression the small portion of music assigned to her; and Miss Bertha Griffiths showed a marked improvement since her appearance at the last Gloucester Festival, her rendering of "Woe unto them" being especially worthy of praise. Madame Patey was in excellent voice, and sang "O rest in the Lord" with true religious fervour. The tenor parts, divided between Mr. W. H. Cummings and Mr. E. Lloyd, were highly effective, and the music of the Prophet, if somewhat tamely delivered by Mr. Santley, was at least rendered with that ease and fluency which proved his perfect command over every passage. On the whole, the performance of the choruses was exceptionally good, thanks in a great measure to the steady conducting of the new Organist of the Cathedral, Mr. C. Harford Lloyd. If in two or three of the pieces we missed a certain amount of delicacy absolutely necessary for the perfect realisation of many of Mendelssohn's choral effects, they were almost compensated for by the manner in which the broad, dramatic portions of the work were rendered; especially the Baal Choruses, which went with commendable precision, and the marvellous climax to the first part, "Thanks be to God."

Bach's St. Matthew Passion-music, with which the second morning's performance opened, has now taken a sufficiently permanent stand in public estimation to render comment upon its excessive beauties superfluous; but that its effect in a Cathedral is immeasurably beyond that which can be created, even by the most perfect rendering, in a secular building cannot be doubted by any sympathetic listener. That it was selected a second time for the Festival here, the first presentation of the work having been in 1871, under the conductorship of the late Dr. Wesley, speaks well for the taste of a Gloucester audience; and if we may judge from the earnest manner in which every number was listened to and appreciated, it may be inferred that it will be a welcome item in the programmes of future Festivals. The general rendering of the choruses was highly satisfactory, the conducting of Mr. Lloyd again showing both knowledge and judgment: indeed we have seldom heard some of the choral pieces given with finer effect, the choir, as well as the Conductor, evidently throwing a heart into their work which could not fail to produce the best results. Unfortunately, however, it happened that the "luncheon chorus" this morning was the sublime one which terminates the work, "In tears of grief," so that the shuffling of those who considered the piece as a voluntary to sing them out of the Cathedral to meet their friends somewhat interfered with the enjoyment of the few who desired to enjoy one of the finest of Bach's choral movements. Were the Stewards, instead of occasionally setting an example of this custom themselves, gently to hush down those who attempted to rise, there can be no question that we should not have to repeat remarks which we shall consider it our duty to make until the evil is totally abolished. Whilst acknowledging the necessity of omitting certain portions of the Passion-music, we cannot believe that much discretion was exercised in the task of excision on this occasion, for, not to dwell upon the fact of one-half only of the soprano Solo, "Break and die," being given, many whole pieces were cut out, which not only deprived the audience of hearing some of the best music, but actually destroyed the continuity of the text. This was especially observable in the Recitatives, where the narration is carried on, and which, if at all shortened, should be very delicately handled. Madame Patey, in the Air, "Have mercy upon me" (the violin obbligato finely played by M. Sainton), showed that devotional feeling which renders her unapproachable in Oratorio music; and Madame Löwe, especially in the Recitative, "Although mine eyes," and Air, "Jesus, Saviour," materially advanced the favourable impression she had already created. Miss Bertha Griffiths, too, was thoroughly efficient in the expressive Solo, "By my weeping;" Mr. Lloyd fully sustained the reputation he has acquired as an exponent of the difficult tenor music of this work; Mr. Santley gave the words of the Saviour with due reverential feeling, and Mr. Maybrick did good service in the remaining bass recitatives. Mr. S. G. Hayward presided at the piano-forte, and accompanied the recitatives requiring such aid, the organ part being played by Mr. Done.

Beethoven's "Mount of Olives"—transformed into "Engedi; or, David in the Wilderness" to suit the English taste—formed the second portion of the morning's performance. It seems strange indeed that on the same day two works should be selected for representation, in the first of which the actual words of the Saviour are devoutly listened to, whilst the subject of the second must be turned round from the New to the Old Testament before it can be fitted for performance. As the Passion-music has been more recently introduced into this country, let us hope that we are becoming more tolerant than our forefathers were in these matters. Certainly, with respect to the "Mount of Olives," the dramatic power in this—the only attempt ever made by Beethoven in the Oratorio form—is evidenced throughout; but the want of sublimity in the treatment of the subject somewhat favours the notion that the incident taken by Dr. Hudson (the author of the words which have been so long used)—that of David pursued by the soldiers of Saul—is more in consonance with the music than the original text. That this should be accepted as a reason for altering the idea which so great an artist attempted to embody can scarcely be admitted, for an author should stand or fall by his works as he wrote them; and when we consider that Beethoven's failures are infinitely better than many other composers' successes, we can well afford to receive the "Mount of Olives" as one of the finest contributions to musical, if not to sacred, art. The execution of the work, both by principals and chorus, was excellent. Mdlle. Albani sang splendidly the fine Air, "O praise Him all ye nations," Mr. Cummings gave all the tenor solos—as indeed he always does—with genuine artistic feeling, and Mr. Maybrick was thoroughly satisfactory in the bass music. The overwhelming "Hallelujah Chorus" formed a glorious and fitting termination to the morning's performance.

We were somewhat surprised to see so thin an attendance in the evening at the Cathedral, the lighting of which by numberless jets of gas was in itself an attraction. Certainly the performance announced would scarcely present a powerful appeal to musicians, for, although "St. Paul" and the "Creation" in their entirety can always be heard with pleasure, the fragmentary effect of listening to the first part of each is by no means an agreeable sensation. We presume, however, that such a programme was not decided upon without due deliberation; and certainly—although the execution of the choral portion of the two works was occasionally open to criticism—the general performance was in the highest degree satisfactory. Miss Adela Vernon in "Jerusalem," Madame Patey in "But the Lord is mindful," and Messrs. Lloyd and Santley in the tenor and bass music of "St. Paul" were thoroughly successful; and in the "Creation" Mdlle. Albani created a very decided effect by her rendering of "With verdure clad"—although two lengthened shakes, where no warrant for such liberty is indicated, somewhat shook the steadiness of the orchestral accompaniment. Mr. Cummings gave an excellent rendering of "Now vanish," and (some portions of the trying Solo, "Rolling with foaming billows," excepted) Mr. Maybrick was satisfactory in the bass part.

On the third morning of the Festival the programme commenced with Dr. Sullivan's Overture, "In Memoriam"—certainly the best orchestral piece he has yet given us—which was excellently played. Then came a Kyrie eleison, by Mr. B. Luard-Selby, for soli, chorus, and orchestra, the principal parts of which were sustained by Miss Adela Vernon, Miss Bertha Griffiths, Mr. Cummings, and Mr. Maybrick. In this work we failed to discover any originality of thought, but the writing throughout shows that its composer is an accomplished musician, and can combine voices and orchestra with skill and judgment. Brahms's "German Requiem," the third composition in the programme, was listened to with the most earnest attention, not only on account of its intrinsic merits, but because it was heard amidst surroundings which gave it additional solemnity. The greatest admirers of the composer can, we think, scarcely deny that there are very many passages in this Requiem which are laboured and diffuse; but these are more than compensated for by whole movements, the pathos of which seems to come from the heart. It may be conceded that the almost uniform sombreness of the text renders the subject almost impossible to be successfully grasped save by the highest order of genius; but an artist can but be judged by results, and the true position of Brahms's "Requiem" therefore will depend not upon the rash and enthusiastic judgment of the present, but by the calm and silent verdict of the future. The performance of the work was uniformly good, all the choruses being sung not only with the utmost precision, but with an attention to every shade of expression which evidenced the excellent manner in which the rehearsals had been conducted. The principal parts were assigned to Madame Löwe and Mr. Santley, both of whom sang as if they were thoroughly impressed with the religious fervour of the music. After a very fine rendering of Gounod's expressive song, "There is a green hill," by Madame Patey, Dr. S. S. Wesley's noble Anthem, "The Wilderness," was given. Perhaps no work could have been selected better calculated to show the gifted composer's broad and massive style than this Anthem, which has long held a high place amongst the contributions of modern writers for the service of the Church. The masterly construction of the more elaborate movements may well be studied by those who in their efforts to be original are too often merely eccentric. The orchestral parts, although we believe written by the Doctor himself, scarcely seem to be as much in sympathy with the work as the organ accompaniment, which we see by a footnote is to be had in its original form, "with the pedal obligato." The choral portions of the Anthem were given with excellent effect, and the solos were sung by Miss Adela Vernon, Madame Löwe, Miss Bertha Griffiths, Madame Patey, Messrs. Cummings, E. Lloyd, and Santley with marked success. The second part of the morning's performance was devoted to Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," the instrumental movements in which were admirably played. Madame Löwe was hardly so successful in the soprano solo portions of this work as in some of her previous performances, nor did Miss Adela Vernon quite satisfy us in the Duet, "I waited for the Lord" (with Madame Löwe); but Mr. E. Lloyd sang the tenor music admirably (creating a genuine effect in the eloquent Recitative, "Watchman, will the night soon pass?"), and the choruses were excellent throughout.

At the last morning's performance Handel's "Messiah," as usual, filled the Cathedral in every part. The decisive success of Mdlle. Albani in the florid Solo, "Rejoice greatly," and the pathetic Air, "I know that my Redeemer liveth," fully satisfied us of her ability to sustain the highest position as an Oratorio singer. Madame Löwe, too, sang extremely well; and Madame Patey, Miss B. Griffiths, Messrs. Cummings, E. Lloyd, Santley, and Maybrick were thoroughly efficient in all the music allotted them. The choruses were given with a freshness and decision which surprised all who remembered what hard work the members of the choir had been subjected to during the week; and in "The trumpet shall sound" (sung by Mr. Santley) Mr. T. Harper gave an absolutely perfect rendering of the trumpet obligato.

The two secular concerts in the Shire Hall, which took place on the first and third evenings of the Festival, contained the usual appeals to popular taste, but with two or three notable exceptions. At the first concert we had a particularly unsatisfactory first part, containing "selections" from Schumann's Cantata, "Paradise and the Peri," the solo parts of which were sustained by Madame Löwe, Miss B. Griffiths, Mr. Cummings, and Mr. Maybrick. The extreme beauty of some of the numbers which were given would no doubt have made themselves felt even by a somewhat anti-Schumannite audience, but unfortunately the music had not been properly prepared, the whole performance seemed unhinged, and the effect was tame and spiritless. A fine rendering of Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto, by M. Sinton, and an excellent performance of Beethoven's Symphony in C minor (the latter admirably conducted by Mr. Harford Lloyd), however, fully compensated musicians for any previous shortcomings; and a string of vocal pieces perfectly satisfied those who merely came to "hear the great singers." A Concert Overture, by Mr. Montague Smith (conducted by the composer), which ended the first part of the programme, was well played and warmly received. Of this composition it would appear unjust to write disparagingly as far as mere workmanship is concerned; but we cannot believe that "workmanship" in music is what is really demanded. When nothing especially favourable can be urged for a work, and the critic desires to be kind, it is commonly said that it is well "put together;" but in truth we do not so much want to know whether a composition is well put together, as whether the materials are worth putting together. In the specimen Mr. Smith has given us we cannot say that the latter requisite is fulfilled; but it is evident that he has a good knowledge of the resources of the orchestra, and, especially in the opening Andante, shows a power of combining instruments effectively. At the second concert the Hall was filled to overflowing. Of Gade's highly dramatic Cantata, "The Crusaders," which formed the first part, we spoke at length on its production at the Birmingham Festival last year. We cannot say that its presentation at Gloucester revealed its many beauties with much success. No doubt the sympathies of the choristers were with the works performed in the Cathedral; and—although the solos were ably sustained by Madame Löwe, Messrs. E. Lloyd and Santley—the Cantata did not make the impression it should have done. The Festival Overture in B flat, composed for the occasion by Mr. C. V. Stanford, who conducted it, requires a more intimate acquaintance than can be gained on a single hearing before any correct estimate can be formed of its merits. That it is the production of an accomplished artist cannot be doubted; and we are inclined to accept the applause with which it was received as rather an indication of a desire to hear it on future occasions than as a direct verdict on its worth. In the second part of the concert the charming rendering of Weber's Concertstück, by Miss Agnes Zimmermann was an especial feature; and we must also record the triumphant success of Mdle. Albani, in the Scena from "Lucia di Lammermoor," and the introduction of an interesting Air by Handel, "La Bella Pastorella," which was excellently sung by Mr. Cummings from a manuscript in the composer's handwriting.

The special evening free service in the Cathedral which terminated the Festival was, as might be expected, inconveniently crowded; but the music—including Dr. S. S. Wesley's arrangement of the "Old Hundredth," Purcell's Anthem, "O sing unto the Lord," Gadsby's "Magnificat" and "Nunc dimittis," in C, and Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus"—amply repaid those even who were compelled to stand, for the principal solos were given by Messrs. Cummings and Santley, and the full orchestra and choir were employed.

In the course of our notice we have incidentally mentioned the excellent manner in which the new organist, Mr. Harford Lloyd, conducted several important works; but our testimony to his general efficiency during an arduous week, both in the Cathedral and Shire Hall, we have left, as one of the most pleasurable duties, to the end. We know nothing as to the amount of experience Mr. Lloyd may have had in conducting before he accepted his present office; but have no hesitation in affirming that not only his skill in conveying to the executants an accurate knowledge of the tempi of the several pieces, but his evident intimate acquaintance with the scores, and the intelligence he evinced in the endeavour to realise every point indicated by the composer merit the warmest eulogium. That he was occasionally not thoroughly understood, and that we may take exception to the time in which he took some of the movements, must not be recorded in disparagement of his efforts; for he was always in earnest, ever keenly alive to the slightest error, and, whilst exercising a uniform courtesy of manner, kept so thoroughly his control of band and choir that even those who might occasionally dispute his judgment could not but acknowledge his power.

In taking our leave of the 154th meeting of the Three Choirs, we heartily congratulate those who have had the management of the undertaking upon the glorious financial result, for it is announced that the collections at the doors of the Cathedral were £882 2s. 11½d., which, with the subscriptions of the Stewards, will make the sum to be handed over to the Charity £1,767, an amount far higher than any realised since the establishment of these Festivals. To the Stewards, whose exertions in the cause have been unwearied, much of this success is no doubt due; and we cannot close our notice without a personal acknowledgment of their general courtesy, and also of the kindly care and attention freely accorded by Mr. F. W. Waller, the Secretary, to all who applied to him for information or advice.

LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

NOTHING in the history of any English Musical Festival is more remarkable than the sudden rush to the front of that established by Leeds in 1874. Looking back at the abortive effort made in 1858, and having regard to the importance and resources of their town, the managers made up their minds that nothing should be left undone to secure success, or to achieve a result worthy of Leeds. How they were rewarded in 1874 the MUSICAL TIMES of that date fully sets out. But the question whether 1874 would not die like 1858, and leave no heirs, remained for 1877 to resolve. That question we have just seen settled, and now are justified in looking upon the Leeds Festival as a permanent institution, commended to the sympathy of everybody by magnificent success.

That the great musical solemnity which began on the 10th and ended on the 22nd ult. received general support from the people amid whom it took place is amply proved by a glance at the list of patrons and guarantors. The Queen headed the former, and after Majesty came Majesty's representative, in the person of the Lord-Lieutenant of the West Riding, followed by a long array of aristocratic names; which in turn were followed by a little army of gentlemen who had bound themselves to make good monetary loss, in the improbable event of its occurring. All this was pleasant to see, for without co-operation of such a sort nothing can be done. Turning to the artistic personnel of the Festival, equal cause for satisfaction arose. Sir Michael Costa again occupied the post of Conductor; and the leading vocalists were Mdle. Albani, Madame Edith Wynne, Mrs. Osgood, and Madame Sinico, sopranos; Madame Patey, Mrs. Mudie-Bolingbroke, and Mdle. Redeker, contraltos; Mr. E. Lloyd and Mr. W. Shakespeare, tenors; Mr. Santley, Mr. Cecil Tovey, and Signor Foli, basses. If not of the fullest possible strength, this company may be set down as adequate to the requirements of the case, a fact the more noteworthy because, with the exception of Madame Sinico and Mdle. Redeker, all are of the English-speaking race, and, adding Mrs. Osgood to exceptions, all born subjects of the Queen. Emphatically, therefore, the Leeds Festival was an English Festival, and that the more because every foreign singer engaged might have been absent with no serious loss to the musical result. The band consisted of 103 performers, and included 78 strings; viz. 20 first violins, with M. Sainton at their head; 18 second violins; 14 violas; 13 violoncellos, and 13 double basses. As most of the players were men of mark in their vocation, and owners of good instruments, it may be imagined what grandeur of tone they produced. Indeed the effect of the fiddles in broad cantabile passages was a constant theme of admiring remark. I may add here that Dr. Spark, by virtue of his office, presided at Messrs. Gray and Davison's fine organ, and that Mr. James Broughton conducted the unaccompanied part-songs, which were a pleasant feature in the miscellaneous programmes. The chorus was made up of 79 sopranos, 41 contraltos, 41 altos, 65 tenors, and 67 basses; in all, 293 voices, of which Leeds contributed 154, the remainder coming from Bradford, Huddersfield, Armsley, Wakefield, Dewsbury, Harrogate, and other adjacent places. I should not omit to mention that of the 293 West Riding singers, 42 were amateurs who worked without fee or reward, and paid out of their own pockets all attendant expenses. Than the foregoing no more need be said as to the musical resources of the Festival. Gathered together "regardless of expense," they were such as could hardly fail to command success.

Now as to the programme. In the first place, the "Messiah" was omitted, for the simple reason that its performance in 1874 did not pay. But let no one suppose that Yorkshire amateurs are indifferent to Handel's work, the fact being that they hear it too often to care for it greatly at Festival time. So, instead of by the "Messiah," the Saxon master was represented by "Solomon;" and none regretted the change, while not a few were delighted to have an opportunity of improving their acquaintance with an undeservedly neglected masterpiece. Will the precedent thus boldly set be followed elsewhere? And does it mark the coming of a time when no portion of our Festival programmes will remain in stereotype? Let us hope so, for the good of art. But if the "Messiah" was discarded, its close companion, "Elijah," remained; and with it were placed Mozart's "Requiem," Beethoven's "Mount of Olives," Bach's "Magnificat," and the Handelian Oratorio already named. These represented, in a manner beyond reproach, the recognised treasures of sacred art. But there was also a candidate for admission into the "glorious company"—an Oratorio on the subject of Joseph, written for the Festival by Professor G. A. Macfarren; this, indeed, formed the chief novelty of the occasion. The secular programme, though of inferior interest, by no means wanted attractive power. It comprised a new Cantata, "The Fire-King," by Mr. Walter Austin, a young gentleman of whom the world had not previously heard, but who had the good-fortune to be born in Leeds. It comprised also Mendelssohn's "Walpurgis Nacht," Beethoven's Symphony in F (No. 8), Raff's Symphony in G Minor (No. 4), the Overtures to "Tannhäuser," "Merry Wives of Windsor," "Der Freischütz," "Fra Diavolo," "Semiramide," "Wood-Nymphs," and "Jessonda," together with a large number of such vocal pieces as usually go to make up a miscellaneous programme on Festival occasions. Taking the scheme as a whole, the task of the fault-finders is not easy. It will be seen by-and-by that the Committee made one glaring mistake, but otherwise they exercised a sound judgment that deserves recognition and applause.

I arrive now at the performances, and shall take them in the order of days, premising that both the Monday and Tuesday of the Festival week were occupied in rehearsal. Sir Michael Costa is reported to have said when entering upon this part of his task, "Now, gentlemen, we will give no chance to the press-men. We will rehearse everything." Excellent, Sir Michael! As one of the "press-men," I congratulate you on a wholesome dread of that body, whose influence over you, if you will only let it, must necessarily work for good.

WEDNESDAY.

The Festival began well. We had fine weather, the hall was crowded, and everybody seemed in excellent spirits. The principal singers and Sir Michael Costa were loudly applauded as they took their seats, and the magnificent ensemble of "God save the Queen" (Costa's arrangement) gave a foretaste of what proved to be superlative excellence. So, with cheerfulness and satisfaction, the work of the meeting was entered upon. "Elijah" constituted the opening programme, and few present, I venture to say, had ever heard Mendelssohn's Oratorio more perfectly rendered. It was not so much that the band played faultlessly, because to excellence in that department we are accustomed; nor was it that the principal singers discharged their task in a manner with which we are all familiar. It was first, and chiefly, that the chorus proved to be the best in the kingdom, if not the first in the world. I had heard a Leeds chorus before, and was prepared for a unique display of rich and powerful tone, energy, and precision. But I did not anticipate that the qualities which astonished every visitor in 1874 would be supplemented by a rare measure of refinement and delicacy. This was so, however. The voices that overwhelmed us in "Thanks be to God" sang with beautiful quietude and grace in "He watching over Israel;" never faulty in intonation, never losing a perfect balance of parts, and never omitting careful attention to niceties of expression. "Elijah" had not proceeded far before we were all assured that the chorus would constitute the wonder of the Festival. The conviction was justified. A wonder it became, and a wonder it remained. The solos in Mendelssohn's Oratorio were taken by Madame Wynne and Mlle Albani, who divided the soprano music in the order of mention; by Mrs. Mudie-Bolingbroke and Madame Patey, who shared that for contralto; and by Mr. E. Lloyd and Mr. Santley, who had no one to relieve them. I need not take up time and space by telling how artists so well known (with one exception) did work so familiar. Enough that the most critical had reason for satisfaction. With regard to Mrs. Mudie-Bolingbroke—a lady who will be remembered as the Miss Bolingbroke of the Royal Academy of Music—it will suffice to state that the qualities of her excellent voice met with due approval, and that allowance was made for the over-anxiety natural to a first appearance on such an important stage. How the performance of "Elijah" was received may be imagined. It gave unqualified pleasure even to those familiar with exceptionally fine renderings of the work at Birmingham, and it satisfied those who were jealous for the musical honour of Leeds that the artistic success of the Festival was assured.

The leading feature of the evening concert was Mr. Austin's "Fire-King." About this Cantata some expectations were naturally entertained; for, though it was known that the composer had local influence, the Committee were credited with the exercise of discretion in choosing his work, and believed to have cause for expressing, as they did, a confident "hope" that their judgment would be ratified by a public verdict. If anybody inquired, "Who is Mr. Austin?" the reply was, "Something in the Civil Service." So far information regarding the composer could not be considered satisfactory. There is no reason, however, why an able composer may not come out of the Civil Service. It was as a Civil Servant that Mr. Frederic Clay laid the foundation of his repute in Operetta; and Mr. Austin, some of us thought, possibly represented the outcome of productive force going on accumulating ever since Mr. Clay was liberated from the control of his "department." I regret that all anticipations of good, as regards the "Fire-King," were disappointed. Its composer's Leeds birth or local influence must have warped the "judgment" of which the Committee spoke, and it is now evident that Mr. Austin does not represent the musical talent of the Civil Service. On the latter point, however, I need not be condoling, as there are, no doubt, plenty of other aspirants in Whitehall and Pall Mall. But it was a pity that the Festival managers should so stultify themselves and throw discredit upon an institution otherwise directed with consummate skill. For what came of their course? They lost a splendid opportunity to perform some work of acknowledged eminence; they wasted nearly one-seventh of the Festival time; they stamped very indifferent music with their high approval; and they showed that the Festival is open to the influence of personal as distinct from artistic considerations. These are formidable statements, but who will deny them? Will the Committee do so? Will they say that, having tested the "Fire-King," they formed a careful and honest opinion that it was worthy of production? Hardly, since to do this would be to proclaim their own incompetence for the discharge of those functions which are the highest of all within their prerogative. My own opinion as to the "Fire-King" need not be stated in precise words. It will stand out clearly enough if I decline to devote time and space to a consideration of the work. Not that the music is particularly offensive. Choral societies, with small means and corresponding abilities, might do worse than turn to it as to that which would be likely to suit their condition of taste and training. But a work able to pass muster in a village schoolroom is not necessarily acceptable at a great Festival; and the Leeds mistake was in omitting to recognise so obvious a fact. Both Mr. Austin and his "Fire-King" were thus placed in a false position; taken out of their proper sphere, and made almost as ludicrous as Bottom among the fairies. I decline to perpetuate the error by, in this Festival notice, giving the "Fire-King" Festival criticism. Should the Cantata ever come before me in the modest manner that befits it, it might assert a right to attention; but in the splendid garb with which Leeds clothed it the critic's duty is merely to treat the affair as a case of false pretence to honours he, for one, cannot bestow. Let it be said, however, as a matter of history, that the book of the Cantata is the work of Miss Maud Hargreaves, who took for it, with some modifications, the plot of Sir Walter Scott's ballad bearing the same name. The verses are, we believe, the lady's own, and, though lacking rhythmical variety, are smoothly written and by no means wanting in suggestiveness. Mr. Austin's music had every advantage in performance. The soloists, Mrs. Osgood, Mr. Lloyd, Madame Patey, and Signor Foli, sang as though they were really pleased with their task, while the band and chorus laboured conscientiously at what they must have known to be unproductive work. Mr. Thomas Wingham, formerly, I believe, the instructor of Mr. Austin, conducted with great care; but nothing could save the Cantata from swift and irretrievable condemnation, nor anything avert from the Committee, who were most to blame, a heavy reproach.

The miscellaneous section of the programme included the Overtures to "Tannhäuser" and the "Merry Wives of Windsor"—one played indifferently, the other very well—and a group of vocal pieces, prominent among which were Leslie's Part-Song, "My love is fair," Beethoven's Trio, "Tremate" (sung by Madame Wynne, Mr. Shakespeare, and Signor Foli), and the Prayer from "Tannhäuser" (rendered with her usual fervour and beauty of voice by Mdlle. Albani).

THURSDAY.

For reasons doubtless well considered, but not calling for discussion here, the second morning concert was given up to "varieties," Oratorio being reserved till the evening. Again a large audience attended, and all passed off well. The first part was entirely miscellaneous, beginning with a fine performance of the "Freischütz" Overture, after which came five vocal pieces sung respectively by Mdlle. Redeker, Mr. Lloyd, the choir, Mrs. Mudie-Bolingbroke, and Mdlle. Albani and Mr. Santley; the soprano and baritone having entrusted to their safe and experienced hands the Duet for Senta and the Dutchman in "Der Fliegende Holländer." The part-song was Morley's "My bonny lass," splendidly sung and received with loud applause. After the vocal selections Dr. Spark introduced a Concertstück written by him to display some of the merits of the instrument at which he has so long presided. This end the piece answered in a very satisfactory manner, though, perhaps, many present would have been better pleased had the doctor performed some really representative composition of the class. So good an opportunity of introducing a grand work by means of such an instrument ought not to have been lost. Gounod's "Nazareth" having been sung by Mr. Santley and chorus, Beethoven's Eighth Symphony, capitolly played, brought the first part to an end. The second part began with the Overture to "Fra Diavolo," in strange juxtaposition with which—because next following—was "Angels ever bright and fair," wherein Mdlle. Albani made, as usual, a display of her tendency towards over-strained expression. The song occupied but a few seconds less than five minutes, a fact sufficiently conclusive as to the manner of its rendering. A Duet from Smart's "Jacob," "Tell me, O fairest," combined the voices of Madame Wynne and Mr. Lloyd; the lady, together with Mdlle. Albani and Mdlle. Redeker, being also heard in the well-known Trio from Balfe's "Falstaff," as was Signor Foli in Meyerbeer's fine song, "The Monk." Last came, to end the concert in a manner worthy of a Festival occasion, Mendelssohn's "Walpurgis Nacht." From this great things were expected. The band and chorus were looked for to produce effects transcending even those of "Elijah," and to realise Mendelssohn's highest ideal. This, I may safely say, was done to the satisfaction of the most exigent. The choir went at their work heart and soul, fortified by a consciousness of knowing the music thoroughly, and of being both well led and well supported. Who among those present will soon forget the result? will soon lose the impression made by the wild rout of "Come with torches," the dramatic suggestiveness of "Disperse, disperse" and "Help, my comrades," or the stately grandeur of "Unclouded now"? All these numbers, familiar though they be, seemed to derive a deeper meaning from the magnificence of their interpretation. Veterans present, who imagined that they had exhausted the "Walpurgis Nacht" as a bee drains the flower of honey, found out their mistake and were thankful; while those to whom the music was comparatively strange must have had a revelation of surprising power. But the performance generally was excellent. Mdlle. Redeker, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Santley gave the solos in irreproachable style, and the orchestra played both Overture and accompaniments as though fully aware that the chorus could only be rivalled by straining every nerve. The reception of Mendelssohn's work, and of the efforts of those engaged in it, was most enthusiastic. But no other result was possible; a man who could stolidly listen to such music must be as insensible as a mile-stone.

With the evening came the time for Handel to have a triumphant innings. Deprived of his "Messiah," the old master took his revenge in "Solomon," and swayed the audience with his customary resistless might. And it was an audience worth swaying. The repute of the substituted Oratorio would in any case have drawn a crowd, but Yorkshire amateurs and Yorkshire choristers are pre-eminently Handelian. They find in the breadth and manliness of the giant's work that which suits them, and while the one class can hear with intelligence the other can interpret with a power unknown elsewhere. No better choice could have been made than of "Solomon," an Oratorio that combines the grandest choruses with airs full of interest and charm. The story, it is true, may not be of the loftiest conceivable order, nor its manner of telling present much to excite commendation. But pace, Richard Wagner! in any such work the composer's art overrides that of the poet, and the sublimity of music can blind us to the poverty of verse. This was emphatically the case with "Solomon," which, from first to last, enchaind attention, and often so excited the audience that the rule against applause, though printed legibly in the books, was no more visible than was the signal of recall at Copenhagen when Nelson put the glass to his blind eye. The version adopted at Leeds, being that used in Exeter Hall, included Costa's "additional accompaniments." There can be no doubt whatever that the "cuts" in this version are judicious, but I cannot say as much for all Sir M. Costa's orchestration. Sir Michael is not reverent, like Franz. As well as filling in details, he sometimes meddles with the structural outline, and this is unpardonable. None among the audience, however, were disposed then and there to cast these reflections in the Conductor's teeth. It was enough to enjoy the music—to admire the stately grandeur of "From the censer" and "Shake the dome," the beauty of "May no rash intruder," and the vivid power of the Choruses devoted to the Passions. All these were sung to perfection, the "Nightingale" especially showing the choir at its best. Not less good in their way were the solos, as rendered by Madame Wynne, Mrs. Osgood, Madame Patey, Mr. Shakespeare, and Signor Foli. Each of these artists had a chance of making more or less effect; Madame Wynne in "Can I see my infant gored," which she sang with great pathos; Mrs. Osgood in "Thy sentence, great King;" Madame Patey in "What though I trace;" Mr. Shakespeare in "See the tall palm;" and Signor Foli in the one bass Air, "Praise ye the Lord." But it should specially be said, with regard to Madame Patey, that her delivery of Solomon's music was a notable effort, distinguished by many of the greatest qualities that go to make a vocal artist. Here, too, an emphatic word is due to Sir Michael Costa, who held his forces firmly in hand and directed their efforts with characteristic decision. Altogether the performance was a memorable event in Festival history.

FRIDAY.

The morning concert of this day was devoted to Dr. Macfarren's new Oratorio "Joseph," and, naturally, a large audience assembled, made up in no small measure of professors and amateurs who had travelled to Leeds expressly for an event of so much interest. I shall not be expected in a notice like this to furnish an exhaustive discussion of the work. That task might better be undertaken apart from any other, and with all the resources at disposal which time, space, music-type, and calm consideration can give. In a general review of four days' work, and when under the influence of an exciting performance—when, moreover, the character and design of the new music can have been but imperfectly studied—the rational course is to give but an outline of facts and a record of impressions, leaving the latter subject to amendment by after knowledge. This is the course I propose now to adopt, and first as regards the libretto of the Oratorio, for which Dr. Monk of York, he who compiled the books of "St. John the Baptist" and the "Resurrection," is responsible. Dr.

FOUR-PART SONG.

Arranged by THOMAS OLIPHANT.

JOHN BENNET, A.D. 1614.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND Co., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)

Andantino.

TREBLE. p My Mis-tress is as

ALTO. p My Mis-tress is as

TENOR (Sve. lower). p My Mis-tress is as

BASS. p My Mis-tress is as

PIANO.* f dim. p

$\text{♩} = 120.$

cres.

fair as fine, With milk - white hands and gol - den hair; Her eyes the ra - dant

cres.

fair as fine, With milk - white hands and gol - den hair; Her eyes the ra - dant

cres.

fair as fine, With milk - white hands and gol - den hair; Her eyes the ra - dant

cres.

fair as fine, With milk - white hands and gol - den hair; Her eyes the

cres.

* The Pianoforte Accompaniment is to be used only when the Composition is sung as a Soprano Solo.

stars out - shine, Light - ing all things far and near. Fair as Cyn - thia, stars out - shine, Light - ing all things far and near. Fair as Cyn - thia, stars out - shine, Light - ing all things far and near. Fair as Cyn - thia, stars out - shine, Light - ing all things far and near. Fair as Cyn - thia, not so fic - kle; Smooth as .. glass, though not so brit - tle.

not so fic - kle; Smooth as glass, though not so brit - tle.

not so fic - kle; Smooth as glass, though not so brit - tle.

not so fic - kle; Smooth as glass, though not so brit - tle.

My heart is like a

My heart is like a

My heart is like a

My heart is like a f dim. p

ball of snow, Fast melt-ing at her glan-ces bright; Her ru-by lips like ball of snow, Fast melt-ing at her glan-ces bright; Her ru-by lips like ball of snow, Fast melt-ing at her glan-ces bright; Her ru-by lips like ball of snow, Fast melt-ing at her glan-ces bright, Her lips like night-worms glow; Spark-ling thro' the pale twi-light: Neat she is, no
 night-worms glow; Spark-ling thro' the pale twi-light: Neat she is, no
 night-worms glow; Spark-ling thro' the pale twi-light: Neat she is, no
 night-worms glow; Spark-ling thro' the pale twi-light: Neat she is, no fea-ther light-er, Bright she is, no dai-sy whi-ter.
 fea-ther light-er, Bright she is, no dai-sy whi-ter.
 fea-ther light-er, Bright she is, no dai-sy whi-ter.
 fea-ther light-er, Bright she is, no dai-sy whi-ter.

The original of this Song is in Ravenscroft's "Brief Discourse," A.D. 1614, and would appear to have been sung by a single voice accompanied by three viols. The Editor is responsible for its publication in the present shape, and also for a slight alteration in the words. A good effect is produced by repeating the last 4 bars of each verse forte.

Adapted to English words by THOMAS OLIPHANT.

FOUR-PART SONG.

The Melody composed by THIBAUT,
King of Navarre, A.D. 1250.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.) and 80 & 81 Queen Street (E.C.)

Allegretto.

TREBLE. mf

ALTO. mf

TENOR (8ve. lower). mf

BASS. mf

PIANO. mf
♩ = 144.

1. T'other morning ve-ry ear-ly, As thro' grove and mead I stray'd, 'Cross my path, chant-
2. My re-spect-ful sa-lu-ta-tion She re-turn'd with modest grace, While the li - ly

1. T'other morning ve-ry ear-ly, As thro' grove and mead I stray'd, 'Cross my path, chant-
2. My re-spect-ful sa-lu-ta-tion She re-turn'd with modest grace, While the li - ly

1. T'other morning ve-ry ear-ly, As thro' grove and mead I stray'd, 'Cross my path, chant-
2. My re-spectful sa-lu-ta-tion She re-turn'd with modest grace, While the li - ly

Allegretto.

- ing right clear-ly, Came a mer - ry vil-lage maid. Light of heart she tripp'd a - long, and car - na-tion Ming-led in her blushing face. "If," quoth I, "thou wilt be mine, cres.

- ing right clear-ly, Came a mer - ry vil-lage maid. Light of heart she tripp'd along, Love and car - na-tion Ming - led in her blushing face. "If," quoth I, "thou wilt be mine, Gold cres.

- ing right clear-ly, Came a merry vil - lage maid. Light of heart she tripp'd a - long, and car - na-tion Ming-led in her blush - ing face. "If," quoth I, "thou wilt be mine,

- ing right clear-ly, Came a mer - ry vil-lage maid. Light of heart she tripp'd a - long, and car - na-tion Ming-led in her blushing face. "If," quoth I, "thou wilt be mine,"

cres.

Love the bur - den of her song. Her sweet lay with ma-gic art. . . So be-guil'd my Gold and jew - els shall be thine." She re - plied, "I fear a snare, Lord-ly vows are

. . . the burden of . . . her song. Her sweet lay with ma-gic art. . . So be-guil'd my
. . . and jew-els shall. . . be thine." She re - plied, "I fear a snare, Lord-ly vows are

cres.

Love the bur - den of her song. Her sweet lay with ma-gic art. . . So be-guil'd my Gold and jew - els shall be thine." She re - plied, "I fear a snare, Lord-ly vows are

cres.

Love the bur - den of her song. Her sweet lay with ma-gic art. . . So be-guil'd my Gold and jew - els shall be thine." She re - plied, "I fear a snare, Lord-ly vows are glow-ing heart, That forth-with ap-proaching nigh, "Maid-en fair, good-day," said I.

light as air, Shep-herd Pierre is my de-light, More than rich de- ceit - ful knight."

glow-ing heart, That forth-with ap-proaching nigh, "Maid-en fair, good-day," said I.
light as air, Shep-herd Pierre is my de-light, More than rich de- ceit - ful knight."

glow-ing heart, That forth-with ap-proaching nigh, "Maid-en fair, good-day," said I.
light as air, Shep-herd Pierre is my de-light, More than rich de- ceit - ful knight."

glow-ing heart, That forth-with ap-proaching nigh, "Maid-en fair, good-day," said I.
light as air, Shep-herd Pierre is my de-light, More than rich de- ceit - ful knight."

A folio edition of this Part-Song is published, price 9d.

Novello, Ewer & Co.'s Music Primers

EDITED BY DR. STAINER.

NOW READY, PRICE TWO SHILLINGS,

THE PIANOFORTE

BY

ERNST PAUER

PRINCIPAL PROFESSOR OF THE PIANOFORTE AT
THE NATIONAL TRAINING SCHOOL FOR MUSIC.

CONTENTS.

	PAGE
Introductory Remarks - - - - -	3
1. The Position of the Performer - - - - -	9
2. The Position of the Hand - - - - -	9
3. The Touch - - - - -	10
4. Technical Execution - - - - -	15
5. On Practising - - - - -	66
6. Feeling; Expression - - - - -	67
7. The different Signs of Expression - - - - -	68
8. Graces and Manners, as employed in older Clavecin Music - - - - -	69
9. The necessary Conditions for a good Performance	70
10. The ordinary Faults in a Performance - - - - -	70
11. On Reading at Sight - - - - -	70
12. Exercises; Studies - - - - -	71
13. The Order in which the Sonatas of our Classical Masters should be studied - - - - -	73
14. Classification of Composers; their Styles and Schools - - - - -	74
15. Concluding Remarks - - - - -	75
Appendix.—The Pianoforte and its Predecessors - - - - -	77
Vocabulary of Technical Terms and Expressions connected with the Pianoforte - - - - -	79
Chronological Table of Composers.

Monk, every one will rejoice to know, has gone back from the didactic form of the "Resurrection," with its wearisome succession of narrative and comment, to the vigorous dramatic style of "St. John the Baptist." The Oratorio therefore has a plot and is interesting, while the various scenes are just such as, speaking in the light of Dr. Macfarren's first work, best suit his genius. The story, moreover, is outlined well, and told, generally speaking, with such simple directness that none can mistake it. Here, for proof, is the "argument" as officially stated:—

PART I.—Canaan.—Peacefulness of pastoral life—disturbed by the jealousy of Joseph's brethren—their conspiracy to destroy him—his life spared by Reuben—approach of the Ishmaelites—they purchase Joseph from his brethren—his farewell to his country—the false report of his death brought to Jacob—the grief of Jacob, and the attempts of his sons and daughters to comfort him.

PART II.—Egypt.—The pomp of Pharaoh's court—he relates his dreams—the failure of the wise men to interpret them—Joseph is brought from prison, expounds them, and is installed as Governor with great splendour—description of the years of plenty and of famine—first interview between Joseph and his brethren—he requires them to produce Benjamin—they return to Canaan, and Reuben persuades Jacob to allow Benjamin to accompany them—second interview between Joseph and his brethren in the presence of the house of Pharaoh, when he makes himself known to them—arrival of Jacob and all his family—retrospective sketch of the story from Psalm cv.

Accepting the limits of the book, it would be hard to improve upon this laying out of its materials. We have here, of course, a great excellency—the greatest, in point of fact, that can be demanded. Where Dr. Monk fails to some extent is in the exercise of his function as a commentator upon the various scenes and situations. He is not always careful enough to establish a close bond of union between text and comment, so that the latter may spring naturally and almost necessarily out of the former. Take a case in point. Joseph has told his second dream, wherein the sun, moon, and eleven stars made obeisance, and Jacob has angrily rebuked him thereanent. What should be the lesson drawn from this? If any, that fathers ought not to give way to hasty temper in the conduct of their households, and thereby run the risk of mistakes they may afterwards regret. But Dr. Monk lectures youth, although youth, in Joseph's person, has done no wrong; solemnly repeating the fifth Commandment for its edification. The book contains other instances, though none so serious, of this fault. But I pass them over to point out certain shortcomings in the dialogue. It was, of course, necessary for Dr. Monk to supplement the actual dialogue of the Bible to a considerable extent, and in doing this he resolved to exercise no invention of his own, but to turn the narrative of the Sacred Text into conversation. Thus Jacob is made to say in No. 4, "Joseph, I love thee more than all my children, for thou art the son of mine old age, and I have made thee a coat of many colours." Whereupon, in No. 5, the brethren remark, "Our father loveth Joseph more than all his brethren; we hate him and cannot speak peaceably unto him." The effect of this method is sometimes to raise a smile; and although I cannot but sympathise with Dr. Monk's desire to use only biblical words, it is impossible to approve the twisting here adopted. But, faults notwithstanding, the libretto is one that invites and stimulates musical illustration. The contrast between the shepherd life and royal splendour; the glimpse of the Ishmaelites and their wandering caravan; the beauty of Joseph's character; the love of the old man; the passions of the brethren, and the dramatic situations leading to reconciliation and reunion—all these things gave Dr. Macfarren an immense advantage by affording him variety of scene, character, and incident, such as could not but kindle imagination and stimulate ideas. The special merit upon which I would insist, however, is the strictly dogmatic character of the book. There is not a word of narrative, but every action is made to pass before our eyes, and every word is put into the mouth of a real person of the play. The scenes thus shown to us bear in the Oratorio the name of "Dialogue;" and it is these which gives the work its most distinctive musical character. For Dr. Macfarren rarely takes refuge in recitative after the manner of Handel, nor even in the more modern form of recitative, throughout which the orchestra plays so distinguished a part. He makes each "Dialogue" an elaborate musical piece, suggestive, where the chorus is employed, of an operatic ensemble, and at all times conveying an idea that the method of Richard Wagner has not been without its influence upon him. It is needless to point out that by so doing the difficulty of his task was much increased, and I am inclined to think, without venturing an absolute opinion, that he has not always happily surmounted the obstacle. These "Dialogues" form no inconsiderable part of the work, and needed therefore to be dealt with in as varied a manner as possible. As a matter of fact the music of each is very like that of the rest, and before the end is attained a suspicion of weariness comes upon the listener. None the less, however, is Dr. Macfarren entitled to high praise for the extreme vigour, terseness, and expressiveness of his dramatic numbers. Generally speaking, the music is adapted to the situation, the force of which it heightens while presenting numberless points of interest on its own account. With regard to the melodic structure of the work, no one will be surprised to learn that Dr. Macfarren has again adopted and carried out with much ingenuity the device of associating particular themes with particular persons, incidents, or feelings. These themes really make up no small part of the Oratorio, introduced as they are on every possible occasion. Thus we find the subjects of the Overture almost exclusively confined to them. We have first a theme identified with Jacob's love for Joseph; a second that stands for the land of Canaan; a third coupled with the conspiracy, and so on. But Dr. Macfarren, though he uses it liberally, does not overwork this device. Rather do we find much of the interest of the Oratorio and the significance of its various parts heightened by means of a system that will hardly suffer in public esteem through the skilful exaggerations of Herr Wagner. Let me add here that the Overture, though built up of motives taken from the body of the work, is most admirably put together. The various sections have perfect cohesion; the whole is in strict form, and might pass with applause as an example of "pure" music, having no connection with anything beyond itself. Passing on to other salient features of the Oratorio—which are all that can be now noticed—I have to remark the extreme importance of the choruses, as distinguished from the choral episodes in the dramatic scenes. Here Dr. Macfarren has put forth all his strength, and that in a most varied manner. He had to supply pastoral music for the shepherds in the exordium; to depict the clang and clatter of the Ishmaelite caravan; to make the Egyptians sing the praises of their monarch in fitting strains; and, for this is essential in Oratorio, to use all the resources of counterpoint as occasion offered. That in doing all this he has achieved greater or less success is undoubted. The Pastoral Chorus, for example, is charming; the Chorus of Ishmaelites wild and picturesque in the highest degree; and that which acclaims the elevation of Joseph a fit expression of national rejoicing; while the fugal numbers, as may be imagined, are worthy of Dr. Macfarren's technical means. Some of the airs show equal merit in their way, though it must be confessed that this is the department which does not exhibit the composer in the strongest light. Dr. Macfarren, whose learning appears always to dominate him, makes too little of the power of simple melody, and leans too strongly upon harmonic devices and orchestral colouring. As a consequence, his airs often fail to carry with them the sympathy of the listener, who, following the melody, finds it hampered and cramped by the exigencies of the composer's system. All the same, however, there are fine airs in "Joseph," and such as not only give pleasure to the listener, but are able to repay the musician's study. Dr. Macfarren does nothing without a motive, and all of us very well know that his motives are not lightly conceived. Other points of interest in the work are the liberal use made of transition as distinct from modulation, and the freedom with which the voice parts are written. Dr. Macfarren shares with some other composers the daringness of spirit which brooks no restraint, and pays little heed to the weakness of interpretation. Hence his music is often very difficult, and its difficulty is of a nature which, there is reason to fear, will stand in the way of popularity, or, at all events, of extended use. But to sum up all these impressions, let me say that "Joseph" is a noble, learned work, one of which England has a right to be proud, especially as it is distinguished by thoroughly English qualities. Its style is the composer's own; its thought is often happy, always strong and earnest, and its expression is that of a master. The performance, conducted by Mr. Walter Macfarren, was remarkably good for a new work; the chorus again distinguishing itself greatly, the band, a few slips excepted, working well throughout, and the soloists labouring as though in perfect sympathy with the composer. To Mdle. Albani, Madame Wynne, Madame Patey, Mr. Lloyd, Mr. Santley, and Signor Foli belonged the honour of "creating" their respective parts. Where all did their duty it would be invidious to single out one for special praise; but the fact that Mr. Santley represented the hero of the story may excuse a reference to the very perfect manner in which his task was discharged. At the close of the performance, Dr. Macfarren was called for, led on by his brother, and applauded with all the enthusiasm needed to ratify a genuine success.

The evening concert, being made up entirely of selections, may be passed with few words. It was chiefly remarkable for a good performance of Raff's Symphony in G minor, Bennett's overture "The Wood-Nymphs," and Spohr's "Jessonda." All, including Bennett's work, were conducted by Sir Michael Costa, who has now "buried the hatchet" in the grave of his ancient antagonist. Madame Sinico appeared at this concert, taking the place of Mdle. Albani, and being very well received.

SATURDAY.

The last concert of the Festival was what in convivial language would be styled a "bumper," and attracted the largest audience of the week, every part of the Town Hall being crowded to excess. A more attractive programme could hardly have been drawn up, including as it did two well-known and popular works of the highest class, and a novelty bearing the illustrious name of Bach. The combination was most judicious; for, while the "Requiem" and "Mount of Olives" drew a crowd together, the old Leipzig master's "Magnificat" found an audience which itself could never have commanded. The novelty came first in order, and was heard with profound attention by connoisseurs, who, however, may not have had their attention drawn to the fact that the music was not Bach pur et simple. It should have been stated in the books that the version performed was that of Robert Franz, the man who stands far ahead of all others in respect of the skill and reverence with which he adapts music of the old school to modern requirements. Whether a masterpiece ought to be touched by anybody is a question I shall evade here. Assuming that the process is legitimate, Robert Franz has earned the highest honour it can bestow. Franz shows his usual ability in the "Magnificat," adding clarionets and bassoons to the score, and, in one chorus, a bass trombone; writing a complete organ part; making the viola part continuous, and while retaining the three trumpets, bringing their music within the more restricted means of the present day. The judgment with which all this is done can only be appreciated by those who examine the new score with care. Enough that one might fancy Sebastian Bach himself approving every bar, and recognising throughout an expansion of his own style, and the working of his own spirit. As the "Magnificat" can be bought now for a few pence, and as there can be no dispute about its merit, discussion here is needless. Nor will those already familiar with the work require telling that the choruses, finely sung, made a deep impression. These six numbers, though not extended, show us the old master in his grandest mood, and for these alone the "Magnificat" will ever occupy an honoured place. The airs, as usual with Bach, are less striking; but the duet for contralto and tenor, despite an elaborate polyphonic structure, is charming, and evoked much admiration, as did the contralto song, "Esurientes implevit bonis," with its pretty accompaniment of two flutes. Looking at the success of the work, it is to be hoped that Bach will be drawn upon for contributions to future Festival programmes; the store of matter is abundant, and none of it valueless. Mozart's "Requiem" followed the "Magnificat," and furnished a striking contrast by its vivid colouring and descriptive grandeur. The great choruses, such as "Rex tremendæ," "Confutatis," and "Dies iræ," made a stupendous effect, such was the mass of sound and such were the energy and dash of the Yorkshire singers. But the deepest impression of all perhaps attended the "Lachrymosa," the wonderful sequence of the concluding prayer being rendered in a manner that may best be described as awe-inspiring. A profound silence followed the last note, for every heart was touched, and the highest purpose of sacred music attained. The solos in the "Requiem" were given to Madame Wynne, Mrs. Mudie-Bolingbroke, Mr. Shakespeare, and Mr. Santley, from whom they received all possible justice.

The second part of the concert being devoted to the "Mount of Olives," that work had the honour of bringing the Festival to an end. But the performance was signalised by an event of more importance, viz. a deliberate abandonment of the "Engedi" version, and an adoption of the original text, or rather of a close English translation recently made by the Rev. J. Troutbeck, and now incorporated with Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s edition. Some excuse may be made for Dr. Hudson's libretto, and also for the change effected by Mr. Bartholomew when he put the words of Christ into the mouth of John. Narrow views prevailed at that time, and the question really was whether Beethoven's Oratorio should be adapted to English tastes or kept out altogether. But the circumstances have now entirely changed. We have learned to distinguish better between actual and supposititious evil, and to see that there need be no irreverence in personating the Saviour. Beethoven, it is said, always regretted that he had made Christ a dramatic character; but that the Protestant Bach had no such feeling is proved by his setting the "Passion" over and over again. At any rate, we now accept the "Passion" and the "Mount of Olives" without hesitancy, and who shall say that religion itself is not a gainer in consequence? Mr. Troutbeck's version being reviewed elsewhere, demands here no more than passing notice. Let me say, however, that its beauty and propriety met with hearty recognition at Leeds, and enabled the audience to enter into the spirit and meaning of the music more deeply than ever before.

It can hardly be necessary to discuss the merits of Beethoven's work. The "Mount of Olives," as we all know, illustrates the first manner of the master, when as yet he was under the influence of his great contemporaries; but the giant's strength is often revealed, and everywhere we are conscious of the presence of beauty. The Leeds audience were delighted with the change from the severity or sombreness of Bach and Mozart; they enjoyed the Oratorio immensely, and felt, when listening to the mighty "Hallelujah," that there at least was music fit to be, so to speak, the topmost stone of a Festival structure. In the solos, Mdle. Albani, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Santley distinguished themselves not less than at Gloucester, and the entire performance was worthy of any that had gone before. At its close, "God save the Queen" was again sung, and, with loud cheers for Sir M. Costa and Mr. Broughton, the memorable Leeds Festival of 1877 ended.

I have little more to add. In the evening a concert was given at popular prices, and attended by an immense crowd. As all the artists on this occasion gave their services, the receipts no doubt materially increased the profits of the Festival, and benefited the local medical charities. The aggregate attendance, it is pleasant to learn, far exceeded that of 1874, and with this knowledge, as well as with a consciousness that the musical repute of their town has been largely increased, the Committee may rest content till the approach of 1880 calls them again into action.

DR. JULIUS RIETZ.

In Julius Rietz, whose death we record in another column of our present issue, the art of music has lost one of its most distinguished veteran disciples, and classical music in particular one of its most devoted champions. Hearing of this event, we feel that one more link has been severed which still connected us with a great epoch in the history of the art. For it was Rietz who had inherited and faithfully carried on the traditions of both Mendelssohn and Weber in the practical sphere of their activity. In the course of his long career as composer and practical musician he had alternately occupied the position of orchestral leader formerly held by the two great masters, and none could have been found more qualified to perpetuate the influence they had exercised in that capacity. Julius Rietz was born at Berlin on the 28th of December, 1812. Having received a sound musical education from some of the first masters of the Prussian capital, he was able, at the early age of sixteen, to enter the orchestra of the Königsstädtische Theater as a violoncello-player. His exceptional talents having attracted the attention of Mendelssohn, then Musikdirector at Düsseldorf, the latter took the young musician under his special protection, and in 1836 Rietz, then only twenty-five years of age, succeeded him in his official capacity at the Rhenish town. In this position he remained eleven years, during which time he so matured his natural qualifications for the office to which he had been appointed that, upon the death of his faithful friend Mendelssohn in 1847, he was at once recognised as the only worthy successor of the great composer as musical director and conductor of the Gewandhaus Concerts, at Leipzig. He accepted this honourable post, continuing in it for a number of years, during which his sterling qualities of composer, conductor, critical author, and teacher became universally acknowledged. Subsequently, in 1860, Rietz followed a call to Dresden, where he was nominated First Capellmeister of the Royal Opera in place of Reissiger, the immediate successor of C. M. von Weber, a position which he occupied up to the time of his death. His numerous compositions, among which are two operas, several symphonies, overtures, and concert-pieces, are characterised less by vigorous originality than by a classical refinement of taste and true musicianlike workmanship, and will—especially his excellent quartets for male voices—always be heard with pleasure. But his chief strength lay in his personality as conductor and teacher, and in the enthusiasm he created around him for all that is good and beautiful in the art he represented. Nor will the valuable services be ever forgotten which he rendered in the critical revision of the standard editions of the works of Mendelssohn and Beethoven, as well as of the Mozart edition now being issued by the firm of Breitkopf and Härtel at Leipzig. Julius Rietz intended to retire from his official position on the 1st of this month, but he was seized by a stroke of paralysis on the 10th ult., and died two days afterwards at Dresden, at the age of sixty-five.

OUR readers must be aware that we are not in the habit of allowing artists to advertise their personal grievances through the medium of our columns, but it appears to us that a cruel wrong has been inflicted upon Dr. Bunnett by the appointment of Mr. Craddock to the post of Organist at Norwich Cathedral. We have of course nothing whatever to say against Mr. Craddock—indeed, we have never before heard his name—but we do know that Dr. Bunnett has most efficiently discharged the duties of organist at the Cathedral ever since he left the choir as a boy, and that he has fairly won a high professional and social position in the city; whilst Mr. Craddock (an utter stranger) has been appointed for no other reason, as it would appear, than that he held the office of organist at the church of which Dean Goulburn had been the incumbent, and that the promise was made on his preferment to the Deanery. Space will not allow us to do more than quote a few opinions on the subject from the local press, by which, however, it may be seen how thoroughly the conduct of the Dean has provoked a bitter feeling in the city. The Norfolk News says: "Dr. Bunnett deserves more kindness than he has received, particularly when it is considered that in taking the place of Dr. Buck at the organ, and efficiently discharging the duties involved in that position for many years, he had earned the right to expect that his services would not be suffered to go unnoticed and unrewarded. We sympathise, as also will a large portion of the public, with Dr. Bunnett in his present trying position. Not only has he been deprived of an office he might fairly lay claim to, but a stigma and a reproach have been cast upon him which must prejudice his future career, unless the timely intervention of friends avert the calamity." The Norfolk Chronicle remarks: "It may be, as seems possible, that the appointment of Mr. Craddock was a fulfilment of a pledge given when Dr. Goulburn left the vicarage of St. John's, Paddington. If so, however we may respect the Dean's observance of his word, we cannot exculpate him from blame in not having informed Dr. Bunnett that it was his intention, on Dr. Buck's retirement, to appoint Mr. Craddock. He, at all events, has laid himself open to the charge of having suffered Dr. Bunnett for eleven years to go on as assistant-organist—which he would not have done but for the expectation of getting the higher office when a vacancy occurred—when a word from him as to his future intentions would have enabled Dr. Bunnett to have sought that promotion in another place which his talents entitled him to." And the following observations, with which we perfectly agree, are from the Norwich Mercury: "The Dean may believe—and for what we know be right!—that he has named the best man. The public, however, were entitled to the proof, and as they had given their reasons for believing Dr. Bunnett to be the most fitting candidate for the office, the question should have been put to the test of public competition. Then Dr. Bunnett, had he cared to do so, might have become a candidate, as would doubtless many other men well qualified to train the choir, and to conduct the musical service in the most reverent and worthy manner. But the decision would have rested with men probably better qualified to form a sound judgment than the Dean of Norwich, who doubtless could estimate aright the moral and religious character of the candidate for office—matters, we admit, of first importance—but who we have never yet heard spoken of as excelling in the strictly scientific questions which constitute so large a part of the duties of an organist and choirmaster of a Cathedral."

We regret that we cannot afford space for an extended report of the meeting at Gloucester on the 3rd ult., when Madame Patey distributed the prizes and certificates gained at the Gloucester Centre by competitors in the recent musical examination in connection with Trinity College, London; but the speech of the popular vocalist in awarding the prizes is too good to be abridged. After the applause with which she was greeted had somewhat subsided, she said, "Mr. Chairman, Ladies, and Gentlemen,—It is with no ordinary pleasure that I to-day discharge the duties of the flattering position in which you have been good enough to place me. You were right in assuming that the work upon which you are engaged has my warmest sympathies, for who ought more to desire the spread of musical culture than one whose life is devoted, in however modest a capacity, to the service of the divine art? But it seems to me that the institution you represent has particular claims upon your regard. It serves to promote the cause of music in its most exalted, and perhaps I should say its most popular form. Nor do I lose sight of the fact that the labours of Trinity College and its affiliated associations tend to perpetuate the fair fame of England in a field of art to which our country has sent so many illustrious workers. Because then you strive 'for the perfecting of the praise of God's Church on earth,' and, as a consequence, of the popularising of good sacred music throughout the land, as well for the continuance and increase of a high national reputation—your claims to hearty support are incontestable, and in my humble measure I recognise them by being here to-day. Having carefully examined the plan upon which Trinity College works, I cannot but express my admiration of its liberality and comprehensiveness. By the establishment of local centres, the institution of free scholarships, and the encouragement of talent through the prizes given in connection, as to-day, with local examinations, the College does that which no other institution attempts—it goes among the people in search of ability, instead of waiting in London and elsewhere for ability to come to it. With equal satisfaction I observe that you seek to associate a good general education with advancement in music, thus taking the surest method of raising the musical profession to the place of dignity and honour which it ought to occupy in general esteem. Let me add, in conclusion, that the College, especially this branch of it, has my best wishes for increasing prosperity, and that I desire for it the high reward of seeing its pupils, more particularly those who have received prizes to-day, rise to positions of usefulness and eminence." The second national prize was awarded to Miss Kate Whitmore, of Dursley, who had been highly complimented by Sir Julius Benedict. The meeting, which took place at the Tolsey, was presided over by the Mayor, and was largely attended.

THE prospectus of the twenty-second series of Saturday Concerts at the Crystal Palace promises some important novelties. It appears that the manuscript compositions of Schubert, acquired by the Crystal Palace Company in 1868, are not yet exhausted, and that his Symphony in B flat, No. 2, will be given for the first time in public. Another work announced as never before performed is a Fugue for Strings, from a manuscript Symphony by Mendelssohn. And amongst the compositions which have probably never been heard in this country are a Concerto by Sebastian Bach, for solo violin, two flutes, and orchestra; Handel's Grand Concerto, No. 12, for full orchestra; and the same composer's Concerto, No. 2, for solo oboe and orchestra. But one of the most important revivals will unquestionably be Purcell's "Yorkshire Feast Song," for solos, chorus, and orchestra, the publication of which by the recently formed Purcell Society will no doubt lead gradually to a demand for the many other works of our great English composer which, but for the exertions of the music-lovers who have formed this Association, would most probably have remained in oblivion. Of the composers of our own day it is hoped that the following works may be included: Professor Macfarren's new Cantata, "The Lady of the Lake;" Mr. Hatton's Sacred Drama, "Hezekiah;" a new manuscript Symphony in G minor, by Mr. Prout; and Dr. Sullivan's "Incidental Music to Shakespeare's 'Henry VIII.'" In addition to these, compositions will be given of Beethoven, Mozart, Haydn, Schumann, Berlioz, Rossini, Sterndale Bennett, C. V. Stanford, Gadsby, Liszt, Rubinstein, Wagner, Raff, Hoffman, and Goldmark (two rising stars of Germany), Reinecke, Gounod, Saint-Saëns, Verdi, Costa, and Sir Julius Benedict. Brahms's new Symphony will be repeated, with other works by the same composer. The concerts, which happily remain under the experienced conductorship of Mr. Manns, commence on the 6th inst.

DR. HULLAH'S Report of his Examination in Music of the Students of Training Colleges in Great Britain for the year 1876 announces that the number who presented themselves for examination was 116 in excess of the largest number of any former year. His comments upon those who enter the colleges without any musical skill or science whatever are well worth pondering; for, as he truly says, it is positively necessary that those who are to be teachers should commence the study of music when they are themselves at school, instead of waiting until they become students of the colleges. His general report is exceedingly hopeful, for he mentions that there were but few failures amongst those he examined, and that the number of those who could "accompany" themselves is steadily increasing. Experience seems to convince him that the capacity for music is universal; and he cites some instances of those who were said to be "voiceless and earless" proving on close investigation to possess good voices, and to have the power of correctly reproducing sounds sung or played to them. We quite agree with Dr. Hullah that "musical examination in elementary schools would seem to be the natural sequence of musical examination in training schools," and sincerely hope that the Committee of Council on Education will well consider the plan which it is said has been forwarded for carrying out so wise a suggestion.

THE following paragraph respecting the proposed new Opera-house on the Thames Embankment is quoted from the Architect: "We believe that many of the promoters no longer expect that the partially erected structure on the Thames Embankment will ever be completed as a National Opera-house, and there is some probability that it will eventually fall into the hands of others and be converted into a grand hotel, for which the site is considered to be exceptionally well adapted. Whatever its ultimate fate may be, it is certain that within the last week or two the unfinished building has been closely examined by surveyors and other experts on behalf of a body of capitalists whose object is to complete it as an hotel. We understand that their opinion is that, without disturbing either the external walls of the building or several of those inside, the shell of the building could be adapted to hotel purposes without difficulty, while among other features of the original design the grand and other staircases could be retained. In consequence of this, the promoters of the new project are prepared to make an offer to the Opera-house representatives to take over the building in its present condition at a valuation, and then to complete it without further delay as an hotel."

THE Borough of Hackney Choral Association appeals to the public with a powerful programme for the ensuing season. Amongst the works to be performed are the music to "Loreley," and the Thirteenth Psalm, of Mendelssohn; the "Jubilee Cantata," and a selection from "Oberon," of Weber; Beethoven's Mass in C, Haydn's "Military Symphony," Gade's "Crusaders," Mr. Ebenezer Prout's Magnificat, a selection from Schubert's music to "Rosamunde," and several Overtures, amongst which Sterndale Bennett's "Paradise and the Peri" will be included. The fact of Mr. Ebenezer Prout continuing to hold the post of Conductor may be accepted as a sufficient guarantee that all these compositions will be efficiently represented; and we feel convinced that the slight increase in the terms of subscription, for the purpose of giving the performances on as complete a scale as that of last season, will meet with the approbation of all the music-lovers of the neighbourhood. The first concert is announced for the 12th November.

THANKSGIVING Services for the harvest were celebrated in the Church of St. Edmund the King and Martyr, Lombard Street, on Thursday the 13th ult. The first service consisted of Te Deum (Barnby) and sermon. The special attraction was the evening service, when the church—which was crowded to excess, a great number of people being unable to obtain admission—was most beautifully and artistically decorated with wheat, fruit, flowers, and vegetables of the choicest kinds. The service commenced by the choir singing in procession the hymn, "Onward, Christian soldiers," to a new tune by Mr. H. Westrop, the former Organist. The Service used was Clarke-Whitfield in E. The Anthem, "Plead Thou my cause," was rendered in a most creditable manner, and the performance of the "Hallelujah Chorus" at the conclusion of the service deserves very great praise. The Organist, Miss Kate Westrop, played with good taste. The musical arrangements and directorship of the choir were carried out by the choirmaster, Mr. C. E. Tutill.

WE regret to record the death of William Jackson, Organist of Morningside Parish Church, Edinburgh, at the early age of twenty-four. His father was the well-known William Jackson, of Masham, whose musical labours were so fruitful in Yorkshire, his native county. The young artist just deceased had the advantage of his father's training in his early years, and he subsequently prosecuted with great earnestness a course of study at the Conservatorium für Musik, Stuttgart, where he obtained high honours. His labours as Organist and Choirmaster in Morningside Parish Church, and as a teacher of music, were eminently successful; and his untimely death will long leave a gloom in the circles where both his artistic and social qualities always ensured him a warm welcome.

THE Brixton Choral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. William Lemare, announces the following works for performance during the ensuing season: Haydn's "Creation;" Dr. Macfarren's new Oratorio, "Joseph;" a Sacred Cantata, called "A Song of Faith," by E. H. Turpin, and "The Legend of St. Dorothea," by Madame Sainton-Dolby; Spohr's "Last Judgment;" and Handel's "L'Allegro," "Il Pensieroso," and "Il Moderato." The first concert takes place on the 29th inst.

WE understand that the proprietors of "Hymns Ancient and Modern" having objected to the Rev. E. Husband adopting as the title of his new tune-book, "Supplemental Tunes to 'Hymns Ancient and Modern,' with an Appendix, edited by the Rev. E. Husband," he has withdrawn such title and his book of hymn-tunes will in future be known as "Supplemental Tunes to Popular Hymns," a second edition of which, revised and enlarged, is about to be issued by Messrs. Novello.

MR. BRINLEY RICHARDS has been highly successful during his tour in Wales, and his concerts—with Miss Mary Davies, R.A.M., Miss Lizzie Evans, R.A.M., and Mr. Gwylim Thomas (one of the Tynewydd rescuers, who appeared at the Crystal Palace)—seem to have created quite an enthusiasm. His efforts to prove a distinct nationality for the Welsh music, and to inculcate a love for high-class compositions, are deserving of the warmest praise.

WE regret that the latest news of the health of Mdlle. Titiens scarcely justifies us in announcing that any change for the better has taken place. She has returned from Worthing to her residence in the Finchley New Road—and bore the journey better than was anticipated—but an operation which has since been performed, although affording temporary relief, has left her very weak, and her medical attendants are extremely anxious as to the result.

WE understand that Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. propose to found a Musical Scholarship at the National Training School for Music, and also a similar Scholarship at the Royal Academy of Music. Particulars of the date of competition, &c., may be obtained of the Registrar, National Training School for Music, Kensington, and the Secretary of the Royal Academy of Music, Tenterden Street, Hanover Square.

A SCOTTISH Musical Entertainment was given at St. James's Hall on the 24th ult. by Mr. Kennedy, assisted by several members of his family. A well-selected and attractive programme was provided; and not only was all the vocal music warmly applauded, but Mr. Kennedy's anecdotes, historical and explanatory, were received with much favour.

THE competition for the residue of the Sterndale Bennett Scholarship (two terms) was held on Friday, the 14th ult., at the Royal Academy of Music, the examiners being Mr. F. R. Cox, Mr. H. C. Lunn, Mr. Walter Macfarren, and the Principal (Professor Macfarren). The Scholarship was awarded to Henry J. Cockram, Edwin M. Flavell being commended.

REVIEWS.

The Mount of Olives. An Oratorio, composed by L. van Beethoven. Edited, and the pianoforte accompaniment revised, by Ebenezer Prout. The English version newly translated and adapted by the Rev. J. Troutbeck.

[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

It is altogether superfluous to say a word about music so familiar to amateurs as that of Beethoven's only Oratorio, which, though not as a whole one of his greatest works, being indeed (as the composer himself subsequently felt) too dramatic in its style, yet possesses many points of interest. Neither is it needful to dwell upon Mr. Prout's revision of the pianoforte accompaniment, further than to say that the changes made have been in all cases in order to reproduce more closely the effects of the original score, and that the chief points of the orchestration have been carefully indicated throughout. What gives especial interest and value to the present edition is that the new English version by Mr. Troutbeck reflects faithfully, for the first time in our language, the spirit of the original. Those who are familiar with the German score will be aware that the part of Jesus is dramatically treated, just as in Bach's Passion-music; the only difference being that, instead of the original words of Scripture, a metrical paraphrase is given. In consequence of the prejudice which formerly existed in this country against such a practice, the earlier English versions so imperfectly reproduced the feeling of the original as in many parts to do violence in a great measure to Beethoven's music. In Mr. Bartholomew's translation the part of Jesus is given to St. John. How absurd the effect of this is may be seen from a collation of one passage. In the magnificent tenor solo which opens the work, the close translation of the German words given by Mr. Troutbeck is as follows:—

Father! bowed with fear and sorrow,
Lifts Thy Son His prayer to Thee;
By Thy power to save unbounded,
Take this cup away from Me.

Many of our readers will remember the exquisitely pathetic setting of these words by Beethoven, and will therefore be able to see how utterly the feeling of the music is ruined when sung to the text of Mr. Bartholomew.

Angels from above descending!
Gave Him strength again to pray;
"O My Father," He exclaimed,
"Take this cup of grief away."

The nonsense made by the first line is simply ludicrous, and the whole libretto is full of simple incongruities. Another attempt to evade the difficulty was made by Dr. Hudson, who adapted the music to a totally different subject, "Engedi; or, David in the Wilderness," a version which has met with much acceptance, and has been frequently performed, but which is open to the serious objection that it entirely distorts Beethoven's ideas.

Thanks no doubt in a great measure to the frequent performances of Bach's Passion-music, our audiences are learning that there is no more necessary irreverence in singing the words of Jesus than in singing any other words of Scripture; and the publishers of the present edition have considered that the time has arrived when an English version of the Oratorio might be produced which would do justice to the composer's intentions. It is difficult to speak too highly of the manner in which Mr. Troutbeck has acquitted himself of his task. We have never met with a more closely literal adaptation of words to music; in no one instance is violence offered to the sense of the original, and in several cases the translation is of rare felicity; we may especially instance the first Recitative and Air, and the Duet (No. 8), as being as near perfection as possible. The new version was used for the first time at the Leeds Festival, just ended; it is to be hoped that it will in future be the "authorised version," and that Beethoven's music will thus have a chance of appreciation which in this country has hitherto been impossible.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, in B flat, by John Stainer. Composed for the Fifth Annual Festival of the London Church Choir Association. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE London Church Choir Association which has already done good service to the cause of sacred music by causing the production of works of real merit, has for its coming festival commissioned the organist of St. Paul's to write them a Service, and has thereby laid choristers under an additional obligation. Dr. Stainer's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis are not only fully worthy of his reputation, but are particularly well adapted for the purpose for which they are specially composed. Music which has to be performed by a large body of singers—in the present case there will be considerably more than a thousand—can hardly be too broad and simple in its harmonic progressions; and this not from any fears as to the execution, but because in a large area, and with a great mass of voices, any music which is very elaborate is sure to fail in its effect. This fact Dr. Stainer has borne in mind, and the prevailing character of the present Service is a simple dignity. The opening of the Magnificat is rather novel. Though the key of the piece is B flat, the music begins with a pedal-point on D, the dominant of the relative minor; the effect of the entry of the voices in B flat being proportionately brighter. The chief theme is simplicity itself, and has almost a Handelian character about it. A short passage of imitation at

"For He that is mighty" leads to an effective episode in D major, with a change to triple time, for the words, "And holy is His name." At "He hath shewed strength" the first subject is resumed for a few bars, and some good music follows, on which it is not needful to dwell in detail. In the Gloria, the "As it was in the beginning" is fugally treated—and a very capital little fugue Dr. Stainer has written—concluding with the opening theme of the piece, now given in much slower time. The Nunc dimittis is of course much shorter; the commencement, for altos, tenors, and basses, divided so as to give five- and six-part harmony, is extremely pleasing. The trebles enter for the first time at the second verse, "For mine eyes have seen Thy salvation," the time becoming somewhat quicker. The music from this point is not at all elaborated, the words not even being repeated. The Gloria is constructed on the same themes as in the Magnificat, but is much more condensed. With anything like a tolerable performance, the music cannot fail to be effective; and we look forward with pleasure to the prospect of hearing it in St. Paul's.

Happy is the man that findeth wisdom, Anthem by Ebenezer Prout. Composed for the Fifth Annual Festival of the London Church Choir Association. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

It is perhaps unfair to criticise a composition of this kind, specially written to be sung by about a thousand voices, until it has passed the ordeal of actual performance. If we had any doubt as to its merits we should withhold our opinion until after it had been heard at the forthcoming Festival on the 8th of next month. But a careful examination of the work shows that the composer has unquestionably succeeded in reaching the high standard at which he aimed, and the excellent effect which it will certainly produce, if properly rendered, is discernible on every page. The first movement is framed upon a smooth and graceful subject proposed for imitation by the soprani, after a few bars of introduction; the other voices then enter in regular succession. The progress of the imitative treatment is arrested on page 4 in order to give broad expression to the words, "For the merchandise of it is better than silver, and the gain thereof than fine gold," after which the original theme, worked in as a Stretto and followed by a few bars of Coda, brings the movement to a close. The second portion of the Anthem is an interesting Quartett in E flat, "She is more precious than rubies," the organ accompaniment of which, though not presenting any difficulties to the most ordinary player, is so constructed as to be capable, in good hands, of important and beautiful effects. A choral Recitative links this movement to a fine burst of simply constructed harmony, to the words, "Then shalt thou understand the fear of the Lord," which leads to a dominant close before the enunciation of the fugue-subject in G. The working out of this Fugue is solid and bold, and forms an excellent climax to the work. The committee of the Association have done well to secure a contribution from such an able musician as Mr. Prout.

Six Cantatas, by Carissimi. Edited, and accompaniments written, by Ridley Prentice. [Lamborn Cock.]

THE revival of the works of the old masters will at least show us what a deep debt of gratitude we owe to those who had the hard task of rescuing music from the pedantic surroundings which so long concealed its real beauties from the world. No person knew better than the composer of the "Messiah" this fact, and no one perhaps more availed himself of some portion of the wealth by these earnest workers. From the general public, however, the source of these riches has been for some time hidden; so that although it has scarcely ever been affirmed that "Handel is like Carissimi," the publication of these Cantatas may perhaps lead many to exclaim that "Carissimi is like Handel." In the preface to this interesting volume the editor truly says, in speaking of the early days of Recitative, "To Carissimi is due, not indeed the invention, but the perfecting of this new method of musical speech or declamation, as distinguished from singing; and to him it is due that Handel finds this great requisite for his work ready to his hand. The way was now paved for the mighty master, and Carissimi, beyond all others, is his forerunner; and as such he is recognised by Handel in the most real and practical manner, who not only uses his method and forms his recitatives on the model furnished by Carissimi, but frequently appropriates his work." Those who heard Carissimi's Oratorio, "Jonah," when revived by Mr. Henry Leslie, will, we think, thoroughly agree with these observations. The pure and unaffected vocal writing in the Cantatas before us must, we are certain, charm all genuine artists. In the first, "A Morire" (transposed by the editor from C into A minor), the phrases are remarkable for depth of expression; and in the second, "Deh contentatevi" (transposed from E into F minor), we have a lovely flowing theme in $\frac{3}{4}$ rhythm, the modulations throughout being appropriately sympathetic with the words; the intervening short recitatives foreshadowing, as we have already remarked, the style afterwards so successfully developed by Handel, and giving much variety to what might otherwise be felt as a somewhat monotonous song. No. 3, "Filli, non t'amo più" (transposed from C into A major), is a more florid piece, the passages, however, being highly dramatic. In this, too, the accompaniment is chiefly independent of the voice, and in many parts extremely modern in character. No. 4, "No, no, mio core," is a melodious movement, in G minor (although having only one flat at the signature) containing several phrases demanding good and even execution, and most effectively alternating between $\frac{3}{4}$ and Common rhythm. No. 5, "Exulta," is a duet for two soprani, transposed from F into E flat major, and written in $\frac{3}{4}$ instead of the original $\frac{2}{4}$ rhythm. The passages for the two voices, answering each other, are extremely effective; but good singers will be required to give due effect to the composition. Here again the music constantly changes from triple to quadruple and duple rhythm. No. 6, a Duet for soprano and bass, in A minor, but concluding with the conventional major triad, contains some harmonies to which the modern ear is scarcely accustomed. The Duet, however, although perhaps not so striking as No. 5, includes much excellent writing, the bold treatment of the "Hallelujah" being especially fine. The editor has performed his task with good faith, and has exercised much judgment in writing the pianoforte accompaniments. We can scarcely see why many of the Cantatas are transposed from the original keys, because there can be no doubt that the composer always knows best what he means. Unquestionably solos thus altered will be more generally available; but, after all, the volume must be regarded as chiefly interesting in an historical point of view; and the more, therefore, the author's idea is in all cases respected the better. The work is well got up; and we may add that although a violoncello accompaniment is published to No. 1, the pianoforte part is quite complete without it; but the obbligato for the same instrument to No. 4 is essential.

Sonata for the Pianoforte, by James Turpin. [Weekes and Co.]

THE fear with young composers is that when they have thoroughly mastered the rules for the form and construction of musical works they will as soon as possible endeavour to escape from them. A careful perusal of Mr. Turpin's Sonata, however, convinces us either that its author has no desire to cast aside the models which have guided him in his studies, or that we have caught him before he has gained confidence enough to indulge in those wild flights of fancy the chief pleasure of which appears to consist in a bold defiance of all the received canons of criticism. We have rarely indeed met with a more pure specimen of solid workmanship than Mr. Turpin's "Op. 1;" and can assure him that if he continue in the path he has chosen, he will have no occasion to envy those who impatiently rush away from the beaten track in the hope of drawing attention to their eccentricity, if not to their wisdom. The placid leading subject in the first movement is well treated after the conventional close on the dominant at the double bar; and no attempt is made to display a profundity of knowledge at the expense of the fitness of the design. The slow movement is simple, melodious, and sufficiently developed for so unpretentious a Sonata, the demisemiquaver accompaniment on the return of the theme being especially effective and appropriate. The Scherzo and Trio are well contrasted, although the influence of Beethoven is somewhat too apparent, particularly in the Scherzo. The final Rondo is perhaps the weakest of the movements, the opening subject having scarcely sufficient interest to be welcomed on its return. There is some good writing, however, especially where the theme, in the subdominant, appears above and below the semiquaver accompaniment, and, despite a few crudities, Mr. Turpin may fairly congratulate himself upon having made a highly successful début.

Maid of Athens. Song. Words by Lord Byron.

Sleep on and dream of Heaven. Serenade.

While my ladye sleepeth. Serenade.

Composed by H. A. Salwey.

[C. E. Glover and Son.]

MR. SALWEY must not be surprised if the appreciation of his music should be lessened by the recollection of many former settings of Byron's well-known verses to the "Maid of Athens." This is always the penalty that must be paid for choosing high-class poetry; but we rarely find that composers are deterred by such considerations; and although better musicians than Mr. Salwey have suffered in the cause, we have no doubt that as long as the ambition of artists is in no degree limited by their capacity, we shall have to record many such instances of ill-assorted unions as we find in the song under notice. The commonplace theme wedded to Byron's beautiful lines (although disfigured by the last two crotchets in the third bar progressing in fifths with the bass) is generally carefully accompanied, and would flow agreeably enough with equally harmless verses; but the treatment of the words commencing "By those tresses unconfin'd," with the descending arpeggios between each line, is feeble in the extreme. The Serenade "Sleep on and dream of Heaven," is remarkable for commencing with an eight-bar symphony which sounds like a crude exercise on modulation; but in the course of the song we meet with many melodious vocal phrases and some good effects in the accompaniment. Decidedly the best of the three songs submitted to us is "While my ladye sleepeth," which has a quiet and appropriately placid theme, well harmonised. We do not like the four bars of symphony which lead from G major into B minor; but the change of accompaniment on the recurrence of the original subject, and the few bars at the conclusion of the song, show much musical feeling. We believe that if Mr. Salwey could learn the difficult art of being simple, he would write better music.

MR. E. SILAS, who writes to say that his Gavotte in E minor, noticed in our August number, did not follow, but preceded, the "inundation" of such pieces, should remember that, as music is not dated, we have a right to assume that compositions forwarded to us for review have been recently published.—Ed. MUSICAL TIMES.

FOREIGN NOTES.

THE majority of the leading operatic establishments of Germany having now resumed their regular performances, the music-season of 1877-78, as represented by these important institutions, may be said to have fairly commenced in that country. In its opening performance on August 24, the Royal Opera at Berlin paid a tribute to the greatest of living dramatic composers of the Fatherland, Richard Wagner, whose "Lohengrin" was selected for the occasion. Already, since then, a number of standard works, to wit, "Fidelio," "Freischütz," "Oberon," "Don Giovanni," "Nozze di Figaro," "Guillaume Tell," and others, have been produced at the opera-house in question, a fact which augurs well for the activity of its impresario, and lends colour to the report that during the coming winter an undertaking fraught with so many difficulties, both local and scenic, as the performance of Wagner's "Walküre" will be realised on the Berlin stage. An activity no less marked has been shown by the managers of the Imperial Opera at Vienna, whose doors were reopened on August 16 with Verdi's "Aida," followed by performances similar to those of the sister-institute just mentioned, and including, moreover, that of "Walküre," a work with the beauties of which the Viennese public must now be getting familiar, it having already been produced at the Austrian capital during last season. At the same house the remaining parts of the great Tetralogy are in course of preparation, and "Rheingold," the first of the series, is to be performed in January next. While on this subject, we may mention that, according to the Allgemeine Deutsche Musik-Zeitung, the intended performances of the entire work, "Der Ring des Nibelungen," at the Court Theatre at Munich next year will be dispensed with, and will be transferred instead to the Fest-Theater at Bayreuth, it being the intention of that enthusiastic admirer of the poet-composer King Louis of Bavaria to lend the personnel of his opera and an orchestra of increased dimensions for the purpose. It is obvious that in this the King is animated by a generous desire not to interfere with the raison d'être of the Bayreuth undertaking. In the production of novelties from the pen of German operatic composers the present season is likely to prove exceptionally prolific, and it is to be hoped that with regard to their artistic merit the Latin distinction of multa non multum will have no too frequent application. Among the new works, the performance of which is foreshadowed by the musical journals, we mention the following: "Landfrieden," by Brüll, at Berlin; "Armin," by H. Hoffman, at Dresden; "Ekkehard," by J. Abert, at Stuttgart; "Lancelot," by Th. Hentschel, and "Di Albigenser," by De Swert, at Hamburg; "Nameless Heroes," by Erkel, at Pesh. A posthumous Opera by Hermann Götz, entitled, "Francesca da Rimini," will be performed at Mannheim, under the direction of Capellmeister Frank, who, with the co-operation of Herr Brahms, has prepared the work for stage representation. Gluck's "Armida" having been performed for the first time by the Académie Royale de Musique at Paris just a hundred years ago, the Royal Opera at Berlin gave a representation of the work last month to commemorate the fact. The same operatic reformer's "Orpheus and Eurydice" was recently revived at the Stadt-Theater of Hamburg.

The great Liszt Concert, under the direction of Dr. F. Stade, which, as indicated in our last number, took place on the 14th ult., at the Leipzig Gewandhaus, comprised the maestro's "Faust Symphony," his "Goethe March," portions from his Oratorio "Christus," as well as his arrangement for chorus and orchestra of Schubert's "Allmacht." Some of these works were, strange to say, heard for the first time at Leipzig, the effect produced by the entire concert having been of the most enthusiastic character.

Anton Rubinstein will, it is announced, be the Conductor at the next music Festival of the Lower Rhine, which is to take place next summer at Düsseldorf. This will be the second time of the Russian composer's conducting one of these festivals at the Rhenish town in question. On the former occasion, in 1872, his "Tower of Babel" was produced: next year's programme will include his "Dramatic Symphony" and one of his more important choral works.

Madame Annette Essipoff, the distinguished Russian pianiste, has been engaged for forty concerts to be given in various towns of the German Empire, and for which she will receive the sum of 18,000 marks.

Much enthusiasm was displayed last month at Crefeld during the unveiling of a memorial erected in that town to the composer Carl Wilhelm, whose "Wacht am Rhein" obtained such significance with the German soldiers during the Franco-German war of 1870.

The Danewirke states that during the winter season Herr Richard Wagner will conduct some of his earlier dramatic works at the Opera-house at Copenhagen.

After an interval of several years, Madame Schumann again made her appearance at a concert at Baden-Baden on the 8th ult. It is needless to add that her performance of the Concerto in A minor by her late husband, and of several pieces by Chopin, elicited the warmest applause of the audience.

A number of musical works by Hassler, Tartini, Festori, and others will be brought under the hammer at the beginning of this month by Lepke, of Berlin. The auction will include, moreover, some interesting autographs, among which figure the names of Beethoven, C. M. von Weber, Mendelssohn, Marianne Mozart (sister of the composer), Rossini, Zelter, and others of minor importance.

A French translation of an elaborate essay, entitled, "On the Beautiful in Music," from the pen of Herr Hanslick, the distinguished Viennese critic and musical savant, has just been published by the firm of Brandus et Cie., of Paris.

The latest addition to the already most copious Wagner literature will be a complete "Wagner-Lexicon," comprising all the minor and major productions, both literary and purely artistic, of the author of the "Tetralogy," as well as everything which in books, pamphlets, or newspaper articles may have been written concerning him. The compiler of this elaborate work is Herr Emerich Kastner, of Vienna.

The competitive performances of choir-singing, held in connection with the recent Rubens Festival at Antwerp, resulted in the jury awarding the first prize of 1,500 francs to the well-known Society, "Liederkrantz," of Cologne, whose pre-eminence in the rendering of Quartetts for male voices has long been acknowledged in Germany.

At the Royal Academy of Arts, at Berlin, Herr Arnold Krug obtained this year the prize of 4,500 marks, instituted by Meyerbeer, for the composition of a tragic opera in one act, a Double Fugue for eight voices a capella, and an Overture.

Mdlle. Minnie Hauck, who made her début at the Théâtre de la Monnaie, at Bruxelles, on the 4th of last month, in "Faust," achieved a great success, the audience being most demonstrative in its enthusiastic approbation.

The Guide Musical de Bruxelles corrects a mistake, which has crept into all biographical dictionaries, concerning the christian names of the French composer Méhul, the author of the truly classical Opera, "Joseph in Egypt." The correction is based upon the indisputable evidence of the baptismal register of the composer's birth, from which it appears that, as a matter of fact, Méhul was named Etienne-Nicolas, instead of Etienne-Henri, as hitherto stated. The difference may appear insignificant from an artistic point of view; but then biographical dictionaries should be correct, even in trifles.

At the Grand-Opéra in Paris Meyerbeer's "L'Africaine" is in active course of preparation, and will probably be performed in November for the first time at the new Opera-house. Madame Krauss is to sing the rôle of Selika and M. Villaret that of Vasco. The Théâtre-Lyrique announces the performance, during the coming winter, of the following operatic works: "La Clef d'Or" by Octave Feuillet and Eugène Gautier; "L'Aumônier du Régiment" by Salomon; and "Graziella" by A. Choudens, son of the well-known music-publisher. At the Renaissance an early production is promised of Johann Strauss's Operetta entitled "Fledermaus," the text of which has undergone a complete change at the hands of MM. Delacour and Wilder. This transformation was necessitated in consequence of the author of "Réveillon," upon which the German text of the Operetta is based, objecting to its being retranslated into French and performed as an Operetta in France. The new title of the work will be "La Tsigane." A concert held at the Théâtre-Italien for the benefit of the Russian wounded achieved a most brilliant result. The programme was composed of an Operetta by Offenbach, vocal solos by Mesdames Belocca, Derval, and Nordi, and an excellent performance on the pianoforte by Herr Theodor Ritter, who played the Scherzo from "Midsummer Night's Dream" and a Valse by Chopin. The receipts amounted to 18,000 francs.

Richard Wagner's "Flying Dutchman" is shortly to be performed for the first time at Bologna. A deputation from the town in question has lately waited upon the impresario of the Munich Opera to study the scenic arrangements adopted for the performance of the work in the Bavarian capital.

M. Victor Massé, the chief orchestral director of the Paris Opera, has been obliged to take a six months' leave, in consequence of ill health. During his absence, MM. Hustache and Condes will alternately officiate as Conductors.

The commission appointed to superintend the musical section at the forthcoming International Exhibition at Paris has nominated M. Colonne chef d'orchestre, to whose care will be entrusted the selection of a suitable orchestra.

The Revue et Gazette Musicale points out the fact that the late M. Thiers was not only a great statesman but also an intelligent lover of music, and the friend of struggling artists. It was through his influence that the composer Boïeldieu, when in reduced circumstances, obtained a professorship at the Paris Conservatoire.

The first numbers of a new musical periodical, entitled Gazetta Musicale di Firenze, have been published at Florence under the auspices of Signor A. Tozzi.

A German Opera Company has been engaged for a tour in the United States of America by the tenor singer Charles Adams. Among its members are mentioned Mdles. Pappenheim, Wilde, and Reinmann. The répertoire of the company will consist chiefly of Operas by Wagner, Meyerbeer, and Gounod.

Dr. Julius Rietz, the intimate friend of Mendelssohn, and one of the most distinguished of the present generation of German musicians, died at Dresden on the 12th ult., in the sixty-fifth year of his age.

CORRESPONDENCE.

MUSICAL CRITICISM.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—I am pleased to observe your remarks from time to time relative to the inaccuracy of those who write upon musical subjects. Not long ago I read in one of our musical journals of Clementi's Sonata, "Didone abbandonata, scena tragica," described as a "scena magica," and Clementi himself put down as "the old Viennese master." The author of "Music and Morals" places Hasse, who was born near Hamburg, among the Italian composers. But I principally wished to draw attention to two of the old Italian masters who appear never to have been properly appreciated—Bononcini and Piccini. The former is commonly alluded to with a sneer, as having been vanquished by Handel under the name of "Twedledee," whereas very few really know a note that Bononcini composed. Some of his Opera airs were very sweet, "Astartus" for instance, and his Trios for strings very good; and one work of his, "The Funeral Anthem, composed for the Duke of Marlborough," is well worth knowing and should be reprinted, although copies are very scarce. The late Mr. V. Novello spoke in high terms of Bononcini's Church music, which contains specimens of the genuine old classical Italian school of ecclesiastical composition. In "Music and Morals," Piccini is stigmatised as the "ballad-mongering Piccini" vanquished by Gluck; and these very words I came across in a recently delivered musical lecture. The truth about Piccini is, that he did as good service in another direction as Gluck, especially in developing the dramatic Aria, to which he gave a character somewhat resembling the Rondo, and also discarding the "minor" and the "da capo," which had been the invariable form of the Operatic Air. Piccini's instrumentation was a great advance upon that time. The full score of "Roland" is well worth reading through, much resembling modern scores, and not at all those of Handel and other writers nearer Piccini's own time, and it must be borne in mind that both Piccini and Gluck were not far removed from Handel, as "Orfeo" was published in 1760. There is a great deal too much of this summary mode of dealing with authors by those who perhaps could not even name a work of those whom they thus dismiss with a few phrases, which are in their turn echoed in a parrotlike manner by others. In "Modern German Music" by Chorley, speaking of Mozart's Masses, he quotes a passage, which he terms "cuckoo bravura," which turns out not to be Mozart's at all, but is from the Kyrie of Haydn's Second Mass.

Another greater Italian, Cherubini, has had but scant justice done to him in this country. If some of our Festivals or great Choral Societies would bring some of his incomparable Masses before the public, such masterpieces would be of far greater benefit to art than so many Oratorios, Cantatas, &c. &c. of modern composers, which, however meritorious, should certainly not occupy the place of genuine works of art, unknown at least to the younger class of musicians. Messrs. Novello, by their edition of Cherubini's First Requiem, in C minor, have given the general musical public an opportunity of somewhat judging of the style of this great master in sacred music; and they also publish a folio edition of the Mass in A (the Coronation Mass), besides Motets and other shorter works. We believe that they contemplate bringing out the remaining three Masses, and may probably include the "Medea," "Lodoiska," or "Faniska" as the public taste advances, in their most excellent edition of octavo operas, which, containing notes of the instrumentation, are far more useful to students than other editions which do not possess this feature. To show how little knowledge of Cherubini's works there has been in this country, I recollect that when the news of the composer's death, in 1842, reached London, all that the Philharmonic Society could do in the way of commemoration was to perform two of his well-known Overtures.

To return to the first subject of these remarks, I omitted to mention that the author of "Modern German Music" speaks of Clementi's Pianoforte Sonata, "Didone abbandonata" as an Opera; and this is quoted in the biography of Cherubini by Mr. Bellasis. The passage is as follows, relative to Spontini's Operas: "Whereas 'Les Deux Journées' of Cherubini, and the 'Didone abbandonata' of Clementi, though less brilliant and less conciliatory of popular suffrage, and, like Spontini's music, rather dry, will not soon be forgotten." "Les Deux Journées" is certainly not a dry Opera, seeing that "two hundred representations did not satiate the enthusiasm of the Parisians" on its first production.—Yours faithfully,

September 14.

A CONSTANT READER.

"MISSA SERAPHICA."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Your reviewer in August last is somewhat hard upon the talented composer of the above work. May I take the principal objections seriatim. First, as to its title. The "significant" portion of it is prefixed to several others that are pretty well known, and have been in use for some time, e.g. "Missa de Angelis," "Missa Regia," "Missa in duplicibus," &c., &c. May I also point out that the first Liturgy in English spoke of the Holy Communion as the Mass, and our present Prayer-Book gives a special heading to "The Nativity of our Lord, commonly called Christ-mas Day." Secondly, it is stated, that certain numbers in Mr. Brown's Mass are from the Rom-ish (by which, of course, is meant the Roman) Missal. Now I do not possess a copy, but I have reason to think that the hymn "O salutaris" would not be found in it. I believe that it is allowable for choirs in Roman churches to introduce this hymn with others after the Offertory. Many compilers of our hymn and anthem books seem to consider we have a similar liberty, for I find the words—for setting which poor Mr. Brown is snubbed—are specially included with Hymns for the Holy Eucharist in "Hymns Ancient and Modern" (No. 311, part 2), "The Hymnary" (No. 432), Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge (No. 458, words of similar import), and in "Words of Anthems" selected by Rev. W. Rayson, John Stainer, and Rev. J. Troutbeck (Nos. 566 and 721). Next, admitting that "Domine, non sum dignus" may be in the Rom-ish Missal, would your reviewer be surprised to learn that it is certainly in the Bible? I find in St. Matthew, viii. 8, the words "Lord, I am not worthy that Thou shouldest come under my roof: but speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed." In the Service under review the words "my soul" are substituted for "my servant." I cannot call this verbal alteration essentially "Rom-ish," for it is usually considered most "significantly" Protestant to pray for oneself, and only Rom-ish to extend one's charity to the souls of other people. Fourthly, "Grant them eternal rest" is no doubt taken from "Requiem eternam" in the "Missa pro Defunctis." But there is a hymn, rather well known, I believe, called "Dies iræ" to be found in "The Hymnal Noted" (Novello), "Hymns Ancient and Modern" (221, old edition, Novello), "The Hymnary" (107, Novello), and in "Church Hymns and Tunes" (Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge, 355), it is classed among General Hymns. The first two have "Grant them," the third "Grant him," and the fourth "Grant us." The Protestantism of the last quoted is evidently therefore in danger, if "Domine, non sum dignus," &c., be Rom-ish. Your reviewer concludes, "We should like to ask the meaning of a sign which we have never met with before." The italics are mine. "In the Credo, before the words, 'And the life of the world to come' we find this mark ✕. Will Mr. Brown, or some other of our readers, kindly inform us what it is, for we have not the slightest idea?" I am glad to be able to inform him—and your readers—that it is a typographical mark for the cross, which Christians first meet with at their baptism, when the priest signs every one "in token that they shall hereafter not be ashamed to confess the faith of Christ crucified." As many persons inadvertently forget this, Mr. Brown has done good service in reminding them of it. SPENSER NOTTINGHAM.

Seaford, September 11, 1877.

[We have no reply to make to Mr. Nottingham's letter, except that it supplies the best possible proof of the correctness of our surmise as to Mr. Brown's "Mass." We would also say that our acquaintance with Scripture was sufficient to make us aware that the "Domine, non sum dignus" was an adaptation from a passage in the Gospel of St. Matthew, to be found in the Rom-ish (or, if he prefers it, Rom-an) Missal.—The Writer of the Review.]

THE "STICKER ACTION" IN PIANOFORTES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Every one who has had any practical experience of the Sticker action will agree with the letter of "A Music-seller of Thirty Years' standing" in your last month's issue concerning its utter inefficiency when affected by damp. As a natural result, the leather of the sticker hinges, levers, and bushing of the butts becoming saturated with moisture, the hammer works sluggishly, and the blade of the hopper, on account of the swollen condition of the lever, is prevented from relieving itself when the note is struck, causing the blocking of the hammer against the string, and rendering the pianoforte unuseable. It is doubtless an action long since condemned, but, from length of service, it holds to existence with great tenacity.

The so-called French action (originally the invention of Mr. Wornum, and called by the French the "English Mechanism") is the only principle that should be adopted in pianos for foreign country use, and your correspondent's experience with the principal London makers must be very limited to suppose that Broadwood's house is almost the only one adopting the same. Our own firm has used this action for upwards of thirty years, and three-fourths of our production (over a thousand pianos every year) are made with the so-called French or crank action.

It is asked, "What is the hindrance to the general use of the 'foreign action'?" The principal impediment to its universal usage is to be found in the prejudice that exists among many dealers and tuners, in adopting a mechanism of which they know but little.—We remain, sir, yours faithfully,

CHALLEN & SON.

20, Oxford Street, London.

 WE have received numerous letters respecting the "Sticker action" in pianofortes; but the unusual pressure upon our space prevents our inserting more than one, which, however, fairly represents the opinion of the trade upon the subject.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will greatly oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all Subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music pages are always stereotyped, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

OXONIAN.—In most cases it is required that a minor canon should possess a little musical knowledge and considerable interest. The former can be obtained by intercourse with musicians; the latter by association with Church dignitaries. There is, as far as we know, no College which specially offers training to minor canons.

PEARL VIDSON.—The best method would be to send the compositions to a publisher (if possible, with a recommendation from a professor of eminence), and request him either to treat for or return them. If you could command a good sale, it might be worth while to publish them on your own account.

A. M. U.—Both scales are correct, and both should be practised; but the true harmonic minor scale is that with the A flat and B natural. Theoretical works, and not conventional "Instruction Books," should be consulted on the subject.

FREDERICK MITCHELL.—Write for a prospectus to the Royal Academy of Music, Tenterden Street, Hanover Square.

C. M. W.—The hood is granted to Licentiates; Associates wear a gown only.

T. ELLISTON, SUDBURY, SUFFOLK.—Letter, pointing out the imperfect opening of ordinary Swell-boxes, received, with thanks.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this Summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

ALTRINCHAM, NEAR MANCHESTER.—The Annual Concert of the Brass Band was given on the 1st ult. in the Literary Institute. The vocalists included Mr. T. H. Greenwood, Mr. Davies, and Mr. G. H. Hulme; Solo instrumentalists: Mr. Moss, euphonium; Mr. Chapman, cornet à piston; and Mr. T. H. Greenwood, pianoforte. The band played a fantasia on Spohr's Opera Jessonda, which was highly appreciated. Mr. Greenwood accompanied the vocalists. The concert was a complete success.

BIRMINGHAM.—The second Concert of the Philharmonic Union was given in the Town Hall on the 11th ult., under the conductorship of Dr. Swinnerton Heap. The chief items of the programme were Gade's Zion (excellently rendered by the members of the Society) and Hummel's Septett, in which the Conductor, who took the pianoforte part, was joined by Messrs. Nicholson, Fowler, Ward, Probin, Van Biene, and Moreton. Miss Orridge, of the Royal Academy of Music, produced a marked impression by her artistic singing, and Mr. Cross, of Salisbury, rendered efficient aid in the bass songs. There was an immense audience, and the success of the concert was unqualified.

A popular Concert was given in the Town Hall on Monday the 17th ult. under the direction of Mr. Duchemin. The artists were Mesdames Sinico and Enriquez, Mr. Vernon Rigby and Signor Campobello (vocalists), Mr. D. Keppel (solo flute), and Mr. Duchemin (pianoforte). The programme consisted of well-known songs, &c., the only novelty being a brilliant Polonaise by Mr. Duchemin. The execution of the programme was extremely good, and several pieces were encored.—On Tuesday the 18th ult. a Concert was given by Miss Welchman, a new claimant for public patronage, and a pianist of great promise. The programme included Schumann's Quintett in E flat (Op. 44); Haydn's Quartett (Op. 12) in G, for strings, and Mendelssohn's Trio in D minor. The execution of all was very good; of some, excellent. The artists were Messrs. H. and C. Hayward (violin), Mr. Roberts (viola), and Mr. Owen (violoncello). Mr. Henry Hayward gave an artistic rendering of the last two movements of Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto; Mr. Owen's solo, a Nocturne by Piaty, was much applauded; and special mention is due to Miss Welchman for her performance of Liszt's Fantasia, "Rigoletto," and an Etude by Rubinstein. The audience was numerous, and the enterprise successful.

BLACKBURN.—On Wednesday evening, the 19th ult., the Parish Church was filled with a select audience to hear the Organist, Mr. T. S. Hayward, perform on the grand organ built by M. A. Cavaille-Coll, of Paris, and presented to the Parish Church by Mr. W. Coddington. The programme contained selections from the works of Beethoven, Bach, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Meyerbeer, Lemmens, Guilmant, and Wely. Mr. Hayward played in a masterly manner, and the recital was most successful.

BLACKLEY.—On Saturday the 15th ult. the members and friends of the Blackley Choral Society gave a most successful rendering of Handel's Oratorio the Messiah, at the Baptist Chapel. The principal singers were Mrs. Whitwam, Miss M. A. Shaw, and Miss E. Shaw; Mr. James Greenwood, from King's College, Cambridge, Mr. A. Pleasance, from St. John's College, Cambridge, and Messrs. J. Taylor, Wm. Fox, and Binns. The proceeds of the performance were in aid of the building fund for the erection of a new chapel.

BRISTOL.—On Saturday the 1st ult. Mr. George Riseley recommenced his weekly series of Organ Recitals at the Colston Hall. The pieces in the programme which met with the heartiest applause were Cherubini's "Ave Maria," Spohr's "Adagio," and a Serenade by Schubert, which proved that Mr. Riseley has trained his audience to the appreciation of high-class music.

BUXTON.—On Thursday evening, the 6th ult., Mr. Julian Adams gave another of his extra vocal and instrumental entertainments in the Concert Hall. The artists engaged were Mdlle. Chioni, Mdlle. Holmberg, Signor Urio, Signor Monari Rocca, and Signor Campana (accompanist). Mdlle. Chioni was highly successful in the "Jewel Song" from Faust, and "The Message" (Blumenthal), receiving for the latter performance a well-deserved encore. Mdlle. Holmberg, the Swedish contralto, also elicited an encore for her rendering of Gounod's Romanza, "Biondina." Signor Urio sang Beethoven's Cantata, "Adelaide," and Donizetti's Romanza, "Spirto gentil" (Favorita), the latter being redemanded. Signor Monari Rocca gave Signor Campana's new song, "The Patriot," which was encored; and was also most successful in "Largo al factotum." The instrumental pieces were, as usual, successfully rendered.

CHRISTCHURCH, NEW ZEALAND.—A musical union has been formed in this town by the combination of the Harmonic (Vocal) Society and the Orchestral Society. Two concerts of the season have already been given, the first consisting of Mendelssohn's St. Paul, and the second of Barnett's Ancient Mariner, and a selection of orchestral music, comprising Haydn's Symphony in B flat, and Rossini's Overture to La Gazza Ladra. The choral works were under the direction of Mr. Robert Parker, organist of the Pro-Cathedral, and the orchestral pieces were conducted by Mr. Alexander Lean, an amateur who has done much for music in Canterbury. Readers of the MUSICAL TIMES will perhaps hardly imagine how much is being done in New Zealand (considering the scantiness of the population) towards making the greatest works known to young colonists. At a recent Wesleyan Festival Macfarren's St. John the Baptist was represented very fairly, under the direction of the choir-master of the chapel, which contains a fine organ. At the Pro-Cathedral of St. Michael a special afternoon service, comprising selections from Bach's Passion (St. Matthew), was held on Good Friday in the presence of a large congregation, the effect of the grand old music being most solemn and impressive. Mr. Neville Barnett, F.C.O., was associated with Mr. Parker in its preparation.

CLIFTON.—The tenth season of Mr. J. C. Daniels' winter entertainments commenced on the 17th ult. with two Ancient Ballad Concerts, at the Victoria Rooms. The artists engaged included Madame Lemmens-Sherrington and Mdlle. José Sherrington (soprano), Miss Emily Domes (contralto), Mr. R. Hollins (tenor), Mr. H. Pyatt (bass), and Chevalier Lemmens (solo Mustel organ). The performances were well appreciated.

DURWESTON, NEAR BLANDFORD.—Harvest Thanksgiving Services were held in the Village Church on Sunday the 16th ult. The Canticles were sung to chants by Lord Mornington, Robinson, Norris, Steggall, and Allen. The hymns selected were "Come, ye thankful people, come," "O Lord of heaven, and earth, and sea," "Come, ye faithful, raise the anthem," "Holy is the seed-time" (set to music for the occasion by the organist), "We plough the fields and scatter," and "Onward, Christian soldiers." Mr. Alfred B. Allen, of London, presided at the organ, and played, for opening and concluding voluntaries, his "Introduction and Variations on the Hymn, 'Now thank we all our God,'" and his "March of the Choristers," on the fine new instrument recently erected by Messrs. Vowles, of Bristol. Both services were well attended, the church in the evening being crowded to excess. The proceeds of the offertories were devoted to the Indian Famine Fund.

ELLESMERE.—An Organ Recital was given in the Parish Church on the 24th of August by Mr. Coudrey, the Organist, Choir-Director and Professor of Music at the College. The programme included selections from the works of Handel, Mendelssohn, Bach, Beethoven, &c., and an Impromptu by Mr. Coudrey. The Recital was a great success and much appreciated by a large audience.

GLASGOW.—The St. George's Choral Union announces a Concert of exceptional interest on the 2nd January, 1878, the programme of which will include Gade's Crusaders, and M. Gounod's De Profundis, the Conductor being Dr. Hans von Bülow. This Society is gaining rapidly in public favour, and there are now more applications for admission into the choir than can be entertained. During the Summer the Wednesday Popular Concerts in the Garden Palace given by the Association have been uniformly well attended; and a performance of sacred music in the City Hall is advertised for the 25th inst. Considering that this is only the sixth session of the Union, these results are deserving of the highest commendation.

GUISBOROUGH.—A Concert of vocal music was given in the Temperance Hall on the 11th ult., by Miss E. Carey Walker, of Stockton-on-Tees, assisted by Mr. Baines, principal tenor of York Minster, who gave with much effect, "The Death of Nelson," "The White swan," and "Once again." Miss Annie Langley, one of Miss Walker's pupils, gained an encore for her rendering of "Cleansing fires," and Miss Walker was very successful in all her songs, eliciting great applause. Mr. F. Savile Clark presided at the pianoforte and accompanied the songs.

HALIFAX.—On the 7th ult. the members of the Parish Church Choir presented Dr. Roberts with a very beautiful inkstand, as a slight token of their regard. Mr. Verney Binns, made the presentation, which was duly acknowledged. The inkstand bears the following inscription, "Presented to John Varley Roberts, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Choirmaster of the Halifax Parish Church, as a mark of esteem, by the members of his choir, September 1877."

HIGH WYCOMBE.—On Tuesday the 4th ult. a new Organ was opened in Union Chapel by Mr. E. Minshall, Organist of the City Temple, London. There was a service in the afternoon, and an Organ Recital, with vocal music interspersed, in the evening. The great organ has nine stops; the swell, six; and pedal organ, four; three couplers, and five composition stops.

MIDDLESBROUGH-ON-TEES.—On Thursday evening the 6th ult. the third annual Choral Festival of the Cleveland branch of the York Diocesan Choral Association took place in St. Paul's Church, and was most successful. The processional hymn, "House of our God, with hymns of gladness ring" (O. Gibbons), from E. J. Hopkins's Tune-book, was well rendered, the organ being only used for the last verse. Preces, Tallis, transposed to D. The special Psalm (civ.) was sung to Himes's chant in Hopkins's Chant-book, with additional harmonies. After the lessons the Cantate Domine and Deus misericorditer were sung to G. A. Macfarren's Unison Service in C (dedicated to the Rev. Powell Metcalfe, M.A., the Secretary of the Association). This fine Service had apparently been well practised by all the choirs, it being almost faultlessly rendered. The Anthem was, "Sing praises to the Lord" (Dr. Croft); the hymn before sermon, "Hark the sound of holy voices" (Rev. J. B. Dykes), from "Hymns Ancient and Modern;" and the recessional hymn, "Sing to the Lord a joyful song," old English, from Hopkins's Tune-book. The Rev. Mr. Stott, Minor Canon of York Minster, conducted; the Rev. C. Johnson, Curate of St. Paul's, intoned the service; and the sermon was preached by the Rev. C. W. Kennion, M.A., Vicar of All Saints, Bradford. Mr. Charles Bradley, M.C.O., Organist of St. Paul's, presided at the organ, which is a fine instrument by Messrs. Gray and Davison, London, built especially for Durham Cathedral during restoration, and removed to St. Paul's in October last year. The number of surplised choristers who took part in the service was about ninety, besides many who were unsurplised. The following local churches were represented: St. Paul's, St. John's, St. Peter's, All Saints', St. Barnabas', Eston Parish Church, and Normanby.

NORTH BERWICK, N.B.—On Wednesday the 19th ult. an Evening Concert was given in the Odd Fellows' Hall, under the direction and for the benefit of Mr. Frank Bates, Organist of St. Baldred's Episcopal Church. With the exception of Mr. Bates, all the performers were amateurs. The pieces selected included specimens of the best of our living composers, with one or two gems from Mozart, Bishop, and Wallace. The vocalists were Miss Mitchell-Innes, Miss Dalmahoy, and Miss Armit; the Rev. Edwin Price, Major Sewell, and Mr. J. T. Syme. Lady Dalrymple presided at the pianoforte, and the able manner in which she played the accompaniments greatly enhanced the success of the concert. The choir of St. Baldred's contributed several well-executed choruses, and Mr. Bates played a pianoforte solo with much effect. There was an excellent attendance.

ORSETT.—The Members of the Choral Society gave an excellent Concert on the 18th ult. in the Institute. The programme was well selected, and the part-singing, under the able conductorship of Mr. Henry Regaldi, was a feature of the evening. Mr. George Hooper, R.A.M., presided at the pianoforte.

PETERBOROUGH.—At a general meeting of the Peterborough Choral Society, held on the 6th ult., it was arranged that the Messiah should be given at the next Subscription Concert, which is to take place in December. The performance will be in the Skating-rink, which has kindly been promised by the proprietors, and this will be a great improvement, as at former Concerts given by the Society great numbers have not been able to gain admittance for want of space.

RYDE.—On Monday the 3rd ult. Mr. T. E. Aylward (Organist of Chichester Cathedral, and pupil of the late Dr. Wesley) gave a Recital on the fine organ in the Parish Church, which was attended by a large number of residents and visitors. The programme was selected from the works of H. Smart, S. S. Wesley, Merkel, Bach, Guilman, Batiste, Dr. Hiles, and Sir R. P. Stewart. —Mr. Augustus Aylward gave a Concert on the 5th ult., assisted by Madame Arabella Goddard, Miss Amy Aylward, R.A.M. (vocalist), and Mr. T. E. Aylward (Organist of Chichester Cathedral), accompanist. The programme included Pastoral Sonata (Beethoven), three numbers of Lieder (Mendelssohn), Nocturne in E, and Waltz in D flat (Chopin), "Harmonious Blacksmith" (Handel), &c. The concert was a great success.

STEEPLE ASHTON, TROWBRIDGE.—A Recital was given on the grand organ (lately erected by Messrs. Bryceson and Co., and presented to the parish church at a cost of £1,000 by Mrs. Long and family, of Rood Ashton, as a memorial to the late R. P. Long, Esq., M.P.), by Mr. H. Millington, Organist of the Parish Church, Trowbridge. The programme consisted of a well-arranged selection of organ-music from the German, English, and French schools, calculated to exhibit the different qualities of this very beautiful and unique instrument. The Recital gave great satisfaction to the large congregation assembled.

SURBITON.—The new Organ at Surbiton Park Congregational Church, erected by Messrs. Hill and Sons, was opened on the 18th ult., when a Recital of classical music was given by Mr. R. Sebastian Hart, Organist of Christ Church, Surbiton Hill. The instrumental pieces were interspersed with solos by Mrs. Loxwood King and Mrs. Herbert Newton.

YEovil.—A Harvest Thanksgiving Service was held in the Holy Trinity Church on Thursday evening, the 20th ult. The chancel, font, organ front, and choir stalls were decorated with corn, fruit, flowers, berries, &c. The service was choral, Tallis's Responses being used, and commenced by singing Hymn 381, "Hymns Ancient and Modern," new edition. The Psalms, xxxiv. and lxxv., were sung to chants by Wood and Slatter; the Canticles, to "Camidge" and "Gregorian." The Anthem was by A. Lowe, "The earth is the Lord's." Hymn 388, "Hymns Ancient and Modern," before the sermon, was sung to "St. Ann's," with Sullivan's varied harmonies for voices in unison; the last hymn was a special harvest hymn, "Praise, O praise the Lord of harvest," written by the Rev. — Hamilton, and sung to a tune composed expressly for it by Mr. Harwood, the Organist of the church. The whole of the service was exceedingly well rendered by the choir, and effectively accompanied; the concluding Voluntary was Calkin's "Harvest Thanksgiving March." An eloquent sermon was preached by the Rev. Prebendary Clark, Vicar of St. Mary's, Taunton; the collection, amounting to £22 16s. 4d., was in aid of the Indian Famine Relief Fund.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Miss M. L. Wood, to St. Thomas's Church, Douglas, Isle of Man.—Mr. Wm. Douglas St. Leger, Organist and Director of the Choir to St. George's Cathedral, Madras.—Mr. F. W. J. Chaundy, Organist and Choirmaster to All Saints' and Trinity Churches, Great Marlow.—Mr. John G. Stanley, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Mary's, Shepherd's Bush.

CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.—Edward Wharton (Bass), Assistant Vicar Choral to St. Paul's Cathedral.—Mr. A. S. Easterbrook (Bass) to St. Mary's, Graham Street.—Mr. Arthur A. Hooper (Bass) and Mr. J. Doughty (Counter-tenor) to St. Peter's, Bayswater.

OBITUARY.

On the 31st August, at Deal, WILLIAM HENRY PHIPPS, formerly of the Royal Academy of Music, aged 69.

On the 3rd ult., at 2, Manchester Square, ALICE BOULAN, youngest and beloved daughter of Sir JULIUS BENEDICT.

On the 10th ult. at Ripon, aged 24 years, WILLIAM JACKSON, Organist of Morningside Church, Edinburgh, eldest surviving son of the late Mr. WILLIAM JACKSON, of Bradford and Masham.

On the 12th ult., at Dresden, Dr. JULIUS RIETZ, in the 65th year of his age.

On the 21st ult., at her residence, 69, Carlton Hill, N.W., ELIZABETH, widow of the late GEORGE RICHARD METZLER, in her 81st year.

On the 23rd ult., at Paris, after a few days' severe suffering, FRANCES CHARLOTTE, the dearly beloved wife of Signor F. LABLACHE, of 51, Albany Street, Regent's Park, N.W.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC, Tenterden Street, Hanover Square.—Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. propose to found a Free Scholarship in the above Institution, to be filled up at an early date. For particulars apply to the Secretary.

NATIONAL TRAINING SCHOOL for Music, Kensington Gore.—Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. propose to found a free Scholarship in the above Institution, to be filled up at an early date. For particulars apply to the Registrar.

Just published.

MENDELSSOHN'S ELIJAH

ARRANGED FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price Five Shillings.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A RELIABLE TUNER and REGULATOR is open to partial employment. R. M. B., 119, Shepherdess Walk, City Road.

ELIJAH, ATHALIE, CREATION, MESSIAH. A few sets of separate VOCAL and INSTRUMENTAL PARTS of the above and other works, belonging to the late Croydon Sacred Harmonic Society, to be DISPOSED OF. Particulars on application to Mr. James, Beulah Grove, Croydon.

A ORGAN RECITAL will be given on the large Organ in the CITY TEMPLE, HOLBORN VIADUCT, E.C., on Thursday, October 11, at 7.30 p.m., by FREDERIC ARCHER, Esq., of the Alexandra Palace. Admission, 2s., 1s., 6d. Tickets may be obtained of Mr. Clarke, City Temple (Plumtree Court entrance), and of Mr. Barr, 80, Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

HANDEL.—Alexander Balus. An Oratorio, composed in the year 1747. Edited, and the Pianoforte Accompaniment Revised from that of the German Handel Society, by EBENEZER PROUT. Paper covers, 3s.; paper boards, 3s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 5s.

BEETHOVEN.—Communion Service in C. The English Adaptation by the Rev. J. TROUTBECK; the Pianoforte Accompaniment Revised by BERTHOLD TOURS. Paper covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 5s.

WAGNER, R.—The Flying Dutchman. A Romantic Opera in Three Acts. Edited by BERTHOLD TOURS. The English Version by the Rev. J. TROUTBECK. Paper covers, 3s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 5s.

SUCH, E. C., Mus. Bac., Cantab.—"God is our refuge." (46th Psalm.) Bible version. For Solo Voices, Chorus, and Orchestra. 8vo, 2s.

ANTHEMS for USE in CHURCHES. Arranged Alphabetically. Edited by a CLERGYMAN. Limp cloth, 1s.

BERRY, MRS. E., and MADAME MICHAELIS.—Kindergarten Songs and Games. Second Series. With an Introduction by Miss SHIRREFF. Paper covers, 1s.; cloth, 2s.

BIRCH, E. H., Mus. Bac., Oxon.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis (in F). Vocal score, 8vo, 4d.

JOSEPH, KINSELL.—Responses and Glorias as used at St. George's Cathedral, Demerara. Vocal score, 8vo, 6d.

MACFARREN, WALTER.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, in unison. Vocal Score, 8vo, 3d.

CHINNER, W. B.—"Lord God of heaven and earth." Prayer. Vocal score, 8vo, 3d.

—"LORD, THOU HAST BEEN OUR DWELLING-PLACE." Anthem. Vocal score, 8vo, 3d.

DYKES, JOHN B.—"The Lord is my Shepherd." (The 23rd Psalm.) Anthem. Vocal score, 8vo, 1s.

LOMAS, G., Mus. Bac., Oxon.—"Praised be the Lord daily." Harvest Anthem. Vocal score, 8vo, 3d.

SHEPHERD, C. H.—"Out of the deep." Anthem. Vocal score, 8vo, 1s. 6d.

SCHULTHES, WILHELM.—Corona Lauretana. Second Series of Litanies of the Blessed Virgin Mary. With Organ Accompaniment. Op. 86. Vocal score, folio, 2s.

ANDERSON, ROBERT.—Songs of Zion. Nos. 46 and 47, 8vo, 2d.—Quies, "Lord, I believe a rest remains." Rest, "Our blest Redeemer." No. 48, 8vo, 1d.—Pacatus, "Part in peace."

CORNWALL, CHANNON.—Songs of the Church. Part VI. 8vo, 4d.

JONES, E. CHOLMELEY.—Two Hymns. Each, 4d.; per dozen, 2s.

1. Art thou weary.
2. Hark! hark! my soul.

ANDERSON, ROBERT.—Home Songs. No. 1, 8vo, 3d.—"My own Fireside."

BRAHMS, JOHANNES.—"Lord, how long shall I be out of Thy remembrance." Trio for Female Voices. The English Version by the Rev. J. TROUTBECK. Op. 27. 8vo, 4d.

BRIDGE, J. C., Mus. Bac.—"Greek War-song." Part-song (unaccompanied) for Male Voices. 8vo, 4d.

GAUL, ALFRED R.—"Footsteps of Angels." Descriptive Choral Song for unaccompanied Choral Singing. No. 4. Op. 21. 8vo, 4d.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK.—No. 350. Summer Eve. J. L. HATTON. 3d.

SALAMAN, C.—"A Leavetaking." Song for Tenor or Soprano. The Poetry by ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE. 2s.

STANFORD, C. VILLIERS.—"Blue Wings." Song from the "Spanish Gypsy," by GEORGE ELIOT. 1s. 6d.

—"DAY IS DYING." Song from the "Spanish Gypsy," by GEORGE ELIOT. 1s. 6d.

—"SWEET SPRINGTIME." Song from the "Spanish Gypsy," by GEORGE ELIOT. 1s. 6d.

TOURS, BERTHOLD.—"Solitude." Song. The Words by HENRY KIRKE WHITE. 2s.

—"A NAME IN THE SAND." Song. The Words by HANNAH GOULD. 2s.

MENDELSSOHN.—Elijah. Pianoforte Arrangement. By BERTHOLD TOURS. 5s.

SHINN, G.—Six Transcriptions for the Organ, with Pedal Obligato. First Series. 2s. 6d.

- No. 1. Andante con Moto, from Symphony in C minor Beethoven.
2. Comfort ye (Messiah) Handel.
3. Lieder ohne Worte, Book II., No. 3 Mendelssohn.
4. With thee th' unsheltered moor I'd tread (Solomon) Handel.
5. Ja, ich Fühl'es Spohr.
6. Total Eclipse (Samson) Handel.

SPARK, DR. W.—Organist's Quarterly Journal. Part XXXVI.

- | | |
|--------------------|-----------------------|
| Andante espressivo | James Stimpson. |
| Allemande | Frederic Archer. |
| Andante | Dr. J. V. Roberts. |
| Postlude | W. H. Wale. |
| March | W. A. C. Cruickshank. |
| Andante grazioso | George Smith. |

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S PARISH CHOIR-BOOK, A COLLECTION OF MUSIC FOR THE SERVICE OF THE CHURCH, By MODERN COMPOSERS.

Published under the Patronage of the Ely Diocesan Church Music Society.

No.		Price
5.	ALLEN, G. B., in D	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
14.	ARMES, Dr. P., in G	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
16.	ARNOLD, Dr. G. B., in C	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
3.	BARNBY, J., in D (Unison)	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
4.	BARNBY, J., in B flat (Do.)	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
Voice part only, octavo post, 1½d.
18.	BEST, W. T., in C	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
9.	CALKIN, J. B., in D	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
30.	CHIPP, Dr. E. T., in D	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
12.	CLARKE, J. H., in F	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
26.	DYKES, Rev. J. B., M.A., Mus. Doc., in F	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
31.	ELLIOTT, J. W., in F	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
6.	GARRETT, Dr. G. M., in F	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
10.	HAKING, R., in C (Chant form)	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
22.	HERBERT, E., Mus. Bac., in D	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
15.	HOPKINS, J. L., Mus. Bac., in G	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
29.	IRONS, H. S., in G	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
Voice part only, octavo post, 1½d.
27.	LITTLETON, A. H., in E flat	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
17.	MACFARREN, WALTER, in C	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
8.	MACFARREN, G. A., in G (Unison)	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
7.	MONK, Dr. E. G., in A (Unison)	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
13.	MONK, W. H., in A	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
34.	MORLEY, THOMAS, in F	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
25.	NUNN, J. H., in F	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
11.	OUSELEY, Rev. Sir F., in F	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
33.	REAY, SAMUEL, in F	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
28.	REDHEAD, R., in D	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
32.	SMART, HENRY, in F	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
19.	STAINER, Dr. J., in C	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
1.	STEGGALL, Dr. C., in A	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
24.	STEPHENS, C. E., in C	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
21.	STEWART, Sir R. P., in G	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
2.	SULLIVAN, A. S., in D	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
20.	THORNE, E. H., in C	Te Deum laudamus 3d.
23.	TILLEARD, JAMES, in F	Te Deum laudamus 3d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ONLY COMPLETE EDITION.

MENDELSSOHN'S LIEDER OHNE WORTE.

Octavo, paper covers	4s.
Do. cloth gilt	6s.
Folio, elegantly bound in cloth gilt.. ..	12s.

THE ONLY EDITION CONTAINING THE
7TH AND 8TH BOOKS.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MR. GEORGE CLEVELAND (Baritone).

For Concerts, Pupils, &c., Duncombe House, 48, Gertrude Street, Chelsea, S.W.

MR. J. A. SCHOFIELD (Bass).

For Oratorios and Concerts, address, Bank Street, Horncastle, Lincoln.

MR. GEORGE WEIGE (Basso) has REMOVED to 43, Gore Place, Victoria Park, South Hackney.

CULTIVATION of the VOICE.—MR. WALTER WADMORE (Tenor), just returned from Italy, has time for two pupils. Ladies or gentlemen studying for the profession preferred. Address, 16, Coleshill Street, Eaton Square, S.W.

A GENTLEMAN who is taking singing lessons is anxious to find some one residing within easy distance of St. James's Street who would be willing to assist him during practice for an hour or so on two evenings in the week. Address, stating terms, N. B., New University Club, St. James's, W.

TREBLES, ALTOS, and BASSES WANTED immediately, at Trinity Church, Finchley Road, near Swiss Cottage. Salaries and volunteers. Apply to Choirmaster, Edward P. Hayward, Beechcroft, Onslow Road, Richmond Hill; or after service on Wednesdays or Sundays.

TENOR, shortly disengaged, desires RE-ENGAGEMENT. Plain or choral service. Hoskins, 69, Bolsover Street, W.

WANTED, BASS and TENOR, for London Church. Sunday morning and evening. Weekly practice. Unsurplused. Must be competent. £10 each. Also, Ladies and Gentlemen, in each part, for Sunday evening service in City. £1 quarterly for expenses. Also, Deputy Organist, two or three services per month in return for organ-practice, and instruction or expenses. R. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., Queen Street, E.C.

TO ORGANISTS, CLERGYMEN, &c.—A Gentleman is OPEN to ENGAGEMENTS as DEPUTY. Town or Country. Organist, care of Wensley and Wensley, 181, Fleet Street.

ORGANIST WANTED for Christ Church, Enfield, (Congregational). Two services on Sunday. Service and choir-practice on Wednesday. Apply, stating salary required and inclosing testimonials, to H., the Manse, Enfield, N. Applications to be sent before October 6.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Gentleman of long experience as deputy desires an ENGAGEMENT as above. North of London preferred. Address, Organist, 4, St. Ann's Place, Stamford Hill, N.

APPOINTMENT WANTED, as ORGANIST or Deputy. Small salary required. Address, Organist, Govier's Music Warehouse, Grove Street Road, South Hackney.

THE ORGANIST at a large Public School requires a PUPIL ASSISTANT. Age between 15 and 18. He must be able to take an easy service. Salary to commence at £20 a year. Apply, H. C. E., care of Forsyth Brothers, Regent Circus, Oxford Street.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Fine instrument; two manuals; separate pedal organ. Terms, £1 1s. per quarter, 26 hours, blower included. Entwisle, Organ Studio, 1, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

PIANO and HARMONIUM TUNER, &c.—WANTED, a SITUATION as above. Country preferred. Accustomed to travel. Address, F. P., care of Mr. T. Rees Evans, Berwick-on-Tweed.

WANTED, a good TUNER and REGULATOR. If can play a little, and some knowledge of harmonium, preferred. Apply to C. Curtis, 29, Baker Street, Portman Square, London, W.

AN Experienced PIANOFORTE TUNER seeks ENGAGEMENT in London or suburbs. From Broadwood's. Address, A. T., Post Office, Winchester, Hants.

PIANOFORTE TUNER, ORGANIST, &c.—WANTED, ENGAGEMENT as TUNER in Music Warehouse, or as Organist with some occupation for week-days. Country, Musical Times Office.

A YOUNG LADY desires a SITUATION in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Thoroughly competent. Five years' reference. Address by letter to Miss Clements, 33, Brunswick Street, Stamford Street, Blackfriars, London, S.E.

ASSISTANT in MUSIC-SHOP WANTED immediately. Apply, inclosing testimonials and carte, stating salary required. Thompson and Shackell, 14, High Street, Swansea.

LONDON CHORAL UNION.—It is proposed to institute, during the ensuing Autumn and Winter, Series of POPULAR ORATORIO CONCERTS, in various parts of London. Communications on the subject will be gladly received by Glaucus, office of the Musical Standard, 185, Fleet Street, E.C.

THE ST. PANCRAS CHORAL SOCIETY will meet every WEDNESDAY EVENING, at the Schoolroom in Lancing Street, Euston Square, for the rehearsal of Choruses from "The Creation," Mendelssohn's "Lauda Sion," "Judas Maccabeus," "Elijah," and other works, in addition to a variety of secular music. The first hour each evening, from 8 to 9, will be devoted to elementary practice. Subscription, 2s. a quarter for gentlemen, 1s. 6d. for ladies, including the use of music. The first meeting will be on Wednesday, October 3, when all persons interested in the musical improvement of the locality are invited to attend.

ORGAN RECITAL, by E. H. TURPIN, Esq., at Park Chapel, Camden Town, Wednesday, October 3rd, 7.30. Tickets, 2s., 1s., 6d., of Messrs. Warren Hall and Co., 88, Camden Road, N.W.

CROSS-STRUNG IRON OBLIQUE PIANO.
NEW MODEL. INSPECTION SOLICITED.

COLLIN MEZIN VIOLIN.

The finest new violin made. Sent to Music-sellers on approval.

ALPHONSE CARY,

Importer of Pianos, Violin Strings, &c., 26, Fortess Terrace, Kentish Town, N.W.

Wholesale lists sent on receipt of trade reference.

ORGAN for SALE. Two manuals, C swell, 4 stops on swell, 5 on great, swell coupler, 1½ octave pedals, bourdons. Price £40. Apply to Charles Barrett, Carshalton House, Surrey.

LARGE HARMONIUM for SALE. 2½ octaves of organ pedals. Only £20. Address, Organist, Govier's Music Warehouse, Grove Street Road, South Hackney.

AMERICAN "PALACE ORGANS."—The most pipe-like in tone, and very moderate in price. New styles and new combinations. Sole Agent for Great Britain, India, and the Colonies, C. Curtis, 29, Baker Street, Portman Square, London, W. (nearly opposite Madame Tussaud's). Illustrated Lists post-free.

A COLLECTION OF ORGAN PIECES,

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

In 24 Numbers at 1s. each, or bound in limp cloth, 21s.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now ready, price 4s.

CONCERTSTÜCK FOR THE ORGAN, composed and performed at the LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL, September 1877, by WILLIAM SPARK.

London: METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough Street, W.

DR. SPARK'S NEW ANTHEM,"AND NOW, ISRAEL,"

16 Pages, price 6d.

"No choir should be without this beautiful anthem, which is written throughout with the skill and power of an experienced composer."—Express.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

8vo, price 2d.

NEW ANTHEM for ADVENT.—"ALMIGHTY GOD, GIVE US GRACE." Short full Anthem for Parish Choirs. Composed by CHARLES JOSEPH FROST. This anthem may appropriately be sung as an introit on each Sunday through the Advent season.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A NEW PSALTER CHANT-BOOK.—In various ways all existing Chant-books place stumbling-blocks in the way of good chanting by the average choirs that are to be met with in our village and parish churches. It is proposed to remedy this as far as possible in the above work, and to place before the public a Book of Single and Double Anglican Chants, Old and New, that will be found especially adapted for those choirs that can get but little practice. Persons desirous of contributing are requested to apply for particulars of restrictions, &c. (inclosing stamped addressed envelope), to Mr. Arthur George, 14, Upper Park Street, Greenwich.

JUST PUBLISHED.—TWO HYMNS, set to music by E. CHOLMELEY JONES, M.A.: 1. "Art thou weary." 2. "Hark! Hark! my soul." Price, each, 4d.; per dozen, 2s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

KINDERGARTEN SONGS and GAMES.—Second Series. Edited by Mrs. E. BERRY and Madame MICHAELIS of the Froebel Society. With an Introduction by Miss SHIRREFF. Paper covers, 1s.; cloth, 2s.

First series, paper covers, 1s.; cloth, 2s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

C. JEFFERYS,

67, BERNERS STREET.

NEW VOCAL PUBLICATIONS.

Comrade, to arms (Duet for Tenor and Bass)	s.	d.
Michael Watson	3	0
When Music's charms (Duet for Tenor and Soprano). New edition in C F. Schira	3	0
Blind Johann of Bohemia (compass B to E), for Baritone J. L. Hatton	3	0
Jack's Yarn (sung by Signor Foli) (B to E) Louis Diehl	4	0
Pirate Chief (A to D) Ditto	3	0
White Blossoms (D to D) W. C. Levey	3	0
Fairy's Dream (E to F) Ditto	3	0
The Land of Dreams (D to F) Odoardo Barri	3	0
A Golden Dream (C to F) Ditto	3	0
Sweet and Fair (C to F), for Baritone Ditto	3	0
Carissima (F to G) Henry Pontet	3	0
After Long Years (D to F) F. Schira	3	0
The Open Window (D to E) Dolores	3	0
On Guard (sung by Signor Foli) (C to D) Walter Austin	4	0

NEW PIANOFORTE PIECES.

Sweet Lily easy John Pridham	3	0
Bridal Morn "	3	0
La Harpe Magique Julia Woolf	3	0
The Shades of Evening "	3	0
Fascination "	3	0

MELODIOUS MELODIES ARRANGED FOR THE HARMONIUM.

PARTS I. TO VI., ONE SHILLING EACH.

The subjects selected from the Works of

Auber.	Haydn.	Rossini.
Batiste.	Hiller.	Schubert.
Beethoven.	Méhul.	Schumann.
Boccherini.	Mendelssohn.	Spohr.
Chopin.	Meyerbeer.	Verdi.
Donizetti.	Mozart.	Wagner.
Handel.	Rink.	&c.

SIX ORIGINAL PIECES FOR HARMONIUM

BY
MICHAEL WATSON.

1. Village dance, in B flat	3	0
2. Mélodie, in G	3	0
3. Pas Redoublé, in G	3	0
4. Berceuse, in F	3	0
5. March, in C	3	0
6. Réverie, in G	3	0

"Of musical literature for the harmonium the supply is very small. In most cases players have to content themselves either with pianoforte pieces or with those nondescript arrangements 'for organ or harmonium' which, in attempting to serve both, become useless for either. We therefore cordially welcome Mr. Watson's Six Original Pieces. They are written in the ordinary forms of modern drawing-room pieces, and make no pretensions to the classical. Without displaying any very decided originality, they are melodious and pleasing, while they are effective without undue difficulty. The treatment of the stops, also, which is carefully marked throughout, is judicious, and shows that Mr. Watson thoroughly understands the peculiarities of the instrument. We must also commend his wisdom in writing for only a moderate-sized harmonium (with four rows of vibrators), instead of relying for his effects on stops but rarely to be met with. In only one case do we differ from him. In the March (No. 5) he has directed the 'Expression' stop to be put in when the 'Grand Jeu' is drawn. This we think a mistake. We hold that the 'expression' should invariably be used, except when the harmonium is intended to imitate the passionless tone of the organ, which is not the case here. We recommend these pieces to harmonium-players as a useful addition to their limited répertoire."—Musical Times.

LONDON:

C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS STREET, W.

ASHDOWN & PARRY'S CATALOGUES OF MUSIC

PART 1. PIANO, ORGAN, HARMONIUM.

PART 2. VOCAL.

PART 3. HARP, CONCERTINA.

PART 4. VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, ORCHESTRA, &c.

PART 5. FLUTE, CORNET, CLARINET, &c.

Sent gratis and post-free to any part of the world.

London: ASHDOWN & PARRY, Hanover Square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S PIANOFORTE METHOD.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS.

This unrivalled work is now firmly established as the Pianoforte Instruction-Book in nearly all the principal Educational Establishments in

GREAT BRITAIN

IRELAND

CANADA

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

INDIA

AUSTRALIA

NEW ZEALAND, &c.

It is supplied directly by the Publishers, or may be had of any Musicseller in the world.

London: ASHDOWN & PARRY, Hanover Square.

THE SINGER'S LIBRARY.

AN UNEQUALLED COLLECTION OF

VOCAL CONCERTED MUSIC:

TRIOS, QUARTETTS, QUINTETTS, &c.,

SACRED AND SECULAR,

BY THE

MOST RENOWNED COMPOSERS

(English and Foreign).

EDITED BY

JOHN HULLAH.

UPWARDS OF 150 NUMBERS. Price Twopence each.

London: ASHDOWN & PARRY, Hanover Square.

THE GLEE AND CHORAL LIBRARY.

A Collection of standard and well-known

VOCAL COMPOSITIONS,

As well as recent works, by

MACFARREN, HATTON, BALFE, LESLIE, &c.

EIGHTY NUMBERS. Price Twopence each.

Catalogues gratis and post-free to any part of the world.

London: ASHDOWN & PARRY, Hanover Square.

CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

NEW PART-SONGS, MADRIGALS, &c.,

BY

R. L. DE PEARSALL.

COLLEGIATE SERIES.

No.
68.	Part-Song	... A lad and lassie. S.A.T.B.	...	2d.
70.	Part-Song	... True love, to-day I must away	...	2d.
64.	Madrigal	... When old King Cole	...	3d.
64.	Madrigal	... My bonnie lass, she smileth	...	3d.
67.	Glee	... Glorious Apollo	...	2d.
73.	Part-Song	... Was there not a look of fondness	...	2d.
55.	Part-Song	... Robin Hood	...	3d.
65.	Glee	... King Charles	...	3d.
72.	Part-Song	... My mother loves me not	...	2d.
69.	Part-Song	... Spring brings flow'rs fair	...	2d.
71.	Part-Song	... 'Twas a trumpet's pealing sound	...	3d.
52.	Ballad Dialogue	... Who kill'd Cock Robin? 8th Edition	...	3d.
		(Folio, illustrated, 3s.)
50.	Part-Song	... Brave Lord Willoughby	...	5th	3d.
25.	Madrigal	... Here on the waters	...	4th	"
53.	Part-Song	... Her eyes the glow-worm	...	3rd	"
4.	Student's Song	... The Three Friends. S.A.T.B.	...	4th	3d.
5.	Student's Song	... " T.T.B.B.	...	4th	3d.
60.	Madrigal	... Down by a river straying	...	2nd	4d.
61.	Madrigal	... Hie away! o'er bank and brae	...	2nd	4d.
58.	Glee	... Flow, limpid stream. A.T.B.	...	"	3d.
51.	Student's Song	... Gaudeamus igitur	...	6th Edition	3d.
74.	Part-Song	... Springs she not as light as air	...	2d.	"
63.	Part-Song	... My enemies, they do increase	...	3d.	"
62.	Part-Song	... 'Tis raining!	...	3d.	"
59.	Part-Song	... The poacher's song	...	3d.	"
56.	Market Chorus	... The Villagers (with Pianoforte, Flute, or Violin Accompaniment), Chorus of Peasants, Market Women, Swiss Jodel, &c.	...	4d.
75.	Part-Song	... Young Jamie loved me well. S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
76.	Part-Song	... How happy were my days. S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
77.	Part-Song	... Up there upon that mountain. S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
78.	Part-Song	... My heart is full of bitter woe. S.A.T.B.	...	3d.

DR. S. S. WESLEY.

3.	Part-Song	... The Mermaid. S.A.T.B.	...	3rd Edition	4d.
6.	Part-Song	... Arising from the deep. S.A.T.B.	...	2nd	4d.
2.	Chorus	... The praise of music (Double Choir).	...	"	4d.
18.	Anthem	... O how amiable!	...	3rd Edition	4d.
19.	Anthem	... Wherewithal shall a young man	...	2nd	4d.
40.	Anthem	... The Lord is my Shepherd	...	2nd	4d.
14.	Anthem	... Let us now praise famous men.	...	4th	4d.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

8.	Part-Song	... Swift the shades of eve	...	6th	3d.
12.	Part-Song	... The vikings and the north wind	...	3rd	3d.
10.	Part-Song	... The eagle	...	2nd	3d.
42.	Anthem	... O praise the Lord	...	"	3d.
43.	Anthem	... I waited patiently	...	"	3d.

DULCIANA.

13.	National Anthem, God save the Queen	...	20th Edition	2d.
	(With Organ Accompaniment, Full Score, 2s. 6d.)
7.	Part-Song	... Auld lang syne (Organ Acc.).	25th Edition	3d.
27.	National	... Rule, Britannia (Organ Accompaniment)	...	2d.

SCHUMANN.

26.	Solo and Chorus	... Sleep on, in visions	...	4th	3d.
11.	Solo and Chorus	... Vesture pure and scatheless	...	3rd	3d.
29.	Trio (s.s.a.)	... Magna peccatrix	...	"	3d.
30.	Trio (s.s.a.)	... The midnight hags	...	"	3d.

J. P. KNIGHT.

1.	Madrigal	... Canst thou say me nay? ...	3rd Edition	3d.
----	----------	--------------------------------	-------------	-----	--

J. L. ROECKEL.

34.	Part-Song	... The old grey oak. S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
35.	Part-Song	... The stars are with the voyager. S.A.T.B.	...	3d.

G. B. ARNOLD, MUS. DOC.

28.	Madrigal	... My dainty Chloris. S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
-----	----------	---------------------------------	-----	-----	--

C. E. HEY.

33.	Part-Song	... How dear to me. S.A.T.B.	...	2d.
79.	Part-Song	... Whither? S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
80.	Part-Song	... The water rushing. S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
81.	Part-Song	... The water rushing. T.T.B.B.	...	3d.
82.	Part-Song	... The day is ending. S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
83.	Part-Song	... 'Tis sweet in the green spring. S.A.T.B.	...	3d.
84.	Part-Song	... The minstrel boy. S.A.T.B.	...	3d.

ERNEST LINDE.

9.	Where the lordly stag. Solo and Chorus	...	3d.
----	--	-----	-----	--	--

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.
 WEEKES and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

"JOSEPH."

AN ORATORIO.

Music composed expressly for the Leeds Musical Festival by

G. A. MACFARREN.

Paper covers, 4s; bound in cloth, 6s.

The following numbers are published separately:—

		s.	d.
1.	Overture	...	5 0
3.	Song (Signor Foli)	I dwell in the land	3 0
4.	Duet (Mr. Santley and Signor Foli)	Joseph, I love thee	4 0
7.	Song (Mdlle. Albani)	Love is strong as death	3 0
9.	Song (Mr. Lloyd)	Let us kill him	3 0
11.	Song (Madame Patey)	Who ever perished	3 0
14.	Song (Mr. Santley)	If I forget thee	3 0
15.	Duet with Female Chorus (Mdlle. Albani and Madame Patey)	Commit thy way	4 0
17.	Song (Signor Foli)	It is my son's coat	3 0
21.	Song (Mdlle. Albani)	Hath not God?	3 0
24.	Duet (Mdlle. Albani and Madame Patey)	The Lord sendeth the springs	4 0
27.	Song (Madame Patey)	When your sins are brought forth	3 0
28.	Trio (Madame Edith Wynne, Mr. Lloyd, and Signor Foli)	My sons, tell me all that befel ye	4 0
30.	Song (Mdlle. Albani)	I will open my mouth	4 0
32.	Song (Mr. Santley)	My spirit is sore moved	3 0
34.	Sestet (Mdlle. Albani, Madame E. Wynne, Madame Patey, Mr. Lloyd, Mr. Santley, and Signor Foli)	Forgive...	4 0

Vocal and Orchestral Parts can be hired.

STANLEY LUCAS, WEBER, AND CO., 84, New Bond Street,
 and 308A, Oxford Street, W.

COMPOSITIONS

BY THE LATE

DR. S. S. WESLEY.

ORGAN MUSIC.

Andante in G.	rs. 6d.
Organ Pieces. Set 1.	4s.
Organ Pieces. Set 2.	2s. 6d.
Introduction and Fugue.	rs. 6d.
The National Anthem (new edition), with Variations, for the Organ.	2s.
A Studio for the Organ, exemplified in a series of exercises in the strict and free style.	2s. 6d.

PIANOFORTE.

March and Rondo. 6s.

March, singly. 3s.

GLEES, &c.

I wish to tune my quivering lyre. A.T.T.B.B.	2s. 6d.
When fierce conflicting passions.	2s. 6d.
Shall I tell you whom I love (with accompaniment for Pianoforte and Violoncello, ad lib.).	4s. Vocal parts, 6d.

Three Collects for the three first Sundays in Advent. Two for a Treble, and one for a Bass voice, rs. 9d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

VIOLINS.—Stainer and Mathew's "Albanus," valued at £100, will be sold for £75. Apply to Robertson and Scott, 13, Hanover Street, Edinburgh.

PUBLICATIONS OF MESSRS. CURWEN & SONS.

PRONUNCIATION FOR SINGERS, with especial reference to the English, German, Italian, and French languages, with numerous examples and exercises for the use of teachers and advanced students, by ALEXANDER J. ELLIS, F.R.S., author of "Early English Pronunciation," and formerly President of the Philological Society. Contents: Speaking and Singing Contrasted; Vowel Quality of Tone; Short Key to Glossic; Diagrams; Mode of producing Speech-Sounds; Vowels, Vowel-Glides, Glottids, Consonants, Exercises; English Pronouncing Dictionaries; Examples of Songs in German, Italian, and French; Pronunciation of the Names of Composers. Price 4s. 6d.; post-free, 4s. 10d.

EIGHTY MUSICAL SENTENCES, to illustrate Chromatic Chords, by G. A. MACFARREN, Mus. Doc., Professor of Music in the University of Cambridge, and Principal of the Royal Academy of Music. Third edition, price 3s. The Monthly Musical Record says: "These concise strains, ranging in length from four to forty bars, not only serve to display to view a complete list of the chords most generally in use (and, we might add, some others), but at the same time exemplify their natural and most usual application; and this plan is carried out in a far more inviting, more convincing, and more impressive manner than is generally to be found in instruction books."

COUNTRY LIFE, a Cantata, by the late E. F. RIMBAULT, LL.D. The words selected from English poets. Nearly ready, price 2s. 6d.

HOW TO OBSERVE HARMONY, by JOHN CURWEN. The textbook used for teaching harmony on the Tonic Sol-fa method. The whole series of chords employed in modern music are described in progressive order, and, by the use of Single Chants, each is shown in its common connection. All the illustrations, of which there are 236, are printed in the Staff Notation as well as the Tonic Sol-fa. Price 2s.; post-free, 2s. 2d.

THE STANDARD COURSE of Lessons and Exercises on the Tonic Sol-fa Method, by JOHN CURWEN. The Athenæum says: "Mr. Curwen launches out into seven subjects, on which he consults every reputable writer, and produces a closely printed volume touching Tune, Time, Voice-training, Harmony, Musical Form, Pronunciation, and Expression. The book is more than one on singing and Sol-fa; it is a treatise on Chords, Melody, Harmony, Composition, Canon, Fugue, &c. Upon all these subjects Mr. Curwen has written with judgment; and in this portion of his work useful knowledge is to be found in a pertinent and condensed form." Price 3s. 6d.; post-free, 3s. 10d.

THE TEACHER'S MANUAL of the Tonic Sol-fa Method, by JOHN CURWEN. The Orchestra says: "We regard this 'Teacher's Manual' as the best defence of the system of Tonic Sol-faists; and we would recommend our readers to devote a little time to its inspection and perusal; there are very few who may not find something to interest them. To musicians it is well to know what power exists in those whom they regard as little better than musical pariahs, and to take a hint in time. In high places it has been the custom for music to ignore general acquisitions: among the 'humbler classes' the Tonic Sol-faists are making music educate their pupils in the highest sense of the word." Price 5s.

MUSICAL STATICS, an attempt to show the bearing of recent discoveries in Acoustics on Chords, Discords, Transitions, Modulations, and Tuning, as used by modern musicians, by JOHN CURWEN. Price 4s. 6d. The examples in Staff Notation as well as Tonic Sol-fa.

CONSTRUCTION EXERCISES in ELEMENTARY COMPOSITION, by JOHN CURWEN. In three parts (both notations), 5s.

TEXTBOOK of HARMONY and MUSICAL FORM, by JOHN CURWEN. In three parts (both notations), 10s. 6d.

HISTORICAL SPECIMENS, showing the development of musical composition. In three parts (both notations), 15s. 4d.

HANDBOOK of MUSICAL THEORY, by JOHN CURWEN. Part I., The Common Scale and Time; and Part II., The Minor Mode and Transition, now ready, price 4d. each. Parts III. to V. in the Press. All examples in both notations.

THE STAFF NOTATION, a practical introduction on the principles of the Tonic Sol-fa Method, by JOHN CURWEN, with many examples and exercises for pupils. In paper covers, price 6d. The Monthly Musical Record says: "We have here remarkably clear and simple rules to enable pupils to transfer their musical knowledge to the staff in general use. The book will be extremely useful to all Tonic Sol-faists."

A SHORT COURSE of Lessons and Exercises on the Tonic Sol-fa Method, by JOHN CURWEN. The exercises and tunes are printed in both notations throughout. In pamphlet form, price 2d.

THE HARMONY PLAYER, teaching the Harmonium on the Tonic Sol-fa principle, developing the subject of harmony concurrently with the practice of the key-board, by JOHN CURWEN, assisted by HENRY FISHER, Mus. Bac., and GEORGE OAKEY, Mus. Bac. Price 1s. 6d.

PLAISTOW PART-MUSIC. A series of original and copyright part-songs and anthems, by G. A. MACFARREN, HENRY SMART, and HENRY LAHEE, in the staff notation. Attention is especially called to a series of Six Anthems, by G. A. MACFARREN, composed for the work. Published in numbers at the rate of 1d. for every four pages. List of contents on application.

THE TONIC SOL-FA REPORTER (music portion), a Collection of part-music of every class—anthems, glees, English, German, and French part-songs, harmonised airs, hymn-tunes, carols, &c., now extended to thirty-four volumes. Price of the volumes, 2s. each; or bound in couples, 3s. each.

THE TONIC SOL-FA REPORTER (current numbers), issued on the 1st of every month, and edited by JOHN CURWEN and J. SPENCER CURWEN. The organ of the Tonic Sol-fa movement. In addition to the intelligence from the United Kingdom and all parts of the world which it contains, the Reporter publishes essays, lectures, and papers on musical subjects which are of value to all musicians. Price 1d. each number; Annual Subscription, 1s. 6d., post-free.

MODERN PART-SONGS, in the Tonic Sol-fa notation. This work, of which Vols. I. to III. are now ready, contains about 144 part-songs, by all the principal living composers, selected, by arrangement with the publishers, from the following well-known series: Novello's "Part-Song Book" and Musical Times, Boosey's Choralist, Lamborn Cock's "Modern Four-Part Songs," Chappell's "Vocal Library," Metzler's Part-Song Magazine, and "Sunday Part-Songs," the Choir, G. W. Martin's "Part-Songs," Ashdown and Parry's "Singer's Library" and "Glee and Choral Library," Stanley Lucas and Weber's "Part-Songs." Price 3s. per volume; or in numbers, 1d. each, containing two part-songs.

MODERN ANTHEMS and SERVICES, in the Tonic Sol-fa notation, on the same plan as "Modern Part-Songs." Vol. I., now ready, contains Anthems and Services by J. L. HATTON, ARTHUR SULLIVAN, HENRY SMART, A. RANDEGGER, J. BARNBY, G. W. MARTIN, &c. Price 3s.; or in 1d. numbers.

THE TONIC SOL-FA LIBRARY. A series of Oratorios, Odes, Masses, and Sacred and Secular Cantatas. The vocal score printed in the Tonic Sol-fa notation. All the standard Oratorios of HANDEL and HAYDN, and the Masses of MOZART, HAYDN, &c., are included in this series. List of contents on application.

THE BUILDING OF THE SHIP, a Cantata founded on Longfellow's poem; the music by HENRY LAHEE. Staff-notation score, full music size, 10s. 6d.; voice parts, 1s. each. Tonic Sol-fa vocal score, 1s.

THE BLESSING OF THE CHILDREN, a Sacred Cantata, by HENRY LAHEE; intended for school festivals. Staff-notation score, 1s.; Tonic Sol-fa vocal score, 6d.

Catalogues of Books and Apparatus required for teaching the Tonic Sol-fa method will be forwarded gratis and post-free.

LONDON: J. CURWEN & SONS, 8, WARWICK LANE, E.C.

THE HYMNARY

A BOOK OF CHURCH SONG.

THE FOLLOWING EDITIONS ARE NOW READY:—

No.					s. d.
1.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Bourgeois Antique.	Cloth, red edges	1 0
2.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Cloth, red edges	0 6
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Limp cloth	0 4
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Paper covers	0 3
3.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth		4 0
4.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		5 0
5.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth		3 0
6.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		4 0
7.	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo		1 6
"	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo, cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		2 0
8.	Hymns with Tunes.	Small post 8vo, to bind with the Pearl 8vo Prayer Book.	Cloth		2 6
9.	Hymns with Tunes.	Ditto.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		3 0
10.	Hymns with Tunes.	Large type, Imperial 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		10 6

Selections of Hymns with Tunes for Advent, Christmas, Easter and Harvest, price One Penny each.

A Discount of 20 per Cent will be allowed to the Clergy, for Cash, when not less than six copies of one edition are taken.

Applications for permission to print the Hymns and Tunes for Choral Festivals should be addressed to the Publishers.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE NEW HYMNAL.

THE SONG OF PRAISE, By Lady VICTORIA EVANS-FREKE. Being a New and Enlarged Edition of the Rev. EDWARD HARLAND'S CHURCH PSALTER AND HYMNAL, including a large number of Original Tunes written by the most eminent Church musicians of the day expressly for this work. Prices as follow:—

	s. d.
Large Organ Edition	8 6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, with blank music paper at the end, gilt lettered...	10 6
Small Music Edition	3 6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, gilt lettered	4 6
Words only	1 2
Ditto, red edges, gilt	1 6

Liberal Terms to the Clergy.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, THE BROADWAY, LUDGATE.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK, containing 258

Tunes and 85 Chants.
No 1. Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 6d.
" 2. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 3. Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 0d.
" 4. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	2s. 6d.

About 250,000 copies have already been sold.

Now Ready.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK (Second Series), containing 298 Tunes and 74 Chants.

No. 5. Limp cloth	2s. 6d.
6. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 7. Limp cloth	2s. 0d.
" 8. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	2s. 6d.

First and Second Series Bound together.

No. 9. Limp cloth	4s. 0d.
" 10. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	5s. 0d.
" 12. Tonic Sol-fa, cloth	3s. 0d.

Now Ready.

SMALL EDITION of the COMPLETE WORK.

715 Tunes and Chants, providing for nearly 200 Varieties of Metre.

No. 11. Cloth	3s. 0d.
---------------	---------

Each Edition may be had in Superior Binding.

Communications and inquiries as to Copyrights, and also as to supplies of this work at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; Bristol: W. and F. Morgan; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Now Ready.

THE LONDON TUNE-BOOK. A Companion for all Hymnals. Cloth, 3s.; red edges, 3s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Enlarged Edition.

TUNES, NEW AND OLD; comprising all the Metres in the Wesleyan Hymn-Book. Also, Chants, Responses, and Doxologies. Compiled by JOHN DOBSON; and for the most part revised or rearranged by HENRY JOHN GAUNTLETT, Mus. Doc.; JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; and SAMUEL REAY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, and 80 and 81, Queen Street. Sold also at 66, Paternoster Row. Prices: plain cloth, 3s. 6d.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 5s. TONIC SOL-FA EDITION: plain cloth, 2s.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 3s.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN; containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tunes; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE BURNLEY TUNE-BOOK.—NOTICE.—An ADDENDA of about 200 Peculiar Metre and other Tunes will shortly be added, and some of the choicest original compositions will be provided for nearly every known metre. MSS. received, but only those will be answered that are accepted.

THE MISSIONARY MANUAL TUNE-BOOK.

Compiled and Edited by Sir JAMES ERASMUS PHILLIPS, Bart., M.A., Prebendary of Sarum, Vicar of Warminster, and Proctor in Convocation, and WILLIAM VINCENT, M.A., Rector of Postwick, Norfolk. Paper covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, 2s.

THE MISSIONARY MANUAL OF HYMNS AND PRAYERS. Price 2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Prices: (A), 1s. 4d., limp cloth; (B), 1s. 6d., cloth boards.

ALL SAINTS' PSALTER, Pointed by the Rev. C. A. STEVENS, M.A., Vicar of All Saints', Blackheath. Sold at the NATIONAL SOCIETY'S Depository, The Sanctuary, Westminster. Reduced prices to members and the clergy.

THE REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S "SUPPLEMENTAL HYMN AND TUNE BOOK" (4th Edition) may be had of the publishers, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. Quarto post, large type and beautifully bound in cloth, price 6s. 6d.; on toned paper, extra thick, 10s. 6d.

"MY SPIRIT LONGS FOR THEE." Hymn, set to Music by JOHN NAYLOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon., together with five other original Hymn Tunes, including "Rock of ages," for men's voices only. Price 4d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

HYMN TUNES, composed by ROBERT BROWN-BORTHWICK, Vicar of All Saints', Scarborough. Elegantly bound in scarlet cloth, price 2s. 6d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S SERIES OF MODERN HYMN TUNES, KYRIES, &c. This Series embraces original Tunes and Kyries by some of the best living composers of Church Music, and may be had in separate numbers from 3d. and 6d. each. Novello, Ewer and Co.

BAKER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR.

Easy and very plain instructions. Adapted for Schools and General Teaching Purposes. London: B. Williams, 60, Paternoster Row; or, post-free, 3s., of G. Baker, Stamp Office Place, Wakefield.

WENTWORTH PHILLIPSON'S "GUIDE TO YOUNG PIANOFORTE TEACHERS AND STUDENTS." 2s.; by post, 2s. 6d. Czerny, 349, Oxford Street, W.

Third Edition.

FIRST STEPS FOR CHOIR-BOYS. By JAMES H. SIMPSON. Price 2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE NEW METHOD.

TO SING from Notes IN PROPER TIME and TUNE, for Private Use or Classes. By TH. GOEBBELS. Book I., 2nd edition, 4s.

London: W. REEVES, 185, Fleet Street.
Liverpool: HIME and SON, 57, Church Street.

Second Edition, Enlarged.—Price Sixpence.

JORDRELL'S MANUAL OF SIGHT-SINGING, on the Tonic or Movable Do System of Reading Old Notation Music. London: C. JEFFERYS, 67, Berners Street; JOHN JORDRELL, Withington, near Manchester; and through all Book and Music Sellers.

MUSIC FOR THE NEW CODE.—"THE SINGING-CLASS MANUAL," by the late WILLIAM JACKSON MASHAM, is admirably suited for use in the Public Elementary Schools. Price (with Appendix, containing eight pieces of music in different keys) 2s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; and all Musicsellers and Booksellers.

Now Ready. (Dedicated to College of Organists.)

ON TUNING THE ORGAN. Illustrated APPENDIX, containing faults in action with remedies, price 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. Hemstock, Diss.

REDUCED PRICES OF OUSELEY AND MONK'S POINTED PSALTER.

					s.	d.
4to Edition, with Chants in Short Score	4	0
12mo Edition. Vocal parts	Each	1	6
32mo Edition. Words only	0	9
Ditto ditto with Proper Psalms	1	0

This pointing of the Psalter is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York.

London: NOVELLO, EWER & Co., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION OF THE ORATORIOS, CANTATAS, MASSES, &c. IN PAPER BOARDS.

The Works comprised in the above-mentioned series are now issued in PAPER BOARDS, WITH CLOTH BACKS AND GILT LETTERING, the price in each case being Sixpence above that of the edition in paper covers.

	s.	d.
HANDEL'S MESSIAH	2	6
" JUDAS MACCABÆUS	2	6
" ISRAEL IN EGYPT	2	6
MENDELSSOHN'S ELIJAH	3	6
" ST. PAUL	2	6
HAYDN'S CREATION	2	6
BENNETT'S MAY QUEEN	3	6
&c. &c.

Nearly all the works published in this edition may now be had in the above form.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Second Edition.
JESSY LEA
AN OPERA DI CAMERA IN TWO ACTS
Written by JOHN OXENFORD; composed by G. A. MACFARREN.
Pianoforte score, folio, 10s. 6d.
The libretto, containing the whole of the dialogue, 1s.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SOLDIER'S LEGACY.
AN OPERA DI CAMERA IN TWO ACTS,
Written by JOHN OXENFORD.
Composed by G. A. MACFARREN.
Octavo, Six Shillings.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HOPE
CHORUSES IN WALTZ FORM FOR MALE VOICES, WITH
PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT,
Composed by GEORGE GARRETT, Mus. D.
Octavo, Sixpence.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.
THREE VOCAL TRIOS FOR FEMALE VOICES.
COMPOSED BY
G. ROSSINI.
No. 1. FAITH. No. 2. HOPE.
No. 3. CHARITY.
8vo, 6d.; or, singly, 2d. each.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A MANUAL OF SINGING

FOR THE USE OF CHOIR-TRAINERS & SCHOOLMASTERS.

By RICHARD MANN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

This work offers to the clergy and other amateur choir-trainers a systematic and simple course of instruction, by which they may teach their pupils to read music at sight in a comparatively short time.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FORTY-NINTH EDITION.

Price 1s. A specimen copy post-free for 12 stamps.

COLLEGIATE AND SCHOOL SIGHT-SINGING MANUAL.

FOR CHOIRS.—The easiest system that can be obtained for training, improving, and learning to read music at sight.

FOR SCHOOLS.—Every requisite for learning Music, and reading at sight in a few lessons.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.—The exercises will be found invaluable, tending to produce musical effects seldom heard.

Third Edition, 2s. 6d. net.

COLLEGIATE VOCAL TUTOR.

Containing Treatise on Voice and Vocal Art, with Anatomical Illustrations of the Vocal Instrument.

COLLEGIATE ORGAN TUTOR.

EDITED BY FREDERIC ARCHER.

3s. 6d. net.

COLLEGIATE PIANOFORTE TUTOR.

3s. 6d. net.

CONSECUTIVE FIFTHS AND OCTAVES IN COUNTERPOINT.

AN ESSAY, BY R. L. DE PEARSALL.

Price 2s.; post-free, 2s. 2d.

Tenth edition. Paper covers, 1s.; bound in cloth, 1s. 6d.

CATHEDRAL CHANT-BOOK.

Containing nearly 200 Single and Double Chants; Gregorian Tones.

NEW BALLADS.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

THE CATHEDRAL CHOIR (with Chorus) 4s.

R. L. DE PEARSALL.

DRUMMING AND FIFING 3s.

BRAVE LORD WILLOUGHBY 3s.

WHO KILL'D COCK ROBIN? 3s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W., and

80 & 81, Queen Street, E.C.

WEEKES and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

NEW EDITION OF

DR. BENNETT GILBERT'S

SCHOOL HARMONY.

Price 1s. 6d. net.

"From intervals to composition."

This popular work now printed from stereotype plates, the publishers are prepared to supply any number of copies on the shortest notice.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TRUTH AND EASE IN MUSIC. NO MORE SHARP OR FLAT KEYS FOR INSTRUMENTALIST OR VOCALIST.

Just published, price Sixpence, with illustrations, a new edition of

THE SEQUENTIAL SYSTEM OF MUSICAL NOTATION

By WILLIAM A. B. LUNN.

"Its completeness and simplicity, when once understood, should recommend it to universal adoption."—Blackburn Standard.

London: E. W. ALLEN, 11, Ave Maria Lane.

THEORY OF MUSIC.

BY

LOUISA GIBSON.

NOW READY.

A SECOND BOOK

AND

A THIRD BOOK.

BEING A CONTINUATION OF

A FIRST BOOK

On the Theory of Music, written for the use of Schools, and for Students preparing for the Oxford and Cambridge Local Examinations.

"A FIRST BOOK" has already reached the fourth edition; it is highly commended by Dr. G. A. Macfarren, Sir J. Benedict, Sir F. A. G. Ouseley, &c., and is adopted at the South London Musical Training College, the Nottingham Music School, and in many High Schools, &c., in London and the provinces.

Price: Boards, 3s.; Stiff Paper, 2s.; Postage, 2d.

London: WEEKES and Co.; NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; WHITTAKER and Co.; and of the Author, 13, Seaton Terrace, Plymouth.

A SINGING-BOOK for PUBLIC SCHOOL and A. CHOIR BOYS, compiled expressly for use in St. Paul's (Dean Colet's) School, Merchant Taylors', and the Aldenham Grammar School. By ALFRED GILBERT, Member of the Royal Academy of Music. Price 6d. net.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

And may be obtained of the Author, The Woodlands, 89, Maida Vale; and of all Book and Music Sellers.

TWELVE SONGS and CHORAL MARCHES.

By F. LESLIE JONES, Organist to the City Middle-Class Schools Corporation, and at Hanover Church, W. Arranged for Two Trebles, with Piano Accompaniments. Forward, Boys; Summer Song; Winter Song; Holiday Song; Song of the Banner (Perseverance wins!); Marching on; A Flower Song; A Psalm of Life; A Boat Song; The Cricketers' Song; Morning; Evening. These are just the compositions for Schools, and are popular wherever introduced. Admirably adapted for Festivals, Prize Days, for general School use, and for the Home Circle. Bound together, in wrapper, One Shilling; or can be obtained separately of the Composer, City Middle-Class School, Finsbury, E.C.; or of Messrs. Allman and Co., 463, Oxford Street, W.

THE SWEET CHIMES.—Sabbath Sonnet.

Words by Mrs. HEMANS; melody from Handel's instrumental works. Adapted by R. ANDREWS. Sent for 19 stamps. Author, 14, Park Avenue, Manchester.

THE PRAYER OF THE FISHER'S WIFE.

Words by E. OXENFORD.

Music by J. T. FIELD.

In C, for Contralto, and Eb, for Mezzo-Soprano. Price 3s.

London: C. JEFFERYS, 67, Berners Street, W.

"BE HAPPY WHILST YE MAY." 3s. Song and Chorus by the Author of "Never mind the rest." Racy and telling words, with a heartstirring and jubilant melody. An excellent stimulant for promoting cheerfulness and the friendly feelings.

B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

NOVELLO'S TONIC SOL-FA SERIES,

TRANSLATED AND EDITED BY

W. G. McNAUGHT.

ANTHEMS, CHORUSES, PART-SONGS, &c.

Nos. 1 to 81 now ready.

				s. d.
ELIJAH (Translated by J. W. Powell)	...	MENDELSSOHN	1	6
HEAR MY PRAYER	...	MENDELSSOHN	0	3
HYMN OF PRAISE (Lobgesang)	...	MENDELSSOHN	1	0
ATHALIE	...	MENDELSSOHN	1	0
LORELEY	...	MENDELSSOHN	0	6
LAUDA SION (Praise Jehovah)	...	MENDELSSOHN	0	9
CHRISTUS	...	MENDELSSOHN	0	6
THE CRUSADERS	...	NIELS W. GADE	1	0
THE MAY QUEEN	...	SIR W. S. BENNETT	1	0

Complete Lists sent free on application.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER and CO.

Third Edition, enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s. paper covers, 3s. cloth lettered.

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS, Single and Double, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This work contains nearly 400 Chants; which are appropriated to "Venite exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page and affording several Series suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter, from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now ready. Small 4to. Price 1s. Vocal parts, 12mo, price 6d. each. 1st and 2nd Series bound together, cloth, 2s. 9d. Vocal parts 1st and 2nd series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE CANTICLES and HYMNS of the CHURCH, pointed for Chanting, and set to appropriate Anglican Chants, Single and Double; together with Responses to the Commandments, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., etc., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK. This work contains a selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

This pointing of the Canticles is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS. Set to Music by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c. For general or Festival use; for male voices and four-part Chorus, with Organ accompaniment, ad lib. Price 3d. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK. Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 1s.; cloth, 2s. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Oxford: PARKER.

Eighth Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK, edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 3s. 6d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

OUSELEY AND MONK'S PSALTER AND CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 24mo, without chants, 9d.; with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to, with chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to, 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo, 1½d. Novello, Ewer and Co., and Parker and Co.

Preparing for the Press.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF WORDS OF ANTHEMS, new Edition, revised, corrected, and brought down to the present date.

Twelfth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Price 5s. 6d., paper covers; 7s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Score, 1s. 6d. The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-notes.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. Sr. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter having been collated with the Sealed Books is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small Edition is in preparation.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Fourth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. Quarto, in cloth elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Fifth Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. Sr. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

A MORNING SERVICE, Te Deum, Jubilate, and Kyrie, by the Rev. EDWARD YOUNG. Tenth edition, abbreviated for Parochial use. Organ and Choir copies, 4d. each.

"Melodious, vocal, and nicely harmonised—that is, without pretence or straining at effect; and they declaim the words devoutly and emphatically."—Musical Times.

"Good points, and tuneful passages."—Musical Standard. "The intelligent, devoted, and devotional spirit in which every note seems to have been composed furnishes one of the best guarantees for excellence."—English Churchman.

"All competent criticism will be found in accordance with the verdict of a high professional authority as to 'abundant proof of imagination, poetical conception, and musical feeling.'"—Christian Observer.

"The strain is devotional, and harmonies full, solemn, and massive. . . . He fairly claims to have dug a channel for the devout utterance of the words."—Bristol Times.

Also,

VENITE, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d. CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISERATUR, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A MORNING AND EVENING SERVICE, set to music principally in chant form for Four Voices, in harmony and unison with organ accompaniment. "Easy, effective, and congregational, and useful to parish choirs." Price 9d.; not less than one dozen copies, post-free, 7s. 9d., from the composer only. H. T. Harwood, Yeovil.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

G. A. MACFARREN'S CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISERATUR. For Voices in Unison and Organ. 8vo, 6d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just published.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in key of G, for Four Voices, with Organ Accompaniment. By E. BUNNETT, Mus. D., Cantab. Price Threepence.

Also, by same Composer, two Settings of the VENITE EXULTEMUS DOMINO, in Chant form. Price Twopence each.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in E flat. Composed by ALFRED J. DYE. Small 8vo, 3d.; organ copy, 6d.

"A simple setting, quite within the reach of ordinary church choirs."—Musical Record.

"In the various broad and effective unison sentences the organ is handled with judgment and skill."—The Choir.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CANTATE and DEUS, by R. TAYLOR. An easy Unison Service in F. Price 6d. To be had of Novello and Co., or of the Author, Brighton College.

THE OFFICE of the HOLY COMMUNION (as sung at S. Columba's College, Dublin). Set to music in the key of C, for voices in unison, by FREDERICK CAMBRIDGE. 8vo, 6d.

Also by the same composer,

ANTHEM, "NOT UNTO US, O LORD." Vocal Score, 3s.; Vocal Parts, 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE OFFICE of HOLY COMMUNION COMPLETE. Set to music by W. F. TAYLOR. S.A.T.B. Festal and easy. 1s. net. Simpson and Co., 33, Argyll Street, Regent Street, W.

ST. SIMON AND ST. JUDE, OCT. 28.

Just published by Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Large 8vo. Price Sixpence.

THE ATHANASIAN CREED

Newly pointed and set to music by J. BOLINGBROKE COOPER, Choirmaster, All Saints' Church, Old Swan, near Liverpool.

N.B.—This setting has been in use about a year at All Saints' and St. John's Church, Tue Brook, near Liverpool, and having been received with favour there, is now published in response to numerous inquiries for it.

8vo, price 4d.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES

(COMPLETE)

SET TO MUSIC BY
CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

The above will be found an agreeable change with the settings already in use, and will be found to be within the capacity of every choir. The treble part is written so that it can be sung in unison by the whole choir, if preferred.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE OFFERTORY SENTENCES

WITH AN APPENDIX FOR FESTAL USE,

SET TO MUSIC BY

JOSEPH BARNBY.

Price 1s. 6d.; or in Numbers at 2d. each.

- | | |
|---|--------------------------------------|
| No. 1. Let your light so shine. | 13. Charge them who are rich. |
| 2. Lay not up for yourselves. | 14. God is not unrighteous. |
| 3. Whatsoever ye would that men. | 15. To do good. |
| 4. Not every one that saith unto Me. | 16. Whoso hath this world's goods. |
| 5. { Zacchæus stood forth. | 17. Give alms of thy goods. |
| 6. { Who goeth a warfare. | 18. Be merciful after thy power. |
| 7. { If we have sown. | 19. He that hath pity upon the poor. |
| 8. { Do ye not know. | 20. Blessed be the man. |
| 9. He that soweth little. | 21. Let your light so shine. |
| 10. Let him that is taught in the word. | Festal Setting. |
| 11. { While we have time. | |
| 12. { Godliness is great riches. | |

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

8vo, price 6d.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES COMPLETE (20), with Music in full for Organist and Choir. By HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster.

One or more of these beautiful and effective Sentences may be sung after the Priest has said the Offertory, or after the Hymns at Matins or Evensong, whilst the alms are being collected.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ELEVEN OFFERTORY SENTENCES ... 4d.

"The Lord is my Shepherd" ... 4d.
"Let not your heart be troubled" (arrangement) ... 4d.
Tunes, set to popular Hymns, and Chants. Books 1 and 2, each 4d.

By CHARLES SWAIN, Stockport.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE OFFERTORY SENTENCES from the GOSPELS. Set to Music by the Rev. VYVYAN POPHAM. May be used as Introits or Short Anthems. Price 6d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MISSA SERAPHICA. The Office of Holy Communion (complete). Set to original music by Arthur H. Brown, Brentwood, Essex. Second Edition. Price 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR VILLAGE CHOIRS.

EASY COMMUNION SERVICE (Complete), in E flat, for Four Voices, with Organ Accompaniment. By F. LOVEDAY. Price 1s.

London: SIMPSON and Co., 33, Argyll Street, Regent Street, W.

Now ready, 8vo, price Threepence.

THE APOSTLES' CREED, Set to Music (chiefly in Recitative) for Voices in Unison, with an Accompaniment for the Organ, by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Director of the Choir, York Minster.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

4TH BOOK NOW READY. Collection of KYRIES, &c. Original Compositions by Dr. F. Hiller, Guilman, G. A. and W. Macfarren, Sir G. J. Elvey, Tours, Salaman, Francesco Berger, E. G. Monk, J. Baptiste Calkin, Scotson Clark, Hamilton Clarke, &c. Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 1s. each. Separate Nos. (1 to 71), 1d.
SPOHR'S 24th PSALM, 8vo (2nd thousand), 9d.; folio, 4s. net.

London: Novello and Co. Sheffield: W. T. Freemantle, High Street.

MY SOUL TRULY WAITETH STILL UPON GOD. Anthem for Four Voices. Composed by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, York Minster. Vocal score, folio, 1s. 6d.; octavo, 4d.

GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD. Anthem for Tenor Solo and Chorus. Composed by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, York Minster. Vocal score, folio, 2s. 6d.; octavo, 8d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now ready, price Sixpence.

"WHOSO DWELLETH UNDER THE DEFENCE OF THE MOST HIGH." Festival Anthem, by GEORGE LOMAS, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Also by the same, price Threepence.

HARVEST ANTHEM.—"PRAISED BE THE LORD DAILY."

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ADVENT ANTHEM.

Price 3d.

"THE NIGHT IS DEPARTING." By THOMAS SMITH. "Easy and effective."

CHRISTMAS ANTHEM.

Sixth Edition, price 3d.

"FOR UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN." By THOMAS SMITH.

Both the above post-free from the Composer, Angel Hill, Bury St. Edmund's.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

"BOW THINE EAR, O LORD." Anthem (to be sung at ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL, Nov. 8, 1877), arranged from Verdi's Requiem by J. ROBERTSON MURRAY, by whom it is dedicated to the Members of the London Church Choir Association. 1s. net.

RICORDI'S (of MILAN) DEPOT, 23, CHARLES STREET, MIDDLESEX HOSPITAL, LONDON, W.

LISTS of Vocal, Pianoforte, and Instrumental Music of every description, gratis and post-free.

RICORDI'S GRAN CATALOGO, containing nearly 50,000 works of his own publication, 5s. net.

SAMPLE COPIES of Sheet Music to the Trade on the usual terms.

CAROL OF THE REAPERS. (S.A.T.B.) 3d.
SIX EASY ANTHEMS FOR VILLAGE CHOIRS. 2d. each.
NOVELLO and Co.; or of the Composer, W. H. GILL, Sidcup, Kent.

NORWEGIAN NATIONAL MUSIC. Catalogues are sent gratis on application to Mr. C. Warmuths, Music Publisher at Christiania.

CHURCH MUSIC, by ALEXANDER S. COOPER.

COMMUNION SERVICE. Equally adapted for singing in Unison or in Harmony. Fourth edition. Price 1s.

BENEDICTUS AND AGNUS DEI. To complete the above Service. Price 3d.

NICENE CRED. Ely Prize Setting. Fourth edition. Price 6d.

Unison copy, 1d.

ATHANASIAN CRED. Newly Pointed for Chanting, with Appropriate Chants. Price 3d.

BENEDICITE. Three different Settings. Price 3d.

SECOND SERIES OF UNISON CHANTS. With varied Accompaniments. Price 6d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; WEEKES and Co.

ANTHEMS for USE in CHURCHES, arranged Alphabetically. Edited by a CLERGYMAN. A Collection of the Words of a Hundred Popular Anthems, specifying those appropriate for Certain Seasons; also the names of the Composers, and the arrangement of the Vocal Parts. Limp cloth, red edges, gilt lettered, price 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

"MUSIC for the PAROCHIAL CHOIR," comprising Tunes to "Abide with me" and other hymns, three Kyries, and four chant-settings of the Te Deum. By JOHN ST. CLAIR, Choirmaster to the Parochial Choir Association in Chichester. To be had of the Composer. Price 6d.; orders for more than a dozen, half-price.

Now ready.

CAROLS FOR USE in CHURCH DURING CHRISTMAS AND EPIPHANY.

A. Cloth, gilt lettered ...	s. d.	D. Words only, cloth, gilt lettered ...	s. d.
B. Suitable for presents, in handsome binding designed by Mr. Butterfield ...	4 0	E. TREBLE PART, in paper covers ...	1 0
C. Words only, in paper covers ...	7 6	F. Ditto, cloth, gilt lettered ...	1 6

London: METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough Street, W.; NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

THE CAPTIVITY.—"THEY THAT WAIT UPON THE LORD." Chorus from this Oratorio, by FRANCIS HOWELL, published in the Choir of August 11, 1877. Price 2d.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

PEACE AND WAR.—Now ready, a New Cantata, composed by GEORGE WELLS. Price One Shilling. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Sixpence. Wells' "Practical Singing-class Handbook," new and improved edition, price Sixpence. F. Pitman, 20, Paternoster Row.

Now ready, Vocal Score, price 3s.

JONAH. A Sacred Cantata. By J. V. ROBERTS, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Choirmaster of the Parish Church, Halifax.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

P.S.—Full Orchestral Parts to be had of the Composer.

DR. FOWLE'S ADDRESS to his numerous PATRONS and the PUBLIC. Gratis and post-free.

DR. FOWLE'S FRIENDLY WORDS to ORGANISTS, CHOIRMASTERS, and CHOIRS. 6d.; specimen for 4d. Very useful information.

DR. FOWLE'S "COLUMN of POPULAR MARCHES" and "CHRISTMAS COLUMN" to select from. Gratis and post-free. Address (during winter), Ramsgate, Kent. ("Organist's March." Third Edition. Now ready. 1s. 6d. Half-price.) Music arranged and revised.

MOTETTS BY SAMUEL WESLEY.

IN EXITU ISRAEL, for Double Choir. Vocal score, folio, 3s.; octavo, 4d.; vocal parts, 2s.

EXULTATE DEO, for Five Voices. Vocal score, folio, 3s.; vocal parts, rs. 3d.

DIXIT DOMINUS, for Double Choir. Vocal score, octavo, 1s.; Chorus parts, 2s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

J. S. BACH'S

FORTY-EIGHT PRELUDES & FUGUES

IN ALL THE MAJOR AND MINOR KEYS

(The "Well-Tempered Clavichord").

Edited and collated with all former editions of the work by

W. T. BEST.

Complete in One Volume, 12s.; or in Four Books, each 4s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

REDUCED PRICES.

The following works have been reduced in price:—

SCHUMANN'S VOCAL ALBUM	s. d.
SCHUMANN'S PIANOFORTE ALBUM	2 6
VOLKSLIEDER ALBUM	2 6
MENDELSSOHN'S MOTETTS FOR FEMALE VOICES	1 0

(Each Motett, singly, 6d. each.)

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL ROUND-BOOK.

A COLLECTION OF
ONE HUNDRED ROUNDS, CATCHES, AND CANONS.

Arranged according to their relative difficulty.

EDITED BY THE

REV. J. POWELL METCALFE.

Cloth, price 1s. 6d.

Or in Two Books, each containing Fifty Rounds, price 6d. each, paper covers.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SCHOTT & CO.'S NEW AND SEPARATE CATALOGUES

OF

PIANOFORTE MUSIC.
VIOLIN Do.
TENOR (VIOLA) Do.
VIOLONCELLO Do.
DOUBLE BASS Do.
FLUTE Do.
CLARINET Do.
ORGAN Do. (containing all M.
A. Guilman's works).
HARMONIUM Do.
HARP Do.

CHAMBER MUSIC (Piano
Trios, Quartetts, &c.).
SACRED Do.
MASSES.
ELEMENTARY VOCAL Do.
FRENCH ROMANES.
MELODIES OF JULES FAURE.
Also of works of
RICHARD WAGNER and
CHARLES GOUNOD.

Post-free on application to 159, REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.

Branch Establishments at Mayence, Paris, Brussels, Rotterdam,
Frankfurt-on-the-Main, and Leipzig.

POPULAR FOUR-PART SONGS BY GABRIEL DAVIS.

THE KNIGHT'S RETURN	2d.
GOD SAVE THE PRINCE. (12th Edition)	2d.
THE DISTANT SEA	2d.
TO THE WOODS	2d.
HARK! 'TIS MUSIC	2d.
THE HOUR OF REST	2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S POPULAR PART-SONGS FOR S.A.T.B. 8vo.

1. I love the merry springtime	20th Edition ...	s. d.
2. Gaily through the greenwood	26th Do. ...	0 2
3. Welcome, merry May	6th Do. ...	0 2
4. The mountain maid	6th Do. ...	0 2
5. Come o'er the mountain	8th Do. ...	0 2
6. Hail, merry, merry Christmas	15th Do. ...	0 2
7. Songs of praise the angels sang	5th Do. ...	0 3
8. Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow	6th Do. ...	0 3
9. Fairy revels	9th Do. ...	0 3
10. Oh! peaceful vale of rest	5th Do. ...	0 1 1/2
11. The merry bird	5th Do. ...	0 3
12. Come, let us be merry and gay	4th Do. ...	0 3
13. Forest echoes	7th Do. ...	0 3
14. Haste, ye merry elves	5th Do. ...	0 3
15. The streamlet	2nd Do. ...	0 3
16. Sunshine and shadow	2nd Do. ...	0 3
17. Sunny rays	2nd Do. ...	0 3
18. A happy New Year	2nd Do. ...	0 3
19. The coming of Spring	3rd Do. ...	0 3
20. England's glory	Just published ...	0 3
21. A merry Christmas to you all!	Do. ...	0 3

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W., and 80 & 81, Queen Street, E.C.

Manchester: HIME and ADDISON, and FORSYTH BROTHERS.

NOVELLO, EWER and CO.'S ONLY COMPLETE and UNIFORM EDITION OF

MENDELSSOHN'S

THIRTEEN TWO-PART SONGS

With the German and W. BARTHOLOMEW'S Original English Words.

Complete in One Volume, folio, 5s. net. Octavo, paper, 2s. net; cloth gilt, 4s. net; or singly, 2s. each. The separate Numbers are sold at half-price.

- No. 1. I would that my love.
2. The passage bird.
3. Greeting.
4. Autumn song.
5. O wert thou in the cauld blast.
6. The maybells and the flowers.

- No. 7. My bark is bounding.
8. Can I light-hearted be?
9. Evening song.
10. Zuleika and Hassan.
11. The Sabbath morn.
12. The harvest field.
13. Song from Ruy Blas.

N.B.—The Quartett score to No. 13, 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CHORAL SONGS,
as sung by Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir, the Birmingham Festival
Choral Society, &c.

No. 1. "THE SILENT LAND." Price 3d.

"Replete with melody. Some phrases are of remarkable beauty."—
Musical Times.

No. 2. "THE BETTER LAND." Price 4d.

"Distinguished by beauty of melody and richness of harmony."—
Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"Full of charming effects."—Birmingham Daily Post.

No. 3. "THE DAY IS DONE." Price 4d.

Composed expressly for Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SOUTHWELL SCHOOL SONGS. First series,
1s. 6d. By the Rev. R. F. SMITH, Minor Canon of Southwell.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The Queen.—"Fourteen" (sixteen) "capital little songs in a cheap handy form. Quite new and withal pretty and neatly written."

The Schoolmaster.—"Easy, pleasing tunes, suitable to school use.
The composer shows himself a true musician; each 'lay' has a separate style, which is catching, appropriate, and quite in old ballad-song style."

The Musical Times.—"The sympathetic and musicianlike manner in which he has wedded them to melodies which cannot fail to please the young vocalists for whom they are expressly designed."

By the same Composer,

TE DEUM in F, 3d. ANTHEM (S.A.T.B.), "The Lord is nigh," 6d.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition.—Reduced Prices.

CHORAL SONGS FOR SCHOOL & HOME. FORTY-TWO ORIGINAL SONGS

FOR

ONE, TWO, OR FOUR VOICES.

COMPOSED BY ROBERT JACKSON.

Cloth, complete, 3s.; Parts I. and II., paper cover, 1s. each; Single Numbers, 1d.

From Concordia.

"This little book is designed for singing-classes in schools, and the simplicity, tunefulness, and attractiveness of the small compositions it contains eminently adapt it for such a purpose."

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

New Edition, complete in One Volume, 142 pages; paper cover, 5s.
net; handsomely bound in scarlet cloth, gilt edges (as a gift or prize book), 7s. 6d. net.

"THE VILLAGE ORGANIST."—Seventy-eight
Easy Voluntaries, expressly contributed by Sir Julius Benedict;
Sir William Sterndale Bennett, M.A., Mus. Doc., Cantab.; Sir George
J. Elvey, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; Sir F. A. G. Ouseley, M.A., Mus. Doc.,
Oxon.; Dr. G. B. Arnold, Dr. E. T. Chipp, Dr. J. B. Dykes, Dr. H. J.
Gauntlett, Dr. A. S. Holloway, Dr. G. A. Macfarren, Dr. E. G. Monk,
Dr. E. F. Rimbault, Dr. William Spark, Dr. J. Stainer, Dr. C. G.
Verrinder, Dr. S. S. Wesley, C. Goodban, Mus. Bac., Oxon.; S. Reay,
Mus. Bac., Oxon.; J. Barnby, J. F. Barnett, R. Forsey Brion,
J. Baptiste Calkin, William Hutchings Callcott, W. G. Cousins, E. M.
Delaborde, Henry Farmer, F. E. Gladstone, John Hullah, H. S. Irons,
C. W. Lavington, Mrs. Mounsey-Bartholomew, Franz Nava, Alberto
Randegger, Brinley Richards, J. E. Richardson, Charles Salaman, E. Silas, Henry Smart, Boyton Smith, R. H. Thorne, J. Tilleard, and
E. H. Turpin.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

* * "THE VILLAGE ORGANIST" is very popular with town Organists
as a lesson-book for their organ and harmonium pupils.

SELECT COMPOSITIONS

FROM THE
GREAT MASTERS,
ARRANGED FOR THE ORGAN

With Pedal Obligato by

A. H. BROWN.

- No. 1. "Wedding March," by Mendelssohn.
2. March from "Tannhäuser," by Wagner.
3. March from "Scipio," also from Occasional Oratorio, both by Handel.
4. "Coronation March," from Meyerbeer's "Prophète."
5. "The Dead March" in "Saul" and "See the conquering hero comes," both by Handel.
6. Andantino, from the 11th Grand Symphony by Haydn, and "Waft her, angels," from Handel's "Jephtha."
7. "As pants the hart," from Spohr's "Crucifixion," and "Where'er you walk," from Handel's "Semele."
8. "My heart ever faithful" (Mein gläubiges Herz frohlocket), by Bach.
9. Andantino from the 5th and Andante from the 4th Sonatas, by Pleyel.
10. "The Hero's March," by Mendelssohn.
11. "Quis est homo?" from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."
12. Air et Chœur, from "La Dame Blanche," by Boieldieu.
13. Grande Marche Héroïque in C, by Fr. Schubert.
14. Grande Marche Héroïque in D, by Fr. Schubert.
15. Overture, "Berenice," by Handel.
16. Overture, "Sosarmes," by Handel.
17. Handel's Overture, "Alcina."
18. Gavotte, from Handel's Overture, "Otho."
19. "La Carità," by Rossini.
20. "Angels ever bright and fair," and "Pious orgies," both by Handel.
21. "Ave Maria," by Franz Schubert.
22. Aria, by Antonio Lotti. Circa 1700.
23. "My soul thirsteth for God," Aria from Mendelssohn's 42nd Psalm.
24. "Gloria in excelsis," from Weber's Mass in G.
25. "Fac ut portem," from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."
26. "Pietà, Signore," from the Oratorio "San Giovanni Battista," by Stradella.
27. Handel's Overture to "Julius Cæsar."
28. Serenade, by Franz Schubert.

[Continuing.]

Price Two Shillings each.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

Now ready.

AN ANDANTE IN A FOR THE ORGAN

BY

SAMUEL SEBASTIAN WESLEY.

Price 3s. net.

Now published for the first time.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

AN AIR FOR HOLSWORTHY CHURCH BELLS

COMPOSED AND VARIED FOR THE ORGAN BY

SAMUEL SEBASTIAN WESLEY.

Price 3s. net.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ORGAN MOVEMENTS.—Six Selected MOVEMENTS from the Organ Sonatas by Mendelssohn. Edited and fingered by JAMES LOWE. Reduced price complete, 3s. 6d. Single numbers—1, 3, 4, and 6, 9d. each, and 2 and 5, 1s. each net.

Manchester: HIME and ADDISON, 30, Victoria Street.

London: C. JEFFERYS, 67, Berners Street.

FIVE INTRODUCTORY VOLUNTARIES for the ORGAN.

Composed by T. MEE PARTISON.

These Voluntaries, of medium difficulty, with Pedal Obligato, will be found eminently useful for the introduction of Divine Service, both as regards character and length. Price 3s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SMALLWOOD'S
CLASSICAL & SECULAR EXTRACTS

FOR THE

PIANOFORTE.

No. 52 Nos. ready, 3s. each.

1. Classical.—Hymn of Praise (Mendelssohn).
19. " " Kyrie Eleison (Mozart's Twelfth Service).
35. " " I know that my Redeemer (Messiah).

4. Secular.—May-bells (Mendelssohn).
20. " " Selection from Die Zauberflöte (Mozart).
40. " " Selection from Masaniello (Auber).
Post-free, 18 stamps each number.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

NEW WORK FOR THE ORGAN.

THE ORGAN

A THEORETICAL AND PRACTICAL TREATISE;

INTENDED TO ASSIST THE STUDENT IN ACQUIRING

A SOUND KNOWLEDGE OF THE INSTRUMENT AND
ITS PROPER MANIPULATION;

WITH A SERIES OF

ORIGINAL EXERCISES AND ILLUSTRATIVE
COMPOSITIONS

Written specially for this Work.

BY

FREDERIC ARCHER,

Organist of the Alexandra Palace, Muswell Hill.

Price 10s. 6d.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

In the course of October will appear No. 1 of
THE LONDON AND PROVINCIAL

MUSIC TRADE REVIEW

PIANOFORTE AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENT MAKERS' JOURNAL,

AND PUBLISHERS' MONTHLY LIST OF NEW MUSIC.

Price 4d. Monthly.

The large interests connected with the Music Trade generally have hitherto been unrepresented by any special publication; it is therefore intended to make The Music Trade Review a medium of publicity for all matters of interest in connection with the manufacture and sale of Musical Instruments, as well as a newspaper for the dissemination of information on musical subjects in general, among professors, the trade, and amateurs; and for giving as complete a list as can be obtained of all New Music published during the month in Great Britain and elsewhere; also lists of artists' engagements, tours, and other news likely to interest the trade and the profession.

The further contents of The Music Trade Review will embrace a résumé of all Musical Events of the Month, at home and abroad; Reviews and Notices; Correspondence, Trade and Professional; and a special feature will be introduced in Questions and Answers for Amateur Vocalists, Pianists, Organists, Violinists, &c. &c.

For the present The Music Trade Review will be issued monthly, and will consist of sixteen large quarto pages, stitched in coloured wrapper, at a charge of 4d.

Subscribers for not less than twelve months will receive their copies post-free every month. All subscriptions must be paid in advance, as follows: For Twelve Months, 4s. 6d.; for Six Months, 2s. 6d.

Advertisements and Communications to be forwarded to G. D. Ernest, 1, Raquet Court, Fleet Street, E.C., to whom P.O. Orders should be made payable.

10,000 Circulation of No. 1 will be guaranteed.

Now ready, price 24d., post-free.

THE MUSICAL GAZETTE AND REVIEW,
published Monthly. 16 large 40 pages. Post-free, 2s. 6d. per annum.

LITERARY CONTENTS FOR OCTOBER: Music in Germany in the 16th and 17th Centuries, by F. Grenier; Analysis of Mendelssohn's "Elijah," by J. S. Dwight; Percy Anecdotes; Assassins charmed from their purpose; Harp of the North; Nature and French Singing; Cold and Raw; Gilmore's Gardens; Specification of Albert Hall Organ; Reviews, Musical Gossip; Answers to Correspondents, &c.

MUSIC IN THIS NUMBER: Tell me, babbling echo, why (song); Rose-bush (song); Hunter's Chorus; Taste, oh taste, this spicy wine (song); The peasant from her home must part, &c.

Advertisement scale on application.

THE MUSICAL STANDARD. Published every Friday. Price 3d. Annual subscription, post-free, 15s.

CONTENTS: News of the week at home and abroad; Essays; Report; Leading Articles; Reviews; Organ News; Notes; Correspondence, &c.

Advertisement scale on application.

Catalogue of Music Works free for one stamp.

W. REEVES, Music Publisher, Fleet Street, London.

MUSIC PUPIL'S REGISTER.

By JACOB BRADFORD, Mus. Bac., Oxon.; L. Mus., Trin. Coll., Lond.

SPECIMEN COPY, TWELVE STAMPS.

SECOND EDITION, NOW READY.

"A capably arranged and really useful little work."—Musical Standard.

"A valuable book; will be found of essential service to music teachers."—Musical World.

"Is alike useful and practical; a copy should be in the hands of every pupil."—Public Opinion.

Address, Secretary, South London Musical Training College,
S. James's, Hatcham, S.E.

ARTHUR ALLISON & Co.

Pianoforte & Harmonium Manufacturers,

110, WARDOUR STREET, LONDON, W.

Steam Factories—Apollo Works, Leighton Road, and Charlton King's Road, Kentish Town, London, N.W.

EVERY INSTRUMENT WARRANTED.

BOUDOIR PIANETTES, with Patent Check Action, from	30	Guineas
PICCOLO PIANOS "	32	"
COTTAGES AND GRAND OBLIQUES ... "	35	"

ARTHUR ALLISON AND CO.'S HARMONIUMS and DAWES' PATENT MELODY ORGANS as supplied to HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN and H.R.H. the Princess Louise.

"The Melody Organ is the only perfect reed-instrument for accompaniment, and possesses a tone of an extraordinary quality."

Illustrated Price Lists to be had of all Musicsellers.

IN PREPARATION.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS

EDITED BY

DR. STAINER.

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1. The Pianoforte (Now ready, price 2s.) E. Pauer. | 9. Counterpoint - - - - - Dr. Bridge. |
| 2. The Rudiments of Music - W. H. Cummings. | 10. Scientific Basis of Music - - Dr. Stone. |
| 3. The Organ - - - - - Dr. Stainer. | 11. History of Music - - - - E. Pauer. |
| 4. Harmonium - - - - - King Hall. | 12. Church Choir Training Rev. J. Troutbeck. |
| 5. Singing - - - - - A. Randegger. | 13. Plain-Song - - - - Rev. T. Helmore. |
| 6. Pronunciation in Singing A. J. Ellis, F.R.S. | 14. Instrumentation - - - - E. Prout. |
| 7. Musical Forms - - - - E. Pauer. | 15. The Elements of the Beautiful in |
| 8. Harmony - - - - - Dr. Stainer. | Music - - - - - E. Pauer. |

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

“By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast-tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly-nourished frame.”—The Civil Service Gazette.

“MANUFACTURE OF COCOA.—We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps and Co., manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London.”—See Article in Cassell's Household Guide.

MADE SIMPLY WITH BOILING WATER OR MILK.

SOLD IN PACKETS (TINS FOR ABROAD), LABELLED

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists,
48, THREADNEEDLE STREET, AND 170, PICCADILLY.

WORKS: EUSTON ROAD AND CAMDEN TOWN, LONDON.

Makers of EPPS'S GLYCERINE JUJUBES, for Throat Irritation.

THE MUSICAL
TIMES

THE STEINWAY PIANOFORTES

(STEINWAY HALL, NEW YORK).

It is pretty well known that the SUPREME POSITION among the Pianofortes of the world belongs to the STEINWAY PIANOFORTE, whatever test of excellence or measure of comparative values may be applied. But it should also be understood that it is simply impossible for any one to form an adequate conception of the artistic, scientific, and structural perfection to which the modern Pianoforte has attained without hearing and seeing the Steinway Instruments.

It should, moreover, be noticed that the Steinway Instruments are not merely the GREATEST PIANOFORTES IN THE WORLD, but are also the sources of every scientific improvement introduced into European Pianofortes within the past quarter of a century. Every maker without exception, whether in Europe or America, whose Pianofortes display any indications of progress within the period indicated has derived them from the Steinway Instruments; and, conversely, every maker who has not empirically copied the Steinway Pianofortes has made no important improvement in his instruments, but remains the mere reproducer of the imperfect types of pianoforte construction belonging to a past generation.

It may also be mentioned that the STEINWAY PIANOFORTES have been supplied to almost every Royal Family in Europe, from the Imperial and Grand Ducal Palaces at St. Petersburg to the Vatican; have received the eulogium of almost every contemporary Pianist, Composer, and other Musician of world-wide fame; the academic honours of the principal Art and Science corporations of Europe—Paris, Berlin, Stockholm, &c.; the eulogies of the greater authorities in the science of acoustics, such as Helmholtz and Lissajous; the highest awards of the four representative International Exhibitions—London (1862), Paris (1867), Vienna (1873), and Philadelphia (1876); and enjoy both the widest distribution and the largest annual sale of any pianofortes throughout the world.

TYPICAL EXTRACTS.

"Your unrivalled grand pianos are certainly the most perfect instruments I have met with, especially your latest achievement, the Centennial Grand Piano. Their volume of tone is simply marvellous, and at the same time of truly musical and poetic quality, which never changes its noble character under either the most delicate or the most powerful touch; with an action of the most unerring precision, power, elasticity, and unequalled durability under the severest trials."—Madame Arabella Goddard.

"Their tone is marvellously grand, of exquisite poetic and sympathetic quality, which was to me a perfect revelation when trying the Steinway Piano for the first time; and it is just this thoroughly musical quality of tone, invariably characterising your pianos, which grows both upon hearer and player, that a cultivated musical ear will prefer the tone of your pianos to all others. The touch is simply perfect—elastic, pliable, and promptly responding to all and every demand made by the pianist."—Miss Marie Krebs.

CENTRAL DEPÔT FOR GREAT BRITAIN:

28, BAKER STREET, PORTMAN SQUARE, LONDON, W.

THE "SPÉCIALITÉ" WINES.

THE SURPASSING POPULARITY AND REPUTATION OF THE

"SPÉCIALITÉ" SHERRY,

"FREE FROM ACIDITY AND HEAT,"

Has prompted its Proprietors to produce other Wines in DAILY DEMAND of equal INDEFECTIBILITY.

THEY confidently submit these Wines as being "the Produce of the Grape," with their NATURAL REFRESHING VINOUS FLAVOUR and BOUQUET. The low quotations are attributable to the combined advantages of extensive sales and the "cash payment system."

	Dozen.		Dozen.
The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Sherry	30s.	The "PRIMITIVE" Sherry, Dessert Wine, Dry or Rich	38s.
The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Montilla		The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Claret	20s.
The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Manzanilla		The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Burgundy	24s.
The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Port		The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Hock and Moselle	30s.
The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Madeira	42s.

THE "SPÉCIALITÉ" SPARKLING WINES.

	Dozen.	In Pints.
CHAMPAGNE	50s.	27s.
MOSELLE
HOCK

Saumur Champagne - - 30s. MATCHLESS (of its class).

RAILWAY CARRIAGE PAID.

FELTOE AND SONS.

Chief Establishment: ALBEMARLE STREET, W. City Offices: 80, BISHOPSGATE STREET, E.C.

ESTABLISHED 62 YEARS.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

The Music Pages only are stereotyped; those persons who would possess the Musical Articles, Notices, Advertisements, &c., can only insure doing so by taking the work as it appears.

No. 417.—Vol. 18.
Registered for transmission abroad.

NOVEMBER 1, 1877.

Price 3d.; Post-free, 4d.
Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 4s.

CHALLEN AND SON'S GOLD MEDAL PIANOS,

20, OXFORD STREET, LONDON.

ESTABLISHED 1804.

PRIZE MEDAL, LONDON, 1862.

GOLD MEDAL, SOUTH AFRICA, 1877.

The only Firm who obtained the International Exhibition Medal for the special distinction of "excellence of touch and tone."

CHALLEN & SON'S GOLD MEDAL PIANETTE,
WITH CHECK ACTION, IN ELEGANT WALNUT OR ROSEWOOD CASE.
FROM 29 GUINEAS.

"The Pianettes manufactured by CHALLEN & SON are most satisfactory instruments."—Anton Rubinstein.

"I can testify in the strongest manner to the qualities of the Pianette as manufactured by CHALLEN & SON. In every point, as to tone and touch, they are excellent; and I can also certify from experience as to their durability under hard wear."—William Henry Monk, Professor of Music in King's College, London.

CHALLEN & SON'S GOLD MEDAL SEMI-COTTAGE,
WITH CHECK REPEATER ACTION.
FROM 32 GUINEAS.

"The Pianos I have selected from Messrs. CHALLEN & SON have invariably given complete satisfaction, some of them having had to bear the severe test of an Indian climate."—William H. Cummings.

"As a customer of some years' standing, I speak with confidence of the quality of the instruments supplied by Messrs. CHALLEN & SON. The two I have for my own use have had a great deal of wear, and in this respect have entirely satisfied me as to their durability; and the tone and touch of all those selected by me for myself or pupils have been much commended."—Alfred Gilbert, R.A.M.

CHALLEN & SON'S GOLD MEDAL COTTAGE;
TRICHORD THROUGHOUT; BRASS BRIDGE; CHECK REPEATER ACTION.
FROM 60 GUINEAS.

"I hold a very high opinion of Messrs. CHALLEN & SON'S Pianos. Their qualities of tone and touch can be at once estimated; but I can furthermore bear testimony to their great durability."—Lindsay Sloper.

"CHALLEN & SON is a name synonymous with wonderful durability, great beauty of tone, and moderation in price. We know of not one single maker whose Pianos excel theirs in the qualities most desirable in a good and lasting Piano."—Cape Argus, May 7.

EXCELLENCE IS GUARANTEED, AND EVERY INSTRUMENT WARRANTED TO BE OF THE HIGHEST CLASS WORKMANSHIP AND MATERIALS.

EBONISED AND GOLD PIANOS

Kept in Stock, of Superior Make and Elegant Designs.

May be obtained from all Musicsellers. Illustrated List forwarded free.

CHALLEN & SON, 20, OXFORD STREET.
STEAM WORKS—CARDINGTON STREET, EUSTON SQUARE.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MRS. WARREN (Soprano),
Of Mr. C. Hallé's Concerts. For Oratorio or other Concerts, address, 150, Radnor Street, Hulme, Manchester.
Lessons in Singing. References—C. Hallé, Esq., and E. Hecht, Esq.

MRS. ALFRED J. SUTTON (Soprano)
Is open to engagements for Concerts and Oratorios.
54, Duchess Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MADAME PAULINE EVISON (Soprano).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 57, Walmsley Street, Hull.

MISS DUMVILLE (Soprano).
For Oratorios, &c., address, 119, Elizabeth Street, Cheetham,
Manchester.

MISS FANNY CHATFIELD (Soprano)
Begs to inform her friends and pupils that she has removed to 11, St. Ann's Road, Brixton Road, S.W. Concerts, Oratorios, &c.

MISS HELEN SWIFT (Soprano).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 15, Cecil Street, Greenheys,
Manchester.

CARINA AND EDITH CLELLAND (Soprano and Contralto Vocalists).

For Oratorio and Miscellaneous Concerts, address, 35, Charteris Road,
Finsbury Park, London, N., or Mr. Clelland, Cheetham, Manchester.

MRS. NEESHAM (Soprano).
For Oratorio or other Concerts, address, 118, Burley Road, Leeds.

MISS JULIA JONES (Soprano Vocalist).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 1, North Place, Cheltenham.

MISS ANNETTE IVANOVA (Soprano).
For Concerts, &c., "Brooklyn," Howard Road, South Norwood.

MISS JOHNSON (Soprano).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 26, Charlotte Street, Oldham.

MADAME PAULINE GRAYSTON (Soprano).
Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Concerts, &c.
For terms address, C. G. Taylor, 56, Lofthouse Place, Leeds; or
R. D'Oyly Carte, 9A, Craig's Court, Charing Cross, London, S.W.

MISS BRITTON (Mezzo-Soprano).
15, Montpelier Road, Peckham, S.E.

MISS EMILY EMPSALL (Contralto).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 16, High Street, Halifax.

MISS RUTH HARLOW (Contralto).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 34, Booth Street East,
Oxford Street, Manchester.

MISS LOUISA BOWMONT (Contralto).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 51, Mercer Street, Embden
Street, Hulme, Manchester.

MISS HELEN PICKLES (Contralto).
Address, Holywell Green, near Halifax, Yorks.

MISS FLORENCE WYDFORD (Contralto).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. &c.
Address, 95, St. Paul's Road, Lorrimer Square, S.E.

MR. GREENHILL (Tenor).
7, Park Place, Regent's Park.

MR. VERNEY BINNS (Tenor),
Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Signor Piusuti.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 65, King Cross Street, Halifax.

W. MANN DYSON (Tenor).
For Concerts or Oratorios, address, Cathedral, Worcester.

MR. N. DUMVILLE (Principal Tenor).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address, Cathedral, Manchester.

MR. WELBYE WALLACE (Tenor),
Of the Crystal Palace, and Gentlemen's Concerts, Manchester, &c. &c.,
desires that all communications concerning engagements for Oratorio,
Concerts, or Opera be addressed to 24, Harcourt Terrace, Redcliffe
Square, London, S.W., or care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.,
1, Berners Street, W.

J. GRUNDY (Tenor),
Late Soloist to the Peterborough Choral Society.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, the Cathedral, Canterbury.

HENRY BRIGGS (Tenor).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address, 7, Brunswick Street, Leeds.

MR. J. WRIGHT (Tenor).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Birkenshaw, near Leeds.

MR. WALTER WILLIAMS (Tenor).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Cathedral, St. Asaph.

MR. RICKARD (Bass),
Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Signor Piusuti.
For Oratorios and Concerts, address, King Cross, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MR. THORNTON WOOD (Bass),
Of the Royal Albert Hall Concerts. For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. T. DODDS (Bass).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 7, Brunswick Terrace, Leeds.

MR. THOM LAW (Basso),
Of Madame Lemmens-Sherrington's Party.
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 14, Ironmonger Lane, E.C.

MR. J. A. SCHOFIELD (Bass).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address, Bank Street, Horncastle, Lincoln.

MR. CH. J. BISHENDEN (the celebrated Bass),
Author of "How to Sing," &c. For Concerts and Pupils, 20, Duke Street, Portland Place, London, W.

MR. ADOLPHUS PHILLIPS (Basso),
Of Lincoln Cathedral, having been appointed to Magdalen College, Oxford, requests that all communications respecting engagements for Oratorios, &c. be addressed to him at the Cathedral, Lincoln, until January next.

ALBERT E. BISHOP.
(Organ, Harmony, and Counterpoint.)
Address, 26, Wilson Street, E.C.

MR. J. SHARPE (Oboist).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 235, Lidgett Hill, Pudsey,
near Leeds.
N.B.—Bandmasters and others supplied with Triebert's and Morton's celebrated Oboes. Best Oboe Reeds, 2s. each; Staples recaned, 1s. each.

MR. H. T. BYWATER, TENOR, is OPEN to
ENGAGEMENTS for ORATORIOS and MISCELLA-
NEOUS CONCERTS. Address, 36, St. Germain's Road, Forest Hill,
London, S.E.; or 40, Darlington Street, Wolverhampton.

MR. G. H. WELSH, of St. Andrew's, Wells Street, and the Royal Academy of Music, having been appointed to the Tenor Lay-Clerkship in Durham Cathedral, requests that all communications respecting engagements may be addressed to the Royal Academy of Music, London, W.

CITY CHURCH CHOIR.—There is a VACANCY
for a SOPRANO VOICE in the Choir of St. Alphege, London Wall. The duties comprise two services on Sunday and a rehearsal on Thursday evening. Service, full choral. Salary, £10 per annum.
Candidates must be well up in Church music, and be able to read fairly at sight. Address, with testimonials or references, Organist, care of Messrs. Knight and Co., 3, Abchurch Lane, E.C.

EXPERIENCED SOPRANO desires ENGAGE-MENT as Leader in Church or Chapel Choir. Good reader.
North of London preferred. Address, F. S., Ladies' College, Wellington, Salop.

WANTED, two TREBLE VOICES (Boys'), good leaders; a slight knowledge of Gregorian music necessary.
Apply to choirmaster, Mr. E. Rumney Smith, St. James's Church,
Curtain Road, Finsbury, E.C., on Sunday or Wednesday evenings.

LEADING BOY WANTED, with good TREBLE VOICE for a City Church. Stipend, £10 per annum. Apply to Mr. Bishop, 26, Wilson Street, E.C.

WANTED, a LEADING BOY, for a Church near Manchester. Will receive a good classical education and a salary of £12 per annum. Address, Organist, care of Messrs. Hime and Addison, 30, Victoria Street, Manchester.

ROLLS CHAPEL, Chancery Lane.—WANTED immediately, LEADING BOY (paid); also ALTO and BASS VOICES (voluntary). Sunday morning only. Address, Mr. F. J.
Sharland, 100, Albion Road, Stoke Newington, N.

ALTO WANTED, immediately, for Church near the Marble Arch. Surplined Choir. Stipend, £10. Address, M. E. M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHOIRBOYS.—WANTED, in a S.E. suburb of London, TWO (or more) BOYS with good voices, capable of leading a Choir. Full Choral Service. They are required on Sundays in the morning and afternoon only, and on a few chief Festivals, and at one practice a week. Apply immediately to S. C., care of Messrs.
Novello, 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

A LADY (Prof. Mus.), powerful voice, first-class reader, desires an ENGAGEMENT as LEADER of Choir or Deputy-Organist in a Church. She also requires teaching in schools and families. Acquirements, Pianoforte, Harp, and Singing. First-class references. M. S., 50, St. Paul's Crescent, Camden Square, N.W.

ALTO REQUIRED immediately for S. Stephen's,
South Kensington. Choral Services. Stipend, £15. Address, Albert Lowe, Esq., 111, Abingdon Road, Kensington, W.

YORK CATHEDRAL.—WANTED immediately for this Choir, an ALTO VOICE. The duties are attendance at Divine Service twice daily, and at Choir Practice whenever required by the Organist. Salary for a thoroughly efficient Choirman will be £35 per annum. None but qualified singers need apply. Applications, stating age of the candidates and inclosing testimonials as to character and musical efficiency, to be addressed to Dr. Monk, Minister Yard, York.

A YOUNG LADY (R.A.M.), CONTRALTO, is open to an ENGAGEMENT. B., 498, Wandsworth Road.

ST. MARY'S, Vincent Square, Westminster.—VOLUNTEERS REQUIRED (ALTO, TENOR, and BASS). Apply to the Organist, at the Church, on Sundays after the Evening Service, or by letter, addressed Organist, care of Messrs. Ashdown and Parry, Hanover Square, W.

WANTED, for the Voluntary Choir of St. Mary's Church, Haggerston, additional ALTO, TENOR, and BASS VOICES. Surpliced Choir. Cathedral Service. Apply, by letter, to Mr. Charles Joseph Frost, 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N.; or personally after the Services.

COUNTER-TENOR, good voice, requires ENGAGEMENT. Can sing solos, glees, &c. Would like to join professional glee union. Address, C. T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

TENOR WANTED, for Nonconformist Choir. Two Sunday Services (liturgical). Week evening practice. Apply to Mr. Bartram, 34, Douglas Road, Canonbury, N.

TENOR and BOYS' VOICES WANTED. Apply to St. Mary-at-Hill Church, Eastcheap, City, on Sundays, or by letter to A. B., Burlington Lodge, Whitton, Middlesex. Surpliced paid Choir.

TENOR (High) desires RE-ENGAGEMENT after Christmas. Plain or Choral Service. London or suburbs preferred. B. Angers, 36, Canonbury Road, Islington.

MR. FREDERIC WOOD (Principal Tenor of the Italian Church, Hatton Garden, for five years) desires a RE-ENGAGEMENT in a Catholic Church. Address, care of Messrs. Hodge and Essex, 6 and 7, Argyl Street, Regent Street, W.

LINCOLN CATHEDRAL.—WANTED, a BASS SINGER, not BARITONE. Applicants must be under 30 years of age, of good education and character, accustomed to Cathedral Music, and Communicants. Salary, £80 per annum. The usual duties. Applications and testimonials to be sent to the Rev. the Precentor, Lincoln.

ELY CATHEDRAL.—A LAY CLERK, with BASS VOICE, is required. The successful candidate will receive a stipend of £80 or of £100 a year, according as the Dean and Chapter may determine after a trial of voice and acquisitions. Immediate application may be made to the Precentor, Rev. W. E. Dickson, College, Ely.

WANTED, immediately, for the surpliced Choir of St. James's Church, Clapham Park, TWO BASSES. Salary, £10. Apply, by letter, to Mr. George W. R. Hoare, 16, Stock Orchard Crescent, Camden Road, Holloway, or at the Church, on Fridays, 9 p.m.

BASS and ALTO WANTED for a Surpliced Choir in the North of London. Must have good voices and a fair knowledge of music. A small stipend to begin with, which will ultimately be largely increased. Address, Alpha, Post Office, High Street, Stoke Newington, N.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Professional Gentleman requires a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above, or to deputise. Address, H. J. Dean, 2, Blomfield Street, Finsbury, E.C.

THE ORGANIST of a Parish Church would be glad to take the Sunday evening, or one week-night service, or both, in exchange for practice. Anglican. Good organ. North of London preferred. I. D. W., 6, Hatton Garden, E.C.

AN ORGANIST of over twenty years' experience, living near London, and having two or three days in the week at his disposal, would be glad of an ENGAGEMENT, in or within ten miles of London, as ACCOMPANIST or LIBRARIAN to a Choral Society or Institution, or in any other way that his services would be useful. Good Pianist and Tuner. Excellent testimonials as to character and ability. Address, Sol-fa, Musical Times Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.

ORGANIST.—Advertiser wishes for an ENGAGEMENT at a nominal salary, or would act as Deputy without. Good references. Apply, A. C., 24, Oakley Square, N.W.

TO ORGANISTS, CLERGYMEN, &c.—A Gentleman is OPEN TO ENGAGEMENTS as DEPUTY. Town or Country. Organist, care of Wensley and Wensley, 181, Fleet Street.

ORGANIST or ASSISTANT ORGANIST.—A Gentleman wishes for an ENGAGEMENT in the South of London. Sixteen years' experience. Plain or Choral service. Good testimonials. Communicant. M. E., 4, Cavendish Villas, Balham, S.W.

ORGANIST seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT (or will act as Deputy) in London or suburbs. W. C. H., 2, King Street, Regent Street, W.

A GENTLEMAN, trained and experienced, desires a RE-ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST. Is leaving present situation owing to change of air being necessary. Can begin duties on the 18th instant. Address, Mr. Leete, Fen Road, Holbeach, Lincolnshire.

ORGANIST'S APPOINTMENT WANTED by Advertiser within 15 miles from London. Experienced. Good testimonials. F. L., 32, Aden Grove, Stoke Newington, N.

WANTED, by an experienced Organist and Choirmaster, a PERMANENT RE-ENGAGEMENT. Salary moderate. Address, Alfred Hughes, Barmouth, North Wales.

TO ORGANISTS.—WANTED, an ORGANIST for St. Thomas's Church, Salisbury. The premium paid is not large, it being considered a very important appointment as leading to other means of making a good standing in the city. The church is a very fine building, and the organ, which has recently been removed from the Cathedral, has undergone extensive improvements. Applications to be made to Mr. G. Lloyd, Churchwarden, St. Thomas's, Salisbury.

ORGANIST WANTED. Must be a first-class Accompanist and thorough Choirmaster. Salary, £60. Choir surpliced. Good opening for tuition. Address, Rev. Dr. Nicholson, Christ Church, Leamington.

WANTED, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER at Speen Church. Surpliced Choir, 18 to 20. Stipend, £50 to a really competent organist. A population of 10,000 within a two-mile radius. Address, The Vicar, Speen, Newbury.

ORGANIST WANTED, for All Saints' Church, Surrey Square, S.E. Two services on Sunday and Wednesday evening. Stipend, £20. Interviews declined. Address, with particulars, Vicar, 29, Surrey Square, S.E.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED for Holy Trinity Church, Nottingham. Apply to the Vicar.

ASSISTANT ORGANIST.—WANTED, a gentlemanly young man. Must be able to take a Choral Service. Salary, £40. V., Fulham Villa, Leamington.

ASSISTANT ORGANIST (Voluntary) WANTED. Dissenting Church. R. L., Novello, 80, Queen Street, E.C.

WANTED, an ORGANIST for the Parish Church of Grays, Essex. Salary, £20 per annum. Duties, two services Sunday, one weekday, and practice. Apply, by letter, to C. Seabrooke, Esq., The Echoes, Grays, Essex.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—WANTED a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above. High-class testimonials. Address, Organist, Newtown Nursery, Great Malvern.

IMMEDIATELY, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, young man (two-manual American organ), for the Episcopal Church, Galashiels, near Edinburgh. Salary, £50. Rev. A. Jenkins, Parsonage.

WANTED, a competent ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for St. Leonard's Church, Barbados, West Indies. Salary, £100 per annum, besides fees, averaging about £20 per annum, and if able to tune the organ a further sum of £10. Passage paid out. Must enter into and sign an agreement for three years. There is a good opening for teaching. Climate healthy, and living moderate. For further particulars apply, inclosing testimonials, to Robert E. H. Gofin, Esq., Alexandra Street, Victoria Street, Westminster, S.W.

ARTICLED PUPIL.—The Organist of S. Peter's, Eaton Square, has a VACANCY for the above. Apply to the Organist, S. Peter's Vestry, Eaton Square, S.W.

A PROFESSOR of MUSIC in the West of England has a VACANCY for a YOUTH, to study with another. Comfortable home. Three manual organ, and great musical advantages. Premium. Address, E. Mackie, 24, Scarsdale Villas, Kensington, W.

DR. ARNOLD has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Premium required. Must be capable of taking an ordinary parochial service, for which a yearly stipend of £30 will be given. Address, Dr. Arnold, Organist, Winchester Cathedral.

MR. E. W. TAYLOR, Mus. Bac., Oxon, &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for Musical Examinations; also gives lessons in Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., and revises compositions of all kinds by post. Ebenezer Place, Stafford.

MR. JOHN HILES, 51, Elsham Road, Kensington, W. (Author of the "Catechism of Harmony, Thoroughbass, and Modulation," "Hiles' Short Voluntaries," "Catechism for the Pianoforte Student," and several other important musical works), gives Lessons in Harmony, &c. by post.

DR. SLOMAN gives LESSONS to CANDIDATES preparing for Musical Degrees. Grassendale, West Dulwich, S.E.

THE ORGANIST of RIPON CATHEDRAL teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Correspondence. For terms, address, Edwin J. Crow, Mus. Bac. Cantab.

A GENTLEMAN is desirous of giving LESSONS by post in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. References from present pupils if desired. Terms very moderate. Address Magister, Musical Times Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.

PIANO and HARMONY LESSONS, by C. STIEBLER COOK, Associate of the Royal Academy of Music, five years Music and Choir Master at Uppingham School. Singing classes conducted. Schools attended. 17, Keppel Street, Russell Square.

MUSICAL DEGREES and EXAMINATIONS.—J. W. HINTON, Mus. Doc., M.A., Trinity College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W., prepares candidates for Mus. B. or Mus. D., of Oxford, Cambridge, or Dublin, in all branches they may require. Dr. H. continues to revise or orchestrate for composers. Harmony and Counterpoint by post if required.

PUPILS for ORGAN and PIANO WANTED by Mr. WEBSTER, 41, Upper Berkeley Street, Organist St. Paul's, Great Portland Street, late St. Andrew's, Wells Street.

A PROFESSOR in London wishes to obtain the ASSISTANCE of a Young Gentleman who is accustomed to Choral Services, and especially to Choral Celebrations with Ritual, and can devote his whole time to his duties with Advertiser. Address, with full particulars of previous experience, C. P., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK has a VACANCY for a RESIDENT ARTICLED PUPIL. For terms, address, Park Avenue Villas, Lower Norwood, S.E.

MR. HUMPHREY J. STARK receives PUPILS for HARMONY and COMPOSITION at 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W. For information as to days of attendance, terms, &c., address as above, or 5, Park Avenue Villas, Lower Norwood, S.E.

MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS.—CANDIDATES TRAINED for Examinations, either personally or by correspondence. Dr. Holloway, F.C.O., 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

TO COMPOSERS.—Dr. HOLLOWAY continues to Revise and Arrange every description of Music for Publication. Students prepared for the profession or for examinations. If residing at a distance, lessons can be had by post. Faults pointed out and every information given to the young aspirant. Dr. Holloway, 51, St. Paul's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

ORGAN LESSONS and PRACTICE on a fine new Instrument, with 2 manuals, 15 stops, 24 octaves of pedals, with bourdons throughout. Terms moderate. Allen's Musical Instrument Warehouse, 17, Percy Street, Bedford Square, W. Lessons and Practice on other Instruments also.

ORGAN PRACTICE or INSTRUCTION.—Three Manuals, each of 56 notes, pedal organ, 30 notes, 18 effective stops, and blown by Lea's Automatic Hydraulic Engine. Terms, which are strictly inclusive, on application at Blennerhasset's Organ School and Studio, 14, Vernon Street, Pentonville, W.C.

Sole Agent for LEA'S HYDRAULIC ORGAN BLOWER. The cheapest, simplest, best, and most effective ever invented. Full particulars, and estimates as above free. Inspection invited.

TO ORGANISTS.—Practice may be had on a very good Organ. Two manuals; swell; variety of stops; 24 pedals; bourdon to C.C.C. Terms very moderate. Address, E. F., Organist, 138, Upper Street, Islington, N.

ORGAN LESSONS, with practice. Large Organ, three manuals, 44 stops. In the City. Address, Organist, 17, Brownswood Villas, Stroud Green Road, N.

ORGAN PRACTICE on a fine new instrument of three manuals and pedals; blown by Lea's hydraulic engine. Terms (moderate) may be had on application at the South London Organ Studio, 343, Cold Harbour Lane, three minutes' walk from Brixton Station.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Two manuals, separate pedal organ. Guinea per quarter inclusive. Entwisle, Organ Studio, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST begs to inform his pupils and friends that he has REMOVED to 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N. Red trams direct from Moorgate Street. Nearest station, Rectory Road.

MRS. OSGOOD requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts may be addressed to Mr. N. Vert, 52, New Bond Street, W.

JOHN HEMINGWAY, having left Southport, will be glad to have his letters directed to Watcote Cottage, Park Road, Twickenham, Middlesex. MADAME NOUVER's concert communications to be sent to the above address.

NOTICE OF REMOVAL.

MADAME ALICE BARNETT (Mrs. Dickens), Contralto, begs to announce her removal from 4, Farringdon Road, to 14, South Square, Gray's Inn.

MUSIC ENGRAVED, PRINTED, AND PUBLISHED in the best style, and on moderate terms, a statement of which sent on application, by B. Williams, 60, Paternoster Row.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest varied stock of Music in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day, or if in stock posted immediately, if required. Terms highly advantageous.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

W. G. HALLIFAX & CO., 315, Oxford Street, W., ENGRAVE and PRINT AUTHORS' WORKS at the lowest possible cost, and introduce them. Estimates by return of post.

TO COMPOSERS wishing to PUBLISH.—Music Engraved, Printed, and Published in the best style at unusually low prices. Estimates free on receipt of MS. Simpson and Co., 33, Argyll Street, Regent Street, London, W.

THE CONDUCTOR of a Choral Society of about one hundred voices would be glad to receive from composers a SPECIMEN COPY of GLEES, PART-SONGS, &c. Address, prepaid, the Conductor of the Pendleton Choral Union, 22, Bolton Road, Pendleton, Manchester.

TO ORGANISTS and CHOIRMASTERS.—Chants, Hymn-tunes, and Kyries multiplied by a new Polygraphic Process. 4s. per hundred, including paper. Specimen, one halfpenny stamp. H. Brown, 39, Broad Street, Allox, Scotland.

CHORAL SOCIETIES may obtain on loan, for a small subscription, any number of copies of standard choral works. For particulars address, Secretary, L.C.U., 138, Euston Road.

WANTED, at Christmas, a SITUATION as ENGLISH and MUSIC MASTER (non-resident) in a Grammar or Middle-class School. Fifteen years' experience. Could act as Organist, Choirmaster, and Bandmaster. Private Teaching and Tuning desired. Address, Master, Castleton School, Yarm, Yorks.

WANTED for the Blue-Coat Hospital, Liverpool, a Young Man as SUPERINTENDENT'S CLERK. He must have a sufficient knowledge of music to enable him to train and conduct the pupils in Part-Singing; and if also able to conduct the School Band, an additional £10 per annum will be given. Salary, £40 per annum, with board, lodging, and washing. Must be a single man, and not less than 23 years of age. Applications, with testimonials (copies), to be addressed to the Treasurer, Blue-Coat Hospital, Liverpool.

A CHRISTIAN Young Man desires RE-ENGAGEMENT as SCRIPTURE-READER or LAY-HELPER. Has good TENOR VOICE. Would be useful in Choir and Sunday School. Address, H. R., Post Office, Marden, Herefordshire.

SOUTH YORKSHIRE ASYLUM.—WANTED, an ATTENDANT. Must have a good knowledge of vocal music, and able to sing ALTO or TENOR. Ability to play Tenor Horn would be an additional recommendation. Wages, £30, increasing £2 per annum to £40, with board, &c., and suit of uniform every eight months. Apply, Medical Superintendent, South Yorkshire Asylum, Wadsley, Sheffield.

SOUTH YORKSHIRE ASYLUM.—WANTED, NURSES. Wages to commence at £18 and increase £1 per annum to £25, with two dresses annually. Applicants must be above middle height and between 23 and 30 years of age. Preference given to those having a knowledge of vocal music. Apply, Medical Superintendent, South Yorkshire Asylum, Wadsley, near Sheffield.

GLOUCESTER COUNTY ASYLUM, near Gloucester.—A MALE ATTENDANT required; musician preferred. Wages commence at £24 per annum and rise to £35, with board, lodging, washing, and uniform. Applications, with testimonials, to be sent to Mr. E. Toller, Medical Superintendent, at the Asylum. BENJ. SHADGETT, Clerk.

WANTED, by a respectable Youth, a SITUATION in MUSIC SHOP, where a knowledge of the pianoforte may be gained. Can tune and repair concertinas, accordions, harmoniums, &c. Good references. Address, J. R. P., 9, Bridge Street, Wisbech.

SITUATION required as TUNER and REGULATOR. Good experience. ABC, 8, Sydney Street, Plymouth.

WANTED, an ENGAGEMENT as ASSISTANT in MUSIC WAREHOUSE, or to take Management by a Lady (28). Experienced. Good player and reader at sight. Good saleswoman and accountant. Address, M. W., Musical Times Office, 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED for outdoor work by a Country house. Salary liberal. Situation permanent. Address, Unison, care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

WANTED, for a country business, a steady young man as TUNER. Situation permanent. Apply to B. S. R., care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

A YOUNG MAN (blind), fairly good TUNER, requires an ENGAGEMENT as Improver. Quick ear, and willing. Letters and reference to Mr. Heins, Hereford.

WANTED, a good PIANOFORTE TUNER for the country. Apply to A. Conduit, High Street, Winchester.

WANTED, a thoroughly efficient TUNER and REPAIRER of HARMONIUMS and AMERICAN ORGANS, who could fill up his time by making harmoniums. Apply, with testimonials, to A. S., Musical Times Office, 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANO TUNER.—WANTED, a young Man of good appearance and manners, as INDOOR TUNER. A young man having just finished his apprenticeship would answer if qualified. Apply, stating wages required, &c., to Pigott and Co., 112, Grafton Street, Dublin.

PIANOFORTE-TUNING.—A MANAGING TUNER has vacancies for TWO PUPILS in a London Factory. Address, Tuner, 38, Charlotte Street, Fitzroy Square.

TO ORGAN-BUILDERS.—WANTED first-class WORKMEN (inside hands). Apply to Mr. J. Porritt, Organ-Builder, Leicester.

WANTED, an experienced YOUNG LADY for a Music Warehouse in the Country. Must play the pianoforte well, good reader at sight, assist at the counter, books, and teaching. Good character indispensable. The appointment will be a permanent one. Home comforts. Apply at once, stating terms, experience, and references, to G. L. B., 49, Tottenham Street, Tottenham Court Road.

MUSIC TRADE.—WANTED, a TRUST-WORTHY ASSISTANT in a Music Warehouse, who must be able to play well at sight, and have a knowledge of the sheet music trade. Apply, stating age, terms, and references, to Alderson and Brentnall, 89, Northumberland Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

WANTED immediately, an ASSISTANT in a Music Shop; preference given to one just out of his time who has a knowledge of sheet music and can tune, repair, and play. Apply, stating age, salary required, and inclosing carte, to W. Orme, Music-seller, Derby.

WANTED, a MUSIC BUSINESS. Address, Mr. Hacking, 37, Hounds gate, Nottingham.

MR. W. H. NELSON, BASS (pupil of Mr. Ch. J. Bishenden, the celebrated Bass, author of "How to Sing" &c.), will give his first Concert at the Langham Hall, Great Portland Street, W., on December 4, under the direction of Mr. Ch. J. Bishenden. Full particulars will be duly announced in the London papers.

ESTABLISHED, APRIL 1866.
THE ENGLISH GLEE UNION.
Mr. H. ASHTON, Mr. F. H. COZENS,
Mr. FOUNTAIN MEEN, Mr. ALBERT HUBBARD,
ASSISTED BY
Madame ASHTON.
For terms, &c., address, H. Ashton, Secretary, Ivy House, Stamford Hill, London, N.

MR. STEDMAN'S CONCERT PARTIES for Oratorio and Miscellaneous Concerts, Institutions, Evening Parties, Soirées, &c. &c.

MADE UP FROM THE MOST EMINENT ARTISTS, AND INCLUDING: Mesdames Annie Sinclair, Anna Williams, Mary Davies, Matilda Scott, Worrell-Duval, Jessie Royd, Hugo, Saidie Singleton, Poole, Helen D'Alton, Annie Butterworth, Helen Arnim, Dones, Gill, Osborne Williams; Messrs. Stedman, Kenningham, Charles Beckett, J. L. Wadmore, George Fox, Thurley Beale, King Hall, Russell Lochner, Henry Parker, &c. &c.

THE STANDARD QUARTETT—Messrs. Hodges, Stedman, Charles Beckett, and Thurley Beale. For terms and particulars, address, Mr. STEDMAN, 1, Berners Street, W.

SAINT CECILIA CONCERT PARTY.—Madame S. Pauline Evison (Soprano), Miss Emmeline Kennedy (Contralto), Mr. George Nunns (Tenor), Mr. T. Dodds (Bass), Mr. Jno. Shaw (Solo Pianist). Address, Mr. T. Dodds, 7, Brunswick Terrace, Leeds.

THE YORKSHIRE CONCERT PARTY.—Madame Pauline Grayston (Soprano), Miss Emily Empsall (Contralto), Mr. Verney Binns (Tenor), Mr. H. Rickard (Bass), Mr. William Clark (Accompanist). Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Concerts, &c. For terms, address, C. G. Taylor, 56, Lofthouse Place, Leeds; or R. D'Oyly Carte, 9A, Craig's Court, Charing Cross, London, S.W.

BELLS! BELLS! BELLS!
CRITERION TEMPERANCE CAMPANOLOGISTS and GLEE-SINGERS. Terms moderate. Excellent performance. Address, for circular and testimonials, Mr. Harry Tipper, 118, The Grove, Hammersmith.

THE BRITISH VOCAL QUARTETT (Messrs. E. Collins, H. Upton, J. Kift, and T. Tremere) is now at liberty to accept ENGAGEMENTS for concerts, dinners, private parties, &c. For terms, address, Mr. T. Tremere, 93, Wilberforce Road, Finsbury Park, N.

TO PIANOFORTE and MUSIC TRADES.—To be DISPOSED OF (ill health), a first-class Shop and House in the most rising and improving neighbourhood in the suburbs of London (close to three stations). The premises are in excellent condition and comprise nine rooms, garden, and coach-house, and three-stall stable; can be well let off. A lease will be granted for seven, fourteen, or twenty years, at a rental of £67 per annum and a moderate premium. Stock (about £250) at valuation, or would be removed if preferred. To a musical man with capital this offers great advantages, as there is a large tuning and teaching connection to be obtained. Address, by letter, to Harmony, care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE.—To be DISPOSED OF, the BUSINESS of those excellent and spacious Premises (with large dwelling-house attached) known as the Southport Pianoforte and Music Warehouse; doing a first-class counter and hire trade. Rent, £185. This would prove a good investment to capitalists, to whom satisfactory reasons for leaving and any further particulars will be given on application to Philipps, Son, & Co., 91, Lord Street, Southport.

EAST LONDON ORGAN WORKS, 9, Burdett Road, Mile End, E.—E. CARDER is prepared to send Specifications for building Organs of very superior materials and workmanship. Alterations, rebuilding, and repairs. First-class workmen sent to all parts on very moderate terms. Tuning, &c. Second-hand ORGANS for SALE.

ORGANS for Church or Chamber, full rich tone, from 35 guineas. ORGAN HARMONIUMS, with 1 or 2 manuals, full compass of pedals, from 25 to 54 guineas, invaluable for Teaching or Organ Practice. SPRAGUE'S Celebrated ORGAN-TONE HARMONIUMS, 6 guineas; best in the trade.—William Sprague, 7, Finsbury Pavement, London.

A. MONK'S 100-Guinea ORGANS, 2 CC Manuals, 16 stops. 300-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 21 stops. 400-guinea Organs, 3 manuals, 27 stops. Organs built to any design. Old Organs rebuilt. Additions, Repairs, Tunings, &c. Specifications and Estimates free. Sussex Terrace, King's Road, Camden Town, London.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minorities, London.

T. R. WILLIS (established, 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c. 29, Minorities, London. List for stamp.

DEAN'S CHEAP MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.—School Band Flutes, from 3s. 6d.; 8-Key Concert Flutes, 25s.; Cornets, in case, 30s.; Drums, Tambourines, Banjos, and every article in the trade. A good Violin, with Bow and Book, in case, 20s. English, Roman, and Acribble Violin Strings—5 English firsts, warranted to stand at concert pitch, sent free for 13 stamps. Joseph Dean, Music Warehouse, 77, City Road, E.C. Established, 1843. Price lists sent free.

BRASS, REED, STRING, and DRUM and FIFE BANDS, PIANOFORTES and HARMONIUMS, supplied at wholesale prices, at J. Moore's, Buxton Road, Huddersfield. Prices, with drawings of every instrument, post-free. Music for any kind of band. Patronised by the army, navy, and rifle corps.

RUSSELL'S MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS. CONCERTINAS, Harmoniums, Organ Accordions, Flutinas, Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Violins, Cornets, Saxhorns, Clarionets, Flageolets, Guitars, Banjos, Musical Boxes, Strings, &c. Self-instruction Books. Instruments repaired or exchanged. Price Lists free. J. Russell, 158, Goswell Road, Clerkenwell, London.

ACCURATE METRONOMES, 1s., post-free. Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing Class Tutor, 12th ed., 6d. each. D. Scholefield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES.—150 by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, Allison, &c., from 4 guineas upwards. HARMONIUMS (New), from £5, in Walnut or Mahogany cases. Largest stock of Pianos and Harmoniums in London at Kelly and Co.'s, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital. Trade supplied.

TO SELL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS of every description, also Libraries of Music, Music Plates and Copyrights, Stock-in-Trade, &c., SALE (devoted exclusively to this class of property) held every month. Single instruments inserted. Consignments received at any time. Puttick and Simpson, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C. [Established, 1794.]

VIOLINS, TENORS, VIOLONCELLOS, and DOUBLE BASSES, by "Craske," equal to Stradivarius and Guarnerius. Upwards of 500 of these splendid Instruments now on Sale at Edward Crompton's, 54, Barton Arcade, Deansgate, Manchester (3rd floor), many of which have been made 50 years. Also a large collection of Italian Instruments.

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, VIOLONCELLOS, &c.—JOHNSON HICKS, Dealer in, and careful Repairer of, "CREMONA" and other Violins, &c.—Brunswick House, Torquay, Devon.

"A supreme and perfect harmony of notes."

E. & W. SNELL'S

IMPROVED ENGLISH HARMONIUMS.

MANUFACTORY: LITTLE KING STREET NORTH, CAMDEN TOWN, LONDON, N.W.

Chief characteristics of the "SNELL" HARMONIUM. Pure, musical, and euphonious quality of tone, possessing great sweetness and organlike character, combined with perfect articulation and equality of sound throughout the scale, the tenor notes not predominating over the treble. Light and elastic touch, rendering the instrument equally effective for Secular as for Sacred music. Simplicity and novelty of action. Improved mechanism and superior finish throughout. Durability, general excellence, and extreme moderation of price. Full particulars, designs, and prices, with testimonials specially referring to the important improvements introduced into these much admired instruments, free of the makers, E. and W. SNELL, as above. Profession and trade supplied.

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.'S

CELEBRATED

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS

UNEQUALLED BY ANY OTHER MAKERS.

These ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS stand FIRST among any such instruments for

QUALITY OF TONE, DURABILITY, RAPIDITY OF TOUCH, PREDOMINANCE OF THE TREBLE OVER THE BASS,

PERFECT ACTION,

BRILLIANCY OF THE SOLO STOPS, NEWLY INVENTED DOUBLE ACTION, SOLID IMPROVED SOUND-BOARD, AND DOUBLE EFFECTIVE SWELLS.

List of Prices and Books of Designs, and upwards of 300 Testimonials from all parts of the globe, to be had post-free.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.,

10, 12, & 14, Bow Street, Sheffield.

N.B.—These Harmoniums are 20 per cent cheaper than any other house, and a far superior tone.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium gives the greatest satisfaction, and is really the best instrument I have fallen in with.—Yours truly,
W. P. M. SLATER.
39, Franklin Street, South Shields, May 6, 1876.

GENTLEMEN,—By a mistake in the address the Harmonium was left at a wayside station, so that I did not get it here till last night; however, it is uninjured and gives me every satisfaction. Its tone and workmanship are admirable, and in rapidity of touch it is quite equal to a large Alexandre Percussion instrument, on which I sometimes play. I shall always be glad to recommend your Harmoniums.—Believe me, faithfully yours,
W. F. ASHBRIDGE, M.A., Curate of Bessingby.

Bessingby Road, Bridlington, Dec. 15, 1876.

Mr. J. M. Boulard, Manager of the Alleghanians, Vocalists and Bell Players.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium you made for me in travelling case answers our purpose exceedingly well, and my company are all delighted with it.—Yours truly,
J. M. BOULARD.
Sept. 16, 1876.

GENTLEMEN,—Kindly find cheque for the Harmonium to hand. I may add that our people are very much pleased with the instrument. It is a little gem.—Yours faithfully,
J. W. H. WOOD.
Shirland and Higham School Board, Shirland, near Alfreton,
Feb. 2, 1877.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium arrived here yesterday. I am much pleased with it, and it is a very pretty, nice-looking instrument.—Yours truly,
DAVID BRUCE.
Merrington Vicarage, Terry Hill, Dec. 10, 1875.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium arrived here in capital condition last week. I am very pleased with it. The tone is exceedingly sweet and pleasing. All who have seen it here like it very much.—Yours faithfully,
H. R. HOLME.
Montserrat, West Indies, Aug. 11, 1876.

THE STUDENT'S ORGAN, planned and built expressly for organ students and professors. Price 25 guineas. Now on view at R. Brown and Son's Steam Organ Factory, 324, Kennington Road, S.E.

LONDON AGENTS,

MESSRS. MOUTRIE AND SON,

PIANOFORTE SALOON,

55, BAKER STREET, LONDON, W.

MR. J. HAMILTON begs to inform Organists, Organ Students, and others that the Pedals and Action for attachment to Pianofortes manufactured by him can be inspected and ordered at the above address.

A set of Straight Pedals 30 notes (C to F), with action and printed instructions, "How to Attach," price £4 4s. Or Radiating and Concave Pedal Board, with action, price £5 5s.

TESTIMONIAL.

"Barrow Street, Quorndon, near Loughborough,
July 16, 1877.

"SIR,—It is now over two years since I purchased a set of your pedals and action for pianofortes. After having thoroughly tested them and used them regularly for so long a period I have no hesitation in saying that they are a most decided success, and at the same time advise every organ student who wishes to become proficient in the art of pedalling to procure a set of them at once.

"To Mr. J. Hamilton." "I remain, Sir, yours truly,
"J. J. CALLIS.

Orders accompanied with Cheque or P.O. Order will receive immediate attention. Send for prices to the Profession and Trade.

Address, J. HAMILTON, 11, Brunswick Street, City Road, Bristol.

CROSS-STRUNG IRON OBLIQUE PIANO.

NEW MODEL. INSPECTION SOLICITED.

COLLIN MEZIN VIOLIN.

The finest new violin made. Sent to Musicsellers on approval.

ALPHONSE CARY,

Importer of Pianos, Violin Strings, &c., 26, Fortress Terrace, Kentish Town, N.W.

Wholesale lists sent on receipt of trade reference.

HIGHEST CLASS OF EXCELLENCE.

MILLEREAU'S BAND INSTRUMENTS FOR ARTISTS.

BOEHM AND ENGLISH CLARINETS, CONSERVATOIRE AND BOEHM OBOES, CORNET-A-PISTONS, CYLINDRICAL BOEHM FLUTES, &c.

MILLEREAU'S FRENCH VOCAL HORN IN C.

Priced Catalogue and Designs free to any part of the world.

PARIS. 29, RUE DES TROIS BORNES. FRANCE.

MUSIC STRINGS—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

J. P. GUIVIER AND CO.,

MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF

ALL KINDS OF MUSIC STRINGS FOR ALL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

Sole Dépôt for Signor ANDREA RUFFINI's (of Naples) Celebrated Strings for Soloists.

25, SHERWOOD STREET, REGENT CIRCUS, PICCADILLY.
Price List free on application.

All kinds of strings covered in a superior manner on powerful machines made on the best principle with all modern improvements.

J. B. CRAMER AND CO'S FRENCH POLISH REVIVER, invented by GEORGE WATTS, for cleaning and polishing furniture, pianos, and leather of every description.

OPINIONS OF THE LONDON AND BRIGHTON PRESS.

"This is a really genuine article."—Times. "The brilliant and lasting polish obtained is surprising."—Guardian. "Very successful results have attended its application."—Daily News. "We have, therefore, much pleasure in recommending it to housekeepers as a really useful and valuable preparation."—The Queen. "Any one can use Cramer's Reviver with success."—The Orchestra.

Price 1s., 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d. per bottle. To be obtained of grocers and pianoforte dealers. Agents wanted.
Wholesale and retail agents—J. B. Cramer and Co., and Metzler and Co., London. Manufacturers—J. B. Cramer and Co., Brighton.

12s. WORTH OF MUSIC for One Shilling, post-free for fifteen stamps, soiled and surplus stock.
James Smith and Son, 76, 74, and 72, Lord Street, Liverpool.

DEBAIN'S HARMONIUMS, ORGANO-PHONES, PIANOS, &c. &c. New lists are now ready, and will be forwarded, post-free, on receipt of card. Debain & Co., 357, Oxford Street, London, W.

D'ALMAINE'S PIANOS

(443)

AT HALF-PRICE.

In consequence of the death of the late proprietor the WHOLE OF THIS SPLENDID STOCK is offered at

15 AND 17 GUINEAS
(Worth 30 and 35 Guineas);

20 AND 25 GUINEAS
(Worth 40 and 50 Guineas).

DOUBLE CHECK ACTION. ALL HALF-PRICE.

To effect a speedy clearance easy terms arranged.

SEVEN YEARS' WARRANTY.

On view at 5, FINSBURY PAVEMENT,
MOORGATE STATION.

Great Sale of Musical Property.—120 Pianofortes by Broadwood, Collard, Kirkman, Allison, Ziegler, Boosey, Johnson, Squire, Erard, &c.; Harps by Erard; Harmoniums and Organs by the principal Makers; sundry small work connected with the Music Trade; Violins, Flutes, Books, Watches, Rings, &c.; also about twenty Harmoniums, by Kelly, which have been returned from hire, and will be sold without reserve.

MESSRS. KELLY & CO. beg to announce to the Trade, Profession, Schools, and Public in general the SALE by AUCTION of the above important PROPERTY (principally without reserve) at their Great Repository and Mart, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital, London, on Wednesday, November 14, 1877, commencing at twelve o'clock precisely. The goods may be viewed and catalogues had (post-free) the day prior and morning of sale.

Great Sale of Pianofortes, American Organs, and Harmoniums.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON will Sell by Auction, at their House, 47, Leicester Square, W.C., on Tuesday, November 13, at One o'clock, a large number of PIANOFORTES, AMERICAN ORGANS, and HARMONIUMS, including about seventy instruments from the well-known stock of Mr. C. Laurent, of High Street, Marylebone, W. Catalogues are preparing and will be forwarded on receipt of stamp.

Twelve American Organs, by George Woods and Co.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON will include in their Sale by Auction, at their House, 47, Leicester Square, W.C., on Tuesday, November 13, at One o'clock, TWELVE new AMERICAN ORGANS, by Messrs. George Woods and Co., the property of Mr. S. G. Dennis, of Ludgate Hill, City, who is giving up the Agency. Catalogues on receipt of stamp.

The valuable Musical Library of the late George Townshend Smith, Esq., Organist of Hereford Cathedral; also Musical Instruments.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON will Sell by Auction, at their House, 47, Leicester Square, W.C., on Tuesday, November 27, the valuable MUSICAL LIBRARY of the late George Townshend Smith, Esq., Organist of Hereford Cathedral, together with an assemblage of Musical Instruments, including Pianofortes, Harps, Harmoniums, Violins, Wind Instruments, &c. Catalogues are preparing.

* Instruments forwarded by the 15th will be in time for this sale.

ORGAN for SALE (cheap). Two manuals, 15 stops, and pedals. The room is required, and the instrument will be sold a bargain. It is as good as new. Also a 4-stop Chamber Organ, inclosed in a mahogany case, with swell with pedal. 23, 25, Bow Street, London.

ORGAN for SALE, with eight stops, in mahogany case and gilt front, to be sold cheap. Apply, T., 116, High Street, Croydon.

ORGAN for SALE. Compass $4\frac{1}{2}$ octave from CC, 2 manuals, 24 octave of pedals, 6 stops; in grained walnut case, gilt front pipes. For particulars apply to Charles Stiles, Piano Repository, 15, Southampton Street, Strand.

ORGAN.—Church Organ, two CC manuals, seven stops in the great organ, six in the swell; large scale bourdon pedal pipes, 29 notes; three composition pedals and couplers; speaking front pipes. Price £170. J. Grover, 82, Norfolk Terrace, Westbourne Grove, London, W.

CC ORGAN for SALE.—3 manuals, 54 notes, pedals 30 notes, 6 companion pedals, 31 draw stops; suitable for church or chapel or chamber use. Metal work and reeds by COURCELLI. Now being finished and can be completed to suit purchaser. To be sold at a very low price, or can be had on hire, with view to purchase by agreement. Will be found a great bargain. Apply to Jones and Co., Organ Builders, 25, Pentonville Road, Islington, N.

CHAMBER ORGAN for SALE, two manuals, 8 stops, $2\frac{1}{2}$ octave pedals. G. B., 51, King Street, Soho, W.

ORGANS, Church and Chamber.—Several First-class INSTRUMENTS, New and Secondhand, for SALE, by Gray and Davidson, Walker, Buckwell, Holdich, &c. Full particulars, E. Carder, East London Organ Works, 9, Burdett Road, Mile End, London, E.

WANTED to HIRE an ORGAN with two Manuals and Pedals for a small Church. Address, with description and cost of hire, to Box 154, Post Office, Sheffield.

TO AMATEUR ORGAN BUILDERS.—For SALE, TWO BELLOWS, each having double action; also $1\frac{1}{2}$ octave of C Pedals, all in excellent condition. Cash price, together, £5; or separately, £3 for largest bellows, size 5 ft. 2 in. by 2 ft. $4\frac{1}{2}$ in., and £3 for the other two; size of bellows, 4 ft. 9 in. by 2 ft. 7 in. Address, H. Abram, Deal.

FOR SALE.— $2\frac{1}{2}$ octave Pedal HARMONIUM, Two Manuals, Four Rows of Reeds, Twelve Stops, Hand and Foot Blowers. Superior Instrument, 25 Guineas. 22, High Street, Hampstead, N.W.

HARMONIUM, Transposing, Rosewood, 11 stops, prize medal, £19; Broadwood Grand Pianoforte, $6\frac{1}{2}$ octaves, rosewood, splendid condition, 8 guineas; 8 stop Harmonium, $1\frac{1}{2}$ rows reeds, £7; walnut and ebony Pianoforte, trichord, check repeater action, Manpretz, Paris, cost 50 guineas, price 40. Wilkinson, 41, New Road, Commercial Road.

PEDAL HARMONIUM WANTED. Two- Manual and full Organ Compass. Address, F. Spicer, Ivy Lodge, Earlsam Grove, Forest Gate.

PIANOFORTE, with Organ Pedals, for SALE. Price 19 guineas. Apply, T., 116, High Street, Croydon.

PIANOS.—Oblique, iron-framed, Check Action, Cottage, £28. Also Semi-Grand, by Schiedmayer of Stuttgart, £45. Both in walnut, 7 octaves, trichord throughout, and as new. Organist, 7, Alexandra Terrace, Putney.

BROADWOOD'S usual compass (£120 cost price), ROSEWOOD TRICHORD BOUDOIR GRAND, in excellent order, £50 cash. 8, Lulworth Road, Southport.

FINE OLD VIOLINS for SALE, by Stainer, Testore, Guadagnini, Storioni, &c.; also a very fine Tenor, by Maussliel, at W. SPRAGUE'S, 7, Finsbury Pavement, London.

FOR SALE, a warranted genuine WM. FORSTER, Senior, VIOLONCELLO, in very good condition and playing order. Apply, F. C. E. Griffin, Tettenhall, Wolverhampton.

WANTED, an ORCHESTRIUM, for a spacious room. Must be a good size and very loud. Address, with full description and price, to J. N., Box No. 1, Post Office, Ashton-under-Lyne.

ATHALIE, with Full Score, 12 Vocal Scores, and separate parts for complete Orchestra.

ELIJAH. 22 S., 14 A., 6 T., 15 B. Folio engraved copies in covers, new. MOZART'S TWELFTH MASS. 5 S., 6 A., 5 T., 3 B., and 8 Orchestral parts. 44 Chorus parts, Kyrie and Gloria.

DETTINGEN TE DEUM, with Full Score (Handel Society's). 2 Vocal Scores. 6 each S.A.T.B. Vocal parts. 12 Orchestral parts. HAYDN'S THIRD MASS, with Full Score (Old Leipzig Edition) and 13 Vocal parts.

HEAR MY PRAYER. 17 Vocal Scores. 6 S., 8 A., 7 T., 9 B. 9 Orchestral parts.

MESSIAH. 30 Vocal parts.

CREATION. 16 folio, 18 8vo Vocal parts. 9 separate Chorus parts.

LAUDA SION. 36 Vocal Scores.

The above, the property of a defunct Choral Society, to be sold in one lot, price £12, or may be dealt with separately.

Address, Mr. James, 7, New Burlington Street.

THE NATIONAL NURSERY RHYMES QUADRILLES, By J. W. ELLIOTT.

Solo, 4s.; Duet, 5s.

Containing "Jack and Jill," "My Lady Wind," "Sing a Song of Sixpence," "Little Bo-peep," "The Feast of Lanterns," "The Spider and the Fly," &c., &c.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Three-halfpence each.

AULD LANG SYNE, CHERRY RIPE, HOME, SWEET HOME.

ARRANGED AS FOUR PART-SONGS
BY

EDWARD LAND.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOW READY.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS.

EDITED BY DR. STAINER.

THE ORGAN

BY

DR. STAINER.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

THE ELEMENTS OF THE BEAUTIFUL IN MUSIC

BY

ERNST PAUER.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

THE PIANOFORTE

BY

ERNST PAUER.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

THE RUDIMENTS OF MUSIC

BY

W. H. CUMMINGS.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition, now ready, price Two Shillings, paper cover,
Three Shillings, cloth.

THE

CATHEDRAL PSALTER CHANTS

EDITED BY

S. FLOOD JONES, M.A., Precentor of Westminster;	J. TROUTBECK, M.A., Minor Canon of Westminster;
JAMES TURLE, Organist of Westminster;	J. STAINER, M.A., Mus. D., Organist of St. Paul's;

AND

JOSEPH BARNBY,
Precentor of Eton.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE

CATHEDRAL PSALTER,
POINTED FOR CHANTING.

PUBLISHED WITH THE SANCTION OF

THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF ST. PAUL'S

AND

THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF WESTMINSTER.

	s.	d.
Imperial 32mo, cloth	0	9
Ditto, with Proper Psalms, cloth	1	0
Demy octavo, large type, with Proper Psalms, cloth ...	2	6
Proper Psalms separately. Paper covers. 32mo ...	0	3
Canticles. 32mo	0	1
'Do. 8vo	0	3

All Editions contain the Canticles, and Special Hymns for use on certain days instead of the Venite.The Clergy can be supplied with copies, in quantities of not less than 25, on liberal terms.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

(PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH)

Price Threepence.

Annual subscription, including postage, 4s.

Subscriptions will also be received by all Book and Music Sellers (not including postage), 3s.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	2 3
For every additional Line	0	0 9
Half a Column	1	15 0
A Column	3	5 0
A Page	6	6 0

A discount of 10 per cent is allowed for twelve consecutive insertions.
It is respectfully requested that a remittance be sent with all Advertisements.Advertisements for the December number should reach the Office not later than November 24. Those received after this date cannot be guaranteed insertion in their proper places, but will appear among the late Advertisements.

UNIFORM SERIES OF MUSICAL WORKS.

(Crown 8vo size.)

LETTERS ON MUSIC TO A LADY. By LOUIS
EHLERT. 4s.
MUSIC AND MUSICIANS. Essays and Criticisms by ROBERT
SCHUMANN. 8s. 6d.
LIFE OF CHOPIN. By FRANZ LISZT. 6s.
LIFE OF MENDELSSOHN. By LAMPADIOUS. Edited by W.
GAGE. Second Edition, revised by W. A. BARRETT. 5s.
HISTORY OF MUSIC FROM THE CHRISTIAN ERA TO
THE PRESENT TIME. By Dr. F. L. RITTER. 7s. 6d.
MEMORIALS OF THE LIFE OF CHERUBINI. By E.
BELLASIS. 6s.
ELLA'S MUSICAL SKETCHES ABROAD AND AT HOME.
New Edition. 8s. 6d. [In December.]
LIFE AND LETTERS OF ROBERT SCHUMANN. 8s. 6d.
[In December.]
FRIEDRICH CHOPIN; HIS LIFE, LETTERS, AND WORKS.
By MORITZ KARASOWSKI. Translated by E. HILL. [In December.]

THE MUSICAL GAZETTE AND REVIEW.

Monthly, 2d. Contains six to eight large pages of music, and eight pages of letterpress. Songs, Anthems, Piano pieces, Violin and Flute Music, &c. will appear. Subscription, 2s. 6d.; abroad, 3s.
Advertisements: 3 lines (24 words), 1s. 6d.; 4d. every 10 words after.
October and November numbers now ready, post-free, 5d.

WILLIAM REEVES, Publisher, 185, Fleet Street, London.

MOZART, BIOGRAPHY AND CORRESPONDENCE.

Just published, with Portraits of Mozart and his Sister, in 2 vols., crown 8vo, price 21s. cloth.

THE LIFE OF MOZART. Translated from the
German Work of Dr. LUDWIG NOHL by Lady WALLACE.
London: LONGMANS and Co.

Just published.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.

WAGNER'S

OPERA

THE FLYING DUTCHMAN

Paper covers, 3s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 5s.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MENDELSSOHN'S

SIX PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED AS A

CHRISTMAS PRESENT

FOR HIS YOUNG FRIENDS.

Six Shillings.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE GAY HUSSAR. Adapted from Spindler's
"Husarenritt" by LOUIS DIEHL. The Words written by ALFRED E. T. WATSON. Price 4s.; postage-free, 2s.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

NOVEMBER 1, 1877.

THE GREAT COMPOSERS, SKETCHED BY THEMSELVES.

BY JOSEPH BENNETT.

No. III.—MOZART.

HE who attempts to deal with the letters of Mozart suffers from an embarras de richesse. In the case of Weber I had to regret that so little material was at hand out of which to form an estimate of character. Now, per contra, the difficulty is to know what to do with an over-abundance, the plodding industry of Herr Nohl having collected hundreds of Mozart's letters, written at all periods of his too short life, and under every variety of circumstance. I propose to deal with them in grand divisions, taking first those written between the master's departure for Italy in 1769, when he was fourteen years of age, and the time when, nine years later, he said, "My whole hopes are now centred in Paris, for German princes are all niggards."

As this period in Mozart's life embraced the days of his golden youth, when hope was strongest, and all around looked bright, we naturally find the letters for the most part cheerful and sanguine. They overflow with animal spirits, contain not a few attempts, more or less successful, at humour, and are marked by the warm, impulsive affection of an ardent and generous nature. This is more particularly noticeable in such of them as are addressed to the writer's sister, between whom and himself an uncommon love existed. With her he always has his little harmless joke, and is often amusing by his very naïveté. Thus he writes from Naples—the "drowsy city," as he describes it—playing upon the idea of a "repetition minuet," "My most transcendent regards to Herr von Schiedenhofen—tralahera! tralahera! Tell him to learn the repetition minuet on the piano—to be sure to do so—and do not let him forget it. He must do this, in order to do me the favour to let me accompany him some day or other. Do give my best compliments to all my friends, and do continue to live happily, and do not die; but do live on, that you may be able to do another letter for me, and I do one for you, and thus we shall go on doing till we can do something worth doing; but I am one of those who will go on doing till all doings are at an end." In another place he gaily chats with his "darling sister" in every language of which he was master, including the patois of Vienna and Salzburg; and in another, cheered by the forthcoming production of his Milan Opera "Lucio Silla," he playfully gossips after this fashion: "My dear sister, to-morrow we dine with Herr von Mayer, and do you know why? Guess. Because he invited us. The rehearsal to-morrow is to be in the theatre. The impresario has entreated me not to say a word of this to a soul, as all kinds of people would come crowding in, and that we don't wish. So, my child, I beg, my child, that you won't say one syllable to any one on the subject, or too many people would come crowding in, my child. Approposito, do you know the history that occurred here? Well, I will relate it to you. We were going home straight from Count Fireniani's, and when we came into our street we opened our door, and what do you think happened? We went in. Good-bye, my pet." There may be nothing very brilliant in all this, nor is it quoted as brilliant, but it serves to show that the spirit of fun was in the boy's nature, and that the stern discipline of the father could not drive it out of him. Mozart, however, displayed real humour at times. Here, for example, is a passage which for grave, high-sounding nonsense could not easily be beaten: "When we contemplate the benefit of time, and yet are not entirely oblivious of the estimation in which we ought to hold the sun, then it is quite certain, Heaven be praised, that I am quite well. My second proposition is of a very different character. Instead of sun, let us put moon, and, instead of benefit, science; then any one gifted with a certain amount of reasoning powers will at once draw the conclusion that—I am a fool because you are my sister."

In 1777, Mozart then being twenty-one years old, the Prince-Archbishop of Salzburg deigned to state that the composer knew nothing, and that he ought to go to Naples to learn music. This was too much even for Mozart père, with whose permission Wolfgang left the service of the reverend potentate, and set out, accompanied by his mother, in search of better fortune. During his absence he wrote frequently to his father, but not in the style which found favour with the sister. He is now serious enough, as becomes a "second papa." "Nothing comes amiss to me," he writes in his first letter, "I am quite a second papa, and look after everything. I settled from the first to pay the postillions, for I can talk to such fellows better than mamma. . . . About half an hour ago (mamma being engaged at the time) the Boots knocked at the door to take my orders about various things, and I gave them to him with the same grave air that I have in my portrait." It is as a man of business, the character old Mozart best liked his son, to play, that Wolfgang now represents himself to us, and he tells in detail all the shifts and schemes adopted to secure a good position, without manifesting the smallest humiliation at having literally to beg for patronage. Yet Mozart was proud and sensitive to a degree, in view of which fact the moral is that human nature can accommodate itself with wonderful facility to the manners and usages of its time. Imagine the "divine musician" conversing as follows with a stupid German Elector, and taking it all as a matter of course:—

M. Will your Royal Highness permit me to pay my homage, and to offer your Royal Highness my services?

E. So you have finally left Salzburg?

M. I have left it for ever, your Royal Highness. I only asked leave to make a journey, and, being refused, I was obliged to take this step, although I have long intended to leave Salzburg, which is no place for me, I feel sure.

E. Good Heavens! you are quite a young man. But your father is still in Salzburg?

M. Yes, your Royal Highness; he humbly lays his homage at your feet. I have already been three times in Italy. I have written three Operas, and am a member of the Bologna Academy. I underwent a trial where several maestri toiled and laboured for four or five hours, whereas I finished my work in one. This is a sufficient testimony that I have abilities to serve any Court. My greatest wish is to be appointed by your Royal Highness.

E. But, my good young friend, I regret that there is not a single vacancy. If there were only a vacancy.

M. I can assure your Royal Highness that I would do credit to Munich.

E. Yes, but what does that avail when there is no vacancy?

Mozart gives us this dialogue word for word, and does not add to it a single reflection. He only says, "Herr Woschitka advises me to place myself often in the Elector's way," and leaves it to be inferred that the advice was likely to be taken. In point of fact, the young master had set his heart upon obtaining a post at the Bavarian Court. On his own showing he was "very much beloved" in Munich, and saw there the possibility of doing great good for national German opera. Only by referring to these facts can we understand why Mozart so assiduously blew his own trumpet in the ears of "persons of quality." To a certain Count Salern he said, "How I do wish the Elector were only here, that he might listen to my playing. He knows nothing of me; he does not know what I can do. How sad it is that these great gentlemen should believe what any one tells them, and do not choose to judge for themselves! But it is always so. Let him put me to the test. He may assemble all the composers in Munich, and also send in quest of some from Italy and France, Germany and England and Spain, and I will undertake to write against them all." Turning gladly from Mozart as seen in the light of extracts such as these, let us observe with what happy facility and clearness he sketches the various people with whom he came into contact. The master was evidently what is sometimes called a "sharp fellow." Nothing escaped his observation, and his perception of character, especially of the humorous, appears to have been wonderfully keen. Take the following sketch of a Munich professor, "a certain clerical gentleman of the name of Schreier." "He is a good organ-player, but no pianist. He kept staring at me with an eyeglass. He is a reserved kind of man, who does not talk much. He patted me on the shoulder, sighed, and said, 'Yes, you are—you understand—yes, it is true—you are an out-and-outer.'" Here is a portrait of one Herr Graf, a composer of flute concertos only: "A dignified gentleman indeed. He wore a dressing-gown that I would not be ashamed to wear in the streets. All his words are on stilts, and he has a habit of opening his mouth before knowing what he is going to say; so he often shuts it again without saying anything. After a great deal of ceremony he produced a concerto for two flutes. . . . At last they brought a clavichord of Stein's out of the next room; a very good one, but inch-thick with dust. Herr Graf, who is director here, stood looking like a man who had hitherto believed his own modulations to be something very clever, but all at once discovers that others may be still more so, and without grating on the ear." We read further of a Herr Demmler, who, whenever Mozart plays specially well, is seized with fits of laughter, "for he is a queer creature, and when anything pleases him exceedingly he can't help laughing heartily; indeed, on this occasion he actually began to swear." Then there is a funny picture of two organists at Mannheim: "They have two organists here; it would be worth while to come to Mannheim on purpose to hear them. . . . I heard the second organist first, and then the other. In my opinion the second is preferable to the first, for when I heard the former I asked, 'Who is that playing on the organ?' 'Our second organist.' 'He plays miserably.' When the other began I said, 'Who may that be?' 'Our first organist.' 'Why he plays more miserably still.' I believe that if they were pounded together something even worse would be the result. It is enough to kill one with laughing to look at these two gentlemen. The second at the organ is like a child trying to lift a milestone. You can see his anguish in his face. The first wears spectacles. I stood beside him at the organ and watched him with the intention of learning something from him; at each note he lifts his hands entirely off the keys. What he believes to be his forte is to play in six parts, but he mostly makes fifths and octaves." It would be easy to multiply extracts of this kind, but the few already given reveal with sufficient clearness the sharpness of eye and keenness of tongue wherewith Mozart was gifted. In this respect he was singularly like Mendelssohn, rivalling him also in the somewhat pert self-sufficiency born of conscious power.

I have said above that Mozart, though he could dance attendance on princes and refuse to take "no" as a denial, had a proud and sensitive nature. Evidence of this appears in a long letter to his father from Augsburg, whither the master had gone after leaving Munich. Having made the acquaintance of the Stadtpfleger von Langenmantl, his "stuck-up son, and his prim, condescending wife," Mozart is in due course invited to a dinner, whereat the following scene takes place:—

YOUNG LANGENMANTL (observing that Mozart wears the cross of the Papal Order of the Golden Spur). Let us order a cross too, that we may be on a par with Herr Mozart.

[Mozart is silent.]
Y. L.'s BROTHER-IN-LAW. Hallo! you sir! Knight of the Spur! What may it have cost? Three ducats? Must you have permission to wear it? Do you pay extra for leave to do so? We really must get one just like it.

BACH (an officer). For shame! What would you do with the cross?

[Y. L. winks at Bach; Mozart sees him do so, but remains silent.]
Y. L. (holding out snuffbox). There, show that you don't care a pinch of snuff for it.

[Mozart is still silent.]
Y. L. (sneeringly). I may then send to you to-morrow, and you will be so good as to lend me the cross for a few minutes, and I will return it immediately after I have spoken to the goldsmith about it. I know that when I ask him its value (for he is a queer kind of man) he will say a Bavarian thaler; it can't be worth more, for it is not gold, only copper, ha! ha!

MOZART (burning with rage). By no means—it is lead, ha! ha!

Y. L. I say, I suppose I may, if need be, leave out the spur?

MOZART. Oh yes, for you have one already in your head; I, too, have one in mine, but of a very different kind, and I should be sorry to exchange mine for yours; so there, take a pinch of snuff on that.

[Offers snuff.]

Y. L. (pale with anger). Just now that order looked so well on that grand waistcoat of yours. (To servant.) Hallo, you must have greater respect for my brother-in-law and myself when we wear the same cross as Herr Mozart. (To Mozart, offering snuff.) Take a pinch of snuff on that!

[All start up, as Mozart seizes his hat and sword.]

MOZART. I hope to have the pleasure of seeing you to-morrow.

Y. L. To-morrow I shall not be here.

MOZART. Well then, the next morning, when I shall still be here.

Y. L. Ho! ho! you surely don't mean to—MOZART. I mean nothing; you are a set of bores, and so good night.

[Exit Mozart.]

Mozart was about the same age as the cub who thus insulted one of his father's guests, and he naturally resented the treatment actively, instead of meeting it with the contempt of a superior nature. Nor did his anger soon cool. He bitterly felt the "chaff" levelled at him, and refused to pardon the offender, who, when next they met, said, "I was rather afraid you might have escaped us, or been offended by our jokes the other evening." Whereupon Mozart answered, "By no means. You are still very young, but I advise you to be more cautious in future, for I am not accustomed to such jokes. The subject on which you were so facetious did you no credit, nor did it answer your purpose, for you see I still wear the order; you had better have chosen some other topic for your wit." Old Leopold Mozart, with his greater experience and cooler head, by no means sympathised with his son's behaviour, and told him so, upon which Wolfgang replied, "In your first letter, dear papa, you write that I lowered myself by my conduct to that lad Langenmantl. Anything but that. I was only straightforward; no more. I see you think he is still a boy; he is one or two and twenty, and a married man. Can any one be considered a boy who is married? I have never gone near him since."

There are many other proofs in these early letters of the sensitiveness that naturally belongs to the artistic temperament. Thus, at Mozart's first meeting with Langenmantl, senior, he resented the Stadtpfleger's patronage. "He deigned graciously to remember you," writes the composer to his father, "and said, 'Pray how have things gone with him?' 'Vastly well, God be praised,' I instantly rejoined, 'and I hope things have also gone well with you.' He then became more civil, and addressed me in the third person, so I called him 'Sir,' though indeed I had done so from the first." Mozart complained also that his cousin, the son of a bookbinder in the town, was kept waiting in the hall "like a footman." Behaviour like this on the part of those who were not something about royalty incensed Mozart greatly, and in one place we find him exclaiming, "I shall be indeed glad when I arrive at a place where there is a Court. I may with truth say that, were it not for my kind cousins, my regrets would be as numberless as the hairs on my head for ever having come to Augsburg."

As regards the moral and religious character of Mozart at this early period of his life, the letters contain much that is interesting. In acknowledgment of some paternal advice on the occasion of his name-day, the young master writes, "I thank you, most truly, dear papa, for your good wishes on my name-day. Do not be uneasy on my account, for I have always God before my eyes. I acknowledge His omnipotence; I dread His wrath; but I also know His love, His compassion and mercy towards His creatures, and that He will never forsake His servants. When His will is done I am resigned, so I never can fail to be happy and contented." But the father by no means had entire confidence in the son. On one occasion he ascribed Mozart's non-success at Augsburg and Mannheim to his own want of effort. In answer, the composer says, "I can only regret your having such an opinion of me, and from my heart grieve that you so little know your son. I am not careless, I am only prepared for the worst; so I can wait and bear everything patiently, so long as my honour and my good name of Mozart remain uninjured." Elsewhere we read, "I have already written to you the pleasure your last letter caused me, which is quite true; only one thing rather vexed me—the inquiry whether I had not perchance forgotten to go to confession. I shall not say anything further on this. Only allow me to make you one request, which is not to think so badly of me. I like to be merry, but rest assured I can be as serious as any one. Since I quitted Salzburg (and even in Salzburg) I have met with people who spoke and acted in a way that I should have felt ashamed to do, though they were ten, twenty, and thirty years older than myself. I implore of you, therefore, and most earnestly, to have a better opinion of me." At Mannheim Mozart made the acquaintance of some professors, with whom he agreed to travel to Paris. But on further knowledge of his new friends we find him writing thus: "Mamma and I have discussed the matter, and we agree that we do not like the sort of life the Wendlings lead. Wendling is a very honourable and kind man, but unhappily devoid of all religion, and the whole family are the same. I say enough when I tell you that his daughter was a most disreputable character. Ramm is a good fellow, but a libertine. I know myself, and I have such a sense of religion that I shall never do anything which I would not do before the whole world; but I am alarmed even at the very thoughts of being in the society of people during my journey whose mode of thinking is so entirely different from mine (and from that of all good people). But of course they must do as they please. I have no heart to travel with them, nor could I enjoy one pleasant hour, nor know what to talk about; for, in short, I have no great confidence in them. Friends who have no religion cannot be long our friends." This sounds all very right and proper, but leaves behind an impression that the writer is protesting somewhat overmuch, and that a motive exists other than the one ostentatiously paraded. That motive may be discovered, I fancy, in the same letter. A short time before, Mozart had made acquaintance with Herr Weber (uncle to the composer of "Der Freischütz"), and also with Herr Weber's daughter Aloysia, afterwards Madame Lange, and sister to Mozart's wife Constance. There is no doubt whatever that Mozart fell violently in love with Aloysia, then only fifteen. She was a good musician, and pretty—reasons enough why the composer, who spent much time in her society, desired to remain near the family. To this end he devised a scheme, which, after the irreligious Wendlings had been dealt with, was very artfully put to the cautious old gentleman at Salzburg: "In the meantime Herr Weber will endeavour to make various engagements for concerts with me, and then we shall travel together. If I am with him, it is just as if I were with you. This is the reason that I like him so much; except in personal appearance he resembles you in all respects, and has exactly your character and mode of thinking. If my mother were not, as you know, too comfortably lazy to write, she would say precisely what I do. I must confess that I much enjoyed my excursion with them. We were pleased, and merry: I heard a man converse just like you; I had no occasion to trouble myself about anything; what was torn, I found repaired. In short, I was treated like a prince." Frau Mozart added a postscript to this letter, unknown to her son, in which she said, "I never liked his being in the society of Wendling and Ramm, but I did not venture to object to it, nor would he have listened to me; but no sooner did he know these Webers than he instantly changed his mind." Of course the elder Mozart was not deceived either by his son's religious scruples or the flattering comparison between Weber and himself, and he administered a serious lecture, closing with a behest to leave Mannheim for Paris at once. Some of the insinuations in this epistle seem to have vexed Mozart exceedingly, and he wrote in reply, "My last letter told you the whole thing as it stands. Believe what you please of me—only nothing bad. There are people who think no one can love a poor girl without evil designs. . . . I am a Mozart, and, though young, still a high-principled Mozart. . . . I might have said a great deal on this subject, but I cannot; I feel it to be impossible. Among my many faults I have also that of believing that those friends who know me do so thoroughly. Then many words are not necessary; and if they do not know me, oh! how could I find words sufficient!" Mozart went to Paris, and parted from his ladylove in obedience to paternal wishes. On the whole, therefore, his conduct throughout this incident commands respect, for, if he did protest somewhat too much in order to gain his end, we must remember that he was in love, and that the purity of his motives cannot be suspected.

The letters of the period under consideration do not throw much light upon Mozart's opinions concerning things exclusively musical. Here and there, however, a criticism of value may be met with, and one such is found à propos to Abbé Vogler, whom, by-the-way, Mozart disliked very cordially, and who appears to have reciprocated the feeling. I shall quote the remarks of the master at length, because they are just now of greater cogency than ever: "Before dinner he [Vogler] had scrambled through my Sonata at sight. He took the first part prestissimo, the Andante allegro, and the Rondo more prestissimo still. He played great part of the bass very differently from the way in which it was written, inventing at times quite another harmony and melody. It is impossible to do otherwise in playing at such a pace, for the eyes cannot see the notes, nor the hands get hold of them. What merit is there in this? The listeners can only say that they have seen music and piano-playing. All this makes them hear and think and feel—as little as he does. You may easily believe that this was beyond all endurance, because I could not venture to say to him much too quick! Besides, it is far easier to play a thing quickly than slowly; some notes may then be dropped without being observed. But is this genuine music? Surely these remarks may be mistaken for current criticism of a “sensation” performance in St. James’s Hall, and they are, consequently, of special value as revealing the opinion of so great a man. But even Mozart is going out of fashion in some quarters, and will ere long be sneered at as appertaining to the “powder and pigtail” age.

(To be continued.)

SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF MUSIC-PRINTING, FROM THE FIFTEENTH TO THE NINETEENTH CENTURY

BY FRIEDRICH CHRYSANDER.

(Continued from page 475.)

FOURTH PERIOD.—COPPERPLATE ENGRAVING.

We now arrive at the second method of printing, which was destined to gain as permanent a footing as the one which preceded it: I mean that which produced the result by Engraving on Metal. It may be regarded as a continuation of wood-cutting, which was entirely given up just at the time when metal came into use.

The metal chosen at first was by no means the best. A century and a half was wasted before a permanently satisfactory material was obtained, so that all here described as the Fourth Period is only of the nature of a preliminary experiment, which resulted subsequently in a more mature practice.

This new attempt to print music by a method different from the previous movable types sprang from the same cause which we observed with reference to Tablature, the necessity of writing music in harmony of several parts for a single instrument, and in this case for a keyed instrument. It was required for organ and clavier-music; and it is not surprising that the new system was invented by Italians, since the German organ-tablature had never been adopted in Italy.

Even Petrucci, according to the terms of his “Privilege” (MUSICAL TIMES, No. 413, p. 324), intended to print not only lute-tablatures, but also tablatures for the organ; but he never achieved these latter. It has been inferred from this that the Italians actually possessed a tablature for the organ written with peculiar signs of its own, of which nevertheless nothing is now known. But most probably no such tablature was in existence; and we ought rather to assume that even in that early age the Italians wrote their pieces for clavier and organ in the ordinary notes, and had a different notation only for the lute. What Petrucci intended to do was, therefore, in this case to print clavier or organ-music in several parts with notes and lines; and we can now well imagine why he gave it up. The difficulty of fitting the notes at all correctly to the lines must have proved insuperable with his system of double printing. Here, if anywhere, a process which required only a single impression was imperative. Yet the experiments of a single impression with movable types, which were made by later printers, were incapable of application to this kind of music, because the clumsy notes then used made the combination of several parts on the same five-line stave impossible. Music-printing with movable types, accordingly, was still limited to music in one part, and furnished only the separate parts of the compositions. If all the parts were to be printed together one under another, so that the whole harmony was visible at a time, it was necessary to take as many staves as there were parts. Such a combination of the parts into one whole was called Partitura (in English, Score). On the other hand, a combination or co-ordination of several parts in one stave, intended for performance on a single instrument, was called Intavolatura (Tablature). I repeat this from the preceding article only in order to express my regret that the English musicians have not adopted the word Partiture in their language. Tablature being an acknowledged term, Partiture ought also to be employed for its counterpart. It is obvious from the above explanation that Full Score is not at all a satisfactory substitute for it.

Now such an Intavolatura or Tablature was required for printing music for keyed instruments. To render it possible a perfectly new course was taken, which must be pronounced quite as important in its consequences, and therefore historically as interesting, as that followed by Petrucci. I regret, that in following the traces of the originators of the new method, I have to commence my exposition by destroying the opinion that music-engraving is an English invention.

In the year 1611 appeared in London the well-known work,— “PARTHENIA, or the maydenhead of the first musicke that ever was printed for the Virginals. . . . London, printed for M. Doc. Euans.”

In 1613, 1635, 1650, and 1659, new editions were issued, so that the work had a very long popularity. Now it was engraved upon copperplates by William Hole, a celebrated engraver in the reign of James I. The late Dr. Rimbault furnished a new edition of it for the Musical Antiquarian Society, forming the last volume of their collection. In his preface he says, “The ‘Parthenia’ also claims the merit of having been the first musical work printed from copperplates, an example that was generally followed in regard to instrumental music, both in this country and on the Continent” (p. 6). As Italy was the only country on the Continent that then produced music engraved on copper, we should, according to this assertion, have to suppose that Hole’s performance was immediately eagerly imitated there, but remained for a long time solitary in his own country—a state of things which is certainly not usual with new inventions. But at that time the musical wind blew steadily and rapidly from Italy to the Ultramontane countries, yet never back again in the reverse direction. Among the books left by Dr. Rimbault at his death was a portfolio inscribed “Music-printing,” and containing “Collections towards a History of Music-printing, consisting of title-pages, leaves of music, &c.” It appears from this that he probably intended to write at some length on this subject; and I am the more surprised at the positive tone in which he declares Hole to be the originator of musical copperplate engraving. Was he not struck by the remarkably foreign, not to say Italian, appearance of the “Parthenia,” especially in the form of the letters? If, for instance, we compare Hole’s “Dedication to Prince Frederick,” prefixed to his edition of 1613, with Frescobaldi’s “Al lettore” in his “Primo libro di Toccate” (Rome, 1615), we cannot possibly believe that the Roman was the imitator of the Englishman; the reverse appears probable. Hole, as an eminent engraver, could easily draw pretty and delicate lines on copper, and give an elegant appearance to the page, but his notes are wanting in specifically musical character. With all their neatness they resemble the bungling attempt of some one who at every letter or note is trying to gain familiarity with a mode of writing and engraving entirely foreign to him, whereas the Italian copperplates reflect the natural handwriting of the Italian musicians.

And in truth it was so. When Hole set about his first engraving of music, the great English musicians of the age of Queen Elizabeth had already for some time had Italian music engraved on copper lying before them; and there was especially one work, by the celebrated organist Merulo, which must have suggested to them to produce something of the same sort among themselves.

The first occasion of music-engraving on copperplates, and the first work so engraved, have not hitherto been authenticated, and perhaps may never be known. But I am able to trace copper-engraving back to twenty-five years before the appearance of the "Parthenia," and to a source which I doubt not is the true and original one. It is Rome which possessed the same importance in relation to this art as Venice in relation to printing with movable types; and the Petrucci of copperplate engraving was a man named Simone Verovio. In the year 1586 there appeared at Rome a work entitled,—

"DILETTO SPIRITUALE. Canzonette a tre et a quattro voci composte da diversi ecc^{mi} Musici. Raccolte da Simone Verovio. Intagliate et stampate dal medesimo. Con l' intavolatura del Cimbalo et Liuto." In Rome, 1586." [23 leaves in small folio; in the Royal Library of Berlin.]

Verovio's dedication is dated November 10, 1586. He says on the title-page that he himself engraved and printed the book, but not that it was his first attempt of the kind; so that it probably had one or more predecessors. Verovio was a musician himself; he included in the collection a piece of his own, "Giesu sommo conforto;" the remaining pieces are by Anerio, Palestrina, and others. They were originally vocal pieces, and are here printed in three forms, in the following way. On the left-hand page the three or four vocal parts stand one under the other, not in score but each by itself. Then on the opposite page the same piece is given, arranged for clavier in three or four parts, and provided with little runs, shakes, or other ornaments. This, then, is what the title describes as "Intavolatura del Cimbalo;" it occupies about half of the page. Place is found on the remaining half-page for the same piece arranged for the lute, and written in the Italian lute-tableture on six lines described in the preceding article. Thus the work contains three distinct versions of the same music: in single vocal parts, and in two arrangements for the clavier and for the lute.

The contemplation of this arrangement makes it clear at once what was the first motive for adopting a new method of multiplying copies of music. It was the desire to possess vocal works of small dimensions, together with arrangements for the favourite chamber instruments, clavier and lute, so that these could at pleasure either accompany the voices or themselves reproduce the tones of the voices. The best means to this end was afforded by copperplate engraving, which had been greatly improved in the sixteenth century, and was practised by many excellent masters of the craft. Of the manner in which instrumental music was formed out of vocal the little work just described is also very instructive; but this is by the way.

A second work of the same kind by Verovio appeared a few years later:—

"GHIRLANDA DI FIORETTI MUSICALI. Composta da diversi ecc^{mi} musici a tre voci. In Roma, 1589." [50 pages in small folio; in the Royal Library of Berlin.]

The engraver is mentioned, not on the title-page, but underneath the dedication. The book is constructed in every respect similarly to the earlier one, only executed rather less carefully. For this reason I regard the engraving of 1586 as one of the earliest attempts, proceeding from Verovio's hand. What other books lay between the two, and what else followed the later one, cannot be determined in the absence of any information about the chronological order. There are also works without mention of place, year, or engraver; e.g. sixteen four-part Gagliardi, by Anerio, for cimbalo and liuto, but without the addition of the voice parts, which, as the name of the composer shows, must also have been published at Rome about 1590, and exhibits exactly Verovio's style.

Such pieces, in which the original voices were left out, then made the transition to the proper clavier and organ-music, to which the engraving on copperplates was especially adapted. This was exhibited by Verovio in the year 1598, when he brought out his chief work:—

"TOCCATE D'INTAVOLATURA D'ORGANO di Claudio Merulo da Correggio, Organista del Sereniss^o Sig. Duca di Parma et Piacenza ec. Nuovamente da lui date in luce, et con ogni diligenza corrette. Libro primo. In Roma, appresso Simone Verovio, MDXCVIII. Con licenza de' Superiori." [43 pages in folio; in the Royal Library of Berlin.]

This first part contains nine Toccatas. Verovio offered it to Cardinal Farnese, in a dedication, dated August 20, 1598. The engraving is uniformly beautiful and very legible, in a perfectly firm hand, throughout the work. The upper stave has five lines, and varies between the C and the G clef, according to the position of the notes. The bass stave, on the other hand, has eight lines and two clefs, i.e. one for the tenor, in addition to the ordinary bass clef.

A second part did not appear till six years later, after Merulo's death ("che sia in cielo," says Verovio in the dedication):—

"TOCCATE D'INTAVOLATURA D'ORGANO di Claudio Merulo. . . . Libro secondo. In Roma, appresso Simone Verovio, 1604." [49 pages in folio; in the Royal Library of Berlin.]

Verovio's dedication is dated October 30, 1604. The book contains ten Toccatas, and is engraved in a similar style, but executed with rather less care and elegance. This is evident even on the title-page, for which different kinds of letters, less expressive but easier of execution, were selected.

All these works, and others besides, are due to Verovio, whose activity in this department probably extended over more than a quarter of a century, during at least a large part of which he appears to have been without a rival. His edition of Merulo broke the ice, as it were, and opened a way which was then gradually followed by craftsmen of all countries.

The Romans long kept their superiority in the art, and brought out even vocal pieces at the beginning of the seventeenth century engraved on copper, of which I need only mention the "Arie" of Durante (1608) and the "Motetti" of Kapsberger (1612). The most important works of that early time immediately after Verovio were the organ compositions of the great Frescobaldi, the first book of whose Toccatas ("Il primo libro d'intavolatura di Toccate di Cimbalo et Organo") was published in 1615 by Nicolo Borbone at Rome, while the second appeared without indication of the place, date, or publisher, but with a preface bearing the date January 15, 1627. The composer's portrait accompanies both these works, bearing the inscription, "Christophorus Blancus sculpit [sic], 1616;" but the engraver of the music is not mentioned. The letters and notes are essentially in Verovio's style, which may be briefly designated the Roman. One interesting feature in Frescobaldi is that his compositions were printed in two different ways; some were engraved on copper, others printed with types. While the "Toccatas" were engraved at Rome, Al. Vincenti set up his "Capricci," "Canzone Francese," and "Ricercari" in type, but "in partitura." Similarly his "Fiori Musicali" were also published there in 1635 "in partitura a quattro," i.e. in four parts, which were printed separately in four distinct staves. There was, however, also published by Paolo Masotti at Rome "Il primo libro della Canzoni a 1, 2, 3, e 4 voci, in partitura," in 1628; but Venice still continued to be the proper home of the best type-printing. The examples quoted enable us to observe a sort of strife between two different modes of music-printing, a strife which was renewed nearly a century later in Ballard's office at Paris. It should also be noticed in confirmation of what I have said that the term "Intavolatura" is always used of copperplate printing, and "Partitura" of type-printing.

During the seventeenth century musical copperplate printing spread to all countries, though the numerous wars made its progress slow. It found a comparatively peaceful refuge in Holland, where book-printing flourished, and where, among the numerous copper-engravers who multiplied the works of Dutch painters, some were always glad to profit by the new musical branch of the art. The publishers there were almost exclusively engaged in reprinting the music of other countries, with a view to exportation far more than to the requirements of their own country. They must therefore have found very convenient a mode of printing which did not oblige them at the outset to risk large editions, and which preserved in permanence the substratum of the impression. Consequently a great quantity of music was engraved on copper at Amsterdam about the year 1700. The separate works brought out by the Dutch music-publishers are remarkable only as articles of commerce; the real importance of this manufacture is found in the stimulus which it exerted on England and France.

Of English copperplate printing after the close of the seventeenth century I shall not speak till the next article. In France the house of Ballard held the Privilege, and could make rain or sunshine at pleasure. The organists and cembalists who thronged the Court of Louis XIV. began to publish their "Suites" and other pieces, engraved on copper, chiefly at their own expense. Perhaps it was this that first determined Chr. Ballard to execute the scores of several of Lully's operas by copperplate engraving rather than by movable types. Some sort of chance or whim must be assumed; for no real reason is discoverable why, for instance, he engraved the opera "Alceste," and printed from type that of "Acis et Galatée." The earliest French operas were all printed by Ballard in score from type; copperplate engraving was gradually introduced. It was doubtless considered more elegant, and it possessed one pleasing advantage, that at the beginning of the act the scene could be easily represented in a pretty illustration. In respect to the notes, the firm of Ballard remained faithful to the square form even when engraving them—certainly a peculiar hobby. The name of the engraver of all these large works was Baussen. He probably worked exclusively for the great house of Ballard. His engraving is uniform, clean, and fine throughout, in the letterpress as well as in the notes, and the impression, on beautiful Holland paper, is no less admirable. It is evident that the talented engraver was well paid and had plenty of time allowed him for the artistic execution of his work. The contrast is very striking between his work and certain contemporary Dutch or almost any English music engraved on copper.

If the use of copper-engraving or of type-printing in the earlier age was determined by the arrangement of the music as partitura or as intavolatura, no such distinction is traceable in Ballard's publications; the contest between the two modes of printing was fought out on the same field, and was determined by accidental inclinations; so that on one day type-printing and on the next copper-engraving gained the ascendancy. Speaking generally, engraving was in particular favour about 1710. The proportion between the two systems in Ballard's establishment may be conveniently surveyed in a curious catalogue of nineteen scores of operas by Lully, which is printed in the score of "Phaëton," published in 1721.

OPERA DE MR. LULLY.

CE SONT DIX-NEUF VOLUMES IN-FOLIO.

Neuf gravées et dix imprimées en Partition générale.

1. "Les Fêtes de l'Amour et de Bacchus." Imprimé.
2. "Cadmus." Imprimé.
3. "Alceste." Gravé.
4. "Thésée." Gravé et cy-devant imprimé.
5. "Le Carnaval-Mascarade." Imprimé.
6. "Atys." Gravé et cy-devant imprimé.
7. "Isis." Imprimé.

Cette Pièce est encore imprimée en dix Parties détachées, in-4°. Et chacune de ces Parties se vendent séparément l'une de l'autre.

8. "Psyché." Dernier imprimé.
9. "Bellerophon." Dernier gravé et cy-devant imprimé.
10. "Proserpine." Imprimé, seconde édition.
11. "Le Triomphe de l'Amour." Imprimé, seconde et nouvelle édition plus exacte que la première.
12. "Persée." Gravé et cy-devant imprimé.
13. "Phaëton." Gravé et cy-devant imprimé.
14. "Amadis." Gravé et cy-devant imprimé.
15. "Roland." Gravé et cy-devant imprimé.
16. "L'Idylle sur la Paix" et "L'Eglogue de Versailles." Imprimé.
17. "Armide." Gravé et cy-devant imprimé.
18. "Acis et Galatée." Imprimé.

There being here nine engraved full scores to set against ten printed from type, the proportion is almost equal. But this was the case only at that moment, i.e. with the copies sold just then. As all the operas were printed from type previously, and some also subsequently, the copperplate engraving has here really only the interest of a curiosity.

At the same time as Baussen was preparing these beautiful engraved editions, namely, about 1710, a colleague of his, Fr. du Plessy, was engaged on the "Pièces de Clavecin" of Couperin, the first part of which was published in 1713 at the author's expense. The engraving of the four parts of this work forms a worthy pendant to Merulo's Toccatas, and may, everything considered, be characterised as the most beautiful and painstaking specimen of clavier or organ-music engraved on copper; so that the engraver had certainly earned the pleasure of having the words "Gravées par Du Plessy" inserted on the title-page. However, the title-pages, dedications, and prefaces were engraved by another master, Berey, who must have been eminent for engraving text, but probably did not practise music-engraving; and no more perfect letterpress can be imagined than his.

Couperin takes us to Germany, which I have not yet mentioned in connection with copper-engraving. There copperplate engraving was taken up with much zeal when it was already too late. A work executed with quite as much care as that of Couperin was published about 1730, viz. Muffat's "Componimenti Musicali per il Cembalo." It is full of good music, and especially noteworthy besides for the use that Handel made of the ideas of its author. Muffat was Organist to the Imperial Court at Vienna; but to get his work handsomely executed he had to apply to Augsburg, to the engraver Leopold, who brought it out—"scolpiti in rame et fatti stampare da Giovanni Christiano Leopold, Intagliatore a Augusta," as the title-page says.

The latest copperplate engravers in Germany practised their craft even to the end of the century. The experiments by means of which J. S. Bach got his clavier- and organ-music printed have a special interest for us now. After his appointment as organist at Leipzig, he published there his "Clavier Uebung," in four parts, commencing with the year 1726. The first part was completed in 1731, as "Opus 1," and was published at the author's expense; the fourth was published in 1742, by Balthasar Schmid, at Nuremberg. All the parts were engraved on copper, but the execution varied with the change of publishers. It is commonly asserted that Bach himself engraved his compositions. But this is true only of one single work, the third part of the "Clavier Uebung," of which I shall at some future time present a full demonstration. "Die Kunst der Fuge," which came out in 1752, after his death, is frequently quoted as one of the works which he partially engraved himself; but it was engraved at Berlin, and not finished when he died. During about ten years only sixty copies of it were struck off. His son, Philip Emanuel, then offered the plates for sale to publishers; but as no offer was received they were melted down. It is no wonder therefore that the first edition of "Die Kunst der Fuge" is so rare. It was published again by Marpurg. Immediately afterwards Marpurg published his own instruction-book, "Die Kunst der Fuge" (Berlin, 1753), the numerous musical examples belonging to which were engraved on copperplates. These plates are still in existence, and were used again in 1860 for the new edition of the book. They are now the property of the firm "Bureau de Musique," of Leipzig, and are probably the oldest of all musical copperplates that have been preserved to our day.

The mode in which the notes were marked on the copperplates naturally varied in the course of time; new mechanical expedients were devised one after the other to facilitate and accelerate the process of engraving. I have hitherto disregarded these, considering the next article the proper place to speak of them.

(To be continued.)

FESTIVAL COMMITTEES AND NEW WORKS.

WE shall begin our remarks upon this subject at a point where there must be general agreement. Nobody will dispute that it is the special privilege of Festival managers to foster the art of musical composition in its highest forms. Ordinary concertgivers, whatever may be their desire, have not the power to do so without a risk of pecuniary loss such as they would be foolish to incur. The British public do not love novelty per se. They like to hear that which is familiar either by actual acquaintance or by repute, and therefore, as a matter of business, new music does not pay. But Festival managers and professional entrepreneurs are differently situated. It is easy for the former so to arrange their extensive programmes that the popularity of one work shall balance the unconcern with which another is regarded; and to this advantage, coupled, we would fain believe, with an honest desire to further the cause of art, are owing the Oratorios and Cantatas which nearly every autumn transfer the centre of musical interest from London to the provinces. But there is no privilege without its attendant responsibility, and the men favoured in this particular case must not be surprised when, from time to time, they are asked to render account of the "talent" committed to their charge. They are but in the position of trustees, and for any dereliction of duty may rightly be summoned before the "marble chair" of that highest Court of Chancery—public opinion.

We must not, however, expect too much. Humanum est errare, especially when temptations are about; and there is no difficulty in seeing that Festival committee-men are particularly liable to slip. In the first place, they have, as a rule, small personal knowledge of the matters upon which, as concerning new works, it is their business to decide. Were they musicians of experience and discernment, it is possible that the strength of their own tastes and a true regard for the interests of art would keep them right. But they become committee-men mainly on the strength of local position and influence, which no more qualify them to pilot a musical craft than to take the Devastation into action. Thus weak where they should be strong, committees are peculiarly open to other than legitimate artistic influences. They can see little reason why personal considerations should not prevail, and are amiably ready to oblige the powerful patron of this, that, and the other composer, to prefer local talent without regard to actual worth, and to do all and sundry the other things which may be expected of men who, in their position, fail to consider music as of paramount importance. Needs must, under circumstances like these, that offences come, and when they do come the obligation is ours to take fair account of all that may extenuate. But there are limits beyond which charitable consideration cannot go without itself offending. It is hard, for example—and, were it easy, would be wrong—to acquit the Leeds Festival Committee of serious default in producing Mr. Austin's Cantata "The Fire-King." We need not here discuss the merits and demerits of the work in question. That has been done at sufficient length, and with a unanimity of censure that leaves nothing more to be said either by way of attack or defence. Accepting the Cantata at the estimate generally put upon it, and assuming, what nobody has contradicted, that its choice was largely due to the composer's local connection, we have a striking text from which to moralise, reasoning the more severely because it appears that one at least of the Festival committee persists in declaring the right course to have been taken, and now sets himself to mop back the tide of general opinion with more than Partingtonian blindness to the inevitable result. The gentleman to whom we refer is Mr. Frederic Spark. Mr. Spark is a brave man, and has the eminently English characteristic of not knowing when he is beaten. So looked at, we cannot but admire him. It seems that he honestly liked the "Fire-King" before the Festival took place, and, though all the world has since turned against it, he likes it still. Here is chivalry, if not wisdom. "Come one, come all," exclaims Mr. Spark, in view of the hostile array, "this rock shall fly from its firm base as soon as I." In the midst of a generation remarkable for the weakness of its knees, such a strong firm stand deserves all that can be said in its praise. Pity that the cause so bravely defended is not a better one; pity, even more, that the defence is combined with an attack so utterly absurd as to be worthy of Homeric laughter. Mr. Spark, like Osman Pasha, cannot be routed as long as he keeps stubbornly behind the entrenchments of his own conviction, but out in the open he is a terror to nobody, and he has come out into the open for the purpose of annihilating the critics. "True," says this gentleman, "the critics belaboured the 'Fire-King,' but why? Not because they honestly thought it worthy of maltreatment, but because everything in connection with the Festival being so good, and wanting to abuse something, they selected Mr. Austin's Cantata as a victim." What terrible fellows these critics are, to be sure. They go down into the provinces as Paul went to Damascus, "breathing out threatnings and slaughter." Like the giant Fee-fum, they must periodically "grind the bones" of some unfortunate practitioner of music to make them bread. And so, being short of their favourite food at Leeds, they pounced on Mr. Austin and cut him up. There is a sweet simplicity about Mr. Spark's belief in all this, only equalled by the innocence which enabled him to accept the "call" awarded to the composer of the "Fire-King" as proof that the Cantata was a success. Positively this is refreshing in the highest degree, but, alas! as much out of place as a water-nymph under Leeds Bridge. Mr. Spark was born too late. At present the world does not believe in ogres, while it agrees emphatically with Longfellow that "things are not what they seem."

Turning again to the general question, it is important that the duties of Festival committees in relation to new works should be defined. One such duty is to do nothing without first consulting men able to advise from the musician's point of view. True, when a novelty is "commanded" from a composer of acknowledged eminence, the responsibility, in a certain sense, passes over to him, and the committee may claim to be held free from blame of consequences. But it is when determining upon works offered by men not yet renowned that the difficulty arises. Under such conditions, the primary resolve should be to form just conclusions from the standpoint of art, and then to carry out the decision without the smallest reference to merely personal claims. We do not ignore the obstacles in the way. Influences of various kinds will always be brought to bear, often most strongly in favour of the greatest incompetence, and no small firmness is certain to be required. But when a sense of personal responsibility exists, and a conviction that every manager of a Musical Festival is, as such, a sworn minister of art, temptation is little likely to gain the day. Were this the case generally our young composers would occupy a far more advantageous position. At present their ardour is repressed by the knowledge that, although they may produce good things, Festival programmes, extraneous influences being wanting, are practically closed against them. We talk largely about free trade. Let us have free trade in art. Let the arena be open to all who choose to contend in it, and the best man enjoy the best chance of the prize. But this can only be when Festival managers express their willingness to consider in person or by deputy every work sent to them, with the understanding that the most worthy shall be chosen, by whomsoever composed. Only thus can our Festivals do all the good of which they are capable, and only thus can a "door of utterance" be opened at Festival gatherings to those musicians, if any, who at the present moment, and without deserving their fate, are ingloriously mute.

A TRIAL at Manchester a few months ago elicited some disclosures regarding the manufacture and sale of pianofortes which deserve all the publicity that can be given to them. The plaintiff, Mr. Adams, who is a dealer in pianofortes, entered an action against a railway company for damage to his instruments in their transit on the defendant's line; but the cross-examination of the opposing counsel proved how dangerous it is to dabble in law-suits unless you can enter the court with clean hands. The plaintiff having admitted that he had already heard of an Association called the "Long Firm," the following conversation occurred:—"Mr. Pope: Who is William Adams? Witness: I. Mr. Pope: Who is William Adams and Sons? Witness: I. Mr. Pope: Who is William Adams and Co.? Witness: I. Mr. Pope: Who is the City of London Pianoforte Company? Witness: I. Mr. Pope: Who are Adams, Sterndale and Co.? Witness: Three of my sons. Mr. Pope: Who are Sterndale, Adams and Co.? Witness: Thomas Sterndale Adams. Mr. Pope: Next we come to Adams, Douglas, and Adams; who are they? Witness: They are my sons. Mr. Pope: Are Adams, Douglas, and Adams agents for Nutting and Norminton's Royal Model Transposing Pianos, and Sterndale, Adams and Co. for the Anglo-American Pianos? Witness: Yes; but Adams, Sterndale and Co. is now done away with. Mr. Pope: Why? Witness: Thomas Sterndale Adams is my son, and if my sons like to alter the title of their firm I don't see what that has to do with this case." Mr. Adams was then asked what use he made of certain plates which he had in his possession, and which bore the name of Broadwood; to which he replied that they were printed, he believed, by Cooke, of Manchester, and that he bought them from a workman in his employ. The plates were used for putting on old pianos. Another plate, which was produced, was used by the makers of pianofortes of the shape of Collard and Collard's, and contained the words "Collard and Collard model," the word model being in small characters. For the honour of the bar, it should be stated that the counsel for the plaintiff at this stage of the proceedings expressed his intention of withdrawing from the case; and as Mr. Adams evidently thought that the gentlemen of the jury were scarcely impressed in his favour, he also deemed it prudent to retire, a verdict being entered for the defendants, the judge certifying for costs. Should the doings of this enterprising dealer incite Messrs. Broadwood and Collard to imitate Mr. Adams in seeking compensation for "damage," it is just possible that the career of this "Long Firm" may be considerably shortened.

At a recent somewhat noisy meeting it was remarked that the principal disturbance was created by persons who resolutely persisted in crying out

"Order!" and that when they were expelled from the room comparative quiet was restored. On the same principle, it becomes a question whether something must not shortly be done to restrain the intemperance of those who advocate temperance; for in their wild orgies it is evident that they are growing unduly riotous, and can no longer quaff their glass of sparkling water without anathematising in no measured terms those who presume to quaff anything stronger. A short time ago we drew attention to some "Temperance Songs," which had been forwarded to us, the object of which was to prove that the habitual drinking of "Gingeret" must inevitably lead to the development of all the good, and the annihilation of all the bad, qualities of human nature. It certainly may be depressing to reflect that we can only become really virtuous by the aid of "Gingeret;" but it is consoling to think that in this beverage there is at least a flavour of something. A batch of "Drinking Songs," however, just sent to us, abolishes even this luxury, for No. 1 announces the commencement of the revels thus:—

Bring us the cup, to the brim filled up,
And filled with the water sweet.

And to show how this liquid will incite to hilarity, in the last verse we have the following lines:—

Sing we and laugh while we merrily quaff,
And brethren their brethren greet.

In another verse we are told that "our earliest parents had this drink alone," although it might with equal truth be said that in some other modern luxuries they were also deficient. In a third we are struck by the ingenious manner in which rhymes are fitted to the last two words of each verse—the "Temperance Pledge." Of these "the treacherous reed and sedge," and "close upon the crumbling edge" are perhaps the best; but here is one verse which is, in its way, unique:—

Some, regardless of precautions, are by flames surrounded,
Slightly treating warning voices who their fears allege;
Thousands are consumed through ardent love of burning liquors,
For the fires are not extinguished by the Temperance Pledge.

When we have said that the music of these songs is fully worthy of the words, it will be seen what unanimity of feeling there must be between the composers and poets who devote their talents to the Temperance cause.

SCHUMANN asks, "Dare talent permit itself to take the same liberties as genius?" The reply to this question should enunciate a maxim which cannot be too often repeated. A merely "talented" composer who says, "May I not have consecutive fifths, for I perceive that Mendelssohn has them in 'St. Paul'?" will scarcely rest satisfied if he is told that when he can write an Oratorio as fine as "St. Paul" he may have consecutive fifths too; yet if in early training he were taught to believe that departures from rules are permissible only with those who have produced good works without such departures, he might learn in after years to be silent, even if he were not convinced. Daily do we receive letters from persons whose music has been reviewed in our columns, saying that they have discovered in the works of the great composers certain passages precisely resembling those of which we have complained in our notice. Of course we do not answer such communications, and we have no doubt, therefore, that these composers believe that they have been very hardly dealt with; for they cannot be made to understand that the effect of a slight grammatical error may be counteracted by the beauty of the thought expressed, but that, when a mere platitude is uttered, the same error becomes the most prominent portion of the sentence. When Byron's works were the rage of the day, many young writers turned down their collars and drank weak spirits and water, in imitation of the poet; when Spohr's compositions, with their luscious chromatic harmonies, were introduced into this country, the works of our aspiring composers bristled with "accidentals." The author did not see that if he could produce good poetry, or the composer that if he could write good music, nobody would care how the one wore his collars, or whether the other especially inclined to diatonic or chromatic harmonies. Men who work must be judged by their works alone; and all should rest content to be guided by the received rules until they have earned the right to break them.

WE have never been able to understand on what principle "music and dancing licences" are granted or refused. At a late meeting of the Middlesex magistrates we see that applications for music licences at Skating Rinks were rejected; and this we might accept as a hopeful sign that the performance of a band was considered as tending rather to promote disorder than order amongst a miscellaneous group of skaters; but then we find that a licence both for music and dancing was granted to a similar popular place of resort where people do not skate, whilst a licence for music only was refused for a respectable hall, where it was intended that concerts should be given, and no intoxicating liquors sold. Now there can be no doubt that dancing necessitates music, but music does not necessitate dancing; and, with all deference to the worthy magistrates who judge the cases we have mentioned—and without appealing to the "Inspector of police," who is always in attendance to afford information as to the moral effect of these licences—we confidently affirm that the demeanour of those who leave a hall after an evening of music is infinitely superior to that of the merry couples who issue at a late hour from the rooms where music and dancing have been combined. Why, then, should not every facility be offered to those who desire to give musical entertainments to the people? Surely if a place be licensed for dancing, it cannot be necessary that what is termed a "music licence" should also be granted, for this accompaniment must follow as a matter of course. Magistrates may couple these words together until they utterly lose their right meaning; and it cannot be too much impressed upon them, therefore, that the music which is merely used to set dancers in motion has nothing whatever to do, either in character or effect upon the listeners, with that which is presented to a quiet audience in a concert-room.

It has been frequently remarked that a good anecdote, even though it may not be founded upon an actual occurrence, may yet serve to illustrate certain traits in the character of a nation or an individual better than many an absolute fact. Sometimes, indeed, such an anecdote furnishes but a caricature-portrait, in which, while the general features of the personality in question are retained, undue prominence is given to certain peculiarities, by which means the desired ludicrous effect is produced. To the latter category belongs, we should think, a story related in a recent number of the Signale, which we present to our readers, without, however, vouching for its accuracy. During a performance the other day at Boston, Mass. (says the journal quoted), of Gounod's Opera, "Faust," in the scene wherein, by Mephistophelian agency, the image of Gretchen in her domestic occupation is revealed to the Doctor, the familiar spinning-wheel had been exchanged for a beautiful sewing-machine of the most modern construction. At the same moment a perfect volley of papers, recommending "a new system of double-stitch machines combining all the latest improvements," descended from the galleries upon the astonished spectators below. Si non è vero, è ben trovato. There is really no limit to the ingenuity of our cousins on the other side of the Atlantic in combining the practical with the ideal, even at the expense of an occasional slight modification of "historic accuracy."

MDLLE. TITIENS.

THE death of this gifted and accomplished artist—which occurred on the 3rd ult., at her residence in the Finchley Road—can have surprised none save those who placed reliance upon the many ill-judged announcements that she would shortly be again heard on the stage of which she had been for so many years one of the brightest ornaments. Yet upon all, even, who knew too well the hopeless nature of her case, the news of her decease fell as a sudden shock, the effect of which time only can lessen. Theresa Titiens was something more than a great vocalist; for not only by the manifestation of her exceptional artistic powers had she earned the admiration of all competent judges, but, by her kindly nature and large-hearted sympathies, she had so endeared herself to the English people that we had learned to look upon her as almost exclusively our own—a feeling so warmly reciprocated on her part that, as she herself confessed to the writer of this notice, there was no circumstance in her life of which she felt more proud than that of her having been made a naturalised subject of this country. It can be a matter of so little interest to our readers to know the position in life of the parents of Mdle. Titiens that we shall content ourselves with saying that she was born at Hamburg, that she won her way gradually on the lyric stage, first at Frankfort and afterwards at Vienna, and was engaged by Mr. Lumley for Her Majesty's Theatre in 1858, where she made her début as Valentine, in the "Huguenots." Those who were present on that memorable evening at once recognised in the new vocalist—who was unheralded by any preliminary paragraphs—an artist destined at once to supply the place of the great singers who had kept alive for so many years those characters which required for their due rendering, not only exceptionally fine voices, but a grand dramatic power. To mention the parts in which Mdle. Titiens has since appeared would be to catalogue a series of triumphs; but when we speak of her as one of the greatest artists the world has yet seen, it must be remembered that she was as unapproachable in sacred as in lyric art; and that the festival performances in this country would scarcely have been considered complete without the co-operation of our adopted prima donna. This is scarcely the place to enlarge upon the superb quality, or the extraordinary power of her voice; nor need we do more than allude to that marvellous dramatic instinct which compelled her to identify herself with every character she personated, for even the comparatively young opera-goers of the present day have heard her in the full possession of those faculties which years ago placed her in a position from which she has never declined. Indeed, on the last evening of her appearance, when she played her favourite character of Lucrezia Borgia, it was remarked that she sang as finely as ever, and with even an increase of power in the final scenes, as if indeed she felt that they were also the final scenes in her own career. Her calm endurance of the acute pain she suffered during the months that intervened between her enforced farewell of the stage and her decease afforded one more proof of her own self-command, and her thoughtful solicitude for the feelings of the kind relatives and friends who tended her.

The funeral, which took place in Kensal Green Cemetery, was attended by several well-known artists, and also a large number of persons, many of whom, in their anxiety (let us charitably hope) to evince their sympathy with the deceased, scarcely respected the solemn nature of the occasion. That the coffin was literally covered with floral offerings may be surmised by those who know how wide and heartfelt was the regret at the loss of one who not only in public so nobly sustained the dignity of her art, but in private drew towards her the affection and esteem of all by whom she was surrounded.

CRYSTAL PALACE CONCERTS.

WITH the resumption of the Saturday Concerts at the Crystal Palace on the 6th ult. the winter musical season of the metropolis may be said to have commenced. We gave in our last number a summary of the principal promises of the prospectus, which in its interest is fully equal to those of previous years. The concerts given during the past month have been amply sufficient to show that the splendid band, still, happily, under the experienced direction of Mr. Manns, has lost none of the fine qualities which have given it a European reputation, while in one important respect the concerts which have already taken place show a marked improvement. We refer to the total absence of those trashy "royalty" and other ballads which have too often wearied the patience and tried the temper of the numerous lovers of good music for its own sake who form so large a part of the Crystal Palace audiences.

At the first Concert of the season, on the 6th, the Symphony was Beethoven's No. 1 in C major, and the overtures Weber's "Oberon" and Auber's "Le Premier Jour de Bonheur." The latter was given for the first time at these concerts, and is the more remarkable for its fresh and spirited character when it is remembered that at the time of its production the composer was nearly eighty years of age. Madame Goddard gave a very fine performance of Benedict's clever, but not particularly interesting, Concerto in E flat; Madame Sophie Löwe brought forward Senta's ballad from the "Flying Dutchman" and two songs by Chopin and Kirchner; and the Crystal Palace Choir gave a fairly good performance of Schumann's Chorus "Gipsy Life," the orchestral arrangement used being, we believe, by C. P. Grädener. We have left till last the mention of the novelty of the concert—Dr. Sullivan's incidental music to Shakespeare's "King Henry VIII." This consists of four pieces—a March, a Song with chorus, "Youth will needs have dalliance" (the words of which are attributed to King Henry himself, and the solo of which was well sung by Mr. George Fox), a "Graceful Dance" in A major, and a Barcarole entitled "Slow Water Music" in D. Like all its composer's music, the present is well written and most tastefully scored; it is, however, better suited for the stage than the concert-room.

At the second concert Herr Max Bruch, a composer who occupies a high position on the Continent, made, we believe, his first appearance in England to conduct two of his own compositions, the prelude to his Opera "Loreley," and his tolerably well-known Violin Concerto in G minor. Though not of the highest order of genius, Herr Bruch's works show real musical feeling, a thorough command of technical resources, and considerable individuality of style. The prelude to "Loreley" (the libretto of which, it may be mentioned, is that on which Mendelssohn was engaged at the time of his death) is pleasing rather than great music. The Concerto was played on this occasion by Señor Sarasate, a Spanish violinist, who was first heard in this country some three years since at one of the Philharmonic Concerts. He possesses a beautifully pure tone, of excellent quality, though not of remarkable power; his intonation is faultless, and his command over mechanical difficulties complete. His playing is also characterised by great fire and expression, the last quality being at times almost carried to the verge of exaggeration. As a whole he must undoubtedly be ranked as a player of the first order; and his success at Sydenham was as undeniable as it was well deserved. Herr Bruch's conducting of both his pieces was excellent. The Symphony on this afternoon was Haydn's in B flat, No. 9 of the "Salomon set," an ever fresh and welcome work, which, it is needless to say, was played to perfection. The Overtures were both old favourites—Cherubini's "Anacreon" and Mendelssohn's "Meerestille." The vocalists were Madame Nouver, whose voice is much better than her singing, and Mr. Barton McGuckin, whose performance of Handel's "Love in her eyes sits playing," and of songs by Mendelssohn and Schumann left nothing to desire.

A previously unperformed Symphony by Schubert (No. 2, in B flat) was the special feature of interest at the third concert (the 20th ult.). The curiosity generally felt as to the early works of so great a genius as Franz Schubert naturally caused the revival of this Symphony, written at the age of seventeen, to be awaited with some interest. It may be doubted, however, whether the result was not disappointing to those present. The music shows how completely at this period its composer was under the influence of Haydn and Mozart; for of Schubert's individuality we find scarcely a trace; indeed, except here and there in the finale, not so much as a hint. It is very pleasing, and overflowing with melody; but if no name had been attached to the programme we much doubt whether one musician present would have attributed the work to Schubert. Another novelty of this concert was a Symphonic Poem, by M. Camille Saint-Saëns, a very clever, though somewhat eccentric work, which was placed, in the absurd fashion prevalent at the Crystal Palace, at the end of a rather long programme, and was consequently heard to some disadvantage. Señor Sarasate was again the violinist. He chose on this occasion Mendelssohn's Concerto, of which he gave an extremely fine reading. Bennett's beautiful Overture to "Parisina" was the opening piece of the concert. The vocalists were Mdlle. Redeker, who gave Penelope's first song from Bruch's "Odysseus," Schubert's "Dithyrambe," and Mendelssohn's "Frühlingslied," and Mr. Robert Hilton, who made a very successful first appearance at the Palace with a song from Handel's "Ezio" and Loder's "The Diver."

LIVERPOOL PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

INDIVIDUALLY some of our largest provincial towns are running the metropolis hard for the palm of musical enterprise. We do not, of course, pretend to say that the biggest of them can compare with London as regards the quantity of work done; but, having respect to the resources available in each case, there is no doubt at all that Manchester, Liverpool, Glasgow, and some other places of like importance very nearly rival the mother city in the spirit with which musical operations are carried on. Collectively, they distance the metropolis altogether, and we hold it to be a great mistake for musical journals, which are almost of necessity published in London, to ignore important provincial doings in the degree now observed. Many a new or unfamiliar work is heard in England long before it is heard on the banks of the Thames, yet, outside the local press, half a dozen lines are thought enough to record the event. This is a matter calling for reformation, and, by way of taking a first step in that direction, let us notice a memorable Concert given by the Liverpool Philharmonic Society on the 23rd ult.

No reader of the MUSICAL TIMES will require to be told that the Society in question is one of the most successful art-associations in the kingdom; if not, indeed, sui generis. It has built for itself a splendid concert-hall, unsurpassed anywhere for convenience; it stands on a perfectly independent footing, having no need to consult popular taste for the sake of making "both ends meet;" and it can afford to display the liberality by which alone the best results are secured. Such a Society—would that there were more of them—can lay itself out without reserve for the gratification of the highest tastes and the advancement of art. This it did on the occasion under notice, when Herr Max Bruch's "Odysseus" was performed for the second time in this country (the first was at Manchester) under the direction of the composer himself. About this work, it is safe to say, metropolitan musicians as a body know nothing at all. Speaking, therefore, from the vantage-ground prepared by provincial enterprise, it may be well to give here some outline remarks.

It can hardly be necessary to state that the story of the work is that of the immortal bard for the honour of whose birth so many cities contended, and who, we are sometimes told now, never existed at all. The German libretto is the work of Herr Graff, and consists, not of a continuous "argument" enabling us to take "Odysseus" quite apart from the "Odyssey," but of ten scenes detached from the epic here and there, according as they seemed best fitted for musical illustration. All who know the story of the "Odyssey"—that is to say, every Englishman of ordinary acquirements—will at once see that Herr Graff chose well when we give a list of the scenes. They are: 1. Odysseus on Calypso's island; 2. Odysseus in Hades; 3. Odysseus and the sirens; 4. The tempest at sea; 5. Penelope mourning; 6. Nausikaa; 7. The banquet with the Phæacians; 8. Penelope weaving a garment; 9. The return. 10. Festival in Ithaca. Herr Bruch could not have been more fortunate than when taking in hand such a series of varied pictures; and it may truly be said that, if ever a composer was assisted to great results by the suggestiveness of his theme, he is the man. We may add that the English translation, on the whole an excellent one, is the work of Madame Natalia Macfarren, whose musical knowledge never fails to stand her in good stead when a musico-literary task has to be accomplished.

Coming to the general characteristics of the music, it is clear, first of all, that Herr Bruch has—whether consciously or unconsciously matters not—been influenced by Mendelssohn, who, in his illustrations of Sophocles, seems to have decided, once for all, what in modern art best represents the art of the ancient world. Mendelssohn, Herr Devrient tells us, first tried to directly imitate Greek music, as far as he knew anything about it, by the employment of certain instruments in a certain way, not needful here to describe. But he could not satisfy himself, and thereupon endeavoured, how successfully we all know, to convey an impression of the perfect, calm, and well-ordered beauty which the Greeks worshipped by the use of modern means in a modern fashion. The example thus set, Herr Bruch has followed, not slavishly, bien entendu, but so as to reproduce its spirit and emulate its effect. The task was of no ordinary character, since, as well as challenging comparison with Mendelssohn on his own ground, it required the highest possible imaginativeness, taste, and skill—a mastery, in short, of every resource to the production of the beautiful. But let us say without the smallest hesitation, that Herr Bruch has shown himself equal to his work; and not only so, but equal in the high sense which implies success without seeming effort. There are some composers, said to do great things, who achieve them, if at all, only through exceptional means, and whose works leave behind them a sense of wonder at the strangeness of the methods employed. This is not the case with Herr Bruch in the "Odysseus." His means are neither more nor less than those which the great masters used before him, while his method is so straightforward and intelligible as never to raise a doubt. Yet the result in nearly every case answers all requirements; and, on examination, we find this accounted for by substantial reasons. In the first place, Herr Bruch here shows the great gift of melodic inspiration. He can create a tune, and, what is more, adapt it to the sentiment or idea it illustrates. The tune may often be simple—there are a great many such in the "Odysseus"—but simplicity when combined with the requisite nature and degree of expression is an enormous advantage. This fact Herr Bruch, unlike so many of his contemporaries, sees with admirable clearness, and keeps constantly in view. In the next place the "Odysseus" shows a remarkable power of employing the modern orchestra to advantage. All the scenes are coloured with the skill of a master, no matter what their character whether it be that of a tempest at sea, of infernal terrors, or the tender melancholy of Penelope busy with warp and woof. In this respect the score is full of interest and well worthy of study. But the great merit of the work lies in the readiness with which the composer seizes, and the fidelity with which he conveys, the dramatic spirit of the various scenes. It is clear that he possesses no ordinary dramatic instinct. We see this everywhere, but more particularly in the intenser episodes of the story, as, for example, when Ulysses descends into Hades to seek advice from the infernal powers; in the scene of the tempest, which is wrought out with singular force; and in that of the return, with its subsequent festival. Here we are not only free from all suspicion of incongruity, but conscious that the musician and the poet are one in the bonds of a fit alliance, and that the result is eminently satisfying. It would be easy and very pleasant to go through the work number by number, but our purpose is not so much detailed criticism as the calling attention to music which deserves a place both in the knowledge and esteem of amateurs. Our hope is that the production of "Odysseus" at Manchester and Liverpool will bear good fruit, and especially that the music will soon be heard in London, where it should have long ago found a welcome.

The Liverpool performance must be spoken of in high terms, having regard to the novelty of the work in hand. Herr Bruch, who had a flattering reception, conducted with as much skill as connaissance de cause, and contributed no little to the success achieved. The band played unusually well; nor did the choir fail to meet the exceptional demands upon its powers, one or two instances excepted. Miss Mary Davies, Mdle. Redeker, Mr. Austin (a member of the chorus) Mr. Alsop, and Herr Henschel were the soloists, respecting whom it is hard to say anything but praise. Miss Davies sang all her music charmingly, and with a purity of style and bright intelligence that commended her without reserve to the good opinion of the amateurs present. Mdle. Redeker's efforts were somewhat marred by nervousness, but she acquitted herself like an artist all the same, while Herr Henschel, on whom devolved the titre-rôle showed to the full the exceptional powers which enabled him so soon to take a first place among us. The attendance was large; the reception of the work hearty, and the whole affair gave Liverpool reason to boast that its new musical season has already accomplished no mean thing.

THE Harvest Festival of the Church of St. James's, Curtain Road, Finsbury, was held on the 30th September. The music at the morning service was Monk in C, which was very fairly rendered. The processional hymn was No. 225, "Hymns Ancient and Modern," set to a new tune arranged for this service by Mr. E. Rumney Smith, the Choirmaster of the church. The general Confession was sung to Barnby's ferial arrangement. The versicles and responses were Goss's setting of Tallis, which were rendered with much precision. Special Psalms were sung from Helmore's "Psalter," the pointing of which was especially commendable. The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis were taken to a Service in F by Dr. Bunnett, accompanied by full orchestra, several of the harmonised verses being given without accompaniment. The effect produced by the first part of the Gloria Patri, being sung and played in unison by a body of voices and instruments, was very grand. The Anthem was by Dr. Stainer, entitled "Awake, awake, put on thy strength, O Zion." It commenced with a full chorus in B flat, succeeded by a semi-chorus in D, sung as a quartett, accompanied solely by stringed instruments; this was followed by a recitative for tenors and basses, accompanied by organ only, terminating with an allegro movement for the chorus and full orchestra. The hymns were 360, 136, 223, "Hymns Ancient and Modern," and the concluding processional, No. 359, was sung to a tune by Mr. Arthur H. Brown. These were heartily joined in by the vast congregation; the first cornet playing the melody throughout, the strings, reeds, &c., forming the accompaniment. At the end of the service the "Hallelujah Chorus" (Handel) was admirably performed by band and organ. The whole of the music used was arranged for the orchestra by Mr. E. Rumney Smith, upon whom their performance reflected great credit.

At a recent meeting of the Worcester Town Council, the Mayor (Mr. M. Jones) in the chair, Alderman J. R. Hill, M.P., moved the following resolution: "That this Council desire respectfully to express to the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church of Worcester the earnest wish of themselves and their fellow-citizens generally, in common with a very large proportion of the inhabitants of Worcestershire and the adjoining counties, that the Worcester Triennial Festival may be again held in the Worcester Cathedral, under such regulations and arrangements as may be deemed desirable for upholding the character of such Festivals as religious services of the most elevated type." Mr. Hill, in supporting this resolution, expressed a belief that such a resolution passed by the Council would be courteously received, and he suggested that all sore feeling should be repressed, and that bygones should be bygones. He thought that if the matter was taken up in that spirit, the Dean and Chapter might be induced to reconsider their determination. He believed all were very anxious that these services should partake of a religious character, and that on that point they might meet the Dean and Chapter on an equal footing. This resolution was adopted.

PROFESSOR MACFARREN'S speech to the students of the Royal Academy of Music, on the opening of the Institution after the summer vacation, was listened to with the deepest attention, not only by the pupils, but by many of the professors and others interested in the welfare of the Academy. In the course of his address the Professor dwelt especially upon the importance of "technical exercises," to which he said the students must give increasing and uncompromising attention; spoke with much emphasis upon the necessity of respecting the music of the elder masters; impressed upon vocalists the advantage of studying intently the words they sang, and concluded by saying that the real "music of the future" was in the hands of the pupils, all of whom he trusted would take every pains to unfold the talent with which nature had endowed them. At the conclusion of the address, Mr. Brinley Richards congratulated Professor Macfarren on the success of his Oratorio "Joseph," at the Leeds Festival; and after a few words from the Professor in reply, the proceedings terminated.

HARVEST Thanksgiving Services were celebrated in the Church of St. Mary, Haggerston, on Sunday, the 30th September. The morning service and communion service, consisting of a setting of the Te Deum, Benedictus, Kyrie, Gloria, Gratia, Credo, Offertory Sentences, Sursum corda, Sanctus, Pater noster, and Gloria in excelsis, were sung to a new Service, composed expressly for the choir of the church, by Mr. C. J. Frost, the Organist; and the Anthems were Goss's "I will magnify Thee, O Lord," and Barnby's "O Lord, how manifold," the processional being "Come, ye thankful people," and "Praise, O praise our God and King." In the evening the Service was Prout in F, and the Anthems were Frost's "When the Lord turned again the captivity of Zion," Goss's "Fear not, O land," Frost's "Thou visitest the earth," and Beethoven's "Hallelujah to the Father." The church was decorated for the occasion with fruits, flowers, vegetables, wheat, &c., and was crowded in every part. The members of the choir acquitted themselves in such a manner as to reflect great credit upon the Choirmaster.

THE Harvest Festival at Holy Trinity Church, Bessborough Gardens, was celebrated on the 14th ult., when the church was beautifully decorated with corn, fruit, and flowers. At the matins and choral celebration the principal features of the service were Sullivan's Te Deum and Jubilate in D; Anthem, "Fear not, O land" (Goss); and the communion service throughout, Garrett in D. The sermon was preached by the Rev. T. Rooke, M.A. At evensong the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis were sung to H. Gadsby's Festival setting in C; the Anthem, "God said, Behold, I have given you every herb" (Macfarren); and after the sermon, which was preached by the Venerable Archdeacon Hessey, D.C.L., the Te Deum was sung to Stephens's setting in C. The choir numbered forty-two voices, all members of Holy Trinity. The music throughout was particularly well rendered, much care being taken to observe all marks of expression; and great credit is due to the Organist and Choirmaster, Mr. Joseph Monday.

THE Harvest Festival at St. Peter's, Windmill Street, was held on the 7th ult. At the morning service Goss's Te Deum and Jubilate in A (unison), and the hymns, "As the sun doth daily rise," "Come, ye thankful people, come," "We plough the fields," and "Let us with a glad some mind" were sung; and in the evening Goss's Cantate and Deus in C (unison), Barnby's Anthem, "Lord, how manifold," and the hymns, "Come, ye thankful people" (as a procession), "Lord of the frost-bound winter," and "We plough the fields"—Goss's Te Deum in A being sung at the end of the service. The music was effectively rendered by the choir of the church, assisted by some friends, and numbering in all thirty voices. Mr. A. Dorey, the Organist, accompanied the services, and played as voluntaries after the evening service, "But the Lord is mindful" (Mendelssohn), Offertoire No. 4 (Wély), and "Hallelujah" (Handel). The church was appropriately decorated, and the services were well attended.

The twentieth season of the Monday Popular Concerts is announced to commence on Monday the 12th inst. During the series Madame Norman-Néruda, Herr Joachim, and Herr Straus will successively hold the post of first violin, Herr L. Ries that of second violin, Herr L. Straus or Mr. Zerbini will play viola, and Signor Piatti will be the first violoncellist, on all occasions except on Monday, the 28th January. The pianists will be Mdlle. Anna Mehlig, Miss Agnes Zimmermann, Mdlle. Ida Henry, Mdlle. Marie Krebs, Madame Haas, and Mr. Charles Hallé. Since the issue of the prospectus Herr Ignaz Brüll is also mentioned amongst the artists engaged. The names of Mr. Sims Reeves and Mr. Santley appear as vocalists, but the former is only announced as singing at one afternoon concert. We regret much to find that Madame Schumann, who has so identified herself with these concerts, will not be heard during the season, but presume that a sufficient reason exists for her non-appearance. Sir Julius Benedict and Mr. Zerbini will, as usual, officiate as accompanists.

MENDELSSOHN'S "Athalia," conducted by Mr. Thomas Garside, was performed by the St. George's Glee Union at the Monthly Concert, on Friday the 5th ult. The solos were well sung by Miss Bessie Spear, Miss White, and Madame Belval. The choruses, with one exception, were admirably rendered, and met with the hearty approval of the audience; the Lyrics were effectively read by the Rev. S. K. Tahourdin; Miss Ellen Bliss and Mr. Rushton Odell presided at the pianoforte, and Mr. W. Byrom at the harmonium. In a short first part, conducted by Mr. Joseph Monday, the choir sang with great taste some part-songs, and Madame Belval and Mr. Rushton Odell were the solo vocalists. Miss Caroline Lockwood, a pupil of Miss Ellen Bliss, gave a very creditable performance of an "Air with variations" (Beethoven), and Mendelssohn's Prelude and Fugue in E Minor was played by Mr. George F. Smith (R.A.M.) in a masterly manner.

A HARVEST Thanksgiving Service was held in the Church of St. Barnabas, Harvist Road, Falloway, on Thursday evening, the 4th ult. The service, which was fully choral, commenced with the Anthem, "O Lord, how manifold" (Barnby). The Psalms were lxx. civ. cl.; and the Cantate and Deus, Jackson in F. The Creed (for the first time in this church) was monotoned to organ accompaniment. Anthem, "Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem" (Hayes), hymn before sermon, "Come, ye thankful people" (Sir G. Elvey). After the sermon and during the collection, the hymn, "Lord of the harvest" (St. Werberg), was sung, the service concluding with "Hallelujah" (Handel). The music was well rendered, reflecting much credit on the Organist, Mr. W. T. Essex, who officiated at the organ. The decorations, consisting of wheat, fruit, flowers, &c., were tastefully arranged.

MADAME WORRELL-DUVAL'S Evening Concert took place at the Horns Assembly Rooms, Kennington, on Thursday the 18th ult., when she was assisted by Misses Mary Davies, Matilda Roby, and Emma Buer, Messrs. Stedman, Guy, Tinney, and Wadmore. Madame Worrell-Duval was most successful in "When the heart is young" (Dudley Buck), for which she obtained an encore. Miss Mary Davies in Randegger's "What are they to do," Mr. Henry Guy in "Good night, dear love" (J. Old), Mr. Stedman in "The anchor's weighed," and Mr. Wadmore in "Sulla poppa" were extremely well received. We cannot help expressing our regret that four artists advertised on the programme were absent, viz. Miss Annie Butterworth, Mr. Thurlay Beale, Signor Randegger, and Mr. Fountain Meen. Mr. James Turle Lee and Mr. John Harrison performed a Pianoforte Duet on Aïrs from Gounod's "Faust," and accompanied the songs with their usual ability.

THE following is the result of the recent examination for Musical Degrees at Oxford University:—Second Examination for Bachelors in Music: John Barratt, New College, and Tentercroft Street, Lincoln; Richard A. Boissier, Christ Church, and Penshurst, Kent; Thomas H. Collinson, New College, and North Road, Durham; Harry W. Harding, New College, and Enfield Villas, Sidmouth; John W. Hudson, New College, and Spring Bank, Hull; H. Walmisley Little, New College, and Bernard Street, Russell Square, W.C.; Henry T. Pringuer, New College, and The Glen, Redhill; Frank J. Sawyer, New College, and Lambeth Road, London; George F. Sims, St. John's College, and Holywell, Oxford. For the Degree of Doctor in Music: Haydn Keeton, New College, and Organist of Peterborough Cathedral; Walter H. Sangster, New College, and Cambridge Street, Hyde Park, London.

DURING the present month a series of high-class Concerts will be given at the Town Hall, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, in aid of the Infirmary, under the direction of Mr. W. Rea, who has kindly offered his services, together with those of his choir. "Elijah," the "Messiah," Dr. Armes's sacred Cantata, "Hezekiah" (composed expressly for these concerts), Henry Smart's Cantata, "The Bride of Dunkerron," and Rossini's "Stabat Mater," are announced for performance; and the miscellaneous concerts contain an excellent selection of standard compositions. Some of the most eminent vocalists are engaged, an efficient band has been provided (led by Mr. Pollitzer), Mr. T. Albion Anderson presides at the organ, and Mr. Walter Bache is the solo pianist. So laudable an undertaking deserves the warmest encouragement.

THE Choral and Orchestral Concerts announced for the season 1877-78 by the Glasgow Choral Union, will acquire additional interest from their being given in the new Halls. The inaugural concert (which will be a special one, under distinguished patronage) will be devoted to the "Messiah," an appropriate dedication performance of the new buildings to the cause of music. The series will consist of nine subscription concerts, three of which will be choral and six orchestral. During the season Mendelssohn's "Elijah," and Dr. Macfarren's Cantata, "The Lady of the Lake" (specially composed for these concerts), will be performed. The choir will consist exclusively of the members of the Union, conducted by Mr. H. A. Lambeth, and the orchestral concerts will be under the conductorship of Dr. Hans von Bülow. The inaugural concert takes place on the 13th inst.

HARVEST Thanksgiving Services were celebrated in the Church of St. Botolph, Bishopsgate, on Sunday, September 30, attended by very large congregations. The decorations, which were carried out under the immediate superintendence of the churchwardens, were in excellent taste, and the services, which were fully choral, were admirably rendered under the direction of Mr. Charles H. Rowcliffe, Choirmaster. The Anthem, "Fear not, O land" (Sir J. Goss), was sung in a very spirited manner, the bass solo being taken by Mr. Rowcliffe. After the sermons the harvest hymn, "O Lord of heaven, and earth, and sea," was sung; and the service in the evening was concluded with the "Hallelujah Chorus," in which the Organist, Mrs. Surman, well supported the choir.

THE prospectus of the forty-sixth season of the Sacred Harmonic Society promises no novelty, unless we may so term the "Mosè" of Rossini, which will be given shorn of much of the music which renders the work so attractive in a stage performance. Handel's "Judas Maccabæus," Dr. Crotch's "Palestine," Macfarren's "St. John the Baptist," and Costa's "Naaman" will be given during the season; but there is no mention of the "Resurrection" or "Joseph," both of which we should imagine of sufficient interest to engage the attention of an Association of such pretension as the Sacred Harmonic Society. We are glad to find that Herr Henschel is announced as one of the leading vocalists. The season commences on the 23rd inst., with Mendelssohn's "St. Paul."

THE Harvest Festival at St. Andrew Undershaft, Leadenhall Street, took place on Sunday the 7th ult., the church having been appropriately decorated with grapes, cereals, hops, and other agricultural trophies. The service was fully choral. The Te Deum was Attwood in F, and the Anthem, "God of light," from Haydn's "Seasons," was given with considerable vigour. In the evening the service was Garrett in F, and the Anthem "Fear not, O land" (Goss). The service concluded with a spirited rendering of Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus," in which the excellent playing of Mrs. E. Stirling Bridge, the Organist, was a noteworthy feature. Mr. Leigh Faulkner was the Choir-master. Both services were for the benefit of the Indian Famine Relief Fund.

THE Royal Albert Hall Choral Society announces a series of ten Oratorio Concerts during the ensuing season, under the able conductorship of Mr. Barnby, the following being a list of the works to be performed: Handel's "Messiah" and "Israel in Egypt," Mendelssohn's "Elijah" and "Hymn of Praise," Rossini's "Stabat Mater," Verdi's "Requiem," Sullivan's "Light of the World," and Macfarren's "St. John the Baptist." Engagements have already been made, or are now in progress, with Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Mrs. Osgood, Miss Anna Williams, Madame Patey, Madame Antoinette Sterling, Mr. Sims Reeves, Mr. Vernon Rigby, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. Santley, Herr Henschel, and Signor Foli. The first concert will take place on the 22nd inst.

By the report of the Leeds Festival Committee, we find that, although the receipts exceeded those of 1874 by £238 6s. 8d., the expenditure was so large that the balance to be handed over to the local medical charities will not be more than £879 6s. 8d. Although we may regret that there should be any diminution of the £1,000 which was realised for charitable distribution in 1874, there can be no doubt that the increased efficiency in every department of band and choir at the Festival just concluded will so firmly establish the reputation of these meetings that we may anticipate with confidence the brightest results in the future.

THE sixty-eighth monthly Concert of the Grosvenor Choral Society was given at the Grosvenor Hall, Buckingham Palace Road, on the 19th ult. The prominent work in the programme was a new pastoral Cantata, "The Golden Harvest," by the Conductor of the Society, Mr. J. G. Callcott. In the rendering of this work, and in other choral compositions, the members of the Society greatly distinguished themselves. Mr. S. Dean Grimson was leader of the band. Miss Marie Odell played the piano-forte part of Beethoven's Choral Fantasia in a careful and artistic manner.

THE prospectus of the Edinburgh Choral Union, for the season 1877-78, announces that Benedict's "St. Peter," and Handel's "Messiah," will be performed by the members of the Union, conducted by Mr. Adam Hamilton; and that the Orchestral Concerts, which will include a highly attractive selection of classical works, will be conducted by Dr. Hans von Bülow. Several eminent vocalists are engaged, Dr. von Bülow being the solo pianist, and Mr. Henry Hartley presiding at the organ. The season commences on the 12th inst., with Benedict's Oratorio "St. Peter."

At the Harvest Festival at Christ Church, Westminster Road, on the 10th ult., the service included Tallis's Festival Responses, Macfarren's Anthem, "God said, Behold, I have given you every herb;" and a new Festival setting of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, by Mr. F. G. Edwards, the Organist and Director of the choir. The whole of the music was rendered with remarkable precision by the voluntary choir of the church, numbering fifty voices. The Rev. Newman Hall preached to a congregation which completely filled every part of the vast edifice.

HARVEST Thanksgiving Services were celebrated at St. Mary's, Vincent Square, Westminster, on Sunday the 7th ult., when the music at matins included Garrett's Service in D, Barnby's Anthem, "O Lord, how manifold," and at the offertory the latter composer's "Blessed be the man." At evensong the Service was Dr. Stainer's in A, and the Anthem, Dr. Steggall's "Praised be the Lord." The music throughout was excellently rendered by the well-trained choir. The church was tastefully decorated, and attended by a large congregation.

A SUCCESSFUL Concert was given, under the direction of Mr. Stedman, on the 24th ult., at the Birkbeck Institution, the vocalists being Madame Worrell-Duval, Miss Saïdie Singleton, Madame Osborne Williams, Mr. Stedman, and Mr. George Fox. Violin, M. Victor Buziau; harmonium, Mr. H. M. Higgs; pianoforte, Mr. Osborne Williams and Mr. Henry Parker. The various items in the programme gave great satisfaction to a crowded and enthusiastic audience.

THE first of the series of Classical Musical Evenings, under the direction of Mr. J. S. Shedlock, took place at the Hall, Archer Street, on the 24th ult., before a large audience. The programme, which was selected chiefly from the works of Mendelssohn, gave much satisfaction. The vocalists were Miss Jessie Royd and Mr. Ranalow; instrumentalists, Herr Weiner, Herr Lutgen, Mr. E. H. Birch, and Mr. J. S. Shedlock.

LADY JENKINSON has forwarded us a copy of the address which she delivered to the students of the Royal Academy of Music, on her founding the Thalberg Scholarship in that Institution. As she is anxious to dispose of this appeal to the many admirers of Thalberg's playing, for the further benefit of the scholarship, we willingly give publicity to her intention, with our best wishes for her success in so laudable an undertaking.

MR. C. HARFORD LLOYD, Mus.B., Organist of Gloucester Cathedral, has been appointed to the Conductorship of the Gloucester Choral Society, vice Mr. John Hunt, resigned; Mr. Hunt, however, retaining his previous post of Choirmaster. The assistance of the Gloucester Orchestral Association has been secured for all the Society's concerts; and practice has commenced with Bach's "Christmas Oratorio" and Handel's "Solomon."

WE have much pleasure in calling attention to a highly finished portrait of the late Mdlle. Titens (lithographed and published by Maclure and Macdonald), in which the features and expression of the lamented vocalist have been most happily caught. As a souvenir of this accomplished artist, it should be possessed by all lovers not only of the lyrical drama, but of music itself.

WE believe that a series of monthly Orchestral Concerts on a large scale will take place in St. James's Hall next year, beginning in January or February, and lasting till the end of the season. The band will number ninety performers under Mr. Weist Hill, and the programmes will embrace, besides great standard works, an unusual proportion of unfamiliar compositions.

MR. HEATHCOTE LONG has presented the Royal Academy of Music with a prize of ten guineas for piano-forte playing, to be competed for by male students at the end of each academical year, in July.

THE Saturday Popular Organ Recitals at the Bow and Bromley Institute commenced on the 29th September, with a well-selected and highly attractive programme.

WE understand that the Council of Trinity College, London, have lately decided to throw open its higher musical examinations to women. The first examination under the new statutes will take place early next year.

MR. MAPLESON announces a short series of performances of Italian Opera at Her Majesty's Theatre, to commence on the 5th inst. There is also a rumour that this will be succeeded by a season of Operas in English.

BACH's Cantata, "My spirit was in heaviness," will be sung with orchestral accompaniment at St. Anne's Church, Soho, every Friday evening during Advent.

ERRATUM.—In our Special Correspondent's notice of the Leeds Festival, last month, he was made to speak of the "dogmatic" character of Dr. Macfarren's new oratorio. For "dogmatic" read "dramatic."

REVIEWS.

Beethoven's Leben, von Ludwig Nohl. 4 vols. Leipzig, 1867-77. [Ernst Julius Günther.]

To write a genuine art-biography is no easy matter. It requires on the part of its author a variety of qualities such as are rarely to be met with combined in one person. He should possess, and that in a high degree, the special capacities of the historian, the psychologist, and the antiquarian, and, above all, he should be himself an artist born. In attempting to solve this problem, he should not content himself with introducing his hero to the reader, during different stages of his career, in a series, so to speak, of photographic portraits; but, by living his life over again, as it were, he should be able to reproduce it before our eyes in a progressive picture at once plastic and sympathetic. Hence writing biography is in itself an art, as yet young and imperfectly understood; and hence also the fact that out of a multitude of so-called biographies of great artists but few may be selected as being worthy of the name. Dealing as we are in the present instance with the life of the mightiest musical genius which the world has ever seen, we are entitled to measure the work of him who would make himself the interpreter of such a life by the highest standard of excellence, to expect him to be endowed with all those rare qualities which we have found to be essential to the art-biographer.

Nor does Herr Nohl enter upon his task with a light heart, or insensible to the responsibilities attaching to it, and we can sympathise with him when, after concluding the first volume of his work, the author finds himself almost overwhelmed by the magnitude of his undertaking and the profusion of material by which his eager research had been rewarded. He says in his preface to the second volume, "In spite of the by no means limited sphere of my investigations, and notwithstanding also the earnest labour of several years, I should not have had the courage to present my work, as completed, to the public, had I not gradually, through the work itself, gained the conviction that at the present moment it is as impossible to write a thoroughly exhaustive biography of the master as it is to form, as yet, a conclusive opinion upon his importance as an artist." There can be no doubt as to the correctness of this conclusion, and in this sense, then, we must regard the four good-sized volumes into which Herr Nohl has nevertheless contrived to expand his "Life of Beethoven." Herr Nohl's ability as a music-historian is too well known to require special acknowledgment on our part. He is untiring in his research, judicious in sifting his material, ingenious in his combinations. Moreover, his fertility as a writer is unmatched, even in much-writing Germany; and it is in this fact, we venture to think, that the weak points in his armour may be traced. His "Life of Mozart," which preceded the opening volume of the present biography by some years, although a congenial work with a distinctive merit of its own, came yet with something like an anti-climax closely upon the publication of the masterly biography of the same composer from the pen of Otto Jahn. In the compilation of his "Beethoven" Herr Nohl had to encounter no such formidable rival. For, whatever may be the merits of such works on the life of the great master as those by Marx, Schindler, Lenz, Ullrich, and others, they are not to be compared, in comprehensiveness of design and original research, with the work now before us. The antagonist Herr Nohl ought to combat—and if he has tried to do so in this instance he has not succeeded—is a certain profuseness, or rather diffuseness, of style, which in a work of such intrinsic magnitude as the present ceases to be a mannerism and becomes a positive fault. Already in his "Mozart" this tendency to over-elaboration had been apparent; it has become considerably developed since in his "Beethoven." To quote but one example in illustration of our remarks. In the opening chapter of the book the author treats in twenty-one pages of the specific qualities of the Teutonic character, with especial regard to those tribes of the nation appertaining to the Lower Rhine (that part of the Fatherland where Beethoven was born), while on page 70 we arrive at an introduction to the great composer's more immediate ancestors. But, apart from this certainly somewhat unnecessarily lengthy introduction, the work suffers throughout by the author's constant aberrations from his theme in elaborate treatises on subjects which are but loosely connected with it, or in glowing descriptions of scenery, which may serve to attract the general reader, but which, in their volubility, only retard the literary development of a biography which, according to its author's own showing, it is as yet "impossible to exhaust." If we have one more fault to find, it is with a certain obtuseness of the author's individuality, as manifested in his æsthetic interpretation of the works of his hero, a characteristic which, however, he shares in common with a good many executive artists of the modern German school.

Having said so much in modification of our admiration of the laborious work which Herr Nohl has just completed, nothing but praise remains to be bestowed upon the great merits which otherwise it undoubtedly possesses. With an industry truly marvellous the author of "Beethoven's Leben" has collected the scattered materials to his biographical picture, and, by subjecting them to a criticism at once ingenious and exhaustive, has succeeded in correcting many erroneous views hitherto prevalent as to certain phases in the career of the great composer, in clearing up many doubtful points, and, finally, in adding a great deal which is entirely new and interesting. The limited space of our reviews does not permit us to enter in detail upon the contents of the volumes before us; nor would our readers be greatly assisted in forming an independent opinion on a work of such dimensions were we to offer a translation of some isolated extracts. We must confine ourselves to naming the headings of each of the four volumes into which the biography is divided. The first of these is entitled "Beethoven's Youth," and comprises the years 1770-1792, being subdivided into three books. In the second volume the author treats, again in three books, of "Beethoven's Manhood," which period is placed between the years 1793 and 1814. The third and fourth volumes really only form one, but are separately headed, namely—vol. iii., "The Last Twelve Years, 1815-1827," and vol. iiia. (oddly enough!), "The Last Twelve Years, 1823-1827" (sic). Interesting in the highest degree to the student, not only of Beethoven, but of art-history in general, are copious notes, references, and extracts, conveniently placed at the end of each volume by way of appendix, and which in themselves furnish the most conclusive evidence of the extent and thoroughness of Herr Nohl's preliminary research. The warm enthusiasm which the author displays in his analysis of the more important works of his hero, if it occasionally leads him to the employment of language somewhat hazy and mysterious, is nevertheless well calculated to impart to the mind of the reader a sense of the divine workings of genius; nor can we, after having perused it, lay the book aside without feeling that we have approached one step nearer in the sympathetic appreciation of the individuality of the great composer of whom it treats. If, nevertheless, we venture to question whether Herr Nohl's "Life of Beethoven" will be added to the very limited number of standard biographies which the world possesses of its great men; our opinion only coincides with the author's own modest estimation of the relative possibilities of his work. Several generations to come must yet join hands with the present before we can span that mighty oak which has produced such branches as the Symphony in C minor and the "Ninth."

Grundlage und Aufgabe des allgemeinen Patronat-Vereins, &c. Von Hans von Wolzogen. [Chemnitz: E. Schmeitzner; London: F. Wohlaue.]

THE author of this pamphlet is one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the cause of Herr Wagner, and of the "Society of Patrons" formed with the object of aiding the projected periodical performances at the National Theatre at Bayreuth. On some fifty pages Herr von Wolzogen gives an account of the reasons which have led to the formation of the Society in question, and points out its mission in the future. Those who take an interest in the progress of the Wagner movement in Germany ought to make themselves acquainted with the contents of this latest addition to the already voluminous Wagner literature, the net receipts of which will go to the general Bayreuth fund.

Novello's Music Primers. Edited by Dr. Stainer.
The Art of Pianoforte-playing. Ernst Pauer.
The Organ. John Stainer.
The Rudiments of Music. W. H. Cummings.
The Elements of the Beautiful in Music. Ernst Pauer.

[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE system of teaching music in all its branches has wonderfully improved within the last few years. Masters are no longer content to use manuals whose sole merit is that they cleverly avoid an explanation of difficulties; and, what is still better, pupils themselves demand a superior sort of lesson-book. Considering the immense number of pianoforte-tutors which already exist, it may be thought an entirely useless task to issue any more. But the merit of an educational work must be the test by which the necessity for its issue is to be determined. If it is absolutely without worth, the publisher as well as the author deserves blame for flooding the market with waste-paper. If, however, it shows great merit, no apology is needed for its publication, however large may be the array of its fore-runners. We do not think a better man could have been found to lay down the important first principles of pianoforte-playing than Ernst Pauer. As a skilful and brilliant performer he has long been recognised, and as a teacher it is generally admitted he has few, if any, rivals. It is evident from the first to the last page of the primer before us that the work contains the results of long experience and much thought, stated in concise and pleasant language. Higher praise than this it would be difficult to bestow. The arrangement of the matter is excellent. The pupil is told how to sit at the instrument, how to hold his hands, and why they should be so held. Then the process of touch is ingeniously analysed, and exercises are given both in the legato and staccato style. The chapter on technical execution is divided into the following heads: Scales, Shakes, Chords, Tremolo passages, Double notes, Octaves. An ample supply of exercises is given under each head. The scales, both major and minor, are given in octaves, thirds, sixths, and tenths. We were specially pleased to find the more modern form of the minor scales (that is, with the augmented second between the sixth and seventh, both in ascending and descending) written out in full and fingered (p. 30). If we mistake not, this will be a special boon to a large number of students. The exercises on the shake are admirable, and are interspersed with the most useful advice and hints. The subject of chords is subdivided into "firm chords" and "arpeggio chords," and illustrated by some half-dozen pages of apt quotations from the works of classical writers. After a few remarks on part-playing, ornaments and graces are exhaustively explained (pp. 61 and 69). The thoughtful advice given on the use of the pedals (p. 63) will be most valuable alike to teachers and pupils; the same may safely be said of the capital exposition of the true principles of fingering given on pp. 64 and 65. Among the hints on practising (p. 66) are many which we are tempted to quote, but where so much is well said on such a variety of useful and interesting subjects, as for example on "ordinary faults in a performance," "reading at sight," "classification of composers, their styles and schools," &c., we can only recommend our readers to spare our space by looking into the work for themselves. As an appendix, a delightful sketch of the history of the pianoforte is given, and also a copious vocabulary of musical terms. Probably the page devoted to "the order in which the sonatas of our classical masters should be studied" (p. 73), will be found one of the most useful sources of information in the primer. On the whole, we have seldom seen a more useful or cheaper work. It is capitally printed, and though large enough to stand on an ordinary pianoforte-desk, it is by no means cumbersome when held in the hand as a textbook for classes.

Dr. Stainer's Organ Primer is not only elementary, but contains information and advice which, if properly carried out, will greatly assist the student to become, if his natural abilities will allow, a performer of sound taste and of the highest mechanical excellence. Of course, it is to be expected that Dr. Stainer would direct his students towards the highest standard, and the following extracts from the preface will show the line on which the work is based: "There are two ways in which time may be devoted to the practice of a musical instrument. The first and most common is to avoid the difficulties which present themselves, and to be content with mastering just so much of the art of playing as will afford a little amusement; the other is to face at once the special difficulties of the instrument and persevere until they are surmounted. By the former a player cannot possibly rise above a very mediocre standard, and his performance will never receive higher praise than that of being called tolerable; but by the latter the highest excellence will be within reach, and the student will only be limited in its attainment by the amount of natural talents with which he may be endowed." We think Dr. Stainer may be credited at the outset with originality in his short sketch of the history of the organ. The first paragraph contains the pith of many subsequent pages, and deserves quotation. "The history of the organ is nothing more than a narrative of the efforts made by men to bring under the control of one performer a large number of instruments called flutes." The author then gives a number of interesting sketches from ancient sources, especially on page 11, where two organists who are playing on one instrument are looking reproachfully at the four blowers, who are actively engaged, and probably producing a very uneven supply of wind for the organ. We will pass over the pages which are taken up with the construction of the instrument and the history of many valuable improvements made in organ-building, but we have no doubt this part will be read with care and profit by many who, though good performers, have seen but little of the internal working of their instrument. A most useful chapter too is the one explaining the nature and peculiarities of the different stops and their proper combinations; also on the use and abuse of the swell pedal. But space will not permit us to dwell on this part of the work. Now for the practical part. Dr. Stainer expects his students to have a fair knowledge of the groundwork of piano-playing at the outset, and most teachers will see the advantage of this, for never has this fact been more necessary than at the present time, when so much music of the pianoforte character is played on the organ. Since the invention of the pneumatic valve the keys of the organ can be made as light as those of a pianoforte, and therefore it can no longer be urged that it is injurious to a pianist to practise on the organ. Indeed, it is quite the reverse; really fine piano-playing is now nearly identical with that of organ-playing. Now follows the method of striking the pedals, illustrated by instructive, though not too artistic, engravings, which show the student clearly how to obtain a good pedal "touch," and also a useful method for finding the required note, of course without looking for it. One of the most

ANTHEM FOR ADVENT AND GENERAL USE.

Isaiah li. 4—6.

ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)

Moderato.

VOICES.

ORGAN.
♩ = 116.
Gt. Diap.

TENORS AND BASSES. mf

Heark-en un-to me, my peo-ple; and give ear un-to me, O my na-tion;

for a law shall pro-ceed from me, and I will make my judgment to rest for a CHORUS. TREBLE.

CHORUS. ALTO. Heark-en un-to me, my peo-ple;

CHORUS. TENOR. (8ve. lower).

CHORUS. BASS. Heark-en un-to light of the peo-ple. Heark - - en un - to me, my

cres.

The score is written for voices, organ, and chorus. It begins with a 'Moderato' tempo marking. The organ part is in G major, using the Great Diapason register, with a tempo of 116 beats per minute. The vocal parts (Tenors and Basses) enter with the lyrics 'Heark-en un-to me, my peo-ple; and give ear un-to me, O my na-tion;'. The organ provides harmonic support. The chorus enters with the lyrics 'Heark-en un-to me, my peo-ple;'. The score continues with the lyrics 'for a law shall pro-ceed from me, and I will make my judgment to rest for a light of the peo-ple. Heark - - en un - to me, my'. The organ part includes a crescendo marking ('cres.').

and give ear un-to me, O my na-tion; for a law shall pro-ceed from me, and Hear-en un-to me, my na-tion; for a law shall proceed from me, and me, my peo-ple, O my na-tion; for a law shall proceed from me, and peo-ple; give ear un-to me, O my na-tion; for a law shall proceed from me, and

I will make my judg-ment to rest for a light, my judg-ment to rest for a

I will make my judg-ment to rest for a light, my judg-ment to rest for a

I will make my judg-ment to rest for a light, my judg-ment to rest for a

I will make my judg-ment to rest for a light, my judg-ment to rest for a light of the peo-ple. My right-eousness is near; my sal-va-tion is gone forth, light of the peo-ple.

light of the peo-ple.

light of the peo-ple.

and mine arms shall judge the peo - ple;

My righteousness is near; my sal - va - tion is gone

the isles . . . shall wait up-on the isles shall wait up-on the isles shall wait up-on forth, and mine arms shall judge the peo - ple; the isles shall wait up-on me, and on mine arm shall they trust. . . . Heark - en un-to me, and on mine arm shall they trust. . . . Heark - en un-to me, and on mine arm shall they trust. . . . Hearken un-to me, my me, and on mine arm shall they trust. . . . Hearken un-to me, my

Ped.

me, and give ear un-to me, give ear un-to me, O my na - tion;
 me, and give ear un-to me, give ear un-to me, O my na - tion;
 peo - ple; give ear un-to me, give ear un-to me, O my na - tion;
 peo - ple; give ear un-to me, give ear un-to me, O my na - tion; *Gt. Diap.
 & Flute.*
Sw.
Ped.

pp for a law shall pro-ceed from me, and I will make my pp for a law shall pro-ceed from me, and I will make my pp for a law shall pro-ceed from me, and I will make my pp for a law shall pro-ceed from me, and I will make my sempre pp rall.

 judg-ment to rest for a light of the peo - ple.
sempre pp rall.
 judg-ment to rest for a light of the peo - ple.
sempre pp rall.
 judg-ment to rest for a light of the peo - ple.
sempre pp rall.
 judg-ment to rest for a light of the peo - ple.
Sw.
pp rall.

Andante. TREBLES. Unison.

Andante. $\text{♩} = 80.$ Ch. Lift up your eyes to the heav'ns, and p Swell.

look up-on the earth be-neath, and look up-on the earth be - cres. dim. Ped.

BASS SOLO.

- neath. For the heav'n shall van- ish a - way like smoke, and the earth shall wax old as a gar - ment, and they that dwell there -

Sw. p Ch.

Sw.

- in shall die in like man-ner, shall die in like man - ner.

But my sal - va - tion shall be . . . for e - ver, shall be . . . for e - ver,

ALTO.

But my sal - va - tion shall be for e - ver, shall be for e - ver,

TENOR (Sve. lower).

But my sal - va - tion shall be for e - ver, shall be for e - ver,

BASS.

But my sal - va - tion shall be for e - ver, shall be for e - ver,

Allegro vivace. ♩ = 120.

f Gt.

Ped.

and my righ - teousness shall not be a - bo - lish - ed, shall not be . . a -

and my righ - teousness shall not be a - bo - lish - ed, shall not be a -

and my righ - teousness shall not be a - bo - lish - ed, shall not be . . a -

and my righ - teousness shall not be a - bo - lish - ed, shall not be . . a -

- bo - lish - ed. But my sal - va - tion shall be . . . for . . e - ver, shall

- bo - lish - ed. But my sal - va - tion shall be for e - ver, shall

- bo - lish - ed. But my sal - va - tion shall be for e - ver, for

- bo - lish - ed, But my sal - va - tion shall be for e - ver, shall be . . for e - ver, and my righ-teous-ness shall not be a - be for e - ver, and my righ-teous-ness shall not . . be a - e - ver, and my righ-teous-ness shall not be a - bo - - - lish'd, shall be for e - ver, and my righ-teous-ness

- bo - - - lish-ed, my righ - - - teous-ness shall . . . not be a -

- bo - lish - ed, my righ - - - teous - ness shall not be a - not be a - bo - lish'd, my righ - - - teous - ness shall not be a - shall not be a - bo - lish'd, my righ - - - teous-ness shall not

- bo - lish - ed, . . shall not be a - bo - lish - ed.

- bo - lish - ed, . . shall not be a - bo - lish - ed, my sal -

- bo - lish - ed, shall not be a - bo - lish - ed, my sal - va - tion shall be a - bo - lish'd, shall not be a - bo - lish - ed, my sal - va - tion shall be . . for e - ver, shall be for e - va - tion shall be . . for e - - - ver, shall be for e - be . . for e - ver, for e - - - ver, shall be for e - my sal - va - tion shall be . . for e - ver, for e -

- ver, for e - - - ver, for e - ver,
- ver, for e - - - ver, for e - ver,
- ver, for e - - - ver, for e - ver,
- ver, for e - - - ver, for e - ver,
for e - ver, for e - - - ver.
for e - ver, for e - - - ver.
for e - ver, for e - - - ver.
for e - ver, for e - - - ver.
for e - ver, for e - - - ver.

f

(8)

important distinctions in the arrangement of the primer is that the pupil is expected to practise pedalling with alternate toes for a considerable time before the heels are used; in fact, the heeling of the pedals is thrown back quite late in the book. This is an important feature, and will we think be appreciated by many. There is an abundance of exercises for the manuals as well as for the pedals, and all have some particular end in view. Then follow exercises for obtaining independence between hands and feet, and young organ-students of the present time may be congratulated upon having material, not only suitable to their digestive capacity, but also agreeable to their taste. These exercises are all in the form of duets or trios. Among those which are most helpful are some for the left hand and pedals. There is nothing original in the fingering for the execution of the legato style, but the exercises are good and sufficiently numerous. We have next some very useful hints as to the playing of chorals or hymn-tunes; and Bach's dignified and lovely harmonies will doubtless be enjoyed by many a lover of this most lovable style of music. We must be allowed to make a few quotations from the concluding remarks on expression: "The organ may be said to be deficient, as an instrument, in two respects: the player cannot vary his tone by the character or force of his touch (as on the pianoforte), nor can he glide from one note to another (as on the violin). It is evident therefore that the organist who wishes to play with proper expression of feeling is chiefly dependent on (1) the art of phrasing, (2) the contrast between legato and staccato style, (3) the use of the swell pedal, (4) the selection of the stops. The first and second of these sources of expression are but rarely mastered, they may indeed be looked upon as the test of the musicianship of an organist. To phrase properly a player must possess not only knowledge but taste; the intentions and meaning of a composer must first be duly appreciated intellectually, and then practically brought out, care being taken to avoid on the one hand a weak performance caused by an insufficiently broad outline, and on the other hand an exaggerated reading caused by bringing the peculiarities of the composer (or the composer and player mixed) into undue prominence. In the former case the attentive hearer traces too little of the spirit of the author; in the latter too much of the egotism of the player." Dr. Stainer's remarks on fugue-playing will carry great weight with them, and must be quoted here. "In playing fugues or other pieces not calling forth the minutest details of expression, care must be taken that the general rendering is broad and dignified. The grandeur or beauty of a fugue consists in the fact that it is constructed so as to be of constantly increasing interest from beginning to end. Several important considerations present themselves if this be borne in mind. First, the full power of the instrument should be judiciously reserved for the climax (probably the stretto); and, although the enunciation of the subject should not be soft or weak, enough power should be kept in hand to enable the player to add to the strength from time to time. It need hardly be pointed out that nothing but a most vicious taste could suggest the giving out of a fugue-subject on a Tuba mirabilis or any other 'fancy' stop. Next, it is certain that if the interest of the fugue is to go on increasing, the episodes (those portions of a fugue which do not actually include the working-out of the subject) must not be severed from the context by being played on a different manual, or with strongly contrasted quality of tone. The notion that a fugue is made more interesting by suddenly skipping from the great organ in order to play an episode on the swell manual (with much pumping) cannot be too strongly condemned. Thus to cut a slice out of the middle of the work completely destroys its unity of purpose. It sometimes may happen that the episodes require greater power and vigour of style to keep them up to the level of the fugue. Although these remarks apply to the majority of fugues, the reader is of course aware that there are many others of so calm and melodious a character as to require special treatment, such, for example, as the beautiful 'short' Fugue in E minor by Bach. Mendelssohn's Fugue in G major is by some organists brought to a pianissimo ending; in this and many other cases the student will have to exercise his judgment." We have now five short original pieces by the author of the Primer, intended to represent different styles of organ music. These pieces are most undoubtedly charming compositions, and good specimens of melodious contrapuntal writing. They will be frequently played by those who consider themselves not only students of, but professors on, the king of instruments. We hear many complaints of the secular style of voluntaries which are becoming so popular nowadays. Does it never strike these excellent people that real organ music is very scarce when compared with the quantity written for other instruments? And would not the author of the work under review be helping the good cause by assisting Mr. H. Smart and many others in their laudable exertions to supply good and moderately difficult music for the instrument which above all others is most intimately associated with divine worship? That this little book is a great acquisition there is not the slightest doubt, and its popularity is a foregone conclusion.

An attempt to teach the Rudiments of Music will prove to any one who undertakes it how difficult it often is to explain to others facts with which we are ourselves most familiar. When reading some of the innumerable explanations of musical notation, which are everywhere found, our sympathies are always entirely with the author in his efforts to make the system intelligible to beginners, but it must be generally admitted we too often feel that he has completely failed in carrying out his object. Mr. Cummings has, however, not laid himself open to a charge of this kind. He evidently possesses the unusual combination of sympathy with the doubts and difficulties of beginners, coupled with an excellent method of stating what he has to say in easy language. By making the nature and use of lines and spaces quite clear before placing any notes upon them, he has succeeded in halving the labour of teachers. It may strike us as strange that, in a Primer on the Rudiments of Music, we should get as far as the end of the fifteenth page without any mention whatever of a note; but, on consideration, we believe Mr. Cummings has insured the success of his teaching by adopting this course. As far as we can see, it would be impossible to place the principles of notation before children in a better form than he has here done. In chapter ii. he has most wisely given the German system of naming notes as well as the English and French; and teachers will find, if they only have the courage to adopt it, that their pupils will master it in half the time required for the nonsense-names now current. In chapter iii. the account of bars, accent, and beating of time is all that could be desired. Equally clear is our author in his explanation of time-signatures; and all musicians, whether teachers or not, will hope that he will "go in and win" in his attack on the absurd signs C and C♯. The musical illustrations of syncopation, ties, &c., in chapter v., make the account given thoroughly intelligible to the youngest child. In the matter of intervals (chapter vi.) the German and English systems have been ingeniously made to support and explain one another. Chapter vii. is devoted to scales and key signatures, and will be found as well written and lucid as the preceding portion. In the final chapter (viii.) all sorts of useful "odds and ends" are brought into order and explained. The work is very complete, and so well suited to young beginners that it is eminently calculated to supply a want very widely felt. A few interesting footnotes here and there prove that Mr. Cummings is as well up in the historical side of his subject as the practical.

To the reader who is an enthusiastic lover of music, Mr. Pauer's "Elements of the Beautiful in Music" will afford many hours of genuine pleasure. But the musical student who wants to be taught as well as to be pleased will find underlying this interesting and well-written treatise a deep current of genuine philosophical thought, which, if he will dig it out, will prove to be of the utmost value as an ingredient of his musical education. It has been said that the more you intellectualise art—that is, bring it into the realm of science by formulating its principles—the more will it lose its grasp on the feelings and emotions. There may be some truth in this; it is no doubt possible to so far sharpen our analytical powers as to learn to take more pleasure in the intellectual than the æsthetical side of art, and it will not be denied that such a result in the domain of music would be most undesirable. But still a trained musician has naturally and justly some contempt for those who only obtain emotional pleasure in music, who cannot give any reason why they like it, who like it only as they like the smell of a rose. This sort of appreciation of music is exemplified by those numerous ladies who at the Crystal Palace concerts are seen to knit half an anti-macassar during a Symphony by Beethoven or Schubert; the rapidity of their fingers almost suggesting that sundry pairs of kid gloves are dependent upon the result of a certain number of stitches being completed before the close of the last bar of the Coda. But there is a medium which, in this matter more than in any other, is entitled to be called a happy medium. Without ignoring the construction of a composition, the properly balanced mind will allow itself to revel in the less tangible realm of the emotional and ideal. Those who desire to have the pleasure of turning a lantern, as it were, into their own mind, and seeing displayed before them the processes by which a piece of music really gives them pleasure, will find in this Primer food for most interesting thought.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in A. Composed for the Festival of the Sion College Choral Union, by George C. Martin, Sub-Organist of St. Paul's Cathedral.

[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE Sub-Organist of St. Paul's, it may be remembered, created a very favourable impression by his admirable Evening Service in C, performed with full orchestral accompaniments on the last Dedication Festival in the Cathedral. Though different in design to that work, the composition now under notice exhibits the same freedom of writing and genuine appreciation of the full meaning of the words. The voice parts are by no means difficult, yet are full of melody; the organ part is well written and most effective. By the publication of this Service, one more is added to the list of excellent canticles for Festival use which Choral Associations are instrumental in producing. We shall be very much surprised if Mr. Martin does not take a high position as a Church composer; the evidences of his ability are indubitable.

It is a good thing to give thanks. Anthem composed for the Festival of the Sion College Choral Union, by Joseph Barnby, Precentor of Eton.

[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

A SUCCESSFUL rendering of this anthem will require a considerable amount of individual strength and independence of the voice parts, especially in the last movement. But, nevertheless, the work is well within the reach of Choral Unions, and no doubt will be highly appreciated by them. The opening movement is very bright and joyful; the second portion, "The righteous shall flourish," is smooth and most melodious, and stands out in good contrast to what has gone before. The final chorus opens with a very original subject, cleverly treated in the fugue style; this is followed by some very bold transitions, after which a fine pedal-point of sixteen bars leads admirably into a choral set to a doxology. By the introduction of breath-marks, Mr. Barnby has saved much labour at rehearsals, for which choirmasters will be grateful. There can be no doubt that this latest work of Mr. Barnby will do more than sustain his high reputation.

Alexander Balus. An Oratorio, composed in the year 1747, by G. F. Handel. Edited, and the Pianoforte accompaniment revised from that of the German Handel Society, by Ebenezer Prout. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE place of the English "Handel Society," by the exertions of which, many years ago, some of the most popular works of this composer were issued, seems likely to be supplied by Messrs. Novello; for, rather to create a taste than to supply a desire for his lesser known compositions, we are constantly receiving from this firm Oratorios which, although thoroughly representative of the style of Handel, have scarcely ever been heard of by the present generation. "Alexander Balus" was first performed at Covent Garden in 1748, and it is recorded that it was given three times; but the genius of the composer was so prolific that "Joshua," which was written in a month, was also played during the same season, so that it becomes difficult to say what amount of success was achieved on the production of many of his works. Dr. Chrysander mentions that after the first representation of "Alexander Balus," Handel made several alterations in the music; but Mr. Ebenezer Prout, in his preface to the edition before us, says that as these alterations seem to have been chiefly for the convenience of the singers, it has been thought advisable to give the work as far as possible in its original shape. The music in this Oratorio will surprise those who were previously unacquainted with the composition; for not only are many of the choruses extremely fine, but several of the solos are remarkable for purity of melody and applicability to the words. It is almost needless to say that the work is well edited and clearly printed.

The Flying Dutchman. A Romantic Opera, in Three Acts, composed by Richard Wagner. Edited by Berthold Tours. The English version by the Rev. J. Troutbeck. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

BUT a very short time ago it would have been hazardous to predict that "Der fliegende Holländer"—a work which was known to shadow forth what was absurdly termed the "music of the future"—would ever become popular in England. A certain amount of curiosity was felt by the few people who were present at the first representation of the Opera in this country at Drury Lane Theatre, when Mdlle. Irma di Murska played Senta and Mr. Santley the Dutchman, but the public had been well warned against admitting the theories of the revolutionary Wagner, and it was not likely that the fashionable frequenters of the Italian Opera would come and judge for themselves. When, however, Mr. Carl Rosa presented the "Flying Dutchman," translated into English, to a mixed audience, the attraction of the work was so great that seats were booked in advance for each performance, and money was actually turned from the doors nightly. From this time the music has been gradually making its way; and, notwithstanding the fact that Operas embodying the more matured theories of Wagner have been constantly played, the "Flying Dutchman" still maintains its position in public estimation. That this position will be materially strengthened by the issue of the excellent edition of the work now before us there can be no doubt; for the care and judgment which have been brought to bear upon the minutest details, by the translator of the words and the editor of the music, are apparent throughout. The indications of the score are so numerous as to convey a very good idea of the principal points of the instrumentation; and in every respect, both as a handbook at the Opera-house and an edition for the drawing-room, it will prove invaluable.

Music in the House. By John Hullah, LL.D. [Macmillan and Co.]

CERTAINLY the author of this elegant little volume has done a great deal to spread a knowledge of music both in and out of "the house;" and in continuation of this "Art at home" Series no person could have been better selected therefore to treat of the most intellectual and refining of those arts especially adaptable to the domestic circle. Dr. Hullah says that "for a hearing of the Oratorio, the Opera, the Orchestral Symphony, the out-of-door search is inevitable. Few even of our noblest dwellings have rooms wherein the executants of such works could be accommodated, or the perfect execution of them appreciated. But, given competent performers, the instrumental concerted piece, the pianoforte solo, the song not requiring orchestral accompaniment, can be better heard and is likely to be better understood in a drawing-room of average capacity than in a modern 'hall' calculated to give effect to the combined efforts of three or four hundred performers." This is of course very true; but to those whose means will not allow them to purchase expensive pictures a few well-executed engravings of original works recall most pleasurable recollections in a room; and on the same principle, in these days of cheap music, may we reproduce in our house miniature representations of those great compositions which have so frequently delighted us out of it. How often have we heard the very works mentioned by the author of this volume as unsuited for home representation given in a drawing-room, with merely a pianoforte accompaniment; and how much solid pleasure has been afforded, even to trained musicians, by such performances. In passing through this volume, we seem to be sitting by the side of a thoroughly accomplished artist, who is ready and willing to talk with us upon music in a manner we can all understand, and to sympathise with all the difficulties which stand in our way of introducing it in its most intellectual aspect into our homes. Without a tinge of pedantry, he gives us just enough of the history of the art as he finds necessary for his purpose; and if occasionally we are warned off attempting the practice of certain compositions, he furnishes us with a very sufficient reason for his advice. For instance, in speaking of the male "countertenor" voice, he frankly states that, although its compass is almost the same as that of the deep female voice, the "difference in quality of the two voices presents an impediment to their employment on the same music." Some "equal voice" glees, he says, have been recently rearranged with a view to their being sung by a mixed choir (soprano, contralto, tenor, and bass), but that "it must be admitted they lose much of their effect when so performed." Of course this fact shuts out from us many of the old glees, if we wish to sing them as their composers intended; but the modern "part-song" more than supplies us with an equivalent for their loss. As our author says, the real credit of the introduction of this fine species of composition "must be awarded to the Germans, who, in their 'war of liberation,' employed it as a potent means for raising and maintaining patriotic fervour. Weber's settings of Körner's lyrics are some amongst the earliest and best of these soul-stirring effusions. They are all for male voices, in 'close harmony,' the parts shoulder to shoulder, as those who sang them would have stood to receive a charge of cavalry; short, clear, outspoken utterances, and simple enough to be learnt by heart, and sung without books, on the march, or round the table." The number of such works, both for mixed and male choirs, has now so enormously multiplied that the most exacting and skilful body of amateur vocalists need be at no loss for material upon which to exercise their talents; and Dr. Hullah mentions many composers who have contributed largely the finest specimens of part-music suitable for our domestic libraries. We are glad to see the observations about what is termed the "paucity of contraltos." The real truth is that the ladies like to sing "first parts" without any reference to the quality of voice they may happen to possess; and, as our author says "to this day the performance of a contralto or 'second' part is regarded, how ignorantly and foolishly every musician knows, as requiring less skill than that of a soprano." In proof of this we recollect a young singer with a low voice who declared to us that she was "not going to sing second to anybody," and who consequently, when choral music was going on, either became a listener or attempted the execution of a part entirely out of her compass. There can be no question that the recent fashion of ladies studying instruments so long considered "unfeminine" will be the commencement of an entire revolution in the performance of music "in the house." "There is an Oxford tradition," says Dr. Hullah, "that at an amateur concert about the year 1827 the performance of the first male pianist that had been seen in that university was rewarded with a storm of hisses. The pianoforte was then regarded as essentially a woman's instrument." Here is undeniable proof that custom becomes a tyrant to intellectual progress; and it is the duty therefore of all ladies who can think for themselves to aid the movement now inaugurated, and show us that domestic instrumental music for stringed instruments can be cultivated to perfection in families without the aid of kind brothers or condescending male friends.

The Parochial Psalter, Pointed for Chanting. By Alexander S. Cooper. [Weekes and Co.]

THE title-page says that this Psalter is pointed "upon a new and simple system." We turn over two pages, and the author says in his preface "the work does not lay claim to any great originality or ingenuity." We confess that we are puzzled as to how these two statements can be harmonised. How can pointing be on a new system, and yet not be original? If it is not original it certainly cannot be new; and if it claims to be new, it clearly by doing so claims the credit of originality. Of the two statements, we think the one in the author's preface is the nearer to the truth. We have to blame Mr. Cooper for not being even less original than he is, because he directs a slight stress on the accented syllable of recitation, whereas the best authorities have long utterly condemned the emphasis as being neither required by words nor music. For example the stress is directed to be made in Psalm lxxviii. 9, on the last syllable of the word "faileth." Does Mr. Cooper seriously think a good reader would say, "My sight faileth?" or, to take a few examples, "Dost thou show wonders?" or, "The singers also, and trumpeters?" or "loving-kindness?"

A Dream. (Ein Traum.) For the Pianoforte; by Aug. Moosmair. [Simpson and Co.]

As the name of this composer is new to us, we regret that we have not made his acquaintance through the medium of a piece of somewhat higher class than that before us. They say that dreams are seldom worth relating, and it appears to us that Mr. Moosmair's musical vision is scarcely any exception to the rule. An exceedingly commonplace subject, with an accompaniment devoid of any novelty in character, such as we have presented to us in this "Dream," can hardly provoke any severely adverse criticism, especially as there is a gracefulness in the passages which must always command respect; and when we say, therefore, that the composition offends not by any violation of grammatical law, we have no doubt given as much praise as the author could possibly anticipate.

Un Moment de Joie. Souvenir pour Piano; par Felix Otto Dessoff. [W. G. Hallifax and Co.]

THIS graceful little sketch, marked "Allegretto con espressione," is scarcely perhaps sufficiently joyful to justify its title, but it is in every respect a thoroughly musician-like trifle. The opening theme appears to us a little too much harmonised, considering its simple character; but one great merit in the piece is that when the composer has said what he has to say he leaves off. We have so much over-elaboration in many of our "drawing-room" compositions that we gladly welcome a Bagatelle which does not profess to be anything else.

In our Boat. Song; with Violin or Violoncello and Pianoforte accompaniment. Poetry by Miss Muloch. Composed by A. C. Mackenzie. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

It is assuredly unusual to publish an accompaniment for a violin or violoncello, but Mr. Mackenzie has so carefully written this part for each instrument that it is difficult to say upon which it would be the more effective. The song is extremely melodious, and the accompaniment in good keeping with the character of the words, some points of imitation materially increasing the interest of the composition, without being unduly obtrusive. The violin or violoncello part, being completely independent of the pianoforte accompaniment, is of course essential to realise the design of the composer, but the song could be sung with the piano alone. As violins, however, are now becoming household instruments, we have no doubt that Mr. Mackenzie's charming little composition will be performed in many drawing-rooms in all its integrity; and should it find its way into sympathetic hands, we can safely guarantee its success.

Eyes so blue. Song. Words by O. H. Davies, B.A. Music by Ciro Pinsuti. [Ricordi.]

THIS is one of the most fascinating little vocal pieces we have yet seen from the pen of this composer, and if it do not at once achieve popularity there can be no room for compositions of grace, refinement, and musical feeling in the market. The effect of the tuneful subject with which the song opens is much aided by the light accompaniment which steals in after the vocal phrases, as if replying to the exclamation which gives the title to the composition. The change to the tonic major, with the arpeggio accompaniment for the first time, is of course a well-worn effect; but we can freely forgive any reminiscences which may here be called up by the critical listener, in consideration of the applicability of the music to the words. As a complete and well-considered drawing-room song, we conscientiously recommend "Eyes so blue" to the attention of vocalists.

FOREIGN NOTES.

THERE has been no lack of variety in the way of operatic performances during the past month at the French capital, which can boast so many excellent establishments for the purpose, and nearly all of which have now reopened their doors for the winter season. The following are the more important among the representations on record: at the Grand-Opéra, "Le Prophète," "La Reine de Chypre," "Les Huguenots," "Der Freischütz," "Faust," "Robert le Diable," at the Opéra-Comique, "Mignon," "La Dame Blanche," "Les Diamants de la Couronne," "Lalla Rookh," "Les Amoureux de Catherine;" at the Opéra-National-Lyrique, "Giralda," "Le Bravo," "Graziella," "Paul et Virginie." Of the works enumerated the only absolute novelty is "Graziella," performed, as already said, at the Lyrique, the directors of which theatre manifest a laudable zeal in the production of works by young composers. The author of the opera in question is Antony Choudens, and it is said to be gracefully written, although abounding in reminiscences of M. Gounod's melodies. In Victor Massé's already so popular "Paul et Virginie," the Lyrique has found a new interpreter of the rôle of Virginie in Mdlle. Marie Heilbronn, whose vocal and histrionic qualities are most favourably commented on by the French press. It will be seen from the above list of performances at the Grand-Opéra, that the works of the chief originator of that species of encyclopædian music-dramas known as Grand Opera, to wit Meyerbeer, have lost none of their popularity with the Parisians. For the last two or three months, moreover, the projected revival of the same master's "L'Africaine," with Mdlle. Krauss in the titre-rôle, has formed the chief topic of conversation in French musical circles. To judge by the preparations which are being made at the leading operatic stage of Paris, the whole mise-en-scène of the work is likely to prove exceptionally brilliant. M. Ch. Lamoureux has been nominated chef d'orchestre at the establishment in question. M. Gounod, whose latest known work, "Cinq-Mars," will shortly be reproduced, has added six numbers to the score of that opera, and, it is said, is now engaged upon the composition of a comic opera, entitled "Maitre Pierre," the words by MM. Poirson and Gallet, authors also of the libretto to "Cinq-Mars." The Théâtre-Italien will commence its new season on the 3rd inst. The personnel will include Mdlle. Albani and Signor Tamberlik, the latter being announced to make his appearance on the opening night in "Poliuto." Among concert institutions we notice the commencement on the 21st ult. of the excellent performances of the Concerts Populaires, under the direction of M. Padeloup; the programme on that occasion included Mendelssohn's Overture to "Ruy Blas," Beethoven's Symphony in C minor, and Saint-Saëns's Poème Symphonique, "La Jeunesse d'Hercule." Opening performances of the Châtelet and Saint-Cécile Concerts have likewise recently taken place, the latter under the leadership of M. Léon Martin. During the forthcoming International Exhibition in the French capital M. Gounod's "Polyeucte," of which mention has already been made in these columns, will, after all, most likely be the chief novelty in the operatic section of that undertaking. M. Thomas's "Françoise de Rimini" having been withdrawn. M. Verdi has been nominated by the Italian Government a Member of the Italian Commission for the Exhibition in question. An ingress en masse into Paris is contemplated on the part of the members of the orchestra of the Vienna Opera, who will give a series of performances during the proposed international competition.

L'Art Musical writes: "Mdlle. Titiens, whom the English public adored, was once heard at the Opéra in Paris in 'Les Huguenots.' She was applauded, but without enthusiasm, notwithstanding her talent and her fine voice."

Mdlle. Christine Nilsson, says Le Ménestrel, has been spending some days in Paris before starting on her journey to St. Petersburg, where, in spite of the events in the Orient, she has been engaged to sing at the price of 7,000 francs for each night of her appearance. The celebrated vocalist will also be heard at the Imperial Opera at Vienna during the present season.

Two operatic stars of recent fame have lately met with most enthusiastic receptions, viz. Mdlle. Gerster-Gardini in "La Sonnambula" at the Imperial Opera at St. Petersburg, and Mdlle. Minnie Hauck as Violetta in "La Traviata" at the Théâtre de la Monnaie at Bruxelles.

The first performances, both at Berlin and Vienna, of Ignaz Brüll's new Opera "Der Landfriede," appear to have decided the success of the work, which is pronounced by the entire musical press as being infinitely above the ordinary run of novelties in comic opera. Herr Hanslick, the able critic of the Vienna Neue Freie Presse, in speaking of the events says, inter alia, "Since the appearance of Lortzing's Operas, then of Flotow's 'Martha,' and Nicolai's 'Merry Wives of Windsor,' that is, during nearly thirty years, only two comic Operas of German origin have, as a matter of fact, met with genuine and universal approbation, namely, 'The Taming of the Shrew,' by Herman Götz, and Brüll's 'Goldenes Kreuz.' . . . As in the latter work, so also in 'Der Landfriede,' we have to admire the distinctively German character of the music, leaning towards Schubert, Weber, Kreutzer, and Lortzing, and occasionally reminding one also of the specifically 'German' element so characteristically introduced by Wagner in his 'Meistersinger.'"

An idea which might with advantage be more generally adopted by operatic managers, in so far as their establishments lay claim to the name of art institutions, is about to be carried out by the directors of the Court Theatre at Cassel. It consists of the performance, during the winter, of a series of Operas, comprising, in chronological succession, the period from Gluck to Richard Wagner, and including, in seventeen representations, works by Gluck, Dittersdorf, Mozart, Winter, Weigl, Beethoven, Spohr, Weber, Marschner, Kreutzer, Meyerbeer, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Lortzing, Schumann, Nicolai, Flotow, and Wagner. It may be inferred from this that it is the development of German Opera in particular which the directors of the Cassel Theatre have in view. The respective performances will be supplemented by brief historical commentaries, to be distributed among the audience. All honour to the authorities of the Court Theatre at Cassel!

The first performance of Heinrich Hofman's Opera "Armin" took place at Dresden on the 14th ult. The new work of the gifted composer achieved a genuine success.

At Leipzig, the new season of the Gewandhaus Concerts was inaugurated on the 11th ult. The excellent Euterpe Concerts have likewise recommenced, Mdlle. Marie Krebs having been the pianist on the first evening, when Chopin's Concerto in F minor, Schumann's Symphony in D minor, and Saint-Saëns's "La Jeunesse d'Hercule" formed the chief features of the programme. The work of the young French composer just mentioned is now making the round of German concert-rooms, and is generally well received, although a critic of the old school ventures to call it "an orchestral monstrosity, after the manner of Liszt's symphonic poems," being, of course, promptly hooted for his ignorant Philistinism by the votaries of the modern school. M. Camille Saint-Saëns has, it is said, made arrangements, in his capacity of pianist, for a concert tour in Germany.

The Musical Society at Cologne gave a Concert on the 13th ult. in memoriam of the late Julius Rietz, the programme including the deceased musician's Symphony in E major (No. 3), three pieces for the pianoforte, and some of his vocal compositions.

The hundredth performance of Wagner's Opera "Lohengrin" was recorded lately at the Court Theatre of Dresden.

We are asked to correct a statement, contained in our last number, as to the participation of Herr Brahms in the completion of a posthumous opera by Hermann Götz, entitled "Francesca da Rimini," recently performed at Mannheim. The preparation of the work for stage representation has been entirely owing to the zeal and the skill of the Conductor, Herr Frank.

Herr Joachim Raff, the well-known German composer, has been formally initiated into his functions as Director of the newly founded Conservatorium of Music at Frankfort.

The library of the late General-Musikdirector, Dr. Julius Rietz, containing many art-treasures, autographs, &c., has been purchased in its entirety by the King of Saxony, to be incorporated with the State collections.

Four Masses (as yet unpublished) by Palestrina, as well as some autographs from the pen of Johann Sebastian Bach, have lately been discovered in a convent at Graz.

Anton Rubinstein's latest operatic work, "Nero," has been translated into the Russian language, its representation at St. Petersburg being, however, a doubtful question for the present, considering the utter disregard for musico-dramatic economy displayed on the part of its author. One of the difficulties to be met with by operatic impresarios is to find the three tenors to whom parts are assigned in M. Rubinstein's opera.

Madame Adelina Patti will give a series of operatic impersonations during the present month at the Scala in Milan. Madame Pauline Lucca will enter upon her engagement with the Theater an-der-Wien at the beginning of this month, where she will continue until May next.

The following celebrities will appear during this winter in concert-performances at the Austrian capital, namely, Joachim, Auer, Sauret (violin), Davidoff (violoncello), Brassin, and Arabella Goddard (piano).

It is stated that Vieuxtemps will again assume the functions of Professor at the Bruxelles Conservatoire, in the room of Wieniawsky, who has tendered his resignation.

At the Vienna Conservatorium no less than forty-two new pupils of the name of "Cohn" have, according to the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik, applied this year for admission, and in commemoration of the fact—the journal quoted wittily remarks—the directors have elected that the institution shall in future be known by the name of Cohnservatorium.

Emil Seiffert, the editor of the journal Seiffert's Kunst-kritik, published at New York, is just now conducting a series of Promenade Concerts at Brooklyn (U.S.).

Dr. F. L. Ritter, professor at Vassar College, New York, and author of a "History of Music in America," has in course of preparation a "History of Music in England," which will be divided into three books, the first and second carrying on the subject "from the introduction of Christianity into England to the death of Purcell, 1695," the third treating separately of "English Church Music, regarded from an historical and critical point of view."

The death is announced, on the 4th ult., of the famous dramatic author Eduard Devrient, which took place at Carlsruhe. Born at Berlin in 1801, he commenced his career as opera-singer and actor, and afterwards became, for a time, Director of the Berlin Hof-Theater. His principal work is his "History of German Dramatic Art." He was also the author of several opera-texts and adaptations for the lyrical stage.

At Colmar died, last month, Madame Margarethe Stockhausen, mother of Julius and Franz Stockhausen, of whom the former is the great baritone and professor at Berlin, the latter Director of the Conservatoire at Strassburg. During the years 1830-44 Madame Stockhausen was very popular with the English public as a concert singer, being associated with other celebrities of the period, such as Malibran, Caradori Allan, Clara Novello, Grisi, and Persiani.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE USE OF ACCIDENTALS IN MUSIC.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Will you allow me, through the medium of your valuable and widely circulated paper, to call the attention of all musicians, composers, publishers, &c. to the present very unsatisfactory state of the use of accidentals in music. One would naturally suppose that ere this some rule would have been adopted and adhered to; but in practice I find that every one uses accidentals as he thinks proper. I have found rules printed on the subject, but they are generally so indefinitely worded that they may be interpreted different ways, each interpretation being correct. For example, one rule says, "Accidentals only affect the notes which they immediately precede, and those of the same letter which follow them in the same bar." This is quite right; but some writers of music only notice the first half of the rule, and ignore the second, writing a bar A as B. Another rule says, "Accidentals affect all notes of the same name throughout that bar only in which they appear." Notice that this rule does not say that accidentals affect all subsequent notes of the same name, but all notes in that bar; therefore a bar written as C would be performed as D. Again, with regard to the influence of an accidental beyond the bar in which it appears. A Mus. Doc. who has departed from this life wrote this rule: "But if one bar ends, and the next begins, with the same note, the accidental which alters the first note is understood to affect the second." That is, the passage E would be performed as F; but if in the second bar a second note B comes, as in G, will the second B be flat or natural? Firstly, by the rule just quoted, it is argued that the second B is natural, and to make it flat it must be printed as H. Secondly, it is argued that since the first note in the second bar is flat, therefore the next B is flat also, without printing a flat before it. Here we see how differences begin to arise. In the passage H, would it be any more trouble to print the flat before the first note, thus setting the point about the second note at rest? Again, a living Mus. Doc. writes this rule: "If the last note of one bar and the first note of the next bar are the same, then the accidental influences the next bar also." That is, the passage K will be performed as L.

But suppose another bar is added to K, as M, will the sixth and ninth notes be flat or natural? Firstly, by the rule just quoted, it is argued that the influence of the flat only extends to the fifth note; therefore the sixth and ninth are natural. Secondly, it is argued that since the fifth note is flat, being the last in the bar, therefore the sixth and ninth are flat. The same argument might be used if another bar were added. So we see that neither of the above rules is definite, but that they give rise to various modes of using accidentals. One will write a passage as N; another will write it as O, and another as

P. Passages are frequently seen where an accidental B flat may occur in a certain bar; then the note is not seen again for three, five, or ten bars; but when it does occur again a natural is placed in front of it, thus leaving one to infer that if the natural had not been placed there the note would have been performed as B flat, from the influence of the flat which occurred three, five, or ten bars previously.

Again, writers of music do not divide themselves into classes, one using this rule and another that; I think it will be almost impossible to find a composer who does not use at least two different methods of employing his accidentals. Every person in the musical profession may find for himself numerous illustrations of what I have referred to above, in both vocal and instrumental music. But, for the sake of example, let any one examine St. Peter, pp. 48, 126; St. Paul, pp. 24, 35, 50; Mozart's Twelfth Mass, pp. 21, 29, 30 (Novello's Octavo Editions). Now this very unsatisfactory state of things proceeds entirely from the want of a simple and definite rule about accidentals. Such a rule I wish to suggest, viz. "Accidentals affect the notes which they immediately precede, and all other notes of the same name which follow, in the same bar, and in the same staff in which they appear. Accidentals in no case exercise any influence beyond the bar in which they appear." This rule would make the whole subject very simple, and would entirely do away with two different ways of writing the same passage. I can only further urge every one who reads this to study the matter carefully; and for the sake of simplicity and unanimity to adopt the rule I have suggested.—I am, sir, yours obediently, A. R. SWAINE.

Parish Church, Bradford, October 22, 1877.

THE "STICKER ACTION" IN PIANOFORTES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—I have had considerable experience with all sorts of pianofortes, English and foreign, having been a dealer for many years. I cannot agree with the letter from Messrs. Challen and Son in the September number, that the tape action is the most useful for foreign and country use. I think their own remarks prove the contrary; they admit that damp affects all actions in the centres and bushing. Now we get five centres at least in the tape action to one in the sticker; in the tape all leather parts of course, and keys also, are equally liable to swell, the loss of touch and blocking becomes quite as bad, and much more difficult to regulate by ordinary tuners. The fact is pianoforte makers are not the best judges of how any particular action will wear, because they seldom see their instruments after they once leave the factory, and little know the trouble we have with some of them afterwards or their state in a few years. That is the time to test a piano, after it has had some years' wear. I have done this with all sorts of pianos by very many different makers, and I find the best kind of action to be depended upon is the old sticker action with "round nose" levers; the touch is not so perfect as the slanting lever at first, but it is more lasting, safer to trust to without fear of blocking, easier to regulate when wrong than the tape action, and cheaper at any time to renovate. There is another great objection to the crank action: as soon as it becomes loose and worn it is noisy everywhere, and you cannot stop it without a general repair. I maintain that the more centres you have in any action the more likely is it to be affected by damp or extreme heat, the more liable to get stiff, and on the other hand the more noisy from shrinking and the friction of so many small parts.

At present I know of nothing better than the sticker actions when well made, of good stuff, and properly regulated, unless it be the short actions of Erard, or Collard and Collard; these are first-rate, but, as we know, can only be used for expensive instruments—in the making of such these two great manufacturers have never been surpassed.

—I am, sir, yours faithfully,

ALFRED LEMARE.

44, High Street, Guildford, October 2, 1877.

[Our correspondent is surely in error in stating that pianoforte makers never see their instruments again after they leave their hands new. On the contrary, as they are often called upon to repair them, they have ample opportunities of finding how they have worn. Again, some makers let out their instruments on hire, and this is another source of valuable experience. It is a mistake to think that the crank action does not stand damp as well as the sticker action; the pianos that were sent on the recent Arctic Expedition in the Alert and Discovery were crank-action instruments of Broadwood's. They came back with strings completely rusted, yet we know, on dependable authority, that the actions were in good playing order; indeed, it is doubtful whether a sticker action would have stood so severe a trial with an equally satisfactory result. In closing this correspondence, with Mr. Lemare's letter, we must state our conviction that the sticker action, good as it has been, must ultimately yield to the more perfect crank action, which Messrs. Challen and Son have rightly credited the late Mr. Wornum with having invented.—Ed. MUSICAL TIMES.]

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will greatly oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all Subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music pages are always stereotyped, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

D. P. W.—(1) Zellner's treatise on the Harmonium is published by Schreiber (late Spina), of Vienna, and has not been translated into English. (2) We do not at this moment recollect an example of the combination you mention in a harmonium solo; but you will find a specimen in the first movement of E. Prout's Duet in A for Piano and Harmonium, where it occurs in an unaccompanied passage for the latter instrument. (3) The figure 5 in harmonium arrangements is used to indicate the voix céleste.

MUS. BAC.—The Licentiate wears a black hood lined with violet and trimmed with white fur; the gown is of black stuff or silk. The hood worn by Honorary Licentiates, and by such others as under the new regulations shall have taken Honours, is of violet lined with white silk. For further particulars our correspondent should apply to the Registrar of Trinity College, London, W.

T. T.—Cherubini's work on Counterpoint would be a suitable book, but if you find that too difficult we should recommend you to await the appearance of Dr. Bridge's "Counterpoint" (Novello's Music Primers), which will be published shortly.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this Summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

ASHBY-DE-LA-ZOUCH.—The vicar (Rev. J. Denton, M.A.) and choir of the Parish Church have presented Keble's "Christian Year," illustrated by Overbeck, together with an inkstand, to Mr. Whiteley, on his leaving for Kenilworth, in kind remembrance of his able services as Organist and Choirmaster during the last four years.

BELFAST.—The Choral Association gave its first grand Concert of the season in the Ulster Hall, on the 12th ult., before a large and thoroughly appreciative audience. The artists included Madame Sinico-Campobello, Mdle. Emma Howson, Madame Elena Franchi,

Mr. Shakespeare, Mr. Hilton, and Signor Campobello. The programme, which was miscellaneous, included many favourite songs, and some part-songs were well sung by the members of the Association. M. Niedzielski contributed a solo on the violin. Signor Romano accompanied the singers, and the selections for the Society were led by Mr. Newport with his accustomed ability.

BENHILTON, SUTTON, SURREY.—A Harvest Thanksgiving Service was held at All Saints' Church on the 4th ult. The choir, numbering about 100 voices, was assisted by the choirs of Epsom and Banstead. The service commenced with a processional, "Come, ye thankful." The Anthem for the occasion was Barnby's, "O Lord, how manifold," which was excellently rendered, as indeed was the whole service. The Psalms were sung to Turlin in D, and Mornington in E flat; the Canticles to Stainer; responses, Tallis. The whole was under the direction of Mr. Sharp, the Organist, who may be congratulated on a great success. There was a crowded congregation, and the offertory amounted to over £60, in aid of the Indian Famine Fund. On Sunday the 7th ult. the festival was continued, the chief feature being a Te Deum by Mr. Sharp, which was well performed. The Anthem in the evening was Jordan's "Fear not, O land."

BIRMINGHAM.—The first of Messrs. Harrison's Concerts for this season took place in the Town Hall on Wednesday the 3rd ult. The programme was miscellaneous, and consisted of popular songs, violin and piano solos, &c. The artists included Madame Edith Wynne, Madame Antoinette Sterling, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Lewis Thomas, vocalists; Mdlle. Pommereul, violin; Mr. Charles Ould, violoncello; and Mr. Thoulless, pianist and Conductor. Dr. Heap presided at the harmonium. On Thursday the 4th ult. the Festival Choral Society commenced its season with a performance of Eljah. The principal vocalists were Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Mdlle. Rose Sherrington, Madame Patey, Mr. Vernon Rigby, and Signor Foli. The ladies appeared in deep mourning, and the Dead March in Saul was played before the commencement of the Oratorio as a mark of respect to the late Mdlle. Titiens. The performance was very good, the accompaniments being well given by the orchestra. Mr. Stimpson presided at the organ, and Mr. Stockley conducted. The Hands-worth Philharmonic Society gave a Concert on Tuesday the 9th ult. The programme consisted of Sullivan's Prodigal Son and Gade's Erl-King's Daughter. Mr. C. J. Stevens conducted, and the accompaniments were played by Mrs. Hayward. A Concert of Chamber Music was given by the Committee of the Royal Society in the large Exhibition Room on Saturday afternoon, the 13th ult. An interesting programme was admirably performed. The novelty was Gade's Trio in F, Op. 42, for piano and strings, a work of great merit. Other items were Mendelssohn's Sonata in D, Op. 58 (piano and cello), and Schumann's Quintet in E flat, Op. 44. Solos for piano, violin, and violoncello were given, and vocal selections by Miss St. Clair Taylor. The instrumentalists were Misses F. Ward, T. M. Abbott, and S. Blythe, violin and viola; Herr Daubert, violoncello; and Mr. R. M. Winn, Mus. Bac., solo pianist and Conductor. On the 19th ult. Mr. Pyatt, of Nottingham, gave his annual Concert in the Town Hall. The artists were Madame Patti, Mr. Sims Reeves, and Mr. Santley, Mrs. Osgood, and Miss Orridge; Mr. Nicholson, flute; and Mr. Sidney Naylor, pianist. The programme was of a popular character, and gave great satisfaction, encores being frequent. A Concert of more than usual interest was given by Mr. Short in the Town Hall on Monday the 22nd ult. Cherubini's Requiem in C minor being introduced in Birmingham for the first time. A chorus of 150 voices, with organ accompaniment, gave a fairly effective rendering of this grand work. An introit, "Deus Israel," by Mr. Short, was afterwards given, and encores; and the Concert concluded with a good rendering of Schubert's Mass in F, the solos being sung by Miss Short, Mdlle. Leopold, Mr. Grayson, and Mr. Tuke. Mr. Stimpson accompanied, and Mr. Short conducted.

BOWES.—The annual Harvest Thanksgiving Service was held in the Church of St. Michael on Wednesday evening, the 10th ult. The chancel, pulpit, choir-stalls, font, and lectern had been very tastefully decorated by ladies of the congregation, with corn, fruit, roses, poppies, &c. The service, which was full choral, with Tallis's responses, opened with the hymn, "Come, ye thankful people, come." The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis were sung to a Service of Baptiste Calkin's in D. The Anthem was Barnby's "I will give thanks," the verse part, "The eyes of all wait," &c., and the chorale "Therefore unto Thee" being most effectively given. The hymn before the sermon was "O Lord of heaven and earth, and sea," to Dykes's tune. The service was brought to a close with Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus." The ordinary choir of the church had been augmented by that of St. Stephen's, Haggerston, and other London churches. The musical part of the service reflected great credit on the Organist, Mr. H. J. Baker, whose accompaniment throughout was much admired.

BRISTOL.—A series of Saturday Popular Vocal and Instrumental Concerts have been given in the Lesser Colston Hall during the past month. A band of forty performers, led by Mr. A. N. Naite and conducted by Mr. George Riseley, supplied the instrumental portion of the concerts. On the 6th ult. the programme included the Overtures Die Zauberflöte (Mozart) and Le Cenerentola (Rossini); Haydn's Clock Symphony in D, &c. Miss Ada Jackson was the vocalist. On the 13th ult. the programme contained, amongst other works, Romberg's Symphony in E flat and Mendelssohn's Concerto in G minor for pianoforte with orchestra. Mr. J. L. Roedel being the pianist. Mr. Lawford Huxtable was the vocalist. On the 20th ult. Mozart's Symphony No. 1, in C major, the Overtures Yelva (Reissiger) and Zampa (Hérold), with other equally good selections, were well played by the band. The vocalist was Miss Ada Jackson. The opening of the new nave of Bristol Cathedral on the 23rd ult. was celebrated by a series of special services on that day and the following. The Cathedral choir was reinforced by choristers from Westminster Abbey, the Chapel Royal, Windsor, and the Temple Church, London, and by gentlemen from the Cathedrals of Exeter, Wells, and Gloucester. The musical portions of the services were thoroughly up to the usual standard of excellence which characterises the English Cathedral service. The Services used were Wesley in E (morning) and Garrett in E flat (evening), and the Anthems were "The earth is the Lord's" (Spohr) in the morning, "The wilderness" (S. S. Wesley) and "The heavens are telling" (Haydn) in the evening. The music at the services on the 24th included Te Deum and Jubilate, Mendelssohn in A; Anthem, "How lovely is Thy dwelling-place" (Brahms); Magnificat and Nunc dimittis (Wesley in E); Anthems, "Blessing, glory, wisdom, and thanks" (J. S. Bach) and "Hallelujah" (Engeli, Beethoven).

BURY ST. EDMUNDS.—The Harvest Thanksgiving Festival Services were held at St. Mary's Church, on Sunday the 14th ult. In the morning Best's Service in D was finely rendered by the choir; and in the evening an Anthem composed for the occasion by the Organist, Mr. T. B. Richardson, and taken from Psalm lxxv, received full justice. After the evening service Mr. Richardson played, with admirable effect, "In splendour bright" and "The heavens are telling" from Haydn's Creation. The morning offertory, amounting to £46, was devoted to the Indian Famine Fund.

CLIFTON.—On the 9th ult. Mr. James C. Daniel gave two morning and evening Concerts, in connection with his winter entertainments, at the Victoria Rooms. The vocalists were Miss Robertson, Miss Fanny Robertson, Miss Ellen de Fonblanque, Mr. Henry Guy, and Mr. Wadmore. M. Albert contributed violoncello solos. The concerts were conducted by Signor Randegger. On the 18th ult. two other Concerts were given by Mr. J. C. Daniel at the Victoria Rooms, the vocalists being Madame Sinico-Campobello, Mdlle. Elena Franchi, Miss Emma Howson, Mr. W. Shakespeare, Mr. Hilton, and Signor Campobello. M. Niedzielski contributed some excellent violin solos, and Signor Romano ably conducted. On the 22nd ult. a performance of the Messiah was given at the Victoria Rooms, in aid of the Indian Famine Relief Fund. The principal artists were Miss Julia Wigan, Miss Farler, Mr. Harper Kearnott, and Mr. T. Brandon. The accompaniments were played by Mr. Owen Williams on the organ. The choruses were well rendered by a choir of 250 voices, conducted by Mr. Stanley Hatton.

COLNBROOK.—On Wednesday the 24th ult. a Soirée was held in the Public Rooms to celebrate the birthday of Mr. Richard Ratcliff, the Conductor of the Colnbrook Choral Class. The room was beautifully decorated with flowers. During the evening forty members of the class presented Mr. Ratcliff with a purse containing upwards of £5 as a slight token of their attachment to him.

COVENTRY.—On Thursday evening, the 4th ult., a special Harvest Thanksgiving Service was held in St. John the Baptist's Church. The principal items of the musical part of the service were processional hymn, No. 382, "Come, ye thankful people, come;" special Psalms, lxx. cxlii. cxliv.; Cantate Domino (J. F. Thorne); Deus misericorditer (Barnby); Anthem, "O Lord, how manifold" (Barnby); before sermon, Hymn 389, "What our Father does is well;" offertory hymn, No. 383, "We plough the fields and scatter," followed by "Benedicite omnia opera" to Hoyte's Chant Service in E flat. On the following Sunday the Thanksgiving Services were continued. The music used was introit, Hymn 107, "Glory be to Jesus;" Kyrie, eleison (J. F. Thorne in C), offertory sentences (W. H. Monk), Nicene creed, Sanctus, Gloria in excelsis (Marbeck); recessional, Nunc dimittis (Wesley's Unison Service in F). The members of the choir, under the direction of Mr. J. Finch Thorne, the Organist, acquitted themselves admirably.

DUBLIN.—Dr. Horton Allison conducted the first performance of his Oratorio, Prayer, in the Hall of Trinity College, on Friday the 19th ult., in the presence of Sir Robert Stewart, the University Professor of Music, and a very large and critical audience. The Cantata portions include ten numbers, preceded by an Overture scored for a full orchestra, which was remarkably well played by the band of the Italian Opera, Theatre Royal, Dublin, under the leadership of Mr. Leary. The vocal portion consists of a bass solo, "And when thou prayest," well sung by Mr. Oldham; a duet for soprano and tenor, "For they love to pray;" a double fugue for four-part chorus, "That they may be seen;" an air for bass solo, "Be made like unto them," with a violoncello obbligato; a quartet and chorus, "Our Father;" and an air for contralto, "Thy kingdom come."

DUNDEE.—The fifth Annual Festival of the Dundee Association of Church Choirs was held on the evening of Wednesday, 26th, and the morning of Thursday, 27th September. The evensong in St. Paul's Church (the Cathedral Church of the diocese of Brechin) was attended by an immense congregation. The three surplined choirs comprising the Association numbered nearly 100 voices, and about twenty-five of the clergy were present. The service commenced with a processional, "Forward! be our watchword," sung to one of Henry Smart's tunes. The responses (Tallis) were very effectively given. The three special Psalms appointed for the occasion were sung to Gregorians. An almost perfect rendering of the Anthem, Wesley's "Blessed be the God and Father," was given; and the soloist, Master White, fairly sustained the reputation of his master, Mr. Millar, of St. Salvador's. The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, composed for this festival by Mr. W. H. Richmond, and the only novelty introduced, was in every respect highly successful; two short verse-parts, sung by Master White and Messrs. Christopher, Milne, and Millar, being very effective. Of the four hymns the most successful was "Lead, kindly Light," sung to the tune by Barnby in the "Hymnary." At the commencement of the service Mr. Richmond played Baptiste's Grande Offertoire in D. The concluding voluntaries were Handel's "Zadok the Priest," and Scotsman Clark's Commemoration March, played as duets by Mr. Richmond and Mr. J. M. Smieton. The second service of the festival was held in St. Mary Magdalene's Church, and was fully choral. A. S. Cooper's Service in F was used; and an introit, "Like as the hart," post-communion, Nunc dimittis, to the Tonus Regius, in harmony, and four hymns were sung. Mr. Christopher, Sub-Organist at St. Paul's Cathedral Church, presided at the organ. The excellent singing of the choir was due in no small degree to the Rev. J.

Woodward, the painstaking and efficient Conductor and Precentor to the Association. The Bishop of Brechin preached the sermon at the evening service.

DUNHAM MASSEY, CHESHIRE.—The Harvest Thanksgiving held annually at St. Mark's Church, took place on the 14th ult. The church has lately been painted and cleaned throughout, and, added to this, the tasteful decorations of flowers, fruit, corn, ferns, and other choice plants gave to the structure an attractive and festive appearance. The afternoon service was very crowded, choral service being performed exclusively by the village church choir. Tallis's Responses, with Ely Confession, were used; and special Psalms were sung to chants—Robinson in E flat and Dr. Elvey in B flat. Appropriate harvest hymns and Bridgewater's Evening Service in A were performed with a precision and effect which reflected credit both on the members of the choir and the Organist and Choirmaster, Mr. Charles Theo. Bowland. The collections amounted to £20 13s. 9d.

EALING.—Harvest Thanksgiving Services were held in St. Mary's Church on Thursday the 18th and Sunday the 21st ult. The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis were sung to Ebdon in C. The Anthems were "O taste and see" (Sir John Goss) and one composed by the Organist and Choirmaster, Mr. Harold E. Stidolph, consisting of a chorus, "Be glad, O ye children of Zion," followed by a bass and tenor solo and duet, concluding with a chorus, "We will praise the Name of the Lord." The rendering of the whole of the music reflected credit on the labours of both choir and choirmaster. Mr. Stidolph played as the concluding voluntary Beethoven's "Hallelujah Chorus." The offertory, for the Indian Famine Fund, amounted to £34.

EDINBURGH.—A Ballad Concert was given, on the 1st ult., in the Music Hall, under the management of Mr. W. Pyatt, of Nottingham. The vocalists were Mrs. Osgood, Miss Orridge, Mr. Sims Reeves, and Mr. Santley. Mr. H. Nicholson, flautist, and Mr. S. Naylor, solo pianist and accompanist. The programme was miscellaneous, comprising many favourite pieces, all of which were excellently rendered.

EMLEY.—The annual Harvest Thanksgiving Services were held in the parish church on Sunday the 21st ult. The chancel, choir stalls, and altar were splendidly decorated with corn, fruit, flowers, &c. The services were fully choral. Tallis's Responses were used; the Canticles, in the morning, were sung to chants by Turle, Boyce, and Davy; and the Psalms to Dupuis. Special hymns for harvest were sung to tunes from "Hymns Ancient and Modern." The whole of the music was exceedingly well-rendered by the choir, and effectively accompanied by the Organist, Mr. J. W. Ibbotson. The evening Psalms were sung to chants by Dr. Woodward, Cooke, and Humphreys. Bridgewater's Evening Service was used, and the Anthem was by A. Lowe, "The earth is the Lord's." At the conclusion of the service Mr. Ibbotson played Beethoven's "Hallelujah" (Mount of Olives). The offertories, which amounted to £9 1s. 7d., were devoted to the Indian Famine Relief Fund.

ENNISKILLEN, IRELAND.—On Thursday the 4th ult. a Military Concert was given in the Town Hall, in aid of the Indian Famine Fund. The band of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers, under the direction of Herr Geeks, performed at intervals; and songs, duets, and trios were sung by Messrs. Arnold, Porter, and Black, Mrs. Bradford presiding at the piano. Diabelli's Duet in D for Piano was well played by Mr. Arnold and a pupil. Mr. Matthew Arnold conducted.

FOREST HILL.—A new organ, by Messrs. Gray and Davison, was opened at St. Saviour's Church on Thursday, 27th September, by Mr. C. Warwick Jordan, Mus. Bac., Oxon. At the service Mendelssohn's Ninety-fifth Psalm, "Come let us sing," was sung as the Anthem; and the Organ Recital consisted of selections from the works of Spohr, Haydn, Bach, and others. The recital gave great pleasure to the large congregation assembled on the occasion.

GILFORD, IRELAND.—The usual Harvest Thanksgiving Services were held in St. Paul's Church, on Thursday, the 18th ult. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with corn, fruit, flowers, &c. The service commenced by singing "Come, ye thankful people, come," to Elvey's fine tune, and the Psalms and Canticles were sung to Gregorian chants. The Anthem was "Praise ye the Lord" (specially composed for this service by the Organist), which was rendered by the church choir in a most praiseworthy manner. Mr. Charles Wilson, Organist of the church, presided at the organ, and played as voluntaries Batiste's Andante in E minor and Handel's "Hallelujah," with his usual ability. The offertory was given to the Indian Famine Fund.

HAVANT.—A successful Concert was given at the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, the 16th ult., for the benefit of Herr F. Kreyer, the Conductor of the Havant Choral Society and the Lymbourne Amateur Orchestra. The programme was well selected. Mr. John Bulbeck delighted the audience by his execution of a fantasia, "The last rose of summer" (Thalberg), and Mr. H. Cross, of Salisbury, was highly effective in "Honour and arms" (Handel). The chorus, "Ye mariners of England" and Schumann's part-song "Gipsy life" were well rendered by the Choral Society, each piece being received with considerable applause. Mr. H. Horner, the bandmaster of the 5th Hants Rifle Volunteers, played a Clarinet Fantasia on Scotch airs, which was efficiently accompanied by Miss Peck.

HOLBEACH HURN, LINCOLNSHIRE.—Harvest Services took place at St. Luke's Church on the 23rd ult. The rendering of the chants and hymns by the choir, under the conductorship of Mr. Thomas E. Leete, the Organist and Choirmaster, was very effective. There were good congregations at both services, and the collections (in aid of the Indian Famine Fund) amounted to nearly £7.

HUDDESFIELD.—A Pianoforte Recital was given in the Highfield Assembly Rooms, on Tuesday evening, the 9th ult., by Mr. William Dawson, of Liverpool. The piano was supplied by Mr. I. Moore, of Buxton Road, Huddersfield. The programme, which consisted of selections from the works of Chopin, Weber, Thalberg, Mendelssohn, Döhler, Henselt, Liszt, and the concert-giver, was rendered in a masterly manner, Mr. Dawson receiving great applause at the end of every piece.

LAUNCESTON, TASMANIA.—The Annual Meeting of the Members of the Musical Union was held in the Mechanics' Institute, on the 31st July, the Mayor, A. Harrap, Esq., President of the Society, in the chair. The report, read by the secretary, congratulated the members on the successful working of the Association for the previous nine months. A performance of St. Paul had been given by the Society at Deloraine; and it was proposed in the ensuing spring and summer to present at the same place Operas as well as Oratorios. A large quantity of music had already been ordered, and Sir Michael Costa's Oratorio, Naaman, was then in rehearsal.

LEWISHAM.—At the Harvest Festival held in St. Mark's Church on the 30th September, the services, morning and evening, were fully choral. The Te Deum was Goss in A, and the Communion Service Smart in F throughout. The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis were Gladstone in F, and the evening Anthem was "Fear not, O land" (Goss). The preachers were, in the morning the Rev. T. J. West (vicar), and in the evening the Rev. W. C. Miller (the curate). The offertory at each of the services was devoted to the Indian Famine Relief Fund, and the total amount realised was £100. The rendering of the services reflected much credit on the training of Mr. F. E. Gladstone, the Organist and Director of the choir.

LISKEARD.—A Harvest Thanksgiving Service was held in the Parish Church on Friday the 12th ult. The musical portion of the service comprised the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis (Dr. Dykes in F); Psalms lxxv. and cxlviii., to chants by Elvey and Garrett; Anthem, "The earth is the Lord's" (A. Lowe); hymns, "Come, ye thankful people, come," "We plough the fields and scatter," &c.; all of which were most satisfactorily rendered by the choir. Before the service the Organist, Mr. C. F. Hole, gave a recital which was highly appreciated by a large audience. The programme included Batiste's Andante in G, and selections from the works of Handel, Rossini, Meyerbeer, Viviani, Hainworth, and Wely.

LITTLEHAMPTON, SUSSEX.—Mr. J. Forbes Carter, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Mary's, gave his annual Concert on the 12th ult., when he was assisted by Miss Rumball, the Misses Osmond (of Chichester), the Rev. C. Rumball, Mr. Ramsay L'Amey, Mr. G. Neame, Mr. W. Osmond (Lay-Vicar of Chichester Cathedral), Mr. Shelley, and Mr. Dadsell (Organist of St. John's). The concert was a great success in every way. Mr. Carter was unanimously encored in many of his songs.

LIVERPOOL.—The Harvest Festival was celebrated on the 4th ult. at St. Margaret's Church, Prince's Road, with more than the usual elaboration, particularly as regards the musical portion of the service. In the evening the special feature was Handel's "Dettingen Te Deum," in which Mr. F. E. Barnes, who is a young man only known in Liverpool for about twelve months, displayed conspicuous ability as a Conductor. Handel's original score, with the addition of trombones, was rendered in a very admirable manner by a full band and exceedingly large choir, there being about thirty instrumentalists and about 150 male and female singers. The Rev. J. Bell Cox, incumbent of the church, conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. T. Elsdon and the Rev. H. Paine; and the sermon was preached by the Rev. J. C. Hordern, of Bury. The office hymn was "Almighty God, who from the Flood."

MANCHESTER.—On Friday evening, the 12th ult., Mr. Pyatt gave a Ballad Concert at the Free Trade Hall. The artists engaged were Madame Patti, Mrs. Osgood, Miss Orridge, Mr. Sims Reeves, and Mr. Santley; but in consequence of a severe cold Mr. Reeves was unable to appear. Madame Adelina Patti's singing of "Ernani involami," "Kathleen Mavourneen," Eckert's "Echo song," "Within a mile of Edinbro', town," and "Home, sweet home," perfectly enchanted the audience. Mr. Santley was in splendid voice, and sang the airs allotted to him in a faultless manner. Mrs. Osgood and Miss Orridge were also well received. Mr. Sidney Naylor presided at the piano, and Mr. Nicholson was solo flautist.

NEWPORT, MON.—An Organ Recital was given by Mr. G. Rogers on the grand organ at the Albert Hall, on Tuesday the 2nd ult. Miss Julia Jones was the vocalist, and sang with great success Levy's recitative and air "The child's letter to heaven," "Hush, ye pretty warbling choir," &c.

OMBERSLEY.—Harvest Thanksgiving Services were held on Sunday, September 30th, when the church was, as on former occasions, very tastefully decorated with garlands and festoons of different kinds of flowers entwined with hops, and a sheaf of wheat, barley, and oats, surrounded by some very fine fruits of various kinds. The service opened by the singing of Hymn 223, "Ancient and Modern." Tallis's Responses were used, with Jackson's Te Deum. The Anthem was from Psalm xxiii., "The Lord is my Shepherd" (G. A. Macfarren). The choir, which was augmented by some friends from Worcester, rendered the musical portion of the service in a very creditable manner, under Mr. Allies, the Organist. The prayers were read by the Rev. H. B. de Putron, late curate of the village, and the sermons were preached by the Rev. J. Garland, vicar of the parish. Collections were made for the Indian Famine Fund, the total amount being £33 7s.

OSWESTRY.—On Monday evening, the 15th ult., Mr. George Gaffe (F.C.O.), Organist of the Parish Church, gave the first of a series of Pianoforte Recitals, in the Victoria Rooms, before a select and highly appreciative audience. The programme included selections from the works of Bach, Rubinstein, Beethoven, Sterndale Bennett, Raff, and Thalberg.

PLUMTREE, NOTTINGHAM.—The Harvest Festival at St. Mary's Church took place on the 18th ult., when the church was tastefully decorated with specimens of the produce of field, orchard, and garden. The hymn, "Come, ye thankful people, come," was sung as a processional. The Preces and Responses (Barnby) were intoned by the Rev. W. I. Cruft, Organising Choirmaster for the Southwell District. Special Psalms were sung to Heywood's Chant in E flat, the Magnificat to Woodward in C, and the Nunc dimittis to Chipp in D. The Anthem, "The Lord hath done great things for us" (Smart), was followed by the hymn, "We plough the fields;" after which a sermon was preached by the Rev. S. Douglas, and £24 5s. 6d. was collected for the Indian Famine Relief Fund. Mr. J. Campbell was the Organist.

READING.—Mr. H. J. Hendy, Organist of Earley Church, gave his annual Concert in the new Victoria Hall on the 16th ult. The vocalists were Madame Osborne-Williams, Madame Worrell-Duval and a gleeparty, all of whom were highly successful. Mr. H. J. Hendy performed Mendelssohn's Rondo Brillante, Op. 22, for which he received well-merited applause. A small band, under the leadership of Mr. Hendy, senior, played an excellent selection from the compositions of Mozart, Corelli, and Rossini.

SCARBOROUGH.—The last of Dr. Naylor's popular Organ Performances for the present season, at All Saints' Church, took place on Saturday afternoon, the 13th ult. The programmes of the series of seven Recitals include a selection of nearly fifty high-class compositions for the instrument—the number of adaptations being remarkably few—by the greatest masters, living and dead. Amongst the latter we find Bach, Handel, and Mendelssohn especially represented; while of more modern composers the names of Spohr, Wesley, Best, Guilman, Wély, Sullivan, Thorne, Krebs, Merkel, Calkin, Archer, Smart, Saint-Saëns, Widor, and other eminent English and Continental organists are prominent in the list. The pleasure which Dr. Naylor has given to his large and appreciative audiences entitles him to their best thanks; and we believe that they look forward with pleasant anticipation to the next series of these musically instructive and elevating Recitals.

SHEFFIELD.—On the 12th ult., Mr. Charles Harvey gave the first of his series of Concerts for the present season in the Old Music Hall. The artists engaged—Miss Sophie M. Robertson, Miss Fanny Robertson, Miss Ellen de Fonblanque, Mr. Guy, and Mr. Wadmore as vocalists, and M. Albert and Signor Randegger as instrumentalists—gave much satisfaction. M. Albert's violoncello playing, and the accompaniments of Signor Randegger, added materially to the great success of the concert. The attendance was anything but satisfactory, and in no wise commensurate with the attractive programme provided.

STROUD.—Harvest Thanksgiving Services were held at St. Laurence's Church on Sunday, September 30th, and Tuesday the 2nd ult. The church, on Sunday, was befittingly adorned with the earnest of the divine bounty, and the service, which was choral, attracted large congregations. The music at the morning service included Dr. Stainer's Te Deum and Benedictus, and an Anthem, "Thou visitest the earth" (Dr. Greene). In the evening Smith's Anthem "The earth is the Lord's," and the "Hallelujah Chorus" (Handel), were admirably rendered by the choir. Powerful sermons were delivered, in the morning by the Rev. A. S. Page, and in the evening by the Rev. Canon Sheringham. On Tuesday the service was again fully choral, when some very choice music was excellently performed, reflecting the highest credit upon Mr. Chew, the Organist and Choirmaster. A very eloquent sermon was preached by the Rev. T. H. Tarlton, formerly Vicar of Stroud. The collections after the services of Sunday and Tuesday (which were in aid of the Indian Famine Relief Fund) amounted to £120.

WALTHAMSTOW.—The annual Concert of Mr. G. Bird took place at the Town Hall on the 23rd ult., and was well attended. The admirable playing of Mr. H. K. Bird was evidenced in his performance of Weber's Grand Sonata in D, "Melody" of Rubinstein, and other compositions. Mr. H. R. Bird also joined Herr Louis Ries in a performance of Rheinberger's Sonata, Op. 77. Mr. Henry Lahee and Mr. Bird gave a good rendering of Mendelssohn's Allegro Brillante on the pianoforte. The vocalists were Madame Worrell-Duval and Mr. Stedman, both of whom were highly successful.

WANDSWORTH (NEW).—The annual Harvest Thanksgiving Service was held on Friday the 5th ult., at St. Paul's Church, which was decorated with corn, flowers, fruit, &c. The musical portion of the service was excellently rendered by the choir, augmented by members of the choirs of St. Anne's, Wandsworth; All Saints', Wandsworth; Holy Trinity, Tooting; St. Mark's, Battersea; and Christ Church, Battersea. The service was fully choral, and commenced with the hymn "Come, ye thankful people, come" (St. George); Responses, Tallis's Festival; special Psalms, lxxv. and cl. (Monk and Ouseley); Cantate Domino and Deus miseratur (Goss in C); Anthem, "Give unto the Lord the glory" (Dr. Bridge); hymn before sermon, "We plough the fields and scatter" (Wir pflegen); after sermon, "Praise, O praise our God and King" (Monkland). Mr. C. W. Hanson, Organist and Director of the Choir, presided at the organ. The services were continued on the following Sunday, the music being Hopkins in G and Goss in C; Anthem, "O Lord, how manifold" (Barnby).

WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—A special service to celebrate the ingathering of the harvest was held at the Parish Church (St. John's) on the 27th September, at which the choirs of all the local churches, numbering nearly 150 voices, assisted. Mr. Arthur E. Crook presided at the organ.

WHITTINGTON.—The annual Thanksgiving Harvest Festival Service was held in the Parish Church, on Thursday, September 27th. The church was decorated with corn, fruit, evergreens, and flowers. The services were full choral. The prayers were intoned by the Rev. W. W. Dampier, of Brimington, in a very able manner. Tallis's Festival Responses were used, and Psalms cxxix. and cxxvii. were sung to a chant by Dr. Monk. Hopkins's Evening Service in F was selected for the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. The Anthem was composed by Mr. Thomas Armstrong, the Organist of the church, and was specially written for this service. Mr. Fred. Houlston, of New Whittington, who possesses a voice of great power and sweetness, gave an admirable rendering of the solo, and the whole of the Anthem was magnificently sung by the choir, their general efficiency throughout the service reflecting the greatest credit on the Choirmaster, Mr. G. W. Botham. Hymns 224 and 360 were sung, and after the sermon the "Hallelujah Chorus" was finely rendered. The sermon was preached by the Rev. R. Blackiston. Mr. Armstrong presided at the organ and accompanied the service, playing as voluntaries at the conclusion of the service, E. Batiste's Grande Offertoire in D (No. 5) and Scotson Clark's Festival March in C.

WINCHESTER.—Mr. Charles Gamblin gave the first of his Three Classical Chamber Concerts at the Guildhall on Monday the 22nd ult., assisted by Miss Helen Laing Meason (vocalist), Mr. Francis Ralph (violinist), Mr. Alexander C. Rowland (violinist) and Mr. A. Gurst (violinist). The programme, which was chiefly instrumental, included Mozart's Quartett in G minor; violin solo, "Romance in E major" (Wilhelmj), by Mr. Francis Ralph; duet for piano and cello, "Sonata in D major" (Mendelssohn), Messrs. Rowland and Guest; and Spohr's Quartett in G minor, for two violins, viola, and cello, which was played by Messrs. Ralph, Gamblin, Rowland, and Guest in a masterly manner.

WINDSOR.—A new concert-room has been built in this town by Messrs. Dyson and Sons. The building is small, but very compact, scientifically constructed, and exceeding suitable for what are termed "chamber concerts." It will seat comfortably 200 persons, and, with the addition of ante-rooms, might be made capable of holding another fifty. It was opened by two Concerts on the 8th ult., the room being crowded each time. Great disappointment prevailed in consequence of the non-appearance of Madame Sherrington (who was announced to sing, but declined on the score of the room being too small), and much sympathy was manifested for Messrs. Dyson and Sons, owing to the awkward and painful position in which they were placed. Mdlle. José Sherrington was highly effective in all her songs. Miss Dones was also very successful. Mr. Henry Pyatt gained great applause for his fine rendering of "Bonnie Dundee," and Mr. R. Hollins created a genuine enthusiasm by his singing of "Jessie, the flower of Dumblane." The Chevalier Lemmens's execution of several solos on the Mustel organ was much admired. On Tuesday the 16th ult. the winter session of the Literary Institute was opened by a Concert. Mr. Orlando Christian arranged an excellent programme of glees, part-songs, duets, and songs, which were rendered by Miss Knowles, Messrs. Darby, Mellor, Ogilwy, and Christian. The most noticeable of the part-songs, were "Spring's delights," "Banish, O maiden," and "Soldier's love." Miss Knowles and Miss Goring (an amateur) highly distinguished themselves by their singing, and received enthusiastic encores.

WORKINGHAM.—The Harvest Thanksgiving Services for the combined parishes of All Saints' and St. Paul's, were held in the church of the former parish on Tuesday, the 2nd ult. There were celebrations of the holy communion at 8 and 11 a.m., and a full choral evensong at 8 p.m. The lessons were read by the Rev. E. Sturges and the Rev. J. T. Brown; the Rev. J. F. Maul intoning the service. Hymn 382 was sung as the processional, and Hymn 379 as the recessional, the proper Psalms being taken to chants by Henley, Battisill, and Pelham Humphreys; and the Canticles to Wesley in F. The Anthem was the "Gloria," from Mozart's Twelfth Mass, which was sung with much steadiness. Mr. Arthur Godfray, Organist of All Saints', presided at the organ, and played as a concluding voluntary Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus."

WOLVERTON.—On Monday evening, the 15th ult., the Messiah was performed by the members of the Choral Society in the Science and Art Institute. The leading artists were Miss Jennie Franklin, Miss Pauline Featherby, Mr. John M. Hayden, of Salisbury Cathedral, and Mr. William Glave. The band and chorus numbered over seventy performers. Miss Franklin particularly distinguished herself in "I know that my Redeemer liveth;" and "He was despised" was well sung by Miss Featherby. Mr. Hayden was highly successful in "Thou shalt break them," and "The trumpet shall sound" was well rendered by Mr. Glave. The choruses were well given, especially "Lift up your heads," and the "Hallelujah." Mr. Noah Pratt, of London, conducted the Oratorio, and Miss Fanny Franklin, of Wolverton, presided at the harmonium.

WORCESTER.—The Philharmonic Society gave its second Concert of the present season at the Music Hall on the 5th ult., when Mendelssohn's Athalie and a selection from Oberon were performed before a very large audience. Miss Jessie Jones (soprano), Miss Emily Dones (contralto), and Mr. W. Dyson (tenor) were the soloists, and the Rev. R. Rodney Fowler undertook the reading portion of Athalie. The concert was most successful throughout, band, principals, and chorus giving great satisfaction. Especial mention must be made of the fine rendering of "Ocean, thou mighty monster" by Miss Jessie Jones, which was warmly applauded. Mr. W. Done conducted, as usual, and was ably supported by Mr. A. R. Quarterman.

[The notice of the St. George's Choral Union, Glasgow, which was forwarded last month, informed us that "the orchestra engaged for the concert on the 2nd January, 1878, is the one which is to be conducted by Dr. von Bülow." This sentence, we are now told, does not mean that Dr. von Bülow will have anything to do with it on the occasion mentioned, as the concert will be conducted by Mr. William Moodie. We hasten, therefore, to give the solution to an enigmatical paragraph which it appears we had guessed wrongly.—Ed. MUSICAL TIMES.]

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Henry Byolin to St. Mary's, Shrewsbury. —Mr. Whiteley, Organist and Choirmaster to St. John's Church, Kenilworth, Warwickshire. —Mr. C. Ingham to Trinity Congregational Church, Dingwall Road, Croydon. —Mr. W. H. Lee Davies to Stamford Hill Congregational Church, N.

CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Adolphus Phillips (Basso), to Lay-Clerkship of Magdalen College, Oxford. —Mr. Thomas Williams. (Alto) to St. Michael's College, Tenbury. —Mr. James Lewis (Alto) to St. Asaph's Cathedral. —Mr. Henry J. Dutton (Principal Alto) to St. Paul's Cathedral. —Mr. Edward Booth (Tenor) to St. Mary, Haggerston.

OBITUARY.

On the 27th September, at the College, Hereford, the Rev. JOHN GOSS, M.A., Vicar of St. John Baptist, and Custos of the College of Vicars Choral in Hereford Cathedral, aged 51.

On the 30th September, after intense suffering, WILLIAM HENSHAW, Esq., Mus. Doc., fifty years Organist of Durham Cathedral, aged 86. He survived his wife only three months.

On the 3rd ult., at her residence, 51, Finchley New Road, after many weeks of severe suffering, THERESA TITIENS, aged 46 years.

On the 4th ult., at Clifton Road, Camden Square, MARIA, wife of O. SVENDSEN, Esq.

On the 4th ult., at Novello Cottage, Worthing, EMMA CLARA, second and eldest surviving daughter of THOMAS JAMES and CECILIA SERLE, and granddaughter of VINCENT NOVELLO.

On the 12th ult., at Nastätten, Germany, suddenly, of heart disease, while on a visit, HEINRICH BASQUIT, late Bandmaster 33rd Regiment.

On the 18th ult., at Hastings, JOSEPH KIRKMAN, Esq., of Sunny Side, Gold Hawk Road, after a short illness, in his 88th year.

On the 26th ult., at 27, Lorne Gardens, Hanover Gate, in his 21st year, GEORGE, the only son of ADOLPHE POLLITZER.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

STAINER, DR.—The Organ. (Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers.) 2s.

CUMMINGS, W. H.—The Rudiments of Music. (Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers.) 1s.

PAUER, E.—The Elements of the Beautiful in Music. (Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers.) 1s.

CATHEDRAL PSALTER CHANTS.—Cloth, 3s.

GOSHAWK, F.—(In B flat) Te Deum. Vocal score, 8vo, 6d.

MILLER, C. E.—(In D) Morning, Communion, and Evening Service. 2s. 6d.; or singly: Te Deum, 6d.; Benedictus, 6d.; Kyrie, Credo, Sursum Corda, Sanctus and Gloria, 1s.; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis.

WALKER, REV. C.—S. Kenelm's Mass. An Easy Service for the Holy Communion, chiefly in Unison. Vocal score, 8vo, 1s.; or treble part, 4d.

WALMSLEY, T. A.—(In D minor) Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. Vocal score, 8vo, 4d.

ALEXANDER, A.—"Save me, O God." Full Anthem. Vocal score, 8vo, 6d.

—"SHOW ME THY WAYS." Full Anthem. Vocal score, 8vo, 6d.

BARNBY, JOSEPH.—"It is a good thing to give thanks." Anthem. Vocal score, 8vo, 6d.

POPHAM, Rev. V. W.—"While shepherds watched their flocks by night." Old Cornish carol for Christmas. 8vo, 2d.

WEBBER, T. N.—Six Hymn-tunes. 8vo, 6d.

ANDERSON, R.—Home Songs. No. 2, "The bonnie blink o' Mary's e'e." 8vo, 3d.

GILBERT, ALFRED.—A Singing Book for Public School and Choir Boys. Compiled expressly for use in St. Paul's (Dean Colet's) School, Merchant Taylors', and the Aldenham Grammar School, 6d.

DAVIS, GABRIEL.—"Sweet hour of rest." Part-song, 8vo, 2d.

JONES, H. H.—Harvest-Song, "The right good fellow." 8vo, 6d.

PEARSON, W. W.—"Departed Joys." Part-song, S.A.T.B. 8vo, 2d.

BERRY, Mrs. E., and Madame MICHAELIS.—Kindergarten Songs and Games. Second Series. Paper covers, 1s.; cloth, 2s.

ELLIOTT, J. W.—Sixty Voluntaries. Arranged for the Harmonium. 1s.

SHINN, G.—Six Transcriptions for the Organ, with Pédal Obligato. 2s. 6d.

OUSELEY, Rev. Sir F.—Sonata for the Organ. Composed for the opening of the new Organ in the Sheldonian Theatre at Oxford. 2s.

WESLEY, Dr. S. S.—Andante (in E minor) for the Organ. 2s.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC, Tenterden Street, Hanover Square.—Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER AND CO. propose to found a FREE SCHOLARSHIP in the above Institution, to which will be competed for at Christmas. For particulars apply to the Secretary.

NATIONAL TRAINING SCHOOL FOR MUSIC, Kensington Gore.—Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER AND CO. propose to found a FREE SCHOLARSHIP in the above Institution, which will be competed for during the second week in December. For particulars apply to the Registrar.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE INFIRMARY CONCERTS,

NOVEMBER 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10.

BAND AND CHORUS, TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY PERFORMERS.

LEADER.. .. Mr. POLLITZER.
SOLO PIANIST.. .. Mr. W. BACHE.
ORGANIST Mr. T. A. ALDERSON.

CONDUCTOR, MR. W. REA.

MISS ADA MOORE (Soprano),
Pupil of Signor Randegger. For Oratorio and other Concerts,
95, Bristol Street, Moss Side, Manchester. Lessons in singing.

MADAME ROVINA ARNOLD (Vocalist),
Manchester.
For Oratorios and all principal Soprano business, address, 20, Ducie
Grove, Oxford Road, Manchester.

G. A. MACFARREN'S new Oratorio JOSEPH, produced at the Leeds Festival with immense success, will be PERFORMED, for the first time in London, by the ROYAL ALBERT HALL CHORAL SOCIETY. Conductor, Mr. BARNBY.
Full particulars shortly. Tickets, 7s. 6d., 5s., and 4s., and vocal scores, 4s., bound, 6s., can at once be secured at Stanley Lucas, Weber and Co.'s, No. 84, New Bond Street, W., or at the Royal Albert Hall.

A BOY (ALTO) WANTED for a Church in S.W. district. Salary, £5. For further particulars apply by letter to
P. S. B., 6, Graham Street, Pimlico, S.W.

ALTO WANTED, for S. Margaret's Parish Church, Lee. £20. Full Choral Service. Seven minutes from Blackheath Station (North Kent). Address, Mr. Geo. F. Geaussen, 6, Park Place, Blackheath, S.E.

RIPON CATHEDRAL.—In consequence of the election of Mr. Dutton to a Lay Clerkship in St. Paul's Cathedral, there will shortly be a VACANCY for an ALTO VOICE in the Choir of Ripon Cathedral. One fully qualified to take the Solo and Verse Parts in the daily services required. Stipend, £85 to £90. For full particulars apply to J. F. A. Coppin, Esq., Chapter Clerk, Ripon, to whom applications, with testimonials, must be sent.

A LADY MUSICIAN wishes to play a small Organ in a Church in or near London. Address, Madame S., 11, Nottingham Terrace, York Gate, Regent's Park.

IMMEDIATE.—WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for Charleywood Church, Herts. Salary, £60.
One weekday evening service. Two-manual organ. Surpliced
Choir. Beautiful Church. Address, Rev. J. Aitken, Charleywood
Vicarage, Rickmansworth.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED,
for George Street Congregational Church, Croydon, to play twice on the Sunday, once during the week, and conduct a Psalmody Class. Salary, 50 guineas per annum. Ladies not eligible. Applications to be forwarded on or before November 6, to Mr. Ashcroft, Canning Road, Croydon.

WANTED, a YOUTH who wishes to make music his profession. F. K. Stroh, 40, Albert Street, Rugby.

WANTED, a thoroughly good TUNER for the country. None but high-class Tuners need apply. To such the advertiser offers a liberal salary and a permanent situation. Apply to Musician, care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a PIANOFORTE TUNER where two other Tuners are kept. Wages to commence from 30s.
to 35s. Apply, B. W., Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

TUNER, REGULATOR, &c. (26), open to ENGAGEMENT. Abstainer. Country, Musical Times Office.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED. Not under 23 years of age. Permanent situation to experienced man. Salary, £2 5s. per week and expenses. Address, R. J. H., 5, Bridge Street, Newport, Monmouthshire.

A GENTLEMAN desires an ENGAGEMENT as MANAGER of a good Music Business; is thoroughly conversant with all branches, especially the Instrumental department, can tune and repair, and is good salesman. Highest references and security can be given. Address, James H. Davies, General Post Office, Glasgow.

A GOOD MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE. A splendid opening for a good energetic man. For full particulars apply to Mr. John Hart, Advertising Agent, 9, Greenside Place, Edinburgh.

FOR SALE, ORGAN. Trumpet stop, tenor C to F. £7. K. G., 73, Downham Road, London, N.

ORGAN METAL PIPES, ORGAN PIPES.—J. GILDERSLEEVE is prepared to supply every description of Organ Pipes, voiced or unvoiced, on reasonable terms. Organ-Pipe Works, 7, Exeter Street, Hawley Road, Kentish Town, London, N.W.

PIANOFORTE for SALE. A satin-wood "Pocket Albion" GRAND, by Wornum; six octaves, in splendid condition; strongly recommended for singing-classes. Length, 75 inches; width, 45; height, 33. Price 20 guineas. For appointment to view apply to F. G., 14, Anerley Park, Anerley, S.E.

AN ORGAN RECITAL will be given in the City Temple, Holborn Viaduct, on Thursday, November 15, by Dr. Spark, Organist of the Town Hall, Leeds, commencing at 7.30. Admission, 2s., 1s., and 6d. Tickets at the City Temple, or of Mr. Barr, 80, Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION.

TWELVE SONGS

WITH

ENGLISH AND GERMAN WORDS

COMPOSED BY

SIR W. STERNDALE BENNETT.

Op. 23.

No. 1. Musing on the Roaring Ocean.

2. May Dew.

3. Forget me Not.

4. To Chloe (in sickness).

5. The Past.

6. Gentle Zephyr.

Op. 35.

No. 7. Indian Love.

8. Winter's Gone.

9. Dawn, Gentle Flower.

10. Castle Gordon.

11. As Lonesome through the Woods.

12. Sing, Maiden, Sing.

Price, in paper covers, 4s.; cloth boards, 6s.

Also separately, folio size, price 1s. 6d. each, net.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

DE PROFUNDIS

("FROM THE DEEP HAVE I CALLED")

130TH PSALM.

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES GOUNOD.

Octavo, 4s.

Orchestral score, 15s.; Chorus parts (Latin and English words), 3s.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS.—The only complete Edition, containing 79 Songs. Edited and in part Translated by NATALIA MACFARREN. In One Volume, folio, handsomely bound, 21s.; also 8vo, paper covers (English and German Words), 4s.; handsomely bound, 6s.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL ROUND-BOOK.

A COLLECTION OF

ONE HUNDRED ROUNDS, CATCHES, AND CANONS.

Arranged according to their relative difficulty.

EDITED BY THE

REV. J. POWELL METCALFE.

Cloth, price 1s. 6d.

Or in Two Books, each containing Fifty Rounds, price 6d. each, paper covers.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Second Edition.

JESSY LEA

AN OPERA DI CAMERA IN TWO ACTS

Written by JOHN OXENFORD; composed by G. A. MACFARREN.

Pianoforte score, folio, 10s. 6d.

The libretto, containing the whole of the dialogue, 1s.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE SOLDIER'S LEGACY.

AN OPERA DI CAMERA IN TWO ACTS,

Written by JOHN OXENFORD.

Composed by G. A. MACFARREN.

Octavo, Six Shillings.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

HOPE

CHORUSES IN WALTZ FORM FOR MALE VOICES, WITH
PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT,

Composed by GEORGE GARRETT, Mus. D.

Octavo, Sixpence.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just published.

THREE VOCAL TRIOS FOR FEMALE VOICES.

COMPOSED BY

G. ROSSINI.

No. 1. FAITH. No. 2. HOPE.

No. 3. CHARITY.

8vo, 6d.; or, singly, 2d. each.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE ORGANIST'S COMPANION,

A COLLECTION OF VOLUNTARIES,

Selected and arranged by

SIR JOHN GOSS,

Composer to Her Majesty's Chapels Royal and Organist (Retired) of St. Paul's Cathedral.

In Four Volumes, cloth, 5s. each; or 24 Numbers, 1s. each.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

VOLUNTARIES FOR THE ORGAN

Arranged from the works of Eminent Composers by

SIR JOHN GOSS.

Cloth, 3s.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

SELECT COMPOSITIONS

FROM THE
GREAT MASTERS,
ARRANGED FOR THE ORGAN

With Pedal Obligato by

A. H. BROWN.

No.

1. "Wedding March," by Mendelssohn.
2. March from "Tannhäuser," by Wagner.
3. March from "Scipio," also from Occasional Oratorio, both by Handel.
4. "Coronation March," from Meyerbeer's "Prophète."
5. "The Dead March" in "Saul" and "See the conquering hero comes," both by Handel.
6. Andantino, from the 17th Grand Symphony by Haydn, and "Waft her, angels," from Handel's "Jephtha."
7. "As pants the hart," from Spohr's "Crucifixion," and "Where'er you walk," from Handel's "Semele."
8. "My heart ever faithful" (Mein gläubiges Herz frohlocket), by Bach.
9. Andantino from the 5th and Andante from the 4th Sonatas, by Pleyel.
10. "The Hero's March," by Mendelssohn.
11. "Quis est homo?" from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."
12. Air et Chœur from "La Dame Blanche," by Boieldieu.
13. Grande Marche Héroïque in C, by Fr. Schubert.
14. Grande Marche Héroïque in D, by Fr. Schubert.
15. Overture, "Berenice," by Handel.
16. Overture, "Sosarmes," by Handel.
17. Handel's Overture, "Alcina."
18. Gavotte, from Handel's Overture, "Otho."
19. "La Carità," by Rossini.
20. "Angels ever bright and fair," and "Pious orgies," both by Handel.
21. "Ave Maria," by Franz Schubert.
22. Aria, by Antonio Lotti. Circa 1700.
23. "My soul thirsteth for God," Aria from Mendelssohn's 42nd Psalm.
24. "Gloria in excelsis," from Weber's Mass in G.
25. "Fac ut portem," from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."
26. "Pieta, Signore," from the Oratorio "San Giovanni Battista," by Stradella.
27. Handel's Overture to "Julius Cæsar."
28. Serenade, by Franz Schubert.

[Continuing.]

Price Two Shillings each.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

ORGAN MOVEMENTS.—Six Selected MOVEMENTS from the Organ Sonatas by Mendelssohn. Edited and fingered by JAMES LOWE. Reduced price complete, 3s. 6d. Single numbers—1, 3, 4, and 6, 9d. each, and 2 and 5, 1s. each net. Manchester: HIME and ADDISON, 30, Victoria Street. London: C. JEFFERYS, 67, Berners Street.

FIVE INTRODUCTORY VOLUNTARIES for the ORGAN. Composed by T. MEE PATTISON.

These Voluntaries, of medium difficulty, with Pedal Obligato, will be found eminently useful for the introduction of Divine Service, both as regards character and length. Price 3s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SIX TRANSCRIPTIONS for the ORGAN (with pedal obligato) from the works of Beethoven, Handel, Mendelssohn, and Spohr, by GERGE SHINN, Organist of Brixton Church, price 2s. 6d. net. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW ORGAN MUSIC.—CONCERTSTÜCK. Composed for and performed at the late Leeds Musical Festival. By Dr. WM. SPARK. Price 4s.

"A chaste and masterly composition, and worthy the attention of a critical audience."—Musical Standard.

"The slow movement in A flat is very charming, the matter and the manner of which are alike beyond criticism."—The Queen.

"Dr. Spark is to be congratulated for the best organ composition we know of as emanating from his pen; the whole work cleverly exhibits the instrument in its height and depth of power."—York Herald.

London: METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough Street, W.

J. S. BACH'S
FORTY-EIGHT PRELUDES & FUGUES
IN ALL THE MAJOR AND MINOR KEYS

(The "Well-Tempered Clavichord").

Edited and collated with all former editions of the work by

W. T. BEST.

Complete in One Volume, 12s.; or in Four Books, each 4s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW WORK FOR THE ORGAN.

THE ORGAN

A THEORETICAL AND PRACTICAL TREATISE;

INTENDED TO ASSIST THE STUDENT IN ACQUIRING

A SOUND KNOWLEDGE OF THE INSTRUMENT AND
ITS PROPER MANIPULATION;

WITH A SERIES OF

ORIGINAL EXERCISES AND ILLUSTRATIVE
COMPOSITIONS

Written specially for this Work.

BY

FREDERIC ARCHER,

Organist of the Alexandra Palace, Muswell Hill.

Price 10s. 6d.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just published.

MENDELSSOHN'S ELIJAH

ARRANGED FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price Five Shillings.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

HANDEL'S MESSIAH

ARRANGED FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price Five Shillings.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ONLY COMPLETE EDITION.

MENDELSSOHN'S
LIEDER OHNE WORTE.

Octavo, paper covers 4s.

Do. cloth gilt 6s.

Folio, elegantly bound in cloth gilt.. .. 12s.

THE ONLY EDITION CONTAINING THE
7TH AND 8TH BOOKS.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW PIANOFORTE PIECE BY LISZT.

ROSE, SOFTLY BLOOMING
ROMANCE

By L. SPOHR.

TRANSCRIBED FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY

FRANZ LISZT.

Price Three Shillings.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

PERGOLESÌ'S
STABAT MATER
(FEMALE VOICES.)

Edited and the Pianoforte Accompaniment Arranged by

JOHN HULLAH.

Octavo, One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

C. JEFFERYS,

67, BERNERS STREET.

NEW VOCAL PUBLICATIONS.

Comrade, to arms (Duet for Tenor and Bass)	s. d.
Michael Watson	3 0
When Music's charms (Duet for Tenor and Soprano).
New edition in C F. Schira	3 0
Blind Johann of Bohemia (compass B to E), for
Baritone J. L. Hatton	3 0
Jack's Yarn (sung by Signor Foli) (B to E) Louis Diehl	4 0
Pirate Chief (A to D) Ditto	3 0
White Blossoms (D to D) W. C. Levey	3 0
Fairy's Dream (E to F) Ditto	3 0
The Land of Dreams (D to F) Odoardo Barri	3 0
A Golden Dream (C to F) Ditto	3 0
Sweet and Fair (C to F), for Baritone	Ditto 3 0
Carissima (F to G) Henry Pontet	3 0
After Long Years (D to F) F. Schira	3 0
The Open Window (D to E) Dolores	3 0
On Guard (sung by Signor Foli) (C to D)
Walter Austin	4 0

NEW PIANOFORTE PIECES.

Sweet Lily easy John Pridham	3 0
Bridal Morn "	3 0
Sweet Home Flowers "	3 0
La Harpe magique Julia Woolf	3 0
The Shades of Evening "	3 0
Fascination "	3 0
Kindergarten March, with words .. M. Watson	3 0

MELODIOUS MELODIES
ARRANGED FOR THE HARMONIUM.

PARTS I. TO VI., ONE SHILLING EACH.

The subjects selected from the Works of

Auber.	Haydn.	Rossini.
Batiste.	Hiller.	Schubert.
Beethoven.	Méhul.	Schumann.
Boccherini.	Mendelssohn.	Spohr.
Chopin.	Meyerbeer.	Verdi.
Donizetti.	Mozart.	Wagner.
Handel.	Rink.	&c.

The complete work, bound in cloth, gilt edges, 6s.

SIX ORIGINAL PIECES FOR HARMONIUM

BY
MICHAEL WATSON.

1. Village dance, in B flat	3 0
2. Mélodie, in G	3 0
3. Pas Redoublé, in G	3 0
4. Berceuse, in F	3 0
5. March, in C	3 0
6. Réverie, in G	3 0

"Of musical literature for the harmonium the supply is very small. In most cases players have to content themselves either with pianoforte pieces or with those nondescript arrangements 'for organ or harmonium' which, in attempting to serve both, become useless for either. We therefore cordially welcome Mr. Watson's Six Original Pieces. They are written in the ordinary forms of modern drawing-room pieces, and make no pretensions to the classical. Without displaying any very decided originality, they are melodious and pleasing, while they are effective without undue difficulty. The treatment of the stops, also, which is carefully marked throughout, is judicious, and shows that Mr. Watson thoroughly understands the peculiarities of the instrument. We must also commend his wisdom in writing for only a moderate-sized harmonium (with four rows of vibrators), instead of relying for his effects on stops but rarely to be met with. In only one case do we differ from him. In the March (No. 5) he has directed the 'Expression' stop to be put in when the 'Grand Jeu' is drawn. This we think a mistake. We hold that the 'expression' should invariably be used, except when the harmonium is intended to imitate the passionless tone of the organ, which is not the case here. We recommend these pieces to harmonium-players as a useful addition to their limited repertoire."—Musical Times.

LONDON:

C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS STREET W.

ASHDOWN & PARRY'S
CATALOGUES OF MUSIC

PART 1. PIANO, ORGAN, HARMONIUM.

PART 2. VOCAL.

PART 3. HARP, CONCERTINA.

PART 4. VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, ORCHESTRA, &c.

PART 5. FLUTE, CORNET, CLARINET, &c.

Sent gratis and post-free to any part of the world.

London: ASHDOWN & PARRY, Hanover Square.

SYDNEY SMITH'S PIANOFORTE METHOD.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS.

This unrivalled work is now firmly established as the Pianoforte Instruction-Book in nearly all the principal Educational Establishments in

GREAT BRITAIN

IRELAND

CANADA

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

INDIA

AUSTRALIA

NEW ZEALAND, &c.

It is supplied directly by the Publishers, or may be had of any Musicseller in the world.

London: ASHDOWN & PARRY, Hanover Square.

THE SINGER'S LIBRARY.

AN UNEQUALLED COLLECTION OF

VOCAL CONCERTED MUSIC:

TRIOS, QUARTETTS, QUINTETTS, &c.,

SACRED AND SECULAR,

BY THE

MOST RENOWNED COMPOSERS

(English and Foreign).

EDITED BY

JOHN HULLAH.

UPWARDS OF 150 NUMBERS. Price Twopence each.

London: ASHDOWN & PARRY, Hanover Square.

THE GLEE AND CHORAL LIBRARY.

A Collection of standard and well-known

VOCAL COMPOSITIONS,

As well as recent works, by

MACFARREN, HATTON, BALFE, LESLIE, &c.

EIGHTY NUMBERS. Price Twopence each

Catalogues gratis and post-free to any part of the world.

London: ASHDOWN & PARRY, Hanover Square.

CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

NEW PART-SONGS, MADRIGALS, &c.,

BY

R. L. DE PEARSALL.

COLLEGIATE SERIES.

No.
68.	Part-Song	... A lad and lassie. S.A.T.B.	2d.
70.	Part-Song	... True love, to-day I must away	2d.
64.	Madrigal	... When old King Cole	3d.
54.	Madrigal	... My bonnie lass, she smileth	3d.
67.	Glee	... Glorious Apollo	2d.
73.	Part-Song	... Was there not a look of fondness	2d.
55.	Part-Song	... Robin Hood	3d.
65.	Glee	... King Charles	3d.
72.	Part-Song	... My mother loves me not	2d.
69.	Part-Song	... Spring brings flow'rets fair	2d.
71.	Part-Song	... 'Twas a trumpet's pealing sound	3d.
52.	Ballad Dialogue	... Who kill'd Cock Robin? ... 8th Edition	3d.
		(Folio, illustrated, 3s.)
50.	Part-Song	... Brave Lord Willoughby	... 5th "	3d.
25.	Madrigal	... Here on the waters	... 4th "	3d.
53.	Part-Song	... Her eyes the glow-worm	... 3rd "	3d.
4.	Student's Song	... The Three Friends. S.A.T.B.	... 4th "	3d.
5.	Student's Song	... " T.T.B.B.	... 4th "	3d.
60.	Madrigal	... Down by a river straying	... 2nd "	3d.
61.	Madrigal	... Hie away! o'er bank and brae	... 2nd "	3d.
58.	Glee	... Flow, limpid stream. A.T.B.B.	3d.
51.	Student's Song	... Gaudemus igitur	... 6th Edition	3d.
74.	Part-Song	... Springs she not as light as air	2d.
63.	Part-Song	... My enemies, they do increase	3d.
62.	Part-Song	... 'Tis raining!	3d.
59.	Part-Song	... The poacher's song	3d.
56.	Market Chorus	... The Villagers (with Pianoforte, Flute, or Violin Accompaniment), Chorus of Peasants, Market
		Women, Swiss Jodel, &c.	4d.
75.	Part-Song	... Young Jamie loved me well. S.A.T.B.	3d.
70.	Part-Song	... How happy were my days. S.A.T.B.	3d.
77.	Part-Song	... Up there upon that mountain. S.A.T.B.	3d.
78.	Part-Song	... My heart is full of bitter woe. S.A.T.B.	3d.

DR. S. S. WESLEY.

3.	Part-Song	... The Mermaid. S.A.T.B.	... 3rd Edition	4d.
6.	Part-Song	... Arising from the deep. S.A.T.B.	... 2nd "	4d.
2.	Chorus	... The praise of music (Double Choir).	4d.
18.	Anthem	... O how amiable! 3rd Edition	4d.
19.	Anthem	... Wherewithal shall a young man	... 2nd "	4d.
40.	Anthem	... The Lord is my Shepherd	... 2nd "	4d.
14.	Anthem	... Let us now praise famous men.	... 4th "	4d.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

8.	Part-Song	... Swift the shades of eve	... 6th "	3d.
12.	Part-Song	... The Vikings and the north wind	... 3rd "	3d.
10.	Part-Song	... The eagle	... 2nd "	3d.
42.	Anthem	... O praise the Lord	3d.
43.	Anthem	... I waited patiently	3d.

DULCIANA.

13.	National Anthem	God save the Queen	... 20th Edition	2d.
		(With Organ Accompaniment, Full Score, 2s. 6d.)
7.	Part-Song	... Auld lang syne (Organ Acc.).	... 26th Edition	3d.
27.	National	... Rule, Britannia (Organ Accompaniment)	2d.

SCHUMANN.

25.	Solo and Chorus	... Sleep on, in visions	... 4th "	3d.
11.	Solo and Chorus	... Vesture pure and scatheless	... 3rd "	3d.
29.	Trio (s.s.a.)	... Magna peccatrix	3d.
30.	Trio (s.s.a.)	... The midnight hags	3d.

J. B. KNIGHT.

1.	Madrigal	... Canst thou say me nay? 3rd Edition	3d.
----	----------	--------------------------------	-----------------	-----

J. L. ROECKEL.

34.	Part-Song	... The old grey oak. S.A.T.B.	3d.
35.	Part-Song	... The stars are with the voyager. S.A.T.B.	3d.

G. B. ARNOLD, MUS. DOC.

28.	Madrigal	... My dainty Chloris. S.A.T.B.	3d.
-----	----------	---------------------------------	--------	-----

C. E. HEY.

33.	Part-Song	... How dear to me. S.A.T.B.	2d.
79.	Part-Song	... Whither? S.A.T.B.	3d.
80.	Part-Song	... The water rushing. S.A.T.B.	3d.
81.	Part-Song	... The water rushing. T.T.B.B.	3d.
82.	Part-Song	... The day is ending. S.A.T.B.	3d.
83.	Part-Song	... 'Tis sweet in the green spring. S.A.T.B.	3d.
84.	Part-Song	... The minstrel boy. S.A.T.B.	3d.

ERNEST LINDE.

9.	Where the lordly stag.	Solo and Chorus	3d.
----	------------------------	-----------------	--------	-----

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.
 WEEKES and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

A MANUAL OF SINGING
FOR THE USE OF CHOIR-TRAINERS & SCHOOLMASTERS.

By RICHARD MANN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

This work offers to the clergy and other amateur choir-trainers a systematic and simple course of instruction, by which they may teach their pupils to read music at sight in a comparatively short time.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FORTY-NINTH EDITION.

Price 1s. A specimen copy post-free for 12 stamps.

COLLEGIATE AND SCHOOL
SIGHT-SINGING MANUAL.

FOR CHOIRS.—The easiest system that can be obtained for training, improving, and learning to read music at sight.

FOR SCHOOLS.—Every requisite for learning Music, and reading at sight in a few lessons.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.—The exercises will be found invaluable, tending to produce musical effects seldom heard.

Third Edition, 2s. 6d. net.

COLLEGIATE VOCAL TUTOR.

Containing Treatise on Voice and Vocal Art, with Anatomical Illustrations of the Vocal Instrument.

COLLEGIATE ORGAN TUTOR.

EDITED BY FREDERIC ARCHER.

3s. 6d. net.

COLLEGIATE PIANOFORTE
TUTOR.

3s. 6d. net.

CONSECUTIVE FIFTHS AND
OCTAVES IN COUNTERPOINT.

AN ESSAY, BY R. L. DE PEARSALL.

Price 2s.; post-free, 2s. 2d.

Tenth edition. Paper covers, 1s.; bound in cloth, 1s. 6d.

CATHEDRAL CHANT-BOOK.

Containing nearly 200 Single and Double Chants; Gregorian Tones.

NEW BALLADS.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

THE CATHEDRAL CHOIR (with Chorus) 4s.

R. L. DE PEARSALL.

DRUMMING AND FIFING 3s.
 BRAVE LORD WILLOUGHBY 3s.
 WHO KILL'D COCK ROBIN? 3s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W., and
 80 & 81, Queen Street, E.C.
 WEEKES and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

Fourth Edition, now ready, of

DR. BENNETT GILBERT'S
SCHOOL HARMONY

Price 1s. 6d. net.

No previous work on harmony has ever obtained such universal acceptance in so short a time.

"School Harmony" is not a Catechism or Musical Primer; it grasps the entire subject and places it before the student in an easy and workable form.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TRUTH AND EASE IN MUSIC. NO MORE SHARP OR FLAT
 KEYS FOR INSTRUMENTALIST OR VOCALIST.

Just published, price Sixpence, with illustrations, a new edition of
 THE SEQUENTIAL SYSTEM OF MUSICAL
 NOTATION.

By WILLIAM A. B. LUNN.

"Its completeness and simplicity, when once understood, should recommend it to universal adoption."—Blackburn Standard.
 London: E. W. ALLEN, 11, Ave Maria Lane.

THEORY OF MUSIC

BY

LOUISA GIBSON.

NOW READY

A SECOND BOOK

AND

A THIRD BOOK

BEING A CONTINUATION OF

A FIRST BOOK

On the Theory of Music, written for the use of Schools, and for Students preparing for the Oxford and Cambridge Local Examinations.

"A FIRST BOOK" has already reached the fourth edition; it is highly commended by Dr. G. A. Macfarren, Sir J. Benedict, Sir F. A. G. Ouseley, &c., and is adopted at the South London Musical Training College, the Nottingham Music School, and in many High Schools, &c., in London and the provinces.

Price: Boards, 3s.; Stiff Paper, 2s.; Postage, 2d.

London: WEEKES and Co.; NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; WHITTAKER and Co.; and of the Author, 13, Seaton Terrace, Plymouth.

Just published, in 18mo, price 1s.

PRIMER OF PIANOFORTE PLAYING

By FRANKLIN TAYLOR

EDITED BY

GEORGE GROVE.

WITH NUMEROUS EXAMPLES.

London: MACMILLAN and Co.

On November 7 (for 15th) will be published No. 1 of

THE LONDON AND PROVINCIAL
MUSIC TRADE REVIEW.

Price 4d.

A MONTHLY PAPER DEVOTED TO THE BEST INTERESTS OF THE TRADE, THE PROFESSION, AND AMATEURS.

The contents of the Music Trade Review will consist exclusively of original matter written by musicians and journalists of eminence expressly for this publication. No. 1 will contain (inter alia) the following articles:—

"Organs, Organists, and Organ-builders," by J. F. Bridge, Mus.D., Oxon.

"Welsh National Music," by Brinley Richards.

"Some Defects in Pianoforte Teaching," by W. G.

"Goetz's Opera, 'The Taming of the Shrew,'" by Henry F. Frost.

"The Proper Method of holding the Violin Bow," by Frederic Clark.

"Bogus Pianos."

"Our Palace of Truth. No. 1.—The Italian Opera Impresario."

"The Month's Music."

LEADERS: "Ourselves," "Orchestras and Refreshment Contractors," "Advertising Professors," "Music on the Stump," "Native Talent," &c.

OUR TRADE ARTICLES: England, and from Special Correspondents in Germany and France.

Reviews of Books, Scores, and Sheet Music.

Our Monthly Lists of New Music, Concert Engagements for the ensuing month, Artists' Tours, Gazette, &c. &c.

Editorial, Advertisement, and Publishing Offices, 1, Raquet Court, Fleet Street, E.C., London. P.O.O. payable to G. D. Ernest and Co., Subscription, 2s. 6d. half-year; 4s. 6d. yearly.

FOURTEEN SONGS

SET TO

POEMS OF ROBERT BURNS,

By ROBERT FRANZ.

EDITED AND ADAPTED BY NATALIA MACFARREN.

Paper covers, 2s. 6d.

CONTENTS.

Twa sweet e'en.	Ye banks and braes.
My bonny Mary.	Altho' my bed were in yon moor.
Oh! wert thou in the frozen blast.	Thou hast left me ever, Jamie.
My heart is sair.	How can my heart be glad.
The Highland lassie.	So far away.
The lovely lass of Inverness.	My love is like a red, red rose.
Phillis the fair.	My heart's in the Highlands.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

REDUCED PRICES.

The following works have been reduced in price:

	Paper covers.		Cloth gilt.
	s. d.		s. d.
SCHUMANN'S VOCAL ALBUM	2 6 ...	4 6
SCHUMANN'S PIANOFORTE ALBUM	2 6 ...	4 6
VOLKSLIEDER ALBUM ...	2 6 ...	4 6
RUBINSTEIN'S EIGHTEEN TWO-PART SONGS ...	2 6
MENDELSSOHN'S MOTETTS FOR FEMALE VOICES ...	1 0

(Each Motett, singly, 6d. each.)

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Reduced Price, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

EIGHTEEN TWO-PART SONGS

With Pianoforte Accompaniment,

COMPOSED BY

ANTON RUBINSTEIN.

Op. 48 and 67.

THE ENGLISH VERSION BY NATALIA MACFARREN.

CONTENTS.

1. The Angel.	10. The turtle dove and the wanderer.
2. Birdie.	11. Twilight.
3. The homestead.	12. Autumn sadness.
4. The merry maidens.	13. Song of the summer birds.
5. Wanderer's night song.	14. In the wood.
6. The hour of parting.	15. Faith in spring.
7. Night.	16. Pass by.
8. The cloud.	17. Rest after storm.
9. The happy birds.	18. The lotos flower.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S
TONIC SOL-FA SERIES,

TRANSLATED AND EDITED BY

W. G. McNAUGHT.

ANTHEMS, CHORUSES, PART-SONGS, &c.

Nos. 1 to 81 now ready.

	s. d.
ELIJAH (Translated by J. W. Powell) ...	MENDELSSOHN 1 6
HEAR MY PRAYER	MENDELSSOHN 0 3
HYMN OF PRAISE (Lobgesang) ...	MENDELSSOHN 1 0
ATHALIE	MENDELSSOHN 1 0
LORELEY	MENDELSSOHN 0 6
LAUDA SION (Praise Jehovah) ...	MENDELSSOHN 0 9
CHRISTUS	MENDELSSOHN 0 6
THE CRUSADERS	NIELS W. GADE 1 0
THE MAY QUEEN	SIR W. S. BENNETT 1 0

Complete Lists sent free on application.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just published.

SIXTY VOLUNTARIES

FOR THE

HARMONIUM.

Arranged by

J. W. ELLIOTT.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready. Small 4to, price 1s. Vocal Parts, 12mo, price 6d. each. 1st and 2nd Series, bound together, cloth, 2s. 9d. Vocal Parts, 1st and 2nd Series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE CANTICLES AND HYMNS
OF THE CHURCH,

POINTED FOR CHANTING, AND SET TO APPROPRIATE ANGLICAN CHANTS, SINGLE AND DOUBLE

TOGETHER WITH

RESPONSES TO THE COMMANDMENTS,

EDITED BY THE

REV. SIR F. A. GORE OUSELEY, BART., ETC.,

AND

EDWIN GEORGE MONK

This Work contains a Selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

This pointing of the Canticles is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street, (E.C.)

IN PREPARATION.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S
MUSIC PRIMERS

EDITED BY

DR. STAINER.

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. The Pianoforte (Now ready, price 2s.) E. Pauer. | 10. Fugue - - - - - James Higgs. |
| 2. The Rudiments of Music (Now ready, price 1s.) - - W. H. Cummings. | 11. Scientific Basis of Music - - Dr. Stone. |
| 3. The Organ (Now ready, price 2s.) Dr. Stainer. | 12. History of Music - - - - E. Pauer. |
| 4. Harmonium - - - - - King Hall. | 13. Church Choir Training Rev. J. Troutbeck. |
| 5. Singing - - - - - A. Randegger. | 14. Plain-Song - - - - Rev. T. Helmore. |
| 6. Pronunciation in Singing A. J. Ellis, F.R.S. | 15. Instrumentation - - - - E. Prout. |
| 7. Musical Forms - - - - - E. Pauer. | 16. The Elements of the Beautiful in Music (Now ready, price 1s.) - E. Pauer. |
| 8. Harmony - - - - - Dr. Stainer. | 17. Violin - - - - - Berthold Tours. |
| 9. Counterpoint - - - - - Dr. Bridge. | |

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE HYMNARY

A BOOK OF CHURCH SONG.

THE FOLLOWING EDITIONS ARE NOW READY:—

No.					s. d.
1.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Bourgeois Antique.	Cloth, red edges	1 0
2.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Cloth, red edges	0 6
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Limp cloth	0 4
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Paper covers	0 3
3.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth		4 0
4.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		5 0
5.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth		3 0
6.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		4 0
7.	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo		1 6
"	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo, cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		2 0
8.	Hymns with Tunes.	Small post 8vo, to bind with the Pearl 8vo Prayer Book.	Cloth		2 6
9.	Hymns with Tunes.	Ditto.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		3 0
10.	Hymns with Tunes.	Large type, Imperial 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		10 6

Selections of Hymns with Tunes for Advent, Christmas, Easter and Harvest, Price One Penny each.

A Discount of 20 per Cent will be allowed to the Clergy, for Cash, when not less than six copies of one edition are taken.

Applications for permission to print the Hymns and Tunes for Choral Festivals should be addressed to the Publishers.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE NEW HYMNAL.

THE SONG OF PRAISE. By Lady VICTORIA EVANS-FREEKE. Being a New and Enlarged Edition of the Rev. EDWARD HARELAND'S CHURCH PSALTER and HYMNAL, including a large number of Original Tunes written by the most eminent Church musicians of the day expressly for this work. Prices as follow:—

	s. d.
Large Organ Edition	8 6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, with blank music paper at the end, gilt lettered	10 6
Small Music Edition	3 6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, gilt lettered	4 6
Words only	1 2
Ditto, red edges, gilt	1 6

Liberal Terms to the Clergy.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, THE BROADWAY, LUDGATE.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK, containing 258

Tunes and 85 Chants.

No 1.	Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 6d.
" 2.	Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 3.	Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 0d.
" 4.	Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	2s. 6d.

About 250,000 copies have already been sold.

Now Ready.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK (Second Series), containing 298 Tunes and 74 Chants.

No. 5.	Limp cloth	2s. 6d.
6.	Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 7.	Limp cloth	2s. 0d.
" 8.	Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	2s. 6d.

First and Second Series Bound together.

No. 9.	Limp cloth	4s. 0d.
" 10.	Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	5s. 0d.
" 12.	Tonic Sol-fa, cloth	3s. 0d.

Now Ready.

SMALL EDITION of the COMPLETE WORK.

715 Tunes and Chants, providing for nearly 200 Varieties of Metre.

No. 11.	Cloth	3s. 0d.
---------	-------	---------

Each Edition may be had in Superior Binding.

Communications and inquiries as to Copyrights, and also as to supplies of this work at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; Bristol: W. and F. Morgan; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

THE LONDON TUNE-BOOK. A Companion for all Hymnals.

Cloth, 3s.; red edges, 3s. 6d.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Enlarged Edition.

TUNES, NEW AND OLD; comprising all the Metres in the Wesleyan Hymn-Book. Also, Chants, Responses, and Doxologies. Compiled by JOHN DONSON; and for the most part revised or rearranged by HENRY JOHN GAUNTLETT, Mus. Doc.; JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; and SAMUEL REAY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, and 80 and 81, Queen Street. Sold also at 66, Paternoster Row. Prices: plain cloth, 3s. 6d.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 5s. TONIC SOL-FA EDITION: plain cloth, 2s.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 3s.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN; containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE BURNLEY TUNE-BOOK.—NOTICE.—An ADDENDA of about 200 Peculiar Metre and other Tunes will shortly be added, and some of the choicest original compositions will be provided for nearly every known metre. MSS. received, but only those will be answered that are accepted.

THE MISSIONARY MANUAL TUNE-BOOK. Compiled and Edited by Sir JAMES ERASMUS PHILLIPS, Bart., M.A., Prebendary of Sarum, Vicar of Warminster, and Proctor in Convocation, and WILLIAM VINCENT, M.A., Rector of Postwick, Norfolk. Paper covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, 2s.

THE MISSIONARY MANUAL OF HYMNS AND PRAYERS. Price 2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Price One Shilling.

THE NORTH COATES SUPPLEMENTAL TUNE-BOOK. Forty-nine Hymn Tunes composed by T. R. MATTHEWS, B.A., Editor of "The Village Organist." "Mr. Matthews possesses a pleasing and natural vein of melody. His tunes are harmonised in an easy and singable manner, and have for the most part the invaluable quality of 'go' about them."—Musical Times, August 1877.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S "SUPPLEMENTAL HYMN AND TUNE BOOK" (4th Edition) may be had of the publishers, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. Quarto post, large type and beautifully bound in cloth, price 6s. 6d.; on toned paper, extra thick, 10s. 6d.

"MY SPIRIT LONGS FOR THEE." Hymn, set to Music by JOHN NAYLOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon., together with five other original Hymn Tunes, including "Rock of ages," for men's voices only. Price 4d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

HYMN TUNES, composed by ROBERT BROWN-BORTHWICK, Vicar of All Saints', Scarborough. Elegantly bound in scarlet cloth, price 2s. 6d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S SERIES of MODERN HYMN TUNES, KYRIES, &c. This Series embraces original Tunes and Kyries by some of the best living composers of Church Music, and may be had in separate numbers from 3d. and 6d. each. Novello, Ewer and Co.

BAKER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR. Easy and very plain instructions. Adapted for Schools and General Teaching Purposes. London: B. Williams, 60, Paternoster Row; or, post-free, 3s., of G. Baker, Stamp Office Place, Wakefield.

Third Edition.

FIRST STEPS FOR CHOIR-BOYS. By JAMES H. SIMPSON. Price 2d.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE NEW METHOD.

TO SING from NOTES IN PROPER TIME and TUNE, for Private Use or Classes. By TH. GOEBBELS. Book I., 2nd edition, 4s.

London: W. REEVES, 185, Fleet Street.
Liverpool: HIME and SON, 57, Church Street.

Second Edition, Enlarged.—Price Sixpence.

JORDRELL'S MANUAL of SIGHT-SINGING, on the Tonic or Movable Do System of Reading Elementary Notation Music. London: C. JEFFERYS, 67, Berners Street; JOHN JORDRELL, Withington, near Manchester; and through all Book and Music Sellers.

MUSIC FOR THE NEW CODE.—"THE SINGING-CLASS MANUAL," by the late WILLIAM JACKSON (MASHAM), is admirably suited for use in the Public Elementary Schools. Price (with Appendix, containing eight pieces of music in different keys) 2s. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; and all Musicsellers and Booksellers.

Now Ready. (Dedicated to College of Organists.)

ON TUNING THE ORGAN. Illustrated APPENDIX, containing faults in action with remedies, price 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. Hemstock, Diss.

Third Edition, enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s. paper covers, 3s. cloth lettered.

ANGELICAN PSALTER CHANTS, Single and Double, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This work contains nearly 400 Chants; which are appropriated to "Venite exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; & those for each Service occupying a separate page and affording several Series suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter, from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS. Set to Music by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c.

For general or Festival use; for male voices and four-part Chorus, with Organ accompaniment, ad lib. Price 3d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ANGELICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK.

Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 1s.; cloth, 2s. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Oxford: PARKER.

Eighth Edition.

THE ANGELICAN CHANT-BOOK, edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 3s. 6d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

OUSELEY AND MONK'S PSALTER AND CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 24mo, without chants, 9d.; with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to, with chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to, 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo, 1½d. Novello, Ewer and Co., and Parker and Co.

Preparing for the Press.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF WORDS OF ANTHEMS, new Edition, revised, corrected, and brought down to the present date.

Twelfth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Price 5s. 6d., paper covers; 7s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-notes.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. St. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter having been collated with the Sealed Books is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small Edition is in preparation.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Fourth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. Quarto, in cloth elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Fifth Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. St. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

A MORNING SERVICE, Te Deum, Jubilate, and Kyrie, by the Rev. EDWARD YOUNG. Tenth edition, abbreviated for Parochial use. Organ and Choir copies, 4d. each.

"Melodious, vocal, and nicely harmonised—that is, without pretence or straining at effect; and they declaim the words devoutly and emphatically."—Musical Times.

"Good points, and tuneful passages."—Musical Standard.
"The intelligent, devoted, and devotional spirit in which every note seems to have been composed furnishes one of the best guarantees for excellence."—English Churchman.

"All competent criticism will be found in accordance with the verdict of a high professional authority as to 'abundant proof of imagination, poetical conception, and musical feeling.'"—Christian Observer.

"The strain is devotional, and harmonies full, solemn, and massive. . . . He fairly claims to have dug a channel for the devout utterance of the words."—Bristol Times.

Also,

VENITE, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE GREGORIAN CANTICLES.

This day, foolscap 8vo, cloth limp, red edges, 1s. or 1s. 2d. post-free.

THE CANTICLES, newly adapted to the Old Church Tones, with the occasional Introduction of Choral Harmony. By ARTHUR HENRY BROWN, of Brentwood. Uniform with the same author's "Gregorian Psalter." This most comprehensive adaptation of the Gregorian Tones to the Canticles contains 127 melodies, some harmonised throughout, and each with harmonised Gloria. London: Thomas Bosworth, 198, High Holborn, W.C.

A MORNING AND EVENING SERVICE, set to music principally in chant form for Four Voices, in harmony and unison with organ accompaniment. "Easy, effective, and congregational, and useful to parish choirs." Price 9d.; not less than one dozen copies, post-free, 7s. 9d., from the composer only. H. T. Harwood, Yeovil.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

G. A. MACFARREN'S CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR. For Voices in Unison and Organ. 8vo, 6d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in E flat. Composed by ALFRED J. DYE. Small 8vo, 3d.; organ copy, 6d.

"A simple setting, quite within the reach of ordinary church choirs."—Musical Record.

"In the various broad and effective unison sentences the organ is handled with judgment and skill."—The Choir.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CANTATE and DEUS, by R. TAYLOR. An easy Unison Service in F. Price 6d. To be had of Novello and Co., or of the Author, Brighton College.

THE OFFICE of the HOLY COMMUNION (as sung at S. Columba's College, Dublin). Set to music in the key of C, for voices in unison, by FREDERICK CAMBRIDGE. 8vo, 6d.

Also by the same composer,

ANTHEM, "NOT UNTO US, O LORD." Vocal Score, 3s.; Vocal Parts, 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in key of G, for Four Voices, with Organ Accompaniment. By E. BUNNETT, Mus. D., Cantab. Price Threepence.

Also, by same Composer, two Settings of the VENITE EXULTE-MUS DOMINO, in Chant form. Price Twopence each.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

S. KENELM'S MASS, an easy Service for the Holy Communion, chiefly in Unison, by the Rev. CHARLES WALKER. Price 1s. Treble part, 4d., or 2s. per 100

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

8vo, price 2d.

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS

Set to Music in C major, expressly for Parish Choirs,

by CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

This Service can be sung in unison if preferred.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MUSIC FOR PARISH CHOIRS

BY

WILLIAM CRESER, Mus. Bac., Oxon.,

Organist and Choirmaster of S. Martin's-on-the-Hill, Scarborough.

AN EASY, EFFECTIVE SETTING OF THE

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS.

FOUNDED ON TONE III.

For voices in unison, with occasional harmony, and a free organ accompaniment.

PRICE 4d.

EASY ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMASTIDE.

"THERE WERE SHEPHERDS." Price 6d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Edition.

VESPER MUSIC.—Settings of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, in solemn Chant style, Festal and Ferial, with a simple air for the Congregation, and elaborated Melodies and Harmonies for the Choir, by W. HAYNES, Organist of the Priory Church, Malvern. No. 1, 2d.; Nos. 2, 3, 4, 3d. each.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A

MORNING & EVENING SERVICE

TOGETHER WITH A

KYRIE, CREED, AND SANCTUS,

Set to music in the key of B flat, by

DR. JOHN SMITH, of Dublin.

Octavo, Three Shillings.

Or singly: Te Deum, 6d.; Benedictus, 6d.; Jubilate Deo, 4d.; Sanctus, Kyrie eleison, and Nicene Creed, 4d.; Magnificat, 6d.; Nunc dimittis, 4d.; Cantate Domino, 6d.; Deus misereatur, 6d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE OFFERTORY SENTENCES

WITH AN APPENDIX FOR FESTAL USE,

SET TO MUSIC BY

JOSEPH BARNBY.

Price 1s. 6d.; or in Numbers at 2d. each.

- | | |
|--|--|
| No. 1. Let your light so shine.
2. Lay not up for yourselves.
3. Whatsoever ye would that men.
4. Not every one that saith unto Me.
5. Zachæus stood forth.
6. Who goeth a-warfare.
7. If we have sown.
8. Do ye not know.
9. He that soweth little.
10. Let him that is taught in the word.
11. While we have time.
12. Godliness is great riches. | 13. Charge them who are rich.
14. God is not unrighteous.
15. To do good.
16. Whoso hath this world's goods.
17. Give alms of thy goods.
18. Be merciful after thy power.
19. He that hath pity upon the poor.
20. Blessed be the man.
21. Let your light so shine. Festal Setting. |
|--|--|

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

8vo, price 4d.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES

(COMPLETE)

SET TO MUSIC BY

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

The above will be found an agreeable change with the settings already in use, and will be found to be within the capacity of every choir. The treble part is written so that it can be sung in unison by the whole choir, if preferred.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

8vo, price 6d.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES COMPLETE (20), with Music in full for Organist and Choir. By HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster.

One or more of these beautiful and effective Sentences may be sung after the Priest has said the Offertory, or after the Hymns at Matins or Evensong, whilst the alms are being collected.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ELEVEN OFFERTORY SENTENCES ... 4d.

"The Lord is my Shepherd" ... 4d.
"Let not your heart be troubled" (arrangement) ... 4d.
Tunes, set to popular Hymns, and Chants. Books 1 and 2, each 4d.

By CHARLES SWAIN, Stockport.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE OFFERTORY SENTENCES from the GOSPELS. Set to Music by the Rev. VYVIAN POPHAM. May be used as Intros or Short Anthems. Price 6d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now ready, 8vo, price Three-pence.

THE APOSTLES' CREED, Set to Music (chiefly in Recitative) for Voices in Unison, with an Accompaniment for the Organ, by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Director of the Choir, York Minster.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

4TH BOOK NOW READY. Collection of KYRIES,

&c. Original Compositions by Dr. F. Hiller, Guilman, G. A. and W. Macfarren, Sir G. J. Elvey, Tours, Salaman, Francesco Berger, E. G. Monk, J. Baptiste Calkin, Scotson Clark, Hamilton Clarke, &c. Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 1s. each. Separate Nos. (1 to 71), 1d.

SPOHR'S 24th PSALM, 8vo (2nd thousand), 9d.; folio, 4s. net.

London: Novello and Co. Sheffield: W. T. Freemantle, High Street.

MY SOUL TRULY WAITETH STILL UPON

GOD. Anthem for Four Voices. Composed by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, York Minster. Vocal score, folio, 1s. 6d.; octavo, 4d.

GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD. Anthem for

Tenor Solo and Chorus. Composed by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, York Minster. Vocal score, folio, 2s. 6d.; octavo, 6d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ADVENT ANTHEM.

Price 3d.

"THE NIGHT IS DEPARTING." By THOMAS

SMITH. "Easy and effective."

CHRISTMAS ANTHEM.

Sixth Edition, price 3d.

"FOR UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN." By

THOMAS SMITH.

Both the above post-free from the Composer, Angel Hill, Bury St. Edmund's.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

"BOW THINE EAR, O LORD." Anthem (to be sung at ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL, Nov. 8, 1877), arranged from Verdi's Requiem by J. ROBERTSON MURRAY, by whom it is dedicated to the Members of the London Church Choir Association. 1s. net.

RICORDI'S (of MILAN) DEPOT, 23, CHARLES STREET, MIDDLESEX HOSPITAL, LONDON, W.

LISTS of Vocal, Pianoforte, and Instrumental Music of every description, gratis and post-free.

RICORDI'S GRAN CATALOGO, containing nearly 50,000 works of his own publication, 5s. net.

SAMPLE COPIES of Sheet Music to the Trade on the usual terms.

CAROL OF THE REAPERS. (S.A.T.B.) 3d.

SIX EASY ANTHEMS FOR VILLAGE CHOIRS. 2d. each. NOVELLO and Co.; or of the Composer, W. H. GILL, Sidcup, Kent.

"MUSIC for the PAROCHIAL CHOIR," comprising Tunes to "Abide with me" and other hymns, three Kyries, and four chant-settings of the Te Deum. By JOHN ST. CLAIR, Choirmaster to the Parochial Choir Association in Chichester. To be had of the Composer. Price 6d.; orders for more than a dozen, half-price.

Now ready, price 2s. 6d. and 1d.

THE PAROCHIAL PSALTER. Pointed for

Chanting upon a new and simple system, with Directions for Expression, Breath-marks, &c. By ALEX. S. COOPER.

PRICES.

8vo, for Clergy and Organists ... 2s. 6d.

32mo, for Choirs and Congregations ... 1s. od.

Canticles only ... 3d. and 1d.

London: WEEKES and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

A NEW PSALTER CHANT-BOOK.—Those persons interested in the production of this work are requested to communicate with Mr. Arthur George, 14, Upper Park Street, Greenwich (inclosing stamped envelope for reply), who will be pleased to receive suggestions or contributions of original chants.

In various ways all existing chant-books place stumbling-blocks in the way of good chanting by the average choirs that are to be met with in our village and parish churches.

It is proposed to remedy this as far as possible in the above work, and to place before the public a book of single and double Anglican chants, old and new, that will be found especially adapted for those choirs that get but little practice.

THE CAPTIVITY.—"THEY THAT WAIT

UPON THE LORD." Chorus from this Oratorio, by FRANCIS HOWELL, published in the Choir of August 11, 1877. Price 2d.

METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

Now ready, Vocal Score, price 3s.

JONAH. A Sacred Cantata. By J. V. ROBERTS,

Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Choirmaster of the Parish Church, Halifax.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

P.S.—Full Orchestral Parts to be had of the Composer.

Just published, price 1s.

GOD IS OUR REFUGE. 46th Psalm. For

Solos and Chorus, by EDWIN C. SUCH, Mus. Bac., Cantab.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE RETURN OF ISRAEL TO PALESTINE,

by JOHN M. W. YOUNG. Price 2s. 6d.

The above may be divided into Two Anthems; it is also suitable for Choral Societies. (See Musical Times for May 1877.)

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., where J. Young's Festival Services and Anthems and the "Lincoln Psalter" may be had.

DORÉ'S TWO CELEBRATED PICTURES,

Christ leaving the Prætorium and Christ entering Jerusalem. Musically illustrated by A. B. ALLEN. 1s. net.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

DR. SPARK'S NEW ANTHEM,

"AND NOW, ISRAEL,"

16 Pages, price 6d.

"A most effective and successful composition, and one which we are sure will be found very useful in any ordinary choir for general use, as well as for festival occasions."—Worcester Journal.

"The anthem will be found applicable to many services that are not of the high festival kind; besides, it is written in a comparatively simple style, and is therefore within the grasp of any fairly organised choir. The whole work does its author great credit."—York Herald.

"No choir should be without this beautiful anthem, which is written throughout with the skill and power of an experienced composer."—Express.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC. Just published.

SELECTION of DOUBLE and SINGLE CHANTS, KYRIES, and HYMNS, by EDWARD PARKINSON. Price 4d. Farmer and Sons, Edwardes Terrace, Kensington, W.

ANTHEMS FOR CHRISTMAS.

ALLEN, G. B.—IN THE BEGINNING	s. d.
BARNBY, J.—THE GRACE OF GOD THAT BRINGETH SALVATION	0 1½
— SING AND REJOICE	0 1½
— BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS	0 3
ELVEY, SIR GEO.—ARISE, SHINE, FOR THY LIGHT IS COME	0 1½
GADSBY, H.—SING, O DAUGHTER OF ZION	0 1½
GOSS, SIR J.—BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS	0 1½
GOUNOD, CH.—O SING TO GOD (Noël)	0 6
HOPKINS, E. J.—LET US NOW GO EVEN UNTO BETHLEHEM	0 1½
MACFARREN, G. A.—FOR UNTO US WAS BORN	0 6
— WHILE ALL THINGS WERE IN QUIET SILENCE MENDELSSOHN.—REJOICE, O YE PEOPLE	0 1½
MONK, W. H.—HALLELUJAH! FOR UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN	0 1½
NOVELLO, V.—SING UNTO THE LORD	0 1½
PERGOLESİ.—GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST	0 1½
SMITH, C. W.—BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GLAD TIDINGS	0 1½
SILAS, E.—THE LIGHT HATH SHINED	0 1½
STAINER, DR.—THE MORNING STARS SANG TOGETHER	0 6
— O ZION, THAT BRINGEST GOOD TIDINGS	0 1½
SMART, H.—THE ANGEL GABRIEL WAS SENT FROM GOD	0 1½
THORNE, E. H.—IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE WORD	0 1½
TURLE, J.—THIS IS THE DAY WHICH THE LORD HATH MADE	0 3
VERRINDER, C. G.—THE LIGHT HATH SHINED	0 1½
VITTORIA.—BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GLAD TIDINGS	0 1½
WESLEY, DR. S. S.—BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD OF ISRAEL	0 1½
— GLORY BE TO GOD ON HIGH	0 2

Most of the above may be had in Folio, Vocal Score, and Vocal Parts.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TEN HYMNS WITH TUNES

FOR CHRISTMAS

SELECTED FROM "THE HYMNARY."

Price One Penny.

O COME, ALL YE FAITHFUL	Old Melody.
APPROACH, ALL YE FAITHFUL	J. BARNBY.
CHRISTIANS, AWAKE	SIR JOHN GOSS.
HARK, THE HOSTS OF HEAVEN ARE SINGING	HENRY SMART.
O COME, NEW ANTHEMS LET US SING	H. J. GAUNTLETT.
HARK, THE HEAVEN'S SWEET MELODY	SIR J. GOSS.
O COME, LOUD ANTHEMS LET US SING	S. S. WESLEY.
CHRIST IS BORN; TELL FORTH HIS FAME	CH. GOUNOD.
COME, YE NATIONS, THANKFUL OWN	SIR G. ELVEY.
HARK! THE HERALD ANGELS SING	MENDELSSOHN.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS DAY.

BLESSED IS HE THAT COMETH IN THE NAME OF THE LORD. Short and easy. 8vo, price 3d. Composed by J. J. SIMPSON.

"Skillfully constructed, and characterised with devotional feeling."—News of the World. "Tuneful, and well within the reach of an ordinary church choir."—Bristol Mercury. "Good, and very suitable for small choirs."—Church Review.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BOW DOWN THINE EAR, O LORD. For Soprano Solo, Quartett, and Chorus. Folio, price 8d. post-free. To be had of the Composer, Stayley House, Coronation Road, Bristol.

Just published. 8vo, 2d.
ADVENT.

ALMIGHTY GOD, GIVE US GRACE.

New short Full Anthem, composed expressly for Parish Choirs, by CHARLES JOSEPH FROST. This Anthem may appropriately be sung as an Introit each Sunday through the Advent season.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

8vo, price 3d.

CHRISTMAS.

HE SHALL BE GREAT.

New short Full Anthem, composed expressly for Parish Choirs, by CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR CHRISTMAS.

O SING TO GOD

(NOËL),

FOR FEMALE VOICES

(Soli and Chorus).

Words by the REV. B. WEBB.

MUSIC BY

CH. GOUNOD.

Octavo, 6d.; Folio, 2s. 6d.; separate Vocal Parts, 4½d.; Orchestral Parts, 8s. 9d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE

CHRISTMAS ORATORIO

BY

JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH.

THE ENGLISH TRANSLATION AND ADAPTATION BY THE REV. J. TROUTBECK, M.A.

Paper covers	s. d.
Paper boards	3 0
Cloth gilt	5 0

Chorus parts, 8vo, 1s. 6d. each.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now ready, 248 pages, cloth lettered, red edges, 4s.

CAROLS FOR USE IN CHURCH DURING CHRISTMAS AND EPIPHANY. By R. R. CHOPE, M.A., Vicar of S. Augustine's, South Kensington, &c. The Music edited by HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster. With an introduction by S. BARING-GOULD, M.A., Rector of East Mersea, Author of "The Lives of the Saints," &c. In this work there are Carols for Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, S. Stephen, S. John, Holy Innocents, New Year's Eve, New Year's Day, Circumcision, Epiphany, Sundays after Epiphany, Conversion of S. Paul, Purification of B.V.M. The Traditional Carols are from different counties and countries—the modern by well-known authors.

"The Epiphany Carols are a noticeable feature in the book, and give it a special value. Mr. Chope has done a real service by the publication of this book."—Guardian.

"Bids fair to become as popular as his former work."—Morning Post.

"By far the best and most copious collection of carols. We earnestly recommend it."—Literary Churchman.

"A real treasure—an admirable book."—John Bull.

"The best and most copious by far."—The Choir.

"A book of genuine musical interest, fitted for popular and congregational use."—English Churchman.

"We welcome with great pleasure Mr. Chope's 'Carols for Use in Church during Christmas and Epiphany.' The music is most carefully edited by Mr. Herbert Stephen Irons, who has introduced some original melodies; and there is a learned and interesting historical essay by Mr. Baring-Gould. This book should be found at all Christmas choir festivals. Well adapted for the Church services."—Saturday Review.

Applications for grants of Carols, Music, or Words should be made to the Rev. R. R. CHOPE, Wilton House, Hereford Square, South Kensington.

A. Cloth, gilt lettered	s. d.
B. Suitable for presents in handsome binding designed by Mr. Butterfield	4 0
C. Words only, in paper covers	7 6
D. Words only, cloth, gilt lettered	0 6
E. TREBLE PART, in paper covers	1 0
F. Ditto, cloth, gilt lettered	1 0

London: METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough Street;
NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

NEW AND OLD.

THE WORDS EDITED BY THE

REV. HENRY RAMSDEN BRAMLEY, M.A.

THE MUSIC EDITED BY

JOHN STAINER, M.A., Mus. Doc.

FIRST SERIES, paper covers	s. d.
" " cloth gilt	1 6
SECOND SERIES, paper covers	2 6
" " cloth gilt	1 6
FIRST AND SECOND SERIES COMPLETE, cloth gilt	2 6
THE WORDS ONLY, FIRST AND SECOND SERIES,	4 0
each	0 1½

Each Carol published separately, One Penny each.

ILLUSTRATED EDITION, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt, 7 6

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A SELECTION OF

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

FROM THE COLLECTION EDITED BY THE

REV. H. R. BRAMLEY AND DR. STAINER,

ARRANGED FOR

MEN'S VOICES.

The growing use of Carols as open-air music on winter nights, when soprano voices, either of boys or women, are not easily obtained, has suggested the issue of the above, which includes twenty-four of the most popular Carols, old and new.

CONTENTS.

I. A Virgin unspotted	Traditional.
II. The Manger Throne	C. Steggall, Mus.D.
III. Sleep, holy Babe	Rev. J. B. Dykes, M.A., Mus.D.
IV. Good Christian men, rejoice	Old German.
V. 'Twas in the winter cold	J. Barnby.
'VI. Good King Wenceslas	Helmore's Carols.
VII. Come! ye lofty	Sir George Elvey, Mus.D.
VIII. God rest you, merry gentlemen	Traditional.
IX. Listen, lordings	Sir Fred. A. G. Ouseley.
X. The first Nowell	Traditional.
XI. When Christ was born	Arthur H. Brown.
XII. Jesu, hail!	J. Stainer, M.A., Mus.D.
XIII. The seven joys of Mary	Traditional.
XIV. What Child is this	Old English.
XV. The moon shone bright	Traditional.
XVI. The Virgin and Child	C. Steggall, Mus.D.
XVII. The holly and the ivy	Old French.
XVIII. The Lord at first	Traditional.
XIX. The Incarnation	Traditional.
XX. The Cherry-tree Carol	Traditional.
XXI. A Cradle-song of the Blessed Virgin	J. Barnby.
XXII. Jacob's Ladder	Traditional.
XXIII. Dives and Lazarus	Traditional.
XXIV. The Wassail Song	Traditional.

Price, complete, Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

WHILE SHEPHERDS (Old Cornish Carol)	2d.
CHRISTIANS, BE THANKFUL	3d.
ALL MY HEART THIS NIGHT REJOICES	6d.

By the Rev. V. W. POPHAM.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

TWENTY-ONE CAROLS FOR ONE PENNY.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

MUSIC AND WORDS.

A SELECTION OF TWENTY-ONE CAROLS AND HYMNS FOR CHRISTMASTIDE,

With Music arranged for Four Voices by W. H. ESSEX, Organist. SUITED FOR CONGREGATIONAL, SCHOOL, & HOME USE.

May be had either in the Tonic Sol-fa or the Old Notation.

PRICE ONE PENNY EACH.

London: 56, PATERNOSTER ROW, AND OF ALL BOOKSELLERS.

"THERE CAME A LITTLE CHILD TO EARTH." Christmas Carol. Set to music by ROBERT BROWN-BORTHWICK, Vicar of All Saints', Scarborough. Price 3d. Reduction for orders of not less than twelve copies. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SIMPLE CAROLLERS ARE WE. Carol for Christmas-tide. Words by J. P. DOUGLAS. Music by J. B. BOUCHER. Price 2d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHRISTMAS BELLS.—New and easy Four-part Song for Christmas, by W. HAYNES. Price 3d. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CARDS.

CHRISTMAS WISHES AND PROMISES FOR THE NEW YEAR. A Packet of Twelve Cards, beautifully printed in colours by Messrs. Dupuy and Co., of Paris. 1s. the packet.

PRESENTATION CARDS. Cabinet Series. Two Packets of elegant designs in the best style of Chromo-Lithography. 1s. 6d. per packet, containing six cards. Packets C and D, for Christmas; packets A and B, for Birthdays, &c.

CHEERY CHIMES FOR CHRISTMAS AND THE NEW YEAR. A Packet of Twelve Picture Cards engraved on Steel, and printed in colours in a superior style. Twelve different cards. 1s. the packet.

HOLLY BERRIES. A Packet of Cards for Christmas and the New Year. Beautifully printed in colours. 6d. the packet.

AUNT MARY'S PACKET FOR CHRISTMAS AND THE NEW YEAR. A Packet of Twelve Picture Cards. 9d. the packet.

UNCLE HENRY'S PACKET FOR CHRISTMAS AND THE NEW YEAR. A Packet of Twelve Picture Cards. 9d. per packet.

GREETINGS FOR CHRISTMAS AND THE NEW YEAR. A Packet of Six richly Coloured Designs. 6d. the packet.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS AND NEW YEAR'S WISHES. Twelve Coloured Cards. 9d. per packet.

MOTTOES AND VERSES FOR CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR. 4d. per packet.

THE RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY:

London: 56, Paternoster Row; and of all Booksellers.

MUSICAL CHRISTMAS BOX at 5s., worth 16s.; or 2s. 6d., worth 8s.—This advertisement should bring thousands of replies from Organists, Choirmasters, and those with small incomes who desire what is really good and cheap for Organ, Harmonium, or Pianoforte. Readers of the Musical Times are advised to send for a prospectus to Dr. Fowle, 5, Sion Hill, Ramsgate, and judge for themselves. Post-cards replied to, but the thin ones are often lost, and should be avoided.

ARTHUR SULLIVAN'S

NEW SONG

CHRISTMAS BELLS AT SEA

Words by C. L. KENNY

Music by ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

4s.; POSTAGE-FREE, 2s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ADVENT HYMN.

IN LOWLY GUISE THY KING APPEARETH

Translated from the German of FRIEDRICH RUCKERT by

Rev. J. TROUTBECK, M.A.

Composed by ROBERT SCHUMANN.

OP. 71. 8vo, 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR ADVENT.

THE BENEDICTE

SET TO MUSIC BY THE FOLLOWING

MODERN COMPOSERS.

(Octavo size.)

J. BARNBY	1½d.
W. T. BEST	3d.
JOHN FOSTER	1½d.
W. S. HOYTE,	2d.
MONTEME SMITH (two settings)	1½d.
J. TURLE (two settings)	1½d.
REV. C. A. WICKES (two settings)	1½d.
Arranged to Chants by DR. STAINER, J. TURLE, and H. S. IRONS	2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR ADVENT.

THE BENEDICTUS

SET TO MUSIC BY THE FOLLOWING
MODERN COMPOSERS.

(Octavo size.)

J. BARNBY, in E	6d.
I. BAPTISTE CALKIN, in B flat	4d.
DR. DYKES, in F	2d.
DR. GARRETT, in D	3d.
Do. in F	4d.
SIR JOHN GOSS, in A (unison)	4d.
Do. in D (4 voices)	3d.
Do. in D (chant)	6d.
E. HERBERT	3d.
E. J. HOPKINS, in F	6d.
A. H. LITTLETON (chant)	3d.
C. H. H. PARRY, in D	3d.
H. SMART, in F	4d.
BOYTON SMITH, in E flat (chant)	3d.
DR. JOHN SMITH, in B flat	6d.
DR. J. STAINER, in E flat	4d.
Do. in A	4d.
Do. to 3rd Gregorian tone	1½d.
Do. to 6th Tone B	1½d.
DR. C. STEGGALL, in G	3d.
E. H. THORNE (chant)	3d.
B. TOURS, in F (unison)	3d.
Do. in F (4 voices)	4d.
J. TURLE (chant)	3d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition. Price 3d.

BENEDICTE, with appropriate Chants. Three different Settings, by ALEX. S. COOPER.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; and WEEKES and Co.

"REST, PILGRIM, REST."

IN MEMORIAM of my Father (Prebendary of Salisbury, and cousin of the late Earl of Craven), my Mother, and Sister. Funeral Hymn, suitable for all such occasions, and sent gratis to any person who likes to write to me for a copy. Dr. Fowle, 5, Sion Hill, Ramsgate.

PLAYED IN INNUMERABLE CHURCHES.

THE ORGANIST'S MARCH. 1s. 6d. Half-price. ADVENT MARCH and CHRISTMAS DAY MARCH, same price. The three for 1s. 7d., or the set of twelve Marches (apply for list) at 4d. each. Postage, 4d. Dr. Fowle, 5, Sion Hill, Ramsgate. Catalogues free, and of Christmas music.

Just published.

TWO HYMNS, set to music by E. CHOLMELEY JONES, M.A.: 1. "Art thou weary." 2. "Hark! Hark! my soul." Price, each, 4d.; per dozen, 2s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PEACE AND WAR.

A NEW CANTATA. Price One Shilling. London: F. PITMAN. My City Choir (100 voices) will sing my little Cantata on 21st November, and I shall be happy to forward a ticket to any conductor who will send address. George Wells, St. Cecilia House, South Hackney, E.

AUSTRALIAN MUSIC.—Song, "THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD," and Duet, "EARLY IN THE MORNING," from the Cantata, "Adoration," sung by the Melbourne Philharmonic Society, composed by AUSTIN T. TURNER.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Ballarat: A. T. TURNER.

VIOLETS. Song. The words by J. MOULTRIE. The music composed by ROSA GUERINI née Wilberforce. 2s.
London: SCHOTT and Co., 159, Regent Street.

Just published.

A LEAVE-TAKING. Song for Tenor or Soprano. The Poetry by ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE; the Music by C. SALAMAN. 4s. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

HARVEST-SONG, "THE RIGHT GOOD FELLOW," by the Rev. Canon BENNETT. Music by H. H. JONES. 8vo, 6d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE REAPER AND THE FLOWERS. Four-part Song with Solos. Words by H. W. LONGFELLOW. Music by J. B. BOUCHER. Price 3d. A folio edition of the above, for one voice, may be had, post-free, price 1s. 6d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just published, price 2s. (net),

NEW SONG,

THE COMING YEAR

WORDS BY DEAN ALFORD

MUSIC BY GABRIEL DAVIS.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"It would be difficult to find words better suited to musical treatment than those by the late Dean of Canterbury. Mrs. Davis has evidently studied them well, and shown considerable merit."—Orchestra.

"First in the rank is 'The Coming Year,' the touching words by Dean Alford, the appropriate music by Gabriel Davis."—Graphic.

The beautiful words of this song were written shortly before the death of the late lamented Dean of Canterbury.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWEEDLEDUM AND TWEEDLEDEE.—Résumé of the London Musical Season. Amusing Song for Christmas, by HUMPTY DUMPTY. 1s. 6d.; post-free, 9 stamps. F. Pitman, 20, Paternoster Row, London, E.C.

GRAND MASONIC MARCH. By J. B. BOUCHER. London: C. Jefferys, 67, Berners Street, W. Price 4s.; post-free for 24 stamps.

FLORA. Grand March. By J. B. BOUCHER. London: Novello, Ewer and Co. Price 4s.; post-free for 24 stamps.

SMALLWOOD'S
CLASSICAL & SECULAR EXTRACTS
FOR THE PIANOFORTE.

No. 52 Nos. ready, 3s. each.

1. Classical.—Hymn of Praise (Mendelssohn).
19. " Kyrie Eleison (Mozart's Twelfth Service).
35. " I know that my Redeemer (Messiah).

4. Secular.—May-bells (Mendelssohn).
20. " Selection from Die Zauberflöte (Mozart).
40. " Selection from Masaniello (Auber).
Post-free, 18 stamps each number.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

JUST PUBLISHED.

SMALLWOOD'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

TO TEACHERS OF THE PIANOFORTE.—SMALLWOOD'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR, strongly bound in thick paper covers, 5s., half-price, 2s. 6d.; sample professional copies, 1s. 3d., on receipt of card. Mr. Smallwood's name being so well known as the author of hundreds of successful pianoforte pieces, written expressly by him for teaching purposes, this important work is sure to be hailed with delight by teachers and students of the pianoforte. It contains everything requisite for a beginner to know, explained in the simplest language, carefully graduated lessons, interesting and pleasing exercises, several beautiful original melodies, expressly written by the author, many of the most favourite airs by celebrated composers, some pretty duets, and a choice selection of sacred music suitable for Sundays, making it altogether, without exception, the most interesting and by far the easiest tutor ever published both to teach and to learn from.—Francis Brothers and Day, 351, Oxford Street.

VIOLIN AND PIANO.

BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Un petit bijou 1s. 6d.
MOMENTS DE LOISIR. Morceaux classiques et populaires.

No.		No.
1.	Boccherini. Menuet ... 3s.	11.	Haydn. Bagpipe Minuet ... 3s.
2.	Beethoven. Pensée divine 3s.	12.	Gottschalk. Berceuse ... 3s.
3.	Bach. Bourrée en Sol ... 4s.	13.	Beethoven. Adelaide ... 4s.
4.	Hause. Herzensliedchen 3s.	14.	Hause. Engelsreigen ... 3s.
5.	Corelli. Saraband et Gigue 3s.	15.	Handel. Air à la Bourrée ... 3s.
6.	Wekerlin. Sonnet ... 3s.	16.	Wekerlin. Madrigal ... 3s.
7.	Hungarian Dances. Book 1 4s.	17.	Haydn. Rondo giocoso ... 4s.
8.	Hungarian Dances. Book 2 4s.	18.	Wekerlin. Menuet ... 3s.
9.	Corelli. Gigue in A ... 3s.	19.	Bach. Gavotte in D ... 3s.
10.	Corelli. Gigue in C ... 3s.	20.	Fringuer. Queen Bess's Solemn Danca ... 4s.

"The most popular series of the day in its special line. All the arrangements are admirable and worthy of their designation."—Graphic.
Published by W. Czerny, 349, Oxford Street, W.

Just published.

ANDANTE (PILGRIM'S MARCH) from MENDELSSOHN'S ITALIAN SYMPHONY, Op. 90, transcribed for the Pianoforte by JULES DE SIVRAI, 3s.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SCHOTT & CO.'S NEW AND SEPARATE CATALOGUES

PIANOFORTE MUSIC. OF CHAMBER MUSIC (Piano VIOLIN Do. Trios, Quartets, &c.).
TENOR (VIOLA) Do. SACRED Do.
VIOLONCELLO Do. MASSES.
DOUBLE BASS Do. ELEMENTARY VOCAL Do.
FLUTE Do. FRENCH ROMANCES.
CLARINET Do. MELODIES of JULES FAURE.
ORGAN Do. (containing all M. Also of works of
A. Guilman's works). RICHARD WAGNER and HARMONIUM Do. CHARLES GOUNOD.
HARP Do.

Post-free on application to 159, REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.

Branch Establishments at Mayence, Paris, Brussels, Rotterdam,
Frankfurt-on-the-Main, and Leipzig.

NEW PART-SONGS

By W. W. PEARSON.

DEPARTED JOYS. Words by Thomas Moore	2d.
SUMMER AND WINTER	2d.
SWEET SPRING (Madrigal)	3d.
THE OCEAN	3d.
SOUL OF LIVING MUSIC	3d.
OVER THE MOUNTAIN SIDE (Four-part Serenade)	3d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GLEES (Seven) for A.T.T.B., by JAS. BATTYE.
Folio, with Piano accompaniment ad lib. Price 5s. 6d., post-free, of D. Scholfield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.
Also FOUR GLEES for S.A.T.B., 3s. 6d., by the same Author.

POPULAR FOUR-PART SONGS BY GABRIEL DAVIS.

THE KNIGHT'S RETURN	2d.
GOD SAVE THE PRINCE. (12th Edition)	2d.
THE DISTANT SEA	2d.
TO THE WOODS	2d.
HARK! 'TIS MUSIC	2d.
THE HOUR OF REST	2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S POPULAR PART-SONGS

FOR S.A.T.B. 8vo.

		s. d.
1. I love the merry springtime	20th Edition	0 2
2. Gaily through the greenwood	26th Do.	0 2
3. Welcome, merry May	6th Do.	0 2
4. The mountain maid	6th Do.	0 2
5. Come o'er the mountain	8th Do.	0 2
6. Hail, merry, merry Christmas	15th Do.	0 2
7. Songs of praise the angels sang	5th Do.	0 3
8. Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow	6th Do.	0 3
9. Fairy revels	9th Do.	0 3
10. Oh! peaceful vale of rest	5th Do.	0 1½
11. The merry bird	5th Do.	0 3
12. Come, let us be merry and gay	4th Do.	0 3
13. Forest echoes	7th Do.	0 3
14. Haste, ye merry elves	5th Do.	0 3
15. The streamlet	2nd Do.	0 3
16. Sunshine and shadow	2nd Do.	0 3
17. Sunny rays	2nd Do.	0 3
18. A happy New Year	2nd Do.	0 3
19. The coming of Spring	3rd Do.	0 3
20. England's glory	Just published	0 3
21. A merry Christmas to you all!	Do.	0 3

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W., and 80 & 81, Queen Street, E.C.

Manchester: HIME and ADDISON, and FORSYTH BROTHERS.

Just published.
KINDERGARTEN SONGS and GAMES.—
Second Series. Edited by Mrs. E. BERRY and Madame
MICHAELIS of the Froebel Society. With an Introduction by Miss
SHIRREFF. Paper covers, 1s.; cloth, 2s.

First series, paper covers, 1s.; cloth, 2s.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition, price 2d. each.

NEW PART-SONGS, by ALEXANDER S. COOPER.—
"Happy bygone days," "The wayside well," "Cheerily," and "Sweet echo," for mixed voices; "O tranquil eve," and "Every season," for male voices.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; and WEEKES and Co.

'TIS THE LAST ROSE OF SUMMER.
Arranged by BENJAMIN CONGREVE as Soprano Solo, accompanied by four-part chorus. Price 1½d.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO, EWER and CO.'S ONLY COMPLETE AND
UNIFORM EDITION OF

MENDELSSOHN'S THIRTEEN TWO-PART SONGS

With the German and W. BARTHOLOMEW's Original English Words.

Complete in One Volume, folio, 5s. net. Octavo, paper, 2s. net; cloth gilt, 4s. net; or singly, 2s. each. The separate Numbers are sold at half-price.

No. 1. I would that my love.	No. 7. My bark is bounding.
2. The passage bird.	8. Can I light-hearted be?
3. Greeting.	9. Evening song.
4. Autumn song.	10. Zuleika and Hassan.
5. O wert thou in the cauld blast.	11. The Sabbath morn.
6. The maybells and the flowers.	12. The harvest field.
	13. Song from Ruy Blas.

N.B.—The Quartett score to No. 13, 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CHORAL SONGS,
as sung by Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir, the Birmingham Festival
Choral Society, &c.

No. 1. "THE SILENT LAND." Price 3d.

"Replete with melody. Some phrases are of remarkable beauty."—
Musical Times.

No. 2. "THE BETTER LAND." Price 4d.

"Distinguished by beauty of melody and richness of melody."—
Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"Full of charming effects."—Birmingham Daily Post.

No. 3. "THE DAY IS DONE." Price 4d.

Composed expressly for Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SOUTHWELL SCHOOL SONGS. First series,
1s. 6d. By the Rev. R. F. SMITH, Minor Canon of Southwell.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The Queen.—"Fourteen" (sixteen) "capital little songs in a cheap handy form. Quite new and withal pretty and neatly written."

The Schoolmaster.—"Easy, pleasing tunes, suitable to school use.
The composer shows himself a true musician; each 'lay' has a separate tune, which is catching, appropriate, and quite in old ballad-song style."

The Musical Times.—"The sympathetic and musicianlike manner in which he has wedded them to melodies which cannot fail to please the young vocalists for whom they are expressly designed."

By the same Composer,

TE DEUM in F, 3d. ANTHEM (S.A.T.B.), "The Lord is nigh," 6d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition.—Reduced Prices.

CHORAL SONGS FOR SCHOOL & HOME. FORTY-TWO ORIGINAL SONGS FOR

ONE, TWO, OR FOUR VOICES.

COMPOSED BY ROBERT JACKSON.

Cloth, complete, 3s.; Parts I. and II., paper cover, 1s. each; Single Numbers, 1d.

From Concordia.

"This little book is designed for singing-classes in schools, and the simplicity, tunefulness, and attractiveness of the small compositions it contains eminently adapt it for such a purpose."

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

New Edition, complete in One Volume, 142 pages; paper cover, 5s.
net; handsomely bound in scarlet cloth, gilt edges (as a gift or prize book), 7s. 6d. net.

"THE VILLAGE ORGANIST."—Seventy-eight

Easy Voluntaries, expressly contributed by Sir Julius Benedict;
Sir William Sterndale Bennett, M.A., Mus. Doc., Cantab.; Sir George
J. Elvey, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; Sir F. A. G. Ouseley, M.A., Mus. Doc.,
Oxon.; Dr. G. B. Arnold, Dr. E. T. Chipp, Dr. J. B. Dykes, Dr. H. J.
Gauntlett, Dr. A. S. Holloway, Dr. G. A. Macfarren, Dr. E. G. Monk,
Dr. E. F. Rimbault, Dr. William Spark, Dr. J. Stainer, Dr. C. G.
Verrinder, Dr. S. S. Wesley; C. Goodban, Mus. Bac., Oxon.; S. Reay,
Mus. Bac., Oxon.; J. Barnby, J. F. Barnett, R. Forsey Brion,
J. Baptiste Calkin, William Hutchins Calcott, W. G. Cousins, E. M.
Delaborde, Henry Farmer, F. E. Gladstone, John Hullah, H. S. Irons,
C. W. Lavington, Mrs. Mounsey-Bartholomew, Franz Nava, Alberto
Randegger, Brinley Richards, J. E. Richardson, Charles Salaman,
E. Silas, Henry Smart, Boyton Smith, E. H. Thorne, J. Tilleard, and
E. H. Turpin.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

 "THE VILLAGE ORGANIST" is very popular with town Organists
as a lesson-book for their organ and harmonium pupils.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S

LIST OF WORKS SUITABLE FOR CHRISTMAS PRESENTS AND SCHOOL PRIZES.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS—NEW AND OLD.		NET PRICES.
	Words edited by Rev. H. R. BRAMLEY, M.A. Music edited by Dr. STAINER. Beautifully illustrated and elegantly bound, gilt edges ...	S. 7	D. 6
THE SUNLIGHT OF SONG.
	A Collection of Sacred and Moral Songs, with original Music by the most Eminent English Composers. With 46 illustrations. Handsomely bound ...	10	6
SACRED SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS.
	Words by FRANCES RIDLEY HAVERGAL. Music composed and arranged by ALBERTO RANDEGGER. Illustrated and elegantly bound, gilt edges ...	5	0
NATIONAL NURSERY RHYMES AND SONGS.
	Set to Music by J. W. ELLIOTT. With 65 illustrations. Elegantly bound, gilt edges	7	6
MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS. The only complete Edition.
	Edited and in part retranslated by NATALIA MACFARREN; with portrait of composer. Elegantly bound, gilt edges. Folio ...	21	0
MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS. The only complete Edition.
	Paper covers, 4s. Scarlet cloth, gilt edges. Octavo ...	6	0
MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS. FOR DEEP VOICE.
	Paper covers, 6s. Scarlet cloth, gilt edges. Octavo ...	8	0
MENDELSSOHN'S PIANOFORTE WORKS.
	In three volumes. Elegantly bound in scarlet cloth, gilt edges. Folio. Each ...	12	0
MENDELSSOHN'S PIANOFORTE WORKS.
	In five volumes. Paper covers, 4s. each. Scarlet cloth, gilt edges. Octavo. Each ...	6	0
MENDELSSOHN'S LIEDER OHNE WORTE.
	The only complete Edition , containing Books 7 and 8. Elegantly bound. Folio ...	12	0
MENDELSSOHN'S LIEDER OHNE WORTE.
	The only complete Edition , containing Books 7 and 8. Cloth, gilt edges. Octavo ...	6	0
	Paper covers, 4s.
BEETHOVEN'S SONATAS. New and complete Edition.
	Edited and fingered by AGNES ZIMMERMANN. Handsomely bound in cloth. Folio	21	0
BEETHOVEN'S SONATAS. New and complete Edition.
	Edited and fingered by AGNES ZIMMERMANN. Paper covers, 5s. Cloth, gilt. Octavo...	7	6
MOZART'S SONATAS. New and complete Edition.
	Edited and fingered by AGNES ZIMMERMANN. Handsomely bound in cloth. Folio ...	18	0
SCHUMANN'S SONGS.
	Volume I., containing Op. 24, 25, 27, and 30. Edited and in part translated by NATALIA MACFARREN. Bound in cloth, gilt edges. Folio ...	10	6
SCHUMANN'S VOCAL ALBUM.
	Containing 30 of his most celebrated Songs. Handsomely bound, gilt edges. Octavo ...	4	6
SCHUMANN'S PIANOFORTE ALBUM.
	New Edition. Containing 13 additional pieces (56 pieces in all). Cloth, gilt. Octavo ..	4	6
THE HARMONIUM TREASURY.
	Vol. I. A Series of Select Pieces (Sacred). } Arranged for the Harmonium by J. W. ELLIOTT.
	Vol. II. A Series of Select Pieces (Secular). }
	Handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges. Folio. Each ...	10	6
A DICTIONARY OF MUSICAL TERMS.
	Edited by J. STAINER, M.A., Mus. Doc., and W. A. BARRETT, Mus. Bac. Cloth gilt ...	16	0
MUSICAL MYTHS AND FACTS.
	By CARL ENGEL. Two Volumes. Demy 8vo, cloth ...	12	0

LONDON: 1, BERNERS STREET (W.), AND 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET (E.C.)

MASON AND HAMLIN AMERICAN CABINET ORGANS.

THE NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE

CONTAINS

DETAILED DESCRIPTIONS of the new and popular Styles, Cases, and Actions.

DESCRIPTION OF STOPS and Mechanism, Factories, and peculiarities of Construction.

HINTS FOR MANAGEMENT and for production of Effects.

TESTIMONIALS from all parts of the world endorsing the superiority of the MASON AND HAMLIN ORGANS, and testifying to the merits, durability, and improvement of the quality of tone.

Sent post-free on application to

METZLER AND CO., 37, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, LONDON (W).

MASON AND HAMLIN AMERICAN CABINET ORGANS.

Prices from Fourteen to Three Hundred Guineas.

Length, 3 ft. 10 in. Depth, 1 ft. 11 in. Height, 3 ft. 3 in.

- STYLE 214.—In handsome case, solid walnut back and front; panelled front and ends, with carved ornaments. The walnut wood is brought to a fine surface by dint of hard rubbing, and then finished in oil, so that the cases will keep their good looks perpetually. This organ has two sets of reeds of five octaves compass divided, so that either half can be used separately; seven stops—Bass, Viola, Diapason; Treble, Flute, Melodia; Throughout, Tremulant, I. Forte, II. Forte. Knee Swell. Action 4; Case 4. The scale of keyboard is from FFF, and the stops are divided at the centre B and C. Price 28 Guineas; on the Three Years' System, £2 15s. per Quarter.
- STYLE 222.—Is in a precisely similar Case, and contains all the musical elements of the above, with the exception of the Tremulant stop, which is omitted, and in its place appears the Vox HUMANA and Automatic Swell. Action 5; Case 4. Price 30 Guineas; on the Three Years' System, £2 17s. 9d. per Quarter.
- STYLE 219.—The Case is the same as Style 214, and the musical parts and capacities are identical, but the Flute stop is omitted, and in its place appears Seraphone. It has two full sets of reeds, divided as above, but with changes in character and in combinations. There are nine stops—Bass, Viola, Viola Dolce, Diapason; Treble, Melodia, Voix Céleste, Seraphone; Throughout, Tremulant, I. Forte, II. Forte. Automatic Swell, Knee Swell. Action 8; Case 4. The Viola Dolce and Voix Céleste stops give a softened and subdued quality of tone; therefore this style is remarkable for its broad and quiet effects and its full harmonies. It is most brilliant and melodious, and is becoming an established favourite. Price 32 Guineas; on the Three Years' System, £3 1s. 8d. per Quarter.
- STYLE 230.—The Case, though necessarily plain, is of the best material, thoroughly made, and well finished. In this style will be found two full sets of reeds of five octaves compass, a strong and efficient swell and perfect mechanism. It has three stops Throughout—Diapason, Principal, Tremulant. Knee Swell. Action 30; Case 60. Price 25 Guineas; on the Three Years' System, £2 8s. 3d. per Quarter.
- STYLE 235.—The remarks made upon Style 219 and 230 will mostly apply to this Organ. Considering the price asked, this is THE BEST and CHEAPEST STYLE of ORGAN in the world. The reeds and mechanical parts of all the organs are precisely alike, and the interior work of the cheapest organ is as thoroughly made as the best. Action 8; Case 60. Price 28 Guineas; on the Three Years' System, £2 15s. per Quarter.

LONDON: METZLER AND CO., 37, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET (W.)

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LISTS POST-FREE.

JOHN BRINSMEAD AND SONS'

Patented 1862, 1868, 1871,
and 1875, in Great Britain,
France, Prussia, Austria,
Italy, Belgium, and America.

GOLD MEDAL PIANOS.

18, WIGMORE STREET, LONDON, W.

The Grand Prize Medal and Diploma of
Merit, Philadelphia, 1876.
The Grand Diploma of Honour, Paris, 1874.
The Gold Medal, Paris, 1870.
Le Diplome de la Mention Extraordinaire,
Amsterdam, 1869.
La Medaille d'Honneur, Paris, 1867.
Prize Medal, London, 1862, etc., etc.
The Gold Medal, South Africa, 1877.

ON THE THREE YEARS' SYSTEM.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

SIR JULIUS BENEDICT. { "This most ingenious and valuable invention cannot fail to meet with success."
SYDNEY SMITH. { "The touch is absolute perfection."
BRINLEY RICHARDS. { "A very clever and useful invention, and likely to be extensively adopted."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS. Six feet six inches in length, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action. Price, 105 to 115 Guineas.

"The tone of the Grand now referred to possessed all the qualities that a good piano ought to have, and in touch and action was perfect.
The sweet and silvery quality of the upper octaves was worthy of special admiration."—The Era.

"Sir Julius Benedict played his well-known composition, 'Where the Bee sucks,' on one of Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons' Grand Pianos, with the recently patented improvements, which enabled him to produce the sustained tones with great variety of effect in the light and shade of tones, especially so when extreme delicacy of touch is required."—Court Journal.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS. Six feet six inches in length, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action. Price, 105 to 115 Guineas.

"Admirable repetition, perfect sostenuto, and luscious tone of the instrument fully justified the performer's choice."—Sunday Times.

"Magnificent, grand, the air telling out with almost vocal clearness and sweetness to the bell-like treble arpeggio accompaniment, which contrasted excellently with the extraordinary power produced in the forte passages."—Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic News.

"An immense improvement in arpeggios. The rapid passages in the upper register, the beautiful flute-like tone, and quick and perfect repetition, were very effective."—Figaro.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' CONCERT IRON GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Re- peater Action.

"Sir Julius Benedict, now seldom heard as a soloist, delighted the public once more by his arrangement of 'Where the Bee sucks.' He played upon a new Patent Grand by Brinsmead, possessing a remarkably loud and clear tone."—Echo.

"The upright Iron Grand Piano, with sostenente sounding-board,
the mechanism produces the obvious result of a fuller and richer tone."
—Morning Advertiser.

"Every means are adopted to insure the production of perfect instruments."—The Orchestra.

GUARANTEED FOR FIVE YEARS.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LISTS AND DESCRIPTIONS, WITH OPINIONS OF THE LONDON PRESS AND MUSICAL PROFESSION
FORWARDED POST-FREE UPON APPLICATION.

Gilbert L. Bauer's Prize Medal Drawing-Room Organs, from 8 Guineas to 300 Guineas.

JOHN BRINSMEAD AND SONS,

18, WIGMORE STREET, LONDON, W.,
AND THE "BRINSMEAD PIANOFORTE WORKS," GRAFTON ROAD, KENTISH TOWN, N.W.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER and Co. at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)
Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row; and by DITSON and Co., Boston, New York, and Philadelphia.—Thursday, November 1, 1877.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action

"Where all the pianos go to seems somewhat of a mystery, for a really good instrument will last a lifetime: and yet every year thousands are made by each of the great London manufacturers, while the numbers made by the 200 or more smaller firms must represent an enormous number in the course of each year. The improvements made in English pianos have caused this trade rapidly to increase, until one pianoforte manufactory after another has been built to supply the growing demand. One of the largest of these, lately erected by Messrs.
John Brinsmead and Sons, of Wigmore Street, covers nearly an acre of ground in the Grafton Road, Kentish Town, and is intended to accommodate 300 workmen. These works alone can supply 3,000 pianos annually, and there are at least three manufactories in London capable of making an equal number."—Illustrated London News.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

"A metal bridge of a peculiar form is used to produce the treble, and a much finer tone is produced than if a wooden bridge were used."—Morning Post.

"A perfect check, great power, and quick repetition."—Times of India.

"Produces a better quality of tone, greater durability, the new patent perfect repetition, with a check (never before attained), with the certainty of the instrument never blocking."—Land and Water.

"Beautiful, light, and elastic touch, and an instant repetition."—Globe.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

"The softest touch is sufficient to secure a reply, the touch and facility of repetition are really perfect."—Belgravia.

"The advantages fully justify the term 'Perfect' Check Repeater Action."—John Bull.

"The touch is very sure, light, and elastic."—Musical Times.

"This invention is simplicity itself."—The Queen.

"The latest and greatest improvements in the pianoforte."—City Press.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.

On the Three Years' System.
"Receive the greatest approbation everywhere of musicians and manufacturers."—Standard.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action, from 33 to 300 Guineas. May be obtained of all the principal Musicsellers.

THE MUSICAL
TIMES

THE "SPÉCIALITÉ" WINES.

THE SURPASSING POPULARITY AND REPUTATION OF THE

"SPÉCIALITÉ" SHERRY,

"FREE FROM ACIDITY AND HEAT,"

Has prompted its Proprietors to produce other Wines in DAILY DEMAND of equal INDEFECTIBILITY. THEY confidently submit these Wines as being "the Produce of the Grape," with their NATURAL REFRESHING VINOUS FLAVOUR and BOUQUET. The low quotations are attributable to the combined advantages of extensive sales and the "cash payment system."

	Dozen.		Dozen.
The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Sherry	30s.	The "PRIMITIVE" Sherry, Dessert Wine, Dry or Rich	36s.
The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Montilla		The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Claret	20s.
The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Manzanilla		The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Burgundy	24s.
The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Port		The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Hock and Moselle	30s.
The "SPÉCIALITÉ" Madeira	42s.

THE "SPÉCIALITÉ" SPARKLING WINES.

	Dozen.	In Pints.
CHAMPAGNE	50s.	27s.
MOSELLE
HOCK

Saumur Champagne - - - 30s. MATCHLESS (of its class).
RAILWAY CARRIAGE PAID.

FELTOE AND SONS.

Chief Establishment: ALBEMARLE STREET, W. City Offices: 80, BISHOPSGATE STREET, E.C.
ESTABLISHED 62 YEARS.

NOVELLO'S ORIGINAL OCTAVO EDITIONS.

THE CHORUSES

OF THE

ORATORIOS, CANTATAS, &c.

IN VOCAL SCORE, WITHOUT ACCOMPANIMENT, ESPECIALLY

FOR THE USE OF CHORAL SOCIETIES.

	s. d.		s. d.
Handel's Messiah.	0 8	Mendelssohn's Elijah.	1 6
„ Judas Maccabæus. 0 8		„ St. Paul.	1 0
(IN THE PRESS.)		„ Hymn of Praise 0 6
„ Samson (IN THE PRESS) . 0 8		„
Haydn's Creation.	0 8	Bennett's May Queen.	1 0

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

All the above works may be had in paper boards, price 6d. each extra.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

The Music Pages only are stereotyped; those persons who would possess the Musical Articles, Notices, Advertisements, &c., can only insure doing so by taking the work as it appears.

No. 418.—Vol. 18.
Registered for transmission abroad.

DECEMBER 1, 1877.

Price 3d.; Post-free, 4d.
Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 4s.

CHALLEN AND SON'S GOLD MEDAL PIANOS,

20, OXFORD STREET, LONDON.

ESTABLISHED 1804.

PRIZE MEDAL, LONDON, 1862.

GOLD MEDAL, SOUTH AFRICA, 1877.

The only Firm who obtained the International Exhibition Medal for the special distinction of "excellence of touch and tone."

CHALLEN & SON'S GOLD MEDAL PIANETTE,
WITH CHECK ACTION, IN ELEGANT WALNUT OR ROSEWOOD CASE.
FROM 29 GUINEAS.

"The Pianettes manufactured by CHALLEN & SON are most satisfactory instruments."—Anton Rubinstein.

"I can testify in the strongest manner to the qualities of the Pianette as manufactured by CHALLEN & SON. In every point, as to tone and touch, they are excellent; and I can also certify from experience as to their durability under hard wear."—William Henry Monk, Professor of Music in King's College, London.

CHALLEN & SON'S GOLD MEDAL SEMI-COTTAGE,
WITH CHECK REPEATER ACTION.
FROM 32 GUINEAS.

"The Pianos I have selected from Messrs. CHALLEN & SON have invariably given complete satisfaction, some of them having had to bear the severe test of an Indian climate."—William H. Cummings.

"As a customer of some years' standing, I speak with confidence of the quality of the instruments supplied by Messrs. CHALLEN & SON. The two I have for my own use have had a great deal of wear, and in this respect have entirely satisfied me as to their durability; and the tone and touch of all those selected by me for myself or pupils have been much commended."—Alfred Gilbert, R.A.M.

CHALLEN & SON'S GOLD MEDAL COTTAGE;
TRICHORD THROUGHOUT; BRASS BRIDGE; CHECK REPEATER ACTION.
FROM 60 GUINEAS.

"I hold a very high opinion of Messrs. CHALLEN & SON'S Pianos. Their qualities of tone and touch can be at once estimated; but I can furthermore bear testimony to their great durability."—Lindsay Sloper.

"CHALLEN & SON is a name synonymous with wonderful durability, great beauty of tone, and moderation in price. We know of not one single maker whose Pianos excel theirs in the qualities most desirable in a good and lasting Piano."—Cape Argus, May 7.

EXCELLENCE IS GUARANTEED, AND EVERY INSTRUMENT WARRANTED TO BE OF THE HIGHEST CLASS WORKMANSHIP AND MATERIALS.

EBONISED AND GOLD PIANOS

Kept in Stock, of Superior Make and Elegant Designs.

May be obtained from all Musicsellers. Illustrated List forwarded free.

CHALLEN & SON, 20, OXFORD STREET.
STEAM WORKS—CARDINGTON STREET, EUSTON SQUARE.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MRS. WARREN (Soprano),
Of Mr. C. Hallé's Concerts. For Oratorio or other Concerts, address, 150, Radnor Street, Hulme, Manchester.
Lessons in Singing. References—C. Hallé, Esq., and E. Hecht, Esq.

MRS. ALFRED J. SUTTON (Soprano)
Is open to engagements for Concerts and Oratorios.
54, Duchess Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MADAME PAULINE EIVSON (Soprano).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 57, Walmsley Street, Hull.

MISS DUMVILLE (Soprano).
For Oratorios, &c., address, 119, Elizabeth Street, Cheetham,
Manchester.

CARINA AND EDITH CLELLAND (Soprano and Contralto Vocalists).

For Oratorio and Miscellaneous Concerts, address, 35, Charteris Road,
Finsbury Park, London, N., or Mr. Clelland, Cheetham, Manchester.

MADAME PAULINE GRAYSTON (Soprano).
Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Concerts, &c.
For terms address, C. G. Taylor, 56, Lofthouse Place, Leeds; or
R. D'Oyly Carte, 9A, Craig's Court, Charing Cross, London, S.W.

MISS ROSE STUART (Soprano),
Pupil of G. Perren, Esq.
For Oratorio, Ballad, and Opera Recitals, address, Ivy Cottage, The Green, Stratford, Essex.

MRS. NEWCOMBE (Soprano).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Warrington.

MISS KNOWLES (Soprano).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Robert Town, Liversedge, Yorkshire.

MISS ADA MOORE (Soprano),
Pupil of Signor Randegger. For Oratorio and other Concerts,
95, Bristol Street, Moss Side, Manchester. Lessons in singing.

MISS ANNETTE IVANOVA (Soprano).
For Concerts, &c., "Brooklyn," Howard Road, South Norwood.

MRS. NEESHAM (Soprano).
For Oratorio or other Concerts, address, 118, Burley Road, Leeds.

MISS HELEN SWIFT (Soprano).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 15, Cecil Street, Greenheys,
Manchester.

MISS JOHNSON (Soprano).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 26, Charlotte Street, Oldham.

MADAME ROVINA ARNOLD (Vocalist),
Manchester.
For Oratorios and all principal Soprano business, address, 20, Ducie
Grove, Oxford Road, Manchester.

MISS BRITTON (Mezzo-Soprano).
15, Montpelier Road, Peckham, S.E.

MISS EMILY EMPSALL (Contralto).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 16, High Street, Halifax.

MISS RUTH HARLOW (Contralto).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 34, Booth Street East,
Oxford Street, Manchester.

MISS LOUISA BOWMONT (Contralto).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 51, Mercer Street, Embden
Street, Hulme, Manchester.

MISS HELEN PICKLES (Contralto).
Address, Holywell Green, near Halifax, Yorks.

LUCY NEWSON (Contralto and Pianist).
12, Manor Road, Walworth.

MISS KERSHAW (Contralto).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Clarksfield Terrace, Lees, near Manchester.

MISS HILDA WILSON (Contralto).
For Oratorios, &c., address, 9, Palace Yard, Gloucester.

MISS FLORENCE FRAZER (Contralto).
For Concerts, &c., Signor Siciński, 6, Piccadilly, W.

MISS FLORENCE WYDFORD (Contralto).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. &c.
Address, 95, St. Paul's Road, Lorrimer Square, S.E.

MISS ALICE BERTON (Contralto),
Pupil of Signor Mazzoni. 221, Jubilee Street, Mile End Road.

MR. JOHN M. HAYDEN (Tenor),
Late of S. Andrew's, Wells Street, London.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 74, Windsor Road, Salisbury.

J. GRUNDY (Tenor),
Late Soloist to the Peterborough Choral Society.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, the Cathedral, Canterbury.

MR. WALTER WILLIAMS (Tenor).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Cathedral, St. Asaph.

MR. GREENHILL (Tenor).
7, Park Place, Regent's Park.

MR. VERNEY BINNS (Tenor),
Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Sig. Ciro Pinsuti.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 65, King Cross Street, Halifax.

W. MANN DYSON (Tenor).
For Concerts or Oratorios, address, Cathedral, Worcester.

MR. N. DUMVILLE (Principal Tenor).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address, Cathedral, Manchester.

MR. WELBYE WALLACE (Tenor),
Of the Crystal Palace, and Gentlemen's Concerts, Manchester, &c. &c.,
desires that all communications concerning engagements for Oratorio,
Concerts, or Opera be addressed to 24, Harcourt Terrace, Redcliffe
Square, London, S.W., or care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.,
1, Berners Street, W.

MR. HENRY BRIGGS (Tenor).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address, 7, Brunswick Street, Leeds.

MR. J. WRIGHT (Tenor).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Birkenshaw, near Leeds.

MR. FARLEY SINKINS (Basso).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 14, Cumberland Street East, Regent's Park, London, N.W.

MR. J. A. SCHOFIELD (Bass).
For Oratorios and Concerts, address, Bank Street, Horncastle, Lincoln.

MR. ORLANDO CHRISTIAN (Principal Bass).
Eton College Choir, Windsor.

MR. RICKARD (Bass),
Of the Schubert Society's Concerts, and Pupil of Signor Ciro Pinsuti.
For Oratorios and Concerts, address, King Cross, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MR. THORNTON WOOD (Bass),
Of the Royal Albert Hall Concerts. For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 2, Hallfield Place, Bradford, Yorkshire.

ALBERT E. BISHOP.
(Organ, Harmony, and Counterpoint.)
Address, 26, Wilson Street, E.C.

MR. J. SHARPE (Oboeist).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 235, Lidgett Hill, Pudsey,
near Leeds.
N.B.—Bandmasters and others supplied with Triebert's and Morton's celebrated Oboes. Best Oboe Reeds, 2s. each; Staples recaned, 1s. each.

MR. W. OATES (Flautist).
For Oratorios, Festivals, Miscellaneous Concerts, &c., 71, Denmark Road, Northampton.

MR. CHARLES RENDLE (Elocutionist).
For the Lyrics in "Athalie," Miscellaneous Readings, &c., address, 50, Great Marlborough Street, W.

TO LADIES INTENDING TO VISIT ROME.—
Signora ZAIRA CORTINI, Professor of Piano and Singing in the College of the Royal Academy of St. Cecilia, Rome, begs to inform lady amateurs of music that she is desirous of giving LESSONS in SINGING and PIANO at her residence, 66, Via della Valle, Rome.
Terms, five francs per hour.

MR. H. T. BYWATER, TENOR, is OPEN TO
ENGAGEMENTS FOR ORATORIOS AND MISCELLA-
NEOUS CONCERTS. Address, 36, St. Germain's Road, Forest Hill,
London, S.E.; or 40, Darlington Street, Wolverhampton.

MR. C. A. WHITE (Tenor), R.A.M., begs to announce his removal to 40, Fenwick Road, East Dulwich,
London.

MR. C. H. WELSH, of St. Andrew's, Wells Street, and the Royal Academy of Music, having been appointed to the Tenor Lay-Clerkship in Durham Cathedral, requests that all communications respecting engagements may be addressed to the Royal Academy of Music, London, W.

MISS HOARE (pupil of Madame Sainton's Academy) requests that all communications for Concerts, Oratorios, Pupils, &c., be addressed to her, care of Messrs. Ashbee and Holloway, 23, Spring Street, Paddington.

SINGING and PIANO.—A Lady (pupil of the late Mr. Kerr Gedge of Her Majesty's Chapel Royal) possessing an excellent voice desires ADDITIONAL PUPILS, or would Sing at Concerts. Miss Blanche Elliott, 14, King's Road, Brownwood Park, London, N.

WANTED, a SOLO BOY. Must have a good powerful voice and be able to read music. Board, lodging, first-class education, and advantages offered. Also a Gentleman (Graduate of Oxford or Cambridge preferred), as ASSISTANT MASTER in a Public School. Must be competent to assist the Professor of Music in his duties. Apply to John H. Gower, Mus. B., Trent College, Notts.

WANTED, a CANTOR at a Catholic Church (Gregorian service). Stipend, £12 per annum. Sunday morning service. Apply personally, after Sunday morning service, at St. Charles's, Ogle Street, Marylebone Street, or letter to Organist.

GOOD LEADER (Boy), ALTO, and BASS (salaried) WANTED, also VOLUNTEERS, for Trinity Church, Finchley Road, near Swiss Cottage. Apply to Choirmaster, Mr. Edward P. Hayward, after service on Sunday or Wednesday evening, or address Beechcroft, Onslow Road, Richmond Hill.

CARLISLE CATHEDRAL.—WANTED immediately, a LAY CLERK and SINGING MAN (ALTO). Salary, £100 per annum. None but qualified singers need apply, as he will be required to take the solos. Duties are attendance at Divine Service twice daily, and at practices when required. Testimonials of character and musical efficiency to be sent to S. Saul, Esq., Chapter Clerk, Castle Street, Carlisle, before December 15.

WANTED at once, a FIRST TENORE at a Catholic Church, N.W.; must be accustomed to the Latin. Apply, by letter, to W. H. Wall, 46, College Place, Camden Town.

TENOR WANTED at St. Mary's Chapel, Park Street, Grosvenor Square. Two services on Sunday; weekday practice. Salary, £10. Apply to Organist, after morning service.

HEREFORD CATHEDRAL.—An ASSISTANT VICAR-CHORAL WANTED (Clerical or Lay), with a superior Bass (not Baritone) Voice, and well accustomed to Cathedral Services and Anthems. Stipend, £120 per annum; two-thirds weekly duty. Apply to Messrs. Knight and Underwood, 30, Castle Street, Hereford.

BASS and (Boy) ALTO WANTED, for Church in S.W. district. Salary, £15 and £5 respectively. Must be communicants and able to give references as to character. Apply, by letter, to P. G. B., 6, Graham Street, Pimlico, S.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Professional Gentleman requires a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above, or to deputise. Address, H. J. Dean, 2, Blomfield Street, Finsbury, E.C.

WANTED an ORGANIST'S POST, by a young lady. Deputy or otherwise. Good reference and testimonials. Used to Gregorian and semi-choral services. Address, Miss R., 45, Blenheim Crescent, Notting Hill, W. Or as ALTO in a choir.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A Professional Gentleman requires a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above. Apply, stating terms. Address, W. H. Gleede, Godmanchester, Hunts.

TO ORGANISTS.—Advertiser offers first quarter's salary to any one procuring him an APPOINTMENT within twenty miles of London. Experienced. Address, "Gamba," Ardwick Cottage, Inglis Road, Adдисcombe.

MR. EDWARD P. HAYWARD (late Conductor of Belsize Choral Society, &c. &c.) DISENGAGED for Director of Choir, Organist, Conductor of Choral Society, Glee or Drawing-room Classes, and Private Pupils. Vocal, Instrumental, and Theoretical. Beechcroft, Onslow Road, Richmond Hill.

THE ADVERTISER (about 19) seeks a situation as ASSISTANT ORGANIST and PIANOFORTE TEACHER. He has acted in this capacity two years in a college. Address, H. S., Burgh Castle, Great Yarmouth.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—WANTED, a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above. High-class testimonials. Address, Organist, Newtown Nursery, Great Malvern.

ORGANIST.—ADVERTISER wishes for an EN- GAGEMENT at a nominal salary, or would act as DEPUTY without. Good references. Apply, A. C., 24, Oakley Square, N.W.

ORGANIST, recently disengaged, seeks APPOINT- MENT near town. £40. Highest references. A. B., 26, Marlborough Road, S.W.

ORGANIST'S APPOINTMENT WANTED, in or near London. Experienced; first-class references and testimonials. Address, Organist, care of R. Virgoe Miles and Co., Bow and Bromley Pianoforte and Music Warehouse, Bow Road, E.

WANTED, ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST, or Organist, Choir and Music Master in a Public School or College. Address, R., 36, Elgin Terrace, Maida Vale, W.

AS MUSIC MASTER.—In School or College, at Christmas, by a Gentleman, Pianist, &c. to the late Lord Grantley. Music Master, Miss Boggette, Miserden School, Cirencester.

COMPANION or GOVERNESS.—A Lady wishes to enter a Family as above. Five years' reference. Will play the Organ in church, and assist in parish work. Good organ practice desired. A comfortable home the chief requisite. Address, M. T., 10, Upper Hornsey Rise, London, N.

A THOROUGH CHOIR-TRAINER and competent ORGANIST, of twelve years' experience, requires an ENGAGEMENT. Communicant. Good testimonials. A. B. B., Post Office, Curry Rivell, near Taunton, Somerset.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED for Parish Church, Alnwick, after January 1, 1878. Three services on Sunday (choral), and on Wednesday nights; also occasional special services. Good organ. Large church. £40 a year. A good opening for teaching in the town and neighbourhood. Communicant. Apply, with testimonials and references, to Rev. E. B. Trotter, Vicarage, Alnwick, before December 10.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED for Fawcett Street Congregational Church, Sunderland. To a gentleman thoroughly qualified to take charge of both Organ and Choir a liberal salary will be given. Good opening in the town for a professional teacher. Apply, Rev. J. K. Nuttall, Sunderland.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED for Bo'ness Parish Church, near Edinburgh. Salary, £60. Two-manual organ and pedals. Address, Rev. H. Robertson, Bo'ness.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED for S. Barnabas', South Lambeth. Must be a communicant, and a man of special ability to train and keep up an efficient choir. Surplined choir. Cathedral service. Two-manual Organ by Hill, 18 stops. Copies of three testimonials, and a reference as to character, to be addressed to Rev. J. H. Barber.

A YOUNG MAN, who thoroughly understands Gregorian Music, required for a country Village as ORGANIST, and to assist in the School. Must be a good musician. The Rector, Little Bardfield, Braintree.

ASSISTANT MUSIC MASTER.—A Gentleman is required to ASSIST the ORGANIST and MUSIC MASTER at a large Public School, Midland Counties. Duties light, and ample time for private pupils. Candidates must be able to teach Pianoforte and Organ, and to play well on both instruments. A knowledge of some orchestral instrument and singing would be a recommendation. Salary (non-resident), £60 per annum. Address, G. B., Messrs. Novello and Co.

ORGAN and PIANO PUPILS WANTED by Mr. H. S. WEBSTER, 41, Upper Berkeley Street, W., Organist of St. Paul's, Great Portland Street, late St. Andrew's, Wells Street.

PIANOFORTE PUPILS DESIRED, beginners or more advanced. Address, Miss C. E. C., care of Messrs. Frederick L. May and Co., 160, Piccadilly, W.

MR. E. W. TAYLOR, Mus. Bac., Oxon, &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for Musical Examinations; also gives lessons in Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., and revises compositions of all kinds by post. Ebenezer Place, Stafford.

MR. JOHN HILES, 51, Elsham Road, Kens- ington, W. (Author of the "Catechism of Harmony, Thoroughbass, and Modulation," "Hiles' Short Voluntaries," "Catechism for the Pianoforte Student," and several other important musical works), gives Lessons in Harmony, &c. by post.

DR. SLOMAN gives LESSONS to CANDIDATES preparing for Musical Degrees. Grassendale, West Dulwich, S.E.

THE ORGANIST of RIPON CATHEDRAL teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Correspondence. For terms, address, Edwin J. Crow, Mus. Bac. Cantab.

A GENTLEMAN is desirous of giving LESSONS by post in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. References from present pupils if desired. Terms very moderate. Address Magister, Musical Times Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.

HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Corre- spondence. Address, Mr. Jacob Bradford, Mus. B., Oxon. College House, S. James's, Hatcham, S.E.

PIANO and HARMONY LESSONS, by C. STIEBLER COOK, Associate of the Royal Academy of Music, five years Music and Choir Master at Uppingham School. Singing classes conducted. Schools attended. 17, Keppel Street, Russell Square.

MUSICAL DEGREES and EXAMINATIONS.— J. W. HINTON, Mus. Doc., M.A., Trinity College, 61, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, W., prepares candidates for Mus. B. or Mus. D., of Oxford, Cambridge, or Dublin, in all branches they may require. Dr. H. continues to revise or orchestrate for composers. Harmony and Counterpoint by post if required.

A LADY, who has received a first-class certificate from the City of London College for Ladies, signed by Lindsay Sloper and Harold Thomas, R.A.M., has a few hours in the morning vacant, in which she can give INSTRUCTION in MUSIC. Terms, Two Guineas a quarter. Address, by letter, M. B., 12, Derby Road, Victoria Park Road, South Hackney.

SINGING (established Notation).—Choirs trained, Classes conducted, Colleges attended, Choristers for engagement. W. C. Batchelor, Teacher, 143, Clarence Road, Clapton.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

Incorporated by Special Charter.

THE CHRISTMAS EXAMINATIONS for the Diplomas of L. Mus., A. Mus., and other HIGHER CERTIFICATES of the COLLEGE, will be held on THURSDAY and FRIDAY, January 10 and 11, 1878.

All names and entrance-fees must be sent to the Assistant Secretary, CHARLES PETERS, not later than January 2. Candidates for L. Mus. are required to forward their exercises not later than January 1.

CANDIDATES for HONOURS (who must have previously taken the Diploma of Licentiate in Music) are requested to give early notice of the subjects in which they propose to be examined.

Candidates are recommended to study with care the Regulations for the various grades before sending in their names. Copies of the Regulations may be had of the Assistant Secretary.

HUMPHREY J. STARK, B. Mus., Oxon., L. Mus., T.C.L., Registrar.

Trinity College, London, Weymouth Street, W.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

EXAMINATIONS FOR THE HIGHER MUSICAL CERTIFICATES FOR WOMEN.

THE FIRST EXAMINATION under the new Statutes will be held in London on the 10th and 11th of January next. The subjects, any of which may be entered for separately, are—I. Harmony, II. Counterpoint, III. General Musical Knowledge, IV. Pianoforte or Organ, V. Solo Singing. Copies of the Regulations may be had of the Assistant Secretary, CHARLES PETERS, to whom also all names and entrance fees must be sent by the 2nd of January, 1878.

HUMPHREY J. STARK, B. Mus., Oxon., L. Mus., T.C.L., Registrar.

Trinity College, London, Weymouth Street, W.

A GENTLEMAN wishes to EXCHANGE his MUSICAL PRACTICE, in a healthy colonial district, with one in England. Income, £500 per annum; at least £200 per annum to be offered in exchange. Apply to A. W., Dingle Post Office, Kerry, Ireland, stating references and branches of instruction.

ORGAN LESSONS and PRACTICE on a fine new Instrument, with 2 manuals, 15 stops, 24 octaves of pedals, with bourdons throughout. Terms moderate. Allen's Musical Instrument Warehouse, 17, Percy Street, Bedford Square, W. Lessons and Practice on other Instruments also.

ORGAN PRACTICE or INSTRUCTION.—Three Manuals, each of 56 notes, pedal organ, 30 notes, 18 effective stops, and blown by Lea's Automatic Hydraulic Engine. Terms, which are strictly inclusive, on application at Blennerhasset's Organ School and Studio, 14, Vernon Street, Pentonville, W.C.

Sole Agent for LEA'S HYDRAULIC ORGAN BLOWER. The cheapest, simplest, best, and most effective ever invented. Full particulars, and estimates as above, free. Inspection invited.

ORGAN PRACTICE. Three manuals and pedals. Blown by hydraulic. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Cold Harbour Lane, Brixton. Three minutes' walk from Brixton Station.

ORGAN STUDIO, 140 (late 166), STRAND (opposite the Gaity).—LESSONS or PRACTICE (and at St. Michael's, Stockwell, S.W.) on fine two-manual C ORGANS (Hill and Son). Full pedal compass. W. VENNING SOUTHGATE, "The Strand Organ Studio," W.C. Established, 1867.

VOICE PRODUCTION, FEEBLE and IMPERFECT SPEECH, and the ART of SONG. Mr. Charles Lunn, author of "The Philosophy of Voice," attends London. For terms, apply to care of Messrs. Stanley Lucas, Weber and Co., New Bond Street, W. The Fourth Edition of Mr. Lunn's work (an enlarged reprint from The Medical Press, with added comment by Mr. Lennox Browne, F.R.C.S., &c.) is now ready, price 1s. 6d.

ORCHESTRAL SERVICES.—To the Clergy, &c.—A Gentleman (amateur of great experience) offers his VOLUNTARY ASSISTANCE in organising Band and Choir for Festival and other Services similar to those held in S. Anne's Church, Soho. He can introduce several first-class amateur instrumentalists and vocalists. Letters to Alpha, care of Mr. Beckingham, 415, Strand.

MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST begs to inform his pupils and friends that he has REMOVED to 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N. Red trams direct from Moorgate Street. Nearest station, Rectory Road.

MUSIC ENGRAVED, PRINTED, AND PUBLISHED in the best style, and on moderate terms, a statement of which sent on application, by B. Williams, 60, Paternoster Row.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest varied stock of Music in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day, or if in stock posted immediately, if required. Terms highly advantageous.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

W. G. HALLIFAX & CO., 315, Oxford Street, W., ENGRAVE and PRINT AUTHORS' WORKS at the lowest possible cost, and introduce them. Estimates by return of post.

TO COMPOSERS wishing to PUBLISH.—Music Engraved, Printed, and Published in the best style at unusually low prices. Estimates free on receipt of MS. Simpson and Co., 33, Argyll Street, Regent Street, London, W.

AN experienced London PIANOFORTE TUNER requires a SITUATION in town. Good references. Address, Tuner, 5, Nottingham Street, Marylebone, W.

TUNER, REPAIRER, &c., open to ENGAGEMENT. Address, A. B. C., 13, Oxford Grove, Oxford Road, Manchester.

PARTIAL EMPLOYMENT desired by an efficient TUNER, REPAIRER, and REGULATOR. Address, Tuner, 2, Wilton Road, Shepherd's Bush.

SITUATION REQUIRED as TUNER. Understands Harmoniums. Address, Tuner, Post Office, York Street, Cheetham, Manchester.

PIANOFORTE TUNER.—A Young Man, having just finished his time at one of the largest manufacturer's, seeks an ENGAGEMENT as TUNER and TONER, or outdoor Tuner to a London house. Good references. Address, H., No. 20, Windsor Road, Holloway, N.

TO PIANOFORTE MANUFACTURERS.—SITUATION REQUIRED by a steady practical man; can make models for castings, set out scales, and complete first-class Pianos, either overstrung, verticle iron, or ordinary, ready for finisher. Reasonable wages accepted. Address, P. F. T., care of Novello, Ewer and Co.

A TRAVELLER, with first-class connection through the United Kingdom, is open to sell Musical Instruments, &c. &c. upon commission. Address, A. B. C., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED for INDIA, a young unmarried Man, as ASSISTANT in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. General knowledge of musical instruments indispensable. Full particulars and best references required. Good salary given to a competent person. Apply, by letter only, to Jackson, care of Enoch and Sons, 19, Holles Street, Oxford Street, London.

WANTED, an ENGAGEMENT as ASSISTANT (or to take management) in Music Warehouse by a Lady, experienced. Good musician and reader at sight; good saleswoman and accountant. Address, M. W., Musical Times Office, Berners Street, W.

MESSRS. KELLY are requested by a country music-seller to ENGAGE a first-class PIANOFORTE TUNER and REGULATOR for outdoor work entirely. The situation will be permanent, and the salary liberal. The character and habits of the Tuner must be unexceptionable. 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital, London, W.

WANTED, a PIANOFORTE and AMERICAN ORGAN TUNER and REPAIRER for the South Midland counties. Permanent situation to a suitable man. Send card and full particulars as to references and wages required, to F. A. R. B., care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London.

WANTED, a SITUATION as ASSISTANT TUNER, Regulator, &c. Address Musicius, The Poplars, Lindfield, Hayward's Heath, Sussex.

WANTED, a Situation as PIANOFORTE and HARMONIUM TUNER, by a first-class hand. Address, E. M., care of Mr. Boucher, Castle Street, Shrewsbury.

WANTED, by an experienced TRAVELLING SALESMAN, a position. Understands brass, string, and other instruments. Can play and tune if required. Good testimonials. O. P., Post Office, Curry Rivell, near Taunton, Somerset.

GLOUCESTER COUNTY ASYLUM, near Gloucester.—A MALE ATTENDANT required. Wages to commence at £24 per annum and rise to £35, with board, lodging, washing, and uniform. Musician preferred. Applications, with testimonials, to be sent to Mr. E. Toller, Medical Superintendent, at the Asylum. BENJ. SHADGETT, Clerk.

MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE.—To be DISPOSED OF, a PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS, with good tuning connection, situated in a fashionable watering-place. Small stock. Apply, by letter, to Musicius, 26, Westgate Terrace, Redcliffe Gardens, South Kensington, London.

MUSIC BUSINESS.—FOR SALE a good BUSINESS with a stock of about fifty Pianos. Parties with the requisite capital and desirous of purchasing the same may obtain further particulars by applying to Mr. Frederick Lucas, Public Accountant, 20, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

A GOOD MUSIC and MUSICAL INSTRUMENT BUSINESS for SALE. A bargain. Sold on account of ill-health. For full particulars, apply to Mr. John Hart, 9, Greenside Place, Edinburgh.

MADAME NOUVER.—The Times says: "Her singing of sacred music is purity itself."

MADAME NOUVER.—The Telegraph says: "A purity of style which commanded general admiration."

MADAME NOUVER.—The Standard says: "An artist whose pure unaffected style of vocalisation might well afford a model to many singers well known to fame."

MADAME NOUVER.—The Scotsman says: "A vocalist of very exceptional merit, possessing a singularly sweet and round voice, a method thoroughly artistic, and a faultless intonation."

MANCHESTER EXAMINER AND TIMES.

MADAME NOUVER.—"We have never heard her extremely beautiful voice to finer effect than on this occasion. Her upper notes are remarkably pure, and her intonation is admirably correct. She sang in excellent taste."

THE BRISTOL DAILY POST.

"MADAME NOUVER undertook the whole of the soprano soli, and so gratified all who heard her that her second appearance in Bristol will be looked forward to with pleasure. Not only is her voice rich, full, tuneful, and sympathetic, but the vocalist has command of expression, and shows a depth of feeling which proved conspicuously telling in the air 'Come unto Him.' But none the less was her clear voice appreciated in the pastoral recitatives and the bravura air 'Rejoice greatly,' while in the beautiful number so thoroughly characteristic of the tender devotional feeling in Handel's oratorio airs, 'I know that my Redeemer liveth,' her delivery was full of pathos."

MANCHESTER COURIER, NOV. 12, 1877.

"MADAME NOUVER seems to be growing rapidly in the esteem of the musical critics of London, and is fully maintaining the reputation which she has obtained in the provinces, and more especially in Manchester, which city witnessed the commencement of her professional career. She has been singing at the Crystal Palace, the Albert Hall, and the Covent Garden Concerts, with a success which is generally commented upon in the metropolitan press. Not only is it admitted that her voice is excellent in its quality, and shows the result of careful training, but that if she goes on as diligently as she has begun she will, as the Athenæum says, make a very 'high position' for herself. At the Covent Garden Concerts her singing of 'Lo! here the gentle lark' received, according to the Globe, 'an ovation.'"

JOHN HEMINGWAY, having left Southport, will be glad to have his letters directed to Wathcote Cottage, Park Road, Twickenham, Middlesex.

MADAME NOUVER'S Concert Communications to be sent to the above address.

ESTABLISHED, APRIL 1866.

THE ENGLISH GLEE UNION.

Mr. H. ASHTON, Mr. F. H. COZENS,
Mr. FOUNTAIN MEEN, Mr. ALBERT HUBBARD,

ASSISTED BY
Madame ASHTON.

For terms, &c., address, H. Ashton, Secretary, Ivy House, Stamford Hill, London, N.

SAINT CÆCILIA CONCERT PARTY.—Madame Pauline Evison (Soprano), Miss Emmeline Kennedy (Contralto), Mr. George Nunn (Tenor), Mr. T. Dodds (Bass), Mr. Jno. Shaw (Solo Pianist). Address, Mr. T. Dodds, 7, Brunswick Terrace, Leeds.

THE YORKSHIRE CONCERT PARTY.—Madame Pauline Graydon (Soprano), Miss Emily Empsall (Contralto), Mr. Verney Binns (Tenor), Mr. H. Rickard (Bass), Mr. William Clark (Accompanist).

Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Concerts, &c. For terms, address, C. G. Taylor, 56, Lofthouse Place, Leeds; or R. D'Oyly Carte, 9A, Craig's Court, Charing Cross, London, S.W.

MR. STEDMAN'S CONCERT PARTIES for Oratorio and Miscellaneous Concerts, Institutions, Evening Parties, Soirées, &c. &c.

MADE UP FROM THE MOST EMINENT ARTISTS, AND INCLUDING: Mesdames Annie Sinclair, Anna Williams, Mary Davies, Matilda Scott, Worrell-Duval, Jessie Royd, Poole, Helen D'Alton, Annie Butterworth, Helen Arnim, Dones, Gill, Osborne Williams; Messrs. Stedman, Kenningham, Charles Beckett, J. L. Wadmore, George Fox, Thurlay Beale, King Hall, Russell Lochner, Henry Parker, &c. &c.

THE STANDARD QUARTETT—Messrs. J. Lyndon Hodges, Stedman, Charles Beckett, and Thurlay Beale. For terms and particulars, address, Mr. STEDMAN, 1, Berners Street, W.

THE BRITISH VOCAL QUARTETT (Messrs. E. Collins, H. Upton, J. Kift, and T. Tremere) is now at liberty to accept ENGAGEMENTS for concerts, dinners, private parties, &c. For terms, address, Mr. T. Tremere, 93, Wilberforce Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MR. W. H. NELSON, Bass (pupil of Mr. CH. J. BISHENDEN, the Celebrated Bass, author of "How to Sing," "The Voice, and How to Use it" &c.), will make his first appearance, Dec. 4, 1877, at an EVENING CONCERT under the direction of Mr. CH. J. BISHENDEN, at the Langham Hall, Great Portland Street, London, W. Mr. NELSON will sing "Brave old Oak" and "The Friar;" Mr. BISHENDEN will sing "Nancy Lee," "The Village Blacksmith," "The Wolf," and in two duets; Dr. J. W. Bernhardt, R.A.M., Mr. J. S. Meir, R.A.M., and other artists. Tickets at the Music-sellers and Agents in London; at the Hall; and of Mr. Bishenden, 20, Duke Street, Portland Place, London, W.

BELLS! BELLS! BELLS!

CRITERION TEMPERANCE CAMPAÑOLOGISTS and GLEE-SINGERS. Terms moderate. Excellent performance. Address, for circular and testimonials, Mr. Harry Tipper, 118, The Grove, Hammersmith.

TO ORGAN-BUILDERS.—WANTED first-class WORKMEN (inside hands). Apply to Mr. J. Porritt, Organ-Builders, Leicester.

MUSIC, PIANOFORTE, and TUNING BUSINESS for SALE. Established, 1840. Returns about £2,000 per year. Price, including goodwill, stock, &c., £1,200. Solicitors dealt with. Address, H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London.

QUARTERLY SALE OF MUSICAL PROPERTY.

NEARLY 200 Musical Instruments, consisting of Pianofortes, Harps, Organs, Harmoniums, Violins, &c. &c., by Broadwood, Collard, Kirkman, Allison, Erard, Ziegler, Stadart, Squire. A fine organ by Bryceson, suitable for a church or chapel. Pianoforte small-work of all kinds, Jewellery, Sheet Music, and many sundries, being the UNREDEEMED PLEDGES from several pawnbrokers, and goods consigned for immediate sale, which will be SOLD by AUCTION by Messrs. KELLY and Co., at their Great Repository and Mart, 11, Charles Street, Berners Street, London, W., on WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1878, commencing at 12 o'clock prompt. Catalogues may be had (post-free), and the goods viewed the day prior and morning of sale.

To the Pianoforte and Music trade, and others. Sale by Auction of about 30 modern Pianofortes, by well-known makers, Harmoniums, American Organs, and other musical property.

MR. W. B. HALLETT (many years with Messrs. Oxenham), will SELL by AUCTION at his Rooms, 278, Holloway Road, London, on THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13th, 1877, an assemblage of valuable modern MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS. Catalogues and further particulars on application at the Rooms. Musical property of any description can be included in this sale, but immediate application is absolutely necessary. Auctioneer's offices, 278, Holloway Road, London.

FOR SALE, the Plates of the following Copyright

Works by JOSEPH HARTLEY: 6 Vocal Quartetts, Dedicated to the Ven. Archdeacon Musgrave, Halifax; Song, the "Bethrothed;" Quadrille, "Birthday;" Waltz, "Streamlet;" Mazurka, "Cleveland," by Johnson; Song, "Emigrant's Farewell." Apply to W. Hartley, Pianoforte and Music Warehouse, Saltburn-by-the-Sea.

A QUANTITY of CHORAL MUSIC for SALE from 4s. 100. Reeves, 131, New Cross Road.

EAST LONDON ORGAN WORKS,

9, Burdett Road, Mile End, E.—E. CARDER is prepared to send Specifications for building Organs of very superior materials and workmanship. Alterations, rebuilding, and repairs. First-class workmen sent to all parts on very moderate terms. Tuning, &c. Second-hand ORGANS for SALE.

ORGANS for Church or Chamber, full rich tone, from 35 guineas. ORGAN HARMONIUMS, with 1 or 2 manuals, full compass of pedals, from 25 to 54 guineas, invaluable for Teaching or Organ Practice. SPRAGUE'S Celebrated ORGAN-TONE HARMONIUMS, 6 guineas; best in the trade.—William Sprague, 7, Finsbury Pavement, London.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Secondhand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minories, London.

A. MONK'S ORGANS, warranted First Class, at moderate prices, from 50 guineas. 100-guinea Organs, 2 CC manuals, 10 stops, 16 feet pedal pipes. 200 guineas, 2 manuals, 16 stops. 300 guineas, 3 manuals, 21 stops. 400 guineas, 3 manuals, 27 stops. 600 guineas, 3 manuals, 36 stops. Larger or smaller Organs built to any Specification. Old Organs rebuilt. Additions, Repairs, Tunings, &c. Specifications and Estimates sent free. The Trade and others supplied with Pipes, Parts, Fittings, &c. Sussex Terrace, Great College Street, Camden Town, London, N.W.

T. R. WILLIS (established, 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c. 29, Minorics, London. List for stamp.

DEAN'S CHEAP MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.—School Band Flutes, from 3s. 6d.; 8-Key Concert Flutes, 25s.; Cornets, in case, 30s.; Drums, Tambourines, Banjos, and every article in the trade. A good Violin, with Bow and Book, in case, 20s. English, Roman, and Acribelle Violin Strings—5 English firsts, warranted to stand at concert pitch, sent free for 13 stamps. Joseph Dean, Music Warehouse, 77, City Road, E.C. Established, 1843. Price lists sent free.

BRASS, REED, STRING, and DRUM and FIFE BANDS, PIANOFORTES and HARMONIUMS, supplied at wholesale prices, at J. MOORE'S, Buxton Road, Huddersfield. Prices, with drawings of every instrument, post-free. Music for any kind of band. Patronised by the army, navy, and rifle corps.

RUSSELL'S MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.—CONCERTINAS, Harmoniums, Organ Accordions, Flutinas, Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Violins, Cornets, Saxhorns, Clarionets, Flageolets, Guitars, Banjos, Musical Boxes, Strings, &c. Self-instruction Books. Instruments repaired or exchanged. Price Lists free. J. Russell, 158, Goswell Road, Clerkenwell, London.

ACCURATE METRONOMES, 1s., post-free. Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing Class Tutor, 12th ed., 6d. each. D. Scholfield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES.—150 by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, Allison, &c., from 4 guineas upwards. HARMONIUMS (New), from £5, in Walnut or Mahogany cases. Largest stock of Pianos and Harmoniums in London at Kelly and Co.'s, 11, Charles Street, Middlesex Hospital. Trade supplied.

TO SELL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS of every description, also Libraries of Music, Music Plates and Copyrights, Stock-in-Trade, &c., SALE (devoted exclusively to this class of property) held every month. Single instruments inserted. Consignments received at any time. Puttick and Simpson, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C. [Established, 1794.]

VIOLINS, TENORS, VIOLONCELLOS, and DOUBLE BASSES, by "Craske," equal to Stradivarius and Guarnerius.

Upwards of 500 of these splendid Instruments now on Sale at Edward Crompton's, 54, Barton Arcade, Deansgate, Manchester (3rd floor), many of which have been made 50 years. Also a large collection of Italian Instruments.

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, VIOLONCELLOS, &c.—JOHNSON HICKS, Dealer in, and careful Repairer of, "CREMONA" and other Violins, &c.—Brunswick House, Torquay, Devon.

WARD'S ROYAL PIANOFORTE AND HARMONIUM LAMP, FOR PROVIDING A CENTRAL & DIRECT LIGHT FOR THE PERFORMER.

The inconvenience of the present mode of lighting a performer at a pianoforte or harmonium by means of sconces fitted at the extremities of the instrument has long been a subject of complaint. The requirement is a central light to fall direct upon the music-book. This can be obtained by using Thomas Ward's Royal Pianoforte Lamp, which can be fitted to any form of instrument without defacing the same. Vocalists also will thus find a convenience which does not exist in other modes of lighting.

PROSPECTUSES POST-FREE.
Price 7s. 6d.

Agents: Messrs. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond Street; Mr. J. WILLIAMS, 23, Berners Street, Oxford Street (W.), and Messrs. METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough Street.

HIGHEST CLASS OF EXCELLENCE.

MILLEREAU'S BAND INSTRUMENTS FOR ARTISTS.

BOEHM and ENGLISH CLARINETS, CONSERVATOIRE and BOEHM OBOES, CORNET-A-PISTONS, CYLINDRICAL BOEHM FLUTES, &c.

MILLEREAU'S FRENCH VOCAL HORN IN C.

Priced Catalogue and Designs free to any part of the world.

PARIS. 29, RUE DES TROIS BORNES. FRANCE.

THE FINEST UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES IN EUROPE.

MESSRS. POHLMANN AND SON

Are the only Makers in England of the

IRON OVERSTRUNG UPRIGHT GRAND PIANOFORTES,

WITH "DOUBLE FRAME" CAST IN ONE PIECE,

SUSPENSION SOUND-BOARD,

RESONATOR, ESCAPEMENT ACTION (NEWEST PRINCIPLE),

WITH DIMINUENDO PEDAL.

These Instruments are UNEQUALLED for

PURITY AND RICHNESS OF TONE,

PRECISION OF TOUCH,

DURABILITY AND EXCELLENCE OF WORK AND DESIGN.

Descriptive Catalogues and Price List sent post-free on application to

MESSRS. POHLMANN AND SON,

STEAM PIANOFORTE WORKS,

HALL STREET AND PRINCESS STREET, HALIFAX, YORKSHIRE.

D'ALMAINE'S PIANOS
(419)

AT HALF-PRICE.

IN CONSEQUENCE OF THE DEATH OF THE LATE PROPRIETOR THE

WHOLE OF THIS SPLENDID STOCK IS OFFERED AT

15 AND 17 GUINEAS

(WORTH 30 AND 35 GUINEAS);

20 AND 25 GUINEAS

(WORTH 40 AND 50 GUINEAS).

DOUBLE CHECK ACTION. ALL HALF-PRICE.

To effect a speedy clearance easy terms arranged.

SEVEN YEARS' WARRANTY.

A VERY NICE

TWO-MANUAL ORGAN

FOR 500 OR 600 VOICES, WITH PEDALS AND BOURDON. PRETTY DESIGN. TO BE SOLD AT COST.

ON VIEW AT

5, FINSBURY PAVEMENT,
MOORGATE STATION, METROPOLITAN RAILWAY.

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.'S

CELEBRATED

ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS

UNEQUALLED BY ANY OTHER MAKERS.

These ORGAN-TONED HARMONIUMS stand FIRST among any such instruments for

QUALITY OF TONE, DURABILITY, RAPIDITY OF TOUCH,
PREDOMINANCE OF THE TREBLE OVER THE BASS,
PERFECT ACTION,
BRILLIANCY OF THE SOLO STOPS, NEWLY INVENTED
DOUBLE ACTION, SOLID IMPROVED SOUND-BOARD,
AND DOUBLE EFFECTIVE SWELLS.

List of Prices and Books of Designs, and upwards of 300 Testimonials from all parts of the globe, to be had post-free.

W. HATTERSLEY & CO.,

10, 12, & 14, Bow Street, Sheffield.

N.B.—These Harmoniums are 20 per cent cheaper than any other house, and a far superior tone.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium gives the greatest satisfaction, and is really the best instrument I have fallen in with.—Yours truly,

W. F. M. SLATER.
39, Franklin Street, South Shields, May 6, 1876.

GENTLEMEN,—By a mistake in the address the Harmonium was left at a wayside station, so that I did not get it here till last night; however, it is uninjured and gives me every satisfaction. Its tone and workmanship are admirable, and in rapidity of touch it is quite equal to a large Alexandre Percussion instrument, on which I sometimes play. I shall always be glad to recommend your Harmoniums.—Believe me, faithfully yours,

W. F. ASHBRIDGE, M.A., Curate of Bessingby.

Bessingby Road, Bridlington, Dec. 15, 1876.

Mr. J. M. Boulard, Manager of the Alleghenians, Vocalists and Bell Players.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium you made for me in travelling case answers our purpose exceedingly well, and my company are all delighted with it.—Yours truly,
Sept. 16, 1876. J. M. BOULARD.

GENTLEMEN,—Kindly find cheque for the Harmonium to hand. I may add that our people are very much pleased with the instrument. It is a little gem.—Yours faithfully,
Shirland and Higham School Board, Shirland, near Alfreton,
Feb. 2, 1877. J. W. H. WOOD.

DEAR SIR,—The Harmonium arrived here yesterday. I am much pleased with it, and it is a very pretty, nice-looking instrument.—Yours truly,
Merrington Vicarage, Terry Hill, Dec. 10, 1875. DAVID BRUCE.

GENTLEMEN,—The Harmonium arrived here in capital condition last week. I am very pleased with it. The tone is exceedingly sweet and pleasing. All who have seen it here like it very much.—Yours faithfully,
Montserrat, West Indies, Aug. 11, 1876. H. R. HOLME.

"A supreme and perfect harmony of notes."

E. & W. SNELL'S

IMPROVED ENGLISH HARMONIUMS.

MANUFACTORY: LITTLE KING STREET NORTH, CAMDEN TOWN, LONDON, N.W.

Chief characteristics of the "SNELL" HARMONIUM. Pure, musical, and euphonious quality of tone, possessing great sweetness and organlike character, combined with perfect articulation and equality of sound throughout the scale, the tenor notes not predominating over the treble. Light and elastic touch, rendering the instrument equally effective for Secular as for Sacred music. Simplicity and novelty of action. Improved mechanism and superior finish throughout. Durability, general excellence, and extreme moderation of price. Full particulars, designs, and prices, with testimonials specially referring to the important improvements introduced into these much admired instruments, free of the makers, E. and W. SNELL, as above. Profession and trade supplied.

12 S. WORTH OF MUSIC for One Shilling, post-free for fifteen stamps, soiled and surplus stock.
James Smith and Son, 76, 74, and 72, Lord Street, Liverpool.

MR. J. HAMILTON begs to state that on and after January 1, 1878, the PRICE of PEDALS and ACTION manufactured by him will be RAISED, owing to the increased cost of labour and materials. Present prices, £4 4s. and £5 5s. Reduced prices to the Profession and Trade. Address, J. HAMILTON, 11, Brunswick Street, City Road, Bristol.

LONDON AGENTS,

MESSRS. MOUTRIE AND SON,

PIANOFORTE SALOON,

55, BAKER STREET, LONDON, W.

MR. J. HAMILTON begs to inform Organists, Organ Students, and others that the Pedals and Action for attachment to Pianofortes manufactured by him can be inspected and ordered at the above address.

A set of Straight Pedals 30 notes (C to F), with action and printed instructions, "How to Attach," price £4 4s. Or Radiating and Concave Pedal Board, with action, price £5 5s.

TESTIMONIAL.

"Barrow Street, Quorndon, near Loughborough,

July 16, 1877.

"SIR,—It is now over two years since I purchased a set of your pedals and action for pianofortes. After having thoroughly tested them and used them regularly for so long a period I have no hesitation in saying that they are a most decided success, and at the same time advise every organ student who wishes to become proficient in the art of pedalling to procure a set of them at once.

"I remain, Sir, yours truly,

"To Mr. J. Hamilton."

"J. J. CALLIS.

Orders accompanied with Cheque or P.O. Order will receive immediate attention. Send for prices to the Profession and Trade.

Address, J. HAMILTON, 11, Brunswick Street, City Road, Bristol.

MR. J. HAMILTON begs to state that on and after January 1, 1878, the PRICE of PEDALS and ACTION manufactured by him will be RAISED, owing to the increased cost of labour and materials. Present prices, £4 4s. and £5 5s. Reduced prices to the Profession and Trade. Address, J. HAMILTON, 11, Brunswick Street, City Road, Bristol.

TO H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH.

ROME. NAPLES. PADOVA.

VIOLIN AND HARP STRINGS.

HART AND SON,

IMPORTERS OF THE FINEST QUALITIES ONLY.

LISTS ON APPLICATION.

14, PRINCES STREET, LEICESTER SQUARE, LONDON.

MUSIC STRINGS—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

J. P. GUIVIER AND CO.,

MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF

ALL KINDS OF MUSIC STRINGS FOR ALL MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

Sole Dépôt for Signor ANDREA RUFFINI's (of Naples) Celebrated Strings for Soloists.

25, SHERWOOD STREET, REGENT CIRCUS, PICCADILLY.
Price List free on application.

All kinds of strings covered in a superior manner on powerful machines made on the best principle with all modern improvements.

J. B. CRAMER AND CO'S FRENCH POLISH

REVIVER, invented by GEORGE WATTS, for cleaning and polishing furniture, pianos, and leather of every description.

OPINIONS OF THE LONDON AND BRIGHTON PRESS.

"This is a really genuine article."—Times. "The brilliant and lasting polish obtained is surprising."—Guardian. "Very successful results have attended its application."—Daily News. "We have, therefore, much pleasure in recommending it to housekeepers as a really useful and valuable preparation."—The Queen. "Any one can use Cramer's Reviver with success."—The Orchestra.

Price 1s. 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d. per bottle. To be obtained of grocers and pianoforte dealers. Agents wanted.

Wholesale and retail agents—J. B. Cramer and Co., and Metzler and Co., London. Manufacturers—J. B. Cramer and Co., Brighton.

DEBAIN'S HARMONIUMS, ORGANO-PHONES, PIANOS, &c. &c. New lists are now ready, and will be forwarded, post-free, on receipt of card. Debain & Co., 357, Oxford Street, London, W.

ORGAN for SALE, 28 Stops, 2 Manuals, and Pedal. GREAT ORGAN, CC to G, 56 notes: Double Diapason, Open Diapason, Stopped Diapason, Claribella, Viol di Gamba, Principal, Flute, Twelfth, Fifteenth, Sesquialtra, Trumpet. SWELL ORGAN, CC to G, 56 notes: Bourdon, Tenoroon, Open Diapason, Stopped Diapason, Dulciana, Gemshorn, Principal, Piccolo, Mixture, Oboe, Cornopean. PEDAL ORGAN, CCC to F, 30 notes: Open Diapason, Bourdon, Trombone. Couplers: Swell to Great, Swell to Pedal, Great to Pedal, 3 Composition Pedals to act on Great Organ, 2 to act on swell.

N.B.—All the interior work of the Organ is entirely new (exclusive of the pipes, which are equal to new in every respect), and is built on the very best principles. Intending purchasers can have case made to any design.

For further particulars apply to MURGATROYD & CO., Organ Builders, East Parade, Keighley.

A SMALL FINGER ORGAN, two manuals (upper row to tenor C), with 10 stops, and two octaves pedals. £60. Also a Rosewood GRAND PIANOFORTE, by BROADWOOD. Compass C to A. In condition like new. £55. Apply to R. Forrest, 13, High Street, Shrewsbury.

ORGAN for SALE. 4 stops, two octaves pedals, speaking front. S. Fowler, Organ-pipe Factory, Voicer, and Tuner, 127, Pentonville Road, N.

TO be SOLD, the THREE-MANUAL ORGAN, with its case, now standing on the Screen in Ripon Cathedral. A very low price will be taken if disposed of immediately after Christmas. Apply to Messrs. T. C. Lewis and Co., Organ Manufactory, Shepherd's Lane, Brixton.

A BEAUTIFUL TONED CHAMBER ORGAN, 6 stops, compass GG to C, $\frac{5}{4}$ octaves, sliding keyboard, Venetian swell, two pedals, Spanish mahogany case. Genuine bargain. £25. May be seen at 117, Cold Harbour Lane, Camberwell.

FOR SALE, the Organ built by ROBT. WALLAMS, circ. 1635, for the Music School at Oxford, and there used by Handel. Particulars on application to W. S. L., 2, Worcester Street, Oxford.

ORGAN.—Advertiser OFFERS ORGAN (8 stops, pedals) for £30 or Piano and £10. 170, Pentonville Road, N.

FOR SALE. A first-class PEDAL HARMONIUM by ALEXANDRE. Two Manuals and full Organ Compass. Address, F. L., Kibworth, Leicester.

FOR SALE, owner having no further use for them, HARMONIUM by OETZMANN, 8 stops; walnut; suitable for a drawing-room. Cost £15. Packed, for £8. Also an E flat cocoa-wood CLARINET, German silver keys, cost 4 guineas; will take £3. Both instruments can be recommended, being almost as good as new. Organist, Shireoaks, Workop, Notts.

OLD VIOLINS.—TO AMATEURS and PROFESSIONALS.—To be DISPOSED OF, two genuine OLD VIOLINS in excellent preservation, in handsome mahogany case, complete. One suitable for a soloist, the other a leader; full rich tones; dates 1645 and 1665. For inspection and trial, apply, before 11 or after 3, at 22, Richmond Terrace, Clapham Road, London.

WANTED, Secondhand SPOHR'S best "VIOLIN TUTOR." Address, stating lowest price, to L. W., care of Thos. Naylor, Liberal Club, Pudsey, near Leeds.

MUSIC-PUPILS' REGISTER.—An invaluable book for professors, pupils, and school principals. Specimen copy, twelve stamps. Address, Mr. Jacob Bradford, College House, S. James's, Hatcham, S.E.

A NICE CHRISTMAS PRESENT.

DR. FOWLE'S "LIFE OF HANDEL," with portrait of Handel and Costa. One shilling. Sir M. Costa says, "I have read every word, and it is very good." Dr. Fowle, 5, Sion Hill, Ramsgate. "Friendly Words to Organists." 4d.

IN MEMORIAM of my Father (Prebendary of Salisbury, and cousin of the late Earl of Craven), my Mother, and Sister. Funeral hymn, suitable for all such occasions. 7d. post-free. Sir Michael Costa writes, "It is very impressive and appropriate;" Rev. G. P. Turner, "It is very beautiful;" another correspondent, "A more suitable hymn for such occasions I have not seen." Dr. Fowle, 5, Sion Hill, Ramsgate.

Played in 2,000 Churches at Christmas.

THE ORGANIST'S MARCH, 9d. ADVENT MARCH and CHRISTMAS DAY MARCH, same price. The three for 18. 7d. Dr. Fowle, 5, Sion Hill, Ramsgate. Catalogues free of Christmas music. Christmas Cantata, fifth edition, 7d.

DR. FOWLE'S CHRISTMAS BOX of MUSIC. 16s. for 5s. A writer says, "If organists and others saw the contents, you would have enough work to execute the orders." Another, "Your Christmas Box is a happy idea, as it enables one to make half a dozen nice Christmas presents." Prospectus free from Dr. Fowle 5, Sion Hill, Ramsgate.

THE GREAT CHRISTMAS SONG.

TWEEDLEDUM, by HUMPTY DUMPTY, is now the sole copyright of Dr. Fowle, 5, Sion Hill, Ramsgate. 9d. post-free. It is a résumé of the London Musical Season, and will amuse all at Christmas. Christmas Day March. 9d.

READY, DECEMBER 15.

Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers.

EDITED BY DR. STAINER.

HARMONY

BY

DR. STAINER.

Price Two Shillings.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOW READY.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS.

EDITED BY DR. STAINER

THE ORGAN

BY

DR. STAINER.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

THE ELEMENTS OF THE BEAUTIFUL IN MUSIC

BY

ERNST PAUER.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

THE PIANOFORTE

BY

ERNST PAUER.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

THE RUDIMENTS OF MUSIC

BY

W. H. CUMMINGS.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Second Edition, now ready, price Two Shillings, paper cover, Three Shillings, cloth.

THE

CATHEDRAL PSALTER CHANTS

EDITED BY

S. FLOOD JONES, M.A., Precentor of Westminster; J. TROUTBECK, M.A., Minor Canon of Westminster; JAMES TURLE, Organist of Westminster; J. STAINER, M.A., Mus. D., Organist of St. Paul's;

AND

JOSEPH BARNBY,

Precentor of Eton.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE

CATHEDRAL PSALTER,

POINTED FOR CHANTING.

	s.	d.
Imperial 32mo, cloth	0	9
Ditto, with Proper Psalms, cloth	1	0
Demy octavo, large type, with Proper Psalms, cloth	2	6
Proper Psalms separately. Paper covers. 32mo	0	3
Canticles. 32mo	0	1
Do. 8vo	0	3

All Editions contain the Canticles, and Special Hymns for use on certain days instead of the Venite.

The Clergy can be supplied with copies, in quantities of not less than 25, on liberal terms.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE ONLY COMPLETE EDITIONS OF MENDELSSOHN'S PIANOFORTE WORKS

In Four Volumes, Folio size, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges. Price 12s. each.

CONTENTS OF VOL. I.

- Op. 25. First Concerto, in G minor.
 " 40. Second Concerto, in D minor.
 " 22. Capriccio Brillant in B minor.
 " 43. Serenade and Allegro Gioioso in B minor.
 " 29. Rondo Brillant, in F sharp minor.
 " 6. Sonata in E.
 " 105. Sonata in G minor.
 " 106. Sonata in B flat.

CONTENTS OF VOL. II.

- Op. 35. Six Preludes and Fugues.
 Prelude and Fugue in E minor.
 " 104. Book 1. Three Preludes.
 " 104. Book 2. Three Etudes.
 Etude in F minor.
 " 72. Six Christmas Pieces.
 " 7. Seven Characteristic Pieces.
 " 54. Variations Sérieuses, in D minor.
 " 82. Andante, with Variations, in E flat.
 " 83. Andante, with Variations, in B flat.

CONTENTS OF VOL. III.

- Op. 5. Capriccio in F sharp minor.
 Andante Cantabile and Presto Agitato in B.
 " 14. Rondo Capriccioso in E.
 " 15. Fantasia on "The Last Rose of Summer" in E.
 " 16. Three Fantasias.
 " 28. Fantasia in F sharp minor.
 Scherzo a Capriccio in F sharp minor.
 Scherzo in B minor.
 Barcarolle in A.
 Two Musical Sketches.
 " 33. Three Capriccios.
 " 117. Albumblatt in E minor.
 " 118. Capriccio, in E minor.
 " 119. Perpetuum Mobile in C.

CONTENTS OF VOL. IV.

The Forty-eight Lieder ohne Worte.

The only complete Edition, containing the 7th and 8th Books.

MENDELSSOHN'S PIANOFORTE WORKS

In Five Volumes, Octavo size, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges. Price 6s. each, or in paper covers, 4s. each.

CONTENTS OF VOL. I.

- Op. 5. Capriccio in F sharp minor.
 " 6. Sonata in E.
 " 7. Seven Characteristic Pieces.
 " 14. Andante and Rondo Capriccioso in E.
 " 15. Fantasia on "The Last Rose of Summer."
 " 16. Three Fantasias.
 " 22. Capriccio Brillant in B minor.
 " 25. First Concerto in G minor.

CONTENTS OF VOL. II.

- Op. 28. Fantasia in F sharp minor.
 " 29. Rondo Brillant in E flat.
 " 33. Three Capriccios.
 " 35. Six Preludes and Fugues.
 " 40. Second Concerto in D minor.

CONTENTS OF VOL. III.

- Op. 43. Serenade and Allegro Gioioso in B minor.
 " 54. Variations Sérieuses in D minor.
 " 72. Six Christmas Pieces.
 " 82. Andante and Variations in E flat.

CONTENTS OF VOL. III.—continued.

- Op. 83. Andante and Variations in B flat.
 Andante Cantabile and Presto Agitato in B.
 Barcarolle in A.
 Prelude and Fugue in E minor.
 Scherzo in B minor.
 Scherzo a Capriccio in F sharp minor.
 Study in F minor.
 Two Musical Sketches.

CONTENTS OF VOL. IV.

The Forty-eight Lieder ohne Worte.

The only complete Edition, containing the 7th and 8th Books.

CONTENTS OF VOL. V.

- Op. 104. Book 1.—Three Preludes.
 " 104. Book 2.—Three Etudes.
 " 105. Sonata in G minor.
 " 106. Sonata in B flat.
 " 117. Albumblatt in E minor.
 " 118. Capriccio in E minor.
 " 119. Perpetuum Mobile.

MENDELSSOHN'S LIEDER OHNE WORTE

Folio Edition, handsomely bound, cloth gilt, 12s.; Octavo, ditto, 6s.; paper covers, 4s.

The only Edition containing the 7th and 8th Books.

MENDELSSOHN'S OVERTURES

In One Volume, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges. Price, Solo, 12s.; Duet, 15s.

- | | | |
|--------------------------------|------------------------|-------------------------|
| Op. 10. Marriage of Camacho. | Op. 27. A Calm Sea. | Op. 74. Athalie. |
| " 21. Midsummer Night's Dream. | " 32. Melusine. | " 89. Son and Stranger. |
| " 24. Military Band. | " 36. St. Paul. | " 95. Ruy Blas. |
| " 26. Hebrides. | " 60. Walpurgis Night. | " 101. Trumpet. |
| | " 70. Elijah. | |

MENDELSSOHN'S SYMPHONIES

In One Volume, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges. Price, Solo, 12s.; Duet, 15s.

- | | |
|------------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| Op. 11. First Symphony. | Op. 90. Fourth Symphony (Italian). |
| " 52. Second Symphony (Lobgesang). | " 107. Fifth Symphony (Reformation). |
| " 56. Third Symphony (Scotch). | |

ROYAL ALBERT HALL CHORAL SOCIETY.

PRESIDENT, H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.

CONDUCTOR MR. BARNBY.

SEVENTH SEASON.

SECOND CONCERT, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 11, AT 8.

For the First time in London,

MACFARREN'S ORATORIO,

"JOSEPH."

MADAME LEMMENS-SHERRINGTON, MRS. OSGOOD,
MADAME PATEY, MR. EDWARD LLOYD, MR. SANTLEY, AND SIGNOR FOLI.

THIRD CONCERT, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 20, AT 8.

HANDEL'S

"MESSIAH."

MISS ANNA WILLIAMS, MADAME ANTOINETTE STERLING,
MR. SIMS REEVES, AND SIGNOR FOLI.

ORGANIST, DR. STAINER.

BAND AND CHORUS OF 1,000 PERFORMERS.

PRICES: Stalls, 7s. 6d.; Arena, 5s.; Balcony, 4s. and 3s.; Boxes from £1 11s. 6d. Admission, One Shilling. Subscriptions for the remaining nine Concerts, £2 7s. 6d., £1 16s., £1 7s., and 19s. Tickets of the usual Agents and at the Royal Albert Hall.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1877.

FIRST PERFORMANCE OF

HEZEKIAH

A SACRED DRAMA,

WRITTEN BY BEATRICE ABERCROMBIE,

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

J. L. HATTON.

MDME. LEMMENS-SHERRINGTON.

MDME. PATEY.

MR. EDWARD LLOYD.

MR. SANTLEY.

Conductor—MR. MANNS.

Numbered Stalls in Area or Gallery, Half-a-Crown: Unnumbered Seats, in Area or Gallery, One Shilling.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT ST. ANNE'S, SOHO.
—BACH'S CANTATA, "MY SPIRIT WAS IN HEAVENESS," will be sung with orchestral accompaniment at this church, under the direction of Mr. BARNBY, on each Friday evening during Advent, commencing December 7, at 8 o'clock. Admission free. Tickets to be obtained on application by letter to the Rev. Canon Wade, 28, Soho Square; or of the Churchwardens, Mr. S. Webb, 434, Oxford Street, and Mr. Shand, 4, Sidney Place, Leicester Square; or of the Choir Secretary, Mr. Charles Wade, 28, Soho Square.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

(PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH)

Price Threepence.

Annual subscription, including postage, 4s.

Subscriptions will also be received by all Book and Music Sellers (not including postage), 3s.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

To insure insertion in their proper places, Advertisements should reach the Office not later than the 20th of each month. It cannot be guaranteed that those received after this date will appear among the classified announcements; they will, however, be inserted in the space allotted to Advertisements arriving late.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Instituted, 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Under the immediate Patronage of Her Most Gracious Majesty the QUEEN and the Royal Family.

President—The Right Hon. The Earl of DUDLEY.

Principal—Professor MACFARREN, Mus. Doc., Cantab.

SCHOLARSHIPS.

The following SCHOLARSHIPS will be competed for as under:—
On MONDAY, Dec. 17th, the "THALBERG," at 10 a.m. For Female Candidates between the ages of 14 and 21. "Pianists." Literary Examination on Friday, Dec. 14th, at 10 a.m.

The "NOVELLO," at 2 p.m. For Male Candidates between the ages of 14 and 18. "The greatest promise of musical ability, preference being given to composition." Literary Examination as above.

On TUESDAY, Dec. 18th, the "BALFE," at 10 a.m. For Male Candidates between the ages of 14 and 21. "The greatest promise in composition." Literary Examination on Friday, Dec. 14th, at 10 a.m.

The "WESTMORELAND," at 2 p.m. For Female Candidates between the ages of 18 and 24. "Vocalists."

The "POTTER," at 4 p.m. For Male Pupils of the Academy only who have studied not less than two years in the Institution. "Any branch of Music."

Certificates of birth must be produced.

Further particulars to be had of the Secretary.

Names of intending competitors must be sent in on or before THURSDAY, Dec. 13th.

By order, JOHN GILL, Secretary.
Royal Academy of Music, Tenterden Street, Hanover Square.

NATIONAL TRAINING SCHOOL FOR MUSIC,
South Kensington. The Examinations for the NOVELLO SCHOLARSHIP (for Male Candidates between the ages of 14 and 18 years) will take place at the School on Wednesday, December 19, at 11.30 a.m.

All particulars may be had of the Registrar.

COLLEGE of ORGANISTS.—Paper work for the Preliminary Examination by letter should be sent in on or before December 1st. The usual CHRISTMAS EXAMINATION for Fellowship will take place on TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, January 8th and 9th, 1878, at 10 o'clock each day.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.
41, Queen Square, Bloomsbury.

COLLEGE of ORGANISTS.—The UMPIRES appointed to adjudicate in the Meadowcroft Prize Competition have unanimously awarded the Prize to the Anthem, "Give ear, O Lord," bearing the motto, "Labor omnia vincit," which has proved to be the composition of Dr. Haydn Keeton. They also specially commend the following works: "Lord, Thou hast been our refuge," motto, "Palmam qui meruit ferat"; "Sing, O daughter of Zion," motto, "Absque labore nihil"; a Middle Movement in "This is the day," motto, "Semper paratus"; and "Blessed be the Lord," motto, "Forward." Composers of the unsuccessful works may obtain their MSS. by application to the Hon. Sec., giving in each the motto, with address, and inclosing a stamped envelope. All applications for MSS. should be made by December 8th. Anthems signed L. D., "Laudamus," "Valeat quantum valere potest," "Perseverando," "I will sing," by "Forward," "Optimist," and "Spes est," arrived too late for competition. These will be included in the next competition, or returned, as may be desired by the writers.

41, Queen Square, Bloomsbury,
November 5, 1877.

E. H. TURPIN,
Hon. Secretary.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

DECEMBER 1, 1877.

HOLIDAY MUSIC.

BY HENRY C. LUNN.

THE old-world notion that the duty of a Government is the protection of persons and property is happily occasionally set aside by the fact of some benevolent Member of Parliament bringing in a bill for the enforcement of that periodical cessation from drudgery which is the only authorised acknowledgment of man being something more than a machine, to be wound up, regulated, and set in motion for the supply of our daily wants. The limiting of some branches of labour to a certain number of hours is one step in the right direction; but by far the most significant act of legislation in recent times is the establishment of definite holidays in the year—not certain portions of the day which are to be set aside for recreation, supposing that employers can kindly spare the employed—but entire mornings and evenings during which a business which it is not essential to keep in active operation is completely suspended, and hundreds of thousands of persons are released from that toil the unbroken continuance of which so fatally presses both upon their mental and physical powers. Of course before the granting of this boon occasional hours, and even days, of enjoyment were taken by all who felt the absolute necessity of a brief freedom from work; but a holiday “by Act of Parliament” was entirely unknown, and few therefore who sought the benefits of leisure and fresh air could quite shake off the feeling that they were robbing those by whom they were supported. It is not for any body of individuals to dictate, or even to advise, how the hours thus presented to men overweighted with work should be spent; but we cannot disguise the fact that the number of persons who know what to do with a holiday when they get it is extremely limited. A child decides in an instant, and is off as soon as he hears the welcome word which sets him free from study; but he who has arrived at “years of discretion” thinks very maturely by what means he can secure the largest amount of pleasure in the smallest space of time, and so very often ends by choosing the wrong method that we have frequently heard it said, even by those who have been looking longingly forward to a “Bank holiday,” that they are glad when it is over. But it is not everybody who is tempted by the facility of locomotion to cover as many miles of ground as he possibly can during the day: some there are who regard a holiday as an opportunity for indulging in those intellectual pursuits from which they are debarred during the hours of business. Literature, painting, music, and many other arts hold out inducements to the man of leisure as well as outdoor enjoyments, and a holiday consecrated to books, pictures, or instrumental and vocal compositions is often considered as one of the red-letter days in a man’s diary.

We have never been able to see the precise reason for it, but there has latterly been a growing tendency to patronise what may be termed “holiday literature.” Charles Dickens was the man who set the fashion to authors by writing “Christmas books,” in which a tale was told having abstractedly nothing whatever to do with any particular period of the year; but, as it was necessary, for commercial purposes, to connect it with what is known as our “festive season,” all the good and generous characters introduced became doubly good and generous, all the vicious and niggardly ones were converted to virtue and liberality, and all misery was turned into unalloyed happiness by the magic wand of Father Christmas, the entire dramatis personæ swearing eternal friendship in the last chapter with a unanimity only to be witnessed in the final scene of one of our conventional comedies. With the amount of merit displayed in the course of these stories we have nothing whatever to do, and here only allude to the subject to show how fatally the system acted upon literature, for the flood of works written upon the model we have mentioned which from that time has inundated the book-market has scarcely yet subsided. Many of these imitations are doubtless extremely good; but “holiday literature” is not presumed to overtax the powers either of the author or reader. It must be remembered, too, that the copies are not likely to have less faults than the original. Charles Dickens was unquestionably a genius in his way; but, although we consider the “Christmas Carol” one of the very best books he has produced, there can be no doubt that the “Christmas” machinery used to attract the public is as palpable to those behind the scenes as are the ropes and cranes used for the aerial flights of the Christmas fairies at our theatres.

To say that “holiday music” keeps pace with “holiday literature” is we think rather understating the fact; it immeasurably exceeds it. True it is that a large portion of compositions of this class are no more called by their right names than are the three-volume novels especially written for the idle moments of idle people; but those who want what is termed “light music” know perfectly well where to look for it. As long as pupils are permitted by their teachers to believe that the study of good music is a duty they will instinctively fly to bad music as a pleasure. Many children who read a “pretty story” in their holiday moments advance to higher works at a maturer age; but few who are thoroughly contented with a “pretty piece” when young learn to appreciate better compositions as they grow older, because their musical study usually ends with their school-days, and the foundation of a frivolous taste has during that period been too securely laid to be altered in after-life.

But, it may be said, are we always to be thinking profoundly during our hours of recreation? Certainly not. We have heard of a Professor who told all who studied with him invariably to attach his portrait to their pianoforte during a vacation, in order that they may be reminded of his lessons. As well might boys, when released from school, be compelled to talk to each other about the relative merits of the Greek and Roman literature, or walk two and two to keep up the feeling of academical discipline. The lessons of a master should sink so deeply into the nature of his pupil that the effect is continued when the cause is removed, and then a holiday is the very time when the result of good training is shown. Hang up the holly at Christmas, fill your rooms with merry-hearted boys and girls, banish all restraint, and let mirth reign supreme; but do not imagine that well-tutored ears and well-tutored minds will, even in play-hours, be satisfied with bad music or bad performance—why we have known many children who could not enjoy their dance because the pianist played “such horrible basses.”

It has rarely occurred to us to be present at a festive gathering when the flimsy compositions presumed to be appropriate to the occasion have pleased even the juvenile portion of the guests. We have nothing whatever to say against many of the quadrilles which have obtained popularity, and several of the waltzes we could name are so exceedingly graceful and melodious that they can be both danced to and listened to with the utmost pleasure. Even some of the well-known airs (of course divested of the words) are extremely welcome in a ballroom, and sufficiently rhythmical for dancing purposes; but when waltzes are published with sickly sentimental titles, and thus assume the dignity of pianoforte compositions, or when familiar tunes are "worked up" by fashionable "composers" into a showy Fantasia, we cannot but feel that pretenders are usurping the place which should be occupied only by the elect. It would of course be unnecessary for us to mention a number of charming small works which should be accepted as legitimate "holiday music;" but we have no desire to turn our gossiping article into a catalogue of compositions "suitable for the occasion." Our wish is solely to draw attention to the fact that cheerful and bright music by accredited writers exists around us which would delight equally young and old, and to prove that they are often held back by those whose duty it should be to bring them prominently into notice by every means in their power. It is much to be regretted, we think, that the word "classical" should be so universally applied to the higher kind of music, more especially when we know that more than half of those persons who use this term would be extremely puzzled to define it. In our youthful days we distinctly remember most carefully avoiding a collection of works, daily within our reach, because they were labelled "British Classics;" but on one occasion, finding no other books available, we were tempted into dipping into these volumes, and, to our surprise, found them so delightful that we were ever afterwards returning to that choice little corner in the bookcase of which we had previously a childish horror. In music the same prejudice exists with those who have been imperfectly educated in the art. Instances have often occurred within our own recollection of persons who made no secret of their dislike to the compositions of the great writers having been perfectly fascinated with a movement from a standard Pianoforte Sonata, or a song by an eminent composer, and when told the place of these pieces amongst the works of art they have frankly confessed that, if this is "classical music," they like it very much. To such listeners we certainly would not perform the most profound tone-poems; but what may be termed, in its widest sense, "holiday music" need not be rubbish; and, if people possessing tolerable intelligence in other matters were only to bring a little of it to bear upon music, they would scarcely condemn unheard those very works which have elevated the art to its present high position.

And now let us see how the composers themselves spent the holiday moments of their lives. It has often been said that when a person whose heart is in his work gets a short respite from necessary toil he rarely tears himself away from the scene of his labours. Certainly an author, to change the usual current of his thoughts, often takes the opportunity of reading, and an actor occasionally goes to see a play; of course, therefore, a composer sometimes hears good music as a relaxation. But usually the very sensation of repose creates a longing for producing a composition which shall express the thoughts called up by the feeling of the time. When Spohr took up his residence at the pretty little Swiss village of Thierachern, he says, "The daily exercise in the beautiful pure balmy air strengthens our bodies, enlivens our spirits, and makes us joyous and happy. In such a disposition of mind one works easily and quickly, and several compositions lie already completed before me, namely, a Violin Concerto in the shape of a vocal scena and a Duet for two violins." Then was not Mendelssohn's tour in Scotland depicted in his Symphony in A minor, and his impressions of the Hebrides recorded in the Overture to the "Isles of Fingal"? These, indeed, are veritable musical diaries, written in a language which all can understand and feel; and yet they are both "holiday" works, and composed under the influence of that placid enjoyment of nature which only the true poet can thoroughly appreciate. Again, it may be recollected that when in London Mendelssohn had the misfortune to hurt his knee so seriously, by being thrown from a cab, as to be for a long time confined to his room; but to this forced retirement we owe the composition of the beautiful little Operetta known in England as "Son and Stranger," which was expressly written to be performed on the celebration of his parents' "silver wedding." In his letter to Devrient—so full of spirits that we can scarcely imagine that its writer was lying on a bed of sickness—he says, "We will get up this fun, with other trifles, on the eve of the day, with a regular (miniature) stage, and a regular (miniature) orchestra; and I beg of you to begin putting the matter in hand: to think what costumes we shall have, to take the part of stage manager, to show my eldest sister how she is to conduct herself as the overseer's wife. You will know what I should like; and over the first rice-cake, the whole of which I intend to eat myself, we will discuss further particulars." Haydn, it is well known, threw his lighter thoughts into works the humour of which reveals a portion of his nature which but for the composition of these comparative trifles might have been hidden from his admirers. The "Toy Symphony" has enlivened many a juvenile programme; and amongst his "holiday music" we may mention the Trio, "Maiden fair, oh deign to tell," in which the bass is presumed suddenly to make his appearance at a window, and interrupt, in stentorian tones, an affectionate duet between two lovers. Then the "Abschied Symphony" ends with a genuine musical joke, the performers disappearing one by one from the orchestra, until the Conductor is left alone, and almost in the dark. Let us call to mind, too, the lovely little piece of Handel known by the name of "Water-Music," composed expressly for the river picnic, when the recently crowned King George I., the Prince and Princess of Wales, with a large party of nobility, went in barges from Whitehall to Limehouse; and also the Overture and five other movements written for the "Royal fireworks" which were exhibited in the Green Park to celebrate the peace of Aix-la-Chapelle. Surely we may class all these compositions as pure "holiday music;" and yet do we not listen to them with delight, even after the circumstances which called them into being are almost forgotten?

To those who know how vividly music can express the varied shades of human feeling—how humour as well as pathos, joy as well as sorrow, have been evoked by the magic of sound—the hours of recreation are merely short periods stolen from the more serious portion of their lives when, as we have endeavoured to show, they take advantage of their consummate mastery of the art to use it rather as a relaxation than a study. All, therefore, who profess to be lovers of music should take to heart the truth that nothing palls sooner upon the taste than the frivolous compositions upon which fashion has set the seal of approval. There can be no question that, if small men have written good "holiday music," great men have written better. Should we not try, therefore, even in the height of our pleasure, not to degrade an art which has a mission so noble? We may enjoy ourselves like grown-children, but let it be like educated grown-children.

THE GREAT COMPOSERS, SKETCHED BY THEMSELVES.

By JOSEPH BENNETT.

No. III.—MOZART (continued).

I COME now to the letters written by Mozart from the time of his arrival in Paris (March 23, 1778) till his return to Salzburg in the early part of the following year. That the composer, though sorry to absent himself from his beloved Aloysia, entered the French capital with high hopes there is abundant evidence to prove. It is equally certain that he busied himself with worldly-wise measures to secure their realisation, making friends everywhere, and behaving so agreeably that his mother, who travelled with him, wrote, "I cannot describe to you how much Wolfgang is beloved and praised here." At the same time, Mozart entertained the most profound contempt for French music, though this did not hinder him from applauding it in public. Witness the following extract from one of his letters home: "I have this moment returned from the Concert Spirituel. Baron Grimm and I often give vent to our wrath at the music here—N.B. when tête-à-tête, for in public we call out 'bravo! bravissimo!' and clap our hands till our fingers tingle." To tell the truth, Mozart, though complaisant from policy, was soon disgusted with everything French, and began to exhibit himself as a thorough-going hater from a national point of view. To this frame of mind he was materially helped by somewhat cold treatment on the part of those whose favour and patronage he sought. Addressing his father, in reply to advice that he should persevere in making friends, Mozart writes, "You tell me that I ought to pay a good many visits in order to gain new acquaintances and renew former ones. This is, however, impossible, from the distances being so great; and it is too muddy to go on foot, for really the mud of Paris is beyond all description. To go in a carriage entails spending four or five livres a day, and all for nothing; it is true the people say all kinds of civil things, but there it ends, as they appoint me to come on such and such a day, when I play and hear them exclaim, 'Oh! c'est un prodige! C'est inconcevable! C'est étonnant!' and then, 'Adieu!' At first I spent money enough in driving about and to no purpose, from not finding the people at home. Unless you lived here, you could not believe what an annoyance this is. Besides, Paris is much changed; the French are far from being as polite as they were fifteen years ago; their manner now borders on rudeness, and they are odiously self-sufficient." But the real reason why Mozart so soon became tired of visiting was not mud, nor expense, nor distance, but the pride we have already observed in him. This appears clearly enough, from an account he gives of his reception by the Duchesse de Bourbon, every line of which seems to taste of the bitterness of mortification. I quote it not only as helping to explain the master's state of mind, but because it gives a picture of genius in the house of wealth and position: "I waited half an hour in a large room without any fire, and as cold as ice. At last the duchess came in, and was very polite, begging me to make allowance for her piano, as none of her instruments were in good order, but I might at least try it. I said that I would most gladly play something, but at this moment it was impossible, as my fingers were quite benumbed from the cold, so I asked her at all events to take me to a room where there was a fire. 'Oh! oui, monsieur, vous avez raison,' was the answer. She then seated herself, and drew for a whole hour in company with several gentlemen, all sitting in a circle around a large table, and during this time I had the honour to wait. The windows and doors were open, so that not only my hands, but my body and my feet were cold, and my head also began to ache. Moreover, there was altum silentium, and I really did not know what to do from cold, headache, and weariness. I again and again thought to myself that if it were not on M. Grimm's account I would leave the house at once. At last, to cut matters short, I played on the wretched, miserable piano. What, however, vexed me most of all was that the duchess and all the gentlemen did not cease drawing for a single moment, but coolly continued their occupation; so I was left to play to the chairs and tables and the walls. My patience gave way under such unpropitious circumstances. I therefore began the Fischer Variations, and after playing one-half of them I rose. Then came eulogiums without end." Here, truly, is a scene for a painter—the sumptuous saloon, the stately duchess and her gentlemen round the big table, and against the wall poor Mozart humbly waiting, and visibly shivering in his thin dress of ceremony. No wonder that such experiences made him bitter against all around, or that the contempt with which he fancied himself treated on the score of his nationality should make him take a fierce pleasure in heaping Teutonic abuse upon France and the French. Here is an out-spoken example of the feeling to which he was driven: "If this [Paris] were a place where people had ears to hear or hearts to feel, and understood just a little of music, and had some degree of taste, these things would only make me laugh heartily, but as it is (so far as music is concerned) I am surrounded by mere brute beasts. But how can it be otherwise? For, in all their actions, inclinations, and passions, they are just the same. There is no place in the world like Paris. You must not think that I exaggerate when I speak in this way of the music here, refer to whom you will, except to a Frenchman born, and (if trustworthy) you will hear the same. But I am now here, and must endure it for your sake. I shall be grateful to Providence if I get away with my natural taste uninjured. I pray to God every day to grant me grace to be firm and steadfast here, that I may do honour to the whole German nation. . . . I entreat you, dearest father, to take measures that I may see Italy, in order to bring me to life again." The reference here to the Vaterland should not be overlooked. It shows that Mozart was, so to speak, driven back upon his nationality. In a second letter we find other evidence to the same effect: "I am pretty well, thank God! but still I am often puzzled to know what to make of it all. I feel neither hot nor cold, and don't take much pleasure in anything. What, however, cheers and strengthens me most is the thought that you, dearest papa, and my dear sister are well, that I am an honest German, and though I cannot say, I may, at all events, think what I please; and after all that is the chief thing." Again, describing the successful performance of his Symphony (in D major) written for the Concert Spirituel, he says: "The moment the Symphony was over I went off in my joy to the Palais Royal, where I took a good ice, told over my beads, as I had vowed, and went home, where I am always happiest and always shall be happiest, or in the company of some good, true, upright German who, so long as he is unmarried, lives a good Christian life, and when he marries loves his wife and brings up his children properly." In another letter we read, "The French are and always will be downright donkeys; they can do nothing themselves, so they must have recourse to foreigners. . . . If I receive a commission to write an Opera I shall have annoyance enough, but this I shall not much mind, being pretty well accustomed to it—if only that confounded French language were not so detestable for music. It is, indeed, too provoking; even German is divine in comparison. And then the singers—but they do not deserve the name, for they do not sing, but scream and bawl with all their might through their noses and throats." Subsequent to this, Mozart writes that his friend Baron Grimm had upbraided him for "not going about enough," and proceeds to give an example of what good "going about" resulted in. He had taught for some time the daughter of the Duke of Guines, who, however, on her betrothal, discontinued taking lessons. About this Mozart declares, "It is no particular loss to me, for the duke only pays me what every one else does. . . . They went into the country, and when they came back ten days afterwards I was not apprised of it; had I not by chance inquired out of mere curiosity I should not have known that they were here. When I did go, the governess took out her purse and said to me, 'Pray excuse my only paying you at present for twelve lessons, for I have not enough money.' This is a noble proceeding! She then gave me three louis d'or, adding, 'I hope you are satisfied; if not, I beg you will say so.' M. le Duc can have no sense of honour, or probably thinks that I am only a young man and a thick-headed German (for this is the way in which the French always speak of us) and that I shall be quite contented. The thick-headed German, however, was very far from being contented, so he declined the sum offered. The duke intended to pay me one hour instead of two, and all from economy. As he has now had a Concerto of mine for harp and flute* for the last four months which he has not yet paid me for, I am only waiting till the wedding is over to go to the governess and get my money. What provokes me most of all is that these stupid Frenchmen think I am still only seven years old, as they first saw me when I was that age." Something had been said to Mozart about writing an Opera, and even in this he finds a subject for railing: "I must compose a great Opera or none. If I write only smaller ones I shall get very little, for here everything is done at a fixed price, and if it should be so unfortunate as not to please the obtuse French, it is all up with it. . . . I assure you that, if I receive a commission to write an Opera, I have no fears on the subject. It is true that the devil himself invented their language, and I see the difficulties which all composers have found in it. But, in spite of this, I feel myself as able to surmount these difficulties as any one else. Indeed, when I sometimes think in my own mind that I may look on my own Opera as a certainty, I feel quite a fiery impulse within me, and tremble from head to foot, through the eager desire to teach the French more fully how to know, and value, and fear the Germans. Why is a great Opera never entrusted to a Frenchman? Why is it always given to a foreigner? To me the most insupportable part of it will be the singers. Well, I am ready; I wish to avoid all strife, but, if I am challenged, I know how to defend myself. If it runs its course without a duel I should prefer it, for I do not care to wrestle with dwarfs." It is interesting to see Mozart thus posing as the champion of Germany and the enemy of France, and it is not surprising that, a few weeks after writing the words last quoted, he shook the mud of Paris off his feet, and betook himself to his own people. Let me dismiss Mozart as a satirist of the French under pleasantly humorous circumstances. Speaking of his Symphony he says, "I have been careful not to neglect le premier coup d'archet, and that is sufficient. All the wiseacres here make such a fuss on that point. Deuce take me, if I can see any difference! Their orchestra begins all at one stroke, just as in other places. It is too laughable. Raaff told me a story of Abaco on this subject. He was asked by a Frenchman in Munich or elsewhere, 'Sir, you have been to Paris?' 'Yes!' 'And to the Concert Spirituel?' 'Yes!' 'What do you say to the first stroke of the bow? Have you heard the first stroke of the bow?' 'Yes, I have heard the first—and the last!' 'How the last? What do you mean by that?' 'I have heard the first and the last, and the last gave me the greater pleasure!'"

I have now to present Mozart in a very different character, and under circumstances adapted above all to show him as he really was. Affliction is fittingly likened to a furnace, which burns up the dross and reveals the true metal, and it was through a very hot furnace that our great composer during his stay in the French capital was called upon to pass. His good and indulgent mother, the companion of his wanderings, whose very presence made a home to him among strangers, was taken ill towards the end of June, and on July 2 her life, to use the bereaved son's own words, "went out like a light." Three hours later Mozart was writing to a friend in Salzburg begging him to assist in breaking the news to and consoling the father and daughter. For himself he was resigned. "God has called her to Himself; I clearly see that it was His will to take her from us, and I must learn to submit to the will of God. The Lord giveth, and the Lord taketh away." But for those at home he was terribly anxious. "I entreat you, therefore, my best friend, to watch over my father for me, try to inspire him with courage, that the blow may not be too hard and heavy on him when he learns the worst. I also, from my heart, implore you to comfort my sister. Pray go straight to them, but do not tell them she is actually dead—only prepare them for the truth. Do what you think best, say what you please, only act so that my mind may be relieved, and that I may not have to dread another misfortune. Support and comfort my dear father and sister." The same day Mozart wrote a most pathetic letter to his remaining parent—pathetic in its very attempt to divert the old man's attention from the news the writer chiefly wished to convey. Beginning by describing his mother as seriously ill, but not dead, Mozart ominously insists upon our helplessness in the hand of God. He continues, "I do not mean to say by this that my mother will or must die, or that all hope is at an end. She may recover and be restored to health [surely the recording angel blotted out the entry of this statement with a tear], but only if the Lord wills it thus. . . . Now for another subject. Let us put aside these sad thoughts, and still hope, but not too much; we must place our trust in the Lord, and console ourselves by the thought that all must go well if it be in accordance with the will of the Almighty, as He knows best what is most profitable and beneficial both for our temporal and spiritual welfare." He then strains himself away from the subject that must have filled his heart to bursting, and gossips about his new Symphony, announces the death of Voltaire as became a pious Catholic—"the ungodly arch-villain, Voltaire, has died miserably like a dog—just like a brute"—refers to a "project" concerning himself and Aloysia, who, at the moment, we may well believe, was dearer to him than ever; chats about Opera libretti, and then, as was inevitable, comes round to the main theme: "My dearest mother is in the hands of the Almighty. If He still spares her to us, as I wish He may, we will thank Him for this blessing; if He takes her to Himself, all our anguish, misery, and despair can be of no avail. Let us rather submit with firmness to His Almighty will, in the full conviction that it will prove for our good, as He does nothing without a cause." We know from Leopold Mozart's letters that he was not deceived by his son's loving policy. He knew that the blow had fallen, and was not startled when a second epistle arrived from Paris stating the truth. In this Wolfgang rises to absolute eloquence. "I hope," he says, "you have now summoned up courage to hear the worst, and that, after at first giving way to natural and only too just anguish and tears, you will eventually submit to the will of God, and adore His inscrutable, unfathomable, and all-wise Providence. . . . Weep, weep, as you cannot fail to weep, but take comfort at last; remember that God Almighty has ordained it, and how can we rebel against Him? Let us rather pray to Him, and thank Him for His goodness, for she died a happy death." "I would fain have gone with her," exclaims the disconsolate son, "but we shall see her again and live together far more happily and blessedly than in this world. The time as yet we know not, but that does not disturb me, when God wills it I am ready. His heavenly and holy will has been fulfilled. . . . My dearest father, do not give way. My dear sister, be firm. . . . Remember, my beloved ones both, that you have a son and a brother anxious to devote all his powers to make you happy." Then the writer, careful to divert the sorrowing widower's thoughts, turns aside to ordinary matters, winding up at last with the counsel, "Pray without ceasing; this is the only resource we have." One cannot look at Mozart's behaviour at this distressing crisis of his family life without admiration. There may be here and there a man ready to put on a mask and play at mummery by the open grave of his mother; but such was not our great master, and the letters from which I have quoted remain an eternal proof of his piety as a man, and his deep-toned affection as a son.

* Played not long since in St. James's Hall at a concert given by Mr. John Thomas.

I have referred above to Mozart's pride as a musician and artist, and now is the time for his letters to prove that he was otherwise sensitive. After his mother's death he was boarded and lodged gratis in the house of Baron Grimm, but he soon intimates to his father that all is not smooth there. In one letter we read, "When you write to the friend with whom I am staying do not be too obsequious in your thanks. There are reasons for this, which I will tell you some other time." The fact was that Grimm offended by impressing upon Mozart a sense of his obligation to the goodness which found him a home. This the spirited little man could not stand, and he pours out his wrath to his father in terms as follow:

"He has no great cause to be so proud of his good deeds towards me, for there were four houses where I could have had both board and lodging. The worthy man does not know that, if I had remained in Paris, I intended to have left him next month, to go to a house that, unlike his, is neither stupid nor tiresome, and where a man has not constantly thrown in his face that a kindness has been done him. Such conduct is enough to cause me to forget a benefit, but I will be more generous than he is. I regret not remaining here only because I should have liked to show him that I do not require him, and that I can do as much as his Piccini, although I am only a German. The greatest service he has done me consists in fifteen louis d'or which he lent me bit by bit during my mother's life and at her death. Is he afraid of losing them? If he has a doubt on the subject, then he deserves to be kicked, for in that case he must mistrust my honesty (which is the only thing that can rouse me to rage) and also my talents; but the latter, indeed, I know he does, for he once said to me that I was not capable of writing a French Opera. I mean to repay him his fifteen louis d'or when I go to take leave of him, accompanied by some polite expressions." The Grimm feud thus announced continued to the end of Mozart's stay in Paris, and the composer was always very bitter on the subject; but his too conscious benefactor, in league with the father at Salzburg, never relaxed his hold, and he it was who dictated when Mozart should leave, and packed him off in a slow waggon that took ten days to reach Strassburg. Doubtless there were faults on both sides, but the matter is hardly one for discussion here. Mozart felt humiliated, that is plain, and it concerns me only to show how promptly he resented any attack upon his self-respect. But the composer at this time was beginning to have a due sense of his own value. The Prince-Archbishop of Salzburg, in a roundabout way, opened negotiations for his return as Capellmeister, and the offer was warmly seconded by Leopold Mozart, whose humble stipend scarcely kept a decent roof over his head. But Wolfgang, though anxious to please his father, exacted terms from the archbishop, and said some very cutting things about Salzburg with which its reverend ruler would scarcely have been pleased had they reached his ears. "Salzburg is no place for my talent," he proudly wrote, and then became sarcastic. "Without a Capellmeister, there must be quiet and order in the orchestra. That would never do. Is there no ass-eared old perriwig, no dunder-head forthcoming, to restore the concern to its former disabled condition? I shall certainly do my best in the matter. To-morrow I intend to hire a carriage for the day and visit all the hospitals and infirmaries, to see if I can't find a Capellmeister in one of them." After this outburst of the impatience and anger of genius Mozart cooled down sufficiently to negotiate. He must have this, that, and the other privilege, and he carried his point, which was the reason why late in September he got into the Strassburg waggon, and crawled for ten days through the plains of France, his heart and brain all the time more full of Aloysia Weber than of a Capellmeister's duties in the city of his birth.

There is only one other personal incident in this section of Mozart's letters upon which it is desirable to dwell as indicative of character. When the composer rejoined his darling Aloysia at Munich he found her entirely changed towards him. The story goes that she scarcely condescended to recognise him, whereupon he sat down to the piano and sang, "I gladly give up the girl who slights me." But though Mozart took his disappointment like a man in public, he suffered like a man in private, and in a letter to his father we can see the tears. "To-day I can only weep," he exclaims. "I have far too sensitive a heart." "I really am unfit for anything; my heart is too full of tears. I hope you will soon write to me and comfort me." The composer's elastic nature, however, was not to be permanently cast down. He soon transferred his love to Aloysia's sister Constance, who, as we all know, ultimately became his wife.

Two matters not personal as to character may be mentioned before dismissing the Paris letters. One is Mozart's opinion of that now rampant vocal defect the vibrato. "Nothing," says the master, "can be more truly odious; besides, it is a style of singing quite contrary to nature. The human voice is naturally tremulous, but only so far as to be beautiful, and it is imitated not only on wind instruments but on stringed instruments, and even on the piano. But the moment the proper boundary is passed, it is no longer beautiful, because it becomes unnatural. It seems to me then just like an organ when the bellows are panting." There is some humour in my next and closing extract, which refers to the gimcrack watches it was the then custom for "persons of distinction" to bestow upon artists. "Speaking of watches," says Mozart, "I must tell you that I am bringing one with me—a genuine Parisian. You know what sort of a thing my jewelled watch was—how inferior all the so-called precious stones were, how clumsy and awkward its shape; but I would not have cared so much about that had I not been obliged to spend so much money in repairing and regulating it, and after all the watch would one day gain a couple of hours, and next day lose in the same proportion. The one the Elector gave me did just the same, and the works were even worse and more fragile. I exchanged these two watches and their chains for a Parisian one which is worth twenty louis d'or. So now at last I know what o'clock it is; with my five watches I never got so far as that before."

(To be continued.)

A SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF MUSIC-PRINTING, FROM THE FIFTEENTH TO THE NINETEENTH CENTURY

By FRIEDRICH CHRYSANDER.

(Concluded from page 527.)

FIFTH PERIOD.—ENGRAVING ON PEWTER AND ZINC.

THE imperfection of the earliest method of music-printing, xylography, called the invention of musical typography into existence. In close connection with the peculiar notation employed for the lute and organ (tablature) arose the practice of engraving music upon copper; and from the imperfection of this again sprang that improved process which has now been everywhere adopted, and acknowledged to be the best mode of printing music.

This method, which we have now to describe last of all, consists not in anything completely new, but only in carrying on to a further stage what the copper-engravers were already doing. Although at first they produced music in the same manner in which other copperplate engravings were executed, yet music contains so much that is purely mechanical, being repeated again and again, that mechanical means were soon resorted to in order to lessen the amount of labour. The Italians, Verovio and his followers, did not do much in this way, but followed the lines of the manuscript music which they were copying. Their copper-engraving consequently never attained any extension and commercial importance comparable to that of their typography, and during the entire seventeenth and eighteenth centuries copied music was what Italy chiefly spread abroad.

The Dutch were directly opposed to the Italians in all this. They never copied, printed nothing worth mentioning with movable types, and engraved everything on copper; moreover they chose such forms of notes as were the most convenient for engraving; and the extraordinarily high cultivation of the art of picture-engraving soon exerted a beneficial influence on music-engraving. About 1700, when music-engraving on copper had reached a very high degree of prosperity, it is said that one important branch of industry, but at the same time an object of envy and attempted imitation to foreigners, was concerned with certain peculiar instruments for accelerating the engraving of music on copper, which the Dutch possessed and carefully kept secret. The French also naturally possessed similar mechanical helps; for Baussen, who engraved hundreds of thousands of notes for Ballard, of course chose those instruments that made the work the easiest for him. It may then be assumed that these instruments, and those of the Dutch also, were all distinguished from those of modern music-engravers by being brought down to the plate, not by a blow with the hammer, but by mere motion of the hand, or, in other words, that did not strike, but bored. About 1820 the engraver Töpfer was still living at Leipzig, who only in his later years changed from engraving music on copper to the engraving on pewter, which was introduced into Germany from France about the year 1800. His pupil, Fr. Weissenborn, an admirable engraver (father of Hermann Weissenborn, the engraver employed for the works of the German Handel Society), received from Töpfer the instruments for copper-engraving. They were not stamps or punches (poissons) but borers, and could be used with tolerable rapidity. We are justified in supposing these to be the old Dutch inventions, considering that they are suited to the nature of the material, for notes cannot be formed by blows in copper in the same way as in pewter and zinc.

This is the reason why I have made the distinction of the fourth and fifth periods to depend upon the material employed, and not upon the question whether the notes were put upon the plate by punches or by the free hand. Indeed, a distinction on the latter basis could not be carried out, because the free action of the hand is an essential condition in every mode of music-engraving. That the new method depended greatly in its execution on the employment of a new material will be evident from the following exposition.

England was the chief market for the musical press of the Dutch. The demand in England increased steadily from year to year, especially after the establishment of an Italian-English Opera in 1706. Music-publishers and engravers multiplied rapidly, and the more music was produced or at least performed at home, the less could importation from Holland suffice to meet the demand, and the stronger was the impulse to print everything at home. That a little later there were music-engravers on copper in London too, who formed their style on the best French models, is shown by the first book of "Suites de pièces pour le clavecin" by Handel, which was engraved by Cluer and published in 1720. But in general, the English copperplate engraving was as mediocre as printing with movable types in the same period in Germany. Yet even if it had been better, even if the English could have learned from the Dutch all their arts of quick production, the chief defect for England would not have been removed—that it demanded too much time. This was not much felt in the first two decades of the eighteenth century. But when the Royal Academy of Music for Operas was opened in London, in 1720, with works of the first living composers, executed by singers and instrumentalists of the first rank, and encouraged by general applause and crowded audiences, the demand for new music was so pressing that the existing mode of printing became intolerably insufficient.

The peculiar circumstances existing in the first few years of the London Opera Academy were a strong incentive to a zealous and ambitious man of business to discover new methods. Handel was prepared to negotiate the printing of his Operas through his friend, transcriber, and treasurer, Johann Christoph Schmidt (Smith). John Cluer received them to engrave and print, and was also engaged in the sale. Cluer was without doubt the best engraver then in London, and was selected by Handel for this reason. But there was another man who looked on their connection with especial displeasure, and whose chief aim was to get the English music trade into his own hands. This was John Walsh. He saw by the example of Cluer what advantages good engraving commanded, and worked indefatigably at improving the method. He was also all the more anxious now to extend the range of his publishing business, as the chief source, Handel, was almost entirely closed to him. His energy was undaunted, and was in a few years rewarded by success. The first mature fruit of his labours was a work which appeared in 1724:—

“MUSICA SACRA: or, Select Anthems in score. . . . Compos'd by Dr. William Croft. . . . Printed for and sold by John Walsh.” [1724. Folio.]

It is not dated, but the privilege was granted October 30, 1724. That in this publication some remarkable experiment in music-printing was tried we are told in the composer's preface, which commences in a remarkable style, quite unusual on such occasions, as follows: “This being the first essay of publishing Church-Musick in England, after the manner of printing wherein this performance is done, it may not be improper to take notice of some of the advantages that may accrue to the science in general from this method of publishing the same, as also the benefit and ease that Performers in this way may receive, in order to their improvement in Musick, by having it laid before them in a complete and correct score.” He continues to observe that there is no want of good old pieces of Church music, but that they are not at all generally circulated, “for want of the art of regularly placing and ranging the Notes, a nicety which the old way of printing would not admit of.” By “the old way” he means printing with movable types, and mentions the score of Purcell's Te Deum and Jubilate, printed in that way, as a warning instance of incorrectness. The circulation of manuscript copies was still common, but this produced almost a greater harvest of errors. “From this short view, therefore, of the mischiefs of erroneous Printing and injudicious Transcribing of Church-Musick, and the inconveniences arising from the manner of writing and printing it in separate Parts and not in Score; it must necessarily follow, that this new way of conveying the same to posterity, by printing it in a complete Score, will greatly tend to the improvement and advantage of Musick in general; which art of printing, by the indefatigable Industry of our present Undertaker, is brought to much greater perfection in England, than in any other part of Europe; the manifold advantages whereof may best be known, and will be most effectually explained by the use and practice of it.” The worthy Dr. Croft proceeds in the same diffuse style to set forth these advantages, and hopes that practised singers will in future sing their parts direct from the score; he also wishes (and the publisher undoubtedly joins in the wish) that the works of earlier composers for the Church may come to be printed in this same “complete and correct manner,” supported by the subscriptions of the heads of the Church; but of the new method itself he says no more.

Dr. Croft's words refer strictly only to the engraving of music in contradistinction to type-printing, and it is only of Church music that he says this was the first (considerable) printed work of its kind. Nevertheless we should err greatly if we doubted that a new method was then really adopted through Walsh's “indefatigable industry.” Croft's Anthems were engraved not on the old substance, copper, but on pewter, a mixture of tin and lead. The use of a new substance is to be recognised in the engraving. It is indeed still effected by the free hand, or with only the instruments used by copperplate engravers, even the crotchets being made without punches; but the movement of the hand in these notes, and especially in the bows and cross-lines, is such as to force us to infer a softer metal. The style is not uniform throughout, doubtless because many engravers were employed; pages 79-94 are scarcely distinguishable from copper-engraving, but the following pages again differ from it considerably. Bows, such as occur, e.g., on page 128, can only be made by a single stroke on pewter, not on copper.

All that is asserted here is still further confirmed by the second volume of Croft's “Anthems,” which was published later. If I can now prove that pewter plates were then already in use, no doubt will remain as to the truth of the above. In the same year with Croft's “Anthems,” but several months before them, Cluer published a neat octavo edition of Handel's new Opera, “Julius Cæsar.” We learn details about it from the advertisements. Having announced his edition as the only genuine one in the London Journal of May 2, 1724, Cluer writes more definitely on June 6: “Corrected and Figur'd by Mr. Handel's own Hand; therefore beware of incorrect pirated Editions—done on large Pewter Plates.” The edition was not published till the 13th of July, and was thus announced two days previously: “The whole Opera of Julius Cæsar in Score. Compos'd by the celebrated George Frederick Handel of London, Gent., and Corrected and Figur'd by his own Hand; Price 15s.” (London Journal, July 11, 1724).

The meaning of the “large pewter plates,” as a glance at the edition shows, is that two royal octavo pages were engraved on one plate and printed from it. Consequently Croft's “Anthems” were not the first work engraved on pewter, as is asserted in an article in the Printing Times in 1876. Moreover this shows that Walsh cannot be regarded as the inventor of this important innovation. The praise which good Dr. Croft lavished on him, of having by indefatigable industry brought music-engraving in England to much greater perfection than that of any other country, would twenty years later have been well merited, but at the time must have been chiefly dictated by the pleasure he felt at seeing his Anthems printed with such unexpected rapidity and excellence.

Cluer had made this improvement before Walsh. All the details concerning it are shrouded in obscurity, because the matter was treated as merely an affair affecting the printers; and were it not for the incidental notice in the single advertisement of June 6, 1724, we should know nothing of it. Unless previous experiments had been made with similar plates, Walsh must have seized the same material as soon as ever he heard of Cluer's mode of engraving "Julius Cæsar." So much must now be regarded as certain: Cluer and Walsh were the two persons who put the new method into practice, and their rivalry during the years from 1720 to 1729, when Cluer died and his widow kept up the business only for a short time, occasioned the conversion of the old copper-engraving into pewter-engraving.*

Cluer may have been the first to use pewter, but he certainly did not discover its special value. A few months after "Julius Cæsar" he printed Handel's newest Opera "Tamerlane," on the title-page of which is written in imposing letters, "Engrav'd on Copper Plates." "Tamerlane" was published January 9, 1729 (see my "Life of Handel," vol. ii. p. 125). In "Lothario" also, the last of the Operas engraved by him, published in 1729, he kept to copper-engraving. Probably there was some difficulty in printing from the pewter plates, the ink may have stuck to them, or the plates may have cracked when used for printing a very large edition; and such misadventures would soon make the printers afraid of pewter. Walsh seems to have bought Cluer's business from his widow; at least impressions of Handel's Operas taken from Cluer's plates were published after 1730 under his name, and from this time he was at the head of the London music-publishing trade. Handel's works formed the centre of Walsh's business, as Lully's the centre of Ballard's. Now soon after 1730, punches, which were driven with a hammer into the plate, were first used in Walsh's office. At first they were used only for the heads of notes like , but soon for notes like  also, for letter-press, names of instruments, indications of expression, &c.; only the larger titles were for a long time engraved by hand. The original editions of Handel's Operas of the years 1720-40 enable us to follow the whole process from the first experiments down to its ultimate perfection. And the entire history, from copper-engraving to pewter-engraving with punches, can be studied in one single collection, called "Apollo's Feast," consisting of airs selected by Walsh from the above-named Operas, and published in five volumes in the years from 1725 to 1740.

From this collateral branch of the history of music, hitherto but little studied, we are again informed of the great importance of the London Italian Opera in the years 1720 to 1728, when Handel presided over it. It not only stood at the head of European music as well by virtue of the music composed for it as of the performance; it also created a musical public in England, and thereby encouraged industrial inventions and advances which, without this impulse, might have been long delayed.

John Walsh, who had the music business from his father, became, through the unlooked-for musical advance of England, the greatest music-publisher of the eighteenth century, and died rich in 1766. His activity deserves a fuller description than is possible here. But perhaps some one may be encouraged by this notice to attempt it, and to draw up a list of his publications, which there are means of arranging according to the numbers which Walsh attached to almost all, in their proper order, and generally with the dates supplied from the advertisements. English musical publications after 1710 were only exceptionally provided with a date—a bad custom which had its origin in piracy, and was, like much else, imported from Holland.

I can here give full compensation for having been obliged to knock on the head the idea that musical copper-plate engraving was an English invention (supra, p. 524), by the certain fact that the introduction of pewter, and the alteration produced thereby in the mode of engraving through the combination of punches and free handiwork took place in England under the circumstances above detailed. This method spread gradually to other countries and caused the earlier processes to be discarded. It is the basis of all modern music-engraving. Its importance is therefore far greater than that of copper-engraving, although an invention of the eighteenth century may appear less interesting from an antiquarian point of view than one of the sixteenth. Its importance lies in its independence: the process is not dependent on picture-engraving or on book-printing, but is formed solely according to the laws of musical notation. On this ground it is a thing perfect in itself, and consequently stands at the head of all the modes of printing music.

Very curiously, the plates of several works belonging to Walsh's establishment are still preserved perfect, and now form the most important rarity that has come down to our times from the ancient history of music-printing.* They belong to the following five great works of Handel: 1. the first "Coronation Anthem" (known in Handel's time by the name "God save the King"), twenty-five plates; 2. "Acis and Galatea," eighty-nine plates; 3. "Dettingen Te Deum," ninety-eight plates; 4. "Judas Maccabæus," 208 plates; 5. "Messiah," 188 plates; with thirty-five additional plates called Appendix. I quote the works in the order in which they may probably have been engraved. The plates of the Anthem and those of "Acis and Galatea" show us in part the new method still in its earliest stage. These plates have been for a considerable time in the possession of Messrs. Novello, and are in so good a condition that it was possible to print a new edition from them, which is still to be had in the trade.

Thus the modern style of music-engraving arose in England at a time when in Italy the printing of music had almost utterly ceased, and when, both there and in the other musical countries, the largest works, especially scores, were scarcely spread abroad except by manuscript copies, so that the state of things in the fourteenth century, before the invention of printing, appeared to be coming back.

* While noting here Cluer and Walsh as the two innovators, I do not forget Richard Meares, who also worked contemporaneously with them, as an able engraver. In the preface to the class "Printed Music" in the Catalogue of the Caxton Exhibition, p. 249, it is said, "Richard Meares and John Walsh produced stamped plates in London about the year 1720," i.e. plates of pewter. Now it is very probable that Meares also took an active part in this innovation, but I have hitherto found no proof of it, and only know that in the year 1720 he was still working as an eminent engraver on copper: for Handel had his Opera "Radamisto" engraved by him then "on copper plates." If he really employed pewter at so early a date, I hope that the facts concerning it will be soon made public.

* The copper-plates of Marpurg's "Lehrbuch der Fuge" are not the oldest extant, as I supposed (p. 527), for I see from the Catalogue of the Caxton Exhibition, p. 249, that the plates of Corelli's Sonatas, which were engraved in London as early as 1710, are still in existence, and these may probably be confidently pronounced the oldest extant. The work of Marpurg was called on p. 527, "Kunst der Fuge:" its correct title is "Lehrbuch der Fuge." There is a third error on that page, which I take this opportunity of correcting. On p. 527, line 45, occur the words, "It [i.e. Bach's 'Kunst der Fuge'] was published again by Marpurg." "Again" must be cancelled, as Marpurg's edition of that work was not the second but the first, and his task was to write a commendatory preface to a work during the preparation of which Bach had died without being able to complete the publication himself.

About 1750 this style of engraving spread from England to France, and then fell in the former as fast as it rose in the latter. The engraving itself was always tasteful in France, because an excellent school of musical copper-engravers had long been established there; but the impression from pewter plates was far behind the English of 1740. This may be verified very clearly by comparing one of Handel's London scores with one of Gluck's Paris ones. Italy took no part in the movement. But from France the new mode of engraving spread to Germany, first to the Rhine (Bonn and Cologne) and thence to Leipzig. I have already observed that the perfection of music-printing followed in the track of the great composers. This has been the course of events throughout all ages till our times. Leipzig has had the precedence for about the last seventy years. It is impossible here to mention in detail the musical events as well as the technical improvements which have enabled that commercial town to gain such a position. I will only allude to the fact that the Leipzig style and method has in the last twenty-five years spread to France, England, and even Italy. This is intimately connected with the enormous editions of music printed at cheap prices which are peculiar to our age, and are executed by transferring to stone the proofs taken from the pewter, which makes any number of lithographic impressions possible, and preserves the plates long intact. This musical lithography is now the rival and the true pendant to the impression from musical types. Which of the two is the more valuable, or in particular circumstances the more appropriate, often depends on incidental contingencies, so that no general principle can be advanced. Much that is now engraved and then printed from lithographic stone would in my opinion look better if printed from type. Only this can be assumed to be universally allowed, that impressions taken direct from the engraved plates, when compared with those produced by either of the other methods, look superior and grander. On this account the former method is adopted in all standard editions of the classical composers, as, e.g., in the complete editions of the works of Handel, Bach, Beethoven, &c. In the preparation of the plate much is done by mechanical appliances, but the rest by engraving, a form of artistic workmanship the proper sequel to which is the impression from the plate, which reproduces all the delicate details of the work.

This mode of printing is interfered with only in large editions by the defects of the metal, which often suffers cracks and loses the sharpness of the lines even in an edition of a hundred. For this reason the use of zinc instead of pewter is a decided advance; and it is matter of surprise that this method has not sooner come into general use. I first introduced zinc in the year 1865 for the engraving of Handel's works. The man whom I engaged for this work had already operated for some time on zinc in engraving some small obscure pieces, mainly from want of means to purchase the more expensive pewter plates. The Oratorio, "The Triumph of Time and Truth," vol. xx. of the German Handel Society's edition of Handel's works, is the first large work printed from zinc plates. Since then I have had thirty-eight more volumes executed from the same material, and have become every year more convinced of its superiority. The punches are not more worn away in twelve years than they would be with pewter; the plates allow a very large number of clear, perfectly clean copies to be struck off without injury, and the greater hardness of the metal makes it possible to employ letters with finer lines than can be used with pewter plates. I have been thereby enabled to introduce in the edition of Handel the beautiful English letter-types, called "old style" (which can scarcely be used with pewter), although in the last few years others have begun to imitate them. Thus in zinc we have a material which allows us to work with punches to the full extent required, and at the same time is equal to copper in durability as well as in the facility of taking impressions. It therefore commends itself to careful attention and trial on the part of all who have to do with this branch of industry. It is needless to speculate on the degree in which it is likely in the immediate future to supplant pewter. But if it had been possible about the year 1720 to obtain pure zinc for music-engraving, I believe we should never have heard anything of pewter plates.

BORROWED PLUMES.

WHAT a fruitful theme! Truly, were a history written giving a faithful account of all the occasions in which individuals have strutted their little hour in borrowed plumes the reading thereof would prove marvellously entertaining and instructive. There have been times when plumes have been borrowed for good, or at least for harmless purposes, and when no wrong or evil has ensued, but more frequently the assumption has been productive of mischief and injustice. Musical annals present us with abundant examples, and, although not of so much importance in their consequences as in some other affairs of life—as, for instance, when large inheritances have been at stake—yet we cannot but regard them with reprehension. Kings and princes, from Henry VIII. to a recent period, have frequently condescended to wear plumes, as composers, which should rightly have belonged to their music-masters. What a matter of regret it is that so much of imposition has so persistently hung about the history of our National Anthem! Carey, in the first place, probably borrowed plumes from the wings of Dr. Bull; and later on Clark, by his ill-advised attempts to manufacture evidence to bolster up his theories (for he held two distinct opinions on the subject at different times), has only added to the confusion, and increased the difficulty of restoring the plumes to the composer entitled to wear them.

We read with amusement in "Pepys's Diary" how he engaged a professor of music to teach him, and when the former had completed the composition of a piece of music, Pepys complacently dismissed him, not needing his services any further; whereupon Pepys adopts the musical manuscript, fondly regarding it as the product of his own brain. Musical history tells us also of many individuals who from vanity or false pride have frequently discarded the names proper to their birth and country, and by plumes borrowed from Italy endeavoured to impose upon the credulity and imagination of the British public, always too ready to accept anything musical if only it come from abroad. These practices have been common almost time out of mind—certainly from the days of bluff King Hal down to our own; and unfortunately there is not much hope at present of any improvement, unless indeed we pin our faith on the old adage that "when things are at their worst they'll mend." How bad matters are now can be judged by perusing the following cutting from a public journal: "Colonel Stracey, a gentleman well known in operatic circles, happened to be travelling in Denmark, when by the merest chance he came upon the Behrens-Trebelli opera party. The colonel is a distinguished amateur, and his musical attainments are, as musical people well know, of no mean order. Consequently, Colonel Stracey was induced to make his début on the opera stage at the Royal Opera House, Copenhagen, in the character of Lord Tristan in 'Marta,' adopting for the occasion the nom de guerre 'Signor Rinaldini'—the name, by-the-way, of one of the tenors of Her Majesty's Theatre. Owing to nervousness, however, Colonel Stracey—or rather 'Signor Rinaldini'—was unable to do himself full justice in Copenhagen, and when the troupe arrived at Christiana he again played Tristano, this time borrowing the name of another tenor of Her Majesty's Theatre, 'Signor Palladini,' and attaining, I hear, considerable success. Indeed, his success has been so great that I am told he has consented to attach himself to the Behrens-Trebelle troupe for the rest of the tour—of course, in the quality of an amateur." If this account be true, anything more disgraceful it would be difficult to imagine. What Signor Rinaldini has to say to the use of his name, and the high estimation in which he is likely to be held in Copenhagen, is matter for curious speculation. We are afraid that the case just quoted is not an exceptional one.

There are other borrowings to be met with in the music world. One which recurs to us on the moment is the varied way in which incomplete editions of Mendelssohn's "Lieder ohne Worte" are advertised with a hope that the public may be induced to purchase them as perfect. As a matter of fact, the only complete edition published consists of eight books, the seventh and eighth being copyright. Yet, in spite of this, we see advertisements of the "Six Authentic Books," or the "Six Books Complete," or some other plausible title calculated to impose on those who are not aware that there are really eight books published. The authenticity of the seventh and eighth books is beyond question; the former was actually prepared for publication by Mendelssohn himself.

Musical historians, sometimes from indolence but also frequently from prejudice, do much to perpetuate the wearing of borrowed plumes; writing on any subject, it is easy to copy from some previous author, but it entails considerable trouble and research to ascertain the truth of a particular statement, and therefore we often find a mistake perpetually handed down from one book to another. Hawkins and Burney were both open to this reproach. In a clever book recently published—"Musical Myths and Facts," by Carl Engel—we have noted instances of myths stated as facts, which a little more cautious investigation might probably have prevented. On page 214, vol. i., we read, "Christian Gregor, 1784, is the inventor or originator of the peculiar construction of the organ generally adopted by his sect, in which the player is seated so as to face the congregation." The honour of this invention belongs to our English organ-builder Jordan, as the following advertisement will prove:—

"An organ made by Jordan, being the first of its kind, the contrivance of which is such, that the master when he plays sits with his face to the audience (and the keys being but three foot high) sees the whole company, and would be very useful in churches. This organ has but one sett of keys, but is so contrived that the trumpet base and trumpet treble, the sisquiltrat and cornet stops are put off and on by the feet singly or altogether at the master's discretion, and, as quick as thought, without taking the hands from off the keys.

"The said Mr. Jordan invites all masters, gentlemen and ladies to come and hear this his performance at his workhouse against St. George's Church, Southwark, and will give his attendance from 2 till 5 a clock all next week, Ash-Wednesday only excepted.

"N.B. This organ was play'd on and approved by several masters of music in publick the latter end of November, and is fit for any small church or chappel" (Advertisement in the London Journal, Saturday, February 7, 17th).

Again, Engel says on page 251, "the first edition of metrical psalms with musical notation for the Church of England, by Sternhold and Hopkins, London, 1562, has merely the melodies without any harmonious accompaniment, not even a bass." The truth is John Day printed the Psalms in 1562, harmonised for four voices, but each part in a separate book, the melody being of course the tenor part. The existence of these part-books was not dreamt of by Hawkins and Burney, but has been discovered since their time. Two years previously, in 1560, Day had published Parker's Psalter with the tunes harmonised by Tallis, and a note in the book says, "The Tenor of these partes be for the people when they will syng alone, the other parts, put for greater queers, or to suche as will syng or play them priuatelye."

Enough has recently been written about bogus degrees conferred by bogus universities, and many borrowed plumes seem to have been laid aside in consequence.

The advertising columns of the daily press occasionally present us with a fine batch of borrowed plumes; sometimes it is a would-be member of the upper ten who announces that he is open to receive a few names for a "really aristocratic choir." Another, who calls himself Signor —, will give "instruction in singing," and "guarantees salaried engagements for Italian and English opera concerts and oratorios." Some time since we saw the announcement of Mr. —'s Concert, in which he would introduce his remarkable pupil, Master —, only eight years of age, when in truth he had only seen the youthful prodigy once or twice, and had never given him a hint or a lesson. Fortunately the lad was saved by a friend, or he would have been used as the stalking-horse of the impostor.

Both in London and the provinces there are people who borrow plumes from the Royal Academy of Music, but who have never been associated with that admirable institution either as pupils or professors.

The moral of all this should be a notice and warning to parents and guardians, and to all whom it may concern, to beware of borrowed plumes.

In the course of a paper lately read before the Schiller Union of Trieste, Mr. Thayer, the biographer of Beethoven, did an act of justice to the memory of Maelzel which should not be overlooked. On the evidence of Schindler, the inventor of the metronome has all along been credited with very dishonest conduct in reference to Beethoven's Battle Symphony. He is said to have surreptitiously gained possession of some of the parts, to have employed a friend to fill in what was wanting, and then to have claimed the work as his own property and had it performed in London and elsewhere. This, if true, would have been, as Schindler says, a "disgraceful proceeding," but Mr. Thayer, than whom nobody knows more of Beethoven, explodes the whole story, though in doing so he has to lay blame upon the great musician. The facts of the case are these: Beethoven and Maelzel, who were very friendly, agreed to go to London together in the spring of 1813, and there to give concerts—the mechanic producing his automatic musical instruments, the composer his Symphonies. But Beethoven could not then leave Vienna, and in the interim he wrote, at Maelzel's request, a Battle Symphony commemorating the triumph of Vittoria. This was to be played by Maelzel's Panharmonicon, as something adapted to the English tastes. When the score was ready the mechanic set it on a cylinder for his instrument, and now the only difficulty in the way of getting to London was want of means. In this emergency Maelzel hit upon the idea of giving a concert in Vienna, with the Seventh Symphony and also the Battle-piece, arranged for orchestra, as chief attractions. This was carried out twice, and with such success that other concerts were given by Beethoven on his own account; Maelzel, besides being thrown over, not receiving a kreutzer for the sacrifice of his panharmonic score nor for his time and trouble in getting up the first two performances. In return Maelzel scored the Battle Symphony from the parts and had it played at Munich, whereupon Beethoven entered an action against him, which was not decided, the master eventually abandoning it and paying a share of the costs. Of course the London journey never came off. Mr. Thayer adds: "Whoever will take the trouble to look carefully into the matter will soon find that the corner-stone of Beethoven's immense successes in the years 1814-15—the resurrection of 'Fidelio' included—was laid by nobody else than Johann Nepomuk Maelzel. Let no one take it ill that I thus withdraw the veil and show this dark spot on Beethoven's fair fame. Justice demands it. We know so much of the composer's goodness and greatness, that this exposure cannot really injure him in our opinion. We lament, forgive, and forget." We can only remark that Mr. Thayer deserves the thanks of every lover of truth and justice for his important contribution to musical history.

WHEN the lessee of an opera-house begins to criticise the manner in which lyrical establishments are conducted there may be some hope of reformation. We had always imagined that the two houses devoted to Italian Opera in this country were opened only during what is termed the "London season" because it was understood that by the fashionable classes alone could they be supported; but Mr. Mapleson's prospectus of his popular performances of Italian Opera at Her Majesty's Theatre has now undeceived us. "The idea," he says, "of regarding Italian Opera as an entertainment exclusively for the aristocracy, and for the fashionable classes of which the aristocracy forms the nucleus, may now be said to have served its time." Now, seeing that so well-practised an impresario as Mr. Mapleson has never before acted upon the truth he thus promulgates, we may reasonably conclude that this "idea" had not fully "served its time" until the present year. We are by no means inclined to dispute the assertion that "the taste for operatic, as for other music, is very widely spread;" but we fear that it is Italian Opera itself that has "served its time," as far as the general public is concerned, and that it would have died long ago had it not been for the careful nursing of those fashionable loungers who, unswayed by the steady progress of musical taste, are content to rent their opera-boxes yearly as one of the duties they owe to society. Then we are also told in the prospectus referred to that "if by chance some work not included in the ordinary repertory is brought out, it is sure to be produced in the early part of the season." It appears to us, however, that when a new work is produced it is usually at the "late," rather than at the "early," part of the season; but really when Mr. Mapleson thus sternly lectures himself, and shows an inclination to do penance for his acknowledged sins, it is perhaps better that he should overstate than understate the nature of his offence. We could certainly wish that something better than Marchetti's "Ruy Blas" and Verdi's "Forza del Destino" had been promised as "novelties;" but we are so pleased to find that the truth of our many strictures on the Italian Opera is so freely admitted by one of the very persons whose actions have elicited them that we desire not to do more than call attention to the fact of his conversion.

THE reply to the memorial presented to the Dean and Chapter of Worcester respecting the continuance of the Three Choirs Festival next year (which will be found in our present number), although perhaps somewhat disappointing to those who desire to uphold the Festivals in all their integrity, offers a more pacific solution to the difficulty than we had anticipated. No objection is made to the presentation of Oratorios, but it is stated that "all music performed in the Cathedral should be connected with some religious service." Now there is no question that this must exclude a large number of the Oratorios we have been accustomed to hear at these Festivals, unless they regularly take their place as eloquent musical sermons; but, on the other hand, there are several of such works especially written as portions of the service, and many which could very easily be adapted for the purpose (a fact already proved at our choral services in the metropolis), so that, should this principle be carried out, it is possible that the very change so much dreaded may have the effect of resuscitating compositions for the Church which have lain dormant for years. Whether it will be practicable to raise a sufficiently large subscription when all persons are to be admitted to the Cathedral without payment remains to be seen. We may almost presume that a difficulty is here tacitly admitted, by the offer of the Dean and Chapter to contribute £500; but the experiment is worth trying. It will be well for the Worcester authorities, however, to take measures for the prevention of a scene similar to that enacted during the distribution of tickets for the free evening service at the last Gloucester Festival. This, we think, with a little judicious forethought, might easily be done; and as the Dean and Chapter have now shown a desire to meet the Festival Committee in an amicable spirit, we have every hope that a well-organised system, which shall be satisfactory to both parties, may eventually be arrived at.

IN our contemporary, the Tonic Sol-Fa Reporter (of November), are some very interesting remarks on congregational singing by Mr. Spencer Curwen. He says, "A successful organist and choir-master in one of our churches wrote to me, 'My experience of a congregation is that while they are always ready to find fault, they are very sparing of their sympathy with the work.'" Mr. Curwen's friend has cut down to the root of the matter. It is quite wonderful how many there are who talk largely about the grandeur and necessity of congregational singing; yet these very persons, when once inside a church, consider themselves privileged to stand in silence, listen, and criticise. It never seems to strike them that a congregation entirely composed of such oddly constituted creatures as themselves would convert church-song into the silence of the grave. We have heard of the visit of one of these critical idlers to a well-known church in London, where the congregation sing nobly. "How did you like it?" said his friend: he promptly replied, "Horrible! the people all round me shouted and made such a noise I could hear nothing at all." The same critic visited another church for a like purpose. "How did you like it?" he was again asked: he replied, "Excellent hymn-singing! I enjoyed it very much; but it is absurd to call it congregational, the people round me did not open their mouths." It is very evident that no congregation in the world could escape censure from a hearer who has these two clever "strings to his bow." Yet many, very many men, wander about from church to church in London, and flatter themselves they are doing a good work in music by making such weak and inconsistent comments.

HER MAJESTY'S OPERA.

THE short season of Italian Opera performances at popular prices, which commenced on the 5th ult. with the well-worn "Il Trovatore," will fairly test the question as to whether a lyrical work adequately represented, but without "stars," will be sufficiently attractive to prove remunerative to the lessee. The working company Mr. Mapleson has secured for his experiment is exceedingly good—including even such accomplished vocalists as Mdle. Caroline Salla, Mdle. Anna de Belocca, Mdle. Marimon, and Signor Fancelli—but as the name of no one vocalist is placed at the head of the bill of the evening, the public go to hear a work instead of a singer, and general effect rather than individual excellence is now the one thing submitted for public criticism. Thus regarded, the rendering of all the favourite Operas given deserves the highest praise. Mdle. Marimon, as Amina, in "La Sonnambula," has been received with positive enthusiasm; and we may now trust that the exceptional talent of so refined a singer will no longer be held back from causes with which art has nothing whatever to do. "Rigoletto" (with the clever Mdle. Alwina Valleria as the heroine), "Faust," "Robert le Diable," "Le Nozze di Figaro," and other popular Operas have been already performed with an excellent cast throughout; and we may also say that Mdle. Parodi, Madame Marie Roze, and an English contralto, Mdle. Lisa Perdi (Miss Purdy), have been cordially welcomed by the unusually demonstrative audiences assembled. Whether Mr. Mapleson is of opinion that the public crave for mere "novelty," or he really believes that the Opera he produced on the 24th ult. is a fine work, we do not presume to decide; but in either case we imagine that the reception given to Marchetti's "Ruy Blas" (which we are told is a great favourite in Italy) will at once undeceive him. Victor Hugo's exciting, but by no means agreeable, play scarcely lends itself readily to operatic treatment; but if its tragic incidents are to be increased in intensity by the aid of music, the powers of Signor Marchetti (one of the most vapid of the real "Italian" school) are by no means equal to the task. Certainly phrases of "prettiness" constantly occur; but in place of any dramatic colouring of the more impassioned portions of the text, we have mere noise; passages, however, in the orchestration occasionally affording proof that, had the composer moulded his ideas on somewhat higher models, he might have produced something worthy of his art. The air for the Queen, "O madre mia," is tuneful, and the trifling little song "C'era una volta una Duchessa" (excellently sung by Mdle. de Belocca) gained an encore. The scena for the Queen, "Larva dorata," the tenor air "Mortale affanno il core," and the duet for Casilda and Don Sallust, "Meco vorreste," may be also cited as favourable specimens; but the constant reminiscences of Verdi and Meyerbeer—whole phrases, indeed, from the works of the former composer occurring almost note for note—materially detracted from the effect of most of these numbers. The choral music is extremely feeble, and of the concerted pieces only the unaccompanied Quintett "E desso" is entitled to mention, although its execution was scarcely of a nature to enable us to realise its merits. The solo parts in the Opera were excellently sung throughout, Mdle. Salla as the Queen, Mdle. de Belocca as Casilda, and Signor Fancelli as Ruy Blas, exerting themselves to the utmost, and gaining encores solely by the manner in which they rendered pieces in themselves but of small artistic value. Signori Galassi, Ghilberti, and Rinaldini were also thoroughly efficient, and Madame Lablache in the small part of Giovanna de la Cueva, was highly satisfactory. The dresses were uniformly not only brilliant, and effective, but in excellent taste; and the Opera was in every respect well placed upon the stage. The demeanour of the audience, however, sufficiently evidenced that "Ruy Blas" had established no claim to public favour, although but few gave audible signs of dissatisfaction, save in resisting some pertinacious attempts at encores.

ALBERT HALL CHORAL SOCIETY.

VERDI's "Requiem Mass" was a happy choice for the opening concert of a new season. The work is still enough of a novelty to attract the curious; while its merits are sufficiently appreciated to excite a desire for a further acquaintance. Popular the "Requiem" can hardly be pronounced, for such a result has not yet had time to develop itself, but that it is on the high road to extensive favour none could deny who saw how large an audience assembled on the 22nd ult. to listen with attention and applaud with fervour. We shall not formally reopen the question whether or no the music of the "Mass" is sacred. Indeed the discussion of it at all is folly, because the matter appertains to the region of taste, and calls for the old dictum De gustibus, &c. There is no absolute standard by which to define sacred music, and surely the Italian has as much right to ornate strains as the Englishman to those of measured severity. True, the Englishman may refuse to countenance what the Italian loves, but he should do so on the ground that it does not agree with his notions, rather than that it is not what it pretends to be. Here, however, the right ultimately prevails, and Verdi's work must eventually be judged not so much from a religious as from a musical point of view, in which aspect it must be admitted to contain a large share of the beautiful and impressive. The performance, ably conducted by Mr. Barnby, gave much satisfaction even to those who were inclined to be exigent. We all know that the choral music is not easy, and that it exacts the highest form of skill and discipline when undertaken by a large body of performers. But the Albert Hall choir stood the test bravely, and came out of it with laurels. We will not say that their doings were perfect. Here and there evidence of uncertainty appeared, but the execution of some numbers, notably the first, was not far short of the best possible, and must have comforted those present who, hearing of the progress made by country associations, despaired for the metropolis. There can be no doubt that London possesses one good oratorio choir. The soloists were Madame Sherrington, Mdle. Redeker, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Thurley Beale. Madame Sherrington has not often sung with more earnestness and skill, though she has been in better voice, and her efforts were much appreciated, especially in the "Offertory" and "Agnus Dei." Mdle. Redeker was but moderately acceptable, owing to a persistent vibrato which would not allow her voice to blend with the steady tones of the English singers. The German lady should strive to abate this defect, or it will sadly impair her usefulness amongst us. Mr. Lloyd was, as always, correct, artistic, and pleasing; nor did Mr. Thurley Beale, notwithstanding the lightness of his voice, fail to render good service.

At the second Concert, on the 11th inst., Professor Macfarren's new Oratorio "Joseph" will be produced. Tant mieux for the producers.

SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY.

THE Sacred Harmonic Society commenced its forty-sixth season on the 23rd ult. with Mendelssohn's "St. Paul." The soloists were Madame Edith Wynne, Madame Patey, Mr. Chaplin Henry, Mr. Vernon Rigby, and Mr. Santley. The chorus-singing certainly was not perfect at all times, but, upon the whole, the choir was in fairly good order, and the principal choral pieces, such as "Rise up, arise!" and "Oh! great is the depth," were very finely given. Madame Patey was encored in "But the Lord is mindful," and Mr. Santley's singing of "O God have mercy" elicited warm applause. Mr. Vernon Rigby, too, was most successful in "Be thou faithful unto death." Sir Michael Costa resumed his post as Conductor, M. Sainton is again the chef d'attaque, and Mr. Willing the Organist.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

XAVER SCHARWENKA, a young Polish composer, whose name was previously unknown in this country, except to the few musicians who study the German musical papers, was introduced to the Crystal Palace audience on October 27, when his Pianoforte Concerto in B flat minor was performed by Mr. Dannreuther. It would be rash to pronounce any general opinion of the composer's powers from a single work; but it may be said that the Concerto evidences true musical feeling, more than average originality, and an excellent command of the resources of the orchestra. In its form it deviates materially from the Concertos of the older masters, commencing with an Allegro, in the middle of which a Slow Movement is introduced. To this Allegro succeeds a Scherzo, the chief themes of which are both pleasing and striking; while the Finale, in addition to much new matter, repeats in fresh combinations the principal thoughts of the earlier movements, thus giving unity to the composition as a whole. The solo part is very showy and difficult, somewhat after the manner of Liszt; it was splendidly played by Mr. Dannreuther. The so-called "Hafner Symphony" of Mozart (in D major) was a welcome revival at this concert; though less grand than the "Jupiter" or the G minor of the same composer, it is not less delightful to listen to. The Overtures to the "Siege of Corinth" and "Manfred," and vocal music by Miss Robertson and Signor Gustave Garcia, completed the programme of this concert.

As the 3rd ult. was within one day of the anniversary of Mendelssohn's death (November 4, 1847), the chief part of the programme was selected from the works of that composer. The pieces chosen were the Overture to "St. Paul," the air "Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets," from the same Oratorio, sung with much taste by Miss Mary Davies; and the "Hymn of Praise," in which the solo parts were sustained by Miss Robertson, Miss Mary Davies, and Mr. Barton McGuckin. Of music so familiar it is needless to say more than that the performance was very good. The novelty of the concert was a manuscript Violin Concerto (No. 2), by Max Bruch, composed expressly for and dedicated to Señor Sarasate, and performed on this occasion for the first time in England. The new work is somewhat novel in its form; it commences with a long Adagio, instead of the customary Allegro. The second movement is a Recitative for the solo instrument, and the Finale is a brilliant and amply developed Allegro. Of a work so ambitious and so thoughtful as this new Concerto it would be unfair to hazard an opinion after a single hearing; especially because, as it is still unpublished, an opportunity has not been afforded of an examination of the score; but no reserve is needed in speaking of the masterly performance of the solo part by Señor Sarasate, who on this afternoon made his last appearance in England during his present visit, and who fully confirmed the favourable opinion he had produced on his previous appearances, of which we spoke last month.

The Concert of the 10th ult. presented more than one interesting feature. The Overture to Professor Macfarren's "Joseph"—the Oratorio which, it will be remembered, he wrote for this year's Leeds Festival, where it was produced in September last—was the first piece in the programme.

It is one of the most pleasing orchestral works that its composer has produced, charming alike in its themes and its instrumentation. How it was played under Mr. Manns's direction need not be said. Two numbers from Gounod's latest Opera, "Cinq-Mars," were brought forward at the same concert; these were the Cavatina "Nuit resplendissante," sung by Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, and the ballet music. Both pieces are interesting, but neither is remarkable for novelty. In the ballet-airs the antique style is very happily imitated, and the orchestration is tasteful and piquant. Miss Anna Mehlig brought forward an interesting revival in Hummel's Piano Concerto in B minor, which had never before been given at the Crystal Palace. Though somewhat antiquated in style and construction, it contains so much beautiful melody, and is so well-written for the solo instrument, that it was well worthy of a hearing. It seemed exactly suited to the style of Miss Mehlig, whose brilliant and finished execution were shown in it to great advantage. Beethoven's Fourth Symphony was admirably played by the band. To complete the record of this concert, it must be added that a new vocalist, Miss Laing Meason, with a pleasing contralto voice, made a first appearance at Sydenham, and created a favourable impression.

One of the finest performances of Schumann's "Rhenish" Symphony (No. 3, in E flat) which has probably ever been heard was the specialty of the following Concert—the 17th ult. Next to his first Symphony, in B flat, there is probably not one of Schumann's orchestral works so readily appreciable and so popular in style as this; at the same time there are few which more imperatively require a finished rendering to bring out their beauty. It is not too much to say that such works can be heard nowhere in such perfection as at Sydenham, thanks not only to the excellence of the band, but even more to the thorough sympathy for and comprehension of the music shown by Mr. Manns. The other orchestral pieces were Mr. C. Villiers Stanford's Festival Overture in B flat (composed for the Gloucester Musical Festival), and two pieces of ballet-music from Rossini's "Mosè in Egitto." Mr. Stanford's Overture is an interesting and thoughtful work, pleasing in its themes, perfectly clear in its design, and admirably treated in its details. Rossini's ballet music overflows with the composer's characteristic tunefulness, but is otherwise of no very special musical value. At the same concert Miss Emma Barnett played Beethoven's Concerto for piano in C minor, and the vocalists were Mrs. Osgood and Mr. Vernon Rigby. The most noticeable of the vocal numbers was the final scene from Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde," admirably declaimed by Mrs. Osgood.

Mr. Henry Gadsby's Concert-Overture to "Andromeda," opened the Concert of the 24th. We have more than once remarked on the services rendered by Mr. Manns to English composers, for whom he has done more than any Conductor, past or present, within our recollection; but we notice the point again, because this was the third consecutive Saturday concert which had contained an important work from an English pen. Mr. Gadsby's Overture is not a new work; it was written for the Crystal Palace, and first produced there on February 22, 1873, but it was well worthy of being repeated. The fate of new works for the most part is to be played once, and then put aside, perhaps for ever. This is of course in many cases inevitable, but Mr. Gadsby's work is so well worthy of a second hearing that we are glad that an exception was made in his favour. Mendelssohn's Italian Symphony was splendidly given by the orchestra; the final "Saltarello" being taken at a tremendous pace, yet without the least sacrifice of clearness. The direction said to have been given by the composer, "As fast as possible, so that all the notes are played," was carried out to the letter. A not very interesting "Hungarian Suite" in F, by Heinrich Hofmann, was the other orchestral number of the afternoon. Mr. Franklin Taylor gave a very finished, but to our mind somewhat unsympathetic, reading of Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto in A minor, a work which seemed to suit his style less than the Concertos of Beethoven and Mendelssohn, which he plays excellently. In the vocal portion of the programme Madame Patey sang an air from Macfarren's "Joseph," "Who ever perished being innocent"—which is hardly suitable for a miscellaneous concert, though very effective in its place in the Oratorio—and Beethoven's grand song, "Die Ehre Gottes in der Natur," transposed a third lower to suit her voice, and spoilt by the process. The song was described in the programme as "first time at these concerts"—an obvious mistake, as it had been sung only a few weeks previously by Signor Gustav Garcia. Mr. Cummings, the other singer of the afternoon, brought forward a rather dry song from Gounod's "Cinq-Mars," and a very quaint and curious old air from Purcell's "Yorkshire Feast," a work the score of which will shortly be published by the Purcell Society.

MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS.

THESE Concerts have now entered upon the twentieth year of their existence, during which period they have, in more ways than one, demonstrated the appropriateness of the title they bear. They are popular as regards the moderate charge made for admission; popular, in the best sense of the word, as to the class of music represented in their programmes; popular also in reference to the leading performers, whose permanent or periodical appearance during the season is looked forward to with annually increasing interest. Even a casual observer at these concerts must be struck by the fact that, from the moment when those eminent artists, who have now for so many years been associated in the interpretation of the masterpieces of classical chamber-music at St. James's Hall, have appeared on the platform in their accustomed places, a complete rapprochement is established between them and their audience. This is in itself a most gratifying sign, and there can be no doubt whatever that the high standard of excellence which has been so persistently maintained in these concerts has caused them to become a distinct and important element in the musical life of the metropolis.

The first Concert of the present season, which took place on the 12th ult., included two Quartetts, one in A minor by Schumann, and Haydn's in B flat (No. 3, Op. 55), the executants being Madame Norman-Néruda, MM. Ries, Zerbini, and Piatti; having said which it is unnecessary to add that the performance of these two works, of very different style, left nothing to be desired. Mdlle. Anna Mehlig was the pianist of the evening, and gave a very brilliant rendering of Beethoven's Variations in E flat (Op. 35), displaying again that clearness of phrasing and readiness of attack which we have before had occasion to notice. She was afterwards associated with Madame Norman-Néruda and Signor Piatti in the performance of Mendelssohn's Trio in C minor. Mdles. Friedländer and Redeker contributed not a little to the enjoyment of the evening by the happy blending of their voices in Duets by Mendelssohn and Rubinstein, accompanied on the pianoforte by Sir Julius Benedict.

The second Concert, on the 19th ult., opened with Mozart's Quartett in B flat (No. 9), the executants being the same as on the previous occasion. Mdlle. Mehlig was again the pianist, and played with much success a Prelude and Fugue by Bach in G minor, or rather we should say (as is the custom in Germany) by Bach-Liszt; the work, as performed, having been transcribed by the Abbé for the pianoforte, being originally intended for the organ. Signor Piatti, in his usual grand style, played two Melodies by Molique, and Madame Antoinette Sterling diversified the programme by well-rendered songs by Sullivan, Schubert, Grieg, and Franz. The concert concluded with Rheinberger's Quartett in E flat, for pianoforte, violin, viola, and violoncello, already interpreted several times at these concerts, and in which Mdlle. Mehlig was supported by Madame Norman-Néruda, MM. Zerbini and Piatti.

The third Monday of the season included Mozart's Quintett in D major, one of the later works of the master, the performance of which, by Madame Norman-Néruda, MM. Ries, Zerbini, Hann, and Piatti, was evidently much appreciated by a numerous audience, who vigorously applauded every movement, and especially the exquisite Minuet, with its inimitable grace and abandon, the finest of the kind, perhaps, which its prolific author has produced. Miss Agnes Zimmermann played a Sonata by Beethoven (A major, Op. 2, No. 2) with all the refinement of style and true artistic feeling which are the acknowledged attributes of that gifted lady's performances. In the united rendering of Mendelssohn's Sonata for pianoforte and violoncello (D major, Op. 58) Miss Zimmermann and Signor Piatti were the recipients of much and well-deserved applause. We have often before commented on the mastery which Signor Piatti exercises over his instrument, upon his noble quality of tone, and the total absence of self-assertion in his play, a characteristic none the less to be valued for the fact of its possession being rather the exception than the rule amongst the virtuosi of the present day. There was no solo singing on the evening in question, but a vocal quartett—composed of Madame Sophie Löwe, Mdlle. Redeker, Messrs. Shakespeare and Pyatt, assisted at the pianoforte by Misses Zimmermann and Ida Henry—gave the new series of "Liebeslieder-Walzer" by Brahms (Op. 65), a work which requires to be repeatedly heard before its merits can be appreciated. An English version of Goethe's verses, which form the "poetic-basis" of the "Walzer," from the pen of Madame Natalia Macfarren, was appended to the programme.

OPÉRA-COMIQUE.

THE bond of union so firmly established between Messrs. Gilbert and Arthur Sullivan can scarcely be looked upon as an unmixed benefit either to author or composer. That Mr. Gilbert's clever caricatures will always hit the public taste, and that Mr. Sullivan's music colours these humorous creations with a fidelity which materially heightens their effect upon the audience, is no proof that good can result to art by the prolonged partnership of two such kindred spirits; for those who can with certainty calculate upon securing popular patronage by working upon a conventional model are by no means likely to see any reason for altering it. Mr. Gilbert has long ago shown us in his comedies how adroitly he can lash the foibles of society by placing his characters under a spell, which impels them to the necessity of speaking or acting in a certain manner; and this idea, under various forms, he continues to illustrate, the comic Opera called "The Sorcerer," brought out at the Opéra-Comique on the 17th ult., being no exception to the rule. In this the effects are produced by the aid of a philtre, which is supplied by a "family sorcerer," all the villagers who partake of it being compelled to become enamoured of the first person of the opposite sex they may encounter. How much genuine humour is shown in the treatment of this subject, and how pointed and pungent is a great portion of the dialogue, may be readily imagined by those acquainted with Mr. Gilbert's style; but the incongruous effect produced by a real sorcerer exercising his magic powers amongst the characters of the present day—going through an Incantation Scene in a gentleman's garden, and dying, surrounded by red fire, at the conclusion of the piece—is decidedly damaging to the general design; and, in spite therefore of the highly favourable impression upon the piece, many were disappointed at the unexpected dénouement. To say that the music of Mr. Sullivan is thoroughly well adapted to the libretto is only to state a portion of the truth; for it seems as if every composition had grown up in the mind of the author as he wrote the words. If humour, wit, and satire can be expressed in music, assuredly many portions of this Opera are as excellent specimens of this class of composition as can well be imagined. Amongst these may be cited a Quintett, "I rejoice that it's decided," the Duet between the old aristocrat, Sir Marmaduke Pointdextre and the stately Lady Sangazure, "Welcome joy, adieu to sadness"—which ends with a graceful minuet, danced by the two vocalists—and a song for the Vicar, "Oh, my voice is sad and low," in which he accompanies himself with snatches on the flageolet. Better still, however, are many of the concerted pieces, especially the finale to the first act, which is in its way a masterpiece. As we have indicated, Mr. Sullivan faithfully reflects his author.

throughout, so that, when Royalty ballads are written, Royalty ballads are composed; and, unfortunately, these are the weakest portions of the work. In every respect the Opera was well cast, Mr. Rutland Barrington, as the bland Vicar, unquestionably making the hit of the evening. Madame Alice May sang with fluency, if occasionally indulging in overstrained effects; and Mrs. Howard Paul, Miss Giulia Warwick, and Miss Everard, Messrs. Richard Temple, George Bentham, and F. Clifton were thoroughly efficient, Mr. G. Grossmith, jun. (as the Sorcerer), singing as well as he could do, considering that nature had not gifted him with a voice. Mr. Sullivan, who conducted the Opera, was called on, with Mr. Gilbert, at the conclusion of the performance and rewarded with prolonged and well-deserved applause. That the "Sorcerer" is destined to enjoy a long popularity—especially when some slight alterations are made—can scarcely admit of a doubt; yet, speaking only from an artistic point of view, we cannot but think that, were Mr. Sullivan unfettered by the exigencies of what occasionally partakes more of burlesque than of comic Opera, he would show us that he has not yet achieved his greatest work in this line.

LONDON CHURCH CHOIR ASSOCIATION.

THE Festival Service of the London Church Choir Association, held at St. Paul's Cathedral on the 8th ult., was a great success, excepting perhaps the performance of the Anthems. As usual at the services of the Association, all the music was written for the occasion. Dr. Bridge, Messrs. Gadsby, Calkin, Porter, and Blake contributed hymn-tunes and chants. Dr. Stainer composed the setting of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, and Mr. Prout one of the Anthems. Among the hymn-tunes must be mentioned the one by Dr. Bridge to the words "Lord of the worlds above," and Mr. Gadsby's setting of the familiar hymn "Onward, Christian soldiers," both of which deserve special notice as possessing the necessary qualifications of breadth and clearness. The effect of these was simply magnificent, as was also the whole of the processional music. A word of praise must be accorded to the Organist of the Association, Mr. Hoyte, who succeeded in this, his perhaps most difficult task, very satisfactorily. Dr. Stainer's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis too were well sung, and the Gloria to the Magnificat especially will not be easily forgotten by those who were fortunate enough to obtain a favourable position for hearing. Dr. Stainer himself played the accompaniment, and it is unnecessary to say how well he managed to steady the voices, and yet with only a moderate supply of organ-tone. Mr. Prout's Anthem, for which we predict a much-deserved popularity, was not very fortunate at the hands of the immense choir. The first part, "Happy is the man," went fairly well; but in the second and last movements not only were the voices much out of tune, but the organ and voices were sadly astray. After the Collects, the first movement of Verdi's "Requiem" was sung. We say nothing about the appropriateness of this style of composition for the occasion, but we doubt very much if the adaptation of the words was as good as might have been, and certainly the performance of the music showed great deficiency in delicacy of expression. This is probably the first time the popular Italian composer has been heard within the walls of the metropolitan cathedral. The service was brought to a conclusion by Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus," some parts of which were truly fine, but the general rendering was not very satisfactory. It must be repeated that the hymns and psalms, &c. were in precision and power beyond all praise, and the Conductor, Mr. J. R. Murray, and Mr. Hoyte must be cordially congratulated on the result of their labours.

EDINBURGH CHORAL UNION.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Scottish metropolis is fairly well off for good music in the winter season, thanks to a society calling itself the "Choral Union." This body, now in the twentieth year of its existence, may fairly be regarded as established. It has a royal patron who is an amateur violinist; an honorary president who is a knightly professor of music; a group of honorary vice-presidents made up of baronets, bishops, and what not appertaining to that ilk, and an executive committee chosen from men of local distinction. Best of all, it commands the services of some 250 chorists, devoted to their work, and trained by a gentleman, Mr. Adam Hamilton, better qualified than the average of his class, to produce good results. But a chorus only is not sufficient, and as Edinburgh, with all its æstheticism, cannot, or will not, afford to keep an orchestra in the place, it goes shares with Glasgow in engaging one which for a limited period oscillates between the two towns. This season the peripatetic band in question numbers forty-eight instrumentalists, with Mr. Carrodus at their head, and having among them such well-known professors as Messrs. Cooper, Eayres, W. H. Reed, E. Howell, Waud, Tyler, Hutchins, Hughes, and Pheasant. Though small, the orchestra is thoroughly capable, and indeed no better could be wished. Having it, the directors of the Choral Union naturally turn its resources to full account; their scheme for the season comprising not only Oratorio, &c., in which the voices are chief, but Symphonies and other works of the high instrumental school. These will be conducted during the season just entered upon by Dr. von Bülow, who is also engaged as solo pianist, and can hardly fail in either capacity to augment the attraction of the concerts. The only drawback to completeness lies in the fact that the George Street Hall is inconvenient, awkward in form, and by no means perfect in acoustics. But, stimulated by the example of Glasgow, Edinburgh may soon "arise and build" that which is better.

The first Concert of the present series took place on the 12th ult., when Sir Julius Benedict's Oratorio "St. Peter" was performed with great success. "St. Peter" seems to be a favourite work in Edinburgh. It was heard for the first time there about three years ago, and the fact of a repetition is quite conclusive as to the effect then made, while its choice for the opening night supplies yet more emphatic proof of the regard in which it is held. I can see nothing in this to excite surprise, for such a result naturally flows from such a cause; but it is remarkable by contrast with the fate of "St. Peter" in most other places. For some reason or other Benedict's Oratorio has not made its way, and, though the work can hardly be permanently obscured, there seems no immediate prospect of its adequate recognition. What is the reason? Not, I venture to say, any want of attraction either in the subject or its treatment. The incidents of the story are of high import, and the music, besides being among the best ever written by the composer, is worthy to rank with that of Oratorios which have become illustrious. In the mind of all connoisseurs who examine the matter dispassionately there can be no doubt about this. The Airs perhaps are not all up to the required mark, but the Choruses belong to the highest order of art, and the orchestration is masterly from beginning to end. Unfortunately "St. Peter" is what some call a "full-sized" Oratorio, and here, perhaps, we find an explanation of its slow progress. Oratorios of the dimensions of "Elijah" are now out of fashion. Whether it be that the musical digestion of our day is weakened, and the musical palate fastidious, I know not, but audiences crave variety. They will endure a new Cantata which takes up half an evening, provided the other half be devoted to music familiar and popular; but the idea of sitting out an unknown Oratorio as long as Handel's or Mendelssohn's is decidedly unattractive. This may be a sad state of things, but both composers and concert-givers have to reckon with it, as, doubtless, Sir Julius Benedict now feels. Happily "St. Peter," which errs on the side of over-length, can easily be abbreviated; and I would suggest that the whole of the last section, entitled "Deliverance"—an anti-climax at the best—should be omitted, save the final Chorus, "Sing unto the Lord," which might follow, and be an appropriate sequel to, the grand Double Chorus, "He will swallow up death in victory." By this arrangement, and one or two excisions elsewhere, the Oratorio would come within manageable limits without loss, but rather gain, to its musical effect, and with an infinitely better chance of popular favour. I hope the gifted composer will take this hint into consideration, for it is too bad that anything not essential should stand in the way of his beautiful music. It seems, however, that the robust amateurs of Edinburgh are quite satisfied with "St. Peter" as more sparingly "cut," and it is certain that on the occasion of which I speak they heard it to the end with unflinching interest.

The performance supplied a very fair test of efficiency in both band and chorus, through which neither passed scatheless. It would be absurd to suppose that the band could not have met every requirement had its members tried their best. But that is just what they neglected to do, and slip after slip showed that the typical orchestral player was at the game of perfunctoriness he so loves when his Conductor is not a man to be feared. "Too much familiarity," the proverb says, "breeds contempt," and it would really seem as though the familiarity of instrumentalists with art causes them sometimes to lose towards it the relation of artists, and take that of musical mechanics, with a disposition to "scamp" their work should the master look another way. As for the Edinburgh chorus, it certainly contains some elements of great efficiency. Thus, the sopranos are very fine. Their voices are bright and powerful; they sing with confidence, and throughout the difficult music of "St. Peter" they were never once at fault. Were the other departments as good as this, Mr. Hamilton would have a choir second to none. But the contraltos are relatively few and weak; the tenors have a poor quality of voice, and lack refinement; while the basses, which come next to the sopranos in point of efficiency, still need careful attention to bring them up to the mark. In saying this, I do not lose sight of the fact that the season has only just begun, and that the voices can hardly as yet be well in hand. But after making allowance on this account, it is clear that Mr. Hamilton has a heavy task before him if he would make his chorus as a whole equal to his sopranos. The soloists in "St. Peter" were Madame Nouver, Madame Enriquez, Mr. W. H. Cummings, and Mr. Wadmore. Madame Nouver, it was clear, had not the advantage of much previous experience in the work, and therefore wanted necessary confidence. Nor did she deliver the pathetic Air, "I mourn as a dove," with requisite depth of sentiment. Madame Enriquez seemed to have no adequate perception of the importance of the Recitatives, which suffered greatly at her hands; but she sang the beautiful Song, "O thou afflicted," so as to make an obvious impression. Mr. Cummings, as usual, was excellent throughout, giving to each air its precise expression, and delivering the music with the taste and skill of the consummate artist he is. Whether in good voice or otherwise, Mr. Cummings always engages the attention of connoisseurs, for if there be anything in his music which others have not brought out, he is tolerably sure to reveal it. In the bass, or rather baritone Airs, Mr. Wadmore did good service. He has an artistic method, and sings well within the limits of his natural means. Mr. Hamilton conducted, generally speaking, with sufficient skill, but in the Recitatives, where lay his most important work, he was not always up to the mark. For this, however, more experience is necessary than a chef d'orchestre can have who only faces an orchestra a few times in each year.

GLASGOW CHORAL UNION.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

I HAVE put at the head of this article a title which no more than partly indicates my subject, but this is owing to the complicated nature of musical arrangements in Glasgow. My business is with the doings of three distinct bodies; first, the Public Halls Company, Limited, who have built and opened one of the finest music-rooms in the kingdom; secondly the Festival Executive Committee, under whose auspices the Public Halls Company, Limited, was formed; thirdly, the Glasgow Choral Union, which co-operates with the Festival Executive Committee in giving special performances. This is a matter of considerable involvement, and I am not sure that the working of all the machinery is clear to my mind; but it necessitates a multitude of offices, and therefore gratifies a multitude of small ambitions. There are of course presidents and vice-presidents galore. The Public Halls Company, Limited, has its chairman and secretary; so has the Festival Committee; while the Choral Union, in addition to a "council," boasts a president, vice-president, treasurer, an honorary secretary and acting secretary, a librarian, and a ladies' convener, whatever that may be. If all this suits the local taste nobody has any right to complain, but there is reason to believe that the bearings of the machinery sometimes get hot, and many persons concerned ask themselves if real need exists for its elaborate character. Surely the Festival Committee and the Choral Union "Council" might become one body with advantage; or, if union be impossible, the Committee might form its own choir under its own Conductor, and so set itself free from entanglement with that which it cannot control. The difficulty, however, is one for Glasgow shrewdness to deal with, and a stranger is concerned only so far as it affects the welfare of music in the second town in the kingdom.

Private enterprise alone has built the new Public Halls, for the local authorities would have nothing whatever to do with the scheme. The city fathers boast their old city hall, in congenial association with a market where many an honest "saxpence" is daily won. There, sniffing the odours of cheese and onions, Glasgow has met for years, and the city fathers saw no reason to provide a better place. Whereupon a few musical men, resolved to supply the Triennial Festival with a proper home, determined to build for themselves, and the result is an edifice erected at a cost of about £80,000. The concert-room now available exceeds in dimensions both the Free-Trade Hall at Manchester, and the Town Hall of Leeds, seating 2,800 persons at concerts, and accommodating 3,500 at public meetings. It is ornately decorated, with more display of colour than chasteness of effect, but all the arrangements have been made with an eye to the comfort of visitors, who in any part of the auditorium are able to hear music in a condition of bodily ease. The organ was built by Messrs. Lewis and Co. Tastes differ, and I, for one, do not care for an organ of the oppressively obtrusive type—a glaring erection which will not let you look away from it, although you look upon it with ever so much disfavour. But this has nothing to do with the merits of the Glasgow instrument as such, concerning which report speaks highly. It is not in my power to confirm or discredit report, having heard the organ only in accompaniment; but as the builders, who had never before turned out one so large, may be said to have staked their credit upon its success, there is reason to put faith in the general opinion. I may add, in passing, that the New Halls contain, besides a concert-room and appendages, a handsome ballroom, a dining-hall, with kitchens, &c., and several apartments for comparatively small gatherings. Having now a "local habitation," the Glasgow Triennial Festival may go on and prosper, assuming that the various bodies concerned in it can harmonise their respective jurisdictions, and work shoulder to shoulder.

The musical doings in connection with the opening of the Halls were not entirely of a special character. For example, the band and chorus engaged differed in no respect from those which will carry on the Choral Union performances through the season, while two of the concerts belonged to the ordinary course, and only one—an "inaugurative" presentation of the "Messiah"—was an extra. All purposes, however, were answered, for the entertainments organised by the Choral Union each winter approach Festival dimensions, and are often nearly up to Festival mark. The size and character of the orchestra may be gathered from my notice of "St. Peter" at Edinburgh; but Glasgow has an advantage over the Scottish metropolis in the value of its chorus, a body of amateurs with exceptionally good voices and more than average skill, trained by a resident professor, Mr. Lambeth. This gentleman is deservedly of high repute as a choirmaster. He has had the honour of taking his picked singers to Balmoral, and there is a rumour of his intention to bring them to London. Very naturally, under these circumstances, Mr. Lambeth aspires, now that Glasgow has taken rank among Festival towns, to continue in his post as Conductor as well as trainer, and thus a grave question comes to the front. With all his skill when voices are concerned, Mr. Lambeth seems to lack the qualities of a chef d'orchestre, and it is doubtful whether, under him, Festival performances could gain the position otherwise open to those at Glasgow. So generally is this admitted that for several years past the orchestral concerts of the Union have been entrusted to a Conductor specially engaged. But a dual headship is bad, and well-wishers to the cause of music in the chief Scottish town sincerely hope for an arrangement by which Mr. Lambeth may continue to discharge his important functions as Choirmaster, leaving the public direction of all music requiring an orchestra to a Conductor who has made a specialty of that branch of executive art. Returning to the programme, let me say that on Tuesday the 13th ult. a performance of the "Messiah" took place, and was attended by a full and brilliant audience, including the Princess Louise and Marquis of Lorne. Mr. Lambeth conducted; the soloists being Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Madame Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd, and Signor Poli; Mr. Carrodus leading the orchestra, and Mr. Best presiding at the organ. A propos to Mr. Best, I should like to understand his theory of accompanying the "Messiah," as exemplified in his Glasgow practice. He introduced the organ into "Every valley" and "But who may abide," contrary to the usual practice, after which he adopted the usual practice by leaving the songs to voice and orchestra, and departed from it again by making as little use of the instrument as possible in the choruses, even sitting with his face to the audience during "He trusted in God." Mr. Best is a very clever man, and all this may have been done for perfectly justifiable reasons, but the novelty of it was startling. As regards the general performance of Handel's work, nothing need be said. In such hands, a good, if not perfect, result was certain.

If the excitement of a royal visit, and the curiosity raised by a new edifice predominated on Tuesday, Thursday brought with it genuine musical interest, for then was performed (first time in public) Professor Macfarren's Cantata, "The Lady of the Lake." This work had been "commanded" for the proposed Festival of 1876, but as the Halls were not ready, and the Festival did not come off, it was held over to grace the less important occasion now under notice. The subject, suggested to the composer from Glasgow itself, had special attractions for the local mind. Not only is the "Lady of the Lake" a Scottish story, but the principal scene of it is laid not far from the Clydeside town, at a spot familiar and dear to all. Professor Macfarren, therefore, started with a good deal in his favour, because sure, at any rate, of a public inclined to be pleased. The only question at the outset was how best to treat the subject—whether to write a libretto founded on the story, or to musically illustrate certain portions of Sir Walter Scott's poem? Professor Macfarren resolved upon the second course, though conscious that his work could never be a thing apart from that illustrated, and aware of the difficulties presented by a rhythm varied only through introduction of an occasional lyric. My impression is that he judged wisely. Everybody knows the poem, and in proportion as its beauties are appreciated, must be the pleasure derivable from a gallery of musical pictures describing its scenes. The task of adapting the book of the Cantata was entrusted to Mrs. Natalia Macfarren, who has discharged it with taste and discretion. She has interfered with Sir Walter's text as little as possible; interpolated words of hers very sparingly, and taken only such liberties with the structure of the poem as are condonable on the ground of augmented musical effect. Having made these preliminary observations, I propose now to go through the Cantata, not for the purpose of minute criticism, which musicians will make for themselves, but to point out whatever it is desirable to note in forming a general idea.

Professor Macfarren was not likely to pass by the Invocation to the Harp of the North, which opens the poem, and we have it set here as a "Fore-Song" in choral unison, accompanied by harps and orchestra. The sentiment of the music is as notable as its strength, and the impression produced is that, albeit by simple means, the right chord has been struck. From the "Fore-Song" we pass to a choral description of Fitz-James's hunt, "The morning sun his beacon red." The composer must have had some difficulty in avoiding conventionalities here, but he has managed to do so in a considerable degree, while the echo effects, which could not be omitted, he treats with some happy original touches. The number is full of animation and strongly suggests the freedom, buoyancy, and excitement of the chase. No. 3 is a Duet for Fitz-James and Ellen, and carries the story from their meeting on the shore of the lake, to the knight's reception in the island home. At this point we meet with the first of the representative themes which play so important a part in the work. The following stands throughout for Fitz-James :— and forms the central thought of the duet, which is, from first to last, a smooth and agreeable piece of writing, marked by a certain daintiness of expression that befits the characters and scene. Its second section especially, set to words by Mrs. Macfarren, "Silently glides the bark," &c., belongs to an order of prettiness always able to command general favour. In No. 4 we have the song sung by the island maidens, "Soldier rest, thy warfare o'er," as a two-part Chorus for female voices, with a conspicuous harp accompaniment. Here also the composer gives us gentle and graceful music, distinguished by as much tenderness as propriety of sentiment. That this number will always please may be foretold without risk. After it we have a "scene" for Fitz-James, its subject being the fitful dreams and broken rest of the disguised monarch. In this the orchestra plays an important part, through the recurrence of several suggestive themes already heard in the Hunting Chorus and Duet. As the king's thoughts turn to the banished Douglas, a short phrase, henceforth identified with that chieftain, appears—and is largely used during the soliloquy, which soon, however, changes its character under the influence of the Night Scene, so beautifully described by the poet. The andante soave into which the music falls on the words, "The wild rose, eglantine, and broom," &c., is a very graceful episode thrown into strong relief by the agitation which precedes and follows. An Allegro agitato, wherein the Douglas theme and a snatch of the Slumber Song are artfully introduced, brings the scene to an end. No. 6 is a setting—in four parts, for female voices—of the Song, "Not faster yonder rowers' might," sung as Fitz-James leaves the island. Professor Macfarren here uses the orchestra scarcely more than is necessary to secure the intonation, and the effect of the voices alone agrees with the character of the music, which, as to its melody, is constructed entirely upon the ancient pentatonic scale—that with the fourth and seventh omitted. As this is the distinctive scale of Gaelic airs, true and conspicuous "local colour" at once arrests attention, and wins the desired result. In other respects the part-song is interesting, while that it is well written need not be said. A second "scene" follows, this time for Ellen, and is constructed closely upon the model of an Italian Opera scena, beginning with a Recitative, "He parts, I anxious for him still," continuing with an Andante (Cavatina), "For me, whose memory scarce conveys," and ending with an Allegro agitato (Cabaletta), "To brave Clan Alpine's chief." In the Recitative Malcolm is referred to, and we get a new Leitmotiv, identified with that young huntsman :—

Here, also, the orchestra is kept busy with suggestions of the past in a manner that materially helps the dramatic purpose. The Andante calls for no special observation, but the final movement is one of immense vigour, atoning by its impetus for whatever in the music is not itself remarkable. Next we have the well-known Boat Song, "Hail to the chief!" at first in four parts, for male voices, then as a solo for Roderick (bass), and lastly as a full chorus. This is perhaps the most effective number in the Cantata, thanks to its strong national colouring (the pentatonic scale being again used), and to the very bold and striking passage, set to the war-cry of the clan, with which each verse ends:—

Roderigh Vich Alpine Dhu ho ie - roe.

The next number is a Trio for Ellen, Malcolm, and Douglas, "Oh, if there be a human tear," the introduction of which seems to me uncalled for, and wherein Professor Macfarren does not appear at his best. But the interest both of story and music resumes with No. 10, a Quartett, for Ellen, Malcolm, Roderick, and Douglas, descriptive of the scene in which Roderick demands Ellen's hand, and quarrels with Malcolm. The chief of Clan Alpine is introduced at the outset by his musical representative:— and the phrase naturally predominates throughout a number remarkable for sustained interest and dramatic purport. The Quartett is somewhat extended, but not a bar too much, seeing that it fixes our regard to the very last note. We pass now to the anathema, "Woe to the clansman," which denounces vengeance upon all who disobey the summons of the Fiery Cross. Here again Professor Macfarren has happily caught the spirit and character of the scene. His music is intensely earnest, appropriately rugged, and so coloured with semi-barbaric hues that its vraisemblance cannot be mistaken. Moreover, the passage for female voices alone, "Sunk be his home in embers red," has a weirdness heightened by its sudden introduction and contrast. The closing number of the first part is now reached, and in it are Ellen's "Ave Maria," Roderick's departure to the war-rendezvous, and his reception by the clansmen, partly cast in dramatic form, partly narrated by the chorus. The "Ave Maria" is pleasing and expressive, though we have not in it the best musical setting of the words—that palm still rests with Schubert—and an effective March, picturesquely scored, accompanies the lines telling of the muster and meeting of Roderick and his followers.

The second part opens with another choral narrative, the subject being Fitz-James's adventures under the guidance of Red Murdoch, and the fate of that treacherous clansman. In this the chief feature, apart from the ingenuity with which themes already heard are reproduced laden with suggestion, is the ballad music (contralto) of Blanche of Devon. The ballad melodies are three, set respectively to "Twas thus my hair they bade me braid," "For oh! my sweet William," and "The toils are pitched." All are most happily conceived, and might easily pass as traditional, the more easily because Professor Macfarren has, one verse excepted, refrained from giving them orchestral accompaniment. The dramatic portion of the scene is vigorously worked out, while the movement describing Murdoch's flight and death belongs to the highest order of art. Moreover, the death of Blanche is treated with great power of pathetic expression. The encounter of Fitz-James and Roderick takes place in No. 15, a Duet for tenor and bass, "Thy name and purpose, Saxon, stand." Upon this there is no need to dwell longer than may serve to point out the inappropriateness of the ultra-sentimental movement with which it ends. When two men who intend to kill each other at sunrise lie down to rest, they scarcely indulge in lackadaisical "good nights." A Song for Roderick, "This fertile plain," constitutes No. 16, and exhibits a fitting degree of truculent energy, by way of preparation for the Duet with Chorus (No. 17) which brings Roderick's career to an end. This is opened by a phrase representative of the combat to follow:—

and carried on with much spirit up to the point where Roderick's signal reveals his ambushed clan, of which incident a good deal is made, the chorus following the whistle-sound with the tumultuous war-cry already quoted. At the line, "The chief in silence strode before," the chorus re-enters, describing the journey to Coilantogle ford; which reached, the Duet resumes, and continues to the end at the highest possible stress. In all the dramatic business of this scene, as elsewhere in the work, Professor Macfarren is decidedly successful in the supreme task of reflecting its spirit and heightening its effect. The Coronach sung in the poem over the body of the petty chief Duncan is here used as a lament for Roderick, and a most impressive lament it is, as set for full chorus, closely harmonised, and with slight accompaniment. Nothing could be more simple than the music, and nothing more full of pathos and solemnity. In No. 19 we have the action removed to Stirling Castle, where John of Brent sings a rollicking Song, "Our vicar still preaches," his comrades joining in the refrain. This is followed by the appearance of Ellen, her rude reception, her championship by John of Brent, and successful appeal to the soldiers; the number closing with an exciting ensemble for soli and chorus. Malcolm is all this time confined in the castle, and now we hear him sing, "My hawk is tired of perch and hood," a Song for contralto, with violin obbligato. As may be supposed, the theme representative of the singer is conspicuous here, but the number is attractive per se, and its tunefulness and subdued expression pleasantly contrast with previous turmoil. No. 22 sets forth Ellen's interview with King James, her intercession for Malcolm and Douglas, and the happy dénouement of the story. Opening with a bright Chorus descriptive of Court splendours, it is continued by a dialogue throughout which the orchestra is busily employed with previous themes, helping to carry the mind back to the personages and events referred to, while the frequent participation of the chorus heightens the dramatic effect, besides giving importance to the musical treatment. Finally a well-written Quartett, "O joyful day," expresses the gladness of the principal characters, and with this the curtain falls. As there was at the beginning a "Fore-Song," so now there is an "After-Song," which is substantially a repetition of its predecessor. I must pronounce "The Lady of the Lake" to be a good work. There are shortcomings in it, and some numbers are not equal to others, but it bears the stamp of high musicianship, and not unworthily discharges its task of illustrating Scott.

The performance, while it might have been better, might much more easily have been worse. Mr. Lambeth conducted, and his indecisive beat, to say nothing of his want of control over the orchestra, had no doubt an injurious effect. But the chorus sang well on the whole, the band took special pains with their task, and the principal soloists left little to desire. Madame Sherrington was excellent as Ellen, and Madame Patey unsurpassable as Blanche and Malcolm. As Fitz-James Mr. Shakespeare proved to be wanting in physical strength, if not in musicianship; but Mr. Hilton as John of Brent, and Mr. Santley as Roderick, satisfied the most exigent. At the close, Professor Macfarren was summoned to the orchestra, and vociferously applauded, in response to which he spoke a few words of thanks. As to the success of "The Lady of the Lake" at Glasgow, no doubt can be entertained.

The series of inaugural performances ended on the 16th with a Beethoven Concert conducted by Dr. von Bülow. In the programme were the Eighth Symphony, the Choral Fantasia, the Overtures, "Die Weihe des Hauses," and "King Stephen," the Variations for pianoforte on a theme in F major, and two songs sung by Madame Patey. Upon THERESE TIETJENS, Obit October 3, 1877.

Words by Rev. T. E. BROWN, Clifton College.

Composed by J. L. ROECKEL.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)

Larghetto.

ALTO.
TENOR
(8ve. lower).
1st
BASS.
2nd
BASS.

PIANO.
ad lib.
♩ = 76.

Fall gent - ly, fall gent - ly, gent - ly, leaves of gold, Fall
Fall gent - ly, fall gent - ly, . . . gent - ly, leaves of gold, Fall gent - ly,
Fall gent - ly, gent - ly, leaves of gold, Fall gent - ly,
Fall gent - ly, gent - ly, leaves of gold, Fall gent - ly,

Larghetto.

gent - ly, fall gent - ly Up - on our sis - ter's grave! The voice . . . is gent - ly, fall gent - ly Up - on our sister's grave! The voice is gent - ly, fall gent - ly Up - on our sis - - ter's grave! The voice . .
Fall gent - ly Up - on our sister's grave! The voice is

cres.
hushed, the heart . . is cold . . That was . . so true, so
cres.
hushed, the heart is cold That was . . so true, . . so
cres.
. . is hushed, . . the heart . . is cold . . That was . . so true, so
cres.
hushed, the heart is cold That was so true, . . so true and brave, that was . . so true, . . so true . . and true and brave, . . that was so true, so true and true and brave, . . that was so true, . . so true and true and brave, that was so true, so true and brave! Fall gent - ly, fall gent - ly, gent - ly, brave! Fall gent - ly, fall gent - ly, fall gent - ly, gent - ly, brave! Fall gent - ly, gent - ly, brave!

 gent - ly, leaves of gold! . .
 gent - ly, leaves of gold! . .
 gent - ly, leaves of gold! . .
 gent - ly, leaves of gold! . . Our gent - ly, leaves of gold! . . Our sis - ter sings no gent - ly, leaves of gold! . . Our sis - ter sings no more, . . . no un poco più mosso. ♩ = 84.

The musical score is written for voice and piano. It consists of three systems of staves. The first system has four staves (two vocal, two piano). The second system has four staves (two vocal, two piano). The third system has four staves (two vocal, two piano). The music is in G major (one sharp) and 4/4 time. Dynamics include p (piano), pp (pianissimo), rall. (rallentando), and un poco più mosso. The tempo marking ♩ = 84 is at the end.

cres. sf

Our sis - ter sings no more. . . O

cres. sf

sis - ter sings no more, no more, no more. . . O

cres. sf

more, no more, . . . our sis - ter sings no more. . . O

cres. sf

more, no more, she sings no more. O p cres. sf

Agitato. sf

Death, how stern thy sway! A joy has pe-rish'd from the shore, A glo-ry from the p sf

Death, how stern thy sway! A joy has pe-rish'd from the shore, A glo-ry from the p sf

Death, how stern thy sway! A joy has pe-rish'd from the shore, A glo-ry from the

p sf

Death, how stern thy sway! A joy has pe-rish'd from the Agitato. p sf calmandosi. sf dim. rit. pp TREBLE.

day, . . . Our sis - ter sings no more, no more, no more! Our sf dim. rit. pp

day, Our sis - ter sings no more, no more, no more!

sf dim. rit. pp

day, Our sis - ter sings no more, no more, no more!

sf dim. rit. pp

day, Our sis - ter sings no more, no more, no more!

sf dim. p rit. pp f

più mosso.
TREBLE.

sis-ter sings a - gain, a - gain, . . she sings a - gain, a - gain, a - gain In that blest

ALTO.

Our sis-ter sings a - gain, a - gain In that blest

TENOR. (8ve. lower).

Our sis-ter sings a - gain, a - gain In that blest

1st & 2nd Bass.

Our sis-ter sings a - gain, a - gain In that blest più mosso. $\text{♩} = 120.$

choir a - bove, in that blest choir a - bove; No sorrow mingles with the strain, no

choir a - bove, in that blest choir a - bove; No sorrow mingles with the strain, no

choir a - bove, in that blest choir a - bove; No sorrow mingles with the strain, no

choir a - bove, in that blest choir a - bove; No sorrow min - gles with the strain, no sorrow mingles with the strain, And all the song is love, . . and all the song is sorrow mingles with the strain, And all the song is love, and all . . is sorrow mingles with the strain, And all the song is love, and all . . is sorrow mingles with the strain, And all the song is love, and all the song is love, .. No sor - row min-gles with the strain, And all the song is love, No sor - row min-gles with the strain, And all the love, No sor - row min-gles with the strain, And all . . . the song, . . .

love, No sor - row min-gles with the strain, And poco a

poco cres. ed animandosi.

love, and all the song is love, and all the song is love, and all the

poco cres. ed animandosi.

song, the song is love, the song is love, and all the

poco cres. ed animandosi.

. . . and all . . . the song, . . and all . . . the song, . . . and all the

poco cres. ed animandosi.

all the song is love,

poco cres. ed animandosi.

Lento.

song is love! Our sis - ter sings a - gain, a - gain, a - gain!..

song is.. love! Our sis - ter sings a - gain, a - gain, a - gain!..

song is love! Our sis - ter sings a - gain, a - gain, a - gain!..

is love! Our sis - ter sings a - gain, a - gain, a - gain!..

Lento. = 92.

CHRISTMAS CAROL.

Words from Chambers's Journal (by permission).

W. J. WESTBROOK, Mus. B. Cantab.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, BERNERS STREET (W.) and 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET (E.C.)

Merrily.ff e stac. verses 1 and 3 only; verse 2 p.

TREBLE.

1. Hol - ly ber - ries, hol - ly ber - ries, Red, bright, and beam - ing,
 2. When I see the hol - ly ber - ries, I can think I hear . .
 3. Bring the glow - ing hol - ly ber - ries, Snow is ly - ing deep, . .

ALTO.

1. Hol - ly ber - ries, hol - ly ber - ries, Red, bright, and beam - ing,
 2. When I see the hol - ly ber - ries, I can think I hear . .
 3. Bring the glow - ing hol - ly ber - ries, Snow is ly - ing deep, . .

TENOR
(svo. lower).

1. Hol - ly ber - ries, hol - ly ber - ries, Red, bright, and beam - ing,
 2. When I see the hol - ly ber - ries, I can think I hear . .
 3. Bring the glow - ing hol - ly ber - ries, Snow is ly - ing deep, . .

BASS.

1. Hol - ly ber - ries, hol - ly ber - ries, Red, bright, and beam - ing,
 2. When I see the hol - ly ber - ries, I can think I hear . .
 3. Bring the glow - ing hol - ly ber - ries, Snow is ly - ing deep, . .

PIANO.
♩ = 120.

Thro' the dus - ky e - ver - greens Like sprays of cor - al gleam - ing;
 Mer - ry chimes and car - ols sweet Ring - ing in my ear; . .
 All the gay and bloom - ing flow - ers Till the spring - time sleep; . .

Thro' the dus - ky e - ver - greens Like sprays of cor - al gleam - ing;
 Mer - ry chimes and car - ols sweet Ring - ing in my ear; . .
 All the gay and bloom - ing flow - ers Till the spring - time sleep; . .

Thro' the dus - ky e - ver - greens Like sprays of cor - al gleam - ing;
 Mer - ry chimes and car - ols sweet Ring - ing in my ear; . .
 All the gay and bloom - ing flow - ers Till the spring - time sleep; . .

Thro' the dus - ky e - ver - greens Like sprays of cor - al gleam - ing;
 Mer - ry chimes and car - ols sweet Ring - ing in my ear; . .
 All the gay and bloom - ing flow - ers Till the spring - time sleep; . .

p

Ye have pow'r to fill the heart With me - mo - ries of glee, . . .
 Christ - mas with its blaz - ing fires And hap - py hearths I see, . . .
 Let them grace our hap - py homes With their crim - son light, . . .

p

Ye have pow'r to fill the heart With me - mo - ries of glee, . . .
 Christ - mas with its blaz - ing fires And hap - py hearths I see, . . .
 Let them grace our hap - py homes With their crim - son light, . . .

p

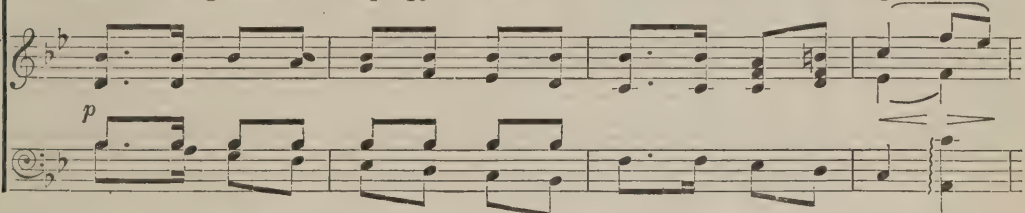

Ye have pow'r to fill the heart With me - mo - ries of glee, . . .
 Christ - mas with its blaz - ing fires And hap - py hearths I see, . . .
 Let them grace our hap - py homes With their crim - son light, . . .

p

Ye have pow'r to fill the heart With me - mo - ries of glee, . . .
 Christ - mas with its blaz - ing fires And hap - py hearths I see, . . .
 Let them grace our hap - py homes With their crim - son light, . . .

p

ten.

Oh, what hap - py thoughts can cling Round the hol - ly tree.
 Oh, what plea - sant thoughts can cling Round the hol - ly tree.
 Min - gling with the som - bre fir, And the lau - rel bright.

ten.

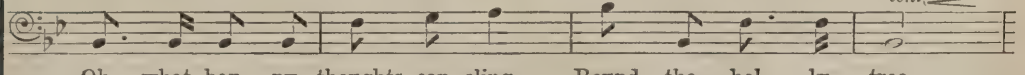

Oh, what hap - py thoughts can cling Round the hol - ly tree. . . .
 Oh, what plea - sant thoughts can cling Round the hol - ly tree. . . .
 Min - gling with the som - bre fir, And the lau - rel bright. . . .

ten.

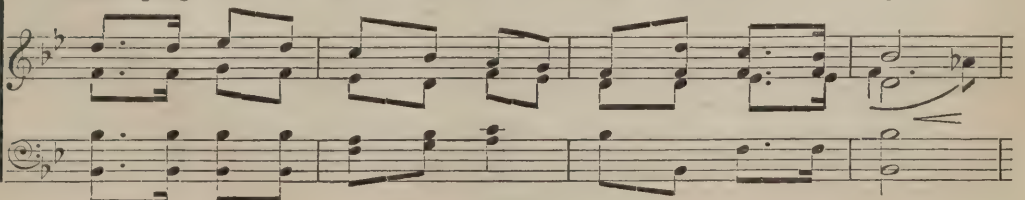

Oh, what hap - py thoughts can cling Round the hol - ly tree.
 Oh, what plea - sant thoughts can cling Round the hol - ly tree.
 Min - gling with the som - bre fir, And the lau - rel bright.

ten.

Oh, what hap - py thoughts can cling Round the hol - ly tree.
 Oh, what plea - sant thoughts can cling Round the hol - ly tree.
 Min - gling with the som - bre fir, And the lau - rel bright.

To be sung at the close of each verse.

Hol - ly ber - ries, hol - ly ber - ries, Red, bright, and beam - ing, Thro' the dus - ky

Hol - ly ber - ries, hol - ly ber - ries, Red, bright, and beam - ing, Thro' the dus - ky

Hol - ly ber - ries, hol - ly ber - ries, Red, bright, and beam - ing, Thro' the dus - ky

Hol - ly ber - ries, hol - ly ber - ries, Red, bright, and beam - ing, Thro' the dus - ky

e - ver - greens Like sprays of cor - al gleam - ing.

e - ver - greens Like sprays of cor - al gleam - ing.

e - ver - greens Like sprays of cor - al gleam - ing.

e - ver - greens Like sprays of cor - al gleam - ing.

A Folio Edition is also published, price 6d.

the performance space does not permit me to dwell. Enough that it was remarkably good, and showed Herr von Bülow as a Conductor of the highest order.

NEWCASTLE INFIRMARY CONCERTS.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

I WAS never able exactly to see why Mr. William Rea, the well-known Professor at Newcastle, should give a month of concerts on behalf of a local charity. It is no doubt the duty of all of us to show an active sympathy for fellow-creatures in distress, but the burden thus entailed should be borne with some approach to equality, or, if it must press upon one man more than another, the other should show a willingness to help the one as far as possible. This fair division does not seem to be recognised at Newcastle, and it is therefore no matter for surprise that Mr. Rea's scheme has shrunk from the dimensions of a month to those of a week, with a probability, next year, of asking support on its own account, without reference to anything beyond. The matter, however, is one of purely local interest, save in so far as it affects the very existence of the concerts; and, in common with all music-lovers outside local limits, I am anxious only that Mr. Rea should be encouraged to persevere by the realisation of some reward of the nature which mundane considerations make important.

Reduced in the degree above stated, Mr. Rea's scheme became manageable with a view to the best artistic results, and I gladly recognise the fact that during the week beginning on the 4th ult. his programmes included as much high-class music as could have been desired. In the course of six days he presented the "Messiah," "Elijah," Rossini's "Stabat Mater," Smart's "Bride of Dunkerron," Dr. Armes's new Oratorio "Hezekiah," and Beethoven's Fifth Pianoforte Concerto, together with several Symphonies, Overtures, and extracts from classical works. A programme like this, especially when offered to the people of a busy trading town where æsthetics are not much cultivated, disarms criticism, and extorts nothing but applause. The executive department was proportionately strong. As soloists Mr. Rea engaged Madame Edith Wynne, Miss Anna Williams, Madame Patey, Miss D'Alton, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. Bernard Lane, Mr. Lewis Thomas, and Signor Foli—a body of artists competent to do any work set them. The orchestra consisted of twenty-seven "strings," and a full complement of "wind," &c.—in all forty-nine instruments, with Herr Pollitzer, Mr. Ellis Roberts, Mr. Reynolds, Mr. Radcliffe, Mr. Tyler, and other well-known performers as "principals." As for the chorus, it will suffice to state that Mr. Rea's own choir acted in that capacity, and London amateurs who remember the "Polyhymnia" of some twenty years ago well know what are Mr. Rea's abilities as a trainer. In this case he has good materials to work upon. The voices are of true northern strength, and the singers appear to be actuated by genuine love of their task. Thus liberally equipped, the Festival deserved to succeed, and I am happy to say that success attended it. It is something in such a case to avoid loss, but Mr. Rea, there is reason to believe, made gain—not much, perhaps, yet enough to serve as a stimulus for the future. Let me add that the Town Hall, wherein the concerts took place, is a large and commodious room, which has only to be filled on every occasion to permit of the entrepreneur catering on a liberal scale.

It would serve no such special purpose as that which a "Special Correspondent" must have in view were I to notice all the familiar items of the week's programme, and tell how each was done. My business lies with Dr. Armes's Oratorio, or, as the composer modestly styles it, Cantata, and to this I go without further preface.

Dr. Armes, as most readers of the MUSICAL TIMES well know, is organist of the magnificent cathedral which looks down upon the quaint streets of Durham, and has the good-fortune to play upon one of the finest instruments in the realm. A post such as this often engrosses a man's attention and limits his desires. It is enough for ordinary ambition, and apt to excite a feeling of calm content with things as they are. But Dr. Armes belongs to the new order of cathedral organists—an order which makes the ecclesiastical appointment a sort of entrenched camp, whence excursions can be ventured into outlying regions, with the assurance of having an unassailable position to fall back upon. There is no reason at all why this should not be. Our cathedral organists, for reasons into which I will not inquire, have too long limited themselves to church work, notwithstanding the fact that sacred music has a recognised position in the concert-room; and no amateur will refuse a welcome and deserved encouragement when one and another, as in Dr. Armes's case, break bounds. The Durham Organist is the compiler of his own libretto, and he has looked at the story of Hezekiah, as told by the prophet Isaiah, from a purely didactic point of view. It is, no doubt, capable of dramatic treatment, but Dr. Armes seems to have mistrusted his powers as a dramatic composer, and hence the two incidents chosen—Sennacherib's invasion and the Hebrew monarch's sickness—are simply narrated, with the usual amount of orthodox Scriptural comment. As the work is not long, I may give a faithful idea of its character by taking its numbers in order. The orchestral introduction is a bold and spirited march, representing the advance of the Assyrian army upon Jerusalem, but free from any attempt to suggest barbaric Eastern music. In a long recitative, heavily accompanied, Rabshakeh (bass) summons Hezekiah to surrender; and a second Recitative (contralto) tells how the king in his distress sends to Isaiah. Hereupon the people show their anxiety in a Chorus, "This day is a day of trouble," which at once arrests attention on account of its interludes for bass strings (divided) and wood wind. The idea of these interludes, as Dr. Armes works it out, is fresh and pleasing, and the Chorus, as a whole, secures the intended effect. Next comes a contralto Aria, "Enter into the rock," noticeable in that it is not a copy of "O rest in the Lord," and also for the reason that it has a charming horn obbligato, which heightens its musical interest and its expression as well. This leads to an important Solo for Hezekiah (tenor), "O Lord of hosts, God of Israel," which opens with a solemn invocation, accompanied by divided cello and wood wind with good effect. A prayer follows, "Incline thine ear," and, finally, on the words "Now, therefore, O Lord our God" the Solo reassumes the character of its leading passage. The orchestration of this number is good in design, though somewhat crude in execution; and the Solo as a whole commends itself by earnest and appropriate expression. The message of Isaiah to the king having been opened in recitative, is continued by a Duet (soprano and contralto) threatening divine vengeance against the Assyrians. This number will most likely be popular should the work attain the honour of print. It is well written, tuneful, and effective, none the less because the leading theme strongly suggests the melody played by the Egyptian trumpets in "Aida." Still further is Isaiah's message continued by a Chorus, "And the remnant that is escaped," wherein I notice a want of contrast, which, by-the-way, characterises the Oratorio in many places. Dr. Armes should remember that contrast of colour and degree of light is as essential to a musical as to any other picture, and that the ear no more than the eye loves monotony. The destruction of the Assyrian army—of which event not enough is made—and also Hezekiah's sickness, are now told in a bass Recitative, leading to the king's prayer, "Remember now, O Lord," a very expressive Solo, accompanied by muted strings and wood wind. Dr. Armes has here happily caught the spirit of the text, and of the situation in which it occurs. A Quartett, "Seek ye the Lord," follows, but calls for no special remark; and after it the divine promise to the sick monarch is told in recitative leading to a bass Air, "I have blotted out, as a thick cloud," distinguished by considerable impressiveness of style, and occasional signs of original thought. Hezekiah's gratitude is next expressed in a Recitative, and after it come the final ascriptions of praise, beginning with a Chorus which is by far the best in the book. Its opening section, given to voices alone, at once makes an impression, while the free and spirited treatment of the whole, sustained as it is to the last bar, cannot fail to produce a lively effect. This number received an encore from the Newcastle audience, who promptly recognised its merit. A trying bravura Air, "Therefore with joy shall ye draw water," follows, after which comes the concluding Chorus, "Sing unto the Lord"—a number not equal in merit to its predecessor, but noteworthy all the same for a fugal episode which Dr. Armes has developed in a manner that does credit to his contrapuntal skill.

General remarks upon "Hezekiah" need not run to great length. Dr. Armes is to be commended for the thoughtfulness of his work, for its expressive power, and especially for the evidence it gives of a disposition in the composer to state his own ideas in his own language. These are reasons amply sufficient to warrant encouragement. Dr. Armes should persevere, and give "Hezekiah" a successor, but not till he has done two things: first, made himself a master of form as far as that conduces to variety in his choral numbers, and, next, become thoroughly acquainted with the genius of each instrument in the orchestra, so that, alone and in combination, it may be used to the best effect. At present orchestration is the Durham Organist's weak point—a circumstance not to be wondered at—but it is one on which diligent study will soon make him strong.

The performance was conducted by the composer, to whose work it, on the whole, did justice. True the band was scarcely note-perfect, but the Choruses had been well studied, and the principals took all needful pains to insure success. Miss Anna Williams struggled bravely against the difficulties of the bravura Air, after singing in the Duet remarkably well; Madame Patey gave all the contralto Solos in her best manner and with unvarying success, as did Mr. Lloyd those for tenor; while in Mr. Lewis Thomas the bass Airs had an exponent thoroughly sufficient, because deeply versed in the traditions of English sacred music. The organ accompaniment was ably played by Mr. T. A. Alderson.

THE first Concert of the Borough of Hackney Choral Association for the present season was given at the Shore-ditch Town Hall on the 12th ult., before a crowded and thoroughly appreciative audience. The performance of Mendelssohn's Thirteenth Psalm, for alto solo and chorus, with which the programme commenced, amply evidenced the excellence of the choir, the altos especially singing with a beauty of tone which materially aided the general effect. The solo too was given with appropriate expression by Miss Annie Butterworth, who was warmly and deservedly applauded. The Magnificat in C by the Conductor, Mr. Ebenezer Prout, has already been heard at the Crystal Palace Concerts, and its presentation on the present occasion was a fitting tribute to the Society's newly appointed chief, apart from the fact that its merits should insure it a place wherever a welcome is accorded to earnest and well-written music, irrespective of the birthplace of its author. The choruses, without startling by sensational effects, are remarkable for vigour and purity of writing, and the instrumentation shows an intimate knowledge of the legitimate resources of the orchestra. The solos were well sung by Miss Catherine Penna and Mr. Henry Guy, a duet between these two vocalists receiving applause so marked that many less modest Conductors might have accepted it as an encore. The second part of the programme included a selection from "Oberon," commencing with the Overture. The Scena, "Ocean, thou mighty monster," by Miss Catherine Penna, the Song, "A lovely Arab maid," by Miss Annie Butterworth, and the declamatory Solo, "Oh! 'tis a glorious sight," by Mr. Henry Guy, were most effectively rendered; and an admirable performance of the Overture to "Guillaume Tell" concluded a concert which reflected the highest credit upon all concerned. Mr. Ebenezer Prout, who conducted, received quite an ovation on his entrance into and exit from the orchestra.

THE reply of the Dean and Chapter of Worcester to the memorial forwarded to them by the Mayor and Corporation representing the anxiety of the public for the continuance of the Festival of the Three Choirs in this city next year, and to the request of the Festival Committee for the use of the cathedral for that purpose, has now been made known. The Dean and Chapter express their readiness to grant the use of the cathedral provided a satisfactory arrangement can be arrived at on the subject of the nature and arrangements of the Festival. They do not object to the use of orchestral accompaniments, the employment of high musical skill, or to the performance of Oratorios; but they ask, first, that all music performed in the cathedral should be connected with some religious service; secondly, that admission should be given to all classes without mention of previous payment; and, thirdly, that the great object for which the meetings of the Three Choirs were originally instituted should be maintained. That object, they say, was the improvement of music in the church itself, and they suggest that new Church music should form a portion of the Festival. They still object to the payment for tickets of admission to the cathedral, and propose as a substitute that £1,500 or £2,000 should be raised by subscription for the necessary expenses, to which they propose to add £500.

WE understand that Mr. Craddock, who, as our readers are aware, was appointed Organist of Norwich Cathedral, has resigned the post, and that Mr. F. E. Gladstone has been elected in his place. So long as there remained the remotest chance of Dr. Bunnett succeeding to the organistship, by reason of his long and arduous work under Dr. Buck, we should have been sorry to see any brother-artist seek to supplant him; but when we find that the situation was really vacant, and freely within the gift of the Dean and Chapter, Mr. Gladstone is perfectly justified in offering himself as a candidate, and we are glad to hear that the election has fallen upon a person so thoroughly qualified to fulfil the duties of his office. Meantime it may be said that the concert organised in Norwich for the benefit of Dr. Bunnett—the preliminaries of which were arranged by a committee consisting of the mayor and the most influential residents of the city—affords convincing proof of the high estimation in which this artist is held, and of the sympathy universally felt for his position after a service of a quarter of a century as Deputy Organist of the Cathedral.

AN interesting lecture, entitled "Glimpses into the Life and Character of Mendelssohn," was recently delivered in Hawkstone Hall (adjoining Christ Church), Westminster Road, by Mr. F. G. Edwards, the Organist and Director of the Choir of the church. The lecture, which was interspersed with musical illustrations, contained several anecdotes especially in reference to Mendelssohn's life in England. The Rev. Newman Hall, LL.B., occupied the chair. The vocal illustrations were given by Madame Florence Lancia, Miss Jessie Williams, Miss Annie Cockburn, Mr. George Whillier, and the Christ Church choir. Mr. F. G. Edwards and Mr. F. Beckley presided at the pianoforte. Miss Annie Cockburn's artistic rendering of "O rest in the Lord," and the expressive singing of the choir in "O hills, O vales" fully merited the encores which both those pieces received. A bust of Mendelssohn was kindly lent by Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE Grosvenor Choral Society gave its sixty-ninth Monthly Concert on Friday the 16th ult., at the Grosvenor Hall, the greater part of the programme consisting of selections from Auber's "Masaniello." The band and chorus, numbering nearly 120 performers, were highly efficient. Mr. Henry Baker and Mr. A. Lawrence Fryer were the vocalists, the latter being very successful in the Cavatina, "Thou only comfort." In the miscellaneous portion of the programme the most effective pieces were Pinsuti's Part-song, "In this hour" (encored); Rossini's Overture, "Il Tancredi," by the orchestra (which was given under the leadership of Mr. S. Dean Grimson); and Haydn's Andante and Gipsy Rondo for piano, violin, and cello, performed by Miss Marie Odell, Mr. Grimson, and Mr. Daniel Finzi. The other vocalists were Mrs. Leonard Hughes, Mrs. Davies, Miss Kate Reed, and Mr. Arthur Baxter. Mr. J. G. Callcott conducted.

THE large Three-Manual Organ, lately erected in Park Church, Highbury New Park, by Messrs. Alexander Young and Sons, of Manchester, was opened on the 7th ult. by Mr. Ebenezer Prout, B.A., who played the following selection: Concerto No. 2, in B flat, Handel; Adagio, from Sestet, Op. 71, Beethoven; Andante, from a Pianoforte Sonata, Mozart; St. Ann's Fugue, J. S. Bach. The organ solos were interspersed with Choruses from the "Messiah," under the direction of Mr. Williamson, and accompanied by Mr. C. Forington. During the collection Mr. E. Davidson Palmer, the newly appointed Organist and Choirmaster, played the Adagio from Mendelssohn's First Organ Sonata, and, as a concluding voluntary, Hopkins's arrangement of "Let the bright seraphim."

THE following is the minute of the Academical Board respecting the Higher Musical Examinations for Women at Trinity College, London. "The vocal section shall comprise: 1. The performance of a Solo previously selected by the examiner; 2. The performance of any one Solo chosen by the candidate. The Solos fixed by the examiner for the examination to be held on the 10th and 11th of January next are as follow: For soprani, 'On mighty pens' ('Creation'), Haydn; for mezzo-soprani, 'Farewell, ye limpid streams' ('Jephtha'), Handel; for contralti, 'There is a green hill far away,' Gounod. The fees for this section will be the same as in the case of other sections, viz. half a guinea on entrance, and half a guinea for the certificate."

A SPECIAL Service and Organ Recital, which is held quarterly in the Church of St. Mary, Haggerston, in aid of the choir fund of the church, took place on Tuesday evening, the 6th ult. The work done by the choir comprised Steggall's Magnificat in G, Stainer's "Sing a song of praise," Stafford Smith's "Come unto Me, all ye that labour," Sir John Goss's "Stand up and bless," and Dr. Wesley's "Blessed be the God." Mr. C. J. Frost, Mus. Bac., the Organist of the church, rendered the various organ solos in an excellent manner, Mendelssohn's C minor Prelude and Fugue, and Bach's Sonata No. 1 (in E flat) being specially commendable.

A NEW Organ, built by Messrs. Bevington and Sons for Costa Rica, was opened at their organ factory on the 8th ult. by Mr. J. F. Hallett Sheppard. The instrument has two manuals and two octaves of pedals, and contains seventeen stops. Mr. Sheppard performed selections from the works of Beethoven, Mozart, Handel, Bach, Spohr, Mendelssohn, Meyerbeer, Kullak, &c., and fully exhibited the capabilities of the organ and the powers of the executant. The recital gave great delight to a numerous audience.

WE are glad to find that at the annual general meeting of the Musical Association the thanks of the members were unanimously voted to Mr. C. K. Salaman, on his retirement from the office of Secretary, for it is impossible to over-estimate the valuable services he has rendered to the Society and the keen interest he has shown in its welfare. A similar compliment was also paid to Mr. Arthur Chappell, who has resigned the post of Treasurer, Mr. Stanley Lucas being elected in his place.

A CORRESPONDENT informs us that the grand piano used for many years by Haydn, properly authenticated, has lately become the property of Capellmeister Richter, of Vienna, who is well known in this country by his conducting the Wagner Festival at the Albert Hall in May last. He is desirous of selling the instrument for the benefit of the Wagner Academy now being formed at Bayreuth, and all particulars respecting it will be furnished on addressing a letter to Herr Capellmeister Hans Richter, Vienna.

THE prospectus of the tenth season of the Wolverhampton Festival Choral Society promises three subscription concerts during the session, with an extra concert in Christmas week. The band and chorus will consist of upwards of 200 performers, Mr. W. C. Stockley being engaged as Conductor and Chorus Master. The services of some of the most eminent vocalists and instrumentalists have been secured for all the performances, the first of which the prospectus announces for the 30th inst.

IT is with much regret that we draw attention to the sad case of Miss Patten, the aged and only sister of the late William Patten, of Fareham and Winchester, whose Anthems and other sacred compositions are well known to the musical public. In consequence of a serious illness, requiring constant medical attendance, Miss Patten is now reduced to absolute penury; and even the smallest sum for her relief will be thankfully acknowledged by Mr. Joshua D. Horwood, 62 Peel Street, Hull.

ON Thursday the 15th ult. an Organ Recital, interspersed with vocal music, was given on the new organ at Stockwell Congregational Church (built by Mr. Eustace Ingram) by Mr. George Shinn (Organist of Brixton Church), who played a selection from the works of Bach, Beethoven, Batiste, Handel, Mozart, Rossini, and Wély. Solos and Quartetts were sung by Miss Alder, Master Tapley, Messrs. Pardon, Wicks, Hobson, and Howlet. The choruses were sung by a choir of about 100 voices.

MR. J. L. HATTON's new Sacred Drama, "Hezekiah," will be performed at the Crystal Palace on Saturday the 15th inst., the principal vocalists being Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Madame Patey, Messrs. E. Lloyd and Santley. Much interest will be felt in the production of this work; for, although the composer has already won a well-deserved fame, he has wisely reserved for his maturer years a contribution to sacred art which should combine his highest thoughts with the ripeness of a long experience.

THE South Norwood Musical Society commenced its thirteenth season on the 12th ult. with a selection from Handel's "Judas Maccabæus" and some secular music. The Solos were sung by Miss Jessie Royd, Miss Bawtree, Mr. Charles Chilly, and Mr. H. C. Thomas with excellent effect, and the chorus-singing was unusually good. Mr. W. J. Westbrook, Mus. Bac., Cantab, conducted, and the accompaniments were played by Miss Wheeler.

WE are informed that a new musical instrument, styled the Ocarina, has been introduced into this country by Mr. M. Barr, of Queen Victoria Street, and being easily learned, comparatively inexpensive, and pleasing in tone, it is likely to be in very general requisition. The scale ranges from the lower B to the upper E, and the tone bears a striking resemblance to the vox humana stop of a large organ.

THE first of a series of Concerts to be given at the Surrey County Hall, Brixton, took place on Tuesday evening the 6th ult., and was very successful. The artists engaged were Madame Liebhart, Madame Worrell-Duval, Miss Annie Butterworth, Mr. Stedman, Mr. Thurley Beale, and Mr. Turle Lee, with the band of the Surrey County Club, under the direction of Mr. Henry Sprake.

AT the Michaelmas Commencements held at Trinity College, Dublin, the degree of Doctor in Music was conferred upon Horton Claridge Allison, after a "Performance of Acts" consisting of a sacred Cantata and a Concerto for pianoforte and orchestra. Dr. Allison was presented by Sir Robert Stewart, the University Professor of Music.

THE members of the Choir of Holy Trinity, Haverstock Hill, N.W., have recently presented their Choirmaster, Mr. J. R. Murray, with a handsome bâton, accompanied by an address expressing their acknowledgment of the value of his services, and of the kindness and pains he had bestowed on them.

DR. SPARK, of Leeds, has given two highly successful Organ Recitals in London during the past month, one at the City Temple, Holborn Viaduct, and the other at the Bow and Bromley Institute, the programmes at each performance containing principally classical compositions of the best masters.

BACH's Cantata, "My spirit was in heaviness," will be sung with orchestral accompaniment at St. Anne's Church, Soho, under the direction of Mr. Barnby, every Friday evening during Advent, commencing on the 7th inst., at eight o'clock.

REVIEWS.

The Life of Mozart. Translated from the German work of Dr. Ludwig Nohl, by Lady Wallace. [Longmans, Green, and Co.]

It is a dangerous thing for a man who is by profession a writer to hazard an opinion as to the real place a composer should hold in the world of art, because, in the pursuit of his vocation, he may afterwards be under the necessity of so modifying this opinion as to nullify the effect of a work to the truth of which he has publicly pledged himself. Herr Nohl has, we think, somewhat placed himself in this dilemma; for, with all our admiration of his high artistic nature and glowing literary style (both of which are eminently displayed in all his books), we cannot help contrasting his "Gluck und Wagner," published in 1870, with his "Mozart," published in 1863. It is true that whilst concentrating the mind upon a single representative of an art instead of upon the art itself, an author will be liable to pass, almost insensibly, into a hero-worshipper; but it is this very fact which should render us doubly cautious of accepting as truths the temporary convictions of one who must of necessity think more of producing a good book than a good biography. When therefore Nohl declares in his "Life of Mozart" that he was "the perfect type of a true artist, because he was the perfect type of a true and complete man," and, in summing up his artistic character, that he was "a man whose mission in this world seems to have been entirely fulfilled, to whom it was given to link together the godlike with humanity, the mortal with the immortal," it must appear strange to those who do not believe with us how thoroughly a mere littérateur is influenced by the feelings of the time, to read in his "Gluck und Wagner" that Mozart had, in his dramatic music, neither realised a true German art, nor barely been able even to strive in that direction; and afterwards to encounter the startling assertion that the dramatic works of both Mozart and Beethoven should be regarded merely as the necessary tributaries to that great stream which is to connect countries and nations—the Music-drama of Richard Wagner.

We have been tempted into placing these truths before our readers because Herr Nohl expressly challenges us to regard his "Life of Mozart" as an attempt at a "frankly artistic" and "purely human" treatment of his subject, and not as a mere statement of facts. Otto Jahn's book—so universally esteemed as a truthful and thoroughly exhaustive biography of the great composer—says Herr Nohl, "fell into my hands on my return from a journey to Italy, when, after having given myself up for a year to the study of painting and sculpture, I returned with fresh zest to music, determined to devote myself for the future to its history and science." Had he contemplated writing on the same subject to celebrate his entering "with fresh zest" upon musical study, we should certainly have thought that the perusal of Otto Jahn's work would have warned him from the task. On the contrary, it was the consciousness of its defects which incited him to it; the "keen perception," he says, of "the purely materialistic nature and character" of the book impelled him to attempt the creation of a "statue of Mozart" which Jahn had neither achieved nor even attempted. Certainly, if in the days of his Mozart-worship he succeeded in erecting a statue of the composer, he has done much to deface it since he became a disciple of the hero of Bayreuth.

As we have a right to consider Herr Nohl's book as a contemplative work rather than a mere biography, we are not astonished that the first chapter should open with a well-written and vivid description of Mozart's birthplace, Salzburg. In this the author endeavours, and with much success, to show how this beautiful city, which, as he says, "lies before us a work of art," acted most beneficially upon the genial and susceptible mind of the young composer. We must also admire the lifelike portrait of Leopold Mozart, whose thoroughly practical nature, although respected, as it should be, by his gifted son, had but small effect upon the development of his artistic nature. Occasionally his serious letters somewhat galled him, an instance of which may be found in his reply to an inquiry as to whether he attended mass regularly. "One thing," he writes, "annoyed me a little, the question as to whether I had not omitted going to confession. I cannot object to this; at the same time, one thing I do entreat of you, which is not to think so ill of me." His love for Aloysia Weber is well told, and very properly dwelt upon as one of the most important episodes of his life. When he first wrote of her, in one of his cautious letters to his father, and, after saying that "she plays by no means badly," makes this frank declaration, "I give you my honour I would rather hear my Sonatas played by her than by Vogler," we feel somewhat doubtful whether we should accept this avowal as the opinion of an artist or of a lover. Herr Nohl, however, goes far beyond us in meditating on the effect of this young girl's affection for the composer; for, in speaking of his composition of the Air "Non sò d'onde viene"—the words of which represent the unconscious awakening of the parental feeling in a monarch who has condemned an unknown youth (who afterwards proves to be his son) to death—he declares that his pity and sympathy for Aloysia and her family gradually aroused within him a more profound sensation, that he felt more than pity, whether aware of it or not, and that "this gave the composer the creative power to write one of the most eloquent Arias that ever expressed the awakening of first love." This, with many similar assertions as to the causes which prompted the artistic creations bequeathed to the world by Mozart, must, we presume, be accepted as a protest against what the author terms the "technical accuracy, industriously sought out and firmly grounded," which especially characterises the biography of Otto Jahn; but we much question whether such mere speculative theories have any real value to those who can themselves reason upon the facts placed before them.

We could give many interesting extracts from Herr Nohl's book; but, as our desire is rather to speak of the design of the work than to dwell upon the manner of its execution, we can conscientiously resist the temptation to quote any of the graphic and eloquent passages with which it abounds. The author's fascinating style is well known; and to all his admirers we confidently recommend this carefully revised edition, which was published only last year in Germany. Lady Wallace's translation is in every respect excellent; and the attractive appearance of the two volumes reflects much credit upon the English firm which has already done so much to spread a knowledge of German musical literature in this country.

A Name in the Sand. Song. Words by Hannah Gould.

Solitude. Song. Words by Henry Kirke White.

Composed by Berthold Tours.

[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

As we were among the first to recognise the talent of Mr. Berthold Tours, we take credit to ourselves for helping the career of one who has so thoroughly fulfilled our predictions. A conscientious artist need never doubt that his works, if sufficiently worthy, will make themselves heard in the crowd; and if the composer of the two charming songs before us feels inclined to persevere in the production of vocal pieces upon such models, he may rely upon securing the favour of the song-buying public, as well as the good opinion of musicians. "A name in the sand," commencing with a melodious vocal phrase in A minor, with a simple quaver accompaniment, happily colours the words, the modulations moving throughout in true sympathy with the varied feeling of the little poem. Especially must we draw attention to the agitated phrase suddenly stopping on the diminished seventh upon D sharp, followed (after a key-note held in the accompaniment for a whole bar) by a calm passage expressive of the lines in the sand being washed away by the rolling wave. A beautiful point, too, is the change into the tonic major, in which key, after an effective coda, the song ends. "Solitude" is even less ambitious in construction than the first composition, but in its way is a gem. The theme is in itself most striking, a change from G minor to G major being remarkable for freshness of effect and adaptability to the words; and the accompaniment is throughout most artistically woven in with the voice-part. This song, unlike the first, is in the ballad form of two verses, ending in the minor key with which it commences. Both compositions, although unconventional in form, appeal, as we have already said, to all vocalists of culture, and we confidently predict for them an extensive and lasting popularity.

Consider the Lilies. Sacred Song. The words from the Sermon on the Mount.

Ruth. Sacred Song. (Ruth i. 16, 17.)

Composed by Alfred R. Gaul. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

EXPERIENCE proves how exceedingly difficult it is for composers who undertake the setting of sacred words to throw a purely religious feeling into their music without making it lugubrious, and to invest it with a melodious character without degenerating into commonplace. Mr. Gaul has successfully steered clear of both these dangers; and we heartily commend his two songs to the attention of vocalists and teachers. A quiet and expressive theme, appropriately harmonised, is allied with the beautiful "Sermon" embodied in the first composition, a few unobtrusive points in the pianoforte part materially heightening the effect of the vocal phrases, and preventing any feeling of monotony which might arise from the continuous quaver accompaniment. We particularly like the introduction of the words "Entreat me not to leave thee," in the second song, whilst lingering upon the dominant harmony, before the commencement of the melody; but we should suggest the insertion of a natural before the A in the bar where the pause occurs. The fervour with which the same words are musically expressed at the conclusion of the song may be also cited as a proof of the composer's earnestness in his task, evidence of which is indeed apparent throughout the composition, especially in the various passages of imitation between voice and pianoforte, all of which seem to grow naturally from the harmonies.

Three Songs ("Day is dying," "Blue Wings," "Sweet Springtime") from George Eliot's "Spanish Gypsy," set to music by C. Villiers Stanford. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

IN these songs the Organist of Trinity College, Cambridge, has given another proof (if such were needed) of his marked talent as a composer. We do not remember to have seen anything from Mr. Stanford's pen which has given us more pleasure. The genuine feeling they display, their appropriateness to the text—in a word, their eminently musicianly character—deserve all commendation. "Sweet Springtime" is especially fresh and charming. By those who wish to sing something better than the average "royalty ballad" these three songs will be heartily welcomed.

Love's Decree. Song. Poetry by T. Moore, composed by T. A. Willis. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

APART from the oddity of beginning the symphony of this song with a dominant harmony upon a tonic pedal, and in the voice part, after modulating into A, changing into F major, we see nothing in the composition to arrest the attention, the theme indeed being extremely commonplace. The notes are carefully placed so as to agree with the words; but why write unless you have something to say?

Slumber, Darling. Part-song for four voices, composed by J. S. Curwen. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE composer of this song states on the title-page that he is a student of the Royal Academy of Music; but his voice-parts appear written with a practised hand. The melody too is extremely pleasing; and there is a promise of excellence in the future so evident in his treatment of the varied phases of feeling in the words throughout this unpretentious composition that we cordially welcome Mr. Curwen, and wish him every success in his career.

Danse Rustique. Musical Sketch for the Pianoforte, by W. L. Frost. [Enoch and Sons.]

MR. FROST has here given us a charmingly fresh and melodious little sketch, the rustic character of the dance being well preserved, without the constant "pedal bass" which is conventionally presumed to be an absolute necessity in pastoral compositions. The tuneful phrases which follow in rapid succession should make this piece extremely popular; but when we say that in the first page we find ourselves in the keys of E minor, F major, E major, and C major, it may be imagined that the tonality is somewhat restless. Country clowns must not run riot in their music any more than in their sports without being called to order.

FOREIGN NOTES.

INASMUCH as in the present condition of the art the musical life of a nation may be gauged with any degree of accuracy only by the performances of the concert-room, the regular announcement of the works produced during the month at the leading concert institutions abroad must be a matter of great interest to the student of contemporary art-history. We intend, for the future, to append to these notes a list of the programmes of such of the more important concerts as may have been brought under our notice, while in our present issue we still confine ourselves to the sporadic mention hitherto adopted of a few works the performance of which has claimed especial interest. The current season of the Subscription Concerts at the Leipzig Gewandhaus commenced, as already announced, on October 11. In the course of the five concerts of which notices have so far reached us, the following compositions obtained, among others, a hearing: Concert-Overture and Symphony (Rietz), Concerto (No. 3, new) for Pianoforte (Reinecke), Concerto for Stringed Orchestra (J. S. Bach), Symphony in C major (Hiller, new), Concerto for Pianoforte (Saint-Saëns), "Le Rouet d'Omphale," Symphonic Poem for Orchestra (Saint-Saëns), Scene from Schiller's "Demetrius" (Joachim), Symphony No. 2 (Svendsen). Among the executive artists were included Herren C. Reinecke, Saint-Saëns, Henri Wieniawski, and Joachim; Mesdames Joachim, Olden, and Bertha Haft. M. Saint-Saëns's playing, especially his rendering of his own Concerto, met with enthusiastic approbation. The anniversary of the death of Mendelssohn was commemorated, in accordance with tradition, by the Stern'sche Gesangverein at Berlin on the 4th ult., on which occasion the composer's "Hundred and fourteenth Psalm," four numbers from his Op. 79, for a capella chorus, as well as Mozart's "Requiem," received an excellent interpretation under the able leadership of Herr Julius Stockhausen. At Vienna the anniversary in question was marked in a special manner by the Singakademie, the programme being composed entirely of works by Mendelssohn, in addition to which a speech was delivered by a member of the committee, Herr Wörz. We need hardly remind our readers that the death of the great composer occurred just thirty years ago. The representations during the past month at the Royal Opera at Berlin have, as usual, been of a sufficiently varied character to satisfy a variety of tastes; we will only instance "Tannhäuser," "Il Trovatore," "Le Nozze di Figaro," "L'Africaine," "Il Flauto Magico," and "Die Meistersinger" by way of contrast. Ignaz Brüll's new Opera, "Der Landfriede," which met with so great a success upon its first representation in October last, has been repeated several times at the Opera-house mentioned. The work has since been produced with equal success at several other operatic establishments in Germany. A season of Italian Opera is announced for next spring, at the Kroll'sche Theater at Berlin, for which a number of first-rate artists have already been engaged.

Madame Artôt-Padilla, the well-known singer, will during this season give a series of performances at the Berlin Opera, previous to her retirement from the stage. The gifted artist will, it is said, appear in the Opera "Carmen," by Bizet, in Flotow's "Ombra," and as Donna Anna in "Don Giovanni."

The Directors of the Imperial Opera at Vienna have again been fortunate in securing the co-operation of Madame Pauline Lucca in a number of operatic representations. The diva's stay at the Austrian capital during this winter will be interrupted only by the fulfilment of a short engagement with the Opera at Madrid.

Madame Marchesi, whose eminent talent for vocal training is of European fame, and from whose school not a few of the prime donne of the day have emanated, has signified her intention of leaving Vienna—where she occupies the post of Professor at the Conservatorium—in order to follow a call to the parallel institution at Bruxelles. The Viennese are, it is said, straining every nerve to induce the gifted lady to reconsider her decision.

Mlle. Anna Elger, a young soprano of great promise, made her début at Königsberg as Leonora in “Il Trovatore,” and Agathe in “Der Freischütz,” achieving a brilliant success. She is a pupil of Madame Marchesi.

Herr H. Scholtz, the talented pianist who has made the works of Chopin his especial study, gave an interesting concert recently at Dresden, when the programme consisted entirely of pieces by the Polish composer.

A new Opera by Franz von Holstein, entitled “Die Hochländer,” has been most favourably received upon its first performance, within the same week, at Hamburg, Leipzig, and Brunswick. The subject of the Opera, as its title would imply, is taken from Scotch history. Herr Kretschmer's operatic novelty, “Die Folkunger,” made a very successful début at the Hof-Theater in Darmstadt.

During a recent short stay at Leipzig Anton Rubinstein introduced a new Quintett, for pianoforte and stringed instruments, of his composition to a private circle of amateurs. The work, which has only just been published, is said to be full of power and originality, and one of the most important works of the kind its author has yet produced.

Madame Schumann has taken part, during the past month, in concerts given at Berlin, Hamburg, and Bâle.

The Jubilee Singers, whose performances elicited so much interest during their stay in London, are now carrying on their mission on the Continent. They gave a most successful first concert at Berlin on the 7th ult., and also had the honour of appearing before the Emperor and the members of the imperial family of Germany at a private audience.

We understand that Herr Johannes Brahms is at present engaged upon the composition of his Second Symphony.

A lyrical tenor of great promise made his début not long ago at the Hamburg Opera. As a member of a Tyrolese troupe of singers he had attracted the attention of the impresario Pollini, who at once caused him to be educated for the operatic stage, and in the existing scarcity of tenors Herr Conradi is likely to prove a valuable acquisition to the Hamburg company.

Recent numbers of the Leipzig Signale contain some interesting and amusing “critical letters” from the pen of Dr. Hans von Bülow, dated respectively from Bruxelles and Sydenham (London).

With the 4th ult., the thirtieth anniversary of the death of Mendelssohn, the copyright of the composer's works has, in accordance with German law, expired, their publication in Germany being henceforth free. His musical remains have been handed over by the heirs to the Royal Library at Berlin, under condition that a sum of M. 4,200 be annually granted as a stipend to musical students.

It is now positively settled that M. Gounod's “Polyeucte” will be performed at the Paris Grand-Opéra during the forthcoming International Exhibition. The three principal parts in the new work will be entrusted to Mlle. Krauss and MM. Sellier and Lasalle. At the Opéra-Comique a new Opera by M. Ferdinand Poise, “La surprise de l'Amour,” met with a first representation on October 31, and was well received; while at the Théâtre de la Renaissance Herr Strauss's comic Opera, entitled “La Tzigane” (remodelled from his “Die Fledermaus”) is attracting numerous audiences since its first performance on October 30. The Théâtre Italien reopened its doors on the 3rd ult. with Donizetti's “Poliuto,” Signor Tamberlik singing the titre-rôle. At the Concerts Populaires the following works were included in the programmes: Leonore, Ballad-Symphony by Duparc (for the first time); Symphonie fantastique (Berlioz); Pastoral Symphony (Beethoven); Rhapsodie Hongroise (Liszt); Pianoforte Concerto, No. 4 (Litolff). The Châtelet Concerts brought among other pieces, Tambourin and Pastorale from “Les Fêtes d'Hébé” (Rameau), Pianoforte Concerto in G minor (Saint-Saëns), Intermezzo from “Orpheus” (Gluck), Minuet from “Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme” (Lulli), Fourth Orchestral Suite (Massenet), Symphony in A major (Beethoven).

M. Ernest-Altès has been elected assistant chef d'orchestre of the Concerts of the Conservatoire, in the room of M. Lamoureux, who has retired from the post.

Verdi has declined the nomination as a member of the Italian commission for the Paris Exhibition, on account, it is said, of his numerous other engagements.

The directors of the Théâtre de la Monnaie, at Bruxelles, have entered into negotiations with Mesdames Materna and Ehn, and MM. Scaria and Labatt, of the Imperial Opera at Vienna, with a view to the production of Wagner's “Die Walküre” on the Bruxelles stage in March next.

At a soirée recently held at the Belgian capital a young lady, Mlle. Stella de la Mar, a native of San Francisco, created quite a sensation by the beautiful timbre of her voice and her excellent schooling. She is only seventeen years of age, and has adopted the nom de guerre of Faustina. M. Strakosch is said to have at once engaged her for five years for his concert-tournees. In the same soirée the eminent pianist Herr Rummel played with great brilliancy a new Transcription on Wagner's “Nibelungen” by Brassin.

Mlle. Marie Roze has entered into an engagement with the impresario M. Strakosch for America, and is announced to appear at the Academy of Music at New York towards the middle of January next.

The Theatre Carlo-Felice, at Genoa, has opened its winter season with Meyerbeer's “Dinorah.” The Pergola Theatre, at Florence, will remain closed for the present, the Municipal Government of the town having refused to grant the usual subvention to the establishment.

Herr Anton Rubinstein assisted at a concert recently given at St. Petersburg in aid of a charitable fund. The great musician, who conducted his “Ocean Symphony” and afterwards played Liszt's Concerto in E flat major and some pieces of Chopin, was made the object of the most enthusiastic demonstrations on the part of his listeners.

The splendid collection of musical instruments, ancient and modern, of M. Ad. Sax was exhibited for sale last month at Paris, but failed to attract a buyer at the sum demanded for the entire collection. It will now be put up at auction to be sold en détail, a fact which is to be greatly regretted.

At Venice a poor man, formerly engaged at a porcelain factory in Saxony, is said to have constructed a violin entirely composed of porcelain. The instrument is remarkable for its softness of tone and excellent resonant quality.

Herr Doepler, the gifted painter of historical subjects, whose assistance in the mise-en-scène of the Bayreuth Festspiele has been of so much value, has completed a series of pictures illustrative of scenes from “Die Walküre” said to be most powerful and striking. Photographic representations of these paintings will shortly be published at Leipzig.

Johann Ritter von Herbeck, for years first conductor of the Imperial Opera at Vienna, and a musician of sterling excellence, died at the Austrian capital on October 28, at the age of forty-six. The death is announced also of C. T. Becker, formerly Professor at the Leipzig Conservatorium; he was in his seventy-ninth year.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE PAROCHIAL PSALTER.

TO THE EDITOR OF “THE MUSICAL TIMES.”

SIR,—In your notice of the “Parochial Psalter,” in your last issue, I think you were rather hard upon Mr. Cooper. There is certainly some little discrepancy between the title-page and the preface, due in some measure, perhaps, to the author's over-modesty; but this, after all, is but a minor point. It is with respect to the accent that I think your reviewer is not very consistent, and it is, perhaps, also not quite fair to eliminate from the review of the book all mention of the distinguishing features of it, viz. the marks of expression, simplicity, and the blending of the syllabic and polysyllabic systems of pointing.

Your reviewer says that the best authorities have long utterly condemned the emphasis on certain words. How is it then that in the "Cathedral Psalter," Elvey's Psalter, and others, certain words and syllables have marks placed over them, or are printed in different type, denoting that an accent of some kind is to be placed upon those syllables? Mr. Cooper in his preface distinctly states that only a slight stress is to be placed upon the emphatic word. Opinions may differ as to the right syllable in each verse on which to place the accent, but this does not affect the general question.

Having adopted the "Parochial Psalter" for my choir, and having had experience of other psalters, I can confidently assert that the chanting of the psalms has been much more satisfactory since its adoption than before. The choirboys attend to the marks of expression, as they are in plain English, much better than they did the pp or ff in other psalters; and, on the whole, I think Mr. Cooper has done good service in venturing to add yet another "Psalter pointed for chanting" to the many in existence.—I am, sir, yours truly,

HAROLD E. STIDOLPH.

S. Mary's, Ealing, W., November 13, 1877.

[The inconsistency mentioned in this letter is not in my review but in the psalter itself. In the preface, and also in the "Directions for Use," it is ordered that a slight stress should be made on the last important syllable of the recitation (marked generally by a circumflex); and it is also said that this should not be allowed to interfere with the proper accent of the word. I open the book and begin to chant the following verse, "The singers also and trumpeters shall he rehearse." I pause in confusion. I must, I am told, lay a stress on ters, because Mr. Cooper thinks it is the last important syllable of the recitation: and yet the proper accent of the word is trumpeters, consequently I must not lay stress on ters. Therefore I find myself ordered (1) to lay a stress on ters; (2) not to lay a stress on ters.

Again, I find that Mr. Cooper thinks the last important syllable (!) of the recitation to be as here indicated by italics: increased, vanity, heathen, trapped, beholdest, darkness, arrows. If it were intended that these syllables should be held longer (although I cannot understand why they should be prolonged) he should certainly not use a mark which directs (at his own wish) a slight stress. Mr. Stidolph claims as special merits of the "Parochial Psalter" the introduction of breath marks, and the blending of the syllabic and polysyllabic systems. If he will kindly turn to the "Cathedral Psalter," published (as far as I remember) two years or so before the "Parochial Psalter," he will find marks of expression, breath marks, and numerous instances of the fusion of the two systems of pointing; and he will not find that hopeless confusion between "stress on a note" and "length of a note" which characterises the "Parochial Psalter," and which cannot be talked away by any amount of friendly advocacy. I cannot find in Elvey's Psalter any direction that an unimportant syllable is to receive a stress; on the contrary, such an occurrence is carefully guarded against.—The Reviewer of the "Parochial Psalter."]

THE HISTORY OF MUSIC-PRINTING.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—In Dr. Chrysander's interesting articles on the above subject I find the following sentence: "I regret that, in following the traces of the originators of the new method, I have to commence my exposition by destroying the opinion that music-engraving is an English invention." The doctor then devotes much space to prove that the "Parthenia" was not the first musical work printed from engraved copper plates. Dr. Chrysander is evidently unaware that we had previously refuted the error at the Caxton Exhibition by showing engraved Italian books of an earlier date than "Parthenia," and also by calling special attention to the fact in our preface to the Musical

Section of the Catalogue. In an article of mine on the Caxton Exhibition, which appeared in the Athenæum in August last, I wrote as follows: "The next section which presents itself to our notice is that of music printed from engraved plates, and here again we are enabled to correct the prevalent error in respect to the 'Parthenia' produced in London by Hole in 1611, and always regarded as the earliest of its kind, but which had really been anticipated by Kapsberger's works, some of them published in Rome in 1604."

WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* * Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will greatly oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all Subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music pages are always stereotyped, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

THOMAS J. LEAMAN.—The custom of publishing music with one sharp or one flat less at the signature than the number required by the key was by no means uncommon in Handel's time.

We are compelled to hold over the letters of W. Newberry and Inquirer for want of space.

Cases for binding Volume XVIII. will be ready on January 1, price 1s. 6d. The Title and Index will be issued with the January number.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this Summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

BANBURY.—The members of the Choral Society gave their first Concert this season in the Town Hall, on Friday evening, the 2nd ult. The first part of the programme consisted of a selection from Mendelssohn's Elijah, and the second was miscellaneous. With the exception of Mr. Randell, of Birmingham, the artists were local amateurs. Mr. Hardacre conducted, and Miss Draper presided at the pianoforte. The opening Recitative and Air were effectively rendered by the Rev. C. M. O. Parkinson, and Mr. Randell sang the bass Solos in a satisfactory manner. "Hear ye, Israel" was well sung by Miss F. Edmunds, and Miss Edmunds' rendering of "O rest in the Lord" was equally effective. The tenor Air, "Then shall the righteous," found in Mr. Ellis a good exponent. The Choruses, with some trifling exceptions, were sung well throughout. Some Part-songs were given with much precision and care.

BEDFORD.—The third Concert of the eleventh season of the Amateur Musical Society was given on Tuesday evening, October 30, in the New Corn Exchange, before a crowded audience. The first part of the programme consisted of Sir Julius Benedict's Cantata, Undine. The solos were sustained by Miss Catherine Penna, Miss Alice Fairman, Mr. Bernard Lane, and Mr. Henry Pope, and the band was assisted by several members of the Royal Italian Opera. The Cantata, which was conducted by the composer, was exceedingly well performed. Mr. P. H. Diemer conducted the second part of the concert, which was miscellaneous.

BERKHAMPTSTEAD.—On Thursday evening, the 15th ult., Mr. Macrone gave his ninth Annual Concert in the Town Hall, under distinguished patronage. The first part of the programme consisted of sacred and the second of secular music. The selections of sacred music were chosen from the works of Mendelssohn, Handel, Haydn, Spohr, Curschmann, and Scotson Clark; and the secular included a selection by the bénéficiaire. The professional vocalists were Miss Annie Lauri, Miss Warwick, and Mr. W. Monk. Mr. Flint presided at the harmonium, and Miss Cook at the pianoforte.

BIRMINGHAM.—A Chamber Concert, of great artistic importance, was given by Mr. C. J. Duchemin, in conjunction with Messrs. Rogers and Priestly, in the Masonic Hall, on Thursday evening, October 25. The performers were Mr. Carrodus, Mr. Val. Nicholson, Mr. Doyle, and Mr. Howell, strings; Miss Emma Beasley, vocalist; and Mr. Duchemin, pianoforte. The programme included Spohr's Quintett in D minor, Op. 130; Schumann's String Quartett, Op. 38, No. 2. All were admirably performed; Miss Beasley gave her songs with excellent taste.—The first of a series of Classical Chamber Concerts, under the direction of Mr. Hayward, took place at the Royal Hotel Assembly Rooms, on Tuesday the 6th ult. The artists were Messrs. H. and C. Hayward, Mr. Roberts and Mr. Owen, strings; Miss Hargrave,.

pianoforte; and Mr. Bywater, vocalist. The most interesting item in the programme was Spohr's Second Quintett, originally written for piano and wind instruments. Miss Hargreave played with much skill and taste, and Mr. Bywater sang several songs in excellent style.—On the 13th ult. the Philharmonic Union gave, for the first time in Birmingham, Handel's Oratorio Esther. Miss Agnes Larkcom, Madame Barnett, Mr. Welch, and Mr. Harrison were the principal vocalists. The performance was a very good one, the Solos being received with much favour. Of the Choruses, "He comes to end our woes" made the deepest impression. The accompaniments were given with great skill on the organ by Mr. Stimpson, and Dr. Heap conducted the work most ably.—The Amateur Harmonic Association gave an open Rehearsal in the Town Hall on Thursday the 15th ult. The only novelty in the programme was a Part-song, "Footsteps of angels," specially composed for the Society by Mr. A. R. Gaul. It was admirably performed, and encored, and the composer, being called for, received an ovation. Mr. Stockley conducted.—A Concert of a novel character took place in the Town Hall on Tuesday the 20th ult. The orchestra was composed of a band of harps, twenty-four in number. Mr. John Thomas was the soloist, and with Mr. D. F. Davis played a harp duet. The leaders of the band were Mr. Stratford and Mr. Owen, the other players being lady amateurs. The solo vocalists were Miss Jessie Royd, Miss Orridge, and Madame Sullivan. The members of the Philharmonic Union gave their services and sang several Part-songs. The concert was under the direction of Dr. Heap, and the proceeds were given in aid of St. Jude's Church Schools.—The Carl Rosa Opera Company commenced a twelve nights' engagement at the Theatre Royal on Monday the 19th ult. The works given the first week were Maritana, Bohemian Girl, Merry Wives of Windsor, (first time in Birmingham), Crown Diamonds, Lily of Killarney, and Il Trovatore, with Misses Josephine Yorke, Julia Gaylord, Blanche Cole, Cora Stuart, Messrs. J. W. Turner, Charles Lyall, F. H. Celli, and Aynsley Cook in the principal parts.

BLACKHEATH.—On the 26th ult. Mr. R. Lemaire, with his "Erith Choral Society," gave a performance of Barnett's Ancient Mariner, and a portion of Cowen's Rose Maiden, at the Alexandra Hall. The soloists were Miss Catherine Penna, Madame Osborne-Williams, Mr. Stedman, and Mr. Thurely Beale, all of whom were most favourably received by a large and fashionable audience. One of the chief features of the concert was the admirable singing of the members of the choir, who thoroughly entered into the spirit of their Conductor in his energetic endeavours to give due expression to the character of the music. Mr. Byrom accompanied with his usual musicianly skill.

BRIGHTON.—The first of the grand series of Subscription Concerts organised by Messrs. J. B. Cramer and Co. was given in the Dome on the 31st October, with complete success. The performances of the Philharmonic Choir, supplemented by a band of harps, formed a special feature of the concert. The vocalists were Miss Robertson, who made her début in Brighton, Miss Helen de Fonblanque, Miss Saidie Singleton, Mr. Guy, Mr. Vernon Rigby, Mr. Wadmore, and Signor Foli. Violoncello solos were contributed by M. Albert; Mr. Cheshire was solo harpist, and Mr. Kingsbury and Signor Randegger conducted. The concert was under the excellent management of Mr. George Watts.—On the 13th ult. the members of the Sacred Harmonic Society performed, for the first time in Brighton, Handel's Oratorio Israel in Egypt in its complete shape. The vocal artists specially engaged were Misses Julia Wigan and Hoare (first and second soprano), Mrs. Mudie Bolingbroke (contralto), and Mr. Hollins (tenor). The orchestra was strengthened by the engagement of Mr. Val. Nicholson (leader), Messrs Villin and Webb (principal second violin and principal viola), Mr. Chipp (violoncello), Mr. Griffiths (principal double bass), Mr. Varnes (oboe), Mr. Leuliette (bassoon), Mr. Dearden (trumpet), Mr. Pheasant (drums), &c. Mr. J. Spearing was the Organist, and Mr. Robert Taylor conducted. The performance of the Oratorio was most successful.

BRISTOL.—On the 27th of October the last of the Saturday Popular Concerts at the Lesser Colston Hall was given. The band performed the Overtures Rosamunde (Schubert), Le Cenerentola (Rossini), and La Figlia del Reggimento (Donizetti), and a manuscript Gavotte, for strings only, by Weist Hill. Mrs. J. L. Jackson Roeckel took the pianoforte part in Beethoven's Concerto in C minor, and Mr. Pomeroy the violoncello part in Bargiel's Adagio, the orchestral parts being exceedingly well played by the band. Mr. Lawford Huxtable was the vocalist, and Mr. George Riseley the Conductor.—On Monday the 19th ult. these Concerts were resumed at the Colston Hall, and announced to be continued under the title of "Monday Popular Concerts." Mrs. Viner-Pomeroy played Mendelssohn's Capriccio for pianoforte and orchestra, and Sterndale Bennett's Barcarolle. Mr. Farley Sinkins was the vocalist. The band performed Meyerbeer's Coronation March, Haydn's "Farewell Symphony," and other pieces of equal merit.—On Wednesday the 7th ult. Mr. W. Pyatt gave a Ballad Concert at the Colston Hall. The artists were Mrs. Osgood, Miss Orridge, Mr. Santley, and Mr. Barton McGuckin. Mr. H. Nicholson (flute) and Mr. Sidney Naylor (piano) were the instrumentalists.—On Friday and Saturday, the 23rd and 24th ult., two Grand Festival Concerts were given in the Colston Hall by the Bristol Musical Festival Society. It has been the custom of this Society to give in the intervals between the Triennial Festivals performances with organ accompaniment alone, but on these occasions, owing to the spirited action of the committee of the Society, the performances were on a scale equalling the Triennial Festivals, the choir being of the same strength, and the band of Mr. Charles Hallé supplying the instrumental portion of the concerts as at the Festivals; vocalists of the highest eminence were also engaged. The music performed at the first concert was entirely of a secular character, commencing with Handel's Serenata, Acis and Galatea, with the additional accompaniments written by Mendelssohn. The work was not performed in its entirety, but sufficient was given to make it thoroughly appreciated. The choral portions were rendered in a manner which showed that the Choirmaster, Mr. Alfred Stone, has not been idle since the last Festival in 1876, the difficult five-part Chorus, "Wretched lovers," being particularly effective. The solo vocalists were Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Signor Foli. The second part commenced with Beethoven's Symphony in D major, Op. 36, No. 2, which was excellently played. Other instrumental portions were a charming "Liebeslied" by Taubert (encored), Aubert's spirited Overture to Masaniello, and Wagner's Choral March from Tannhäuser. On Saturday excellent performances of Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise and Rossini's Stabat Mater were given. The principal vocalists engaged were Madame Nouver, Miss Enriez, Mr. E. Lloyd, and Signor Foli. Mr. Lloyd's rendering of the Airs "The sorrows of death" and "Cujus animam" could not be surpassed, and he was deservedly applauded. Schumann's Overture, Scherzo, and Finale in E were played between the two works named. It should be mentioned that the concert on Friday evening commenced with an ode written by the Rev. E. T. Brown (Clifton College), and set to most appropriate and charming music by Mr. J. L. Roeckel, in memory of the late Mdle. Titiens, and this was also repeated by desire on Saturday. It is written for five voice parts, and is deeply impressive. Mr. George Riseley accompanied on the organ. Mr. Charles Hallé conducted both concerts; and it remains but to say that it is a matter for regret that the performances were not patronised as they deserved to be: on neither occasion was the Hall full. It is hoped, however, that the Festival Society will be enabled to give other concerts on the same scale, and in the meantime the thanks of the inhabitants of the city are due to the Committee for the rich treat provided by them on this occasion.

BROMSGROVE.—On the 1st ult. the Dedication Festival of All Saints' Church was observed by special services. The Holy Communion was celebrated at 11 a.m., and at 7.30 p.m. there was full choral evensong, with sermon. The service table was composed of hymn 378, "Ancient and Modern," "Hark! the sound" (Dykes); Preces and Responses (Tallis); special Psalms xxiv. cxxiii., double chants in E (Barnby and Foster); Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, Parisian tones, arranged by Stainer; Anthem, "What are these" (Stainer); hymn before sermon, No. 256 "Ancient and Modern," "O heavenly Jerusalem," to tune "Grafton"; hymn during offertory, "The Son of God goes forth to war," Sullivan's arrangement of "St. Ann." The choir sang well throughout the whole of the service. The prayers were intoned by the Rev. J. C. Whall, the preacher being the Rev. A. C. Higgs, of Cheltenham. As the congregation left the church, Mr. J. C. B. Tirbunt, the Organist, played the Chorus, "Worthy is the Lamb," from Handel's Messiah. The offertory was devoted to the Choir Fund.

CAMBRIDGE.—A performance of Handel's Joshua was given by the Musical Society at the Guildhall on the 14th ult. The principal artists were Madame Sinico, Miss Helen D'Alton, Mr. W. H. Cummings, and Signor Campobello, vocalists. Organ, Mr. T. Mountain; Conductor, Mr. William C. Dewberry. The singing of the Choruses reflected considerable credit upon the Society, and fully maintained its growing reputation. The soloists were duly appreciated by a large and attentive audience.

CHESTER.—On Monday evening, the 19th ult., the Chester Amateur Vocal Union, a new Society established by the Precursor of the Cathedral, gave its first Concert, in aid of St. Thomas's Church. The first part consisted of Mendelssohn's Hear my prayer, and Spohr's God, Thou art great, accompanied by a small stringed band (leader, the Rev. Dr. Statham). The second part was miscellaneous. The principal soloists were Mrs. Rowan, Miss Mussabini, Mr. Bridge (the Organist of the Cathedral), Mr. Melville, Mr. Sankey, and the Precursor, who also conducted throughout. The music was performed with great care and precision, and gave much pleasure to the audience, amongst whom were the Duke and Duchess of Westminster, Lady Ormonde, and Countess Grosvenor.

CLIFTON.—On the 5th ult. a Pianoforte and Violin Recital was given at the Victoria Rooms by Mr. Charles Hallé and Madame Norman-Néruda. The programme contained selections from works of the highest order, all of which were faultlessly rendered.—On the 8th ult. a Concert was given in the Victoria Rooms by Signor Paggi, assisted by his four talented children—Mdle. Paggi, pianoforte; Mdle. Anita, flute; Mdle. Josephine, violin; and Master Paggi, violoncello. The most ambitious effort made by the youthful performers was the performance by Mdle. Paggi of Beethoven's Sonata in C sharp minor. "The moonlight." Madame Bretelle was the vocalist.

The first of Mrs. Viner-Pomeroy's Classical Chamber Concerts for the present season was given at the Victoria Rooms on Wednesday the 14th ult. The following artists were engaged: Herr Ludwig Straus, first violin; Mr. J. O. Brooke, second violin; Mr. J. B. Zerbin, viola; Mr. J. Pomeroy, violoncello; Mr. J. O. Brooke, clarinet; and Mrs. Viner-Pomeroy, piano. The programme included Beethoven's Quartett, Op. 18, No. 5, for two violins, viola, and violoncello; Bach's Sonata No. 2, for piano and violin; Mozart's Trio, Op. 14, for pianoforte, clarinet, and viola; and Hadyn's Quartett, Op. 77, No. 1.

COLNBROOK, NEAR WINDSOR.—The members of the Colnbrook Choral Class gave their first Concert in the Public Hall, on Wednesday the 7th ult. Miss Seaborne, of London, sang several of the Solos from the Messiah; and the choir, numbering forty voices, gave some Anthems and Choruses from the works of Handel, Mozart, Dr. C. Whitfield, Rimbault, and Sir G. Elvey, the solos being taken by Mr. James Wyatt, of the Chapel Royal, Savoy. Miss Saunders accompanied the music on the pianoforte. The choir presented Mr. R. Ratcliff with a purse containing upwards of five pounds, subscribed by the choir, as a mark of respect and esteem for his valuable services as Conductor of the class.

COVENTRY.—A very successful performance of the Creation was given in the Corn Exchange on the 20th ult. by the Musical Society, under the conductorship of Mr. Arthur Trickett, F.C.O. The band and chorus, numbering 155, acquitted themselves admirably, the fresh quality of the voices and the precision of attack being very commendable. The principal vocalists were Madame Edith Wynne, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Lewis Thomas, all of whom were highly appreciated.

DUDLEY.—An evening Concert was given on the 20th ult. in the Public Hall, the principal vocalist being Miss M. J. Blower, of Wolverhampton, who was highly successful. The Dudley Vocal Union, conducted by Mr. B. Barlow, gave a selection of Choruses and unaccompanied Part-songs to the entire satisfaction of the audience.

EDINBURGH.—The first Recital by the choir of Morningside Parish Church, given on the 31st of October, was most successful. Herr Franz Waltn (from Stuttgart), Organist of the church, conducted, and the performances of the choir showed admirable training, and reflected great credit on their Conductor. The choral numbers calling for special remark were a Motett by Palestrina (unaccompanied); Mendelssohn's Chorus from St. Paul, "How lovely are the messengers;" and Hopkins's Anthem, "I will wash my hands in innocence," which were sung with thorough appreciation of their different styles. The soloists acquitted themselves very creditably. The notable feature of the concert was the organ performance of Herr Waltn. His selection included Pastorale (Merkel), a Chromatische Fantasie (Thiele), and the Toccata in D minor (Bach), in which the performer showed himself complete master of his instrument. Mr. Arthur J. Curle, Organist of Augustine Chapel, assisted most efficiently as accompanist, and also contributed two solos.—At the annual meeting of the University Musical Society, Sir Herbert Oakeley in the chair, the financial report showed a satisfactory balance in favour of the Association. The meeting was addressed by Professor MacLagan, Professor Rutherford, Dr. Hullah, and others; and the chairman, in his opening speech, spoke most hopefully of the future of the Society. The proceedings terminated with a short organ performance by Sir Herbert Oakeley.

ELMHAM.—A very successful Concert was given in the National School Room on the 22nd ult. An instrumental party, consisting of Messrs. W. W. Pearson and F. U. Martin, violins; Mr. C. Wright, flute; Mr. W. Cook, pianoforte, and Mr. W. Edwards, harmonium, played the Overture to the "Crown Diamonds," and a new Overture by the Conductor, Mr. W. W. Pearson, entitled "The Enchanted Ring." Miss Sewell, of Swaffham, played some pianoforte solos in a very artistic manner. The singing of the Church choir, under the direction of the Organist, Mr. W. W. Pearson, was much admired for its precision and correct intonation. The principal pieces sung were Sir H. Bishop's "Allegiance we swear," "The chough and crow," and Mr. Pearson's Part-song, "The ocean," which was redemanded. Miss A. Sewell, and Messrs. C. Wright and H. B. Vincent, contributed songs and duets, which were favourably received.

EPSOM.—A Concert was given at Waterloo House Concert Room on Thursday the 8th ult. The solo vocalists were Madame Worrell-Duval, Miss Amy Linington, Mr. Parkin, and Mr. Thurley Beale. The choruses were sung by members of the Brixton Choral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. William Lemare, and Mr. J. T. Lee accompanied. The programme consisted of Sir W. S. Bennett's Pastoral, "The May Queen," and a miscellaneous selection. The performance was exceedingly good; and Madame Worrell-Duval and Mr. Thurley Beale were greatly applauded.

FALKIRK, N.B.—The Harvest Thanksgiving Service was held in Christ Church on Friday evening, the 7th ult. The musical part was highly successful, principally owing to the care and assiduity of the Organist, Mr. J. Watson Lee. The Anthem was "The Lord is my shepherd," by James Shaw, which was very carefully sung. The Psalms selected were lxxv. and cxlviii., to Marks and Haverall in E. The Cantate and Deus misereatur were sung to Attwood in E flat; and the usual harvest hymns were heartily joined in by the whole congregation.

GLOUCESTER.—The consecration of All Saints' Church was commemorated on Thursday the 1st ult. by special services. The Rev. J. J. Trollop, of Lydney, preached in the morning, and the Rev. J. G. Teley, vicar of Highnam, in the evening. The Rev. E. Evans, vicar of All Saints', determined with the help of his able Organist, Mr. E. G. Woodward, to add an instrumental accompaniment to that of the organ, and the success of the experiment was most gratifying. Mr. Woodward led the band, and Mr. Newton, of Highnam, presided at the organ. The hymns were effectively scored for the band by Mr. Woodward, and the Anthem by Mr. Newton. As an opening voluntary the first portion of the Symphony to the Hymn of Praise was admirably played. The hymn, "Onward, Christian soldiers," was sung to Mr. Arthur Sullivan's tune, "St. Gertrude;" the Psalms were chanted to Smith's double chant in G, the Magnificat to Beethoven's single chant in D, and the Nunc dimittis to Pring in A. The Anthem was Dr. Stainer's, "What are these;" before the sermon the hymn, "Hark! hark! the organ loudly peals," was sung to J. W. Elliott's tune, "Gloria in excelsis;" and while the collection was being made the hymn, "The Son of God goes forth to war," to Dr. Croft's tune "St. Ann." The hymn "Praise my soul," was afterwards sung to Goss's tune in "Church Hymns;" and as a closing voluntary Mendelssohn's "Cornelius March" was played with great spirit.

HADDINGTON, N.B.—The services in connection with the opening of the new organ just completed in the Episcopal Church, by Messrs. Harrison and Harrison, of Durham, took place on the 21st ult., and consisted of morning and evening service, full choral, and an Organ Recital in the afternoon, given by Mr. Osborne W. Pinck, Organist of the church. The instrument is a very fine one of two manuals, and complete pedal organ, with twenty stops of excellent tone. The Anthem at the morning service was Goss's "O taste, and see," and in the evening Barby's "O Lord, how manifold."

KIRTON-IN-LINDSEY.—On the 19th ult. the Committee of the Reading Room gave an Evening Concert in the Vicarage Long Room. "The Sheffield Orpheus Quartet" (Mrs. House, Mr. J. Berrisford, Mr. A. Wilson, and Mr. H. Makin), with Mr. Beaumont as solo pianist and accompanist, being the artists engaged. The programme, which was of a miscellaneous and high-class character, was performed in a manner which elicited the hearty applause of the audience, and reflected the highest credit on the executants. At the conclusion the Rev. R. H. Charters, the President, on behalf of himself and the committee, expressed the great satisfaction which the concert had given.

LATTON.—On Thursday the 22nd ult. special services were held in connection with the opening of a new organ. At half-past eight there was choral celebration. The celebrant was the Rev. Canon Beadon, vicar. Hayne's Service was sung with great effect by the choir. In the afternoon the service commenced with the processional hymn, "Rejoice, ye pure in heart." The Service was Tallis, and the Anthem, "O how amiable" (Richardson), was rendered in excellent style. The recessional was, "Onward, Christian soldiers." The evening service at seven was also fully choral. The whole of the musical portion of the services was under the direction of Mr. E. Chalis, the Choirmaster. The organ, which is by Bishop and Son, of London, was opened by Mr. Kinke, jun., in a very effective manner. After the evening service Mr. Kinke gave an Organ Recital, which was listened to by a large audience. The offertories, which were devoted to the Organ Fund, amounted to over £26.

LEEDS.—The fifth Concert of the Town Hall Popular Concerts took place on Saturday evening, the 3rd ult., in the Victoria Hall, when an operatic recital from Martina was given by the St. Cecilia Concert Party, consisting of Madame Pauline Evison, Miss Emmeline Kennedy, Mr. George Nunn, and Mr. T. Dodds, all of whom were highly successful. Mr. John Shaw presided at the pianoforte in an able manner, and Dr. Spark officiated at the organ.

LICHFIELD.—On Monday evening, the 19th ult., Mr. Bates, vicar-choral of the cathedral, gave a concert in St. James's Hall, assisted by Miss Agnes Larkcom, Miss Marion Severn, Mr. Noot, and Mr. Bell. The programme was miscellaneous. Miss Larkcom was encored in "Comin' thro' the rye," and Miss Severn in "Come, lasses and lads." Mr. Bell gave an excellent rendering of Handel's Recitative and Air, "O ruddier than the cherry;" and Schubert's "Wanderer." Mr. Bates played Beethoven's Pastoral Sonata, Op. 28, No. 15, with very great taste, exhibiting executive powers of no mean order; he also accompanied the vocal music.

MALVERN (NORTH).—On Thursday the 8th ult. Mr. W. W. Cawley, and a few friends presented Mr. W. H. Main with a complete volume of Beethoven's Sonatas and a purse containing £25. The following inscription, which was most beautifully illuminated by Mr. W. Elzy, was placed inside the book: "This book, with a purse of gold, was presented to Mr. W. H. Main by a few friends connected with the district, on his retirement as Organist and Choirmaster of St. Peter's, Cowleigh, and in recognition of his faithful and efficient services and high musical attainments during the eleven years he held that office."

MANCHESTER.—The third of Mr. De Jong's popular Concerts took place on the 10th ult., at the Free-Trade Hall. The vocalists were Madame Trebelli (who received quite an ovation upon her appearance), Miss Anna Williams, Mdle. Ida Basilier, Mr. Barton McGuckin, and Herr Behrens. Miss Anna Williams sang with good effect, and was recalled after each of her songs. Madame Trebelli sang "L'amour est un oiseau," and also in a duo with Herr Behrens. Herr Behrens was most applauded in "Still is the night;" and Mdle. Ida Basilier made a decided impression. Mr. Barton McGuckin and Herr Behrens were also highly successful. A Violin Solo by Mons. Jaquinot was well received, and the orchestral selections were excellently played.—A Concert was given by Mr. C. Hallé on the 8th ult., in the Free-Trade Hall. The vocalists were Mdle. Thekla Friedländer and Mdle. Redeker, both of whom were highly appreciated in their solos; and their rendering of some duets was a feature of the performance. The orchestral works were exceedingly well performed.—Mr. J. Kendrick Pyne, Organist of the Cathedral, has recently given a series of Organ Recitals at the Town Hall, which have been uniformly well attended. The programmes, selected exclusively from the works of the great masters, afforded the utmost gratification to the highly appreciative audiences assembled on each occasion.

NEWPORT, ISLE OF WIGHT.—Mr. Roche gave his Annual Concert on the 15th ult. in the Drill Hall, which was well filled. The artists were Madame Wells, Madame Whitaker, Mr. Roche, Mr. O. Christian, Mr. Nicholson, and Mr. J. T. Read, all of whom were highly successful. Mr. Read was an excellent Conductor.

OCKLEY, SURREY.—Harvest Thanksgiving Services were held on the 4th ult., when there was an early celebration of the Holy Communion in St. John's Church. Matins commenced in St. Margaret's, the parish church, at eleven o'clock, by a procession of choristers singing Sullivan's "Onward, Christian soldiers." Tallis's Festival Responses were used, and the Te Deum was Dykes in F. Matins was followed by a Missa Cantata, music from Marbecke and Tours. At evensong Dr. Stainer's new Anthem, "Ye shall dwell in the land," was sung with much effect. The musical portions of the services were under the direction of, and accompanied by, Mr. Charles G. Sadler, Organist and Choirmaster.

OSWESTRY.—On Monday evening, the 12th ult., Mr. George Gaffe, F.C.O., Organist of the parish church, gave the second of a series of Pianoforte Recitals in the Victoria Rooms. The programme included selections from the works of Schubert, Dusek, Clementi, Field, Weber, Spindler, and Scarlatti. The vocalist was Mr. J. M. Hayden (principal tenor of Salisbury Cathedral), who was most successful in his rendering of the Recitative and Air, "Ye people, rend your hearts" (Elijah), and Blumenthal's Song, "The Message," the latter being enthusiastically encored.

OXFORD.—A new Organ, built by Messrs. Willis, has just been erected in the Sheldonian Theatre. The instrument has a magnificent appearance, harmonising well with the character of the building, and reflects great credit on the builders and the architect, Mr. Jackson.

QUEBEC, CANADA.—The first of a series of Pianoforte Recitals, given at Mr. R. Morgan's Music Room, by Mr. Edward A. Bishop, Organist of the English Cathedral, was an unqualified success. Mr. Bishop's playing was greatly admired, Weber's Polacca in E major, Mozart's Minuet and Trio in E flat, and Benedict's "Where the bee sucks," eliciting marked applause. The programme was varied by two songs from Miss Dersane, which were warmly appreciated.

READING.—Mr. W. Hawley gave a Concert in the Theale School-room on the 19th ult., which was well attended. The artists were Miss Jessie Royd, Miss Hancock, and Messrs. Christian, Smith, Mellor, and Hawley. Mr. Pearson was well received in a pianoforte solo.

SADDLEWORTH.—On Thursday the 15th ult. the members of the Conservative Association held their annual meeting in the Mechanics' Hall, Uppermill. The vocalists were Miss Pauline Topliff, Miss Tervin, Mr. Allen, and Mr. Smith. The programme included favourite songs, duets, trios, and quartets, all of which were well sung. Mr. J. W. T. Platt presided at the pianoforte with much taste.

SALISBURY.—Mrs. Frank Alexander gave a Pianoforte Recital in the Assembly Rooms on the 7th ult., when she was assisted by Miss Clara Asher, the infant pianist, and Mr. Foley as solo violinist. Mdlle. Orfa and Mr. J. M. Hayden (principal tenor of Salisbury Cathedral) were the vocalists. The programme contained a choice selection of works by the best masters, all of which were well rendered, many being encored.

SHEFFIELD.—Messrs. Peck and Wainwright commenced a new series of Orchestral and Vocal Concerts on the 10th ult. at the Albert Hall, the Lay of the Bell being given, with Miss Barton, Mr. Mosby, and Mr. H. Makin as soloists; and the Tonic Sol-fa Association, under the conductorship of Mr. Coward, forming the choir. Romberg's Overture in D reflected great credit on the band, under the conductorship of Mr. Peck. Mr. Trimmell rendered good assistance at the organ. On the 17th ult. the second of the series was given, when a March, written by Mr. Crowther-Alwyn, was performed under the conductorship of the composer, and most warmly received. Mr. J. W. Phillips presided at the organ, and rendered material assistance. Miss Clara Linley was the pianist, and played with her usual ability. Mr. Underwood was the vocalist. On the 19th ult. Mr. Charles Harvey gave the first of his Subscription Concerts this season in the Albert Hall. The artists were Madame Trebelli, who was enthusiastically received, Miss A. Williams, Mdlle. Ida Basilier, Mr. Barton M'Guckin, Herr Behrens, M. Claude Jaquinot, and Mr. F. H. Cowen. Mr. Cowen, as accompanist, played with his usual ability, and in his Solo, "La Suppliante," was well received.

SOUTHSEA.—An Evening Concert was given at the Portland Hall on Friday evening, the 23rd ult. The artists were Madame Trebelli, Miss Anna Williams, Mdlle. Ida Basilier, Mr. Barton M'Guckin, and Herr Conrad Behrens, M. Claude Jaquinot (violinist), and Mr. F. H. Cowen, Conductor. The programme was composed of classical music and English ballads. Madame Trebelli was highly appreciated in the whole of the music allotted to her, especially in Rossini's Duo al capricci, with Herr Behrens. Miss Anna Williams sang Gounod's "O that we two were maying," and a new song by Mr. F. H. Cowen, "At last," which was beautifully rendered; and Herr Behrens was encored in Abt's "Still is the night." Mr. F. H. Cowen played his own Romance, "La Suppliante," and accompanied the vocal music.

SUNDERLAND.—The members of the Philharmonic Society gave an excellent performance of Gade's Cantata The Crusaders on the 5th ult., in the Town Hall. The vocalists were Miss Agnes Larkcom, Mr. Barton M'Guckin, Mr. Frederick Mace, and Signor Foli. The orchestra and choir numbered 180 performers. Mr. Henry Nuttall led the band, and Mr. Angelo Forrest conducted. The Cantata was received with the greatest favour by the large audience assembled.

WIMBLEDON.—The Harvest Thanksgiving Service was held on the 28th October at St. Mary's Church, which was tastefully decorated. The services were choral throughout the day, commencing with the hymn, "Come, ye thankful people, come" (St. George); Te Deum, Penny D; Anthems, "Ye shall dwell in the land" (Dr. Stainer), and "O Lord, how manifold" (J. Barnby). Mr. Hope presided at the organ.

WINCHESTER.—The second of Mr. Charles Gamblin's Classical Chamber Concerts took place at the Guildhall on Monday the 20th ult. The programme was chiefly instrumental, and consisted of a selection from the works of Beethoven and Mozart. The artists were Messrs. Alexander C. Rowland and J. Ridgway (violins), Mr. C. Gamblin (viola), Mr. E. Woolhouse (violinello), and Mr. A. Picken (clarinet). The vocal part of the programme was sustained by Miss Hoare (soprano). Her rendering of "Deh vieni" (Mozart), and "The Bird and the Maiden" (Spohr), the latter with clarinet obbligato (Mr. Picken), being highly effective. Mr. Gamblin was an able accompanist.

[The Dublin notice in our last number, alluded to in a letter received during the past month, was inserted (with a few unimportant omissions) precisely as it was forwarded to us. We have now only to correct the name of the leader of the band, which it appears should be Levy, instead of Leary.—Ed. MUSICAL TIMES.]

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Nathaniel W. B. Collyer to the Chapel of the Worshipful Company of Mercers, London.—Mr. T. Groom Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Churches of Durweston and Bryanston Blandford, Dorset.—Mr. F. W. Lacey Organist and Choirmaster to St. Paul's Church, East Moulsey.—Mr. Rees & B. Evans Organist and Choirmaster to the Episcopal Church, Melrose, N.B.—Mr. W. B. Broad to Holy Trinity Church, Swansea.—Mr. H. Milligan Engall to Offord Road Congregational Church.—Mr. J. Carisbrooke Merrick to St. Stephen's, Wandsworth.—Mr. Lionel Mundy to St. Paul's, Nelson Street, Bermondsey.

CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. John Turner (Bass) to a Lay-Clerkship at Ely Cathedral.

In the Choir Appointments in the November number we erroneously described Mr. Henry J. Dutton as having been appointed Principal Alto to St. Paul's Cathedral. It should have been Alto.

OBITUARY.

On the 14th ult., at 26, Old Bond Street, CHRISTOPHER LONSDALE, of Arlaw Banks, Durham, in his 83rd year.

On the 24th ult., Mr. JAMES MOTT, Superintendent of Police, and father of Miss EMILY MOTT, in his 49th year.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

SCHUMANN, R.—Song for the New Year, for Chorus and Orchestra. Op. 144. The English version by the Rev. J. Troutbeck, M.A. 8vo. Paper covers, 1s.

WEBER, C. M. von.—The Jubilee Cantata (Harvest Cantata), Op. 58, for Solo Voices, Chorus, and Orchestra. Edited, and the Pianoforte Accompaniment revised, by Ebenezer Prout. The words translated from the German version of Wendt by the Rev. J. Troutbeck. 8vo. Paper covers, 1s.

MENDELSSOHN.—ELIJAH. Pianoforte Arrangement by Berthold Tours. 5s.

MENDELSSOHN.—Symphonies, complete. One Volume, cloth gilt. Solo, 12s. Duet, 15s.

BENNETT, SIR W. STERNDAL.—THE MAY QUEEN. Choruses only. 8vo. Paper covers, 1s.; paper boards, 1s. 6d.

MENDELSSOHN.—ELIJAH. Choruses only. 8vo. Paper covers, 1s. 6d.; paper boards, 2s.

FOX, GEORGE.—Carols for Christmastide, set to Music for Little Singers. 2s. 6d. For contents see p. 620.

BARRETT, E. R. (in Eb).—Te Deum laudamus (No. 35 of Novello's "Parish Choir Book"). 8vo. Vocal score, 3d.

GADSBY, HENRY (in C).—The Morning and Evening Service, together with the Office for the Holy Communion. 8vo, 2s., or, singly: Te Deum and Benedictus, 1s.; Kyrie, Credo, Sursum corda, Sancus, and Gloria in excelsis, 6d.; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, 6d.

STAINER, JOHN (in A and D).—The Morning and Evening Service, together with the Office for the Holy Communion, 8vo, 2s., or, singly: Te Deum, 4d.; Benedictus, 3d.; Kyrie (1 and 2), Credo, Offertory Sentences, Sancus, and Gloria in excelsis, 1s.; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, 6d.

WALKER, REV. CHARLES, M.A.—Missa Imperialis (Dumont). A Plain-song Service for the Mass, commonly called the Holy Communion. Post 8vo, 6d.

BARNBY, J.—"King, all glorious." A Motett for Solo and Chorus (Novello's 8vo Anthems, No. 179). Vocal score, 6d.

CARTER, WILLIAM.—"Repent ye, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand." Anthem for Advent. Vocal score, 8vo, 4d.

MILLER, C. E.—"I will go to the Altar." Short Full Anthem or Introit for four voices. Vocal score, 8vo, 4d. "O Lamb of God" (Agnus Dei), for Soprano Solo and Chorus. Vocal score, 8vo, 6d. "O Saving Victim" (O Salutaris), for Soprano Solo and Chorus. Vocal score, 8vo, 4d.

NOVELLO'S Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 82, 14d.—"O how amiable are Thy dwellings" (Richardson); "Incline Thine ear to me" (Himmel).

ANDERSON, ROBERT.—Songs of Zion. Vol. II., cloth, 4s. Vols. I. and II. bound together in cloth. Part XII., 6d.

CORNWALL, CHANNON.—Songs of the Church. Favourite Hymns set to Music, chiefly by Modern Composers. 8vo. Part VIII., 4d.

DUNCOMBE, Rev. W. D. V.—"A Carol of the Three Kings," for Epiphany. 8vo, 6d.

—"BLEST LITTLE MARTYRS." Carol for Innocents' Day. Words by "Ignoto." 8vo, 3d.

NEWMAN, RICHARD S.—Twelve Hymns set to Music. 8vo, 1s.

BACH CHOIR MAGAZINE.—Select Vocal Part-Music of various Schools. Edited by Otto Goldschmidt. Nos. 6a and 6b, the Benedictus and Agnus Dei, from Palestrina's "Missa Papæ Marcelli," 8vo, 6d. No. 7, Magnificat for Eight Voices, by Giovanni Gabrieli, 8vo, 6d. No. 8, "Now shall the grace," double Chorus by Bach, 8vo, 8d.

SPOHR.—"Jesus, Heavenly Master." Trio from "Calvary." (Novello's 8vo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female voices). 8vo, 2d.

SCHUBERT, F.—Hunting Chorus, "How merry is life" (Rosamunde). Novello's Opera Choruses, No. 89. 2d.

RIGHTON, J. H.—The United Services College Part-song Book. No. 1, "The Fairy Chase," 8vo, 4d. No. 2, "Griselidis," 8vo, 4d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH (Continued).

BARNBY, J.—"Elizabeth's Song." Words by Charles Kingsley. 2s.COLBORNE, LANGDON, Mus. Bac., Cantab.—"An old Familiar Strain." Song. Words by L. M. Thornton. 1s.DAVIS, GABRIEL.—"The coming Year." Song. Words by Dean Alford. 2s.FIELD, J. MATTHIAS.—"No tidings." Song. The words written by Jane C. Simpson. 2s.TURNER, AUSTIN T.—"The Lord is my Shepherd." Sacred solo for Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano. 1s. 6d.
—"EARLY IN THE MORNING." A sacred Duet for Contralto and Tenor. 2s.FOX, J. MAKINSON.—Waltz, the "Scale Force," with Introduction and Finale, for the Pianoforte. 2s. 6d.GREATHEED, REV. S. S.—Quam dilecta. Hymn Melody, composed by the Rt. Rev. H. L. Jenner. Varied for the Organ. 1s.OUSELEY, REV. SIR F. A. GORE.—Eighteen Preludes and Fugues for the Organ. 15s.WESTBROOK, W. J.—The Young Organist. Vol. II. Cloth, 10s. 6d.

REDUCED PRICE, ONE SHILLING.

A

MANUAL OF SINGING

FOR THE USE OF

Choir-Trainers and Schoolmasters

BY RICHARD MANN.

NEW AND REVISED EDITION, WITH ADDITIONS, BY

DR. STAINER.

This work offers to the clergy and other amateur choir-trainers a systematic and simple course of instruction, by which they may teach their pupils to read music at sight in a comparatively short time.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S POCKET EDITION.

HANDEL'S
MESSIAH.

ONE SHILLING.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

8vo, price 6d.

COMMUNION SERVICE

SET TO MUSIC IN C MAJOR EXPRESSLY FOR PARISH CHOIRS,

And containing ten settings of the Kyrie, Gloria, and Gratia; two of the Sanctus, and settings of the Agnus Dei, Benedictus, and Pater noster. By

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

This Service can be sung in unison if preferred.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

CASES for binding the numbers for the present year, Volume XVIII., will be ready on JANUARY 1, and may be had of all Musicsellers in town or country. Price 1s. 6d.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MR. WELBYE-WALLACE will sing in MACFARREN'S New Oratorio "JOSEPH," at the performance given by the Brixton Choral Society, December 17th.

NEW SONG.—"A MESSAGE FROM MY LADY FAIR." Composed expressly for MR. WELBYE-WALLACE, by IGNACE GIBSONE. (Just published.) Hutchings and Romer, 9, Conduit Street, W.

"A MESSAGE FROM MY LADY FAIR" is a pretty melodious song; the words by Enderssohn, much above the average, and the setting extremely appropriate.—Kensington News, Nov. 17.

"THE NEW SONG by IGNACE GIBSONE, 'A MESSAGE FROM MY LADY FAIR,' Mr. Wallace sang in exceedingly good style. It is a very pleasant piece, and is a good English ballad."—Stafford Chronicle, Oct. 27.

"AT THE BOW AND BROMLEY INSTITUTE," on Saturday last (Nov. 17), MR. WELBYE-WALLACE was the vocalist, giving among other popular songs MR. IGNACE GIBSONE'S "A Message from my Lady fair," in which he was rapturously encored.—Musical World, Nov. 24.

MR. CH. J. BISHENDEN will sing "Nancy Lee," "Village Blacksmith," "The Wolf," and two duets, at LANGHAM HALL, December 4th; "Good Night," "Farewell," and "Jack's Yarn," for the Schubert Society, Cavendish Square, London, W., December 19th. 20, Duke Street, Portland Place, W.

THE "BACH QUARTETT" (vocal) can be engaged for Concerts, Dinners, Musical Entertainments, Evening Parties, &c. For terms, apply to MR. G. BLYTHE, 176, Cold Harbour Lane, S.E.

ST. JOHN'S, Fulham.—A LEADING SOPRANO WANTED for the voluntary Choir of this Church. Two services on Sunday, and a practice on Friday evening. Salary, £10. Address, W. H. TREFFRY, Esq., 9, Ashburnham Road, Chelsea, S.W.

ST. GEORGE'S, HANOVER SQUARE. There are VACANCIES for SOPRANO, TENOR, and BASS in the Choir of the above Church. Stipend, £10. Two services on Sundays and the great festivals, and one weekly practice. Must be communicants. Applications to be sent to W. PINNEY, Mus. Bac., the Vestry, Mill Street, W.

A LADY, experienced Musician, good Reader, powerful voice, requires an ENGAGEMENT in a Church Choir. M. S., 50, St. Paul's Crescent, Camden Square, N.W.

ALTO VOICE REQUIRED for Holy Trinity Church, Bishop's Road, Paddington. Choir surpliced. Service choral. Salary, £15 per annum. Apply to Organist, Thursday evening, 7 to 8 o'clock. Vacancies for Volunteers also, Alto, Tenor, and Bass: must be good readers.

WANTED, for the Voluntary Choir of St. Mary's Church, Haggerston, additional ALTO and BASS VOICES. Surpliced choir. Cathedral service. Apply by letter to MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST, 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, or personally after the services.

TENOR WANTED. S.E. district. Surpliced choir. Stipend, Ten Guineas. Two Sunday services and rehearsal. Address, Tenor, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street.

TENOR (Communicant) WANTED, to Lead and possibly Train a London Church Choir. Gregorian Psalter. State terms to Delta, care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. HORACE BUTTERY, late Director of the Choir and Organist of St. Mary, Boltons, West Brompton, having resigned those appointments, held for over twelve years, is now open to a similar ENGAGEMENT. Address, 173, Piccadilly, W.

AN experienced ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER at liberty. Able Soloist and Accompanist. Communicant. Address, W. H. BARRETT, 62, Adam Street, Cardiff.

ORGANIST'S APPOINTMENT WANTED by Advertiser, in suburbs of London. Moderate salary. Apply to "Assistant," care of MR. CHARLES JOSEPH FROST, Mus. Bac., 73, Farleigh Road, Stoke Newington, N.

WANTED, an ORGANIST for New Park Road Chapel, Brixton Hill (Baptist). Two services on Sunday and one on Wednesday evening (short), followed by an hour's practice. Must be prepared to co-operate with a choir-master. Please state terms expected, and reply to Rev. D. JONES, B.A., 37, Upper Tulse Hill, S.W.

WANTED, an efficient ORGANIST and CHOIR-TRAINER. Salary up to £50 per annum, according to qualifications. Apply to the Vicar, St. Thomas's Church, Southborough, Tunbridge Wells.

WANTED, in February, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, for Stansted Mountfitchet Church, Essex. Modern organ, two manuals. Address, Rev. T. G. Luard, Stansted Vicarage, Bishop Stortford.

WANTED, an experienced Young Lady, for a MUSIC WAREHOUSE in the Country. Must play the pianoforte well, good reader at sight, assist at the counter, books, letters, and teaching; good character indispensable. The appointment will be a permanent one; home comforts. Apply at once, personally, stating terms, experience, and references, to G. L. B., 49, Tottenham Street, Tottenham Court Road.

A YOUTH, aged 16, desires a SITUATION in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Plays fairly. References to Music Master. Indoors preferred. Address, Music, Post Office, Chigwell Road, Essex.

MUSIC TRADE.—A SALESMAN requires a SITUATION. Experienced performer on pianoforte and harmonium. Good reader of music, and accustomed to book-keeping. Highest references as to character and abilities. Address, P. T. H., Messrs. Novello, Ever and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

ORGAN BUILDERS.—WANTED immediately, a good TUNER. Permanent employment. Allen and Co., Phippen Street, Bristol.

A N experienced TUNER from Broadwood's desires EMPLOYMENT a few days a week in town. Accordion, 46, College Place, Camden Town.

PIANOFORTE TUNER open to ENGAGEMENT. A steady, respectable man. G. L., 38A, Granville Square, King's Cross Road.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED for country work. Must travel. One who can drive a trap preferred. Situation permanent to suitable party. Apply, O. P., Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, London.

PIANO TUNER and REPAIRER WANTED, for the country. Permanent situation to proper party. Apply, N. O., Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, London.

THE STUDENT'S ORGAN, with pedals designed and built expressly for professors and organ students. Price 25 guineas. R. BROWN and SON, Steam Organ Factory, 324, Kennington Road, London. Inclose stamp for description.

TO PIANOFORTE DEALERS, MUSIC-SELLERS, and Others. About 200 New and Secondhand PIANOFORTES and HARMONIUMS, all kinds, for SALE at CASSINI'S, 319, Goswell Road, Islington. The Cheapest House in the Trade.

ORGAN, Church or Chamber, in first-rate order, built by FOSTER and ANDREWS, for private practice of a celebrated organist. Two manuals, CC to A; 7 stops great, 6 swell, and 2 on pedals, with usual appliances; handsome case and speaking front pipes. For terms and specification, address, W. R. Pemberton, New Ferry, Birkenhead.

CABINET ORGAN for SALE, 2 octaves, pedals and stool. Price £22. To be seen at 110, Lancaster Road, Notting Hill, W.

ORGAN METAL PIPES, ORGAN PIPES.—J. GILDERSLEEVE is prepared to supply every description of Organ Pipes, voiced or unvoiced, on reasonable terms. Organ-Pipe Works, 7, Exeter Street, Hawley Road, Kentish Town, London, N.W.

NICHOLAS AMATI VIOLONCELLO, of guaranteed authenticity, in splendid preservation, for SALE, cheap. Date, 1680. Flat model. Superb varnish and wood, and exquisite tone. Address, Amati, No. 11, Trigon Terrace, Claylands Road, Clapham Road, S.

Now ready. Tenth Thousand. Price 9d.

TIME and TUNE, a Book for all Singers. By T. REES EVANS.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW PART-SONGS BY J. H. RIGHTON.

No. 1. THE FAIRY CHASE. S.A.T.B.

„ 2. GRISÉLIDIS (Old French). S.A.T.B.

The practice of singing in French being so great a help to articulation and in fixing pronunciation and accent, it cannot be too highly recommended.

Each, Fourpence.

SONGS.

WHILE MY LADY SLEEPETH. (Serenade.)

THE SHIELD and SWORD. (Sacred Song, with Violin ad lib.)

Each, Four Shillings.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO, EWER and CO.'S

LIST OF WORKS

Suitable for Christmas Presents AND SCHOOL PRIZES.

	NET PRICES S. D.
CHRISTMAS CAROLS—NEW and OLD. Words edited by the Rev. H. R. BRAMLEY. Music edited by Dr. STAINER. Beautifully illustrated and elegantly bound, gilt edges	7 6
THE SUNLIGHT OF SONG. A Collection of Sacred and Moral Songs, with original Music by the most Eminent English Composers. With 46 illustrations. Handsomely bound	10 6
SACRED SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS. Words by FRANCES RIDLEY HAVERGAL. Music composed and arranged by ALBERTO RANDEGGER. Illustrated and elegantly bound, gilt edges	5 0
NATIONAL NURSERY RHYMES and SONGS. Set to Music by J. W. ELLIOTT. With 65 illustrations. Elegantly bound, gilt edges	7 6
MENDELSSOHN'S LIEDER OHNE WORTE. The only complete Edition, containing Books 7 and 8. Elegantly bound. Folio	12 0
MENDELSSOHN'S LIEDER OHNE WORTE. The only complete Edition, containing Books 7 and 8. Octavo. Paper covers, 4s. Cloth, gilt	6 0
BEETHOVEN'S SONATAS. New and complete Edition. Edited and fingered by AGNES ZIMMERMANN. Handsomely bound in cloth. Folio	21 0
BEETHOVEN'S SONATAS. New and complete Edition. Edited and fingered by AGNES ZIMMERMANN. Octavo. Paper covers, 5s. Cloth, gilt.	7 6
MOZART'S SONATAS. New and complete Edition. Edited and fingered by AGNES ZIMMERMANN. Handsomely bound in cloth. Folio	18 0
SCHUMANN'S SONGS. Volume I., containing Op. 24, 25, 27, and 30. Edited and in part translated by NATALIA MACFARREN. Bound in cloth, gilt edges. Folio	10 6
SCHUMANN'S VOCAL ALBUM. Containing 30 of his most celebrated Songs. Octavo. Paper covers, 2s. 6d. Cloth, gilt	4 6
SCHUMANN'S PIANOFORTE ALBUM. New Edition. Containing 13 additional pieces (56 pieces in all). Octavo. Paper covers, 2s. 6d. Cloth, gilt	4 6

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Ready very shortly, fcap. 8vo.

A HISTORY OF MUSIC

FROM THE EARLIEST TIMES TO THE PRESENT.

Adapted for students. With Tables of Musicians and Musical Events, copious Indexes, and Examination Questions. By H. G. BONAVIA HUNT, Mus. B., Oxon, Warden of Trinity College, London; Lecturer on Musical History.

London: GEORGE BELL and SONS, York Street, Covent Garden.

Just published, price 2s. net.

NEW SONG,

THE COMING YEAR

WORDS BY DEAN ALFORD

MUSIC BY GABRIEL DAVIS.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"It would be difficult to find words better suited to musical treatment than those by the late Dean of Canterbury. Mrs. Davis has evidently studied them well, and shown considerable merit."—Orchestra.

"First in the rank is 'The Coming Year,' the touching words by Dean Alford, the appropriate music by Gabriel Davis."—Graphic.
The beautiful words of this song were written shortly before the death of the late lamented Dean of Canterbury.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

AN ENGLISHMAN'S SONG FOR CHRISTMAS,

"WE MAY NEVER HAVE THE CHANCE AGAIN."

A Song and Chorus by F. MARSHALL WARD, with a New Version, written expressly by HARRY HUNTER.

"Suitable for both public and private performance, and, whether sung in the concert hall or the home circle, will be sure to win a hearty reception from a British audience."

Post-free for eighteen stamps.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners Street, W.

NEW MUSIC IN "THE CHOIR."

COMMENCING JANUARY 1877.

EVENING SONG. S.A.T.B. ...	G. B. ALLEN ... 1½d.
AWAKE! THE DAYLIGHT
SWEETLY FALLS. S.A.T.B.	W. BORROW ... 1½d.
MUSIC OF THE PAST. S.A.T.B.
Words by ARTHUR CECIL ...	ALFRED CELLIER ... 1½d.
PACK, CLOUDS, AWAY. S.A.T.B. ...	" ... 1½d.
WAKE THEN, O DARLING. S.A.T.B.	" ... 1½d.
GENTLY BLOWS THE WESTERN
GALE	HAMILTON CLARKE 1½d.
IF YE KEEP MY COMMANDMENTS.
Full Anthem	" ... 1½d.
I WILL LOVE THEE, O LORD. Full
Anthem. S.A.T.B.	" ... 1½d.
SO WHEN THIS CORRUPTIBLE.	" ... 1½d.
Anthem for Lent ...	" ... 1½d.
WHEN IN SADNESS PINES THE
HEART	" ... 1½d.
WHEN THOU WITH "REBUKES.
Anthem. S.A.T.B. ...	" ... 1½d.
MAY DAY. S.A.T.B. ...	JAMES COWARD ... 1½d.
EVENING STAR. S.A.T.B. ...	IGNACE GIBSON ... 1½d.
HYMN TO THE NIGHT. S.A.T.B. ...	" ... 1½d.
YE ZEPHYRS. S.A.T.B. ...	" ... 1½d.
HEAR MY PRAYER, O LORD. Anthem. For two Sopranos, two Tenors, and Bass. Adapted by R. REDHEAD ...	C. GOUNOD ... 3d.
THE LORD WAKED AS ONE OUT
OF SLEEP. Anthem for Easter ...	J. L. HATTON ... 3d.
A LOVER'S SONG. S.A.T.B. ...	" ... 1½d.
DRIVING BEFORE THE GALE.
S.A.T.B.	" ... 1½d.
IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE
WORD	" ... 3d.
OUT OF THE DEEP. Anthem for
Treble Solo and Chorus	C. SWINNERTON HEAP 1½d.
BENEDICITE, OMNIA OPERA. Canticle. Set to three Gregorian Chants, for Unison singing, especially designed for Harvest Festivals
THEY THAT WAIT UPON THEE,
LORD. Chorus from the oratorio,
The Captivity	Rev. H. HOUSMAN 1½d.
IN THE EARLY MORNING. May
Day Chorus. For Boys' Voices	FRANCES HOWELL 1½d.
PEACE TO THE HERO'S SLEEP.
S.A.T.B.	Rev. E. HUSBAND 1½d.
WHO KNOWS WHAT THE BELLS
SAY? S.A.T.B. ...	HENRY PARKER ... 1½d.
GOOD NIGHT. Part-Song	" ... 1½d.
IN AN ARBOUR GREEN. S.A.T.B. ...	SAMUEL REAY ... 1½d.
FLY, NIGHT, AWAY	" ... 1½d.
BRING THE FAIREST FLOWERS.	" ... 1½d.
Words by F. ENOCH. S.A.T.B.	HENRY SMART ... 1½d.
MY LOVE I SEE IN ALL THE
FLOWERS. S.A.T.B. ...	" ... 1½d.
SPRING'S ADVANCING. S.A.T.B. ...	" ... 1½d.
SUNRISE O'er THE SEA	" ... 1½d.
THE DAY HATH SPUN ITS BUSY
ROUND. S.A.T.B. ...	" ... 1½d.
THE NORTHERN STAR. S.A.T.B. ...	" ... 1½d.
THE TWO HAPPY FACES. S.A.T.B.	" ... 1½d.
THE FIRST RAINBOW. Sacred Part-
Song ...	" ... 1½d.
FOR LOVE'S SWEET SAKE. S.A.T.B.	" ... 1½d.
SING TO THE MAIDENS. S.A.T.B.	" ... 1½d.
CORN RIGS AND BARLEY RIGS.
Old Scotch Air. Words by BURNS.
For Alto, two Tenors, and Bass	WILLIAM SPARK ... 1½d.
HOLY, HOLY. Short Anthem for Male
Voices. Especially suitable for Trinity
Sunday	" ... 1½d.
O' A' THE AIRTS THE WIND CAN
BLAW. Arranged for Three Voices...	" ... 1½d.
LOGIE O' BUCHAN. S.A.T.B. Harmonised by ...	" ... 1½d.

RAFF'S SUITE. Op. 204. B♭ major.

No. 1. Prelude ...	Price 4s.	No. 4. Menuet ...	Price 2s.
" 2. Sarabande ...	" 2s.	" 5. Air ...	" 2s.
" 3. Rigaudon ...	" 3s.	" 6. Tambourin ...	" 3s.

Price, Complete, 6s. net.

WILLIAM SMALLWOOD.—NEW PIECES for the PIANOFORTE, suitable for teaching. Beautifully illustrated.

Avetlette ...	Price 3s.	Gowan Gem ...	Price 3s.
Fairy Dreams ...	" 3s.	Fairy Isle ...	" 3s.
Flow'et Bells ...	" 3s.	Echoes of the Vale ...	" 3s.

METZLER & CO.'S

CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS, CAROLS,

ETC.

HOSANNA TO THE SON OF DAVID	J. L. HATTON ... 2d.
LET US NOW GO EVEN UNTO
BETHLEHEM ...	" ... 2d.
ALL THE ENDS OF THE WORLD ...	" ... 2d.
BLESSED IS HE THAT COMETH IN
THE NAME OF THE LORD ...	" ... 3d.
NOW WHEN JESUS WAS BORN...	" ... 2d.
IN THE DAYS OF HEROD THE KING...	" ... 2d.

A NEW CHRISTMAS CAROL. By ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

UPON THE SNOW-CLAD EARTH ... 3d.

FOUR CHRISTMAS CAROLS. Arranged for Four Voices. Words by F. G. LEE, D.C.L. Music by W. BORROW.

- No. 1. JOSEPH DOWN A-KNEELING.
" 2. IN THE EARLY MORNING.
" 3. LOWLY IN THE BETHLEHEM MANGER.
" 4. SLOWLY FALL THE SNOW-FLAKES.
Price 2d. each, or complete, price 9d.

METZLER & CO.'S CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

New and old. In handsome wrapper, red edges, price 1s.

BETHLEHEM. The Shepherds' Nativity Hymn.
CH. GOUNOD. For the use of Choirs. Price 3d. Words only, 4s. per 100.PENNY PART-SONGS. Arranged for Four Voices (Soprano, Alto, Tenor, and Bass), by EDWARD F.
RIMBAULT.

Ring the bell, watchman	Kelvin Grove
Rock me to sleep, mother	The keel row
Lulu is our darling pride	Bonnie Dundee
The hazel dell	The Lass o' Gowrie
Watching for pa	Call'er herrin'
Some folks	March of the men of Harlech
Hark! the herald Angels sing,	Dulce Domum
and Christians, awake	Has sorrow thy young days
Hail, Columbia	shaded?
Star-spangled banner	The young May moon
The Marseillaise	Rich and rare were the gems she
The Watch on the Rhine	wore
The German Fatherland	Last rose of summer
The German Rhine	Farewell! but whenever you wel-
Just before the battle	come the hour
Just after the battle	Love's young dream
Rule, Britannia	Believe me, if all those endearing
The tight little island	young charms
You gentlemen of England	The harp that once through Tara's
The red, white, and blue	halls
Heart of oak	The minstrel boy
British Grenadiers	Chorus of Musketeers
The Bay of Biscay	The old, old song
Annie Laurie	Bells of Aberdovey
God save the Queen	See our oars with feathered spray
The Campbells are comin'	Oh! lady fair
Scots 'ha hae wi' Wallace bled	The wreath
Within a mile o' Edinbro' town	Cherry ripe
Eulalie	Hail! smiling morn
Lillie Dale	Russian National Anthem
Annie of the Vale	Russian Bridal Song
Under the willow she's sleeping	Love will find out the way
Toll the bell	To all you ladies
When Johnny comes marching	My love is but a lassie
home	The Blue Bells of Scotland
Jessie, the flower of Dumblane	Drink to me only
Comin' through the rye	Dame Durden
Home, sweet home	Here's to the maiden

ARRANGED BY G. A. MACFARREN.

A place in thy memory
Row gently here, my gondolier
Drive the cold winter away
The meeting of the waters

Auld lang syne
Ye banks and braes
Silent, O Moyle

LONDON:

METZLER & CO., 37, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET (W.)

ANTHEMS FOR CHRISTMAS.

ALLEN, G. B.—IN THE BEGINNING	s. d.
BARNBY, J.—THE GRACE OF GOD THAT BRINGETH SALVATION	0 1½
— SING AND REJOICE	0 1½
— BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS	0 3
CROCE, GIOVANNI.—BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GLAD TIDINGS	0 1½
ELVEY, SIR GEO.—ARISE, SHINE, FOR THY LIGHT IS COME	0 1½
GADSBY, H.—SING, O DAUGHTER OF ZION	0 1½
GOSS, SIR J.—BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS	0 1½
GOUNOD, CH.—O SING TO GOD (Noël)	0 6
HOPKINS, E. J.—LET US NOW GO EVEN UNTO BETHLEHEM	0 1½
MACFARREN, G. A.—FOR UNTO US WAS BORN	0 6
— WHILE ALL THINGS WERE IN QUIET SILENCE MAR, THE EARL OF.—BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD OF ISRAEL	0 1½
MENDELSSOHN.—REJOICE, O YE PEOPLE	0 1½
MONK, W. H.—HALLELUJAH! FOR UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN	0 1½
NOVELLO, V.—SING UNTO THE LORD	0 1½
PERGOLESI.—GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST	0 1½
PRENTICE, T. RIDLEY.—BREAK FORTH INTO JOY	0 6
SMITH, C. W.—BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GLAD TIDINGS	0 1½
SILAS, E.—THE LIGHT HATH SHINED	0 1½
STAINER, DR.—THE MORNING STARS SANG TOGETHER	0 6
— O ZION, THAT BRINGEST GOOD TIDINGS	0 1½
SMART, H.—THE ANGEL GABRIEL WAS SENT FROM GOD	0 1½
THORNE, E. H.—IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE WORD	0 1½
TURLE, J.—THIS IS THE DAY WHICH THE LORD HATH MADE	0 3
VERRINDER, C. G.—THE LIGHT HATH SHINED	0 1½
VITTORIA.—BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GLAD TIDINGS	0 1½
WESLEY, DR. S.—BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD OF ISRAEL	0 1½
— GLORY BE TO GOD ON HIGH	0 2

Most of the above may be had in Folio, Vocal Score, and Vocal Parts.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TEN HYMNS WITH TUNES

FOR CHRISTMAS

SELECTED FROM "THE HYMNARY."

Price One Penny.

O COME, ALL YE FAITHFUL	Old Melody.
APPROACH, ALL YE FAITHFUL	J. BARNBY.
CHRISTIANS, AWAKE	SIR JOHN GOSS.
HARK, THE HOSTS OF HEAVEN ARE SINGING	HENRY SMART.
O COME, NEW ANTHEMS LET US SING	H. J. GAUNTLETT.
HARK, THE HEAVEN'S SWEET MELODY	SIR J. GOSS.
O COME, LOUD ANTHEMS LET US SING	S. S. WESLEY.
CHRIST IS BORN; TELL FORTH HIS FAME	CH. GOUNOD.
COME, YE NATIONS, THANKFUL OWN... ..	SIR G. ELVEY.
HARK! THE HERALD ANGELS SING	MENDELSSOHN.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS DAY.

BLESSED IS HE THAT COMETH IN THE NAME OF THE LORD. Short and easy. 8vo, price 3d. Composed by J. J. SIMPSON.

"Skillfully constructed, and characterised with devotional feeling."—News of the World. "Tuneful, and well within the reach of an ordinary church choir."—Bristol Mercury. "Good, and very suitable for small choirs."—Church Review.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Also,

BOW DOWN THINE EAR, O LORD. For Soprano Solo, Quartet, and Chorus. Folio, price 8d. post-free. To be had of the Composer, Stayley House Coronation Road, Bristol.

FOR CHRISTMAS.

O SING TO GOD

(NOËL),

FOR FEMALE VOICES

(Soli and Chorus).

Words by the Rev. B. WEBB.

MUSIC BY

CH. GOUNOD.

Octavo, 6d.; Folio, 2s. 6d.; separate Vocal Parts, 4d.; Orchestral Parts, 8s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE

CHRISTMAS ORATORIO

BY

JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH.

THE ENGLISH TRANSLATION AND ADAPTATION BY THE

REV. J. TROUTBECK, M.A.

	s. d.
Paper covers	3 0
Paper boards	3 6
Cloth gilt	5 0

Chorus parts, 8vo, 1s. 6d. each.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FOR CHRISTMAS.

NEW CAROL.

LO! A STAR, YE SAGES HOARY

Words by SAMUEL K. COWAN, Esq.

MUSIC BY

WALTER NEWPORT.

Price Threepence.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now ready, 248 pages, cloth lettered, red edges, 4s.

CAROLS FOR USE IN CHURCH DURING CHRISTMAS AND EPIPHANY. By R. R. CHOPE, M.A., Vicar of S. Augustine's, South Kensington, &c. The Music edited by HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster. With an introduction by S. BARING-GOULD, M.A., Rector of East Mersea, Author of "The Lives of the Saints," &c. In this work there are Carols for Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, S. Stephen, S. John, Holy Innocents, New Year's Eve, New Year's Day, Circumcision, Epiphany, Sundays after Epiphany, Conversion of S. Paul, Purification of B.V.M. The Traditional Carols are from different counties and countries—the modern by well-known authors.

"The Epiphany Carols are a noticeable feature in the book, and give it a special value. Mr. Choape has done a real service by the publication of this book."—Guardian.

"Bids fair to become as popular as his former work."—Morning Post.

"By far the best and most copious collection of carols. We earnestly recommend it."—Literary Churchman.

"A real treasure—an admirable book."—John Bull.

"The best and most copious by far."—The Choir.

"A book of genuine musical interest, fitted for popular and congregational use."—English Churchman.

"We welcome with great pleasure Mr. Choape's 'Carols for Use in Church during Christmas and Epiphany.' The music is most carefully edited by Mr. Herbert Stephen Irons, who has introduced some original melodies; and there is a learned and interesting historical essay by Mr. Baring-Gould. This book should be found at all Christmas choir festivals. Well adapted for the Church services."—Saturday Review.

Applications for grants of Carols, Music, or Words should be made to the Rev. R. R. CHOPE, Wilton House, Hereford Square, South Kensington.

	s. d.
A. Cloth, gilt lettered	4 0
B. Suitable for presents in handsome binding designed by Mr. Butterfield	7 6
C. Words only, in paper covers	0 6
D. Words only, cloth, gilt lettered	1 0
E. TREBLE PART, in paper covers	1 0
F. Ditto, cloth, gilt lettered	1 6

London: METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough Street; NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

NEW AND OLD.

THE WORDS EDITED BY THE

REV. HENRY RAMSDEN BRAMLEY, M.A.

THE MUSIC EDITED BY

JOHN STAINER, M.A., Mus. Doc.

	s.	d.
FIRST SERIES, paper covers	1	6
" " cloth gilt	2	6
SECOND SERIES, paper covers	1	6
" " cloth gilt	2	6
FIRST AND SECOND SERIES COMPLETE, cloth gilt	4	0
THE WORDS ONLY, FIRST AND SECOND SERIES,
each	0	1½

Each Carol published separately, One Penny each.

ILLUSTRATED EDITION, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt, 7 6

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A SELECTION OF

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

FROM THE COLLECTION EDITED BY THE

REV. H. R. BRAMLEY AND DR. STAINER,

ARRANGED FOR

MEN'S VOICES.

The growing use of Carols as open-air music on winter nights, when soprano voices, either of boys or women, are not easily obtained, has suggested the issue of the above, which includes twenty-four of the most popular Carols, old and new.

CONTENTS.

I. A Virgin unspotted	Traditional.
II. The Manger Throne	C. Steggall, Mus.D.
III. Sleep, holy Babe	Rev. J. B. Dykes, M.A., Mus.D.
IV. Good Christian men, rejoice	Old German.
V. 'Twas in the winter cold	J. Barnby.
VI. Good King Wenceslas	Helmore's Carols.
VII. Come! ye lofty	Sir George Elvey, Mus.D.
VIII. God rest you, merry gentlemen	Traditional.
IX. Listen, lordings	Sir Fred. A. G. Ouseley.
X. The first Nowell	Traditional.
XI. When Christ was born	Arthur H. Brown.
XII. Jesu, hail!	J. Stainer, M.A., Mus.D.
XIII. The seven joys of Mary	Traditional.
XIV. What Child is this	Old English.
XV. The moon shone bright	Traditional.
XVI. The Virgin and Child	C. Steggall, Mus.D.
XVII. The holly and the ivy	Old French.
XVIII. The Lord at first	Traditional.
XIX. The Incarnation	Traditional.
XX. The Cherry-tree Carol	Traditional.
XXI. A Cradle-song of the Blessed Virgin	J. Barnby.
XXII. Jacob's Ladder	Traditional.
XXIII. Dives and Lazarus	Traditional.
XXIV. The Wassail Song	Traditional.

Price, complete, Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

WHILE SHEPHERDS (Old Cornish Carol)	2d.
CHRISTIANS, BE THANKFUL	3d.
ALL MY HEART THIS NIGHT REJOICES	6d.

By the Rev. V. W. POPHAM.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

TWENTY-ONE CAROLS FOR ONE PENNY.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

MUSIC AND WORDS.

A SELECTION OF TWENTY-ONE CAROLS AND HYMNS FOR CHRISTMASTIDE,

With Music arranged for Four Voices by W. H. ESSEX, Organist. SUITED FOR CONGREGATIONAL, SCHOOL, & HOME USE.

May be had either in the Tonic Sol-fa or the Old Notation.

PRICE ONE PENNY EACH.

London: 56, PATERNOSTER ROW, AND OF ALL BOOKSELLERS.

NAZARETH:

A SACRED SONG

With Accompaniment for Pianoforte, Harmonium, and Chorus in unison ad lib.

WORDS BY

MUSIC BY

HENRY F. CHORLEY. CHARLES GOUNOD.

No. 1, in F, for Tenor or Soprano	4s.
2, in E flat, for Baritone	4s.
3, in C, for Bass	4s.
4, in E flat, for Mezzo-Soprano or Contralto	4s.
5, in D, for Bass	4s.

CHORUS PARTS (in Unison), separate, each, net, 2d.

WORDS AND MELODY,

Without Accompaniment (in 8vo).

No. 1, in F, for Tenor or Soprano	net	2d.
2 and 4, in E flat, for Baritone or Mezzo-Soprano	"	2d.
3, in C, for Bass	"	2d.
5, in D, for Contralto or Bass	"	2d.

Adapted for a

CHORUS FOR SOPRANO, CONTRALTO, TENOR & BASS, With Accompaniment for Organ or Piano, by

W. J. WESTBROOK.

In 8vo Score	2s.	Set of Parts	2s.
Separate Vocal Parts	each	6d.

ARRANGED FOR FOUR VOICES, without Accompaniment, by

W. J. WESTBROOK.

In 8vo net 4d.

FOR BARITONE OR CONTRALTO (in E flat),

With Accompaniment of Orchestra.

Score	6s.	Parts	7s. 6d.
--------------	-----	--------------	---------

WORDS ONLY (in small 8vo).

Lists of Arrangements to be had, post-free, on application to the Publishers.

SCHOTT and Co., 159, Regent Street, W., London.

"THERE CAME A LITTLE CHILD TO EARTH." Christmas Carol. Set to music by ROBERT BROWN-BORTHWICK, Vicar of All Saints', Scarborough. Price 3d. Reduction for orders of not less than twelve copies. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROL—"ALL MY HEART THIS NIGHT REJOICES." By the Rev. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK. 8vo, price 3d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROL.

I HEAR ALONG OUR STREET. Carol for Six Voices. From the Noei Bourguignon de gui Barzai. Translated by H. W. LONGFELLOW; the music by E. SILAS. Octavo, 4d.; folio, 1s. 6d. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SIMPLE CAROLLERS ARE WE. Carol for Christmastide. Words by J. P. DOUGLAS. Music by J. B. BOUCHER. Price 2d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROL—"CHIME ON, CHIME ON, O BONNIE BELLS," for Four Voices. The words written by Mrs. HAMMOND ("Marion"); the music by J. L. HATTON. 8vo, 4d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHRISTMAS CARDS.

CHRISTMAS WISHES AND PROMISES FOR THE NEW YEAR. A Packet of Twelve Cards, beautifully printed in colours by Messrs. Dupuy and Co., of Paris. 1s. the packet.

PRESENTATION CARDS. Cabinet Series. Two Packets of elegant designs in the best style of Chromo-Lithography. 1s. 6d. per packet, containing six cards. Packets C and D, for Christmas; packets A and B, for Birthdays, &c.

CHEERY CHIMES FOR CHRISTMAS AND THE NEW YEAR. A Packet of Twelve Picture Cards engraved on Steel, and printed in colours in a superior style. Twelve different cards. 1s. the packet.

HOLLY BERRIES. A Packet of Cards for Christmas and the New Year. Beautifully printed in colours. 6d. the packet.

AUNT MARY'S PACKET FOR CHRISTMAS AND THE NEW YEAR. A Packet of Twelve Picture Cards. 9d. the packet.

UNCLE HENRY'S PACKET FOR CHRISTMAS AND THE NEW YEAR. A Packet of Twelve Picture Cards. 9d. per packet.

GREETINGS FOR CHRISTMAS AND THE NEW YEAR. A Packet of Six richly Coloured Designs. 6d. the packet.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS AND NEW YEAR'S WISHES. Twelve Coloured Cards. 9d. per packet.

MOTTOES AND VERSES FOR CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR. 4d. per packet.

THE RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY.

London: 56, Paternoster Row; and of all Booksellers.

NOW READY.

CAROLS FOR CHRISTMASTIDE

SET TO MUSIC FOR LITTLE SINGERS
BY GEORGE FOX.

ILLUSTRATED TITLE AND COVER.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

CONTENTS.

- No.
1. GOOD KING WENCESLAS.
 2. I HEAR ALONG OUR STREET.
 3. BRIGHTLY SHONE THE EASTERN STAR.
 4. AS JOSEPH WAS A-WALKING.
 5. HARK! WHAT MEAN THOSE HOLY VOICES.
 6. THE HOLY WELL.
 7. WHILE SHEPHERDS WATCHED.
 8. GOD REST YOU, MERRY GENTLEMEN.
 9. HARK! HOW SWEETLY THE BELLS.
 10. A LITTLE ROBIN.
 11. AS I SAT ON A SUNNY BANK.
 12. WHY IN TONES SO SWEET AND TENDER.
 13. THE MOON SHONE BRIGHT.
 14. ALL YOU THAT IN THIS HOUSE.
 15. CLEARLY IN THE EAST IT SHONE.
 16. SHEPHERDS AT THE GRANGE.
 17. THESE GOOD PEOPLE.
 18. NUNS IN FRIGID CELLS.
 19. WASHERWOMEN OLD.
 20. THE HOLLY AND THE IVY.
 21. HOW GRAND AND HOW BRIGHT.
 22. HOSANNA TO THE LIVING LORD.
 23. LO! A HEAVENLY FORM APPEARING.
 24. THE BOAR'S-HEAD CAROL.
 25. IN EXCELSIS GLORIA.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

CHRISTMAS ANTHEM.

Sixth Edition, price 3d.

"FOR UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN." By
THOMAS SMITH.
Post-free from the Composer, Angel Hill, Bury St. Edmund's.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS HYMN.

APPROACH, ALL YE FAITHFUL. Set to music by BENJAMIN CONGREVE. Price 1½d.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS ANTHEM (for Village School Choirs) in the form of a Canon, "FOR UNTO US," by B.
BATHER, Mus. Bac. FRIENDLY GREETINGS of the Season for Christmas and New Year, Four-part Song by R. ANDREWS. See Musical Gazette and Review for December (sixteen large pages), price 2d.
Annual, post-free, 2s. 6d. Reeves, Fleet Street, London.

BARTLE'S TWELVE Original CHRISTMAS CAROLS, suitable for Sunday-school parties or outdoor carollings. Beautifully printed on cards, 1d. each; both music and words copyright. Wholesale, John Heywood, Manchester. Retail, of all book and music sellers.

Specimens of four or more for value in stamps (or three sets for 2s. 6d.) post-free, from

MR. BARTLE, WILLOW STREET, ACCRINGTON, who will also forward specimen copies of "The Chanter," a collection of nearly 300 single and double chants in short score, for six penny stamps.

CHRISTMAS PART-SONG.—"COME GATHER ROUND THE CHRISTMAS FIRE." By G. H. GREGORY,
Mus. Bac., Oxon. Price 3d. "Can be confidently recommended."—
Musical Times.

Also just published, by the same Composer.

EVENING SERVICE (full Cathedral) in E flat.
Effective, without exorbitant difficulty; suitable for either festal or ordinary use. Price 6d.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS BELLS.—New and easy Four-part Song for Christmas, Composed for the Malvern College Choir by W. HAYNES. Price 3d.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

I WISH YOU A MERRY CHRISTMAS. Song,
1s. 6d. net.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR. Song, 1s. 6d. net.

(A Sixpenny Edition of either of the above.)

THE HOLLY-TREE AND MISLETOE, Four-Part Song, Score and Parts, 6d. net.

GIVE ME THE LUSTY WINTER-TIME, Four-Part Song,
Score and Parts, 6d. net.

I WISH YOU A MERRY CHRISTMAS, Part-Song, 3d. net.

To be had of Dr. BELCHER, Handsworth, Birmingham, where may be had his popular Hymn, CHRIST ALONE! with three others, 6d. net.

MEYER'S SIX PIECES FOR THE
PIANOFORTE; Composed as a Christmas Present for his Young Friends. Op. 72. Six Shillings.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR WORKS ARRANGED for the HAR-MONIUM. By J. W. ELLIOTT.

OVERTURE, "FRA DIAVOLO" ... (Auber) 2s.

WAR MARCH, "ATHALIE" ... (Mendelssohn) 1s.

CORNELIUS MARCH ... (Ditto) 1s.

O REST IN THE LORD, "ELIJAH" ... (Ditto) 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

SIXTY VOLUNTARIES for the HARMONIUM.
Arranged by J. W. ELLIOTT. Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ARTHUR SULLIVAN'S NEW SONG
"CHRISTMAS BELLS AT SEA." Words by C. L. KENNY.

Music by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. 4s.; postage-free, 2s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE GAY HUSSAR. Adapted from Spindler's
"Husarenritt" by LOUIS DREHL. The Words written by ALFRED E. T. WATSON. Price 4s.; postage-free, 2s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE NATIONAL
NURSERY RHYMES QUADRILLES,
By J. W. ELLIOTT.

Solo, 4s.; Duet, 5s.

Containing "Jack and Jill," "My Lady Wind," "Sing a Song of Sixpence," "Little Bo-peep," "The Feast of Lanterns," "The Spider and the Fly," &c. &c.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE CLASSICAL ORGANIST,

A SELECTION OF CELEBRATED COMPOSITIONS FROM THE WORKS OF, Handel, Mozart, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Meyerbeer, &c.

ARRANGED FROM THE ORCHESTRAL SCORES FOR

THE ORGAN,

WITH PEDAL OBBLIGATO, BY

J. T. STONE.

In Three Vols., oblong folio, £1 1s. each; or in Fifty-four Nos., 2s. each.

Messrs. BREWER & Co., in announcing to the professors and accomplished amateurs of the Organ the publication of a new edition of the "CLASSICAL ORGANIST," beg to state that this important work is eminently adapted to supply the requirements of the Modern School of Organ-Playing.

The Editor, having arranged the celebrated compositions contained in the present work from the full scores, has endeavoured to represent, as far as practicable, the orchestral effects capable of being produced upon the grandest and most majestic of all musical instruments.

No.	VOL. 1.
1.	Wedding March (Midsummer Night's Dream)	Mendelssohn.
	Benedizione de' Pugnali (Gli Ugonotti)	Meyerbeer.
2.	Hallelujah Chorus (Messiah)	Handel.
	Benedictus (First Mass)	Mozart.
3.	The heavens are telling (Creation)	Haydn.
4.	Hallelujah (Mount of Olives)	Beethoven.
5.	Zadok the Priest (Coronation Anthem)	Handel.
	Sanctus Dominus (Requiem)	Mozart.
6.	Allegro vivace (Jupiter Sinfonia)	Mozart.
	March (Fidelio)	Beethoven.
7.	He gave them hailstones (Israel in Egypt)	Handel.
	Lasst uns singen von der Gnade (St. Paul)	Mendelssohn.
	Sanctus Dominus (Mass in C)	Beethoven.
8.	Wie lieblich sind die Boten (St. Paul)	Mendelssohn.
	Trema, trema, scellerato! (Il Don Giovanni)	Mozart.
9.	Cum Sancto Spiritu (Third Mass)	Cherubini.
	With verdure clad (Creation)	Haydn.
10.	From the censer (Solomon)	Handel.
	Wachet auf! ruft uns die Stimme (St. Paul)	Mendelssohn.
11.	Marcia Funebre sulla morte d'un Eroe	Beethoven.
	Andante (Quintett in C minor)	Mozart.
12.	Sia gloria eterna e onor (Gli Ugonotti)	Meyerbeer.
	Adagio (Sestett, Op. 81)	Beethoven.
	We never will bow down (Judas Maccabæus)	Handel.
13.	Quoniam tu solus (Mass in C)	Beethoven.
	Sey getreu bis in den Tod (St. Paul)	Mendelssohn.
14.	Dona nobis pacem (Fourth Mass)	Haydn.
	Ave Maria	Cherubini.
15.	Praise thou the Lord (Lobgesang)	Mendelssohn.
	Let their celestial Concerts (Samson)	Handel.
16.	March du Sacre (Le Prophète)	Meyerbeer.
	Hallelujah (Saul)	Handel.
17.	Sound an alarm (Judas Maccabæus)	Handel.
	In native word (Creation)	Haydn.
18.	Jerusalem (St. Paul)	Mendelssohn.
	Pignus Futuræ (Litany in B flat)	Mozart.

No.	VOL. 2.
19.	Overture to Esther	Handel.
20.	Overture to Die Zauberflöte	Mozart.
21.	Overture to Alexander's Feast	Handel.
	Representation of Chaos	Haydn.
22.	Overture to St. Paul	Mendelssohn.
23.	Overture to the Occasional Oratorio	Handel.
24.	Overture to Saul	Handel.
25.	For unto us a child is born (Messiah)	Handel.
	Credo in unum Deum (Mass in B minor)	J. S. Bach.
26.	Cum Sancto Spiritu (Fifth Mass)	Haydn.
	In te Domine speravi (Te Deum)	Mozart.
27.	Then round about the starry throne (Samson)	Handel.
	Recordare (Requiem)	Mozart.
28.	Ich harrette des Herrn (Lobgesang)	Mendelssohn.
	Dona nobis pacem (Mass in B minor)	J. S. Bach.
29.	Your voices raise, ye cherubin (Anthem)	Handel.
	Agnus Dei (First Mass)	Mozart.
	Seyd uns gnädig hohe Götter (St. Paul)	Mendelssohn.
30.	How excellent Thy name, O Lord (Saul)	Handel.
	Quoniam tu solus (Second Mass)	Haydn.
	Benedictus (Requiem Brevis)	Mozart.

No.	VOL. 2—CONTINUED.
31.	Allegretto un poco Agitato (Lobgesang)	Mendelssohn.
	Adagio Religioso (Lobgesang)	Mendelssohn.
32.	Sing unto God (Judas Maccabæus)	Handel.
	Sicut locutus est (Magnificat in E flat)	J. S. Bach.
	Hail, Judea, happy land (Judas Maccabæus)	Handel.
33.	O welch eine Tiefe des Reichthums (St. Paul)	Mendelssohn.
	Ave verum corpus (Motett)	Mozart.
34.	Fix'd in his everlasting seat (Samson)	Handel.
	Doch der Herr vergisst der Seinen nicht (St. Paul)	Mendelssohn.
35.	The King shall rejoice (Dettingen Anthem)	Handel.
	Et incarnatus est (Third Mass)	Haydn.
	Thus rolling surges rise (Solomon)	Handel.
36.	Chi in Dio sol spera (Davidde Penitente)	Mozart.
	March (Die Ruinen von Athen)	Beethoven.

No.	VOL. 3.
37.	The horse and his rider (Israel in Egypt)	Handel.
	Andante Cantabile (Sonata, Op. 3)	Mozart.
38.	Come, gentle spring (Seasons)	Haydn.
	O Salutaris Hostia	Cherubini.
39.	I know that my Redeemer liveth (Messiah)	Handel.
	Andante (Concerto in G minor)	Mendelssohn.
40.	Dal tuo stellato soglio (Mosè in Egitto)	Rossini.
	March (Egmont)	Beethoven.
41.	Lift up your heads (Messiah)	Handel.
	Larghetto (Quartett, Op. 108)	Mozart.
42.	The night is departing (Lobgesang)	Mendelssohn.
	See the conquering hero comes (Judas Maccabæus)	Handel.
43.	Around let acclamations ring (Athaliah)	Handel.
	Agnus Dei (Mass in G)	C. M. von Weber.
	Andante espressivo (Quartett, Op. 12)	Mendelssohn.
44.	Inflammatu (Stabat Mater)	Rossini.
	March (Scipio)	Handel.
45.	Love and Hymen (Hercules)	Handel.
	Adagio	Mozart.
46.	Andante (Symphony in C minor)	Mendelssohn.
	Minuetto (Samson)	Handel.
47.	Kyrie eleison (Second Mass)	Haydn.
	Then shall they know (Samson)	Handel.
48.	When his loud voice (Jephtha)	Handel.
	Pro peccatis (Stabat Mater)	Rossini.
49.	Credo in unum Deum (Mass in G)	C. M. von Weber.
	Gott, deine gute reich so weit	Beethoven.
50.	Gloria in excelsis (Second Mass)	Mozart.
	Happy pair (Alexander's Feast)	Handel.
51.	Adagio (Symphony No. 4)	Mozart.
	Shall I in Mamre's fertile plain (Joshua)	Handel.
52.	Andante con moto tranquillo (Grand Trio, Op. 49)	Mendelssohn.
	Placidia è il mar (Idomeneo)	Mozart.
53.	Lascia ch' io pianga (Rinaldo)	Handel.
	Et incarnatus est (Mass in F)	Cherubini.
	May no rash intruder (Solomon)	Handel.
54.	Ave Maria	Mendelssohn.
	Andante Cantabile	Beethoven.
	Hear us, O Lord (Judas Maccabæus)	Handel.
	Swell the full chorus (Solomon)	Handel.

This work is engraved in the first style, on large plates, oblong folio size, and printed on a thick superfine paper, which has been made expressly for the purpose. The Publishers confidently state that they have spared no expense in rendering the present work for the Organ truly worthy of the "King of Instruments."

* * * The Copyright of the "Classical Organist" is the sole and exclusive property of Messrs. Brewer & Co.

London: BREWER & CO., 14 & 15, Poultry, Cheapside, & 23, Bishopsgate Street Within.

A Thematic List of Contents of Vols. 1, 2, and 3, will be forwarded on application to the Publishers, or to Mr. J. T. STONE Leicester.

C. JEFFERYS,

67, BERNERS STREET.

NEW VOCAL PUBLICATIONS.

Comrade, to arms (Duet for Tenor and Bass)	s. d.
Michael Watson	3 0
When Music's charms (Duet for Tenor and Soprano).
New edition in C F. Schira	3 0
Blind Johann of Bohemia (compass B to E), for
Baritone J. L. Hatton	3 0
Jack's Yarn (sung by Signor Foli) (B to E) Louis Diehl	4 0
Ditto, in B (A to D) Ditto	4 0
Pirate Chief (A to D) Ditto	3 0
White Blossoms (D to D) W. C. Levey	3 0
Fairy's Dream (E to F) Ditto	3 0
The Land of Dreams (D to F) Odoardo Barri	3 0
A Golden Dream (C to F) Ditto	3 0
Sweet and Fair (C to F), for Baritone	3 0
Carissima (F to G) Henry Pontet	3 0
After Long Years (D to F) F. Schira	3 0
The Open Window (D to E) Dolores	3 0
On Guard (sung by Signor Foli) (C to D)
Walter Austin	4 0
The Prayer of the Fisher's Wife (C to F) J. T. Field	3 0

NEW PIANOFORTE PIECES.

Sweet Lily easy John Pridham	3 0
Bridal Morn " "	3 0
Sweet Home Flowers "	3 0
La Harpe magique Julia Woolf	3 0
The Shades of Evening "	3 0
Fascination "	3 0
Kindergarten March, with words .. M. Watson	3 0

MELODIOUS MELODIES ARRANGED FOR THE HARMONIUM.

PARTS I. TO VI., ONE SHILLING EACH.

The subjects selected from the Works of

Auber.	Haydn.	Rossini.
Batiste.	Hiller.	Schubert.
Beethoven.	Méhul.	Schumann.
Boccherini.	Mendelssohn.	Spohr.
Chopin.	Meyerbeer.	Verdi.
Donizetti.	Mozart.	Wagner.
Handel.	Rink.	&c.

The complete work, bound in cloth, gilt edges, 6s.

SIX ORIGINAL PIECES FOR HARMONIUM

BY

MICHAEL WATSON.

1. Village dance, in B flat	3 0
2. Mélodie, in G	3 0
3. Pas Redoublé, in G	3 0
4. Berceuse, in F	3 0
5. March, in C	3 0
6. Réverie, in G	3 0

"We cordially welcome Mr. Watson's Six Original Pieces. They are written in the ordinary forms of modern drawing-room pieces, and make no pretensions to the classical. Without displaying any very decided originality, they are melodious and pleasing, while they are effective without undue difficulty. The treatment of the stops, also, which is carefully marked throughout, is judicious, and shows that Mr. Watson thoroughly understands the peculiarities of the instrument. In only one case do we differ from him. In the March (No. 5) he has directed the 'Expression' stop to be put in when the 'Grand Jeu' is drawn. This we think a mistake. We hold that the 'expression' should invariably be used, except when the harmonium is intended to imitate the passionless tone of the organ, which is not the case here."

—Musical Times.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY.

A COLLECTION OF PART-SONGS, GLEES, CHORUSES, &c.

Edited by MICHAEL WATSON.

Price 2d. each, net. List of contents on application.

LONDON:

C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS STREET, W.

READY THIS DAY, PRICE 3s., CLOTH.

STEPHEN HELLER:

HIS LIFE AND HIS WORKS.

From the French of H. BARBEDETTE.

By ROBERT BROWN-BORTHWICK,

Vicar of All Saints', Scarborough.

London: ASHDOWN & PARRY, HANOVER SQUARE.

ASHDOWN & PARRY'S CATALOGUES OF MUSIC.

PART 1. PIANO, ORGAN, HARMONIUM.

PART 2. VOCAL.

PART 3. HARP, CONCERTINA.

PART 4. VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, ORCHESTRA, &c.

PART 5. FLUTE, CORNET, CLARINET, &c.

Sent Gratis and Post-free to any part of the World.

London: ASHDOWN & PARRY, HANOVER SQUARE.

ASHDOWN & PARRY'S YELLOW CATALOGUE for 1878.

Compiled expressly for the use of the Trade, Profession, and Schools.

Comprising a Selection of upwards of 4,000 Standard Musical Works.

WILL BE READY EARLY IN DECEMBER.

Among the Composers of Pianoforte Music will be found the names of Beethoven, Bach, Bertini, Chopin, Clementi, Czerny, Cramer (John), Dussek, Handel, Haydn, Henselt, Hummel, Herz, Kalkbrenner, Liszt, Mendelssohn, Moscheles, Mozart, Scarlatti, Schubert, Schumann, Schulhoff, Thalberg, Weber, &c. &c. Among the Vocal—Bishop, Braham, Arne, Dibdin, Callcott, Shield, Horn, Purcell, Haydn, Moore, Mazzinghi, Handel, &c. &c. SENT GRATIS AND POST-FREE TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD. All applications for trade terms must contain card, circular, or reference.

London: ASHDOWN & PARRY, HANOVER SQUARE.

STANDARD VOCAL PART-MUSIC.

THE SINGER'S LIBRARY.

An unequalled collection of

VOCAL CONCERTED MUSIC, TRIOS, QUARTETTS, QUINTETTS, &c.

Sacred and Secular, by the most renowned Composers, English and Foreign.

EDITED BY JOHN HULLAH.

Upwards of 150 Numbers. Price Twopence each.

London: ASHDOWN & PARRY, HANOVER SQUARE.

THE GLEE & CHORAL LIBRARY

A COLLECTION OF STANDARD AND WELL-KNOWN VOCAL COMPOSITIONS,

AS WELL AS RECENT WORKS BY

MACFARREN, HATTON, LESLIE, BALFE, &c.

Upwards of Eighty Numbers. Price Twopence each.

Catalogues Gratis and Post-free to any part of the World.

LONDON: ASHDOWN & PARRY, HANOVER SQUARE.

REDUCED PRICE.

Third edition enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s. paper covers; 3s. cloth lettered.

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS

SINGLE AND DOUBLE

EDITED BY THE

REV. SIR F. A. GORE OUSELEY, BART., ETC.,
AND
EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This Work contains nearly 400 Chants, which are appropriated to "Venite exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page and affording several Series, suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter, from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER & CO., 1, BERNERS STREET (W.), AND 80 & 81, QUEEN STREET (E.C.)

SELECT COMPOSITIONS

FROM THE

GREAT MASTERS,
ARRANGED FOR THE ORGAN

With Pedal Obligato by

A. H. BROWN.

No.

1. "Wedding March," by Mendelssohn.
2. March from "Tannhäuser," by Wagner.
3. March from "Scipio," also from Occasional Oratorio, both by Handel.
4. "Coronation March," from Meyerbeer's "Prophète."
5. "The Dead March" in "Saul" and "See the conquering hero comes," both by Handel.
6. Andantino, from the 11th Grand Symphony by Haydn, and "Waft her, angels," from Handel's "Jephtha."
7. "As pants the hart," from Spohr's "Crucifixion," and "Where'er you walk," from Handel's "Semele."
8. "My heart ever faithful" (Mein gläubiges Herz frohlocket), by Bach.
9. Andantino from the 5th and Andante from the 4th Sonatas, by Pleyel.
10. "The Hero's March," by Mendelssohn.
11. "Quis est homo?" from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."
12. Air et Chœur, from "La Dame Blanche," by Boieldieu.
13. Grande Marche Héroïque in C, by Fr. Schubert.
14. Grande Marche Héroïque in D, by Fr. Schubert.
15. Overture, "Berenice," by Handel.
16. Overture, "Sosarmes," by Handel.
17. Handel's Overture, "Alcina."
18. Gavotte, from Handel's Overture, "Otho."
19. "La Carità," by Rossini.
20. "Angels ever bright and fair," and "Pious orgies," both by Handel.
21. "Ave Maria," by Franz Schubert.
22. Aria, by Antonio Lotti. Circa 1700.
23. "My soul thirsteth for God," Aria from Mendelssohn's 42nd Psalm.
24. "Gloria in excelsis," from Weber's Mass in G.
25. "Fac ut portem," from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."
26. "Pietà, Signore," from the Oratorio "San Giovanni Battista," by Stradella.
27. Handel's Overture to "Julius Cæsar."
28. Serenade, by Franz Schubert.

[Continuing.]

Price Two Shillings each.

LONDON: B. WILLIAMS, 60, PATERNOSTER ROW.

ORGAN MOVEMENTS.—Six Selected MOVEMENTS from the Organ Sonatas by Mendelssohn. Edited and fingered by JAMES LOWE. Reduced price complete, 3s. 6d. Single numbers—1, 3, 4, and 6, 9d. each, and 2 and 5, 1s. each, net.

Manchester: HIME and ADDISON, 30, VICTORIA STREET.

LONDON: C. JEFFERYS, 67, BERNERS STREET.

SIX TRANSCRIPTIONS for the ORGAN (with pedal obligato) from the works of Beethoven, Handel, Mendelssohn, and Spohr. By GEORGE SHINN, Organist of Brixton Church. Price 2s. 6d. net. LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

QUAM DILECTA: Hymn Melody. Composed by the Right Rev. H. L. JENNER, D.D.; varied for the Organ by SAMUEL S. GREATHED, M.A. One Shilling. LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW WORK FOR THE ORGAN.

THE ORGAN

A THEORETICAL AND PRACTICAL TREATISE;

INTENDED TO ASSIST THE STUDENT IN ACQUIRING

A SOUND KNOWLEDGE OF THE INSTRUMENT AND ITS PROPER MANIPULATION;

WITH A SERIES OF

ORIGINAL EXERCISES AND ILLUSTRATIVE COMPOSITIONS

Written specially for this Work.

BY

FREDERIC ARCHER,

Organist of the Alexandra Palace, Muswell Hill.

Price 10s. 6d.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

FIVE INTRODUCTORY VOLUNTARIES for the ORGAN. Composed by T. MEE PATTISON.

These Voluntaries, of medium difficulty, with Pedal Obligato, will be found eminently useful for the introduction of Divine Service, both as regards character and length. Price 3s.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

J. S. BACH'S
FORTY-EIGHT PRELUDES & FUGUES

IN ALL THE MAJOR AND MINOR KEYS

(The "Well-Tempered Clavichord").

Edited and collated with all former editions of the work by

W. T. BEST.

Complete in One Volume, cloth, 12s.; or in Four Books, each 4s.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

New Edition, complete in One Volume, 142 pages; paper cover, 5s. net; handsomely bound in scarlet cloth, gilt edges (as a gift or prize book), 7s. 6d. net.

"THE VILLAGE ORGANIST."—Seventy-eight

Easy Voluntaries, expressly contributed by Sir Julius Benedict; Sir William Sterndale Bennett, M.A., Mus. Doc., Cantab.; Sir George J. Elvey, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; Sir F. A. G. Ouseley, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon.; Dr. G. B. Arnold, Dr. E. T. Chipp, Dr. J. B. Dykes, Dr. H. J. Gauntlett, Dr. A. S. Holloway, Dr. G. A. Macfarren, Dr. E. G. Monk, Dr. E. F. Rimbault, Dr. William Spark, Dr. J. Stainer, Dr. C. G. Verrinder, Dr. S. S. Wesley; C. Goodban, Mus. Bac., Oxon.; S. Reay, Mus. Bac., Oxon.; J. Barnby, J. F. Barnett, R. Forsey Brion, J. Baptiste Calkin, William Hutchins Callcott, W. G. Cousins, E. M. Delaborde, Henry Farmer, F. E. Gladstone, John Hullah, H. S. Irons, C. W. Lavington, Mrs. Mounsey-Bartholomew, Franz Nava, Alberto Randegger, Brinley Richards, J. E. Richardson, Charles Salaman, E. Silas, Henry Smart, Boyton Smith, E. H. Thorne, J. Tilleard, and E. H. Turpin.

LONDON: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

* * "THE VILLAGE ORGANIST" is very popular with town Organists as a lesson-book for their organ and harmonium pupils.

DR. SPARK'S CONCERTSTÜCK FOR THE ORGAN.

Price 4s.

PLAYED BY THE COMPOSER WITH GREAT SUCCESS
AT THE LEEDS FESTIVAL,
AS WELL AS AT THE
CITY TEMPLE, BOW AND BROMLEY, AND OTHER ORGAN RECITALS.

"The Concertstück is clever and effectively written. It was skilfully executed by the composer, and received with marked favour."—The Times.

"A fine organ-piece in three movements—two loud and one soft, all being most effective, and available as voluntaries."—Express.

"Dr. Spark is to be congratulated for the best organ composition we know of as emanating from his pen. The Adagio is lovely, and the brilliant Finale exhibits the instrument in its height and depth of power."—York Herald.

"An interesting, compact, and highly effective concert-piece. * * * It opens with a vigorous but terse Allegro in A minor, which, with its two subjects and its working of them, may be considered an epitome in brief of the accepted allegro form. A short recitative leads to a very charming movement in A flat, the matter and the manner of which are alike beyond criticism. A brief interlude then conducts us to the Finale—a very brilliant movement in A major—in which we admire equally the force and character evinced in the subject, and the adaptability of the passages to the instrument. Organists will be glad to avail themselves of Dr. Spark's work, the publication of which we are pleased to notify."—The Queen.

"Dr. Spark's solo on the grand organ showed not only the capabilities of the instrument which is so dear to him, but his own skill and power."—Leeds Daily News.

"The Concertstück, written by Dr. Spark to display some of the characteristics of the instrument over which he has so long presided, answered in a very satisfactory manner the end desired."—Musical Times.

"The composition is chaste and masterly, well worthy the attention of a critical audience, as indeed are all Dr. Spark's organ works."—Musical Standard.

London: METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough Street, W.

To be Published by Subscription.

SKETCHES OF EMINENT ORGANISTS ANCIENT AND MODERN.

By WILLIAM SPARK, Mus.D., F.C.O.,

ORGANIST OF THE TOWN HALL, LEEDS.

The Work will embrace biographical and critical notices of Organists, English and Foreign, who have by their playing or compositions made a mark in the history of the art, from the earliest to the present time.

Whilst great pains will be taken to obtain correct data from all known sources, original information will be sought for, and where it can be authentically proffered, will be gratefully accepted by the Author.

To render the book as interesting and valuable as possible, faithful Portraits will be given, and also a page of music, characteristic of his style, extracted from one of the author's most admired compositions.

As no work of the kind exists, it is hoped that cordial and hearty co-operation and encouragement will be given to it, not only by Organists of every class, professional and amateur, to whom its contents will prove of especial use and benefit, but by those (ministers of religion particularly) who feel and know the great power and utility which has been and will be exercised by those leading Organists whose genius and devotion to their favourite employment have chiefly made "the King of Instruments" what it now is—a source of pure and hallowed delight.

No expense will be spared to make the work complete in every respect.

Price to Subscribers ONLY:—			s.	d.
Royal octavo, cloth	10	6
Ditto, toned paper, half morocco	15	0

Subscribers' names received by Dr. Spark, Springfield Villa, Leeds, or Mr. Wm. Reeves, 185, Fleet Street, London.

MERKEL'S SONATA

(In D minor). Op. 30.

Originally written as an Organ Duet. Arranged as a Solo by FREDERIC ARCHER.

Three Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARMONIUM or AMERICAN ORGAN.—
WEIPPERT'S SHORT VOLUNTARIES. 4 Books. 1s. each.
Book 1 contains 30 pieces by Handel, Mozart, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Wagner, &c., including Tannhäuser March, Harmonious Blacksmith, Softly Sighs, Ave Maria, Trio of Masks, &c. &c. Full lists post-free. Simpson and Co., 33, Argyll Street, London, W.

DR. WESLEY'S ORGAN WORKS RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

AN AIR FOR

HOLSWORTHY CHURCH BELLS

Varied for the Organ. Price 3s net.

AN ANDANTE IN A

Price 3s. net.

AN ANDANTE IN E MINOR

Just published, price 2s. net.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FESTIVAL MARCH for the Organ, in F major.
By FREDERICK ILIFFE, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Arranged from the score, with pedal obbligato, by W. J. WESTBROOK, Mus. Bac., Cantab.
1s. 6d. Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London.

Just published.

MENDELSSOHN'S ELIJAH

ARRANGED FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price Five Shillings.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

HANDEL'S MESSIAH

ARRANGED FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price Five Shillings.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GRAND MASONIC MARCH. By J. B. BOUCHER.
London: C. Jefferys, 67, Berners Street, W.
Price 4s.; post-free for 24 stamps.

FLORA. Grand March. By J. B. BOUCHER.
London: Novello, Ewer and Co.
Price 4s.; post-free for 24 stamps.

DORÉ'S TWO CELEBRATED PICTURES,
Christ leaving the Prætorium and Christ entering Jerusalem.
Musically illustrated by A. B. ALLEN.
"Mr. Allen has melody and scholarship."—Public Opinion. 1s. net.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SMALLWOOD'S CLASSICAL & SECULAR EXTRACTS FOR THE PIANOFORTE.

- | | |
|-----|---|
| No. | 52 Nos. ready, 3s. each. |
| 1. | Classical.—Hymn of Praise (Mendelssohn). |
| 19. | " Kyrie Eleison (Mozart's Twelfth Service). |
| 35. | " I know that my Redeemer (Messiah). |
| 4. | Secular.—May-bells (Mendelssohn). |
| 20. | " Selection from Die Zauberflöte (Mozart). |
| 40. | " Selection from Masaniello (Auber). |
| | Post-free, 18 stamps each number. |

London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster Row.

THE ENCORE SOLO.—"LIFE LET US CHERISH." Piano brillante. By R. ANDREWS. 19 stamps.
14, Park Avenue, Longsight, Manchester.

Just published, in 18mo, price 1s.

PRIMER OF PIANOFORTE PLAYING

By FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

EDITED BY

GEORGE GROVE.

WITH NUMEROUS EXAMPLES.

London: MACMILLAN and Co.

Reduced Price, Sixpence.

A FEW WORDS ON

PIANOFORTE PLAYING,

With Rules for Fingering some Passages of frequent occurrence, addressed to her pupils, by CAROLINE REINAGLE.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE HYMNARY

A BOOK OF CHURCH SONG.

THE FOLLOWING EDITIONS ARE NOW READY:—

No.					s. d.
1.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Bourgeois Antique.	Cloth, red edges	1 0
2.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Cloth, red edges	0 6
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Limp cloth	0 4
"	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Paper covers	0 3
3.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth		4 0
4.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		5 0
5.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth		3 0
6.	Tunes only.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		4 0
7.	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo		1 6
"	Hymns with Tunes.	Treble part only.	Royal 24mo, cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		2 0
8.	Hymns with Tunes.	Small post 8vo.	to bind with the Pearl 8vo Prayer Book.	Cloth	2 6
9.	Hymns with Tunes.	Ditto.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		3 0
10.	Hymns with Tunes.	Large type, Imperial 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges		10 6

Selections of Hymns with Tunes for Advent, Christmas, Easter and Harvest, price One Penny each.

A Discount of 20 per Cent will be allowed to the Clergy, for Cash, when not less than six copies of one edition are taken.

Applications for permission to print the Hymns and Tunes for Choral Festivals should be addressed to the Publishers.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE NEW HYMNAL.

THE SONG OF PRAISE. By Lady VICTORIA EVANS-FREKE. Being a New and Enlarged Edition of the Rev. EDWARD HARLAND'S CHURCH PSALTER AND HYMNAL, including a large number of Original Tunes written by the most eminent Church musicians of the day expressly for this work. Prices as follow:—

	s. d.
Large Organ Edition	8 6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, with blank music paper at the end, gilt lettered...	10 6
Small Music Edition	3 6
Ditto, red edges, strongly bound, gilt lettered	4 6
Words only	1 2
Ditto, red edges, gilt	1 6

Liberal Terms to the Clergy.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, THE BROADWAY, LUDGATE.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK, containing 258

Tunes and 85 Chants.
No 1. Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 6d.
" 2. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 3. Limp cloth, turned in	2s. 6d.
" 4. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	2s. 6d.

About 250,000 copies have already been sold.

Now Ready.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK (Second Series), containing 298 Tunes and 74 Chants.

No. 5. Limp cloth	2s. 6d.
6. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	3s. 6d.
TONIC SOL-FA EDITION.
" 7. Limp cloth	2s. 6d.
" 8. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	2s. 6d.

First and Second Series Bound together.

No. 9. Limp cloth	4s. 6d.
" 10. Cloth boards, red edges, gilt lettered	5s. 6d.
" 12. Tonic Sol-fa, cloth	3s. 6d.

Now Ready.

SMALL EDITION of the COMPLETE WORK.

715 Tunes and Chants, providing for nearly 200 Varieties of Metre.

No. 11. Cloth	3s. 6d.
---------------	---------

Each Edition may be had in Superior Binding.

Communications and inquiries as to Copyrights, and also as to supplies of this work at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.; Bristol: W. and F. Morgan; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Now Ready.

THE LONDON TUNE-BOOK. A Companion for all Hymnals. Cloth, 3s.; red edges, 3s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Enlarged Edition.

TUNES, NEW AND OLD; comprising all the Metres in the Wesleyan Hymn-Book. Also, Chants, Responses, and Doxologies. Compiled by JOHN DOBSON; and for the most part revised or rearranged by HENRY JOHN GAUNTLETT, Mus. Doc.; JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.; and SAMUEL REAY, Mus. Bac., Oxon. London: Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, and 80 and 81, Queen Street. Sold also at 66, Paternoster Row. Prices: plain cloth, 3s. 6d.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 5s. TONIC SOL-FA EDITION: plain cloth, 2s.; extra cloth, bevelled boards, red edges, 3s.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN; containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE BURNLEY TUNE-BOOK.—NOTICE.—

An ADDENDA of nearly 500 Tunes, inclusive of all the old favourite and standard Tunes, will shortly be added, and every known metre will be provided for. MSS. received. Address, the Editor, Burnley.

THE MISSIONARY MANUAL TUNE-BOOK.

Compiled and Edited by Sir JAMES ERASMUS PHILLIPS, Bart., M.A., Prebendary of Sarum, Vicar of Warminster, and Proctor in Convocation, and WILLIAM VINCENT, M.A., Rector of Postwick, Norfolk. Paper covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, 2s.

THE MISSIONARY MANUAL OF HYMNS AND PRAYERS.

Price 2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHEETHAM'S PSALMODY. The Original Edition, arranged by HOULDSWORTH, with twenty pages of Dr. GAUNTLETT'S added, published by POHLMANN and SON, Halifax.

Prices 5s., 7s., 10s. 6d., 13s. 6d.

Sale has exceeded 20,000 copies.

Pohlmann and Son also publish the New Song, "My friend," by C. J. Vincent, Jun.

The Moslem Quadrilles...	Bottomley.
Sikh Quadrilles...	"
Canadian Schottische...	"
Helenen Galop...	Röttger.
Henrietten Polka...	"
The Beautiful West. Song...	Alexander Lee.

POHLMANN and SON, Music Publishers, Princess St., Halifax, Yorks.

BAKER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR.

Easy and very plain instructions. Adapted for Schools and General Teaching Purposes. London: B. Williams, 60, Paternoster Row; or, post-free, 3s., of G. Baker, Stamp Office Place, Wakefield.

Third Edition.

FIRST STEPS FOR CHOIR-BOYS. By JAMES H. SIMPSON. Price 2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition, Enlarged.—Price Sixpence.

JORDRELL'S MANUAL of SIGHT-SINGING, on the Tonic or Movable Do System of Reading Old Notation Music. London: C. JEFFERYS, 67, Berners Street; JOHN JORDRELL, Withington, near Manchester; and through all Book and Music Sellers.

Now Ready. (Dedicated to College of Organists.)

ON TUNING THE ORGAN. Illustrated APPENDIX, containing faults in action with remedies, price 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. Hemstock, Diss.

OFFER TO TEACHERS.

JUST PUBLISHED.

MUSICAL THEORY (in both Notations) by JOHN CURWEN. Book II. The Minor Mode and Transition, price 4d.; and new edition of Book I. The Common Scale and Time, price 4d. The Preface says: "The Tonic Notation, which we inherited from Miss Glover, has given us, as we think, clearer ways of looking at things—better theories than we had before. A good theory promotes the 'intelligent handling' of voice or instrument. It makes the practical man observe better, learn better, remember better, and take greater pleasure in his work. When the truths of music itself have been once plainly set before the mind, the difficulties of complex notation or antiquated nomenclature are easily conquered." The plan of the work includes other books in preparation. These two, however, contain all that the Pupil Teacher needs, and at the end of Book II. there is a large collection of examination questions such as are used for admission to Training Colleges and for First-year Examinations, with references to show how the questions may be answered. Specimen copies of Books I. and II. will be sent (post-free) to any Teacher who incloses his name and address, with four penny stamps, to J. CURWEN and SONS, Printers, Plaistow, London, E., before the end of the present month.

A BOOK FOR MUSICIANS AND THE PUBLIC.

Price One Shilling

MUSIC and MIND and MUSICAL PHYSICS. By Dr. J. W. BERNHARDT. To be had at Langham Hall, Great Portland Street, London, W.; and of Messrs. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond Street, W.

Now ready. Small 4to. Price 1s. Vocal parts, 12mo, price 6d. each. 1st and 2nd Series bound together, cloth, 2s. 9d. Vocal parts 1st and 2nd series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE CANTICLES and HYMNS of the CHURCH, pointed for Chanting, and set to appropriate Anglican Chants, Single and Double; together with Responses to the Commandments. Edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., etc., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK. This work contains a selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS. Set to Music by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c. For general or Festival use; for male voices and four-part Chorus, with Organ accompaniment, ad lib. Price 3d. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK. Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 1s.; cloth, 2s. London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Oxford: PARKER.

Eighth Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK. Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 3s. 6d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

OUSELEY and MONK'S PSALTER and CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authenticated by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 24mo, without chants, 9d.; with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to, with chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to, 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo, 1½d. Novello, Ewer and Co., and Parker and Co.

Preparing for the Press.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF WORDS OF ANTHEMS, new Edition, revised, corrected, and brought down to the present date.

Twelfth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Price 5s. 6d., paper covers; 7s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Score, 1s. 6d. The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-notes.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. St. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter having been collated with the Sealed Books is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small Edition is in preparation.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Fourth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. Quarto, in cloth elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Fifth Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. St. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now ready, price 2s. 6d. and 1d.

THE PAROCHIAL PSALTER. Pointed for Chanting upon a new and simple system, with Directions for Expression, Breath-marks, &c. By ALEX. S. COOPER.

PRICES.

8vo, for Clergy and Organists 2s. 6d.
32mo, for Choirs and Congregations 1s. 0d.
Canticles only 3d. and 1d.
London: WEEKES and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

A MORNING SERVICE, Te Deum, Jubilate, and Kyrie. By the Rev. EDWARD YOUNG. Tenth edition, abbreviated for Parochial use. Organ and Choir copies, 4d. each. "Melodious, vocal, and nicely harmonised—that is, without pretence or straining at effect; and they declaim the words devoutly and emphatically."—Musical Times.

"Good points, and tuneful passages."—Musical Standard.
"The intelligent, devoted, and devotional spirit in which every note seems to have been composed furnishes one of the best guarantees for excellence."—English Churchman.

"All competent criticism will be found in accordance with the verdict of a high professional authority as to 'abundant proof of imagination, poetical conception, and musical feeling.'"—Christian Observer.

"The strain is devotional, and harmonies full, solemn, and massive. . . . He fairly claims to have dug a channel for the devout utterance of the words."—Bristol Times.

Also.

VENITE, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.
CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR, Organ or Choir Copies, 4d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A MORNING AND EVENING SERVICE, set to music principally in chant form for Four Voices, in harmony and unison, with organ accompaniment. "Easy, effective, and congregational, and useful to parish choirs." Price 9d.; not less than one dozen copies, post-free, 7s. 9d., from the composer only, H. T. Harwood, Yeovil.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

G. A. MACFARREN'S CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR. For Voices in Unison and Organ. 8vo, 6d. London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in E flat. Composed by ALFRED J. DYE. Small 8vo, 3d.; organ copy, 6d. "A simple setting, quite within the reach of ordinary church choirs."—Musical Record.

"In the various broad and effective unison sentences the organ is handled with judgment and skill."—The Choir.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CANTATE and DEUS. By R. TAYLOR. An easy Unison Service in F. Price 6d. To be had of Novello and Co., or of the Author, Brighton College.

THE OFFICE of the HOLY COMMUNION (as sung at S. Columba's College, Dublin). Set to music in the key of C, for voices in unison, by FREDERICK CAMBRIDGE. 8vo, 6d.

Also by the same composer,
ANTHEM, "NOT UNTO US, O LORD."
Vocal Score, 3s.; Vocal Parts, 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in key of G, for Four Voices, with Organ Accompaniment. By E. BUNNETT, Mus. D., Cantab. Price Threepence.
Also, by same Composer, two Settings of the VENITE EXULTE-MUS DOMINO, in Chant form. Price Twopence each.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MUSIC FOR PARISH CHOIRS

BY

WILLIAM CRESER, Mus. Bac., Oxon.,

Organist and Choirmaster of S. Martin's-on-the-Hill, Scarborough.

AN EASY, EFFECTIVE SETTING OF THE
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS
FOUNDED ON TONE III.

For voices in unison, with occasional harmony, and a free organ accompaniment.

PRICE 4d.

EASY ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMASTIDE.

"THERE WERE SHEPHERDS." Price 3d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Edition.

VESPER MUSIC.—Settings of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, in solemn Chant style, Festal and Ferial, with a simple air for the Congregation, and elaborated Melodies and Harmonies for the Choir. By W. HAYNES, Organist of the Priory Church, Malvern. No. 1, 2d.; Nos. 2, 3, 4, 3d. each.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC. By Mr. ARTHUR H. BROWN.—MISSA SERAPHICA. The Office of Holy Communion (complete). Set to original music. Price 1s.

MISSA QUINTI TONI. An easy and tuneful Unison Service for Holy Communion (complete). Price 3d., separate. Organ accompaniment with words, price 2s. net.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

DIVERS CAROLS for CHRISTMASS and SUNDAY TYDES of Holy Church, with apt notes to sing 'em withall. By ARTHUR H. BROWN. 28 pp. Price 1s. 6d. net.

J. MASTERS and Co., New Bond Street, W.

AN EASY TE DEUM, JUBILATE, MAGNIFICAT, NUNC DIMITTIS, with simplified LITANY, for Parish Choirs, One Shilling. Rev. F. R. BRYANS, White Hall, Sandbach.

Just published.

A MORNING, COMMUNION, AND EVENING SERVICE in C. By HENRY GADSBY. 8vo, complete, 2s., or singly: Te Deum and Benedictus, 1s.; Kyrie, Credo, Sursum corda, Sanctus, and Gloria in excelsis, 6d.; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, 6d.

A MORNING, COMMUNION, AND EVENING SERVICE (No. 2) in A and D. 8vo, complete, 2s., or singly: Te Deum, 4d.; Benedictus, 3d.; Kyrie (Nos. 1 and 2), Credo, Offertory sentences, Sanctus, and Gloria in excelsis, 1s.; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, 4d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE OFFERTORY SENTENCES

WITH AN APPENDIX FOR FESTAL USE,

SET TO MUSIC BY

JOSEPH BARNBY.

Price 1s. 6d.; or in Numbers at 2d. each.

- | | |
|---|---|
| No. 1. Let your light so shine.
2. Lay not up for yourselves.
3. Whatsoever ye would that men.
4. Not every one that saith unto Me.
5. Zacchæus stood forth.
6. Who goeth a-warfare.
7. If we have sown.
8. Do ye not know.
9. He that soweth little.
10. Let him that is taught in the word.
11. While we have time.
12. Godliness is great riches. | 13. Charge them who are rich.
14. God is not unrighteous.
15. To do good.
16. Whoso hath this world's goods.
17. Give alms of thy goods.
18. Be merciful after thy power.
19. He that hath pity upon the poor.
20. Blessed be the man.
21. Let your light so shine. Festal Setting. |
|---|---|

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

8vo, price 4d.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES

(COMPLETE)

SET TO MUSIC BY

CHARLES JOSEPH FROST.

The above will be found an agreeable change with the settings already in use, and will be found to be within the capacity of every choir. The treble part is written so that it can be sung in unison by the whole choir, if preferred.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

8vo, price 6d.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES COMPLETE (20), with Music in full for Organist and Choir. By HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS, late Organist of Southwell Minster.

One or more of these beautiful and effective Sentences may be sung after the Priest has said the Offertory, or after the Hymns at Matins or Evensong, whilst the alms are being collected.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ELEVEN OFFERTORY SENTENCES ... 4d.

"The Lord is my Shepherd" ... 4d.
 "Let not your heart be troubled" (arrangement) ... 4d.
 Tunes, set to popular Hymns, and Chants. Books 1 and 2, each 4d.

By CHARLES SWAIN, Stockport.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE OFFERTORY SENTENCES from the GOSPELS. Set to Music by the Rev. VYVYAN POPHAM. May be used as Intros or Short Anthems. Price 6d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now ready, 8vo, price Threepence.

THE APOSTLES' CREED. Set to Music (chiefly in Recitative) for Voices in Unison, with an Accompaniment for the Organ, by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Director of the Choir, York Minster.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

4TH BOOK NOW READY. Collection of KYRIES, &c. Original Compositions by Dr. F. Hiller, Guilman, G. A. and W. Macfarren, Sir G. J. Elvey, Tours, Salaman, Francesco Berger, E. G. Monk, J. Baptiste Calkin, Scotson Clark, Hamilton Clarke, &c. Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 1s. each. Separate Nos. (1 to 71), 1d.

SPOHR'S 24th PSALM, 8vo (2nd thousand), 9d.; folio, 4s. net.
 London: Novello and Co. Sheffield: W. T. Freemantle, High Street.

Second Edition. Price 3d.

BENEDICITE, with appropriate Chants. Three different Settings. By ALEX. S. COOPER.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; and WEEKES and Co.

FOR ADVENT.

BENEDICITE IN E \flat

By HAYDN KEETON,

Organist of Peterborough Cathedral.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR ADVENT. Price 6d.

DIES IRÆ, DIES ILLA. Hymn from "Hymns Ancient and Modern." Arranged for Soli Voices, Chorus, Orchestra, and Organ, by JACOB BRADFORD, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Specimen copy, six stamps. Address, Secretary, South London Musical Training College, S. James's, Hatcham, S.E.; or Simpson and Co., 33, Argyll Street, W.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION OF ANTHEMS.

EIGHT VOLUMES now ready, cloth, gilt edges, price 7s. each, containing 170 Anthems by the best composers of church music, ancient and modern.

To be continued.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CAROL OF THE REAPERS. (S.A.T.B.) 3d.
SIX EASY ANTHEMS FOR VILLAGE CHOIRS. 2d. each.
 NOVELLO and Co.; or of the Composer, W. H. GILL, Sidcup, Kent.

"MUSIC for the PAROCHIAL CHOIR," comprising Tunes to "Abide with me" and other hymns, three Kyries, and four chant-settings of the Te Deum. By JOHN ST. CLAIR, Choirmaster to the Parochial Choir Association in Chichester. To be had of the Composer. Price 6d.; orders for more than a dozen, half-price.

Now ready, Vocal Score, price 3s.

JONAH. A Sacred Cantata. By J. V. ROBERTS, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Choirmaster of the Parish Church, Halifax.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

P.S.—Full Orchestral Parts to be had of the Composer.

THE RETURN OF ISRAEL TO PALESTINE.

By JOHN M. W. YOUNG. Price 2s. 6d.

The above may be divided into Two Anthems; it is also suitable for Choral Societies. (See Musical Times for May 1877.)

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., where J. Young's Festival Services and Anthems and the "Lincoln Psalter" may be had.

MY SOUL TRULY WAITETH STILL UPON

GOD. Anthem for Four Voices. Composed by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, York Minster. Vocal score, folio, 1s. 6d.; octavo, 4d.

GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD. Anthem for

Tenor Solo and Chorus. Composed by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, York Minster. Vocal score, folio, 2s. 6d.; octavo, 8d.

London: Novello, Ewer and Co.

MAKE A JOYFUL NOISE UNTO THE LORD.

(PSALM C.) Anthem for Soli and Chorus. By E. BURRITT LANE, Organist of the King's Weigh-house Chapel, City. Octavo, 6d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

DR. SPARK'S ANTHEM

"AND NOW, ISRAEL."

8vo SCORE. SIXPENCE.

"For bold, spirited, melodious, and effective writing, interesting alike to hearer and performer, this anthem deserves a good place in the répertoires of those 'choirs and places where they sing.'"—Morning Post.

"Dr. Spark has produced nothing, so far as we know, more entitled to honourable distinction than this anthem. . . . The free organ part is written with taste and skill, and the composition will elevate Dr. Spark in the estimation of his brother musicians."—The Queen.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

TWO HYMNS. Set to music by E. CHOLMELEY JONES, M.A. 1. "Art thou weary." 2. "Hark! hark! my soul." Price, each, 4d.; per dozen, 2s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S

"SUPPLEMENTAL HYMN AND TUNE BOOK" (4th Edition) may be had of the publishers, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. Quarto post, large type and beautifully bound in cloth, price 6s. 6d.; on toned paper, extra thick, 10s. 6d.

"MY SPIRIT LONGS FOR THEE." Hymn,

set to Music by JOHN NAYLOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon., together with five other original Hymn Tunes, including "Rock of ages," for men's voices only. Price 4d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

HYMN TUNES. Composed by ROBERT BROWN-

BORTHWICK, Vicar of All Saints', Scarborough. Elegantly bound in scarlet cloth, price 2s. 6d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

REV. R. BROWN-BORTHWICK'S SERIES of

MODERN HYMN TUNES, KYRIES, &c. This Series embraces original Tunes and Kyries by some of the best living composers of Church Music, and may be had in separate numbers from 3d. and 6d. each. Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just published, price 1s.

TWELVE HYMNS. Set to Music by R. S.

NEWMAN, Organist of Trinity Chapel, Wolverhampton.
 London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; and of all Book and Music Sellers.

CHORUSES FROM SCHUBERT'S "ROSAMUNDE."

FORTH TO THE MEADOWS (Chorus of Shepherds) 8vo 3d.
HOW MERRY IS LIFE (Hunting Chorus) 8vo ... 2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

RICORDI'S
(Of Milan)
DEPÔT OF ITALIAN MUSIC,
23, CHARLES STREET, MIDDLESEX HOSPITAL,
LONDON, W.

LISTS of VOCAL, PIANOFORTE, or INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC of every description Gratis and Post-free.

All Sheet-Music at Half-price.

SAMPLE COPIES to the TRADE on the usual terms.

ALL WORKS PRODUCED IN ITALY, &c. promptly procured without extra charge.

NEWEST SONGS BY CIRO PINSUTI.

EYES SO BLUE. Words by J. H. DAVIES, B.A. ... s. d.
... 4 0

"This is one of the most fascinating little vocal pieces we have yet seen from the pen of this composer, and if it do not at once achieve popularity there can be no room for compositions of grace, refinement, and musical feeling."—Musical Times, Nov.
1877.

KISMET (Arabic for "It is fate.") English and Italian words 4 0

WELCOME, PRETTY PRIMROSE ditto ditto ... 4 0

AUF WIEDERSEHN ("Farewell, dear love") ... 3 6

DONNA GENTIL. Italian and English words ... 4 0

NEWEST SONGS BY F. P. TOSTI.

OH QUANTO T' AMEREI. Italian and English words ... 4 0

POVERA MARIA ... ditto ditto ... 5 0

TI RAPIREI ... ditto ditto ... 3 6

M' AMASTI MAI ... ditto ditto ... 3 0

T' AMO ANCORA ... ditto ditto ... 3 0

DOPO ... ditto ditto ... 3 6

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

BOW THINE EAR, O LORD. Anthem (as sung at St. Paul's Cathedral, November 8, 1877), arranged from Verdi's "Requiem" by J. R. MURRAY ... 1 0

RICORDI'S GRAN CATALOGO, containing 50,000 of his own publications, 5s. net.

NOTICE TO THE TRADE.

SCHOTT & CO. beg to announce that they have entered into an arrangement with Messrs. CHOUDENS PÈRE ET FILS of Paris for the sole right of importing the celebrated Melodies of CHARLES GOUNOD, with French words. Catalogues and terms, which for stock orders will be exceptional, on application.

159, Regent Street, London, W., November, 1877.

MOZART, BIOGRAPHY AND CORRESPONDENCE.

2 vols. crown 8vo, with 2 Portraits, price 21s.

THE LIFE OF MOZART. Translated from the German Work of Dr. LUDWIG NOHL by Lady WALLACE.

"Melancholy as the life of every lover of music. To many Mozart is, with its transient gleams of happiness and content, the record of it has a poignant and pathetic fascination."

Daily News.

"A life which will be welcome to London: LONGMANS and Co. Graphic.

VIOLIN AND PIANO.

BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Un petit bijou ... 1s. od.

MOMENTS DE LOISIR. Morceaux classiques et populaires.

No. 1. Boccherini. Menuet ... 3s.

2. Beethoven. Pensée divine 3s.

3. Bach. Bourrée en Sol ... 4s.

4. Hause. Herzensliedchen 3s.

5. Corelli. Saraband et Gigue 3s.

6. Wekerlin. Sonnet ... 3s.

7. Hungarian Dances. Book 1. 4s.

8. Hungarian Dances. Book 2. 4s.

9. Corelli. Gigue in A ... 3s.

10. Corelli. Gigue in C ... 3s.

"The most popular series of the day in its special line. All the arrangements are admirable and worthy of their designation."—Graphic.

Published by W. CZERNY, 349, Oxford Street, W.

BACH'S SACRED CANTATA, "MY SPIRIT WAS IN HEAVINESS." The English translation and adaptation by the Rev. JOHN TROUTBECK, M.A. Octavo, Paper Covers, price 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FIFTY-THIRD EDITION, ENLARGED.

Price 1s. A specimen copy post-free for 12 stamps.

COLLEGIATE AND SCHOOL
SIGHT-SINGING MANUAL.

FOR CHOIRS.—The easiest system that can be obtained for training, improving, and learning to read music at sight.

FOR SCHOOLS.—Every requisite for learning Music, and reading at sight in a few lessons.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.—The exercises will be found invaluable, tending to produce musical effects seldom heard.

Third Edition, 2s. 6d. net.

COLLEGIATE VOCAL TUTOR.

Containing Treatise on Voice and Vocal Art, with Anatomical Illustrations of the Vocal Instrument.

COLLEGIATE ORGAN TUTOR.

EDITED BY FREDERIC ARCHER.

3s. 6d. net.

"Well adapted for making an excellent player."

"For pedal-playing, any difficulties surmounted in a short time."

"Contains the most pleasing arrangements for the Organ we have seen."

COLLEGIATE PIANOFORTE TUTOR.

3s. 6d. net.

FOR BEGINNERS.—"Not to be equalled."

"Suited for every capacity."

"Cannot fail to make a good player."

FOR TEACHERS.—"A great boon."

"Once tried, always used."

CONSECUTIVE FIFTHS AND OCTAVES IN COUNTERPOINT.

AN ESSAY, BY R. L. DE PEARSELL.

Price 2s.; post-free, 2s. 2d.

Twelfth edition. Paper covers, 1s.; bound in cloth, 1s. 6d.

CATHEDRAL CHANT-BOOK.

Containing nearly 200 Single and Double Chants; Gregorian Tones.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

THE CATHEDRAL CHOIR (with Chorus) ... 4s.

R. L. DE PEARSELL.

DRUMMING AND FIRING ... 3s.

BRAVE LORD WILLOUGHBY ... 3s.

WHO KILL'D COCK ROBIN? ... 3s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WEEKES and Co., 16, Hanover Street, W.

TRUTH AND EASE IN MUSIC. NO MORE SHARP OR FLAT
KEYS FOR INSTRUMENTALIST OR VOCALIST.

Just published, price Sixpence, with illustrations, a new edition of
THE SEQUENTIAL SYSTEM OF MUSICAL
NOTATION.

By WILLIAM A. B. LUNN.

"Its completeness and simplicity, when once understood, should recommend it to universal adoption."—Blackburn Standard.

London: E. W. ALLEN, 11, Ave Maria Lane.

TO VIOLINISTS, TEACHERS and AMATEURS.

100 Easy and Progressive DUETS, from the Works of the best composers. In Four Books, post-free, 2s. each. A Pianoforte and Violoncello Part to Books 1 and 2 for Easy and Progressive Trios and Quartets. London: J. Williams, 24, Berners Street, or H. S. Davies,
4, Stratford Road, Kensington, W.

On December 1, No. III., 24 pp., price 2d. (subscription, 2s. 6d. per annum, post-free).

MUSICAL OPINION AND MUSIC TRADE

REVIEW: a Monthly Summary of Musical News and Literature, and special Journal for Music Publishers, Pianoforte and Instrument Makers, &c. Reviews—Concerts—Lists of New Music, &c. All letters and advertisements to be addressed, Messrs. J. F.
Reid and Nephew, 14, George Street, Mansion House, E.C.

London: F. PITMAN, 20, Paternoster Row; and all Booksellers.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S POPULAR PART-SONGS

FOR S.A.T.B. 8vo.

		s.	d.
1. I love the merry springtime	20th Edition	0	2
2. Gaily through the greenwood	26th Do.	0	2
3. Welcome, merry May	6th Do.	0	2
4. The mountain maid	6th Do.	0	2
5. Come o'er the mountain	8th Do.	0	2
6. Hail, merry, merry Christmas	15th Do.	0	2
7. Songs of praise the angels sang	5th Do.	0	3
8. Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow	6th Do.	0	3
9. Fairy revels	9th Do.	0	3
10. Oh! peaceful vale of rest	5th Do.	0	1½
11. The merry bird	5th Do.	0	3
12. Come, let us be merry and gay	4th Do.	0	3
13. Forest echoes	7th Do.	0	3
14. Haste, ye merry elves	5th Do.	0	3
15. The streamlet	2nd Do.	0	3
16. Sunshine and shadow	2nd Do.	0	3
17. Sunny rays	2nd Do.	0	3
18. A happy New Year	2nd Do.	0	3
19. The coming of Spring	3rd Do.	0	3
20. England's glory	Just published	0	3
21. A merry Christmas to you all!	Do.	0	3

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W., and 80 & 81, Queen Street, E.C.

Manchester: HIME and ADDISON, and FORSYTH BROTHERS.

NEW PART-SONGS

By W. W. PEARSON.

DEPARTED JOYS. Words by Thomas Moore	2d.
SUMMER AND WINTER	2d.
SWEET SPRING (Madrigal)	3d.
THE OCEAN	3d.
SOUL OF LIVING MUSIC	3d.
OVER THE MOUNTAIN SIDE (Four-part Serenade)	3d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GLEES (Seven) for A.T.T.B. By JAS. BATTYE.
Folio, with Piano accompaniment ad lib. Price 5s. 6d., post-free, of D. Scholfield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.
Also FOUR GLEES for S.A.T.B., 3s. 6d. By the same Author.

POPULAR FOUR-PART SONGS BY GABRIEL DAVIS.

THE KNIGHT'S RETURN	2d.
GOD SAVE THE PRINCE. (12th Edition)	2d.
THE DISTANT SEA	2d.
TO THE WOODS	2d.
HARK! 'TIS MUSIC	2d.
THE HOUR OF REST	2d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

KINDERGARTEN SONGS and GAMES.—
Second Series. Edited by Mrs. E. BERRY and Madame
MICHAELIS of the Froebel Society. With an Introduction by Miss
SHIRREFF. Paper covers, 1s.; cloth, 2s.

First series, paper covers, 1s.; cloth, 2s.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW PART-MUSIC.

THE HOMES OF ENGLAND, Part-Song for
S.A.T.B., Staff Notation (with Accompaniment), 3d; Sol-fa, 1½d.
SIMPSON & Co., 33, Argyll Street, London, or, post-free from J. A.
CUTHBERT, 376, Dumbarton Road, Glasgow.

ROBERT COCKS and Co.'s MUSICAL CARDS for LEARNING to READ QUICKLY at SIGHT. Post-free for 24 stamps. London: New Burlington Street.

MUSICAL PRESENTS for the NEW YEAR.—
High-class Music for Amateurs, Students, and others. To be had gratis and postage-free, a LIST of 400 CLASSICAL WORKS, bound, at greatly reduced prices. Sole Publishers, Robert Cocks and Co.

MUSIC.—Just Issued, Gratis and Postage-free, a CATALOGUE of more than Five Hundred Popular Publications for the Pianoforte, by BRINLEY RICHARDS and GEORGE FRED-ERICK WEST. Sole Publishers, Robert Cocks and Co.

CONCERTS, Penny Readings, &c.—POPULAR SONGS, Vocal Duets, Trios, and Quartetts (part-songs), selected from Messrs ROBERT COCKS and Co.'s CATALOGUE.
This List may be had, gratis and post-free, on application. London:
New Burlington Street.

Just published, price 4d.

PART-SONG, "MEMORIES." By C. W.
LIGHTOLLER.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO, EWER and CO.'S ONLY COMPLETE AND UNIFORM EDITION OF

MENDELSSOHN'S

THIRTEEN TWO-PART SONGS

With the German and W. BARTHOLOMEW'S Original English Words.

Complete in One Volume, folio, 5s. net. Octavo, paper, 2s. net; cloth gilt, 4s. net; or singly, 2s. each. The separate Numbers are sold at half-price.

No. 1. I would that my love.	No. 7. My bark is bounding.
2. The passage bird.	8. Can I light-hearted be?
3. Greeting.	9. Evening song.
4. Autumn song.	10. Zuleika and Hassan.
5. O wert thou in the cauld blast.	11. The Sabbath morn.
6. The maybells and the flowers.	12. The harvest field.
	13. Song from Ruy Blas.

N.B.—The Quartett score to No. 13, 1s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CHORAL SONGS,
as sung by Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir, the Birmingham Festival
Choral Society, &c.

No. 1. "THE SILENT LAND." Price 3d.

"Replete with melody. Some phrases are of remarkable beauty."
Musical Times.

No. 2. "THE BETTER LAND." Price 4d.

"Distinguished by beauty of melody and richness of harmony."
Birmingham Daily Gazette.
"Full of charming effects."Birmingham Daily Post.

No. 3. "THE DAY IS DONE." Price 4d.

Composed expressly for Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SOUTHWELL SCHOOL SONGS. First series,
1s. 6d. By the Rev. R. F. SMITH, Minor Canon of Southwell.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The Queen.—"Fourteen" (sixteen) "capital little songs in a cheap handy form. Quite new and pleasing pretty and neatly written."
The Schoolmaster.—"Easy, pleasant tunes, suitable to school use.
The composer shows himself a true musician; each 'lay' has a separate tune, which is catching, appropriate, and quite in old ballad-song style."

The Musical Times.—"The sympathetic and musicianlike manner in which he has wedded them to melodies which cannot fail to please the young vocalists for whom they are expressly designed."

By the same Composer.

TE DEUM in F, 3d. ANTHEM (S.A.T.B.), "The Lord is nigh," 6d.
London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition.—Reduced Prices.

CHORAL SONGS FOR SCHOOL & HOME.
FORTY-TWO ORIGINAL SONGS

FOR

ONE, TWO, OR FOUR VOICES.

COMPOSED BY ROBERT JACKSON.

Cloth, complete, 3s.; Parts I. and II., paper cover, 1s. each; Single Numbers, 1d.

From Concordia.

"This little book is designed for singing-classes in schools, and the simplicity, tunefulness, and attractiveness of the small compositions it contains eminently adapt it for such a purpose."

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition. Price 3d.

GIVE MY LOVE GOOD MORROW. Serenade
Part-song (S.A.T.B.). Music by Geg. Lonasil. London:
SIMPSON and Co., 33, Argyll Street, Regent Street, W.

PART-SONGS. By A. J. CALDICOTT. "JACK and JILL." Fourpence.

"Cleverly written, exceedingly funny."

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

YULE. Fourpence.
"Suitable for Christmas concerts, &c."
CZERNY, Oxford Street.

THE REAPER AND THE FLOWERS. Four-part Song with Solos. Words by H. W. LONGFELLOW.
Music by J. B. BOUCHER. Price 3d. A folio edition of the above, for one voice, may be had, post-free, price 1s. 6d. Novello, Ewer and Co.

REDUCED PRICES.

SIR HENRY R. BISHOP'S
GLEES, TRIOS, QUARTETTS, &c.

In Vocal Score, with an accompaniment for the Pianoforte, octavo, in THREE VOLS., WHOLE CLOTH, 2s. 6d. each,

Or in 66 numbers, as follows:—

CONTENTS OF VOL. I.

No.	Key.
1. Blow, gentle gales...	...A	...S.A.T.T.B. ... 1½d.
2. Chough and crowF	...S.S.A.T.B. ... 2d.
3. O, by riversE	...S.S.A.T.B. ... 1½d.
4. Now trampE	...S.A.T.B. and Solo S... 2d.
5. When the wind blowsF	...T.T.T. ... 1½d.
6. Come o'er the brookE flat...	...S.A.T.B. ... 1½d.
7. Who is Sylvia?G	...S.A.T.T.B. ... 1½d.
8. The fox jumped overE flat...	...S.S.T.T.B. ... 1½d.
9. The tiger couchesE	...A.T.T.B. ... 2d.
10. Where art thouA flat...	...S.A.T.B. ... 1d.
11. Foresters, soundE flat...	...A.T.T.B. ... 1½d.
12. Live, Henri QuatreD minr.	...S.A.T.B. ... 1d.
13. Allegiance we swearD	...S.T.T.B. ... 2d.
14. The winds whistle coldE flat...	...A.T.B. ... 1½d.
15. What shall he haveE flat...	...A.T.T.B. ... 1½d.
16. When wearied wretchesE	...S.A.T.B. ... 1½d.
17. Under the greenwood treeA	...S.A.T.T.B. ... 1½d.
18. Come, thou monarchD	...A.T.B. ... 1½d.
19. The huge globeF	...A.T.B. ... 1½d.
20. Daughter of errorE flat...	...S.A.T.B. and Solo S. ... 1½d.
21. Stay, pry'thee, stayE flat...	...S.S.A.T.B. ... 2d.
22. Push about the bottleA	...A.T.B. ... 1½d.

CONTENTS OF VOL. II.

23. Merry boys, awayD	...S.A.T.B. ... 3d.
24. Spirits advanceF	...S.A.T.B. ... 2d.
25. Fill, boys, and drink about...	...D	...A.T.T.B.B. ... 1½d.
26. Now to the forestE	...T.T.B. ... 1½d.
27. Hail, to the chiefE flat...	...S.A.T.B. ... 1½d.
28. What ho! clansman, ho!F	...S.A.T.T.T.B. ... 4d.
29. A cup of wineD	...A.T.T.B. ... 1½d.
30. The silver queenE flat...	...S.A.T.B. ... 1½d.
31. To arms! prepare!E flat...	...A.T.B. ... 1½d.
32. Stand! Who's there?C	...A.T.T.B. ... 1½d.
33. Good night, good restC	...S.A.T.B. ... 1½d.
34. Hark! ApolloC	...S.S.B. ... 1½d.
35. What phrase sad and softE flat...	...S.S.T.T. ... 1½d.
36. Vengeance! we swearE	...S.A.T.B. with Solo S. ... 4d.
37. Sportive little trifterE	...A.T.B. ... 1d.
38. To harmonyE flat...	...S.A.T.T.B. ... 2d.
39. Ronilda—"O'er desert plains and rushy meres"E flat...	...S.A.T.B. ... 1d.
40. Sleep, gentle ladyE flat...	...A.T.T.B. ... 1d.
41. Sleep, gentle ladyB flat...	...S.S.B. ... 1d.
42. Though he be now a grey, grey friarG	...S.S.T.T.B. ... 2d.

CONTENTS OF VOL. III.

43. Mynheer VandunckE	...A.T.B. ... 2d.
44. Oh! bold Robin HoodG	...A.T.T.T.B.B. with Solo S... 3d.
45. Now, by day's retiring lamp c	...D	...S.A.T.T.B. ... 2d.
46. Hart and hind are in their lairF	...A.T.T.B. ... 2d.
47. Chough and crowF	...S.S.B. ... 2d.
48. Fisherman's good nightE	...S.A.T.B. ... 1d.
49. Far away from every pleasure F	...F	...S.A.T.T.B. ... 1½d.
50. Believe me, tearsF	...S.S.A.T.B. ... 2d.
51. The vesper bellA	...S.S.B. ... 2d.
52. The Savoyard, from clime to climeE	...S.A.T.B. ... 1½d.
53. Up! quit thy bowerF	...S.A.T.B. ... 1½d.
54. Bright lady, sweet mistress...C	...C	...S.A.T.B. and Solo B... 1½d.
55. Hark, hark, the mid-watch bellE	...S.A.T.B. ... 1d.
56. Hark, the merry bells ring roundC	...S.S.S.A. and Solo S... 1½d.
57. To see his faceG	...ROUND S.S.S.S. or T.T.T.T. 1½d.
58. Blow, blow thou winter wind G	...G	...S.A.T.B. ... 1d.
59. Joy, joy, raise the shoutC	...S.A.T.B. ... 1½d.
60. In tears the heart oppressed...E	...E	...S.A.T.B. ... 1d.
61. I gave my harpE flat...	...A.T.T.B. ... 1½d.
62. With hawk and houndE	...A.T.T.B. ... 1½d.
63. Who first will strikeE flat...	...A.T.T.B. ... 1½d.
64. Hark! hark! each Spartan houndE	...A.T.B. ... 1d.
65. Queen of our isleB flat...	...S.S.T.T.B. ... 1½d.
66. Hark to the rolling drumB flat...	...Three voices ... 1d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW SONG, BY JOSEPH BARNBY.

ELIZABETH'S SONG

FROM

THE SAINT'S TRAGEDY

By THE REV. CHARLES KINGSLEY.

Price 4s.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW SONG, FOR BARITONE VOICE,

"THE SEA KING," 1s. 6d. net,

AND

SACRED DUET, FOR TENOR AND BASS,

"I WILL NOT BE AFRAID," 2s. net,

By C. SWINNERTON HEAP, Mus. Doc., Cantab.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

SONG, "AT THE MID HOUR OF NIGHT."

By CAROLINE OGLE. Price 3s. Post-free for eighteen stamps.

London: AUGENER and Co., 86, Newgate Street.

JULIA WOOLF'S NEW SONGS.—

MY STAR. No. 1, Contralto; No. 2, Mezzo-soprano.

LITTLE NANNIE. Soprano.

THE TROOPER'S DREAM. Baritone.

Twenty-four stamps each. ENOCH and SONS, 19, Holles Street, W.

VIOLETS. Song. The words by J. MOULTRIE.

The music composed by ROSA GUERINI née Wilberforce. 2s.

London: SCHOTT and Co., 159, Regent Street.

DUET for CONTRALTO or MEZZO-SOPRANO and TENOR, "EARLY IN THE MORNING." Price 2s.

From the Cantata, by A. T. TURNER, "Adoration."

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Ballarat: TURNER.

SONG from TURNER'S "ADORATION," for Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano, "THE LORD IS MY SHEP-HERD." Price 1s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Ballarat: H. T. TURNER.

SHORT SACRED PIECES

BY

LOUIS FRANÇOIS & JOSEPH LAMBILOTTE.

FIRST SERIES, CONSISTING OF

O SALUTARIS, AVE MARIA, TANTUM ERGO, &c.

Ten Books, edited and revised by CAMILLE DE LA CROIX.

Each book is published in two forms.

1. The Original Version in Vocal Score, with Organ Accompaniment.

Price 4s. net.

2. Arranged for Three Female Voices, in Vocal Score, with Organ

Accompaniment. Price 3s. net.

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HANDEL FESTIVAL SELECTION,

1877.

A few Copies of the above still remaining on hand, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. are prepared to supply them to Choral Societies at One Shilling and Sixpence each.

COMMUNION SERVICES

BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

The English adaptation by

THE REV. J. TROUTBECK, M.A.

	s.	d.
BEETHOVEN IN C...	...	1 6
FARMER IN B FLAT	...	2 0
GOUNOD (MESSE SOLENNELLE)...	...	1 6
HUMMEL IN B FLAT	...	2 0
" IN E FLAT	...	2 0
" IN D	...	2 0
SCHÜBERT IN A FLAT	...	2 0
" IN E FLAT	...	3 0
" IN B FLAT	...	2 0
" IN C	...	2 0
" IN G	...	2 0
" IN F	...	2 0

London: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW EDITION.

BEETHOVEN'S MASS IN C.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment revised by

BERTHOLD TOURS.

Paper cover, 1s.; paper boards, 1s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 2s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO EWER and Co.

NEW WORK FOR SINGING CLASSES.

CHAPPELL'S PENNY OPERATIC PART-SONGS.

For Soprano, Alto, Tenor, and Bass.

The present collection of Part-Songs is entirely new, being selected and adapted from the most striking and popular Choruses in the Favourite Foreign Operas. The Arrangement is purely Vocal, such Choruses only being chosen as can be sung without the aid of an Instrumental Accompaniment. The Words have been expressly written for the work, and the harmonies arranged in four parts, as likely to be most useful in small classes.

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. Hymn of the Fisherman's Children | Adapted to a Melody from Herold's "ZAMPA." |
| 2. Fays and Elves (In mia fe) | From Flotow's "MARTA." |
| 3. Spring's Bright Glances (In Elvezia non v'ha) | From Bellini's "LA SONNAMBULA." |
| 4. From Yonder Vale and Hill (D' immenso giubilo) | From Donizetti's "LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR." |
| 5. Here we Rest (Qui la selva) | From Bellini's "LA SONNAMBULA." |
| 6. Onward to Battle (Squilli echeggi) | From Verdi's "IL TROVATORE." |
| 7. Rataplan (Rataplan) | From Donizetti's "LA FIGLIA DEL REGGIMENTO." |
| 8. The Gipsy's Star (Vedi! le fosche) | From Verdi's "IL TROVATORE." |
| 9. War Song of the Druids (Dell' aura tua profetica) | From Bellini's "NORMA." |
| 10. In Mercy, hear us! (Cielo clemente) | From Donizetti's "LA FIGLIA DEL REGGIMENTO." |
| 11. Come to the Fair! (Accorete, giovinette) | From Flotow's "MARTA." |
| 12. Friendship (Per te d' immenso giubilo) | From Donizetti's "LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR." |
| 13. Away, the Morning freshly breaking (The Chorus of Fishermen) | From Auber's "MASANIELLO." |
| 14. Pretty Village Maiden (Peasants' Serenade Chorus) | From Gounod's "FAUST." |
| 15. The soft Winds around us (The Gipsy Chorus) | From Weber's "PRECIOSA." |
| 16. See how lightly on the Blue Sea (Senzi la danza invitaci) | From Donizetti's "LUCREZIA BORGIA." |
| 17. See the Moonlight Beam (Non fav Motto) | |
| 18. On yonder Rocks reclining | From Auber's "FRA DIAVOLO." |
| 19. Happy and light | From Balfe's "BOHEMIAN GIRL." |
| 20. Come, come away (Ah! que de moins) | From Donizetti's "LA FAVORITA." |
| 21. Hymen's torch (Il destin) | From Meyerbeer's "LES HUGUENOTS." |
| 22. Come on, Comrade (The Celebrated Chorus of Old Men) | From Gounod's "FAUST." |
| 23. 'Gainst the Powers of Evil (The Chorale of the Cross) | |
| 24. O Balmy Night (Com' è gentili) | From Donizetti's "DON PASQUALE." |
| 25. Haste o'er the hills (Introductory Chorus) | From Rossini's "GUGLIELMO TELL." |
| 26. Come, sing the Song (Opening Chorus) | From Meyerbeer's "ROBERT LE DIABLE." |
| 27. With fair Ceres (The March Chorus) | From Bellini's "NORMA." |
| 28. The Tuneful Song of Robin's Horn (Tyrolese Chorus) | From Rossini's "GUGLIELMO TELL." |
| 29. The Chorus of Huntsmen | From Weber's "DER FREISCHUETZ." |
| 30. Hark! the distant hills (Hunting Chorus) | From Flotow's "MARTA." |
| 31. Hence! away with care | From Meyerbeer's "GLI UGONOTTI." |
| 32. Hail to the Bride | From Wagner's "LOHENGRIN." |
| 33. Hark! music stealing! (subject from Overture) | From Rossini's "SEMIRAMIDE." |
| 34. A bridal wreath we twined (Chorus of Bridesmaids) | From Weber's "DER FREISCHUETZ." |
| 35. Behold, how brightly breaks the Morning! (The Barcarole) | From Auber's "MASANIELLO." |
| 36. From hill to hill resounding (subject from Overture) | From Auber's "FRA DIAVOLO." |

Postage free, 1d. each; or Three for 3d.

(To be continued.)

CHAPPELL'S VOCAL LIBRARY OF PART-SONGS, &c.

Composed or Arranged by			Composed or Arranged by
		Price			Price
1. Dulce Domum. S.A.T.B.	G. A. Macfarren	2d.	32. Lo! Morn is breaking. S.S.S.	Cherubini	2d.
2. Down among the Dead Men. S.A.T.B.	"	2d.	33. We are Spirits. S.S.S.	G. A. Macfarren	4d.
3. The Girl I've left behind me. S.A.T.B.	"	2d.	34. Market Chorus (Masaniello). S.A.T.B.	Auber	6d.
4. British Grenadiers. S.A.T.B.	"	4d.	35. The Prayer (Masaniello). S.A.T.B.	"	2d.
5. Long live England's future Queen. S.A.T.B. Dr. Rimbault		2d.	36. The Water Sprites. S.A.T.B.	Kücken	4d.
6. My task is ended (Song and Chorus). A.T.B.B. Balfe.		4d.	37. Eve's glittering Star. S.A.T.B.	"	2d.
7. Thus spake one Summer's day. S.A.T.B.	Abt	2d.	38. When first the Primrose. S.A.T.B.	"	4d.
8. Soldiers' Chorus. T.T.B.B.	Gounod	4d.	39. O Dewdrop bright. S.A.T.B.	"	2d.
9. The Kermesse (Scene from "Faust")	"	6d.	40. Sanctus, from the "Messe Solennelle." S.A.T.B. Rossini		4d.
10. Up, quit thy bower. S.A.T.B.	Brinley Richards	2d.	41. Nine Kyries, Ancient and Modern	"	2d.
11. Maidens, never go a-wooing. S.S.T.T.B. G. A. Macfarren		4d.	42. Sun of my soul. S.A.T.B.	Brinley Richards	2d.
12. Fagot-binders' Chorus	Gounod	4d.	43. 'Twas fancy, and the Ocean's spray	G. A. Osborne	2d.
13. Sylvan Hours (for six female voices)	Joseph Robinson	6d.	44. A Prayer for those at Sea	"	2d.
14. The Gipsy Chorus	Balfe	4d.	45. O Thou, whose power (Prayer from "Mosé in Egitto") Rossini		2d.
15. Ave Maria	Arcadelt	2d.	46. The Guard on the Rhine. S.A.T.B.	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
16. Hark! the herald Angels sing. S.A.T.B. Mendelssohn		2d.	47. The German Fatherland. S.A.T.B.	"	2d.
17. England yet (Solo and Chorus). S.A.T.B. Jules Benedict		2d.	48. The Lord is my Shepherd (Quartet)	G. A. Osborne	2d.
18. The Shepherd's Sabbath Day. S.A.T.B.	J. L. Hatton	2d.	49. Te Deum in F	Jackson	2d.
19. Thoughts of Childhood. S.A.T.B.	Henry Smart	2d.	50. Te Deum in F	Nares	2d.
20. Spring's Return. S.A.T.B.	"	2d.	51. Charity (La Carità). S.S.S.	Rossini	4d.
21. An Old Church Song. S.A.T.B.	"	2d.	52. Cordelia. A.T.B.B.	G. A. Osborne	4d.
22. Sabbath Bells. S.A.T.B.	"	2d.	53. I know. S.A.T.B.	Walter Hay	2d.
23. Serenade. S.A.T.B.	"	4d.	54. Chorus of Handmaidens (from "Fridolin") A. Randegger		4d.
24. Cold Autumn Wind. S.A.T.B.	"	2d.	55. The Offertory Sentences	Edmund Rogers	4d.
25. Orpheus with his Lute. S.S.S.	Bennett Gilbert	2d.	56. The Red-Cross Knight	Dr. Callcott	2d.
26. Lullaby. S.A.A.	"	4d.	57. The Chough and Crow	Sir H. R. Bishop	3d.
27. This is my own, my native land. S.A.T.B. G. A. Macfarren		4d.	58. The Carnovale. S.A.T.B.	Rossini	2d.
28. March of the Men of Harlech. S.A.T.B. Dr. Rimbault		4d.	59. Softly falls the moonlight. S.A.T.B.	Edmund Rogers	4d.
29. God save the Queen. S.A.T.B.	"	2d.	60. Air of Himmel. S.A.T.B.	Henry Leslie	2d.
30. Rule, Britannia. S.A.T.B.	"	2d.	61. Offertory Sentences—"Not every one that saith unto Me," and "Lay not up for yourselves" E. Sauerbrey		4d.
31. The Retreat. T.T.B.B.	L. De Rille	4d.

CHAPPELL & CO., 50, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON.

FORSYTH BROS.' NEW PUBLICATIONS.

N.B.—The letters before the names denote the degree of difficulty, corresponding with the five Sections of Charles Hallé's "Practical Pianoforte School," viz., a, Elementary; b, Easy; c, Moderately Difficult; d, Difficult; e, Very Difficult.

NEW PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

P. BRANDON.

b Easy Arrangements:—	s. d.
Bells of Aberdovey. Welsh air ...	2 0
Cuckoo. Volkmann ...	2 0
Serenade. Wekerlin ...	2 0
Barcarolle. Auber ...	2 0
Les gouttes d'eau. Ascher ...	2 0
Maryland. American air ...	2 0

COTSFORD DICK.

c Clouds and sunshine ...	3 0
c Madrigal ...	3 0
b On the lake. Barcarolle ...	3 0

S. ELSE.

b Idylle ...	2 6
c Joyous spring. Caprice ...	3 0
c Wandermarch ...	3 0

CHARLES HALLÉ.

c Twilight thoughts, Op. 7 ...	4 0
d Gluck's Ballo and Bourrée in A. Transcribed ...	4 0
d Gluck's Menuet grazioso in G. Do. ...	3 0
d Gluck's Tambourin in D. Do. ...	3 0

STEPHEN HELLER.

d Four Barcarolles, Op. 141, 2 books, each ...	4 0
c Prelude de Chopin, Op. 20, No. 7 ...	2 6
c 4th Sonata, Op. 143 ...	6 0
d Three New Studies, Op. 139 ...	4 0
d Voyage autour de ma chambre (cinq morceaux caractéristiques), Op. 140, 2 books, each ...	4 0
d Variations sur un Thème de Robert Schumann (Op. 12, No 3). Op. 142 ...	4 0

ARTHUR LESTER.

a Sweet Sounds. Six short and easy pieces, well fingered:—	s. d.
No. 1. Emmeline. Valse ...	2 0
2. May bells. Mazurka ...	2 0
3. The lead off. Galop ...	2 0
4. Rosebud. Schottische ...	2 0
5. Robin Hood. Polka ...	2 0
6. The young warrior. March ...	2 0

FELIX LÖWE.

c Amélie. Valse caprice ...	4 0
b By moonlight. Serenade ...	4 0
c En avant. Galop militaire ...	4 0

WALTER MACFARREN.

c Tenerezza. Romance ...	3 0
---------------------------------	-----

GEORGE NEVILLE.

c Barber of Seville. Fantasia ...	3 0
c Der Freischütz. Do. ...	3 0
c Don Juan. Do. ...	3 0
c Don Pasquale. Do. ...	3 0
c Elisire d'Amore. Do. ...	3 0
c Flying Dutchman. Do. ...	3 0
c Fra Diavolo. Do. ...	3 0
c Huguenots. Do. ...	3 0
c Lohengrin. Do. ...	3 0
c Tannhäuser. Do. ...	3 0
c Un Ballo in Maschera. Do. ...	3 0
c Water Carrier. Do. ...	3 0
c William Tell. Do. ...	3 0
c Zampa. Do. ...	3 0

CECIL RAYMOND.

b By the brook. Sketch ...	4 0
b Quiet pleasures. Morceau de salon ...	3 0

CECIL RAYMOND—continued.

b Starlight. Do. ...	3 0
c Vive la gaieté. Morceau brillante ...	3 0

CARL REINECKE.

d Gavotte in E flat, Op. 129, No. 3 ...	3 0
d Southern Pictures:—Under the cypress trees. Bolero. Gondoliera. Neapolitan mandoline-player, 2 books, each ...	4 0
d Twenty-four Characteristic Pieces, Op. 137, 4 books, each ...	4 0
d Twenty-four Studies, Op. 121, 3 books, each ...	6 0

These studies are used in the Conservatoires of Berlin, Brussels, Cologne, and Stuttgart, and in the Royal Academy of Music, London.

HENRY STUART.

c Le feu follet. Valse brillante ...	3 0
c Scène de ballet. Mazurka brillante ...	3 0
b Sweet visions. Romance ...	3 0

FREDERICK UNGER.

d Invocation. Allegro appassionata ...	3 0
b Liebesfrühling. Three sonnets, each ...	3 0
d Polonaise ...	4 0
d Phantasiestücke ...	4 0
d Romance ...	2 6
d Sturmlied. Storm song ...	4 0

F. VIVIAN.

c Le Vivandière. March ...	3 0
-----------------------------------	-----

G. MARSDEN, Mus.B., Cantab.

March of the Templars, from Dr. Hiles' Crusaders ...	3 0
Two movements, from Dr. Hiles' Patriarchs ...	3 0

G. MARSDEN—continued.

Two Andantes in F and G, each ...	3 0
Two movements by Charles Hallé, arranged ...	3 0

A. E. TOZER, F.C.O.

Liebesfrühling. Sonnet. Composed by F. Unger, arranged ...	3 0
--	-----

NEW MUSIC FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE.

G. F. HANDEL.

Courante and Gigue, from first suite, arranged ...	4 0
--	-----

SIEGFRIED JACOBY.

Twelve easy transcriptions, each ...	2 0
--------------------------------------	-----

NEW AND POPULAR SONGS.

H. BASQUIT.

By thy fav'ring wind ...	3 0
Cupid's challenge ...	3 0
I am sad ...	3 0
Jessie ...	3 0
Sweet day, good-bye ...	3 0

EDITH A. BRACKEN.

Ask me no more ...	4 0
Faded violet ...	4 0
O me! O me ...	4 0
Dirge. Duet ...	4 0
Winifred. Do. ...	4 0
Water lady. Do. ...	4 0

CARL ENGEL.

Love me, darling ...	3 0
----------------------	-----

ASOR DOOLF.

Hush thy rejoicing ...	3 0
What ails this heart o' mine ...	3 0

MRS. EDMUND GRUNDY.

A MOTHER'S SONGS, composed and written for her children:—
No. 1. The cuckoo ...	2 0
2. The mouse ...	2 0
3. To play ...	1 6
4. Birds ...	2 0
5. Sabbath bells ...	2 6
6. Robin. Duet ...	2 0
All will pass away ...	3 0
Gloaming hour ...	3 0
In sleeping love ...	3 0
To the rose ...	3 0
Queen of May ...	3 0

EDWARD HECHT.

Bird and maiden ...	3 0
Cornflower garlands ...	3 0

WALTER H. NICHOLS.

The night falls fast ...	3 0
--------------------------	-----

L. S. PALMER.

I leave you to guess as you may ...	4 0
-------------------------------------	-----

SOLD AT HALF-PRICE.

CORTES PERERA.

Lullaby ...	3 0
Serenade (Wake, lady, wake) ...	3 0

JAMES G. WRIGLEY.

The fall of the leaf ...	3 0
--------------------------	-----

LEYLAND LEIGH.

Lily Lee ...	3 0
Slumber sweet ...	3 0
Songs selected from the Operas of HANDEL, BUONONCINI, ATTILIO, &c., with Italian and English words:—
A che vive (Hoping ever). Handel ...	3 0
L'esperto nocchiero (The fearless sailor). Buononcini ...	3 0
Lascio ti (Maiden! to thee I give). Handel ...	3 0
No! che del tuo (Oh thou, whose loving care). Handel ...	3 0
Sol per te (Ever thine). Buononcini ...	3 0
Vanne e spera (Onward hoping). Vinci ...	3 0
Voi dolci amette (Ye gentle airs). Handel ...	3 0
La Catanzarese (The Catanzarese) ...	3 0

FORSYTH BROS., 272A, Regent Circus, Oxford Street, London, and Cross Street, South King Street, Manchester.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

“By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast-tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly-nourished frame.”—The Civil Service Gazette.

“MANUFACTURE OF COCOA.—We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps and Co., manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London.”—See Article in Cassell's Household Guide.

MADE SIMPLY WITH BOILING WATER OR MILK.

SOLD IN PACKETS (TINS FOR ABROAD), LABELLED

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists,
48, THREADNEEDLE STREET, AND 170, PICCADILLY.

WORKS: EUSTON ROAD AND CAMDEN TOWN, LONDON.

Makers of EPPS'S GLYCERINE JUJUBES, for Throat Irritation.

B. P. L. BINDERY.

SEP 30 1878

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

3 9999 08818 966 5

